Westbrook May Become Executive Assistant of Hopkins

TRANSFER TO WASHINGTON IN PROSPECT

FORT WORTH, Jan. 17 — Col. Lawrence Westbrook, Texas relief administrator may go to Washington as an executive assistant to Harry Hopkins, federal emergency relief administrator, a special dispatch from Washington, D. C., said today.

"For some months, particularly since CWA has been in operation," the dispatch said, "Westbrook has been under fire in many sections of the state. But throughout all his tribulations, he has had the steadfast backing of Administrator Hopkins and his staff.

Westbrook's problems have been listed in no small part, it is said, by Washington, by the clash of political factions about him. But the Washington office regards him as either an ally of the Ferguson administration nor any other clique.

According to Washington reports, the dispatch said, Westbrook wants to resign but Hopkins does not want to quit "at least until he finds a successor or some capable man who has no political affiliations one way or another."

"If such a man is found, and Westbrook still wants to quit, he will be permitted to do so and will be sent to Washington as one of administrator Hopkins' executive assistants the article said.

Scranton Farmer Gets Second Wildcat

R. C. Harlow, of near Scranton, reported to the Daily News today that he caught another large wildcat on his farm Sunday. The animal, a male, measured four feet and six inches, somewhat smaller than a large specimen he captured three weeks earlier. The animal measured four feet eight and a half inches.

The latest catch, he said, was a big one, evidently a last year's cub. It was taken in a steel trap, but put up quite a scrap, said Harlow, after he had trailed it down. It dragged the trap for a considerable distance.

Farmers in the Scranton area, Mr. Harlow, are not needing much at this time. The ground beneath today's rain, had about the same season for plowing, he said.

Most of the farmers, he said, are in fair condition, economically speaking, and much better off than they were two years ago. The new program of national relief has had a good effect upon the rural areas. Although none of them have any money to speak of, said about half of the farmers are plenty to eat and enough to buy the prospect of going through the crop season in good condition. Most of the farmers are optimistic, he said.

WHAT THE 50-CENT DOLLAR MEANS TO US COMMON FOLK

By JOHN R. BEAL
United Press Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, Jan. 17.—"What I want to know," said a stranger entering an office on 42nd street today, "is what's going to happen to the $500 I have in the bank?"

An economist in the offices of the committee for the nation said: "You've heard of me. I'm the man in the street. I've got a brother who is a milkman in Omaha. My uncle raises wheat in Minnesota and my second cousin raises cotton in Texas."

"Ah, yes," the economist replied. "Now what brought this up?"

"Well, I see President Roosevelt wants power to make the dollar worth between 50 and 60 cents of its former gold value. I'm not interested in this $2,000,000,000 equalization fund, but I've got $500 in the bank and I want to know what's going to happen to it."

A Fair Question

"A fair question. But first you must tell us when you obtained this $500."

"I saved it out of my earnings before 1930. I lost my steady job as a garage mechanic then and since that time I've had enough in odd jobs to pay my expenses without saving or drawing on my savings."

"Admirable. Now, sir, you probably realize that your money was only a measuring stick for the amount of commodities you could buy."

"While you were out of work your measuring stick—the gold value of your money—increased until this year you could have bought approximately twice that amount of commodities. Your money was worth $1,000 in purchasing power compared to its value when you put it away."

"If the president fixes the gold value of the dollar at 50 cents of the former value, your $500 will be worth only $500 again in purchasing power."

No Less Than Before

"Now you may say you don't like the idea. You'd like to hang onto that additional $500. But at the same time you agree you have no less than you had before—and how about your uncle and your cousin?"

"In 1926 your uncle raised 1,000 bushels of wheat, paid his debts with 500 bushels, and could have exchanged the other 500 bushels for clothes, a radio, or a new car."

"Now while your $500 was increasing in purchasing power, your uncle's wheat was bringing less and less in dollars. Things finally came to the point where your uncle got only $500 for his 1,000 bushels of wheat and he didn't have enough money left to buy a pair of denim overalls. And your second cousin in Texas, in similar situation, couldn't buy food."

"If you were to be convinced that by restoring the former purchasing power of the dollar your uncle could again buy your second cousin's cotton in the form of denim overalls, and your cousin could buy bread made from your uncle's wheat, maybe you would be willing to see your $1,000 purchasing power reduced to $500 again."

