CHARGE 2 YOUTHS IN PASTOR'S DEATH

Lockhart Testifies He Thought Affection Inspired Gifts

SAYS HE DID NOT CONNECT THEM TO JOBS

AUSTIN, Nov. 3.—State Treasurer Charley Lockhart told the house of representatives today that he received approximately $600 as cash donations from employees believing they were given through love and kindness and not to retain state jobs.

Anniversary and Christmas gifts of a radio and traveling kit were received in the same way, Lockhart said. Art Mondt, Beaumont wrestler, followed Lockhart as a witness. He said that in efforts to get a permit for his arena in Beaumont, he was told by a man who was sure a political proposition. He paid $100 cash and pays five per cent of the gross receipts, less taxes, to another promoter, he testified.

CHANGED PARTY NAME

LAFER, Mich., Nov. 3.—With prohibition repeal a virtual certainty, the Prohibition Party of Michigan in state convention here recently changed its name to the Commonwealth party.

MUST CHANGE DOGS

CONCORD, N. H., Nov. 3.—A recent ruling by the State Fish and Game department provides that the same dog cannot be used to bag more than 10 raccoons in a season.

TWIN OF FIRST WIFE

BOSTON, Nov. 3.—The wife of Malcolm E. Nichols, former mayor of Boston is the twin sister of his first wife, who died in 1926.

Texas C. C. C. Has Envious Record

FOR SAM HOUSTON, Nov. 3.—The Texas district of the civilian conservation corps established an enviable mortality record during the first enrollment period, which ended October 1, according to officers here.

With approximately 4,800 men enrolled in the 24 work camps of Texas, reports showed, there were only two deaths during the period, despite the fact one of the camps had an epidemic of typhoid fever which ended 29 cases to the Station hospital here.

One of the deaths was accidental, occurring when a youth dived into shallow water, and the other was from pneumonia.

Col. L. Brechemin, M. C. commander of the second medical regiment, is the district's medical officer. His assistant is Major J. D. Mingo, M. C.

Every effort, officers said, will be made to equal or better the record during the second enrollment period.

"Sleeping Sickness" Is Taking Mounting Death Toll Among Horses in Texas

By W. WINSTON COPELAND United Press Staff Correspondent

FORT WORTH, Nov. 3.—One of the most baffling diseases of veterinary science, a "sleeping sickness" among horses somewhat similar to that which afflicts human beings is taking a mounting death toll in Texas.

More than 2,500 horses have been afflicted in Texas in the past several weeks with more than 500 succumbing. The principal affected area is in the panhandle from Garza and Lynn counties north.

The disease is known technically as equine encephalomyelitis and resembles blind staggers, or botulism, in symptoms induced. It is highly perplexing to scientists, Dr. Lewis C. Crabb, veterinarian for the Texas Livestock Sanitary commission, told the United Press.

Dr. Crabb has spent several weeks in the affected area making a personal study of the disease.

Extreme care must be taken by persons handling diseased horses, since it is known that human beings are susceptible to the ailment, although no cases of human beings catching the malady from horses have been reported in Texas.

The disease first appeared in the United States in 1930 in the San Joaquin valley in California, gradually working eastward, Dr. Crabb said. It penetrated Nevada and New Mexico and entered west Texas, around El Paso and the New Mexico border, last year. It has appeared in many other states west of the Mississippi river.

The malady, believed spread by mosquitoes, is a cerebral and spinal affection. It attacks the spinal cord of the body that lethargic encephalitis, such as took many deaths in St. Louis, attacks in man.

The animal shows drowsiness and

POST OFFICE OPEN HOUSE AT 7 P. M. TODAY

The new quarters of the Cisco post office, beautiful government-owned structure just completed on a site at the intersection of E avenue and Sixth street, will be open to the inspection of the public between 7 and 9 tonight.

The office will be moved from its old quarters in the Spencer building on West Eighth street Saturday. Access to boxes at the present location will be allowed patrons until 6 p. m. Saturday after which all mail remaining undelivered will be transferred to the new structure.

Meantime Postmaster Craddock urges that those assigned boxes in the new building appear at a special window in that building between 9 a. m. and 5 p. m. where they will secure keys for their boxes. This is essential if patrons are to receive mail during Sunday when the office will be closed.

Tonight at the building the Lobo band will play a concert, provided there is no rain to endanger some of the band instruments, Director Colburn promised.

Patriotic airs will be among the numbers, he said. The post office personnel will be on hand this evening to show visitors through the beautiful new structure and explain its equipment and appointments. Although not all of the furniture has arrived, this fact will not mean that the excellence of the building and its equipment cannot be realized.

Last Services of Conference Year

The last services of the conference year will be held at the First Methodist church Sunday. Next week the Rev. O. O. Odom, pastor, and delegates of the church will go to the annual central Texas conference at Coahuila after which another year of work will begin.

