Abilene and Cisco Clash Means Title

By FRANK LANGSTON
Traditionally the big game of the season for the oil belt district. The Thanksgiving clash between Abilene's Eagles and Cisco's Big Dam Lobos has this year taken on the aspect of one of the outstanding games in the state.

Ranger's forfeiture of three games in which an ineligible man was played has erased the Bulldogs from the title picture and left the championship to be decided in the Turkey Day tilt. On paper Abilene has the edge over Cisco since even a tie will give the Eagles the district crown.

"The only reason you are here now is to close the record which Senator Howell gave his life to build and which that rat from Louisiana helped kill!" Eyes blazing with anger, Chief Investigator John G. H. Hand is pictured as he unloaded a tirade against Senators Logan and Thomas, members of the senate committee investigating Louisiana election scandals, at New Orleans, Huey Long, at a nearby table, was the third target of Hand's denunciation.

garet Anne Cogswell, "Brit" Pippen, and Roy Gallagher, attended the C. C. Reunion in Abilene Saturday.

The Badgerettes, the Randolph girls club, fully organized is setting out to accomplish much. The first meeting was held in the girls' dormitory, beautifully decorated with autumn leaves, Tuesday afternoon. However, officers had been elected previous to that meeting. Eloise Norred, is president; "Bitter" Cook, vice-president; "Punk" Pippen, secretary-treasurer; and Nina Cook, reporter.

The Thanksgiving program was a very interesting one. Marjory Lankster opened the program with a prayer, after which Faye Clark and Mattie Martin sang "Count Your My Blessings." The president then called on each of the 31 girls to tell for what she was most thankful. Bessie Pierce gave a very interesting talk on the subject of "Thanksgiving"; after which Iris Renfro gave a reading.

Miss Watts sponsor, discussed plans for December, which are to dress dolls and at Christmas time distribute them among the poor children.

This is going to be one of the peopliest organizations in the college—in fact, it is Randolph's pep squad. Yell leaders are Eloise Norred and Nita Cook. After much discussion, maroon jackets and white skirts, were selected as the uniform.

Charter members of the Badgerettes:

SHIPMENTS OF LIVESTOCK UP IN OCTOBER

AUSTIN, Nov. 25.—Shipments of livestock to Fort Worth and interstate markets during October amounted to 4,755 cars, an increase of 4.22 per cent, over October, 1932, an increase of nearly 13 per cent, according to the University of Texas bureau of business research.

Carload shipments of the different classes of livestock in October of the current year and those of the same month last year were as follows: Cattle 2,030 and 2,132; calves 1,146 and 1,197; hogs 247 and 234; sheep 1,332 and 663. It will be noted that shipments of sheep were twice those of October last year while those of the other classes were practically the same.

Total shipments to Fort Worth and interstate points of all classes of livestock for the year through October were 45,096 cars, against 40,859 cars during the corresponding period last year, an increase of 11 per cent. Cattle shipments for the period were practically the same as during last year, 25,802 and 25,834 cars respectively; calves 6,869; hogs

6,390 and 2,789; sheep 6,445 and 6,367. For the year to date comparatively small changes have been made in shipments of cattle, calves and sheep, but hog shipments have more than doubled.

Big Increases "The Edwards plateau district stands out as the region from which the big increases in livestock shipments were made," the bureau's report said. "Cattle shipments from this district were three times those of October, 1932, calf shipments were more than 50 per cent greater and shipments of sheep 76 per cent greater. On the other hand, shipments from the northern half of the Panhandle fell off sharply from those of October, 1932. The remaining eight districts into which the state is divided showed relatively little change in the total number shipped although there was considerable variation in shipments of the different classes.

Fort Worth received considerably larger numbers of all classes of Texas livestock than in October last year. Los Angeles receipts of Texas hogs and sheep fell off sharply and only calves showed any increase in this market. Changes in market destination were especially marked with respect to the increases in numbers of sheep to Colorado, California, Illinois, Nebraska, Missouri, Iowa, New Mexico, and Arizona and to the Kansas City and St. Joseph markets."

Did You Ever Stop to Think?

By EDSON E. WAITE Shawnee, Oklahoma.

