

Stratford Jamboree And Fair September 8-9-10

The Stratford Jamboree and County Fair will be held September 8-9-10, it was announced this week. Citizens of the county should start planning the entries they will exhibit.

The Jamboree and Fair Committee is urging each organization and each business house to put an exhibit in the fair. They also hope to acquire the interest of more people this year.

Adopt By-Laws

The Jamboree Committee has adopted a new list of by-laws. Their provisions include:

1. The president or his proxy of each of the directing organizations, Lions Club, American Legion, Fire Department, Farm Bureau and Wheat Growers, is responsible as a director on the Jamboree Committee.

2. The Advisory Committee shall consist of past directors, fair chairmen, home economics teacher, home demonstration agent, county agricultural teacher, superintendent of schools, and a representative from each of the following organizations: Home Demonstration Council, Beta Sigma Phi Chapters, Prospectus Study Club, Garden Club and other organizations.

3. Any organization desiring to operate a concession at the Jamboree and Fair must submit a request in writing to the Board of Directors which will grant or refuse such request in writing.

4. Floats in the parade shall follow a theme and prize money shall be awarded in each of the following classes: organization, commercial, kiddy and horseback riders. Floats not following the theme will compete in an open class for recognition only. Each float will be judged on class and merit.

5. The winner of the Stratford Jamboree Beauty Contest will be sponsored by the Jamboree Committee in the Perryton Wheatheart contest. Should the winner become ineligible, the second place winner will be entered.

These By-Laws are subject to change by a majority vote of the directors and advisory board.

The Jamboree Committee will meet Monday, June 13, in the county exhibit building at 8:00 p. m. to discuss the theme for the parade. Those with suggestions for the parade theme are asked to contact E. R. Bell or a member of the advisory board.

Week Of Rain Will Delay Wheat Harvest

Rains falling over most of the territory on Sunday, Monday and Tuesday left from one to three or more inches of moisture, according to available reports. The unexpected rainy season and cooler weather may delay harvest for at least a week. Combines had been expected to start running about June 15.

In Stratford the rainfall measurements were: Sunday .44, Monday .26, and Tuesday .23, for a total of .93 of an inch.

A small flood fell to the south and east of Stratford Sunday evening. Roy Harris reported from 2 to 2.5 inches. From 2.5 to 3 inches fell at the R. C. Buckles farm. H. H. Caraway reported about 3 inches. Arthur Judd reported from 2 to 3 inches of rain. F. M. Keener said 1.35 of an inch fell at his country home. To the north the rain was spotted but as much as an inch fell in some locations. West of town the rain extended only a few miles and ranged from .40 to .70 of an inch.

School Fund Gets $29,000,000 From Tidelands

The U. S. Supreme Court ruled that Texas does own its tidelands for 10 1/2 miles out, just as Texans have been claiming for 115 years.

Revenue from the publicly owned land will go into the permanent school fund. The problem of Texas' bankrupt general fund is unchanged.

Thus far, the oil yield from the Texas tidelands has been far from spectacular. There have been only 24 producing oil wells and 47 gas wells in 22 years.

The state will get some $29,000,000 in mineral payment that accumulated while the issue of state or federal ownership was being thrashed out.

Palmer's Lease Luther Blades Service Station

Mr. and Mrs. Lamoine Palmer and son, Gary, have leased the Luther Blades One Stop Service Station on U. S. Highway 54. They took over management and operation of the station last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Palmer formerly lived in Stratford before moving to Clayton, New Mexico where they operated a tourist court for several years.

Help Solicited In Identifying Unmarked Graves

The Stratford Cemetery Association has been reorganized and chartered. Records of the old cemetery have all been lost or destroyed. At times there has been conflict on property lines.

Marking all graves is a project which is being carried out by the Stratford Lions Club this year. No charge will be made for the markers.

Stakes have been provided at each unmarked grave. Those who know the identity of a person in an unmarked grave are asked to write the name on the stake or to notify any member of the Stratford Lions Club. This information will be imbedded in a stone marker at no cost to the survivors.

April Wedding Is Revealed

Mr. and Mrs. Russell Beal announce the recent marriage of their daughter, Sammie. Miss Beal and Eldon Huggins, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Huggins of Olton, Texas were married in Clovis, New Mexico April 8. Mr. and Mrs. Bill Howerton of Amarillo accompanied the couple to Clovis.

Mr. and Mrs. Huggins are at home at Olton, Texas where he is employed on an irrigation farm.

The bride attended the Stratford schools and graduated from Amarillo high school with the class of 1960.

A 20-car caravan of Dumas Doggie Days visitors arrived in Stratford Tuesday afternoon during the rain. They extended a personal invitation to the celebration in Dumas this week end.

