Improvement Believed to Have Inspired March Bank Call

SUSPECT AIM TO PUBLICIZE BETTER STATE

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 23—The comptroller of the currency called upon all national banks to report their condition as of March 23.

While the bill was expected to pass the senate without difficulty, it was believed there would be considerable debate. Not much time could be devoted to it today because a unanimous consent agreement to begin consideration of a Louisiana nomination at 2 p. m.

The bill provides for limitation of next year's crop to 10,000,000 bales at a 50 per cent tax on all cotton above that amount.

69 Present as Cisco Lions Entertain District Governor at "Ladies Night"

The Cisco Lions club, host last night to its wives and to visitors from other clubs of the Oil Belt, concluded its regular "Ladies Night" program in a flush of pleasure for praise to which it admitted it was entitled.

The dinner, addressed by District Gov. W. J. Danforth, Fort Worth, was attended by 69 Lions and guests. It took place upon the roof garden of the Laguna hotel.

The program, to which visiting clubs contributed with meritorious numbers, was presided over by the Rev. Frank L. Turner, Cisco Methodist pastor, and was prepared by a committee consisting of Charles Sandler, chairman; W. H. LaRoque, Jack Anderson, Rev. W. Turner and H. L. Dyer, president of the Cisco club who presided at the meeting.

Tall and solemn Lion Gov. Danforth brought ideal conclusion to a much-applauded program when he sprang the gathering into prolonged uproar of laughter and then, still without cracking a smile, turned the emphasis deftly to some serious point he aimed at making. His ad-

Pleas of Relatives End Fatality Marks

FORT WORTH, March 23 — Because of protests of relatives of persons killed here in automobile fatalities this year, large "X" marks, painted in black at the scenes of the accidents have been removed from the streets. WIDE UNREST AS HARMONY BEING SOUGHT

(By United Press)

President Roosevelt's efforts to stave off a strike in the automobile industry that might lead to widespread capital labor disturbances and cripple his recovery program approached a showdown today.

Labor and management representatives were in Washington seeking to harmonize widely divergent views under presidential supervision, while in Detroit workers awaited word from their leaders to lay down their tools.

Almost as alarming were other labor difficulties, some actual, some potential. In New York, striking taxi-cab drivers rioted and endangered police, injuring many and endangering hundreds. On the Pacific coast, longshoremen were prevented from striking only by President Roosevelt's intervention.

Government agencies reported more than 60 locally important strikes and industrial disputes and probably as many more threatened.

NEW CHALLENGE IN SHORTER WEEK

DETROIT, March 23 — The automobile industry sent a new challenge to the American Federation of Labor today by offering 75,000 workers a reduced work week and an increased pay envelope.

The move initiated by the General Motors corporation and effective through its 40 plants in 20 cities, came as a counter argument to the claim of the federation that the industry had failed to live up to the principles of the national recovery act.

In some quarters, it was felt that the hours reduction was also a step in preparation for a strike. If one is called, and an indication that General Motors will keep its plants open regardless of action by the American Federation of Labor on the theory that their men will not desert the shop if they are satisfied with wages.

CONNALLY WILL REST HIS CASE "WITH PEOPLE"

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 23 — Sen. Tom Connally of Texas, after a conference with President Roosevelt today, said he was preparing a formal announcement of his intention to seek re-election this year.

Connally is being challenged for the senate seat by Rep. Joe Bailey, On leaving the White House Connally said:

"I conferred with the president on several matters. I have no desire to involve the president in local or state politics and am perfectly content for the people of Texas to pass judgment on my services in the senate."

"Were the matter one to be decided by President Roosevelt, I should likewise be entirely content and would have no fear of the outcome."

Mrs. Della Barker expects to fill her regular appointment at the Bluff Branch school house next Sunday, March 25, with a Sunday morning message on Divine Healing. Her text will be from Mark 11:22, "Have Faith in God". The public is cordially invited.

Tyndall had prayed briefly, and the gathering had entered. He continued the address mostly to an introduction of the presidents of the visiting clubs, each of whom introduced his group.

D. T. Bowles, Breckenridge, candidate for the next governor of the district, who was himself introduced by Dr. Roger W. Gray, Breckenridge, after President P. B. Glenn, of the Breckenridge club had presented Gray, responded to the welcome.

