Automobile Industry Moving Nearer Paralyzing Strikes

INTERVENTION OF PRESIDENT IS EXPECTED

BULLETIN
DETROIT, Mich., March 20.—President Roosevelt today intervened in the threatened strike of 100,000 automobile workers and asked labor leaders to withhold action until there could be a conference in Washington "to reconcile existing differences."

The automobile industry today apparently was moving toward a state that may tie up the entire industry, spread to other fields, and constitute a serious threat to the entire recovery program.

President Roosevelt, alarmed at the increasing threat of a disastrous strike was understood to be ready to intervene if necessary. NRA manager Hugh S. Johnson was in New York where he had an airplane ready to carry to Detroit any committee agreed to by the code authority of the automobile industry in Detroit.

The hope for compromise went fluttering in the face of a new set of compliments exchanged by the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce and William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor.

STRIKE DUE TO START TOMORROW
DETROIT, March 20.—The automobile strike called by the American Federation of Labor will start at 9 a. m. tomorrow in the Hudson plant at Detroit, unless the national administration of manufacturers makes acceptable offers by tonight, was announced at federation offices today.

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 20.—President Roosevelt today warned railroad managements and labor that unless they reach speedy agreement in their wage controversy, it may be necessary for him to act to protect the public interest.

Mr. Roosevelt's position was set forth in letters to the Chairman of the conference committee of managers and the chairman of the railroad labor executives association.

Railroad labor has rejected the president's proposal for temporary continuation of the present 10 percent wage cut. The railroads had agreed to this plan and withdrawn their plan for a further cut.

BALTIMORE, Md., March 20.—The adoption of a declaration by members of liberal clubs of seven Maryland colleges in conference here, against participation in war, brought expressions of condemnation from many Maryland leaders.

Three Generals Meet---No War

Three famed U. S. generals, looking very much like three keen business men, met in the Phoenix, Ariz., union station, when Gen. John J. Pershing, left, motored from Tucson to greet Gen. James G. Harbord, center, and Gen. Charles G. Dawes, right. Banker Dawes returned with Pershing to Tucson for a vacation and Harbord went on to San Francisco.

OFFICERS AND FIVE YOUTHS OVERPOWERED

ROTAN, Texas, March 20.—Four bandits equipped with machine guns today robbed the First National bank of Rotan and escaped with approximately $900 in silver.

The robbery was staged after the bandits entered the American Legion hall, captured Nightwatchman Nathan Kelly and five young men, bound all six with chains, then took them to the bank.

One of the youths, Jerry Sheppard, put up a fight. He was subdued by a blow from the butt of a pistol. Physicians said he suffered a severe scalp wound.

Garden Club Seeks Shrubbery for Parks

The Cisco Garden club has begun the regular spring clean-up of Peeston park, on the lots to the rear of the federal building, which the club, cooperating with the Lions club, established last year.

Shrubs, rose bushes, vines and other decorative plants are needed, it was announced. Contributions of these plants by civic-minded citizens are requested. The park has already become established as one of the most attractive spots in Cisco, but the site, charmingly terraced, is capable of even more beautiful development. Its nearness to the business district enhances its aesthetic value to the community, while as a playground it serves a residential area so near the downtown paved streets and crowded lots that the room for play out of danger of traffic is restricted.

Following a method to insure comparability of results, they examined nearly 600 children under three years of age and who are exposed the year round to intense sunlight. They devoted also attention to the socio-economic conditions under which families were living, especially the diet of mothers and children.

The result startled them. But five Puerto Rican children revealed definite evidence of ever having rickets. And, it was pointed out, one of these had lived in dimly lighted tenement cellar until two weeks before examination, while another incurred the disease when a resident of New York city.

However, in sharp contrast to the almost complete absence of rickets in Puerto Rico, the physical and nutritional condition of the island children was critical, according to bureau officials.

BANKHEAD BILL

The Bankhead bill, reducing the 1934 cotton crop to 10,000,000 bales and levying a prohibitive tax on production above that amount, has passed the house and been sent to the senate for its action. The bill already has the approval of the senate agricultural committee.