The morning theme for the sermon of the pastor will be "Gathering up the Fragments". At the evening hour he has announced as his subject, "Patching the Old Garments".

These are to be "Every Member" services and the pastor is eager that all members of the church attend.

Eckener Reads Course in Sky

The sky tells its story of bright weather or brewing storm to the mariner of the sea. Its vast sweep is an open book to Commander Hugo Eckener. Reading what the weather gods write there, he steers the Graf Zeppelin to safety, year after year, across the Atlantic and back to its home port. He is pictured here on his recent voyage to the Chicago World's Fair.

RETURNED CLUB MEMBER TALKS FOR ROTARIANS

The Rotary club yesterday heard from the lips of a former member and ex-president, just returned to membership after a three-year interval due to loss of his former classification, an able and interesting exposition of Rotary principles as is required to be presented to the club at certain intervals.

J. B. Cate, city secretary, was the speaker. Mr. Cate held his former membership as a wholesaler grocer. He re-enters membership with a classification of city secretary.

Another former member was on the program presented by E. P. Crawford when F. E. Harrell, a member of the county RFC committee, gave the club statistics on the amount of money expended in the county by the relief organization and the number of persons given employment and other relief.

He urged club members to submit suggestions for projects upon which the committee may employ men at one profitably to the community and in relief to the jobless.

Supt. Cluck of the public schools discussed the outlook for the football game between the Cisco and Eastland teams this afternoon and asked that the club members and merchants take the game seriously, predicting that the Cisco team was facing a critical moment in the game.

Famous Att'y May Aid Murrell Defense

SAN ANTONIO, Nov. 3.—Lieut. John Murrell, outstanding player on the West Point 1930 football team, has been offered the assistance of an internationally famous lawyer by wealthy friends to assist in his defense of federal charges of having allegedly attacked Blanche Ralls, it was learned here today.

Identity of the attorney was kept secret, although it was learned he has figured in several of the most prominent criminal cases of the past decade.

DR. TYNDALL IS HERE TO TAKE COLLEGE POST

Dr. David F. Tyndall, president-director of Randolph college succeeding his brother, the late Dr. John W. Tyndall, arrived last night with Mrs. Tyndall and their daughter, Hortense, to assume his duties with the school and as pastor of the First Christian church.

The family will make their home in the parsonage apartment at the church, and Dr. Tyndall will preach at both the morning and evening services Sunday, the former at 10:45 a. m. and the latter at 7:30 p. m.

Dr. Tyndall relinquished the pastorate of the Second Christian church of Savannah, Ga., to take up the work that his brother laid down when an automobile accident near Altus, Oklahoma, the afternoon of Monday, September 4, cost his life. He had held that pastorate for eight successive years.

The new president accepted the place here on September 26 after his unanimous election by the board the preceding day. He left immediately for Savannah to prepare for his removal to Cisco a month later.

Inauguration ceremonies for the new president, who like his late brother, is a distinguished Bible scholar and an educator of experience will be held several weeks later, it was announced today.

CUBAN FLOODS CAUSE DEATHS OF 18 PERSONS

HAVANA, Cuba, Nov. 3.—Eighteen persons were killed in eastern Cuba by floods resulting from cyclonic winds and torrential rains, dispatches said today. The floods added to the chaos in the country where strikes have seriously endangered the sugar crop on which the nation's livelihood depends. In Havana the political situation remains static with the government of Provisional President San Martin apparently disintegrating rapidly and a crisis threatened over the week-end.

11 DEATHS CAUSED BY PHILIPPINE TYPHOON

MANILA, P. I., Nov. 3.—A tropical typhoon, described as of moderate intensity, left a trail of death and destruction today in five provinces of the Philippine Islands. Eleven persons were known dead and 20 were reported missing in the stricken districts. Only fragmentary reports of the danger were received here.

Wiggins' Boom Years Profits $18,000,000

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 3.—Senate stock market investigation records revealed today that a golden income in excess of $18,000,000 flowed in two boom years to Albert H. Wiggins, his personal corporation, and members of his family. This is an approximate figure for 1928 and 1929. Wiggins has revealed some of this income.

Man Who Put Bomb in Plane Is Known

CHICAGO, Nov. 3.—The identity of the man who placed the explosive in the United Airlines plane which crashed near Chesterton, Ind., killing several persons, is known, agents of the department of justice revealed today.

Agents said the man, a known gangster, will be arrested and charged with the murder of four passengers and three members of the crew. Identity of the gangster was not disclosed.

FAIR SHOWED PROFIT

GREEN BAY, Wis., Nov. 3.—Although the Brown county fair showed a profit of only $11.35 this year, officials are jubilant. In past years the fair lost money, but the black ink figures on the profit side of the ledger assure sponsors that the event will be held again next year. The fair cost $15,368.85, while receipts were $15,378.20.

