Comm'rs Court Orders County-Wide Option Election

ALL BE HELD AUG. 26 WITH OTHER POLLS

Eastland county commissioner today ordered a local option election on prohibition to be August 26 in connection with the general election. County Judge Garrett told the Daily News this afternoon.

The commissioners court is not holding any elections in precincts, counties, or cities on its jurisdiction but merely a countywide election. Judge Garrett said. "The election will be held on August 26, 1933, and will be governed by the various laws, incorporated towns, and made to the court by way of petition."

A particular subdivision of the county desiring a special election upon petition, have it granted at the time of the general election, the judge said.

Commissioners appointed at the meeting of the commissioners court include the following: East Cisco: J. E. Caffrey, president; J. W. Walcott, vice president; C. L. Gilmore, E. Michael, clerks. West Cisco: Will St. John, president; D. E. Waters, vice president; Lee Owen and W. J. Long, clerks.

Laws Governing Planes Announced

WASHINGTON, August 14.—New regulations governing all forced landings of scheduled interstate passenger transport planes will be in effect by August 15, according to Ewing Y. Mitchell, assistant secretary of commerce for aviation. The regulations required only the number of forced landings rather than bad weather or mechanical difficulties. The information will enable the Department of Commerce to reduce the number of accidents in scheduled passenger operations, the department said, "by providing comprehensive data with reference to conditions which might result in forced landings."

Information obtained from reports will be made available to operators and manufacturers, the department continued "without names or places, for the purpose of assisting them in eliminating mechanical failures."

TEXAS PUTS BUSINESS CHIPS ON SIDE OF N. R. A. PROGRAM

By JOSEPH L. MYLER, United Press Staff Correspondent. DALLAS, Aug. 14.—Texas today stood definitely committed to President Roosevelt's revolutionary policies in the drive toward industrial recovery.

Three outstanding recent developments proved the state has placed all its business chips on the side of the national program. 1. Texas cotton growers retired approximately 5,000,000 acres of their current crop from production. 2. Texas employers are flocking under the wings of the Blue Eagle of the NRA. 3. Texas retailers are stocking their shelves heavily in anticipation of a rush of buying as the president's drive for re-employment and augmented purchasing power gets under way.

Blanket Code. Adherence to the blanket code agreements grew by thousands of employers daily as the first two weeks of the temporary re-employment campaign neared an end. Indications were that approximately 80,000 employers, representing around 300,000 employees, will be operating under the blanket code by the end of the period. Other thousands are expected to join the parade as the drive continues.

Most striking assurance of the faith of business men in the NRA was exhibited at the opening of the 1933 fall market season in Dallas. Retailers from all over the South-west scrambled for goods with which to supply depleted stocks.

A. H. Bailey, president of the Dallas Wholesale Merchants' Association reported a spirit of high optimism among visiting retailers. "Purchasers ran more than 100 per cent over the 1932 fall market season," Bailey said, discussing the first half-week of buying. "Indications point to the most successful season in years."

The retailers themselves based their optimism on signs of fundamental business improvement. H. D. Schwarz of Hempstead, summed up the words of hundreds of other retailers when he said: "Feeling among farmers is much better. They have made their crops with a minimum of expense and they will be able to pay off their debts with federal benefits from the cotton retirement campaign."

Typical of Faith. Typical of the general faith in the future was that expressed by J. O. Matthews, Crosbyton merchant, who said: "There is no reason to believe we will be left high and dry with our heavily stocked shelves. The merchants have done their part in accelerating the business program, and we believe the customers will be able to do his."

From many sources came news of easing credit conditions as farmers and business men made payments on old debts. Recently published bank conditions showed financial institutions of Texas were sufficiently strong to meet the heaviest credit demands.

From rural communities came reports that country banks were loosening up and making loans which this time last year would not have been granted.

NRA CAMPAIGN COMMITTEE TO BE ORGANIZED

Heads of all Cisco organizations—civic, social, religious, and commercial—will meet at the chamber of commerce building at 8 o'clock this evening for the purpose of organizing a local bureau to direct the NRA program here, it has been announced.