It is said that the printer's devil you have so often heard about is really quite a person after all. His is an ancient title and although he is described as the "youngest apprentice in a printing shop" and is a printer's errand boy, there is more behind his title than just that.

One of the most famous of the early printers was Aldo Manuzio, who flourished in Venice during the fifteenth century. He employed a negro slave in his office and many of his customers believed the boy to be an imp of Satan. This proved to be bad for trade so Manuzio decided to use the boy to advertise his business. He paraded the boy through the streets and had the public crier announce, "I Aldo Manuzio, printer for the Holy Church and the Doge, have this day made public exposure of the printer's devil. All who think he is not flesh and blood may come and pinch him."

Business picked up after that, which just goes to show that advertising paid. Today things have changed. Newspaper advertising has taken the place of the old methods. It is the whip and spur for all business.

CHAPTER 14 OF THIS STORY WILL BE FOUND ON PAGE TWO The UNKNOWN BLOND By Laura Lou BROOKMAN "Who killed TRACY KING, orchestra leader found dead in his apartment?" DAVID BANNISTER, author of "The Unknown Blond," is searching for an "unknown blond" who visited King shortly before his death. Bannister has seen this girl, but she has disappeared. HERMAN SCURLEACH, who wrote King a threatening letter, is in jail. He denies his innocence. Bannister works on the case with J. RANDOLPH GAINES, star reporter of the Post. In the dead man's apartment Bannister picks up an old-fashioned wedding picture which he sends to friends of King's, who tell them the orchestra leader had been having trouble with JOE PARROT, his former vaudeville partner. DRUGS AND DEATH GAINES and BANNISTER go to see DENISE LANG, King's fiancée. NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XV THE two men followed the maid across a hall into the huge living room. And then they saw Denise Lang. She was sitting on a small sofa at one side of the fireplace. A fire glowed on the hearth, crackling and snapping cheerfully. The girl saw them, rose and came forward. Bannister would have recognized her from her photographs but he was not prepared to find her so very attractive. She was more than that. Denise Lang was beautiful. She was taller than he had expected slender and she moved gracefully. Her frock was of black velvet, a dress of complete simplicity except for a bit of white at the throat. Her hair lay in gleaming ringlets—an elaborate coiffure that must have been arranged by a skillful hairdresser. The ringlets caught the light as she moved, turning to shimmering gold. "How do you do," Denise Lang said. "You wanted to see me?" Her voice was low-pitched, with a quality of vibrance. Bannister saw that she was quite pale and that the rouged lips formed the words rather slowly. It had been Gainey who had taken command in talking with Druzan but now it was Bannister who stepped forward. "Yes, Miss Lang," he said. "My name is Bannister and this is Mr. Gainey. We're with the Evening Post. The Post is co-operating in every way possible with the police, trying to learn more about the horrible crime that took place last night." The girl's lips tightened. "Have they—" she began hesitantly. "Do they know—" "They're working on several lines of investigation," Bannister told her. "Some of them are quite promising. There's nothing yet though. Their definite enough to pin the guilt on anyone. I suppose you've talked with the detectives?" "There were two men here this morning," Denise Lang said. The light of interest had gone from her eyes. "Won't you sit down?" The men found chairs. Denise returned to her sofa and sat, facing them. "We came to see you," Bannister went on, "thinking you might be of help. As Mr. King's fiancée—" "I know," Bannister said. "I know Miss Lang. All I was trying to get at is whether or not he had ever spoken of any other girl, ever even dropped a hint—" "Never!" she insisted. "If a girl went to see him last night, I don't know anything about her. I don't even want to know—" THE shrill peal of the doorbell interrupted. They saw the maid hurrying to answer the bell and all three sat in silence. They heard the outer door opening and closing and a moment later a man appeared. "Denise—" He was a young man. He stood in the doorway, the single word dying on his lips as he saw Gainey and Bannister. "Come in, Park," Denise Lang said. "These men are from the Post. They're with the Evening Post. This is Parker Coleman." Bannister and Gainey introduced themselves. Parker Coleman was, of course, one of the Colemans whose name figured prominently in Tremont society columns. Bannister remembered seeing him years before, only a boy then. He had grown into a tall, broad shouldered young man with friendly brown eyes and a well cut chin. Coleman greeted the other men easily. He crossed the room to the fireplace and held out his hands to the blaze. "Getting cold out from the west," he said. "It's a bit though he knew perfectly well that none of them were interested but he was trying to ease an uncomfortable situation. Bannister nodded. "Yes," he agreed, then plunged directly into the subject at issue. "We've been asking Miss Lang a few questions." Coleman dropped to the sofa beside the girl. "About— what happened last night?" The question was addressed to Bannister but Coleman's eyes were on Denise Lang's face. "Do you think," he went on, speaking to the girl and without waiting for an answer, "that you feel well enough for all this? Don't you think it would be better to wait—" She brushed aside his scruples. "I'm all right," Denise said. "I want to know what the police are doing. I want to know what they're found out." HER eyes appealed to Bannister. He hesitated, then said, "Well, as I told you, the detectives are working on several lines. There's a new one that came up this afternoon." He told them then about Joe Parrott—not the whole story as Al Druzan had related it, but the essential facts. As he talked it occurred to Bannister as curious indeed that a girl like Denise Lang could be associated with anyone who was a friend of Al Druzan. Druzan had called Tracy King "the best pal a fellow ever had" and indicated that their friendship was of long standing. But Druzan and this girl with the golden curls did not speak the same language. They lived in different worlds. How had Tracy King climbed from the life Druzan had described to Denise Lang's exclusive circle? "For at least the dozenth time Bannister thought, "If only I'd seen King just once while he was alive!" He hadn't seen him and there was nothing to be done about it. Coleman and Gainey were talking now, Coleman asking questions. Bannister noticed that Denise Lang did not ask questions, though she listened intently. Without knowing quite why he did it, Bannister leaned forward again. "Miss Lang," he asked, "when did you first hear about—" "My father told me," she said. "Someone telephoned. It was about midnight, I suppose. Father came to my room and told me—" The words broke off, but Bannister went on relentlessly. "Had you been at home all evening?" "Yes," she said. "The others had stopped talking, were listening. I seldom saw Tracy in the evening. He had to be at the theater. Mr. Coleman was here for a little while. We're— very old friends and he'd been out of town. He left early, though I don't know just what time it was." "Almost 9:30," Coleman interrupted. "I glanced at my watch when I got into my car. I drove to the club and sat around there for an hour or so. Then I went home. I didn't know what had happened until I saw the morning paper—" There had been no sound, but involuntarily all four of them looked up. Standing in the open doorway at the side of the room was a slender man with gray hair. His eyes, dark like Denise Lang's, glowed with anger. "What," the man demanded as he stepped forward, "is the meaning of this?" (To Be Continued.)