Relief Comm'n Asks New Bond Offering

AUSTIN, Jan. 17 — Sale of the additional of the $2,750,000 state relief bond, authorized by the legislature, immediately after marketing all of the first $2,750,000 issue was asked by the state relief commission in a communication today to the state bond sale commission.

The new bonds will not be offered until after January 22, when offers are to be received on a small amount of the unsold bonds of the first issue.

The commission, after a vote of confidence for Director Lawrence Westbrook, adopted a rule that any one on the payroll of the relief administration who becomes a candidate for office or actively engages in politics as campaign manager shall resign.

Emergency relief allotments for 90 counties also were authorized, the amounts to be determined by Westbrook. Among the counties to share in the emergency allotments are Johnson and Palo Pinto.

Arrangements Made For Brunk's Show

Fred Brunk was in Cisco today making final arrangements for the appearance of his company here next week. The tent will be located at the west end of the viaduct on Eighth street, just to the rear of the Manhattan cafe, he said.

Thirty-two people are carried with the company, including a band and a nine-piece orchestra. They are showing under the auspices of the fire department.

Cisco Firm Granted Charter at Austin

AUSTIN, Jan. 17.—The Secretary of State today granted a charter to Lee and Company of Cisco, with a capital stock of $3,000.

The firm for which the above charter was obtained was established as the Lee Motor Supply company by Dudley Lee, one of the incorporators, and associates. It is located on D avenue.

Way Cleared For Revaluation Bill

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 17.—The way was cleared for quick house committee action on the administration's dollar revaluation bill today when Chairman Steagall of the banking and currency committee decided not to appeal Speaker Rainey's decision to refer the measure to the coinage committee.

FARLEY TRIP IS SCHEDULED FOR INQUIRY

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 17 — The air transportation of Postmaster-general James A. Farley and his party of high government officials on a junket to Texas in October is scheduled for inquiry before the Black senate committee on airmail subsidies, according to reports here today.

It is reported that republican members of the committee are planning to offer testimony indicating that airmail operators holding government contracts have offered federal executive planes free of charge for personal use.

An American Airways plane, they are reported to have said, was placed at the disposal of Farley, when he, with three of his assistants and other department officials, flew to Fort Worth October 18.

START MOVE TO CHECK POWER OF SECRETARY

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 17 — A move was started in congress today to place a check upon the sweeping powers that would be given the secretary of treasury under the $2,000,000,000 stabilization fund proposal of the new Roosevelt gold program.

It was learned that support was gathering to a proposal advanced within the senate bank's and currency committee that the secretary be made accountable to congress for his stabilization operations.

"The bill as considered yesterday by the committee, states that the secretary's decisions shall be final and not subject to review by any other officer of the United States. The faction desiring a change will strive to have this amended to read not subject to review by any administrative officer, thereby leaving the way open to a review by the legislative branch of the government."

HINT SUICIDE IN TRIAL OF DR. WYNEKOOP

CHICAGO, Jan. 17 — Attorneys for Dr. Alice Wynekoop hinted in cross-examination today that Rheta Wynekoop might have died by her own hand.

Examining two police witnesses called by the state, Defense Counsel W. W. Smith and Milton Smith inquired minutely into the exact position of the slain girl's body on the operating table in the basement of the Wynekoop home.

The operating table upon which Rheta's body lay was placed before the jury. The pillow on which the girl's head rested was placed in the position it was seen on the fatal night of November 21, and by the answers of officers the scene was etched in the minds of listeners.

Near Dr. Wynekoop today sat the Rev. John Henry Hopkins. A high Episcopal church minister and long-time friend of Dr. Wynekoop, he told reporters he carried the religious oils for administration of the rites of the church. He said he was advised by Dr. Wynekoop's physicians she might be stricken by a fatal heart attack at any moment.

Two Ancient Hats Are Resurrected

STEPHENVILLE, Jan. 17 — Two hats of ancient vintage have been resurrected by D. O. Jones of Alexander, a small town in Erath county.

One is a millinery creation that is strongly reminiscent of the Victorian age and might have looked good on Nellie—the one who had the bird on her hat. It was bought at Rusk 58 years ago and cost $4.50.

The other hat is a brown derby, one that would look good on either Steve Brodie or Al Smith. It was bought in Dublin, Texas, 43 years ago. The headgear is in good condition.