The meeting has been called by the chamber of commerce, which, here as elsewhere, has been asked to form the organization to take care of the local campaign.

Fort Worth and other large cities have already formed their NRA units, which, as a rule, are planned according to military style, with a "general" at the head, assisted by "colonels," "majors," and "captains."

These organizations are to serve in creating sentiment for buying so that those who have raised salaries and increased employment may be able to continue their cooperation. President Roosevelt and the recovery administrator, Gen. Hugh Johnson, have asked.

All checking up on performance of NRA agreements will be done by local people, it is understood, and it is necessary that Cisco act immediately, the announcement said.

Included in the invitation are the heads of the Lions and Rotary clubs, the Women's Federated clubs, Retail Merchants associations, trade unions, pastors of churches as leaders of their religious organizations, and others. These organization heads will form the executive committee to direct the whole organization.

3 DIE IN FIRE AT EASTLAND EARLY SUNDAY

EASTLAND, Aug. 14.—Three persons were burned to death and a fourth is in a hospital as a result of a fire in which he received in trying to rescue a child from the flames which consumed the house of James Tichenor here early Sunday morning.

The dead are James Tichenor, 45, geologist for the Arab gasoline corporation, Mrs. Hellen Tichenor, and their 10-months old son, Edward Barton, father-in-law of Mr. Tichenor, was burned on the face and hands when he tried to rescue his grandson. Mrs. Barton escaped through a rear door just before the roof collapsed.

Mr. Tichenor formerly lived in Cisco, where he was engaged in the oil business.

Child in Crib. The body of a child was found in its crib in the room which it occupied alone. The remains of Mrs. Tichenor were found on the floor of the bathroom, it being believed that in the smoke she mistook the bathroom door for the door to the child's room and tried to reach it. Mr. Tichenor, the last person to leave the home, leaped through a window, breaking the glass as he did so. His clothing was burning as he jumped. He died in a hospital four hours later, without regaining consciousness.

First arrivals at the scene of the fire said they saw the infant standing in its crib and crying and that they tried to rescue him but were driven back by the flames. The houses on each side of the Tichenor residence were also destroyed. The cause of the fire was unknown.

Mr. and Mrs. Tichenor had entertained a few friends Saturday evening. It was after midnight when the guests departed. The fire occurred about 4:30 Sunday morning.

A triple funeral was to be held at Eastland at 2 o'clock this afternoon.

NEW DAWN IS EXPECTED TO AID WORKERS

BINGHAMTON, N. Y., Aug. 14.—Improved home conditions and increased marital happiness among workers and their families, through the national recovery act, is foreseen by Prof. Donald A. Laird, a leading psychological expert.

"The dawn of a new age" for the man in industry is in sight, Professor Laird declared.

In Better Condition. "With fewer hours spent at work, the business or industrial employee will arrive at home in a better condition than under previous long hours, spent at the desk, bench or machine," he said. "He will end his labors of the day less fatigued, and will have additional hours in which to relax, to work about the home, or spend some time in sports or other recreations."

"The 'new deal' in this respect, to my mind, opens up a world of opportunity for the general betterment of humanity, at least in America. It should mark the dawn of a new age, at least so far as industrial workers are concerned."

Will Become Depressed. "Long hours of labor cannot fail to have their effects, if followed over considerable periods of time. They result in fatigue which not only has a bad effect on the body in general but affects the mind and nervous temperament of the workers. He is more likely to become depressed from a mental standpoint and wonder if it is worthwhile to continue."

"If the recovery act proves a success," Professor Laird said, "I foresee that the welfare of the American worker will be on a plane incomparable to the present, in that it will bring about conditions hardly dreamed of years ago, and will mark virtual emancipation from a state which seemed to offer little hope of betterment for the great mass of employees in business and in industry."

WHIPPING POST IS ADVOCATED FOR CRIMINALS

NEW YORK, Aug. 14.—The government's war against racketeers began to take form today at the first hearing of the senate racketeering commission which received suggestions for control of fire arms, formation of an American Scotland Yard, and a law reviving the whipping post for young criminals.