Sunday Services at The Churches

HOLY ROSARY CHURCH
This is the last Sunday after Pentecost and the epistle read is taken from the Epistle to the Colossians 1:9-14; and the gospel is from St. Matthew's XIV.15-35. Thursday is Thanksgiving day and all of us should say some special prayers on that day to the good God for His kindness and mercy. He has produced more than enough of food for all, but avaricious men and women keep more than they need and leave their fellow men and women go hungry or starve. The bad times are not due to God but to man; and all honest citizens with a just and patriotic pride should see and insist that no human being is hungry and without shelter this winter. Mass will be at 8 a. m. today.

GRACE LUTHERAN CHURCH

GOLD POLICY STIRS GHOST TOWNS OF '49

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 24.—The roaring days of '49 are coming back to California—but minus much of their color—with the Roosevelt administration's views on the nation's latest gold policy.

In those hectic, feverish days, all trails led to California. The bonanza metal was there and they came from all directions in the quest for it. Each passing year, however, saw more and more gold taken until finally the soil was thought to be panned out. The diggers gradually were abandoned. Only the ghosts of '49 remained.

About a hundred miles northeast of San Francisco is a region that held many of these old "diggins." But it is no longer deserted.

The "Ghosts of '49" have come to life. The hills again are filled with prospectors. The banks of the rivers are lined with miners panning and sluicing.

The revived regions are visited weekly by pleasure seekers and tourists.

Steamboats leave every Friday over the same up-river route to Sacramento that thousands of miners traveled in '49.

After leaving Sacramento the trail follows the Pony Express route to Folsom. In the early days Folsom was known as "Negro Bar" and famous for a river bar about a mile long that was rich in gold.

Coloma is the next stop. Here there is a monument to James A. Marshall who discovered gold on a sawmill site in 1847.

Less than eight miles away is Placerville. Then there is El Dorado and Plymouth.

These and many other sites again are being "worked" for their gold content. Thus are thousands of California's jobless finding ways to eke out a living and perhaps make a rich strike.

Warner Urges Point a Down Score System

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 24.—Glen S. (Pop) Warner, head coach at Temple university, suggests that the football rules be changed to provide that one point be given for each first down made.

"Instead of giving only a lousy cheer for each first down which a team gains, why not give them a point?" Warner said.

"This would naturally give the better team a chance to score against the lucky breaks of an inferior team. Also, it would tend to decrease the number of punting duels, and increase the number of running plays during a game."

"Under the present system," Warner explained, "a team usually punts when it is deep in its own territory. If a point were given for each first down, then that same team would attempt to gain points by slowly working the ball out of danger."

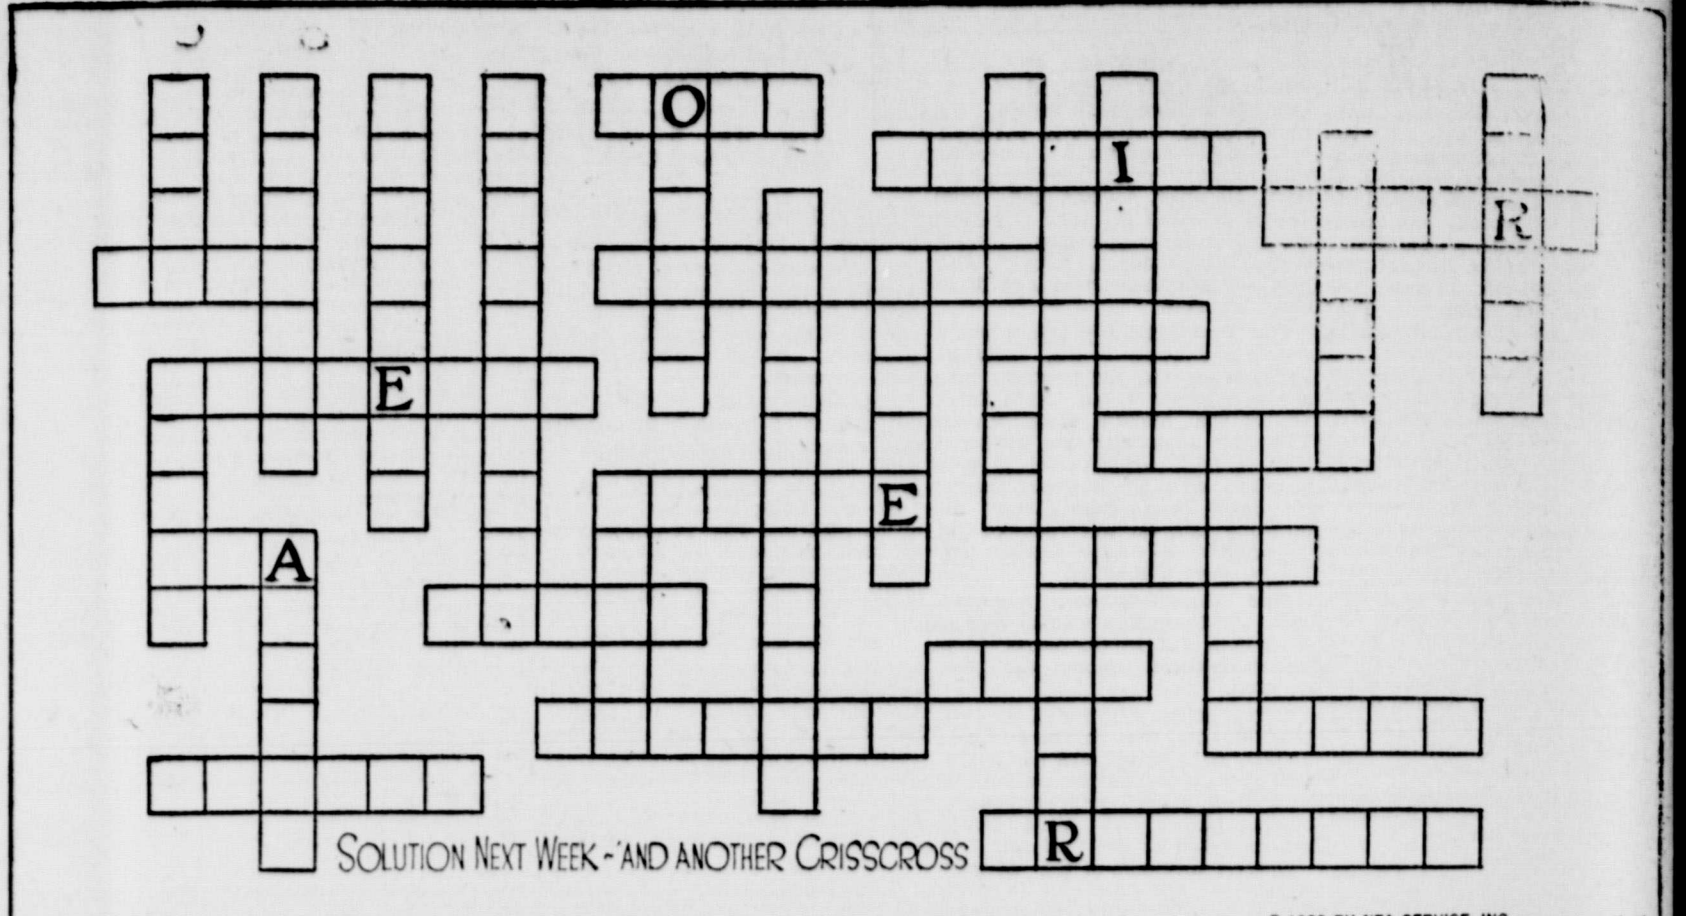

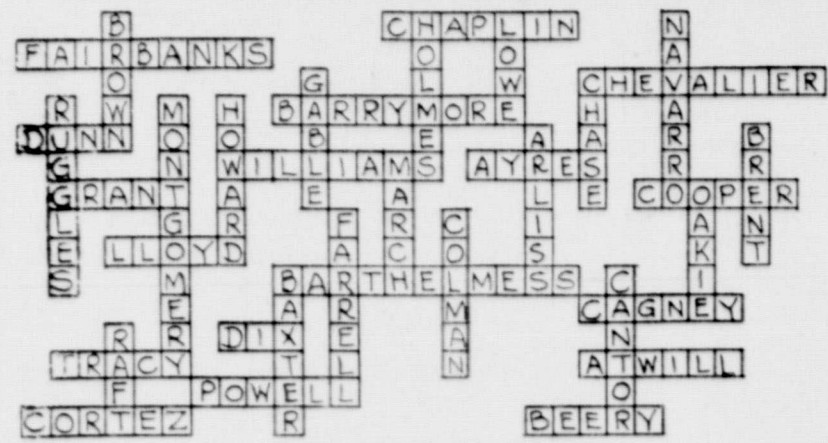

"If we allow points for first downs, we soon will witness the dying out of the games, because a team can, with that last desperate effort, make a first down and in that way win the game."

"Also, it will tend to stop these freak results. A very inferior team may, through a break, score a touchdown and get six points, while their opponents will not be able to work the ball across, even though they may have many more first downs."

Flays Idle Rich Before King

"Lazy, idle parasites," shouted John McGovern, above, fiery laborite, as King George V finished a state speech before the British parliament. Then McGovern continued with a scathing denunciation of the treatment of the poor as the king and queen gazed straight ahead and members of the houses of lords and commons sat in stunned silence.

schools have been bitter rivals and their annual Thanksgiving game is looked forward to eagerly, whether either school is still in the running or not. Won Championship. Back in 1923 the Eagles won the state championship by kicking a field goal to defeat Waco, 3 to 0. That year the late Ed "Chigger" Brown of Cisco was the only man in the state to cross the Abilene goal. Abilene defeated Cisco by a 19 to 7 score. In 1924 Brown again made a touchdown against the favored Eagles, to stop them by a 6 to 3 score and send the Lobos out of the district for the first time. They reached the semifinals that year, only to lose to Oak Cliff of Dallas. In 1925 the Breckenridge Bucks did the Lobos a favor and stopped Abilene with a field goal. Since the district championship was decided on an elimination basis that year, the Lobos won the title without playing the Eagles. They again reached the semifinals of the state race and lost to Forest Avenue of Dallas by a 7 to 0 count in the second game between the two teams. Lean Years. Then followed the lean years when the Lobos appeared to rise to great heights, only to have some other team trip them up before they could get out of the district. Other teams have won the oil belt title and gone on to state honors—Breck-enridge, Ranger and Abilene—but always it has been the Eagles that the Lobos regard as their greatest foe. This year the dope is conflicting, but the general opinion is that the oil belt is comparatively weak. Even so, however, the whole state will stop to watch the fur and feathers fly when the Lobos and the Eagles tangle in the title game on Thanksgiving.

Here's Simplified Cooking. Actually, cooking consists of only three fundamental operations: preparing the foods... putting them in the oven... and placing the meal on the table. But so many more are required by old-fashioned methods! So much pecking, tasting and testing is necessary! So much time is wasted on these unnecessary, tiresome tasks! With a modern Electric Range, cooking is reduced to its three fundamentals. You merely prepare your meal, place it in the oven, set the Time and Heat Controls, and forget the actual cooking! All the work is done automatically... requiring none of your time or attention—and leaving you free to enjoy happy leisure hours! ...And this Freedom is only one advantage of modern Electric Cookery! Foods look better, taste better and are more healthful. In fact, there are so many advantages you'll wonder how you managed with old-fashioned, inefficient methods! Call us for an individual investigation of your use of electric services, to determine the cost of cooking by electricity in your home. You may be surprised to know that there are many cases where electric cookery actually decreases the total of electric and gas bills. West Texas Utilities Company

MRS. TURNER HOSTESS TO "42" CLUBS

Mrs. Neal Turner was hostess at a delightful forty-two party on Friday afternoon, entertaining for members of the Thursday forty-two club in the home of Mrs. Joe Wilson on West Eighth street. Fall flowers, featuring chrysanthemums, were used in abundance to decorate the entertaining suite. Mrs. T. J. Dean won the high score in the games. At tea time, the hostess served a delicious salad and sweet course, with chicken salad, sardines, coffee, and individual pumpkins pies topped with whipped cream and nuts. Small clusters of chrysanthemum buds made attractive favors for guests.

Those present were Mesdames W.

W. Moore, G. B. Kelly, J. J. Butts, P. P. Shepard, Wm. Reagan, T. J. Dean, J. T. Berry, Chas. Hale, J. S. Pearce, Geo. Fee, J. C. Donica, W. H. LaRoque, A. J. Olson, J. B. Cate, J. L. Shepherd, A. J. Ward, J. T. Anderson, Lee Owen, J. E. Spencer, Joe Wilson, and the hostess, Mrs. Turner.

MRS. THOMPSON ENTERTAINS FOR CLUB

A Thanksgiving theme was prettily employed in party appointments on Friday afternoon, when Mrs. W. P. Thompson entertained for members of the Cresset bridge club in her home. Chrysanthemums and other fall flowers were predominant in floral decorations for the rooms of the home. Five games of contract bridge were played in which Mrs. J. B. Pratt won the high score, and Mrs. K. N. Greer received the award for high cut. The hostess served a delectable salad course, with pumpkin pie topped with whipped cream, and minis at the close of the games. The Thanksgiving idea was cleverly emphasized in the attractive nut cups which were favors for guests.

Members and guests present were Mesdames Vance Littleton, K. N. Greer, D. Ball, L. C. Moore, J. B. Pratt, H. L. Dyer, A. L. Foster, Oran Shackelford, L. A. Warren, W. C. Miles, Rex W. Moore, and Hubert Seale.

WEDNESDAY STUDY CLUB HAS MEETING

The Wednesday Study club met in regular session this week at the Women's clubhouse on West Seventh street. Mrs. Dexter Shelley was leader of the program on "China," and Mrs. W. R. Smith was hostess for the afternoon. Mrs. T. F. O'Brien, Miss Ella Andrews, Mrs. Allen Wood, and Mrs. Jack Cabaness had parts on the program. Mrs. Graham Connally was welcomed as a new member.

Among those attending were Mrs. W. R. Smith, Miss Ora Bess Moore, Mrs. James Moore, Miss Blanch Van Horn, Mrs. R. N. Clark, Mrs. Paul Woods, Mrs. Leon Maner, Mrs. Allen Wood, Miss Elizabeth Daniels, Mrs. Dexter Shelley.

Members of Grove 356, who were present for the afternoon, commended the Juniors on their work in securing new members, and on the interest and enthusiasm which is being shown. The meeting adjourned in form.

LOYALTY CLUB HAS SESSION

The Loyalty club of Cisco Grove 356 met in a special session on Friday afternoon. The meeting was held to take the place of the next held next Wednesday. Work for the month of November was completed at this session.

At the refreshment hour, hot coffee and sandwiches were served to Mesdames Maud Wisdom, Katie Cooper, Iva Harper, Ida Mae Tune, H. C. Wippert, E. S. Bond, J. B. Blitch, and L. M. Lutz.

THANK OFFERING PARTY AT PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

Ten orphan boys and girls, from the Southwestern Presbyterian Home and School located near Itasca, accompanied by two nannies, were present for the annual Thank Offering party held Friday evening in the parlors of the First Presbyterian church. Of an estimated attendance of 115 people, which included members of the church and Sunday school and their friends, about half of the number were children and young people, it was reported. A party of the evening's program was given by local people as follows: violin solos by S. E. Hittson, accompanied by his wife, Mrs. Hittson; Marcelle Robbins and Imogene Curry, pupils of Mrs. Ben Krauskopf, each gave violin selections; piano solo, Brenda Louise Warwick; reading on Thanksgiving by Gloria Henson, and piano solo by Alice Louise Slicker.

Mrs. J. E. Watts, executive secretary of the Southwestern Presbyterian Home, introduced the children from the school, as well as Miss Tulloch a teacher who was accompanying them. A cleverly written play, which had been composed by members of the school faculty and others at the home, was presented by the children. Life as it is in the Home was depicted in the play. Musical selections, with songs and piano selections, were given by various members of the group. At the close of the program, a free will offering was taken to be sent to the Home. It has been announced that an offering for this same purpose will be taken at Sunday morning's service at the Presbyterian church.

The evening's entertainment was concluded with games and contests. Delicious refreshments were served.

The group of orphan boys and girls and their escorts were guests in various Cisco homes Friday night and part of Saturday. They left Saturday shortly after noon for Mineral Wells, where they will appear in the same program which was presented here. Among the Home was a boy who is a protege of the local Presbyterian Women's auxiliary.

MRS. TOMLINSON HONORED AT SHOWER

Mrs. G. M. Meglasson entertained at her home with a miscellaneous shower, honoring her daughter, Mrs. C. G. Tomlinson, who, until her recent marriage, was Miss Viola Meglasson. The shower gifts were placed in a basket in a rear bedroom of the home, and the bride followed a thread wound on various objects throughout four rooms before reaching her presents. After the gifts were found, they were opened by the bride. Refreshments of hot chocolate, coconut cake and chocolate cake were served.

Gifts were presented to the bridal couple by the following: Mesdames Reynolds, Richard Bearman, Thomas H. Lee, Nona Wadley, J. E. Tomlinson, F. B. Blackburn, Bill Arrington, and H. D. Tomlinson; Misses Audrey Fay Cummins, Dorothea Kramer, Fae Farmer Alyce Hazel, Flossie Pearl Ayers, Ethel Scott, Gladys Tomlinson, Catherine Meglasson, Ruth Meglasson, and Crystal Reynolds; Messrs. George and Wilson Meglasson, and Eldred Dec Arrington.