Cisco and Eastland Meet at 3 o'Clock

Cisco and Eastland high school football teams were due to renew their annual gridiron rivalry, after a lapse of one year, in a cold drizzle at Chesley field this afternoon.

Two teams were spurred to the high pitch of rivalry for the contest that was due to start at 3 o'clock. Both were in good condition from previous encounters, able to place their complete strength on the field, barring of course, the players removed earlier in the season from the Cisco eleven by reason of injuries or ineligibility issues.

There was to be no reserved seat charge, general admission being priced at 50 and 25 cents.

Today's meeting marks the first between the teams since 1931 when the Lobos won by a single touchdown at Eastland. A comparison of the two elevens gives Cisco the edge but gives no assurance of an outcome. Eastland, having never won a victory over the Cisco high school football eleven, is primed to shatter tradition and Cisco, with everything depending upon the game, is equally primed to resume its perennial habit of winning over the Mavericks.

"SNIPERS" ARE CHALLENGED IN FARLEY SPEECH

RALEIGH, N. C., Nov. 3.—Postmaster-general James A. Farley challenged the "snipers" today to come to Washington and do a better job than President Roosevelt.

He denounced "petty criticism" of the administration, chided "so-called leaders who offered no program worthy of the name" and made this blanket invitation:

"If anyone thinks he has a better way of winning the battle against the depression, or some idea of a more effective or speedier formula, let him submit that idea to the man in the white house and there will be no doubt of its having an honest and sincere consideration."

Farley spoke under auspices of the North Carolina democratic leaders. His address was announced before-hand as being for North Carolina to vote wet at next Tuesday's election. Farley made that appeal and then devoted the rest of his time to a resume of the president's accomplishments.

$315,000,000 Loan Made to Railroads

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 3.—Thousands of jobs were in prospect today as the result of $315,000,000 public works loan to the railroads of the country. The Pennsylvania Railroad company was advanced $84,000,000 to complete electrification of its line between New York and Washington, and to purchase 7,000 new freight cars and 132 electric locomotives. Public works officials pointed out that the money loaned to railroads will be spent all over the country.

Fractured Vertebrae

Then came a fraternity initiation which laid him low. At first he thought in time the pains would go away. But they persisted, and finally he was forced to carry his aching body wrapped tightly in tape.

He continued in Texas A. & M. a while and then went to the University of Oklahoma several years, twice serving as president of Lambda Chi Alpha fraternity.

But the pains grew steadily worse. His doctors ordered him to bed. They found he had three fractured vertebrae.

The past seven years have been tormenting ones in which he fruitlessly chased the will-o'-the-wisp of health—years spent in Arizona and California and in eight or nine hospitals in four different states. For months he lay in plaster casts and braces. But from the hips down his wasted body was of little use. Only with difficulty and with help can he walk about his room. Only in bed do the pains cease their insistent complaints.

But now Knight's thoughts and efforts have taken a new and, he believes, a more wholesome direction.

"I've done better at this magazine business than I thought would be possible," he said.

"It gives me something to think about and something to do. Lying in bed, being unable to do anything of any kind, is a bad state of mind."

And the result of this new marshaling of thought and energy already is apparent in a fact that has lost much of its wanted pallor and in eyes that shine as they pore over figures in Knight's accounts book.

46 MEMBERS—37 VOTES

LOWELL, Mass., Nov. 3.—Although a mayoralty candidate in the recent primaries here had 40 members on his campaign committee in one precinct, he received only 37 votes.

GIRL CAMPUS COPS

NORTON, Mass., Nov. 3.—Twenty girl "Campus Cops", equipped with whistles and badges, enforce the "keep off the grass" rule at Wheaton college. Even faculty members have to obey them.

BLOW ON HEAD AND SHOT ARE JURY FINDINGS

SHREVEPORT, La., Nov. 3.—The Rev. E. L. Thompson, pastor of the Mount Auburn Christian church at Dallas, died of a fractured skull and from a bullet wound a coroner's jury verdict today revealed.

Two 19-year-old boys, identified in the verdict as Wayne Ross and Alto Keen, are charged with murder in connection with the slaying of the pastor.

Dr. Thompson's body was found in his parked automobile near Pleasant Hill, La., about 50 miles south of here last October 16. He had been missing four days.

"We found that said Dr. E. L. Thompson came to his death by being feloniously and violently struck on the head by some instrument and by being shot in the head on October 12, near Pleasant Hill, La., and that Wayne Ross and Alto Keen be charged with his murder," the formal verdict of the jury said.

Dr. Thompson, for ten years a militant and vice-crusading pastor of the Central Christian church, of Shreveport, was scheduled to go to trial in federal court here the day following discovery of his body, on charges of allegedly having sent obscene matter through the mail.

The coroner revealed an X-ray of the head disclosed the fracture. Witnesses were reported as having seen the two youths enter the pastor's automobile at noon Thursday, four days before his body was discovered.

The youths were arrested five days after the pastor's body was discovered. They are held at Many, La., near Pleasant Hill.

Mail Robbery Probe Renewed by Murder

CHICAGO, Nov. 3.—Four pistol shots fired at range, into the head of Harry Teuber, 32, led federal agents to renew their investigation today into the $225,000 mail robbery here last December.

The slaying of Teuber, as he sat having his nails manicured in a barber shop, was as much a mystery as was his possible connection with the robbery. The shots were fired from a door behind him. No one saw the gunman.

Second Sermon on Series Sunday A. M.

At the First Presbyterian church Sunday morning the pastor, Dr. J. Stuart Pearce, will preach the second sermon of his series on "The Second Coming of Christ." The first was preached last Sunday morning.

At the evening hour his subject will be "Over and Above in the Christian Life." The choir, which has been showing much improvement, will provide special music.

PINE LOGS BURIED

WEIDMAN, Mich., Nov. 3.—White pine logs buried 60 years ago in sand on the beach of a nearby lake were unearthed recently and found to be sound. They will be used for building material.

THE SWOPE PLAN.

Gerard Swope, president of the General Electric company, has a plan for centralized industrial self-government in the administration of codes of fair competition which its supporters claim will avoid government organization and governing of industry with its "paralyzing effects on initiative and progress."

However, there are several things in the path of Mr. Swope's plan. For the first thing the administration's drive for recovery is in the critical stage.

For another thing Labor is suspicious of Big Business domination of the recovery program. Labor is the other side of Big Business. It has found, or believes it has found, a champion in the government and the NRA.

And for another there is division in the industry itself. Each class cherishes autonomy. It does not wish to surrender to the jurisdiction of a composite board its individual government.

The recovery program is a question of balance. It must be a terrific task, requiring all the iron nerve of a seasoned army officer, to sit in Gen. Johnson's seat and attempt to bring all these conflicting elements into a harmonious relationship.

Demand for crude oil is greater than the supply as the result of the recovery campaign for cutting down the oil output, a report by Sec'y of Interior Ickes said last night.

OIL STOCKS DOWN.

Stocks of petroleum dropped last week three-quarters of a million barrels, an average daily decline of 103,000 barrels. The administration is entering upon an era of price-fixing for the industry.

Those who expected overnight magic in the oil industry under federal regulation are doomed to disappointment. Even price-fixing will bring no immediate resurgence of prosperity.

ANACACHIO RANCH, Zavala Co., Tex., Nov. 3 -- "Horses are coming back at a gallop."

Will Rogers is the authority for the prediction. He was speaking conversationally on the second-story plaza of R. W. Morrison's palatial ranch home.

"What we need," continued the humorist, "is more of this Lady Godiva stuff."

"Bicycle riding became very popular when women started riding in shorts," he added. "Now if fashion would only decree that women should ride horse-back in shorts what a comeback for horses that would be."

Rogers estimated that within two miles of his Santa Monica, Cal., home there were at least 600 horses trained for the bridle path or polo fields.

The galloping comeback of horses is not confined, however, to bridle paths and polo fields, Rogers declared. "The farmer has started driving Old Dobbin right down the row. Farmers have learned they don't have to buy parts for Old Dobbin every three years like they had to for tractors."

"They learned also they can't raise gasoline in the fields--except in East Texas, and there they can't raise anything else."

"Yes--horses are coming back at a gallop."

Making the Blue Eagle Feel Right at Home

Strong and Summers Stage Wrestling Match

By HUGH NUGENT FITZGERALD

Hatton W. Summers of Dallas has been a congressional representative 20 years. Sterling P. Strong of Dallas won an election as congressman-at-large in 1932. Summers is chairman of the house judiciary committee.

Joseph Weidon Bailey of Dallas was elected a congressman-at-large a year ago. He will not be a candidate against Summers. He may be a candidate for another office.

Bailey withdrew in order to give Summers a free field. Strong is not going to withdraw from public life. He has announced his honorable intention speaking of the future. He is going after Summers' scalp and congressional seat.

Sterling P. Strong was born in a northwest Texas county. He is a lifelong pro. He was a pro when the anti-ruler Texas roost. He filled a number of local offices. He battled for the white ribbon of the pros. Away back before the falling of the stars he was a candidate for state treasurer. He was defeated.

Away back in the days of Thomas M. Campbell's region he was the state superintendent of the Anti-Saloon league. In those days he was for precinct prohibition, county prohibition, state prohibition, national prohibition and worldwide prohibition. All the time Strong was a courageous fighter.

He moved from the northwest habitat, where he was born, to the city of Dallas. He was active in business life for many years.

In the battles of 1932 he threw his hat into the ring as a candidate at large. Cyclone Davis, for 50 years a top-notch in the pro and farm labor and later in the Klan fight on the side of the Klan, went down in defeat. Farmer George Terrell won the seat. Joseph Weidon Bailey led all the rest. He won a seat. Strong made a remarkable race. Pitied against him were two repeaters.