Cisco, as its part on the program, presented Mrs. H. V. House, soprano, in two vocal solos, accompanied by Mrs. C. R. West.

sales contest for the past several weeks and last week-end, the winners who reached the quotas assigned them were rewarded by a trip to Houston, where they visited the company's plant, and were given a round of entertainments.

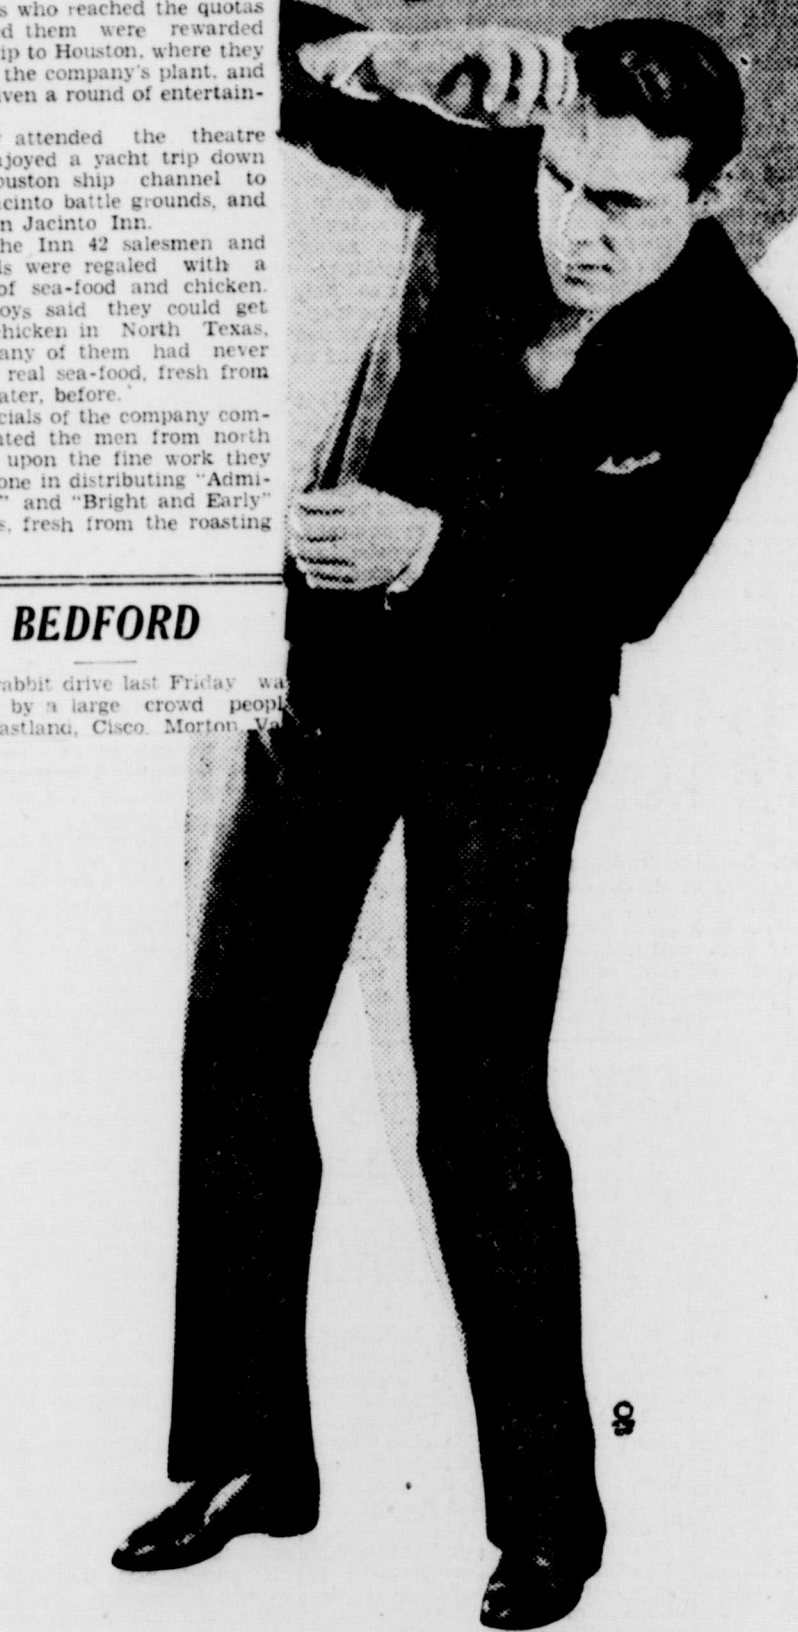

They attended the theatre and enjoyed a yacht trip down the Houston ship channel to San Jacinto battle grounds, and the San Jacinto Inn.