Universal finger printing also was proposed by Edward Mulrooney, famous for his work as New York police commissioner and now head of the state beer board, who had advanced the idea that young criminals could be controlled with this method. "Cut your prison term for major crimes to 20 years or more and substitute 20 or 30 lashes for young criminals at time of admission to prison and repeat it every six months," he said. "The hardened young criminal is convinced that the law is the dollar. He thinks that with money he can commit any crime and evade any punishment."

Aviators Discover Hole In Mountain

ELKO, Nev., Aug. 14.—For many years, mountaineers have had a tale about The Hole in the Mountain in the Ruby range, east of here, and for months pilots of United Air Lines flying the big coast-to-coast air liners, have been looking for it. They now confirm its existence. The hole is that Needle Rock, a sharp peak in the Ruby mountains, has a passage large enough "to drive a load of hay through," and within this hole is a pool surrounded by grass and moss, fed from an ice cold spring. The elevation of the peak is approximately 10,000 feet.

FOUND ASLEEP ON FARM AT TEXAS TOWN

DALLAS, Aug. 14.—The farmhouse where Charles F. Urschell, Okla. City oil millionaire was held prisoner for $200,000 ransom, was disclosed today by department of justice agents following the arrest of Harvey Bailey, notorious Kansas gunman and escaped convict.

Urschell's fingerprints on china and silverware found in the farmhouse four miles northwest of Paradise, Texas, where Bailey was captured while asleep here, but Urschell's description of the house where he was held, over which he said airplanes flew twice daily.

Bailey was wanted also in connection with the Union Station massacre at Kansas City June 19 and the Lansing prison break on Memorial Day.

Gus Jones, San Antonio, special department of justice agent led four companion agents and four Dallas and Fort Worth officers, who Saturday and captured Bailey while he was asleep under a tree in the back yard.

A machine gun pushed against Bailey's mouth awakened him.

Bailey, sleeping on an arsenal, including a machine gun, a high-powered rifle and two automatic pistols, surrendered without a struggle. Four others arrested with Bailey were believed held today, although officers removed them from the county jail here. The farmer at whose home the convict was captured, his wife, daughter, and son-in-law, were brought here with Bailey, presumably for questioning.

It was understood a guard was being maintained at the farm hide-out in an effort to capture other criminals. From unofficial sources it was learned the master mind of the supposed gang frequenting that area would appear at the rendezvous today.

Third Victim of Lynching is Found

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.—The department of justice believes it has solved the kidnaping of Charles Urschell and the Kansas City massacre with the arrest of Harvey Bailey in Texas, Attorney General Cummings said today.

Part of the Urschell ransom money was found on Bailey, Cummings said.

Cummings revealed airplanes, many special agents and automobiles were used in the spectacular capture of the suspect.

KITRELL FAMILY BACKGROUND.

Few men in the private ranks of life in Texas have a more interesting and historic background than has W. H. Kittrell, Sr., of Cisco.

The fact that Jack E. Josey, of Houston, who by the way is a brother of Mrs. J. L. Shepard of 607 West Ninth street, Cisco, is buying a tract of ground in Huntsville on which he proposes to restore the old "Steamboat House," which once belonged to Gen. Sam Houston and in which he died, brings out a number of interesting facts concerning the Kittrells.

It seems that this house was built to resemble a steamboat, hence the name, and in all its six rooms had only one window. It was bought by Dr. P. W. Kittrell, family physician of Houston and father of W. H., Sr.

Dr. Kittrell died in this house as did his mother. It is a coincidence that the doctor, his mother and Houston all shook hands with General Lafayette, the French nobleman, on his second visit to America in 1824.

Dr. Kittrell's mother was Mary Norman, daughter of General Norman who led North Carolina troops in the revolutionary war. Mary Norman's mother was the daughter of the Williams who founded the University of North Carolina. This Williams was, of course, the great grandfather of the subject of this sketch on his mother's side.

Returning to Dr. Kittrell, he was known as the father of the University of Texas since he introduced the bill creating the University on Nov. 23, 1857, while he was a representative in the Texas legislature.

W. H. Kittrell, Jr., of Dallas, is to be master of ceremonies when the park and the reconstructed house are dedicated, while W. H., Senior, of Cisco, will be present to make an address.