Liquor Officers Converge On County Line

Liquor Control Board officers of Texas and Oklahoma converged on the state line on the northern edge of Sherman County Thursday night of last week. Jesse J. Robertson was taken into custody on a charge of having possession of liquor for sale in a dry area. Tried in county court Friday, Robertson pleaded guilty to the charge, and was fined $250.00 and court costs.

Anti-Income Taxpayers May Vote Constitution

Voters who oppose the federal income tax and the United Nations will find a haven in the Constitution Party.

Like the Republicans and Democrats, the Constitution Party will hold a state convention June 14 to name delegates to a national convention.

At a preliminary meeting in Austin, delegates were selected and instructed to work for a ticket headed by J. Edgar Hoover for president and Tom J. Anderson of Nashville, Tennessee for vice president.

The Constitution Party also nominated candidates for all statewide offices except governor. gubernatorial nominee was omitted, because if he should receive 200,000 or more votes in a general election, state law would require the party to go to the expensive primary nominating route next election year.

Stratford School Taxes Are Reduced

The tax rate on property in the Stratford Independent School District will be cut 3¢ on 1960 taxes, it was decided at the meeting of the School Board Tax Equalization meeting.

Valuations during 1960 will remain the same as in 1959, but the tax rate will be reduced from $1.27 to $1.24 for the new tax assessments. It was decided the reduced tax rate would provide sufficient funds to liquidate existing bonds and maintain the schools.

Out Of State Trucks Must Have Permits

Out of state trucks hauling wheat in Texas must have a 30-day permit to operate in this state, it was announced this week by Tax Collector John Kidwell. He urged local wheat producers to check with the owners of trucks they hire to see that they have their permits in order to avoid possible delays during the harvest rush.

Mrs. Blanck Gives Program At Conlen

Mrs. Philip Blanck was the principal speaker at the meeting of the Conlen Home Demonstration Club in the home of Mrs. Harry Reynolds Tuesday. She wore a costume of the native Hawaiians and spoke on the soil conservation program.

Miss Dortha Nell Crossfield, who accompanied Mrs. Blanck on a recent trip to Hawaii, told of the highlights of her experience.

Mrs. C. W. Moon and Mrs. T. M. Crossfield showed pictures which were taken in Hawaii by Mrs. Blanck and Miss Crossfield. Ladies of the Rita Blanca Home Demonstration Club were guests of the Conlen ladies.

Mrs. Reynolds served refreshments of punch and coconut cake from a serving table decorated with Hawaiian pineapple and sea shells.

Birds of paradise are native to New Guinea and northern Australia.

Precinct Four reversed its trend of thinking and for the first time in the history of the county gave a two-third majority vote to a major paving bond issue in the election Saturday. The more than two to one vote was 272 to 125.

Approval of the $350,000.00 bond issue will make possible one of the most extensive paving projects which have been attempted in the city of Stratford and will pave about 11 miles of road from U. S. Highway 54 north on the Beaver Road to the Oklahoma State line.

According to those who designed the paving project within the city of Stratford, the new paving will place about 95% of the homes on a paved street.

The approved paving program will pave approximately 63 blocks of streets in Stratford in addition to Fifth Street north to the city limits, approximately 1.25 miles of road on the north side of Stratford, approximately 1/2 mile of road from the Gruver highway to U. S. 287 on the south side of Stratford, and about 11 miles of road from U. S. Highway 54 in Stratford north on the Beaver road to the Oklahoma line.

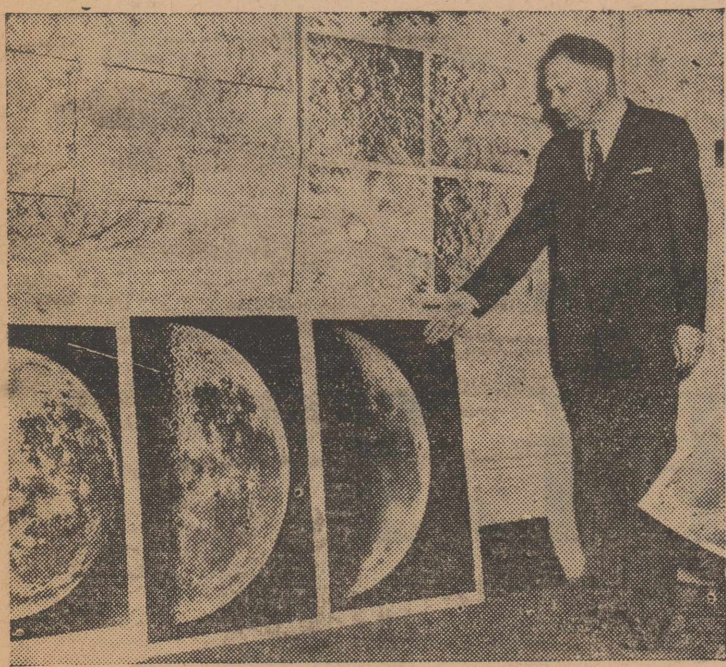

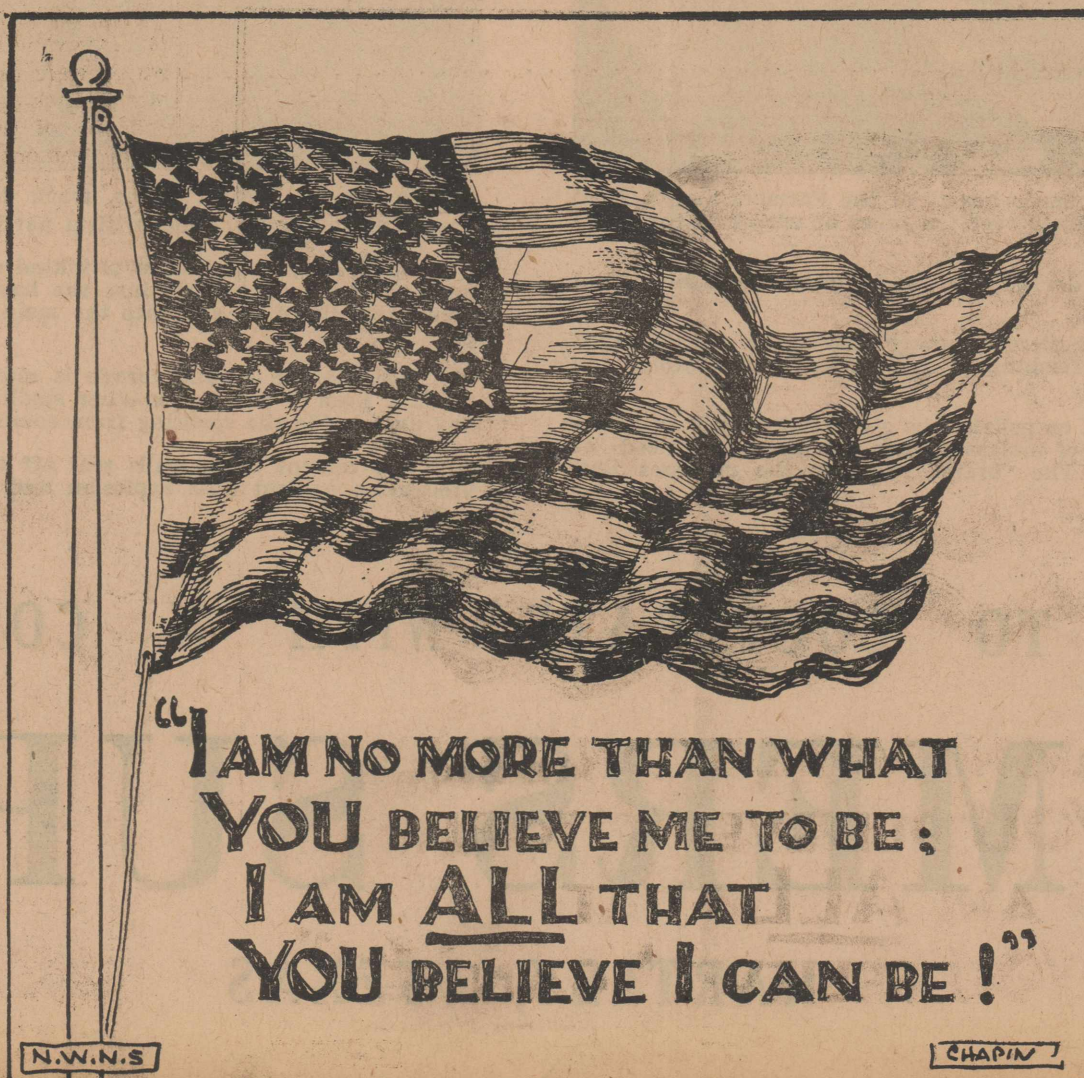

City streets to be paved by the bond issue will be improved with a 24-foot width of pavement in the center of the street. Under existing contract prices, individuals along the paving route may secure a concrete curb and gutter, and an extension of the pavement to the curb and gutter line along their property for $2.50 a running foot. Paving constructed under the bond issue will lack six feet of reaching the curb and gutter along property lines.

Much of the successful maintenance of these streets depends almost entirely on the property owners. Citizens who complete the paving to their property lines will assure themselves of a permanent all weather street. Those who fail to complete the paving of the street may face the inconvenience of a mud hole separating them from the paving which would be hard to maintain. Unprotected edges of paving will break off with constant crossing in muddy weather.