The bill is one of those measures which have been forced upon the majority by the minority. It was essential to bring the small element into cooperation with the larger element and thus insure the success of the cotton program.

One is that the bill may prove too workable. Should the credit for a successful cotton reduction campaign be laid entirely to such legislation the expedient is certain to be applied to with increasing earnestness in subsequent periods of economic uncertainty or agricultural planning.

The next is the danger that the growers who are cooperating voluntarily with the administration in its control program, may be penalized more than their due in order to control the recalcitrant element.

WOOL PROSPERITY

Wyoming is a large producer of wool. An announced price of 27 1/2 cents a pound was paid by Boston buyers for the 1934 wool clip of one of the largest combinations of ranchers in the Rocky Mountain state.

CARBON BLACK

The carbon black industry had its greatest year in 1933. Four thousand carloads of black in 12 1/2- and 25-pound sacks, having a market value of $5,600,000 were shipped from Borger.

There is a constant commotion in the petroleum world. Billions of black gold have been taken out of the Texas earth. Daily production must be staggering to the minds of men who were here when beef producing was the basic industry of Texas and the cotton cropper ever in evidence.

HIGHWAY CONSTRUCTION

Walter Ely, member and former chairman of the state highway commission, is apprehensive of the future. He forecasts highway construction in Texas may be sharply curtailed in 1935 unless further federal funds are available.

There are two taxes which constitute the highway building fund—the automobile license tax and the gasoline tax. Texas lawmakers have shown a disposition to cut down the amount of the first and to divert a portion of the gasoline tax to the support of other departments of the government.

All the representatives are facing re-election and a third of the senators are on the spot. All those who will stand for re-election are asking, "What will the harvest of ballots be in the primaries to come in midsummer and the result of the balloting next November?"

The Agricultural Situation Might Be Worse

SUPPOSE ALL THE SPRING GARDENS SHOULD COME UP TO EXPECTATIONS

that is touching to contemplate. A Ford clutch commutes with a Chevrolet brake; a Buick body with a Lincoln frame.

There are other explorative bodies, digging among the piles like insects. Most of them have sorry little wagons drawn by sorrier animals.

The amount of discarded iron and steel and other junk that a city as small as Cisco accumulates is amazing. For a mile along a route that inspires one with its scenic possibilities for a beautiful park, these dreary brown middens of the modern standard of living extend monotonous views on either side.

This scene, through which Mr. Ponsler and his men were forced to literally build a road before they could reach their location, is one of those community projects that should come in handy in later years—when the government provides another recovery program or some local organization feels the need of a big job to test its civic and social muscles.

If that junk were cleared out of that small canyon and its natural features enhanced with studied treatment, it would be a place of great beauty, a park of great attraction.

Fortunately the deposits that it shelters are shielded from the public view, but the sacrifice that is committed against a community resource in the very presence of these deposits is sinful.

Hopkins Promises Farm Tenants Better Times

By HUGH NUGENT FITZGERALD

Harry L. Hopkins is federal relief administrator. He invaded Georgia for a conference of relief authorities from 12 southern states. Administrator Hopkins promised "better days" to more landowners and tenant farmers of the South under President Roosevelt's plan for self-sustaining agriculture and public works projects as the media for cash incomes.

COL. JONES STILL IN THE PICTURE

Col. Jesse H. Jones, chairman of the Reconstruction Finance corporation, has appealed to congress for broad powers for direct loans to private industry and for financing foreign trade. He appeared before the senate banking committee, backed by a recommendation from the RFC board, making the direct statement that the legislation "would assist in the recovery program."

Forty years ago the real farmers and plantation owners of Texas produced their own food supplies. Then the World War came. Then the ganning era followed in its wake. Then ten thousands of farms it was goodbye to the gospel of supply the table or the larder with the produce of the soil tilled by farmers or the land tenants. Speaking of the conference of relief administrators at Atlanta, 12 Southland states sent their representatives. After the conference was over Hopkins said: "This plan is extremely important to the south. In some states 30 per cent of the population is on relief rolls."