OPPORTUNITY IS KNOCKING.

The saying that it's never too late to mend, doesn't apply to physical property.

In these days, every community has its share of homes and business buildings which have been allowed to depreciate to the point where they are ready for the wrecking crew. Their degeneration may be laid to the door of false economy. While a dollar was "saved" temporarily, many dollars were lost because of it.

There are hundreds of thousands of properties which can still be put in good condition at a moderate cost, but which will be gone beyond redemption if work is put off much longer. Today we can still get in on bargain prices for most supplies and commodities—tomorrow will tell a different story. The wholesale price level has been skyrocketing, and now the retail level is beginning to follow. You don't have to take anyone's word for it that this is the time to build and repair—the cold and unprejudiced statistical tables tell you that, and they permit of no argument.

Build now, improve now—provide jobs and purchasing power—remember that investment and employment are cheaper than charity, and that they make charity unnecessary.

BUILDING FOR TOMORROW.

The New York Times editorially suggests that some of the public works money might profitably be spent for scientific investigation, and points out that work done in laboratories is, in the long run, often the best maker of jobs of all.

That is an excellent suggestion. The government is to spend hundreds of millions in construction projects which, once accomplished, will have ended their usefulness so far as providing substantial employment is concerned. Why not spend a little in seeking to produce new industrial wells from which permanent jobs may eventually be drawn? Entirely new jobs, rather than temporary employment to be followed again by unemployment or overcrowding of existing industry, is what our country really needs.

JOB OR TAXES?

American business, as the Manufacturers Record recently observed, cannot continue to supply both wages and taxes in the amounts demanded.

It is becoming a matter of which shall it be—a job or some more dollars for the public treasury? Government has apparently not learned a fact which is of the utmost obviousness to the rest of us—that every dollar taken in taxes, means that business must pare a dollar from other expenses. In a great many businesses the paring must be done principally in the wage budgets, either through decreased compensation or fewer jobs.

At the moment, the entire resources of the government are being given to providing more jobs at better wages. This is being done through the largest public works program in our history. It is being done through agreements within industries, and through official fiat. It is being done through appeals to patriotism and sentiment. All of this effort will be vain without tax relief. After all, the most willing business in the world can't raise wages when it hasn't the money in the bank.

Both the practical and psychological effects of a decisive policy of governmental economy would be unimaginably great. It would give investors new hope, managements new spirit. It would be at once reflected in increased production, higher buying power and jobs. Every branch of government—federal, state, county and city—has been at fault; every branch must do its part if real tax reduction is to be obtained.

"THE KNOT" TWICE

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., Aug. 14.—Mr. and Mrs. Arthur L. Perkins were married here more than a year ago by a justice of the peace. They decided however, that to make their wedding legal, they should have the ceremony performed by a minister. They took out another marriage license and took their vows for the second time before the Rev. Paul Weber.

"CAPTURE" FREE GASOLINE

MOSS LANDING, Cal., Aug. 14.—It was a big day in Moss Landing recently when an oil tanker, discharging a cargo of gasoline, overboarded its land containers. Residents in the community, armed with cans, buckets, cooking utensils and other containers, gathered and "captured" the liquid.

Otis Miller Asks Texas to Vote Relief Bonds

"I have always subscribed to the doctrine of Henry W. Grady that as the state is the unit of government so is the individual citizen the unit of the state." Otis Miller, of Anson, president of the County Judges and Commissioners' association of Texas, said in a statement to the organization recently.

Furthermore, I believe with the great Southerner Grady that we should teach the individual citizen that his home is his castle, and his sovereignty rests beneath his hat. Make him self-respecting, self-reliant and responsible. Let him lean on his own arm and on the government for nothing that his state can do. Let him cultivate independence to the point of sacrifice, and learn that humble things with unbartered liberty are better than splendors bought with its price.

These immortal words of the great Southerner Henry W. Grady are just as applicable to present day conditions as they were when he uttered them nearly 75 years ago.

It is my candid belief and firm conviction that when no prize remains for thrift you have cut the taproot that leads to progress.

Prosperity will not come as a gift of the government, nor will it come wholly as a gift of Providence, but largely as the result of sustained individual effort on the part of the people.

If the maintenance of prosperity becomes wholly a governmental function and duty, it will eventually and inevitably overshadow all other governmental functions.

What I am trying to say is this: when every individual in this state and in every other state of this nation, given the opportunity, exerts his every ounce of energy and determination to become self-supporting—then, at almost that very moment his nation will end the so-called depression.

There are those, millions of them, who have not the opportunity to make the effort to become self-supporting. It is only for these millions, honest millions of men in Texas and the nation, that we should be greatly concerned. For the professional mendicant, the "road-runner" with whom all county judges and commissioners courts are familiar, I have little patience and still less sympathy. I have all the sympathy in the world for the man who is down and out and is honestly trying to make a go of a bad situation.

never come a time in our future state or national history when we shall have to resort to state and national charity, because such conditions simply reflect the fact that our government has allowed conditions to exist that have produced such a need when the calamity could have and should have been avoided.

Matching Funds

It is a bad sheep that cannot carry its own wool. If Texas cannot meet the emergency and help take care of her own people, then it would be nothing but right for the federal government to withdraw federal aid. While I am doubtful of the value of a permanent state and national policy of "matching" funds for this and that, I do believe there are emergencies when such a policy is feasible. There are even permanent improvements in national institutions where the policy of "matching" funds is feasible, such as roads, public health and main the policy of "matching" funds is an easy way of contracting state and national debts that sooner or later prove irksome.

After long and deliberate thought I am convinced that the emergency of the hour demands that Texas vote the twenty millions in bonds for relief and work relief to the needy.

and the unemployed. If we need to expend but a portion, then the legislature authorize the sale of but the amount. If recovery comes we can curtail this expenditure.

It is my firm conviction that who hold the destinies of the and of this nation in their whether rulers or legislators, submit to every sacrifice, of honor, before authorizing expenditure and incurment, than is actually and incurment, to bring about a speedy recovery of business and industry.

If you agree that the present emergency calls for the twenty dollar bond issue to the extent above, then acquaint you with the facts governing expenditure, retirement and

THE GREAT TUN OF HEIDELBERG

AT HEIDELBERG, GERMANY, A WINE CASK BUILT IN 1751. WAS CAPABLE OF HOLDING 283,200 BOTTLES.

THE GREAT wine cask that stood in the Heidelberg castle was the last of three such monsters. The second of these, constructed in 1654, and holding 600 hogheads, was destroyed by the French in 1658. The great tun pictured above succeeded it, and held 800 hogheads. The iron bands which held the staves together weighed 11,000 pounds.

MARY LOU Goes Shopping

SHE is only eight, but even at this tender age Mary Lou is a daily customer at the neighborhood stores. Perhaps it is a package of crackers, and a pound of coffee at the grocer's. Perhaps it is some tooth-paste or toilet soap at the drug store.

Of course Mary Lou doesn't decide on what she is going to buy. Her mother writes a list—this brand of crackers, this brand of coffee, this make of tooth-paste, this kind of soap. She knows the prices, and gives Mary Lou just enough money, with an extra penny or two, perhaps, to spend for herself.

Buying is just as simple and easy as that because of just one thing—Advertising.

Advertising has given all of us a lot to be thankful for. Because of advertising, people in Texas know about and buy Michigan motor cars. People in New Hampshire buy oranges raised in Florida and California. Because of advertising, merchants and manufacturers are forced to improve their products. It has standardized quality. It has increased consumption and thereby lowered costs. It promotes competition and thereby keeps dealers and merchants wide awake to secure for you the most for your money.

But best of all it writes "Finis" on the business career of any merchant or manufacturer who attempts to fool the public or give them less than value received.

For the LOVE of EVE by Lucy Walling

BEGIN HERE TODAY EVE BAYLESS, pretty assistant to EARLE BARNES, advertising manager of Bibby's department store, secretly marries DICK BARKER, a construction engineer. Dick wants Eve to give up working but she refuses.