Farm Prices Declining

Texas farm prices, by mid-May, were down two per cent from a month ago and 10 per cent from a year ago. U. S. Department of Agriculture noted that livestock and livestock products had the biggest drop, 7 per cent from a month ago and 11 per cent from a year ago.

This is general view, looking south, of the Farmers Supply Feed Mill and elevator facilities at Hartley. Immediately north of the mill (foreground) — but not in the picture — is the firm's fertilizer plant. Also unpictured, are two flat grain storage buildings. The elevators, mill and flat buildings are all connected by a system of underground or overhead tunnels, with screw-type conveyors, through which grain can be moved as directed by electric control panels. Total storage capacity is two and a quarter million bushels. The mill capacity is 20 tons of ground feed, or 12 tons of pellets, per hour. The Farmers Supply started in 1934 with a general merchandise store — still operating across US Highway 87 from the elevators — and $1,200 in assets. In 1937, it leased the larger of the two metal elevators that can be seen at the far end of the "barrels" and that had been built by J. N. Beasley of Amarillo in 1934. The Supply bought it in 1942, and enlarged it from 30,000 to 165,000 bushels in 1946. The smaller metal elevator nearby was acquired in 1942 when Farmers Supply bought Hartley Mercantile. The major elevator expansion started in 1950, and climaxed this year with the feed mill.

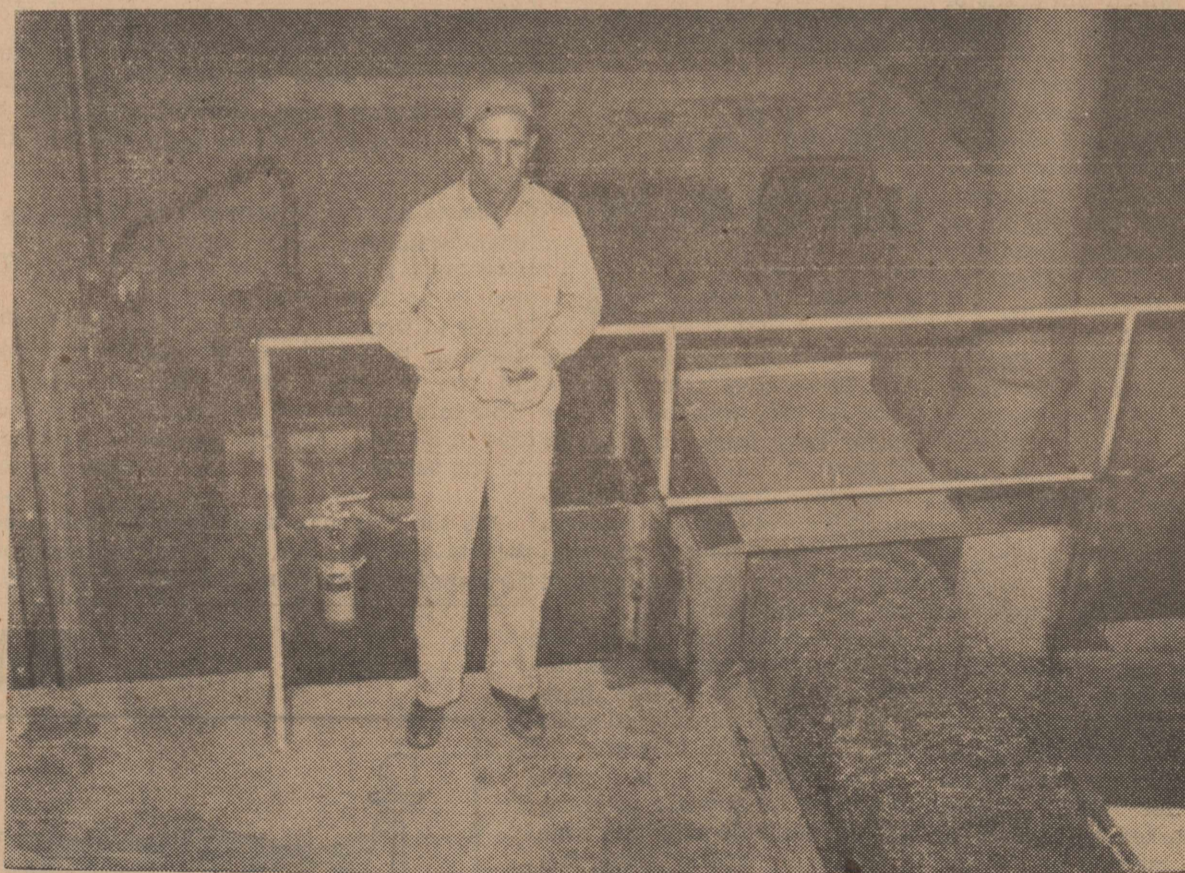

Carl Keenan, chief operator, is shown at the "automatic heart" of the Farmers Supply Feed Mill — the central electric control panel that directs power over ten miles of wiring to the mill's 37 motors that total a little over 600 HP.