BIRTHDAY BALL TO BE HELD AT COUNTRY CLUB

The Cisco Birthday Ball for the President to be held on January 30, the 52nd birthday of President Roosevelt, will take place at the country club, J. A. Bearman, chairman of the local committee announced.

A seven-piece orchestra has been secured for the ball, he said.

Sale of tickets is now being planned with a concerted drive in mind that will produce maximum results. No goal will be set, said Chairman Bearman. "We feel," said he "that this is a cause so worthy that the citizenship should voluntarily respond, without the need of any sort of a drive."

Proceeds from the ball, as well as proceeds from similar balls in 4,000 American communities, will go into a permanent endowment fund for the Warm Springs foundation at Warm Springs, Ga., an institution which the president helped to found to give relief to children crippled by infantile paralysis.

Mr. Roosevelt, himself, found relief in the warm, salubrious waters of the springs there, and he has determined to make the benefits available to all in need of them by establishing an institution amply financed. He has given liberally of his own means.

This Birthday Ball for the President is a national effort to show appreciation for what he has done for America by helping him to establish what is so close to his heart. A committee of national figures heads the national program.

Mrs. King Murder Case Set for Feb. 7

(Special to the News)

EASTLAND, Jan. 17 — Criminal District Attorney Grady Owen has announced a resetting of the Mrs. King murder case for Wednesday, February 7. The case had formerly been set for trial on January 22 in the 91st district court.

Mrs. King was disallowed bond and remanded to jail in a hearing before Judge Geo. L. Davenport Tuesday morning.

Mrs. King was only recently transferred from the sanitarium at Gorman, where she was taken for treatment of bullet wounds sustained at the same time Leon Robinson, who she is indicted for slaying, was shot, to the county jail at Eastland.

Club Gives Bushick Vote of Confidence

EASTLAND, Jan. 17 — Addressing the Eastland Rotary club Monday Frank H. Bushick, district chief works administration supervisor for this district which includes Eastland and 22 other counties, made a plea for the united co-operation of Eastland county citizens in support of the CWA program for Eastland. He especially stressed the necessity for harmonious action on the part of Ranger, Cisco and Eastland for the success of the program for the CWA and child welfare work.

Mr. Bushick states that conditions in Eastland county are the worst he has found in any of the counties he has visited.

Mr. Bushick was given a rising vote of confidence by the Eastland Rotary club and as a result of his appeal for co-operation the Eastland club voted to adopt as its major project for 1934 full and complete co-operation with the CWA and child welfare programs in the county.

Mr. Bushick has been invited to address a joint meeting of the Ranger Rotary club and Lions club at the Gholson hotel in Ranger at 12 o'clock Wednesday and has consented to do so.

Quake Devastates Vast Area in India

CALCUTTA, India, Jan. 17 — Cities, villages and hill stations over a wide area of north central India were devastated today, their populations scattered or seeking dead in the ruins of their homes, after an earthquake that had reached the proportions of a major disaster.

Airplanes that surveyed the quake area brought a story of a country prostrated, thousands of its buildings crumbled, whole towns under water, bodies lying in streets, buried in ruins or floating down streams toward the sea.

Capt. Frederick Dalton, member of an air service who piloted the first plane to penetrate the area, said he believed the dead must total between 8,000 to 10,000.

FRENCH HELD UNTIL HOUNDS REACH HOUSE

CROCKETT, Jan. 17 — J. B. French, one of the five convicts who escaped from the Eastham prison farm near here yesterday after a gun battle with two guards, was captured early today four miles from the farm by a negro farmer in whose house he sought refuge.

Gebe Wright, the negro, held the unarmed French until Sergeant Charles Flournoy and his pack of bloodhounds, from the prison farm closed in on the house. The convict's trail was picked up by the hounds late yesterday and followed for hours before French broke into the negro's house. It was only a few minutes afterward that Flournoy came to the house and claimed the prisoner.

Manager B. B. Monzingo said French was two squads away from the shooting and was not a member of the raiders who wounded two guards in their dash for liberty. He said French seized the opportunity to escape during the excitement, crawled into the underbrush, and waited until things quieted down before fleeing deeper into the woods.

Later, when the dogs were brought to the scene, they picked up his trail.

Woods Combed

The piney woods of east Texas were combed today for the other four fugitives and their liberators, one of whom was identified by other convicts as the notorious Clyde Barrow.