Now Dallas is a congressional district. Bailey is out of the running. Summers, like Barkis, is ever willing to serve. For 50 years, Dallas has been a bloody cockpit of political rows and political battles. Strong is a pro. Summers has ever been a pro. Dallas has a tremendous voting population. It is said there are more than 75,000 qualified voters in the city and county. Behind the scenes it is whispered that it will be a three-cornered fight for the congressional seat.

There is to be a bitter contest for the congressional seat which goes to the Alamo City. Another will be staged in the county of Harris, in the city named for Sam Houston on the banks of Buffalo bayou where the deep water ships of the seven seas dock at the piers and unload and load cargoes of precious freight for the markets of the world. There may be many new faces in the Texas congressional delegation of 21 after the primary contests have been settled in the midsummer months of the coming year. Just now the real battle is looking out to national recovery, the restoration of the purchasing power of the tillers of the soil and the wage workers in city and country. It is not a war fought by the sword, it is a war waged by the men and women in the households of the commonwealth who are making the sacrifices necessary and ever engaged in a heroic struggle to restore peace and happiness and a fair share of prosperity to the human atoms who dot the surface of the earth in this erstwhile southwestern garden of the Lord.

SPEAKING OF THE SALE OF BEER IN TEXAS

Comptroller George S. Sheppard has let it be known to the people that during September, the first period of beer legislation, the state census and $162,554 from sales tax. All this for licenses granted for three and a half months, or from Sept. 16 to Jan. 1. He predicted that when permits were taken out for the whole new year "the aggregate receipts from licenses alone will be near $700,000 if not more."

Since May of the year the income from the new cigar stamp act has been $892,127 from sales and $27,260 from dealers' permits, total of $1,009,387. It is significant that the new act raised the income by nearly $100,000 a month. He recommended additional legislation. Home brewers appear to have gone out of business in many Texas counties. Speaking of the real brand, the comptroller lets it be known that where the beer sellers pay the tax to the state he is powerless to stop them in dry counties for the reason that local prosecuting officers "are charged with the duty of filing complaints of violation of the dry laws."

Even the pro leaders of America concede that the 18th amendment would be relegated to the cemetery of dead things and dead hopes before the organization of the congress in its January session. Prohibition is not a dead issue. It will continue to bob up in coming years. Stat. control of the so-called "problem of the liquor traffic" appears to be coming in the 48 American commonwealths.

Through the Editor's Spectacles

By GEORGE

From the looks of the sky this morning, the weatherman yesterday made his usual mistake. Such brumous weather on a football day keeps me in a twitter of uncertainty. Now a muddy field may favor the home boys this afternoon by reason of a slightly superior weight, but I prefer a dry field with its opportunity for football as she should be played. However, even as this is being printed I can glance out the front of my cell to see the sun struggling mightily to get through the stifling clouds. Maybe, we shall have a fair day.

There is another prospect to look forward to in the event of a dry day. That is a concert by Prof. Col. Lum and his Lobo band at the new federal building tonight when the post office personnel headed by Postmaster Craddock will be hosts to such of the citizenry as are other interested or curious.

Rain is bad on drums and such instruments and these cannot be brought forth if a dizzle persists. If the evening is clear, however, the band will play several numbers, including, of course, patriotic airs befitting the occasion.

Whether or not the trick was done as a local ruse to instill a fighting spirit into the Mavericks, a smear of insulting paint across the steps of the Eastland high school yesterday very nearly incited a riot of indignation among the Maverick student body. "Milk them cows" was the colloquial but very effective slogan the red paint composed. So great was the heat of Eastland resentment that they held a pep rally in the rain and promised to give the Lobos unshirtd hell this afternoon, if you will excuse that very effective expression.

A foolish rumor has been making the rounds of the city to the effect that the Leary cut-off road will be built by a Brownwood man who will import labor for the job. The basis for the story is the fact that the state district highway engineer, who will supervise the work, has headquarters in Brownwood. Why a road-gatherer body out of nothing as it is branded about is due to a combination of imagination and irresponsibility.

The pardonable word used above could not vividly enough describe the situation that would ensue should outside labor be imported to do work that local unemployed need so badly. In the first place the state highway department would not do such a thing and in the second place, in Brownwood, the chamber of commerce and every other civic and private agency devoted to the interest and welfare of Cisco would rise up in a foaming indignation that would well-nigh cause the summary demise of an official foolish enough to attempt it.

The highway department has a policy of employing local workmen, entitled to the work by reason of residence and support of community enterprises in the area where work is done. In fact the department is rigid in its demands that contractors follow such a policy. It is ridiculous to suspicion that demanding such a policy of contractors, the department would violate that principle in work that it does with its own equipment and organization. Some skilled workmen will have to be brought here to do work that no body in Cisco can do, but these will be few and the majority probably already holding salaried positions with the highway department. Those who are entitled to work on the Leary road may rest in the assurance that labor on the road will be done by local men.

Texas Topics By RAYMOND BROOKS

AUSTIN, Nov. 3--The University of Texas has set out with such determination to get a federal public works loan for necessary building on the campus that it appears almost certain to succeed.

After the present progress, a serious strain will be placed in Texas confidence in the public works program. The university needs a main library building. It hasn't the money otherwise with which to build the library. It has secured a law

Forgotten Sweetheart

BEGIN HERE TODAY

JOAN WARING, pretty Memphis girl, and Barney Blake, New York millionaire, meet in Memphis and fall in love. They become estranged through the scheming of BARBARA COURTNEY, a popular society girl, who is trying to win Bob for herself. Joan goes to New York to search for Pat, her younger sister, who has run away with a man she loves. Barney is hired as a window sifter at the night club. Believing Bob is lost to her, she becomes engaged to BARNEY BLAKE, even though she loves him. Pat reappears and becomes Barney's secretary. It is not long before she is in Bob's home. Bob recognizes her voice and traces her to the apartment she and Pat share with their mother. The apartment is in the name of "Mrs. Barney Blake," and Bob tries to win her for herself. Joan tells Barney of her love for Bob and learns that he loves Pat.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXXII MORE than one driver cursed Bob Weston freely as he swung the gray roadster in and out of traffic. Miraculously, through some mechanical ability that had nothing whatever to do with conscious effort, Bob avoided each impending collision.

Now he knew that, despite doubts and disappointments, he had always set Joan apart from other women. Only to find that she was common clay after all, pitifully frail and human!

She was wearing a mask, exploited and glorified like some cheap, intricate show girl. There could be but one interpretation of Joan's presence in that luxurious apartment. She was living there as Mrs. Barney Blake.

Bob assured himself that he would put her out of his life now, utterly and completely. From now on he and Joan would go their separate ways.

But he could not forget the way she had responded to his kisses, the way she had whispered, "Do you love me, Bob?" What could it mean except that she was willing to cheat this other man who had taken her so far along her ambitious way?

Bob let himself into the great hall of his home and mounted the stairs. A light was burning in his father's room and the door was slightly ajar. "That you, Bob?" his father called.

"Yes, sir."

The older man was propped up in bed, pillows behind his back and a book in his hand. "Sorry I dashed away in such a hurry, Dad," Bob said. "It was rather hard on Barbara. I suppose you had a reason, though."

"I did. Or thought I did. Nothing in the world seemed quite so important."

swearing. The bitterness in his eyes was plain.

"Well, there's Barbara," his father said, his voice unusually gentle. He was thinking that he would have given a great deal to spare his tall, handsome son the pain of disillusionment. "She's a fine girl."

"Yes, Barbara's all right," Bob said without enthusiasm. After a moment he added, "It would please you if I married her, wouldn't it, Dad?"

"I'd like to see you happy and settled. Young people are like coils, Bob. Part breeding, part being put through their paces early. Barbara comes from a good family and she's had the right training."

"I suppose that counts," Bob said wearily. He added, "Well, you win, Dad. Just give me a little time, won't you?"

"Of course. I've been thinking I'd like a little trip somewhere. Perhaps a cruise to Havana. I was looking over the yacht yesterday and it's ready to sail on an hour's notice. How about coming with me?"

"Glad to! When can we leave?" "tomorrow afternoon. Does that suit you?"

"perfectly. And -- thanks, Dad."

His father was watching him keenly. "I didn't know this affair with Joan had gone so far," he said. "If I had, I might not have been so ready with advice."

"Don't worry," Bob told him. "I'll be all right!" He went on to his room, thinking indulgently how obvious had been his father's efforts to make things easier for him. Pretending he had planned this cruise for some time! Well, there was no way to get beyond parental devotion. And his father was one in a million.

After he was alone again Mr. Weston reached for the telephone beside his bed and called a number.

"FRIDAY morning came. It proved to be the strangest, most unaccountable day in all Joan's 20 years. And she was sure, being honest with herself, that it was to be one of the happiest days she had known, too."

She felt free. No more compulsion, no more doing this and that under the pricks of conscience. She had never been more light-hearted than she was as she packed the pretty clothes bought for herself into Pat's steamer trunk.

"Joan, you're sure you don't mind?" Pat demanded in one of her impetuous rushes across the room. "It was hard for Pat to realize what had happened, hard for her to believe that Joan actually didn't want to marry Barney. Just as Barney did not want to marry Joan."

Then there was the matter of persuading Mrs. Blake, who had heard the explanation in complete bewilderment, that this was not mere caprice or the result of misunderstanding. It was even harder to convince Barney's stepmother that, of all three young people, none were happier over the outcome than Joan.