Well, springtime is here. Summer time is coming. Farmers have been taught many lessons, and the most important of all is to produce their own food supplies and insist the carrier take care of the surplus.

Life is a battle from the cradle to the grave in the activities of an individual and a nation is just a collection of individuals. It has been so from the beginning of time and will continue until time shall be no more. "On with the battle!"

American people. A reminder that the RFC bill before the senate committee would permit the corporation to lend directly to commercial or industrial concerns for a period of up to five years provided they employed more than 10 people—with provisions for the protection of the advances made through the governmental agencies.

Another Buckeye woman given office. Ohio landed in the democratic column of 1932—to the chagrin of Sen. Simeon Fess, the ghostly spell-binder of the Buckeye republicans and dyspeptic trainer of the elephant Sen. Fess has a son said to be a very engaging and active young man. He held a clerkship and is charged with having lent his influence to airways legislation, at a profit of $3,000 or $4,000 or $5,000. That's his business.

Just the other day the president named a democratic supreme court judge of Ohio to the bench of the United States court of appeals—the only woman in American history so highly honored. Now Mrs. Ber-nice M. Pyke, democratic national committee woman and former welfare director of Cleveland, has been named collector of customs for the northern Ohio district by the president—the second woman to hold such a position. Dead as the dodo is the old slogan, "Woman's place is the home."

OIL WORKERS DEMAND 40 FCT WAGE HIKE

Oklahoma union oil workers are threatening to call a 48 hour holiday unless their demands are granted. These include a wage increase of approximately 40 per cent, based on the California wage scale in effect in 1929 and on which a strike in California was settled. Wage demands range in amount from $12.95 a day for drillers to $5.95 for common laborers.

Beat, looking more frightened than at any time before, groaned aloud and petitioned heaven for help. He did not know what Pedro had said. He only knew this was "one helluva ride."

Lottie, sitting between Beau and Pablito, slipped her hand into Pablito's. He let it rest there. The more he saw of the girl the more he pitied her. Moreover he was lonely. At length her head dropped to his shoulder, bouncing up again at every jolt in the road. Pablito slipped his arm around her shoulders.

"You're one of us now," she told him. "I guess I am," he agreed miserably.

"Honey, look at the stars," Lottie said suddenly. "I never seen so many in all my life! They're swell, aren't they?"

A moment later she went on: "And do you notice the way the earth smells?" Lottie sniffed deeply and Pablito, following her example, found the turmoil of his spirit to be a little quieted. Cuba, he thought, was a wonderful land. How Estelle would love all this! Pablito, thinking this, drew away from Lottie. She sat, hurt and chilled. But with time, she decided, she could win him. She would work for that and nothing else.

She turned to Beau then and laid her head on his shoulder. Beau slipped an arm around her, patted her upper arm and yawned widely.

She'd get Pablito, Lottie vowed again, her head on Beau's shoulder. She closed her eyes then to say an intense prayer.

By GEORGE

If the Hickok Producing and Developing company, personified in this area by R. L. Ponsler, does no other community good with its new well on the Kleiner-Palley tract just north of Cisco, it will have accomplished a notable benefit in opening up the city dump ground to public inspection. The features of that graveyard of discarded community enterprise and prosperity are amazing to behold. One is impressed with the direction that prosperity has taken. Along the meandering and odorous course of the daily flushings of the Cisco sewage tract is written a complete history of the automobile industry in the past tense.

The ROMANTIC RUNAWAY

BEAU engaged rooms for the trio at La Florida, a hotel in the old and crowded section of Havana, facing the narrow and famous street of small shops that is known as Obispo. Lottie went to her room at once and Beau, seemingly wholly at ease and only casually interested, settled in a deep, leather-covered chair in the lobby to look over the situation.

Two Americans sat near him, talking of "the vacuum cleaner game." They rolled their thick cigars from one side of their mouths to the other and their voices rose offensively loud.

None of Field's friends, Beau realized as he had before, were at all likely to come here. They would choose hotels where the poorest food in Havana is served condescendingly and at the largest prices. Yes, he and Lottie and Pablito were safe! Comfortable and free from anxiety, he let his mind wander. He imagined Lottie could in less than 10 minutes remove from the vacuum cleaner salesman their gold clear cutters and lighters. He smiled a little, his eyes on the unsuspecting salesmen.

Pablito had wandered to the wide doorway leading into the narrow street. He turned suddenly and moved to Beau's side. "I'm going out for a while," he said.

"Are you dead sure about that?" Beau asked menacingly. "Yes, You can't stop me and it will go hard with you if you try."

"Oh, is that so? Say, you needn't get so ugly, but I'm going to go where I please." "Try to give us the slip," Beau threatened, "and you'll wish you hadn't. See? And we can do it, too! Me and Lottie, we know how."

Pablito nodded shortly and turned toward the door. OUTSIDE Havana was breathing less quickly than it did by day. A breeze from the water fluttered those awnings that had not been raised at nightfall and groups of young Cubans stood here and there on the narrow pavement, swinging canes or leaning on them, staring lazily and awaiting "the adventure."

Large, handsome motor cars followed ramshackle ones. Here and there above heaped stones or molded concrete Pablito, walking, saw the foliage of some tropic tree or thick-trunked, big-leaved vine. He reached the edge of the Parque Central and here signaled the driver of an automobile that he judged to be for hire. The automobile had lace curtains at its windows, lace on the backs of the seats and a vase holding amazingly red paper flowers.

"La Mirasol," Pablito ordered, stepping in. "La Mirasol, Senor," the driver repeated. The car leaned toward Pablito as he set one foot on the step but righted itself when he was inside. Then they were off. The car sped through the streets with that speed which always amazes and terrifies newcomers to Havana, taking sharp corners

Mass., March 20 — Weekly services of deaf mutes are held at St. Mary's Catholic church by the Rev. John Joseph Watcurate who learned the sign language from one of his parishioners. A feature of the services is a choir composed of seven deaf mutes who "sing" in sign language, such as "Hail Mary" and "Holy God Thy Name."

FANS PROMISED CLASSY SCRAP AT FT. WORTH

By W. WINSTON COPELAND
United Press Staff Correspondent
FORT WORTH, March 20—With the world's championship junior welterweight prizefight only a month away, followers have started sizing up the two fighters in what promises to be the classiest lower weight fight in recent boxing history.

Both fighters are easily the top-notches of the nation, with perhaps only Tony Canzonari in the class with either Barney Ross, the defending champion, or Tony Herrera, the challenger.

Both employ much the same style of fighting and from that standpoint, as well as the fact that Herrera has been seeking a try for the title for several years, the fight should be a "natural."

Ross has a reputation for being able to do everything in the ring and do it well. He can hit from any angle with either hand and is rated one of the cleverest fighters at his weight in ring history.

Although he does not pack a devastating knockout wallop, the 24-year old Chicago fighter possesses a stiff punch, capable of putting an antagonist to sleep.

Ross won the title from Tony Canzonari, a masterful and colorful boxer who still is considered far from through. He twice beat Canzonari on decisions.

Minimize Decision

Fans are minimizing a decision rendered in San Francisco, recently in which Frankie Kick was awarded a draw with Ross. Newspapers on the coast were consistent and vociferous in disputing the decision. Virtually all of them said Ross won by an easy margin.

Herrera is an El Paso product and his ring prowess is familiar to Texas fight fans. He is considered Ross match in boxing ability, stamina and generalship. Both are master boxers and the fight should be a battle of wits, as well as gloves.

The Scotch-Mexican's chief weapon is his flicking left jab, which keeps his opponents at a distance and although not exceedingly damaging serves to upset an opponent's mental equilibrium as well as pave openings for Herrera.

Herrera also has a stinging right which he has not used frequently because of a hand injury. He used the right to a minimum in defeating Tracy Cox and Lew Wallace to earn the chance to meet Ross for the title.

The right list, however, is healed, after careful guarding for two years, and Herrera has indicated he will bring it into play in his effort to realize his ambition. A broken rib, which caused cancellation of recent matches, also is healed.

Both fighters are to arrive here about April 10 to polish off training for the fight which is to be held April 20, on the eve of the Texas Derby, feature event of the annual Arlington Downs spring horse racing meet.

graphic reasons. He added, however, that there was a distinct possibility of such a flight being accomplished in the course of about two years.

"The cost of such a flight," he pointed out, "would be in the neighborhood of $1,250,000. Many tanker planes would be required with crews standing by possibly for weeks awaiting suitable weather conditions. These machines would have to be constructed to carry heavy loads of gasoline and oil and would have to be guaranteed to function perfectly. The necessary financial backing for this vast ground organization was not forthcoming.

"For a flight of this kind it would be necessary to be assured of comparatively good weather conditions around the world and to know that these conditions would be met throughout the ten to fourteen days of the flight."

Lieutenant Colonel Blacker also pointed out the geographical difficulties to be faced. One of these problems would be the posting of refueling planes in the great stretches of the Pacific ocean. Much work probably would be necessary to discover which of the Pacific islands would be most suitable for this purpose.

NON-STOP AIR JAUNT AROUND GLOBE DROPPED

By ROBERT C. DOWSON
United Press Staff Correspondent
LONDON, March 20—The British project of a non-stop flight around the world, closely following the Equator, temporarily has been abandoned.

This feat had been considered a possibility of the very near future by Colonel P. T. Etherton and Lieutenant Colonel L. V. Stewart Blacker, honorary organizing secretary and originator respectively of the Housatonic Mount Everest expedition, two airplanes from which flew over the hitherto unconquered Mount Everest on April 3, 1933.

It was believed that an airplane might start at some point on or near the Equator and, with the aid of a chain of refueling planes, completely encircle the earth on 24,902 miles in the region of the Equator.

Lieutenant-Colonel Blacker declared that further plans on the subject temporarily were abandoned for financial, scientific and geo-

Much Pleased With Cardui

"My first experience with Cardui began when I was just a girl," writes Mrs. Millard Wallis, of Apple Grove, Va. "I took it for painful relief. It gave me great relief. I have taken it at intervals since I was married twelve years ago. Before the birth of my first baby, I was weak and run-down. I was very nervous and did not get the rest I needed at night. I took six bottles of Cardui. I regained my strength and felt fine. I have taken it since as a tonic and to keep from having pains at menstruating time."

Is This Too Good For Your Cough?

Creomulsion may be a better help than you need. It combines seven major helps in one—the best help known to science. It is made for quick relief, for safety.

Mild coughs often yield to lesser helps. No one can tell. No one knows which factor will do most for any certain cough. So careful people, more and more, are using Creomulsion for any cough that starts.

The cost is a little more than a single help. But your druggist guarantees it, so it costs nothing if it fails to bring you quick relief. Coughs are danger signals. For safety's sake, deal with them in the best way known.—Adv.

"NOT CONSTIPATED FOR SEVEN WEEKS"

Writes Mrs. Johnson After Using Kellogg's ALL-BRAN

Sufferers from constipation will be interested in this unsolicited letter:

"Your ALL-BRAN surely relieves constipation. I am so glad over the good it has done me that I feel I must write and tell you of it.

"For lunch I take a banana, a large one. Six tablespoons of ALL-BRAN in a sauce dish, and dip banana at each bite until all is consumed. I haven't been constipated now for seven weeks."—Mrs. Louise Johnson, 1433 Forest Street, Denver, Colorado.

Constipation often causes headaches, loss of appetite and energy, sleeplessness. This condition is usually due to lack of "bulk" to exercise the intestines, and vitamin B to further promote regular habits. Kellogg's ALL-BRAN has both, as well as iron for the blood.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that in leafy vegetables. Within the body, it forms a soft mass. Gently, it clears out the wastes.

Try ALL-BRAN in place of patent medicines—often harmful. Two tablespoons daily will overcome most types of constipation. Chronic cases, with each meal, if not relieved this way, see your doctor.