By a system of electronics and automatic electric devices, the panel controls each motor and the equipment it operates.

If there is a hitch of any kind, the panel sounds a piercing buzzer, that can be plainly heard even outside the building. At the same time it starts flashing a red light pin-pointing the trouble.

The machine that adds molasses to ground feed, or pellets, has a manual control to determine amounts. But an "electronic brain" halts flow of molasses when the stream of feed or pellets through the machine stops for any reason. The "brain" re-starts the molasses flow when the feed stream resumes.

Baled hay, as shown, or any kind of baled forage, with baling wire removed, is moved automatically by a drag-chain into the hay grinding equipment in the pit behind Lyons, and then by air-suction lifted up and into the main mixing room beyond the wall you see at the far side of the pit.

Because the ground forage is moved by air-suction, instead of air-blast, dust is at a minimum. Even if a hole, or other small break occurs in the spouting, the suction usually keeps any dust inside the spouting from coming out.

But cement block walls seal off the grinding room from the rest of the plant as an extra precaution against dust explosion and fire.

Ammonia produces more cotton per acre

Leading West Texas farmers like FRED POPEJOY use 100 lbs. of Phillips 66 Ammonia on cotton

Fred Popejoy of Hart, who has 800 acres under cultivation, has used Phillips 66 Ammonia successfully on a variety of crops. "With cotton following cotton I put down 50 pounds of ammonia per acre. On cotton following maize I apply 100 pounds of ammonia. This gives me about 1/2 bale per acre increase," he says.

"Maize land receives about 100 pounds of ammonia per acre. Yields have been up to 7000 pounds per acre . . . increases average about 2000 pounds per acre. Wheat is where you see the big difference with ammonia. It just about doubles the yields. I use about 80 pounds of ammonia per acre on wheat land," he reports.

Thousands of Texas farmers are using Phillips 66 Ammonia to help assure top net profits per acre. Actual field reports prove that Phillips 66 Ammonia (1) produces more high grade lint (2) increases maize yields (3) boosts wheat and small grain yields (4) stimulates forage production.

Farmers Supply Opens New $200,000 Feed Mill At Hartley

J. R. (Dick) Brown, general manager of Farmers Supply at Hartley, stands in front of the pellet-cooler and scalping screen. The temperature of the pellets is brought down by air blast in the cooler as soon as they come out of the pellet-machine. The pellets then move over the scalping screen which removes all fine fragments. These are eventually combined into more pellets.

Hartley Firm Opens New Feed Mill

HARTLEY — The new $200,000 Farmers Supply feed mill, latest development in an expansion program that started in 1946 is in full production.

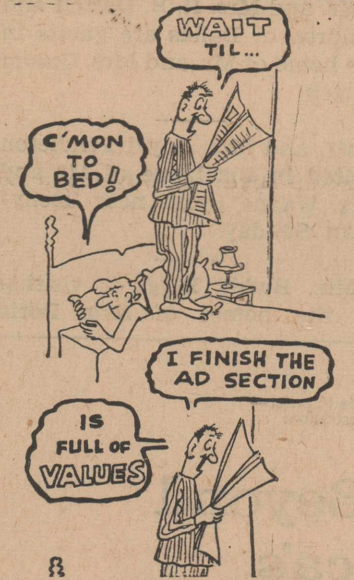

The mill is one in a series of operations that began in 1934 when Farmers Supply was organized with $1,200 in assets and a general store.

It now has added elevators and storage buildings with a total capacity of two and a quarter million bushels; a fertilizer plant and the feed mill that produces ground feed or pellets for sale, or produces them on a custom basis.

The mill also has its own truck fleet for hauling in grain and forage, if needed; and for delivering the finished products.

The mill building, overall, is

By C. A. Dean, M.D.

MEDITORIAL: Yesterday I mentioned some of the ways bacteria provoke the body and two of the methods we use to combat them.

In addition to our skin and white blood cells we have one other major method in dealing with microbes—antibody formation. This is the body's atomic arsenal, its last and most potent weapon. If this fails, war with the bacterial enemy is on the brink of defeat.

Antibodies or immune bodies are chemicals produced when foreign proteins or similar substances, such as bacteria, gain entrance to the body. Once formed they are transported in the gamma globulin fraction of blood.

There are several types of antibodies. Some, called agglutinins, form an invisible film around the bacteria causing them to stick together. Thus immobilized, the white blood cells can engulf and destroy them. Others, the antitoxins, neutralize toxins and prevent further damage. Antibodies can also interfere with bacterial growth and form a chemical barrier which the bacteria cannot penetrate.