"You see, Mrs. Blake, Joan loves another man," Pat explained. But this other man had little substance. He was almost a myth in the light of Mrs. Blake's un-authorizing issuance of well-secured bonds, the bonds to be given as security to the federal public works bureau.

Texas local officials feel the state is near the goal, or near the after-native of finding the public works program meaningless to the state. There has been some degree of complaining and expression of disappointment in the slowness with which the program gets started. There was lacking any knowledge of more than one or two projects and not more than one city project that had finally been acted upon at Washington.

Now the University of Texas has sent two able members of its board of regents, Chmn. Bauford Jester and Regent Charles I. Francis, to Washington to press the library loan application to a decisive finish.

These regents, whether they say it or not, could well tell the public works administration that failure to get some distinctive work grants in Texas soon, the university or some of the municipal grants and loans, will seriously undermine the faith of officials of public bodies in the meaning of the public works program, so far as Texas is concerned.

Other phases of government activity -- cotton plow-up, and crop loans, the relief program and the labor set-up, have shown decisive action. The government aid system of letting local communities create employment and put idle men to work, on projects to be paid for by the local agencies of government, has alone lagged in a way Texans have been unable to understand.

The federal government is experimenting in its peacetime laboratory at the University of Texas, and peace experiment station on Prof. J. E. Pearce's farm, with the creating of new peacetime varieties, free of the defects of known varieties. On the Peace farm cross-pollination of numerous varieties is being carried on.

One discovery not as to variety but as to handling, has been that beans must be cured in the shade rather than in the sun, for best results.

News Want Ads Bring Results.

Barney and Pat were married just before noon. They did not write her mother as soon as the steamer sailed, to write voluniously and explain everything. A wire would only have left Mrs. Waring confused and troubled.

They had luncheon at a flower-decked table in the corner of a hotel dining room. Those around them had only to look at Barney and Pat to know that this was a gala affair.

THERE were nearly two hours before sailing time and Barney suggested a drive. They passed the New York Yacht Club basin with its jumble of sea craft. Pat's gaze was caught by a group of young people about to board a private yacht. She called Barney's attention to the gay group and with her attention diverted, they all collided with a long black limousine, shooting past. There were two men in the back seat of the black car.

If they had stopped a moment they would have seen the men -- a tall, blond young fellow and a gray-haired man -- join the crowd boarding the yacht. But Joan was talking to Mrs. Blake and Pat's eyes were only for Barney.

A little later Joan and Mrs. Blake stood on the pier in the milling crowd. Everywhere there were happy, excited voices, the flurry of departure. Goodbys were being said, baggage carried aboard.

Barney and Pat stood at the rail of the big liner, looking down on Joan and Mrs. Blake. "Goody. We'll write," Barney promised.

"You know you won't!" Mrs. Blake chided, smiling. "Then we'll cable."

"Happy voyage!" called Joan. And then Barney was waving and the fluttering of Pat's handkerchief joined hundreds of others. Slowly the little tug boats eased the liner out into mid-stream. Slowly the liner turned, heading toward the sea.

"We'll be lonely," Mrs. Blake said. "We'll miss them," Joan replied, guiding Barney's car through the thick traffic. She was thinking that she wouldn't be lonely. Never again! Perhaps even now a telephone call from Bob was waiting for her at the apartment.

The afternoon newspapers would be sure to have a story about Pat's and Barney's marriage. Bob would see it. Anyway, by now he must have reasoned things out and realized that there was no cause for his foolish jealousy.

But no call was waiting for Joan when she arrived. She refused to allow that to depress her. She filled the afternoon with attempts at reading, wrote a long letter to her mother, and busied herself about the apartment.

When darkness came she went into the living room, bright with flowers. She turned on two of the shaded wall lights and they bathed the room in a mellow glow. She rearranged flowers in a tall silver vase. The room had an expectant, waiting air.

Punting Does Help

THE moral of that unexpected tie battle which Oregon State put up against Southern California seems to be: HAVE A GOOD PUNTER ON YOUR BALL CLUB.

Oregon State had a good punter against the Trojans in the person of Red Franklin, whose stock is being boosted now for an All-America berth.

Otherwise Outplayed IN every other department of the game (except forward pass interception) the Trojans outplayed the Orangemen!

Yards gained from scrimmage were 236 to 69 in favor of the Trojans. Another testimonial to the activity of Franklin is yielded by the statistics on forward passes, showing that Southern California completed only two out of 12 attempts, three being intercepted by Oregon State.

Bid For Fame IN Pacific coast All-America consideration this year, the names of several men who have been leading in scoring will figure largely. Howard Jones' leading scorers have been Howard, a quarterback, and Williams, a half. Right up there close is Sarver of the University

Modern Electric Cookery "Seals-In" Vital Health Elements of Foods

In contrast to old-fashioned methods of cookery, the modern Electric Range makes it possible to serve meals of surpassing healthfulness... as well as incomparable flavor.