Use as a cereal, or in cooking. Recipes on the red-and-green package. Sold by all grocers. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

HONEA FAVORS EMPLOYMENT OF MORE FARMERS

J. J. Honea yesterday inserted announcement of his candidacy for county commissioner of Precinct No. 4 in the Cisco Daily News. In connection with the announcement, he issued the following statement:

"To My Friends and Voters of Precinct No. 4:
I have decided to announce as a candidate for county commissioner. I favor a change of tractors and graders for our old-style teams and drags. I am familiar with gasoline-burning machinery, but I think at this time it would be a good thing to have the farmers to drag our roads and to employ our single hands as much as possible. If I am elected, I will do all in my power to let the teams over our precinct drag the roads and get some of the tax money back that they have paid out. I will use as many single hands as possible, and administer our county affairs economically. I favor also giving our voters a county audit slip the first of each year so they can check our county expenses every year.

"I will be thankful for any consideration that the voters of our precinct show my candidacy. I invite their consideration of my platform and my record as a citizen.

"J. J. HONEA."

Deacon's Dead, Army Tradition Is Legend

ST. PAUL, March 20.—Deacon, the tobacco-chewing mule of the Ft.

Snelling army post, recently faced the firing squad and when the white-faced, gray-backed long ears slumped to the ground another army tradition became legend.

The Deacon's single-handed initiation of new recruits is the tradition and also, perhaps, the reason why post records showed him to be 33 years old—three years beyond the retirement age—in 1919; 28 years old in 1924 and only 24 years old the day of his death.

The Deacon invariably recognized the status of each raw recruit who loitered near the stableyard fence. In all humility, the Deacon would nose ingratiatingly through the fence.

The recruit invariably mounted the fence to cement a life-long friendship with the "trustworthy" beast. The docile Deacon would plod gently away with his new-found friend aboard.

At the center of the yard, the Deacon would unloose a spell-binding display of leaps, bounds and backrolls, during which no recruit ever retained his seat.

The Deacon, old soldiers say, never attempted to repeat the act with the same soldier, nor did he try it even once with the regulars.

AID FOR WAR ON PARALYSIS IS DISCOVERED

By ALFRED BERTHINET
United Press Staff Correspondent
NEW YORK, March 20.—Echoing a similar survey made last fall by Dr. Simon Flexner, director of the Rockefeller institute, Dr. Arthur R. Elvidge and Dr. Maurice Brodie have reported that, through experiments they conducted upon monkeys, a possible curb upon the destructive power of the virus of infantile paralysis may be possible. Because of the fact that nasal secretions of abortive cases, of healthy carriers and, on occasion, the dust of the sick room have been shown to contain the virus, Drs. Elvidge and Brodie localized their experiments to the noses of the monkeys, instead of the intestinal tracts.

Virus Found
Reporting their tests in the current issue of Science, they state that in one instance, the virus was found in the nasal washings of a patient five days before any symptoms of infantile paralysis was evident. With the exception of one unconfirmed report, the virus has not been known to pass through the gastrointestinal tract.

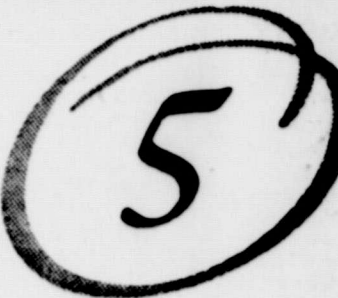

Infantile paralysis developed rapidly when the nasal passages of the monkeys were swabbed with a virus-soaked tampon. All the evidence on hand, indicates that the virus is transmitted through the olfactory organ (which transmits the sense of smell) to the brain. When the olfactory organ was served even though the nasal passages of the monkeys had been subjected to the virus, they successfully resisted the usual symptoms.

Coupled with experimental data and clinical observations made by other scientists, these experiments have shown conclusively the searchers claim, that the portal of entry of the infantile paralysis germ is through the nasal cavities and discounts the belief that the gastrointestinal tract is the means of entrance.