Raymond Hamilton, Dallas county desperado under sentences aggregating 263 years, was believed by prison authorities to have been the brains of the inside plans, with Joe Palmer, Limestone county robber, the brain.

Escaping with them were Henry Methvin, of Refugio county, and W. H. Bybee, of Stephens county.

Monzingo said today that other convicts at the shooting scene had definitely identified the machine gunner who poured a stream of lead from a ditch as the prisoners broke for freedom as Barrow. A brother or one of the fugitives manned the other gun beside the machine gunner, the prison manager said he was advised by grapevine from the convicts.

M. H. Crowson, one of the guards shot by the convicts, was still in critical condition at Huntsville today.

GRAHAM, Jan. 17 — Although 123 veniremen have been examined since Monday morning, one more juror was still to be selected when preparations for the trial of Charles Richardson was upheld for a noon recess today.

Richardson, former mayor of Olney, is charged with murder in the New Year's day slaying of his son, Egan. Before ordering the recess, District Judge Allan Montgomery summoned five more prospective jurors to appear this afternoon. Although late yesterday the judge overruled a defense motion for a change of venue, it was learned he might reconsider and grant the plea this afternoon in event one of the five special veniremen does not prove acceptable for service.

STATE CONTROL OF DEFENSE

Raymond Brooks, capital correspondent of the Daily News at Austin, advanced an interesting concept as the possible solution to the entanglement in which the cause of justice has found itself. Inquires he: "Would justice be better administered if the state took charge of both the prosecution and the defense?"

The immediate reaction to that possibility is a sense of impartiality. Sentiment, nominally at least, would be subordinated to an equitable and detached consideration of the verities involved. The concept, in theory, presents a generous solution of the problem of disentangling the human personality from the high road of impartial, noble administration.

But, Mr. Brooks does not offer it as a solution. He is thinking aloud. Unfortunately, the human factor would still be present in the personnel of the courts and the bar. There is, however, some merit to be seen in the suggestion as looking toward an avenue through which advance may come.

One notable thing it would help to accomplish—removal of the discrimination of money. As between the poor defendant and the rich, there would be somewhat less of the convincing argument of money and more of the argument of fact.

Says he:
"As a starting point, it would be more equitable, in that the poorest would be assured the same protection the well-to-do can buy in employing counsel."

"It would be more impartial, in that the handling of claims for clemency, light sentences and the light would be handled judiciously, rather than on the basis of efforts of interested persons."

"The state recognizes a nebulous duty to its accused citizen, in affording a defense attorney when he can afford none. But sometimes that is but perfunctory defense; hundreds of appeals go to higher courts admittedly so incomplete that the appellate court cannot pass on the merits involved and most invariably decide against the inadequately-represented accused person."

"There is buried in the concept of the state's full charge of both prosecution and defense an orderly trying of the real issue of guilt, rather than a battle of wits, a parade of lawyers and a fog of technicalities."

OBSTINATE MR. McCARL

Republican Comptroller of the Currency McCarl is making himself very obnoxious to ex-Republican Secretary of the Interior Ickes. Ickes declared that McCarl's ruling affecting the constitutionality of the public works emergency housing corporation had tied his hands. The interior secretary spoke in no complimentary terms of the treasury official who gets his job and his orders from congress and does not bow to the mandates of the executive branch of the government. McCarl has been an insoluble unit of republican conservatism in the course of the New Deal. He has ruled with a stolid lack of sympathy on certain features of the government program which have to do with paying out federal funds under government contracts with appropriations made by congress. Certain modifications of government contracts felt essential because of higher costs made mandatory by the NRA have been halted by grim Mr. McCarl. Enforcement of the provisions of the NRA as eliminating the Ford Motor company from the bidding on contracts for government automobiles likewise was ruled out by the doughty McCarl who asserted that so long as the bidder was complying with the requirements of the law he was entitled to the contract regardless of whether or not he had signed any agreement. The Ford company was admitted to be so complying.

The comptroller's recent ruling, however, sets up a more fundamental issue in throwing doubt over the status of several government corporations organized under the NRA. The United States supreme court recently pronounced formal approval of a policy which is a determinative part of the New Deal doctrine in upholding the legality of the Minnesota moratorium law on mortgages. The court stretched the constitution to cover the issue, observers say. But Mr. McCarl is stretching no points. He lays down his measuring rule and lets the figures tell the story. The measuring rule is provided by congress. Mr. Roosevelt dominates the congress. That is the reason Mr. Ickes had cooled off somewhat after a conference with the man in the White House.