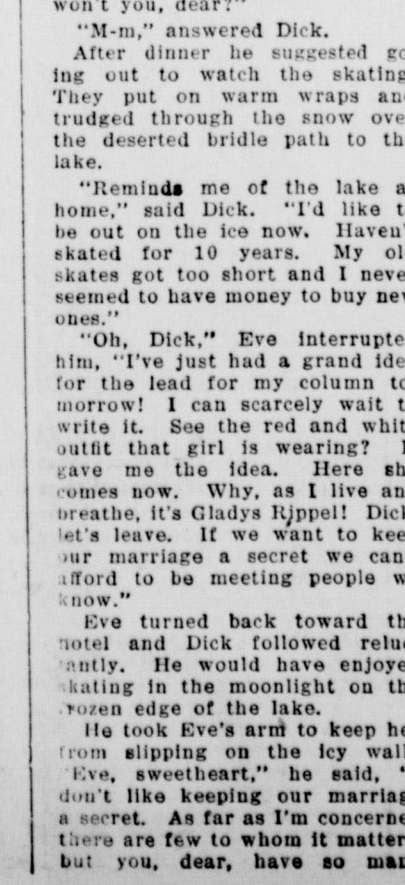

Eve wore the gown of pale gold lace that she had worn on her visit to the night club.

EVE and Dick stayed at the Hotel Miramar for a week. They usually dined in the marine dining room overlooking the lake. Eve enjoyed the formality of their surroundings and each evening wore a different costume. She had a flair for clothes and was aware that, though many of the women about her were gowned more expensively, few wore smarter costumes.

friends in the city that it is bound to cause complications. "I'm thinking of my position," she said. "We'll announce it later. With this Dick had to be content."

EACH morning he drove to "the job" before 7:30. Eve, in her smart black business clothes, boarded an eight o'clock trolley. She never glanced at the morning Times until she reached the older district of the city where the streets were lined with stores and office buildings.

"Reminds me of the lake at home," said Dick. "I'd like to be out on the ice now. Haven't skated for 10 years. My old skates got too short and I never seemed to have money to buy new ones."

"Oh, Dick," Eve interrupted him. "I've just had a grand idea for the lead for my column tomorrow! I can scarcely wait to write it. See the red and white outfit that girl is wearing? It gave me the idea. Here she comes now. Why, as I live and breathe, it's Gladys Ryppe! Dick, let's leave. If we want to keep our marriage a secret we can't afford to be meeting people we know."

Eve turned back toward the hotel and Dick followed reluctantly. He would have enjoyed skating in the moonlight on the frozen edge of the lake. He took Eve's arm to keep her from slipping on the icy walk. "Eve, sweetheart," he said, "I don't like keeping our marriage a secret. As far as I'm concerned there are few to whom matters, but you, dear, have so many

They danced between courses. It was not until after they had finished dinner that Eve saw Theron Reece. He had just entered the dining room with a vivacious looking girl. The couple lost no time in getting on the dance floor. Reece's glance swept the restaurant and he saw Eve at once. She looked away but the crowd was not large and before the dance was concluded she was forced to return Reece's nod of recognition. Evidently he was determined to continue their acquaintance. A shadow of apprehension clouded Eve's sky. She hoped Reece had not noticed her wedding ring.

"Let's go now, Dick," she said when they returned to their table. He agreed without asking any questions. But Reece was not to be disposed of so readily. He approached, bowing, and said, "Good evening, Miss Bayless."

Eve felt a sudden panic but managed to introduce the men without disclosing the fact that Dick was her husband. Before Reece could begin conversation she arose for another dance with Dick.

After all, she reasoned, it was not strange that Reece should be there. Much business was conducted between Lake City and Cincinnati and Reece, a salesman, lived in the latter place. The marine dining room of the Hotel Miramar was an attractive restaurant and it was natural for him to dine there. But Eve felt she should not leave the Miramar before her joy was spoiled. So she said to Dick, "I think, darling, it might be fun to look for an apartment tomorrow. We will get up early and not lose any time." She could not resist one guarded glance toward Reece's table as Dick guided her toward the door. There was something sinister in Reece's dark eyes as his glance met and locked with hers.