At the Inn 42 salesmen and officials were regaled with a feast of sea-food and chicken. The boys said they could get good chicken in North Texas, but many of them had never tasted real sea-food, fresh from the water, before.

Officials of the company complimented the men from north Texas upon the fine work they had done in distributing "Admiral" and "Bright and Early" coffees, fresh from the roasting ovens.

THE "SALT"

Some of the keenest competition of recent years was predicted for the annual Eastland county Interscholastic league contests beginning in Eastland today and concluding tomorrow afternoon.

These contests are cited for the very good reason that the more important portions of the county meet are not susceptible to such public interest in rivalry. Contests in oratory, declamation, debating and so forth command a definite interest, as may be seen from the numbers who attend meets of this character.

The influence of these county contests upon the general tone and character of the public schools is making itself plainly felt. The district and state contests subsequent to the county rivalry are of decreasing importance.

GOVT AID FOR TEXAS HIGHWAYS

Texas are not overlooking federal aid. New appeals from Texas for a federal highway appropriation and for additional allocation for county and rural health work are before congress.

GAINS OF LABOR IN RECENT MONTHS

An interesting report has been made by the bureau of labor statistics. An increase of 6.1 per cent in factory employment during the month ended Feb. 15 and a payroll increase of 12.6 per cent were reported by the bureau.

Thirteen months ago industry was stagnated—nay, paralyzed. Hundreds of banks were on the brink of disaster. Thousands of mills and factories were closed.

CASH TO TEXAS FARMERS

Secy. Henry A. Wallace has announced that the farm administration has distributed $173,570,549 to 1,774,431 farmers in 46 states.

Proposal for Direct Loans to Industry

By HUGH NUGENT FITZGERALD

President Roosevelt has disclaimed any knowledge of the reconstruction Corporation's proposal that it lend directly to industry.

He recommends legislation to establish new intermediate credit agencies subsidiary to the federal reserve system. He is confident that congress will approve the plan.

Senators who must go before the people for re-election are on the spot. They know it. All the representatives must go before the people. They are on the spot.

ANOTHER DECISION FOR MILK PRODUCERS

There are thousands of milk producers in the southwest. They are reminded that fixing of minimum prices by the New York state milk board was upheld by a special federal statutory court in a decision ruling "the most vital interest in the end may demand that there be less goods sold at higher prices rather than all existing manufacturers should remain in business."

Constitutionality of the milk board's minimum prices was attacked on the grounds that a certain farm product corporation would be deprived of its property rights.

Now a nationwide conference of cooperative milk producers will be held in Washington March 22 and 23 to complete details of the Wallace plan for daily production control before its submission to the dairymen of the nation.

A NOTABLE FARM LEADER PASSES

John A. Simpson, 63, is dead. For 30 years he was known in the Southwest and the middle-and-northwest as one of the ablest leaders in all the battles for favorable legislation for the farmers of America.

Right or wrong, place him as you may, he was a battler at all times and according to men who knew him best the lure of filthy lucre never captured his soul or enslaved his brain.

Through the Editor's Spectacles

By GEORGE

Signs of bettering times are increasingly evident in local business developments aimed at capturing the fruits of improvement. Our end of the town greets with particular gratification the re-opening of the Ideal Theater where K. N. (Kickapoo) Greer tonight, beginning at 6:30, will present the re-vamped Clara Bow in "Hoopla".

But after three years that is over. The dust has been taken off, the interior redecorated, new sound equipment installed, three years ago there will be a choice of theaters to go to in Cisco without having to go out of town when the show is presenting a picture you've already seen.

the X-Ray Barber shop are greeting the change in business atmosphere with an optimism that has inspired a beauty shop department. The commodious rear of their shop on D avenue is being fitted up with private booths for the women.

Barber shops are all right for the men. But few women want to sit out in front of a plate glass window while they are having their hair trimmed. Private booths, equipped with the accessories and instruments peculiar to the class of work a woman requires, are essential to her satisfaction.