8-SEMESTER RULE LETHARGY

With the end of the high school football season, agitation regarding the eight-semester rule which is blamed by many people, particularly fans in smaller class A school communities, for the growing infantile character of the gridiron sport, has died down. While the teams were on the field winning and being beaten talk was rife concerning the inequity and the injustices of this rule. But during the period when the change, if any, will be made and when pressure for modification is most needful there is unconcern and quiet. Next fall we shall again be exclaiming violently against the regulation that reduces high school football to a problem in precocity and makes 14-year-old quarterbacks famous for lack of greater maturity. But the rule, if it is changed at all, will be changed during the spring when there is no visual demonstration of its effects to stir the indignation. If Texas high school communities of the smaller sort, such as Cisco, Breckenridge, Ranger, Eastland, Cleburne, Mineral Wells, and etc., are in earnest about repealing this "too far" regulation of the sport they ought to do something about it when the time is opportune.

COTTON INCOME OF TEXAS FARMERS

Total cotton income of Texas farmers for 1933 was $259,123,402, exclusive of cottonseed, and was at least $100,000,000 larger than it otherwise could have been without the plow-up campaign. This is the estimate furnished by C. A. Cobb, chief of the cotton section of the agricultural adjustment administration in a statement to the Texas A. & M. college extension service. Furthermore, Agent Cobb declared the cotton crop of 1933 was the "most valuable the South has had since 1929 when cotton sold for an average of 16.8 cents per pound."

"HOW VULGAR!"

Pacifist Students Are Ousted by University President

By HUGH NUGENT FITZGERALD
George W. Rightmire, president of the Ohio state university, suspended seven students who revolted against compulsory military training. He announced the seven would be automatically reinstated without prejudice whenever they are willing to comply with the university rule requiring military training. What's wrong with military training? A man should be willing to fight for his flag whenever fighting becomes necessary. Indeed, a man who would not fight for the flag of his country would not be entitled to a flag or a country, here are wars of aggression and wars of defense. Theodore Roosevelt the Great, not Theodore the Little, was a champion of peace but not peace at the price of dishonor. He was for preparedness. Well, the European and the Asiatic worlds are armed camps today. Why shouldn't the republic of the west be prepared?

JUDGE BRYANT SUSTAINS OIL PRORATION ORDERS

Federal Judge Randolph Bryant granted nine injunctions restraining certain east Texas oil concerns from producing more than their allowable set by the state railroad commission and termed the order of the commission of Nov. 28 "prima facie valid." Charles I. Francis is a special assistant to the United States attorney general. He filed a suit for the injunction. He also sought a ruling on the right of federal agents to go on the property of the defendants "to see that state allowable laws were enforced." Judge Bryant struck out his decision on the point before he signed the injunction papers. The plain English of this appears to be that the order of the state railroad commission is valid and it is up to the commission speaking through its agents to enforce its own orders. Later along the distinguished judge may rule on the right of federal agents to go on the property of the east Texas oil concerns. According to Tyler advisors, Regent Francis is on the job until the violators of the oil code have been taught a lesson by the courts of the state or the nation. It is a long road to Tipperary. It will be for the United States supreme court to say the last word some day. But remember the Minnesota moratorium verdict.

Did You Ever Stop to Think?

By EDSON R. WAITE
Shawnee, Oklahoma.

That the more advertising you do, the more business you will get. If wishing brought business, most business concerns would have more business than they could handle. It would be a good idea for them to cut out wishing and start advertising. Advertising will stimulate any business and build it bigger and better. Advertising will attract new customers and hold both. Advertising helps to sell right merchandise for the right price. The stores that advertise always stand out distinctly and have force and influence in the city. Circulars mailed out never are delivered at a cemetery, but are many times delivered to dead ones in a city.

trial testified as a witness that he believed "most history to be bunk." Kingfish Long of Louisiana is a remarkable man. He has covered a lot of territory and hurled himself into many fields of endeavor in recent years. Now he has appeared in a new role. His latest is that "New Orleans bums won the battle of San Jacinto." This is an Associated Press Washington story that should be placed in the scrapbooks of all Texans. Gen. Andrew Jackson defeated the British at New Orleans with Lafayette's pirates. Kingfish Long said that when Sam Houston some 20 years later was trying unsuccessfully to recruit an army of Texans, the old hero of the Hermitage said to him: "Sam, those Texas won't fight. Go get you some Louisiana pirates." So Houston recruited an army of pirates and bums, and with the pirates' cannon, whipped the Mexicans at San Jacinto. Kingfish has gone to New Orleans to back a Kingfish slate for municipal offices. Election takes place late in January. Before his departure from Washington to Kingfish territory he said: "Grand Isle and Lafayette the former pirate strongholds cast about 17,000 votes, and all except one or two go for me."

By RAYMOND BROOKS

AUSTIN, Jan. 17 — Newspapers naturally exercise the right, and many of them regard it a duty, to tell their readers whom they regard as the best service to public service or for particular office. That is an editorial function as old as the newspaper itself. But a comparison of typical newspapers 20 years ago will show a vast change in the way of doing it. Then most frequently became the intense partisan of one candidate or another from the first word of a campaign to the last; could say only praise for one and condemnation and disapproval for the rest.

Little of the old attributes of the days of personal journalism survive. Newspapers, for one thing, are no longer read solely by one faction or group having views such as it voiced. Neither are the readers themselves so violent in partisanship. Indeed, one difficulty is to keep interest up in political affairs. Except in time of crisis, there is all too little interest in governmental affairs. Newspapers no longer exist primarily to express the views of any one individual. They give a picture more or less incomplete according to many factors of opinion news that is not a matter of opinion but of fact. They express views editorially keeping the opinion matter much more completely segregated from the news matter.

And so, in the expression of views they are much more likely now to give studied opinion and conclusion balanced judgment, and in their views to evaluate many more factors than did the rip-roaring individuals of the personal journalism days. Often, indeed, an editorial expression is the composite of views of several people, rather than the swift conclusions, the preference or unfavorable view, of some individual writer.

Along with the more impartial, impersonal and judicial expression of opinion nowadays — none the less, fearless when public issues are at stake that go beyond individuals — there is definitely more recognition of other viewpoints, and more willingness to show the reason, and to rely upon the reason for an attitude, than to assume an inherent rightness in some candidate or his platform just because it coincides with an editorial writer's judgment.

Basically, the difference is almost as great as the old-time dogmatic presentation of scripture, and the attitude that no truth can survive except it stand the test of reason.

There's a lively race on between citizens of Wichita Falls and Port Arthur over priority in opening the nation's first subsistence home-seed colony.

Initial quota authority for civil workers to build roads in the home-trad tracts broke even at Austin. Telegrams went out the same day. Wichita Falls had completed its corporation a little ahead. Work is estimated to be practically the same in getting the tracts ready for use. The decision will be in favor of the community which places upon its land the first bona fide homestead.

Both Wichita county and Jefferson county have inherent within these projects one of the most important courses chosen by the government toward leading an agricultural state toward a better day. Small as these initial projects are, they may serve as prototype for the most extensive permanent achievement out of the whole recovery undertaking.

GYPSY MARKO and TOM WEAVER are married the same day as LILA HOTELING and DEREK BLISS. Gypsy intends to go on with her job, teaching in a convent school. After returning from her honeymoon in Europe Lila invites the Weavers to dinner. Among the guests is wealthy MARKO BROUGHTON, who once asked Gypsy to marry him. He showers her with attentions which she accepts because she is jealous of Tom's interest in LILA BLANCHARD. After the party Tom and Gypsy quarrel, but peace is later restored.

Shopping for Christmas, Gypsy meets Broughton, who offers her a job entangling his library. Gypsy hesitates, then agrees, planning to use the money thus earned to buy Tom a Christmas gift. Broughton gives her an advance payment of $50.

LILA held her white arm out and Derek slipped the bracelet over it. He turned her hand upward and kissed the palm. "It suits you, Loveliness," he told her. Lila smiled. All her life she had been smiling sweetly when people talked to her like that. It was like the breeze blowing or the sun shining. She expected it. It was part of her very existence. You didn't have fair hair and an exquisite figure, like a Tanagra figurine, for nothing.

The bracelet was of flawless workmanship. There were sapphires in it and diamonds of the first water. On Lila's chaise longue in the cherry and white room upstairs lay a supple fur wrap, another gift from Derek. Queenlike, Lila accepted all this as her just due. Derek said, "I wish we could have dinner here, all by ourselves, by the fire. I wish we needn't..." Lila frankly stared. "What? Not go to Marko's? Ridiculous! 'I know.' Derek set his jaw. "Isn't it? But that's what I wish, just the same. Let's call him up..." She interrupted him, horrified. "Derek Bliss, you'll do nothing of the sort. Offend Marko! He's expecting us. Besides, it'll be fun. I'm looking forward to it. I got that new cream lace at Sylvia's just to wear today." "Oh, I suppose you're right. It's a duty," Derek shrugged his shoulders. "That's a darling," Lila approved him softly, having made her point. "Run along and dress. Marko insisted on having dinner at a ridiculous hour—five o'clock—but I suppose one must do mad things on Christmas day." Derek went upstairs on laggard feet. This, he told himself rather drearily, wasn't Christmas. Why, as a kid, back home in Vermont, he had loved all the panoply of the season: the tree, smelling spicy and tantalizing; the carols in the snow; the candle-light windows—everything about it. He had even (he smiled to think of it now) liked to go to church on Christmas day. The little old meeting house had had a special holiday odor, compounded of fir boughs and resin and wood-smoke. Well, no one he knew nowadays went to church. On Christmas they behaved much the same as any other day of the year. They had cocktails, told the same old jokes.

YOUNG DEMOS TO MEET FEB 3 AT LUBBOCK

LUBBOCK, Jan. 17. — Eyes of Texas political observers will be trained on Lubbock, Feb. 3, when Young Democrats of 125 west Texas counties gather here for their first annual convention.

State Democratic Chairman Mury Hughes of Dallas will make the principal address. Candidates for all state offices are invited and many will be called upon during the convention, which is expected to draw 300 enthusiastic young party leaders.

State officials of the Young Democratic clubs are urging young democrats in all counties to organize and send a sizeable delegation to Lubbock and where it is impossible to organize in advance a large delegation of individuals interested in the movement is urged.

Permanent organization of the Young Democratic clubs of west Texas, similar to the south Texas organizations, will be formed here and an east Texas organization will be held for that section later. After formation of the three regional organizations a state convention will be held at some central point.

J. Doyle Settles, president of the Lubbock Young Democrats club has appointed a large number of committees to work with the Lubbock chamber of commerce in handling local arrangements for the convention.

Dances, banquets and other entertaining features are being worked out which will make the convention a gala affair outside of the business and organization sessions.

SEA CAPTAIN HAS IMPORTANT SOCIAL DUTIES

One of the important duties of Commodore Herbert Hartley, former Commander of the Leviathan, who will speak at the high school auditorium Thursday, January 25, at 7:30, was the welcoming of distinguished guests to his ship and the leading of the social festivities which surrounded these people during their stay as passengers. Commodore Hartley will appear under auspices of the City Federation of Women's clubs.

Two of the most interesting events which marked his experience was the entertainment of Queen Marie of Roumania, and a banquet given in honor of Mrs. Woodrow Wilson. He also speaks interestingly of the "marriage run" on board ship. Many marriages take place at sea, and it is a superstition that the ring should belong to the couple who undergo the solemn ceremony on it. Commodore Hartley devised a very novel method of presenting a ring to each couple who were married by him, and at the same time retaining his own ring which did not leave the ship, although many couples believe even now that they have it.

He also speaks of the tradition which insists that the ship's butcher take charge of all dogs, not for any reason except that the butcher always has. And that tells forth the story of the passenger who insisted that a light be installed near the cage where her dog was kept so that she might read to it until it fell asleep each night.

Commodore Hartley does not believe the sea is the "old devil" which it has been called so many times. He has known it for many years, and he loves it. He says that at times the sea may be cruel, but at other times it is kind, and that its interest to men is in its power to bring out the complete delights or sorrows of man.

NAZIS FLOOD GENEVA WITH PROPAGANDA

By STEWART BROWN United Press Staff Correspondent GENEVA, Jan. 17. — Geneva is under "siege" by German propagandists.

Almost daily Berlin "bombards" the reading and press rooms of the League of Nations with charts, pamphlets and booklets graphically picturing Germany's helpless and inferior position in armaments. Nazi newspapermen often assist in distributing the literature to their foreign colleagues. Much of it arrives in unpostmarked letters, which are distributed carefully at an early hour in the boxes of all the foreign correspondents.

The most recent example is a propagandist calendar for 1934. On one page is a normal calendar in English. On the other is a map of Europe. A disk, turned by the thumb, shows the armaments of all of Germany's neighbors.

Airplane Armament Thus under the heading "Military airplanes-number" the disk shows Germany without a single airplane, surrounded by neighbors possessing a total of 10,807. France is credited with 4,500, England 2,450, Belgium 400, Italy 1,567, Czechoslovakia 950, and Poland 1,000.

By turning the disk one also can get the number of tanks and armored cars, total navy strength, the number of battleships, aircraft carriers, cruisers, destroyers, submarines, army strengths, light guns and heavy guns. The whole plan tends to show Germany as surrounded by neighbors armed to the teeth while it has nothing.

Colored Post Cards The league press room was recently flooded with post cards showing Germany at the mercy of its militaristic neighbors. Each card was brilliantly colored. One showed Germany encircled by French, British, Polish, Italian, Czech and Belgian airplanes all flying toward Germany. It also showed which regions of Germany each "enemy" air armada was attacking.

MRS. SMITH ENTERTAINS CISCO LIONS

Mrs. C. Q. Smith, reader and entertainer, provided the program for the Cisco Lions club today noon. Mrs. Smith, wife of the presiding elder of the Cisco district of the Methodist church, was followed to Cisco by the praises of Fort Worth people who were privileged to listen to her while she and Dr. Smith lived there, and she more than justified the tenor of these reports in her program today.

At the business session, President H. L. Dyer read a letter from Lions International requesting the club to cooperate in the national birthday ball for the president by supporting the local organization for a local unit of that national ball on January 30 or sponsoring such a ball itself in the event there was none here.

Dyer explained that J. A. Bearman had been designated by his commission as local chairman and said the club should cooperate with the various other clubs of the city, the mayor and the commission in helping Mr. Bearman put the program over. The club unanimously voted to underwrite 20 of the $1.50 tickets and 14 of the members made reservations for tickets outright.

Audit of the books of the club for the fiscal period December, 1932, to December, 1933, by Dick Giles, was approved and accepted.

The elder Mr. Sloan suffered a stroke of paralysis in July and had been confined to his bed since that time.

Sued for Libel By Her Uncle

A family affair that is creating a stir in London's titled circles is the damage suit for alleged libel that the Duke of Westchester, one of England's wealthiest peers, is bringing against his pretty niece, Lady Sibell Lyon (above), and the London magazine for which she writes. A Socialist, Lady Sibell criticized her uncle for spending money lavishly in France.

MEMEL SPLIT IN NAZI WAR FOR CONTROL

MEMEL, Jan. 17. — Two rival Nazi movements are threatening to split this little strip of German territory wide open. They already have given the Lithuanian government an excuse for intervention by removing the governor, they may lead to a diplomatic incident between Lithuania and New Germany.

Memel is autonomous, but under Lithuanian supervision.

The strongest of the two groups is led by a veterinary, Dr. Ueumann. It is known as the "people's socialist labor community," and its membership, and according to Lithuanian information, receives generous financial support from Germany. It contains many of former ruling class.

The second group is headed by Pastor Baron van Sass, and its supporters from the small clerical, artisans and laborers.

Little Conflict There is little conflict of interest between the two groups; the fight hinges on who shall have leadership of both movements in the plums of office.

So far, Dr. Ueumann's Nazis have been more successful due to their claim, to financial aid from Germany. They obtained an overwhelming majority at recent elections to the Memel Agricultural chamber, and this, coupled with recent disturbances, brought on Lithuanian intervention. Declaring that the Memel directorate, headed by Dr. Otokar Schrieber, had virtually all its authority, and that the Diet deputies formerly members of the agrarian, peoples and democratic parties, had virtually no authority, the Lithuanian administration removed Governor Ueumann, replacing him with their own man, Dr. Navakas.

Navakas' administration has with energetic measures against Ueumann's Nazis. A series of orders on homes of various leaders started. Several agitators were sentenced on charges of contempt against the government, the Lithuanian and the civil service.

The home raids under Navakas have just begun. They may be in strained relations with the Germans if they continue.