And the reason is simple. With electricity foods are cooked in a minimum amount of water, or entirely in their own juices. The heat is concentrated directly on the bottom of the utensil... so the steam rises, condenses on the cool lid, and drops back into the vessel... to be used over and over. Thus, all vital food values remain "sealed-in"!

Don't Pour Food-Values Down the Sink! If you're using an old-fashioned method of cookery, the most valuable elements of your foods are going into the sink... with the water you pour off vegetables and meats!

For Health, for Convenience, and for Economy you should cook the modern electrical way. Prices and terms... right now... allow your purchase to fit into the family budget with ease. Ask for a demonstration of modern Electric Cookery today!

Call us for an individual investigation of your use of electric service, to determine the cost of cooking by electricity in your home. You may be surprised to know that there are many cases where electric cookery actually decreases the total of electric and gas bills.

MUSIC STUDY CLUB SPONSORS DINNER PARTY.

Entertaining last evening in the lovely home of Mrs. J. E. Spencer on West Eighth street, Mrs. W. W. Wallace, president of the Music club, Mrs. Spenser, Mrs. S. E. Hiltson, and Mrs. P. L. Ullom were members of a hostess committee of the club for an informal dinner and bridge party. The dinner was a demonstration dinner prepared and served by Mr. and Mrs. Wilson of the educational department of the Wear-Ever corporation. The Music Study club received proceeds from the affair. Appreciation of the club for the cooperation of the guests attending has been expressed by the club president, Mrs. Wallace. Following the dinner, Mr. Wilson delivered an interesting lecture on "Health". Later, the guests were invited into the spacious living room of the Spencer home, where five tables of players enjoyed games of bridge to a late hour departing with expressions of appreciation for the hospitality of the occasion. P. R. Warwick won the high score prize in the bridge games. S. E. Hiltson received the cut prize, and H. Brandon was presented the low score award.

TIME SAVED BY NEW METHOD IN SUBSTITUTIONS

AUSTIN, Nov. 3 — A time-saving method for the substitution of football players on the gridiron has been recommended to the Southwest conference and to the Texas Inter-collegiate league by Floyd G. Betts, superintendent of Wharton schools. Betts was a four-lettered man at Southwestern university, Georgetown. He has coached football at Temple and Highland Park, Dallas.

His plan goes to conference, and league officials with the benefit of a trial. It was tested in a recent game between St. Thomas of Houston and Wharton high school. Twice the complete line of one team was replaced in 15 seconds under Betts' plan.

Briefly, the plan requires that opposing teams be seated on benches on the same side of the gridiron with a scorer's table between them at the 50-yard line. Presiding at the table is the official scorer or a representative of each team acting as scorers. They work with an official form in triplicate and an official starting line-up certified by coaches of the two teams.

A substitute player goes to the table, gives his name and number and the name of the player he will replace. He enters the game according to the rules at a whistle from the scorer, reports to the referee and merely states, "Hi-lard for Jurecka." The referee, calls "Jurecka off" and football play resumes immediately.

COTTON STALK DESTRUCTION INSISTED UPON

Boll weevils are now abundant in the cotton fields. New growth of cotton furnishes the best feed for the weevils and favors successful hibernation, according to Dr. P. L. Thomas, chief of the division of entomology, Texas Agricultural Experiment station, who urges the earliest possible destruction of cotton stalks in order to reduce the number of weevils to go into hibernation.

"Destruction of cotton stalks early in the fall is one of the most important steps in boll weevil control," says the bureau of entomology, U. S. department of agriculture, which has been advocating this method for more than 25 years. "Cotton should be picked as rapidly as possible. As soon as picking is completed the stalks should be plowed under. In cases where it is impractical to plow under the stalks farmers will do well to turn cattle, sheep or goats into the field to graze. There are large areas where cotton is already almost if not completely picked out and hence there is an unusual opportunity now to clean up cotton fields as a weevil control measure. If the cotton stalks on these farms are destroyed promptly the weevil population for next spring will be greatly reduced. Community action will produce the best results but every farmer should destroy the stalks on his farm as early as possible whether his neighbor does or not. The individual farmer who destroys his cotton stalks early will benefit, because boll weevils do not move in large numbers until late in season, so that his fields will not be infested by many weevils until the 1934 crop is so far advanced that it is not likely to be injured.

"Early destruction of the stalks prevents the development late in the fall of a multitude of weevils. Plowing the stalks under or grazing destroys the immature stages of the weevils in square and bolls now infested and it stops the growth of squares in which weevils might develop later this season. This steps the development of weevils many of which would hibernate successfully, and this in turn, decreases the number of weevils which will emerge in the spring. The destruction of the stalks will also cause many weevils now in the adult stage to starve before cold weather arrives. Others will be in a weakened condition from lack of food and will not survive the hibernation period.

"Many experiments have shown that the earlier the cotton stalks are destroyed in the fall the fewer the boll weevils in the following spring."