Moreover, 'tis said that better times make themselves evident quite early in the trend of woman patronage of the shops and salons that specialize in beauty culture.

There are many other evidences of bettering times. The Palace Cafe has moved into new, roomier and more attractive quarters. Prospect that a new grocery store will be established in that end of the city is also reported. Mayhew Bros. have expanded their business, and are installing an out-door beer garden.

Another and significant indication is the demand for oil and gas lease forms. The Daily News has been forced to print a new supply.

Nature and Human Nature

Bread and butter engage a surprisingly large part of the time and energy of man; they stand for the problem of making a living. Bread is a supposedly light solid product of the proper combination of certain materials. Butter is a preparation of fatty elements of milk, or of other substances reduced to a similar consistency.

Butter and bread have long been associated in the enterprise of keeping man alive, normally with the butter atop of the bread. They are a delight to the growing boy may, with doubtful advantage, demand them even between meals; they are a pleasant necessity to the growing up, they are a responsibility to the grown up. A man is not content with an income that provides merely bread for himself and for those dependent upon him; he wants to spread the advantages of his job to provide both. He knows what bread means, but also sees which side of his bread is buttered.

It is a pleasure to think of the content and the intent of bread and butter, but with an anxiety to think of their source. Sometimes the lighter bread the heavier the burden of its production. Laborers become little more than beasts of burden under the weight. Professional gifts are too often traded for tempting pottage. Hack writers and mercenary artists squander their talents on mediocre stuff for the daily bread.

The ROMANTIC RUNAWAY

BEGIN HERE TODAY PABLITO, a handsome youth, because a fugitive, fled from Florida to Cuba with BEAU and LOTTIE, two thieves, following a masquerade party at the home of rich JIM FIELD.

MArcia Treadway read the newspaper account of the Jeffries murder—the same account Beau was so careful to keep from Pablito's eyes. As she read it she told herself more desperately than before that she would have to find the boy.

At one o'clock she started out in the car she had rented for the afternoon. Already the streets were crowded with motors filled with men and women.

The sun shone dazzlingly upon the blue harbor and grim, gray Morro Castle. The prettiest girls in the world tossed roses and chocolates and kisses to the passing men who won their favor.

Young men kissed the coils of serpentine streamers before they flung the arcs of ribbon into the air. Marcia, watching and smiling, tossed roses in return. It was really rather amusing, she decided with that mild enthusiasm that comes from being too much entertained.

A short, stocky man who spoke a nasal variety of English leaped to the running board of Marcia's car as the parade was halted temporarily by the congestion ahead. "How's Times Square?" he asked. She laughed, her eagerness for novelty making his salutation amusing. "Givin' me a rose, ain't you?" he went on.

behind. It was some time afterward that Marcia looked down to discover that the pearl-studded platinum chain she had been wearing had gone with the rose.

PABLITO had seen Marcia Treadway and had shrunk back for a chill, short second. Then he remembered that he was safe because he was wearing an insolent, small black moustache and a mask.

When he found Noyes, Pablito decided in the slow way that came from his bad headache, they would go to South America. There, perhaps, in time he might revive a certain sense of safety and, to some degree, a wish to live. In any event, because of Noyes he would have an obligation to live.

Of course it was not Estelle Field who was beside Pablito. It was Lottie. She looked up and flushed under Pablito's steady, inquiring gaze.

"Like it, honey?" she asked, her shrill voice shaking a little. "We shall the Casa Blanca," said the driver of swarthy skin and French opera whiskers. Lottie asked quickly, and eagerly, "What the hell's he sayin' with all that jabbering?"

Back at the hotel again, Lottie sought him out. The door of his room was open and she found her sitting on the edge of the bed. Lottie had noticed before that his face was flushed but now the flush made her frown.

"Say," she confided, "exactly like the way you do you feel sick?"

He managed to tell her he was very thirsty and that he would be grateful if she ring for water.

Lottie answered with a husky after she had turned the bell. "And I'm coming to you! Back to you!" he on, passion in his voice.

I brought the ice water in of Beau but he returned that that gentleman could found. With endless coaxing managed to entice Pablito clearly to get him undressed in bed. There he lay tossing muttering of a Princess pauper and love and Noyes sat by the bed, holding Pablito's hand, soothing him by watching the door.

