

Lions View World Tour

Mrs. J. R. Alexander of Gruver was the principal speaker at the meeting of the Stratford Lions Club Monday night. She showed pictures which she and her husband took on the around the world trip last year.

Mrs. Alexander has prepared the following story of her experiences in their "Around the World Trip in 60 Days."

"In 1959, from April 16th to June 15th, my husband and I made a world circling tour, something we never dreamed we would ever be able to do, back in 1919 when we were married and came to Hansford County to make our home on a ranch in the North part of the county, where our son, Robert Alexander Jr., and his family now live.

Years flew until it got to be 59, the 40th anniversary year for us. It was then the almost unbelievable trip around the world was planned and made out for us by our friend, Art Buckley, of the Tri-State Travel Agency, in Amarillo. (It still didn't seem that it could be for real!) Finally, the day arrived for departure. Along with our family Mr. Buckley gave us quite a gracious farewell party, pinning a lovely corsage on me and boutonniere for Rob, and away we flew, stopping in Denver Air Port en route to San Francisco, we were greeted and given special courtesies, thinking at first that we were a new bride and groom, but after we told them "40 years", they were even more kind in their wishing us a "Bon Voyage". We flew from San Francisco to Hawaii, a modern Shangra-La, but our own 50th state of the U. S. A. Hawaii is everything we had ever heard that it was, sparkling water and white sand, beautiful star studied evenings. Wherever we strolled near the beach we found a charming "Lanai". We felt the caress of the romantic Island air and lost ourselves in the Tropical majesty that is Hawaii. The only sad note of the Island was our visit to Pearl Harbor where so many of our boys gave their lives to preserve freedom and the Christian way of life, and I wondered this: Are we protecting and living up to the great debt they paid for us that we might continue to enjoy the blessings for which they died to preserve, and that we might continue to be a free Christian nation under God? This made us think.

As we were enroute to Japan, our plane stopped at Wake Island and we went aground in the early morning light for coffee and rolls. We walked on the soil of Wake Island, where not too long ago our boys were fighting for their very lives. Everything was so calm and seemed so far away. But in our hearts came the prayer that we might be adequate spiritually to act in such a way that we might become, in a small way a bridge of understanding to the so called foreign people that we were to meet.

Beautiful Japan was our next stop. It consisted of four Islands and over five hundred small islets which lie in the North Pacific ocean off the coast of China. It is something like California in size and shape, with a population of 89,275,000. Tokyo is the capital and the largest city in the world. It also has a tower 3 feet higher than the Eiffel Tower in Paris, France. Japan has a constitutional monarchy ruled over by an Emperor and a Cabinet. There is a Parliament and two houses. The

Announce Farmers Meetings

Farmers meetings on linear programming and on the Texas animal health law will be held at the Texoma, Texas school at 7:30 p. m. February 8, and at the Spurlock Chapel at 7:30 p. m. February 9. These educational meetings will be conducted by County Agent E. Goule.

Linear programming is the latest method used in farm analysis and program planning.

The recent Texas Legislature passed an animal health law which makes provisions for a county to become a modified brucellosis free area.

Sherman County farmers are encouraged to hear these programs on a report on what farm leaders are doing about the animal health program.

Arrangements are being made for a farmer meeting to be held in Stratford at a later date.

Texans Use Texas Licenses

Those who make their residence in the state of Texas for more than 30 days are required to secure Texas drivers' licenses and Texas tags for their automotive vehicles.

Peace officers have been lenient on many who have moved to the county for employment of from four to six weeks. However, an announcement was made this week that those who have been residents of the county from three to four months, are expected to secure Texas drivers' licenses and tags immediately.

Any adhesive material which on hardening can hold solid substances in place is called "cement"; but 98 per cent of American production is "portland" cement, so named because of its resemblance to stone from the Isle of Portland, in England.

Lasley Home Destroyed By Fire

The thirteen room farm home of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Lasley was destroyed by fire Friday night. Stratford firemen confined the flames to the upstairs section of the house but water damage ruined the interior of the ground level portion of the house.

Carpenters and painters had completed remodeling and decorating the country home the afternoon of the fire. Mrs. Lasley heard peculiar sounds coming from the air conditioner duct work and ran upstairs to investigate. She discovered a room filled with smoke and flames. Walter Lasley, ill with influenza, had just stepped out of the bath tub when his wife spread the alarm. He slipped on a pair of pants, a coat and boots without putting on his socks and aided his wife and Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Tomblin carry most of the furniture and clothing from the downstairs rooms of the home.

Firemen played streams of water on a steel file cabinet in a front room of the home and prevented Lasley's records in the file from being destroyed. His records previous to 1954 had not been kept in the file and were destroyed.

The home was insured, but the insurance will not replace the loss, Lasley said. He and Mrs. Lasley and their children have rented the H. J. Bachman residence and are making their home in Stratford. They are undecided as to whether they will build a home in Stratford or rebuild their farm home.

FOR AND ABOUT TEENAGERS

How To Have A Personality

By C. D. Smith

THIS WEEK'S LETTER: "Please help me with my problem. I am 14 years old. Please tell me how I can have a personality."

A personality, of course, is not something that we can buy at the corner grocery store. Yet, when we say that a certain person has "no personality", we aren't speaking the truth. Everyone has personality, of a sort. It's just that we have developed a habit of saying that a dull or uninteresting person has "no personality."

If a teenager is to grow naturally and in good health, then body needs must be supplied by the proper kind and the proper amount of food. An improper diet will bring on listlessness, indifference, and, if carried far enough, even death.

Just as we keep our bodies alert and healthy through the right choice of food, so also must we develop the inner self—our mind, our personality, our appearance. To be healthy, we must eat right. As diet affects physical growth, so it is that our thoughts and actions have strong influence upon our "personality."

Here are some ideas relative to developing a good personality:
THINK RIGHT: No one can read your thoughts but, "you are what you think you are." Put

"bad" thoughts aside and think about the good things in life.

BE INQUISITIVE: There is so much to learn about the world, about people, and about things, that no one shall ever live long enough to know it all. Don't accept everything at its face value. Take advantage of opportunities to learn something new, to meet new people, to see what makes things "tick."

LIKE PEOPLE: Look for the goodness that is to be found in even the worst of friends and associates. Don't be an ostrich with your head in the sand, but do always try to balance the "bad" that you see with the "good" that is often more difficult to recognize. If you don't like people, people won't like you.

BE HONEST: Try never to deceive yourself or those about you. Look the world in the eye and let your conscience be your guide.

BE PATIENT: Don't expect too much of others—or of yourself. Never compare yourself to others. Think right, do right, act right—and a winning personality will be your reward.

If you have a teenage problem you want to discuss, or an observation to make, address your letter to FOR AND ABOUT TEENAGERS, NATIONAL WEEKLY NEWSPAPER SERVICE, FRANKFORD, KY.

Grow a "Dream Vacation" in a cotton field?

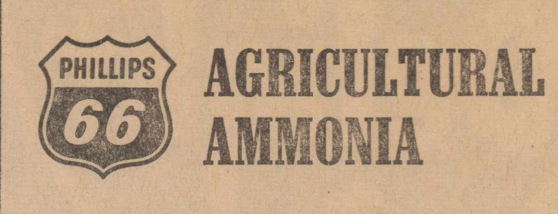

It's not fantastic! And here is why:

One prominent Texas farmer used Phillips 66 Ammonia to realize an added net profit of $54.32 per acre on his cotton, after deducting the cost of ammonia. Just 50 acres of cotton like this means over $2,700 extra profit... enough to enable a family vacation in some of the world's finest spots.

Ask your Phillips 66 Distributor to help you work out a complete fertilizer program on all your crops.

	*Using Phillips Ammonia	Without Ammonia
Fixed Cost Per Acre	$75	$75
Ammonia Cost Per Acre	$5.60	—
Yield Per Acre	847 lbs.	633 lbs.
Net Profit Per Acre	$156.56	$102.24
INCREASED PROFIT PER ACRE $54.32

*Cotton at 28¢ lb. Example only. Results vary according to soil fertility, available moisture and cultural practices.

climate is similar to the Middle West in the U.S. although it seldom gets either as hot or as cold. The three main religions are: Buddhism, Shintoism and Christian. There are about twenty-four different Christian sects in Japan. Japan ranks 99 per cent, or even 100 per cent literacy. It is a beautiful, clean land with every foot of ground tended and nurtured, with flowers, gardens and growing things. Never at any time in Japan were we very far from the ocean, or from the mountains. We attended the Christian Church in Hawaii where we met Dr. Smith, a friend of Lawrence Gruver. Dr. Smith is a retired teacher of Bible in the University of Hawaii. In Japan we worshipped with the Baptist group. The Army Chaplain who gave the sermon was from our own state of Texas. We saw many beautiful temples and shrines, stayed a day and a night in a Japanese Inn or hotel. We were so big and all we could hardly get ourselves seated on mats on the floor. We had a very charming and courteous maid, who helped us in our room. She was a small and dainty maid, and so anxious to make us comfortable, which was hard to do, since we were not accustomed to sitting on mats on the floor; we didn't know what to do with our feet and legs! We were to have dinner with all the tour members in the banquet room. It seemed that our maid belonged only to us. She slipped around so quietly that now she was there and then she was gone! As I moved over to the very small and low dressing table, I thought how my little granddaughter at home would like it for her doll. Then our maid appeared and smiling very charmingly, laid two Kimonos near us.

I could use mine very nicely, sliding into it as she put soft sandals on my feet. My husband had a very puzzled and questionable look on his face, as she finally made him understand that he was supposed to remove his trousers. At the banquet I must have gotten a little woozy from the "Saki" as I couldn't make the food stay on the chop sticks! Too soon, time came to leave. It was sad parting, as the staff lined up to see us off, I thought I saw a tear in the eye of our maid. Everybody beseeched us to stay; somebody begged us to promise to return, and when we did, they all cheered up and waved farewell. It is said that "Pack a bag in Japan and you break ten hearts including your own."

On to beautiful Hong Kong, a British Crown Colony, rightfully called the "Pearl of the Orient". Here we first experienced hot weather, shipping all of our warm clothes home. With the influx of refugees from the China Mainland, thousands of jobless Chinese came to Hong Kong, needing means of seeking out a meager living. In spite of crippled limbs and broken hands, they started a new enterprise, namely, that of hand made Chinese dolls which are very popular with tourists. These refugees have been encouraged to make the dolls as life like as possible and representative of the many types and classes of Chinese children in Hong Kong. Each figure told a story of its own. A million refugees, the is fantastic. Our next stop, Bangkok Thailand, is in the Southeast corner of Asia between Burma on the West and Laos, Cambodia and Vietnam on the East. Thailand is not so large. Bangkok including the city, Thonburi, across the Arno river, has a population of over two million. It is a constitutional Monarchy. Buddhism is the main religion. There are three hundred fifty Buddhist Monasteries, a Protestant Episcopal Catholic Churches, and other Protestant Churches. Their rice is really the wealth of the country. Tourists are struck by the pleasantness and almost childlike cheerfulness of the Thai people. Moderation, even in virtue, is the outstanding characteristic. As the Spanish say "Manana", the Thai say "Mai ben rai" (Never mind!) Year round humidity is high, with temperatures of over one hundred degrees, for here we were not too far from the Equator. Bangkok is a busy, crowded, picturesque, curious and contradictory city, a varied mixed up city which is both ancient and modern. Bangkok is modern Asia; Asia in ferment, Asia in transition, an ancient woman dressed in old "pisaan" and in contrast, a little Thai girl, trim and shapely, modern as tomorrow, a driver, in a sports car, a naked child playing with the latest plastic toy, the herder pastures his water buffalo beside an air strip where jet fighters take off as if things were always thus. It was in a little antique jewelry shop in the Erawan Hotel in Bangkok, that we had the privilege of meeting and talking to the great Dr. Tom Dooley, the young American doctor who has done so much for the people of Indo-China. He had come over to Bangkok, from Laos, which borders Thailand. He was in the shop buying a small jeweled pin to take home to the States as a gift for his mother. He had the visage of a great man who has become completely unselfish in his life urge to help others, especially the little children dying from second heaviest refugee concentration per square mile in the world are living, sleeping and dying on the sidewalks, roof tops and in the caves of Hong Kong. A recent count showed 110,000 squatter refugees living on roof tops; cold and hunger have invited another enemy, tuberculosis. Missionaries, laboring there have pitifully meager means to cope with this staggering problem. Hong Kong is a beautiful place. It is an island of dazzling contrasts that show up the modern and the old; a place where Western civilization blends in with the Orient.

From luxury liners to Junks, towering apartments to huts, modern department stores to street stalls and red double decker buses to rickshaws. With some mountainous hills in Kowloon peninsula and in the new territory. We rode in Furnicular, or tram car to the top of Mt. Victoria for a breath taking thrill and to see the impressive beauty and grandeur of the scenery of the bay below us, the picturesque hillside houses. We visited Aberdeen fishing village, had dinner on one of the floating restaurants, topping the menu was parrot fish! It was really a very pleasant experience, for while dining on deck, we were able not only to enjoy the unique surroundings, but also the peculiarities of the floating Sampan people, who live on small boats on the water, and who are descendants of Pirates. Hong Kong is a tourist shopping center as it is a free trading port. Fine Jade, lovely English woolens, are tailored and finished within twenty-four hours for the tourists. In the new territory leased from China for ninety-nine years, the farmers are hard working superstitious Chinese peasants, who would not allow pictures to be made of them, thinking it brought on Evil Spirits. Although they employ the most primitive methods to till and water their land, yet they have turned the rock slopes of the valley into cultivated land and grow food under the most unpromising conditions. Rice is the main crop; vegetables, potatoes, sugar cane, sweet potatoes and ginger are subsidiary crops. Most of the fields yield one harvest a year. Women tilling the fields with wooden ploughs drawn by water buffalo can be seen. In the new and more modern shopping center of the city, the visitors not only are able to admire the brilliant window displays, but also to observe the elegant, slim Chinese ladies, beautifully dressed in their "cheongsams" as they go about their shopping. But to get acquainted with Chinese customs and peculiarities, we were told to visit The "Thieves Market," which we did. After buying my friend, Ruth Hutton, a small gift, we roamed on down through the markets, where we saw the same items at half the price we had paid. The name "Thieves Market," was very applicable and the old saying came to my mind. "There is no honor among thieves!" We had to walk up or down the steep, ladder streets, or cut through the narrow side streets which took us from one world to another (new and old). Hong Kong