If enough immune bodies are formed, victory over the bacteria results. And if the disease was previously overcome, enough antibodies may be present to completely protect against present or future attacks of this same disease. In other words, you will be said to have developed immunity. This is the principle involved in vaccination and other immunizations.

When the body has used all its weapons and is losing the fight, outside help is needed. This may come in the form of injections of antitoxins, gamma globulin, immunizations or antibiotics. By striking the bacteria directly, the antibiotics often provide the lift needed to turn the tide of battle.

60x120 feet. It is designed for expansion as needed. Roof and sides are corrugated steel on heavy steel beams and Z-bars; with lucite ceiling panels for non-glare daylight illumination.

Interior partitions are concrete block. Hay and forage grinding room is completely sealed off from the rest of plant; though actual air-suction movement of groundfeed indicates the seal-off might not have been necessary. Air-suction, instead of air-blast, moves the ground product through spouts, and even if minor hole or breaks occurs in the spout the suction prevents dust from coming out.

The mill equipment, ranging from heavy machines that handle several tons at a time to delicate instruments that measure in ounces and grams, is powered by 37 motors, with a total of slightly over 600 HP. Two electric-electronic panels control the mill operations, one the feed grinding and mixing, the other the pellet-making. Automatic buzzers and lights warn of any mis-function and pin-point its location.

The mill turns out 20 tons of ground, mixed feeds an hour, or eight tons of pellets. It can turn out 12 tons of ground, mixed feeds using threshed grain and forage direct from the field.

DANNY'S FIGHT NIGHT

By James J. Bradley

DANNY O'TOOLE sat in his corner and looked at his feet, oblivious to the activity around him. It meant nothing to him that the huge amphitheater was packed with a boisterous Friday night crowd intoxicated by the prospect of physical combat and anxious to see the champ defend his title.

Sports editors predicted the champ would win by an early knockout, however, as is the usual case where the human element is concerned, the possibility of an upset existed. It wouldn't be the first time an underdog went home, wearing the mythical crown in a brief taste of immortality. But Danny didn't really care who won. Victor or vanquished were meaningless words to him.

Following the National Anthem, the announcer stepped to the center of the ring and reached for the overhead mike.

"Ladies and gentlemen..." he drawled, "In this corner... wearing purple trunks... weighing one-hundred-ninety-six and one-half pounds... victorious in the Olympics... undefeated in forty-nine professional pugilistic encounters... the heavyweight champion of the world... Ing..."

No one could hear the introduction of the challenger and his share of applause was a matter of courtesy rather than honor.

Both fighters were brought to the center of the ring and briefed by the referee with the deadpan, formal monotone only an ex-boxer in rented tux is able to achieve.

The bell sounded for round one. The champ settled into his classic style; aggressively stalking his prey... forcing the fight... scoring points... wearing down his opponent.

A furious exchange of blows in the closing seconds of the round brought the crowd to their feet. Neither man was hurt by the barrage of leather and the International Press sportscaster informed his listeners: "It may go the distance."

There was a shadow of a pout on the clean features of Danny O'Toole as he sat in his corner. Everyone was ignoring him.
Round two exploded with solid punches. The champ was connecting with increasing regularity. You could see his body blows hurt the challenger. It was a good, clean fight. The champ connected with a solid right to the jaw; a left to the body and another hard right to the jaw. He had his man on the ropes at the bell.
A trickle of saliva ran down the corner of Danny O'Toole's mouth. He tried to stand, but his unsteady legs wouldn't hold his body up. He sat down, hard as the third round started off it was difficult to see the damage inflicted by the champ.
It was soon evident that the champ had his man and was going to finish him. He rocked the challenger, his powerful fists pumping with the methodic drive of pistons. The challenger bicycled backwards, trying to stay on his feet.
With a minute and a half remaining in the round, the champ caught his victim with the best blow of the fight. A straight right to the jaw that didn't travel over nine inches, and the thud of dead weight on the canvas was utterly final as the champ went to a neutral corner.
"... And still... heavyweight champion of the world," the referee announced, but Danny O'Toole didn't hear him. His eyes were closed in sleep when his father turned off the television set for the night and his mother tenderly kissed her eleven-month-old son as he slept, curled like a kitten, in the corner of his crib.

STRATFORD
BUTANE CO.

From M. A. Lonebaugh, Gloucester, N. J.: I remember when public auctions were held in our little town of Gloucester City, N. J. Livestock, mostly horses, were auctioned off to the highest bidder. These animals would be led outdoors and trotted up and down in order to let the prospective buyers see how they looked in action. Many things were there to be sold, among them canned goods in gallon size cans. The auctioneer chanted the prices so fast and furious it was difficult to understand just how much the article would be, until he slowed down, for what "seemed to me" a deep breath. I often wondered how he managed to say so much so fast. It was fun, just looking at all the items that would be put on the block for sale, but there was also an element of danger. One had to be careful not to get into the way of the horses hooves. I suppose parents had to be especially alert, keeping one eye on the auctioneer, the other on their offsprings.

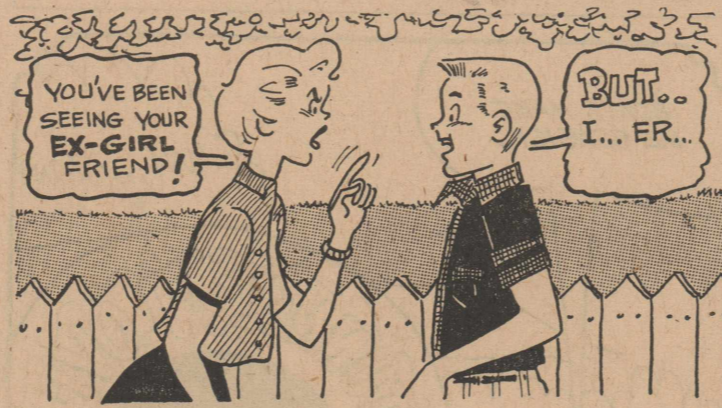

While my folks never bought a horse, (much as I pestered), Dad did buy gallon cans of foodstuffs. Dad had the answer to my pleas, and I quote "You can eat canned foods, but who ever heard of canned horse?" End of quote, period.

Should He Have Everything His Way?

By C. D. Smith

THE WEEK'S LETTER: "I am 14 years old. Five months ago I met a boy (age 17) whom I like very much, but when he asked to date me I had to say, 'I'll have to double-date.' That's all my parents will allow.' After that he didn't seem too interested, although he stuck by me. In 3 months we have made 3 dates, but some way or another they were all broken. I've never gone out with him.

"Recently I discovered he had been seeing his ex-girlfriend. Then I really 'blew my top.' Did I have any right to do so?"

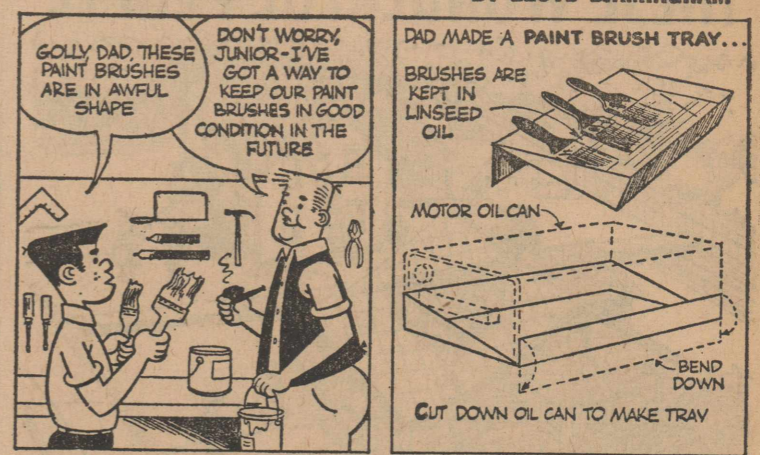

Not too long afterward, I went to him and apologized for 'sounding off.' I received no answer, just a smile.

"When I see him, he just ignores me unless I speak first... now, what should I do? Should I let him handle things from here? What can I do to get him back?"

OUR ANSWER: To question one: A girl has no right to "blow her top" when a boy she has never dated, even though she may be with him often at school or anywhere else, goes out with another girl. He is free to do so

Snapshots: Americans Are World Travelers

This snapshot might be considered appropriate at this time of the year in light of a recent survey which disclosed that America's No. 1 export is now—TOURISTS. Americans are becoming world travelers and the picture above represents a scene captured by many Americans in Rome. To Europeans, a person with a camera is usually considered an American tourist. It's spring in Rome and the city's famous steps are covered with a great display of azaleas, signaling the annual influx of tourists. More visitors than ever before are expected this year with the Olympic Games the magnet.

A new market for coal is being developed in the processing of taconite ore for steel making. Taconite output is expected to reach 40 million tons by 1980, a rate that will take 1.5 million tons of coal each year in the form of electricity.

The "Delmarva" Peninsula, separating Chesapeake Bay from Delaware Bay and the Atlantic Ocean, is the only peninsula in the United States containing parts of three states—Delaware, Maryland and Virginia.

Falcon is having the best first year any car ever had... over 250,000 already sold since introduction... going at the record rate of 10,000 every week. What makes Falcon the world's most successful new car?

Economy!

To begin with, Falcon is America's very lowest-priced 6-passenger car*... $64 to $154 less than the other compacts.

"Falcon delivers the best fuel economy of the three new compact cars," says Motor Trend magazine. Owner reports and fleet operator logs consistently show Falcon mileage figures of up to 30 miles per gallon with regular gas.

Falcon goes 4,000 miles between oil changes, costs less to service, less to license and in most places, less to insure.

Falcon saves you more and still gives you full room for 6 big people and all their luggage. Small wonder Falcon has become first so fast!

KEEP CHILDREN PLAYING

Any mother knows that rainy days will come and children will stretch her nerves to the breaking point. If she can get them started playing, they'll soon think of things along the same lines.

Have them act out animals and birds in pantomime and then guess what's been acted.

Fill a collection of glass tumblers with different amounts of water and then tap these with pencils to make music like a xylophone.

HELEN'S FAVORITE:

- Broiled Shrimp Sandwiches (Makes 9 Open-Faced)
- 2 5-ounce cans large shrimp
- 1 cup grated Cheddar cheese
- 2 cups chili sauce
- 1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
- 9 slices white bread

Combine cheese, chili sauce, Worcestershire sauce and shrimp. Trim crust from bread. Toast on one side, turn and cover each slice with shrimp mixture. Broil 5 minutes and serve.

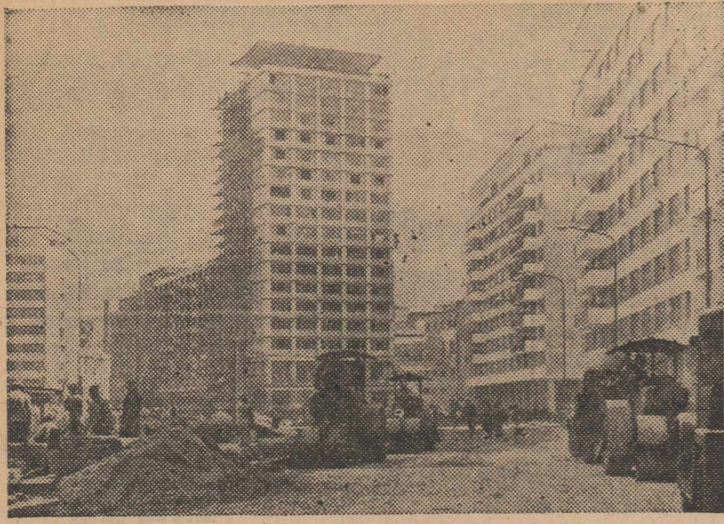

Let them go grocery shopping with pictures! Each child makes a list, then cuts out pictures to fill the list. The one who finishes soonest is the winner.

Children have hand puppets which can be made from white socks. Faces can be put on with crayon or pieces of colored felt pasted on them.

Toothpicks can be pasted on paper to make pictures.

In this space age most youngsters would enjoy making a star map, using a guide and different colored stars against a dark paper background.

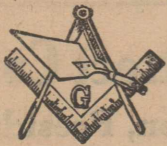

Finding cars has always been a favorite. Children sit at the windows and count them, pick out new ones or certain colors.

Snapshots: Arrival At Pensacola

Pensacola, Florida is known as the City of Five Flags, a title befitting the historic city. Tracing its origin to the earliest days of the settlement of this great country of ours, Pensacola has flown the flag of Spain, France, England, the Confederacy, and the United States. Each year a colorful and traditional "Fiesta of Five Flags" is observed and this event has become one of the leading summer attractions of the south coast. Its chief feature is the landing of Tristan de Luna and his men, recalling the first landing in 1559. It is obvious, however, that the snapshot above does not portray Tristan de Luna. In this instance, it's Pat Jean Ferguson, beauty queen of the Fiesta of Five Flags, who makes like a Conquistador in bringing ashore the flag of Spanish colonists who settled on the Florida Gulf Coast 400 years ago. Pat Jean plans to be a teacher of (you guessed it) history.

Librarian Asks Return Of Books

Mrs. J. W. Hodges, librarian at the County Library, asks citizens to check the books they have in their home, and to return those which belong to the County Library. She says no fines will be assessed for those which have been kept overtime.

Mrs. Hodges states that the books which belong in the County Library are needed for the children who are taking part in the incentive reading program. This program is designed to appeal to children in the second through the seventh grades.

Bagworm Control Time Is Here

Bagworms are, or soon will be, active in all parts of the State. The time to obtain good control of these pests is when they are young, as chemicals applied after the worms are grown give no control, says John Hawkins, assistant extension entomologist.

After hatching, the larvae immediately start to feed on the foliage of ornamental plants. The young worms spin a silken bag about themselves and as they feed, attach bits of foliage to this bag. The worms carry this bag with them as they move about. When the worms are grown, this bag is one and a half to two inches long and affords the worm almost complete protection.