Lottie knew that she should care to summon a doctor. Beau's consent, Pablito say anything. "Good!" she whispered, send that big bum home! "Estelle!" Pablito shouted the name.

The servant tapped on the was beyond him, he quest. The management would be because the noise from upstairs causing considerable worry. "Tell the manager to stop own business," Lottie said. "This boy's been drinkin' your bum liquor and he's snaking. If anybody should apologize!" it's you. Have that?"

Controlling Stomach Worms in Sheep and Goats Is Explained

By J. M. (JIM) BIRD
Cisco Vocational Institute

The stomach worm of sheep and goats is one of the most serious menaces confronting the sheep and goat industry of the United States. It is widespread and its depredations are becoming more intense as flocks increase in numbers or are confined to smaller ranches and farms. As pastures become older the infective parasite material accumulates on them.

Sheep stomach worms are blood suckers, slightly reddish in color, and about the diameter of a pin. A wriggling mass containing hundreds and often thousands of worms can be seen in the stomach of infected sheep.

Symptoms: The symptoms of a sheep infested with stomach worms are easy to recognize. The worms gradually sap the vitality of the animal, leading to a marked anemic condition, which to the degree that it develops and brings about a gradual weakening of the animal, often a diarrhea or scours. The development of a marked anemia also means a very noticeable loss in flesh. The skin loses its pink color and becomes colorless. This condition will continue until the weaker animals will die.

When heavily infested animals are treated, it cannot be expected that all will recover, but some of them will probably continue to lose strength and die even though all worms were killed, at the first treatment. Even those that do recover will require a comparatively long time before improvement becomes apparent. An animal whose vitality has been so markedly reduced, can not be expected to make a rapid recovery as soon as the stomach worms are removed from it. If losses should therefore continue after the administrative of an effective remedy, the owner should not immediately become discouraged and consider the treatment.

of the year. The best treatment (also, the least expensive) for stomach worms is drenching with a one per cent solution of copper sulphate (bluestone). In making a one per cent solution, dissolve 1/2 pound of copper sulphate in one pint of boiling water, then add cold water to make a total of three gallons of the solution. Porcelain or enamel-ware receptacles should be used for the solution, as bluestone (copper sulphate) will corrode metal. This amount will dose 100 adult sheep, allowing 10 per cent for waste. Use only clear blue crystals of copper sulphate, discarding the pieces that have turned white. Crushing the crystals will hasten the solution. In dosing, one may use a stiff rubber tube with a funnel on one end and using a three ounce bottle to pour the solution with. The adult dose is three ounces, and for lambs and kids, two ounces.

Two to Three Treatments

Treatment: Due to the life cycle of the stomach worm which is completed every 17 or 18 days, the method and number of treatments must be continued until the premises are clear of the pests. This usually takes from two to three treatments during the worm season.

Making American Cheese on the Farm

Use some of the surplus milk for making American cheese for the family, recommends Mrs. E. M. Oney, farm food supply cooperator of the Friendship Home Demonstration club. Since December Mrs. Oney has made 100 pounds. The only cost for making the cheese is the money spent for rennet and color tablets, these tablets costing three cents each. She has made cheese for her family for the last four years, enough to supply the needs and sell all surplus she has. Mrs. Oney says: "The milk used must be morning's and of best quality and care has to be taken not to heat the milk too fast and not to get it too hot." The cheese press used is home made, a frame of scrap lumber with a one gallon syrup bucket for the container to press the cheese in. A heavy iron piece is used for the weights. The recipe for cheese and directions for making the press are available at home demonstration agent's office, Eastland, or from Mrs. Oney, Cisco, Texas, Route 4.

Head Lettuce on the Farm

Mrs. W. A. Justice, farm food supply demonstrator for the Flatwood Home Demonstration club gives the following information on growing lettuce in the county to produce good heads:

"Lettuce is cool season vegetable. If warm weather prevails for a few days before the plants head, seed producing tissue is developed and after a seed stem appears. Such plants never head. If the weather is cool enough during the entire growing season to prevent seed producing tissue developing in the plant, then there is no reason why the plants should not produce heads. Fall planted lettuce is more apt to develop into good heads than spring lettuce for the reason that I have just given. To make lettuce head, start the plants in a box or plant bed in late September or October, when cool days begin. When the second set of true leaves have developed:
