Municipal Voters to Elect Three Commissioners Tuesday

BALLOT ISSUE IS BIG POINT IN CAMPAIGN

Municipal campaign that moved about incident until three weeks ago when a warmly contested issue developed over refusal of the city commission to put three names upon the ballot on the ground that they had filed too late, will end Tuesday with election of three city commissioners.

Unsuccessful in their efforts to prevent reprinting of the ballot and inclusion of their names, three anti-administration candidates have conducted a strenuous "write-in" campaign.

These are W. J. Donovan, L. F. Mendenhall and W. P. Moore. They oppose Comm'n's J. B. Burdett, H. C. Henderson and W. R. Bob Whinston, who are seeking reelection.

The three first named filed petitions with the city commission on March 13. On March 12, Monday, the commission had ordered the ticket listed and the ballots printed. The commission contended the law required that it have the ballots ready by the beginning of absentee voting Wednesday, which was the 29th day preceding the election, and that was allowed three days in which to prepare the ballot.

It pointed to the actions of the Coleman and Breckenridge city councils as substantiating its position.

The three anti-administration candidates contended that they had filed their petitions prior to midnight of Tuesday, March 13, and therefore were within the law and entitled to places on the ballot.

Went to Court

The matter went into court in the shape of an application for a writ of mandamus. At Eastland, in 91st district court, last Monday the time issue did not come forward, the city attacking the sufficiency of the petitions filed with the commission by the candidates. The plaintiffs, checking these petitions with the poll tax rolls, admitted the insufficiency of their petitions after a brief hearing and took a non-suit. It was revealed that less than the required number of eligible citizens had signed the petitions.

The three excluded candidates then started a vigorous campaign to have voters write their names upon the ballot next Tuesday, marking out the names of the three administration candidates printed there. In newspaper advertisements and in circulars they attacked the commission as trying to perpetuate its present members in office by taking advantage of a technicality. They also asserted that municipal expenses were to high and out of comparison with those of other oil belt cities.

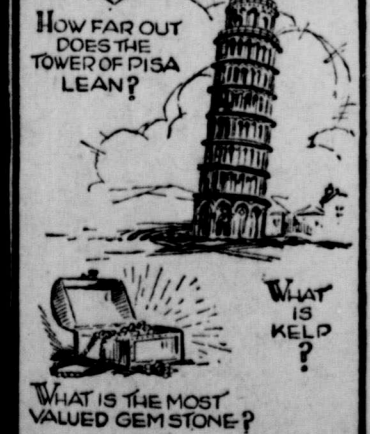

Comm'n's Replies

The commission, aroused by the charges of extravagance, promptly replied with a financial statement for the past year which showed that actual expenses of operating the government were $49,000 instead of $80,000, and retorted that the public services maintained by Cisco and demanded by Cisco citizens are not to be compared with those of other communities of like size.

The polls will open at 8 o'clock Tuesday morning, April 3, and close at 7. The only poll tax receipt required for voting qualification is a

Billion Dollar CWA Program Is at End

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 31 — The administration's civil works program which cost $1,000,000,000 and gave work to 4,000,000 people came to an end today with about 2,000,000 persons still on the payrolls. With the ending of the CWA, Relief Adm'r Harry Hopkins announced that all those still receiving aid would be transferred automatically to new constructive projects under the new work relief program. The new federal relief policy becomes operative Monday.

Above is the scene of desolation left after the $300,000 fire at Longview, Texas, which took the lives of two persons and injured 20, five of them so badly they were not expected to live. One of the dead was Don Safford, 45, Dallas insurance salesman. The other has not yet been identified, so badly was the body burned. Trapped by the flames, Safford leaped from a third-story window. The fire started after a mysterious explosion and trapped many of the guests in their rooms. Three persons were unaccounted for when this picture was taken. The men are searching in the ruins for bodies.

SPECIAL WAGON TO BE ON DUTY CLEAN-UP WEEK

A special wagon will make the rounds of the residential streets late in the week to pick up all trash accumulated during "Clean-up Week" beginning Monday. Fire Marshal Gustafson announced.

By proclamation the week of April 2 to 7, inclusive was set aside as Clean-up Week in Cisco, in keeping with a state-wide movement, and Mr. Gustafson urged that the citizens observe the significance of the period by giving their premises a thorough cleaning, "from cellar to garret."

Refuse that is to be hauled away may be placed conveniently in the alley, with or without containers, and the wagon will remove it, he said. "Both as a fire prevention measure and a health safeguard it is essential the public give us their utmost cooperation," said Mr. Gustafson. "We will appreciate their doing so."

Cooking School Will Open at 2:30 Monday

The Cisco Daily News and the Community Natural Gas company invite the housewives of Cisco and surrounding country to be their guests for the three-day "Happy Kitchen Cooking School" beginning tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 at 517 D avenue, the large building directly across the street from the Bigly Wigly grocery store.

The demonstrations will be conducted by Mrs. Martha McDonald, Dallas, noted home economist food lecturer.

The building has been comfortably seated. An elevated platform is being erected upon which, to be easily viewed by all, will be an all-gas kitchen installed by the Community Natural Gas company. In this kitchen is equipped with all ranges, Electroflux, gas water heaters and other appliances. Mrs. McDonald will demonstrate the most advanced methods in the kitchen art. Gas and flour, distributed here by J. M. Radford Grocery Co., will be featured.

Stress will be laid by Mrs. McDonald upon economical methods of food preparation and serving. The importance of economy in the kitchen is emphasized when it is understood that more than 35 per cent of the average family income is spent for food.

"Whether the family income is large or small," she says, "cooking and eating must go on. The kitchen is the heart of the home and it should be made a place of happiness. Dispositions are made in the kitchen; and why not happy dispositions?"

"The woman who goes to her daily task in the kitchen with boredom, is missing a great enjoyment that can be hers. She can turn her kitchen into a laboratory of creativeness. So long as the housewife must cook for the family or must at least plan the meals, why not get some fun out of it?"

In her cooking school, Mrs. McDonald will teach the women of Cisco how to get fun out of the kitchen. How to have a "Happy Kitchen," which is the name she gives her Model Kitchen, used in the demonstrations.

Come and see this "Happy Kitchen" and hear this charming woman discuss in the most practical way the science of cooking.

TURKEY SEEKS WAY TO HAND INSULL TO U.S.

ISTANBUL, Turkey, March 31 — The Police asked Samuel Insull to go ashore for questioning today but Insull refused, and police left his chartered steamship to get new instructions from the government at Ankara.

Insull remained under guard. He has been here since Thursday when his little ship cast anchor at the entrance of the Bosphorus which joins the sea of Marmora and is going back sea to which Insull was going.

Insull planned if possible to hand Insull over to the American ambassador at his request. They were non-passed when the aged utility man refused their request to go ashore.

Though he and the steamship master were under technical arrest the position was a delicate one. The ship flies the Greek flag and police seemed somewhat afraid that there might be a violation of international law if they forced Insull to ashore under arrest.

GREECE DEMANDS RELEASE OF STEAMER

The Greek foreign minister today called the Turkish government demanding release under international law of the Greek steamship which has Samuel Insull aboard as passenger.

LONE BANDIT ENTERS; PALS WAIT OUTSIDE

WEST, Texas, March 31 — Bandits obtained $1,862 in a robbery of the State National bank here today. Only one man entered the building. Several confederates waited in an automobile outside. Persons who later saw the bandits' car speeding from the city, declared they thought they saw a woman in it. This led to reports Clyde Barrow and his companion, Bonnie Parker, may have figured in the holdup.

H. C. Edwards, cashier of the bank, was in a teller's cage when bandit entered and asked him for change for a $5 bill.

"I got the change for him," Edwards said. "But when I returned with it I saw a 45 calibre pistol pointed toward my head."

"The gunman told me to keep quiet and do as I was told. Then he forced me and J. J. Lednicki and two employes to accompany him to a desk where president C. W. Holloway was talking to a customer. The bandit then marched all of us to a rear room where he forced the men to sit down on the floor. He allowed the women to remain standing, but cautioned them to make no outcry."

Edwards said that after the bandit obtained all available cash in sight, he demanded to know where the rest of the money was.

"I told him it was locked in a safe and that the time lock would not open until 3 p. m. Then he made us go into a vault. He closed the door and fled."

Edwards said the victims opened the vault door from the inside and ran to the front door just in time to see the raiders speeding toward Waco.

Grand Jury Scores City-County Hospital

FORT WORTH, March 31 — Mothers giving birth to babies in the City-County hospital here frequently are forced to vacate the beds within 24 hours, the Tarrant county grand jury said in a report to District Judge Hoseney today.

The report branded conditions at the City-County institution "a black mark against the record of the city."

It is not uncommon for a white woman and a negro woman to undergo the ordeal at the same time in the one small room available. White and negro babies are cared for in the same nursery, the report said.

HARRIS COUNTY JUDGE REPORTS WITH "POLITICS"

Eastman Unable to Effect Rail Peace

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 31 — The railroad wage dispute likely will become President Roosevelt's first order of business on his return from a southern fishing cruise, it appeared today.

Rail Coordinator Joseph Eastman, who has been negotiating with rail managers and labor representatives, has been unable to bring out an agreement and has slight hope that he will be able to effect a peace before the president returns.

"While I shall not abandon the role of mediator," said Eastman, "it is probable that a settlement of the controversy will have to await the return of the president."

NO BALLOT UPON REPEAL SEEN AS McDONALD HELPS

By GORDON K. SHEARER
 United Press Staff Correspondent
 AUSTIN, March 31 — Candidates for governor came to a sudden and disappointing realization this week that James E. Ferguson, master politician, materially aided the campaign of C. C. McDonald at the Houston meeting of the state democratic executive committee by keeping prohibition repeal off the democratic primary ballot.

Repeal was saved as a leading issue for a contemplated run-off primary battle between Attorney-General James V. Allred, a "dry", and McDonald, a "wet".

One close to the administration counsils predicted this week that McDonald would get 75 per cent of the so-called "Ferguson vote" and that strength with votes gained in his strenuous personal campaign will put him in the run-off with Allred. The state vote is wet, he asserted, and will elect McDonald in August over a "dry".

No Special Issue

Why keeping repeal off the primary ballot helps McDonald is the thing that has come slowly to other candidates. If it were on the ballot so voters could give the legislators a direct mandate on the question, there would be no special issue over whether a candidate were "wet" or "dry."

Having no opportunity to register the popular will by adopting or rejecting a repeal will naturally seek an indirect method of notifying the legislators what the state wants by seeking to elect a "wet" governor. Opponents of state repeal will as naturally rally around the "dry" candidate.

A repeal proposal can still be placed upon the ballot at the June meeting of the executive committee, the Ferguson construction, however, that this can only be done on petition of a tenth of the democratic voters. Maury Hughes, as chairman of the executive committee, considered the committee could voluntarily do so, and could be forced to do so by petition.

Lossing No Time

By June most of the campaign alignments will have been made, McDonald is losing no time in consolidating his strength. Already he has visited 149 of the counties of Texas. He drives from hamlet to hamlet, sees everybody he can, and goes off to the next community.

For himself, former Gov. Ferguson achieved a long cherished ambition at Houston. He was elected to an office for the first time since he left the governor's office Sept. 25, 1917, through impeachment. Subsequently and successively he was defeated for governor, president (on the American Party ticket), and for U. S. senator.

His nearest approach to being elected anything was when he became a candidate for chairman of the convention to select wet delegates to cast the state vote for ratification of natural prohibition repeal. After a spirited battle with Joe Bailey, Jr., and other "Young Democrats," Ferguson withdrew, nominated McDonald, and McDonald became chairman.

At last he has a certificate of election, good for entrance to the national democratic committee. Whether it will expire with the holding of the state democratic convention in September, is a matter of dispute.

EXECUTIVES OF STEEL, FILMS HIGHEST PAID

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 31 — The Federal Trade commission which has been delving into the high salaries paid business men, bankers and other figures in the American scene today revealed another report on better paid executives.

The highest paid men on the list made public today were Charles M. Schwab, chairman of the board Bethlehem Steel Co., and W. R. Sheehan, vice president of the Fox Film Corp. Each received $250,000 annually.

The salary figures reported at the behest of a senate resolution introduced by Sen. Edward P. Costigan, Dem. Colo., were as of September, 1933.

The only other executive whose salary crossed the $200,000 figure was G. F. Kelly, president, Anaconda Copper Mining Co., and drew $208,402.

Some of the best-known figures in American industrial and business life were in the comparatively low brackets of the salaries reported. Owen D. Young and Gerard Swope of the General Electric Co. were each listed at $72,308. Harvey

The only low-priced car with fully-enclosed Knee-Action Wheels and what a difference that makes in performance and dependability

Simple as a Shock Absorber!

Chevrolet's "fully-enclosed" Knee-Action is in reality a gigantic "shock absorber." Built solidly on to Chevrolet's big, heavy frame, with the front wheel anchored to the "shock absorber" arm. The result: When the front wheel comes in contact with a bump or hole, it rises or falls to absorb the shock.

In a Chevrolet, you not only get the gliding ride at its best, you also get several other Knee-Action advantages not found in any other low-priced car! The reason: Chevrolet's Knee-Action is of a very special kind. The patents on it are held exclusively by General Motors. In this construction, the coil spring, which is the heart of the mechanism, is safely and solidly enclosed in a heavy steel housing to keep out dirt and flying stones. What's more, the design of this type is such that the steering mechanism is completely divorced from the spring action, the result being a new and welcome type of shock-proof steering.

Admittedly these "fully-enclosed" Knee-Action wheels are more expensive to produce than other types. But Chevrolet feels that the extra satisfaction thus assured for Chevrolet owners is well worth the extra manufacturing cost. And this same attitude is responsible for the presence of many other "fine-car" features in the new Chevrolet: the large, roomy Fisher body. The new Y-K frame. The cable-controlled brakes. In fact, everything about this automobile reflects Chevrolet's well-known policy: to build the most cars, by building the best cars of low price!

HAS THE WOMAN CHANGED?

A result of the wave of, let us say social hysteria, which swept over the United States and a goodly part of the civilized surface of the globe as human nerves reverted from the terrible strain and anxiety created by the World war was bobbed hair. The fashion, which would have been looked upon with horror a few years earlier, was but one expression of the touted new freedom which women and men, too, felt they had achieved out of the restraint and regimentation of social forces required to win the war.

Nevertheless in that day of startling metamorphosis, when the bootlegger was showing agility as a social climber, the world shook its head and said sadly that the woman had changed. They said that she had deserted her home and home-making, ceased expressing herself in the cultivation of a charming domestic atmosphere and donned at least one leg of the pants. If there was any homemaking to be done, the maid would do it, or efficiency apartments would be substituted for the solid comfort of the old family fireside.

But what has happened?

Fifteen years after, cooking school auditoriums are crowded with women busy with pad and pencil. The Cisco Daily News has offered these schools regularly each year and in every instance the women, bobbed hair and all, have responded with a rush of enthusiasm, eager for new methods and new recipes.

Does that look as if womankind has deserted the kitchen and the home? Heavens, no. The average housewife of today is as happy over a new range as a boy used to be happy over his first pair of long trousers. A mechanical refrigerator or a new electric sewing machine is still a superlative gift, and a piece of antique furniture or a Brussels rug, a set of shirred, silken window curtains or a piece of rare tapestry will send the woman into a frenzy of excitement.

The woman of today is an even better housewife than her mother before her. She has more freedom, but it is the emancipation of mechanical improvement that provides her not only with more time to develop herself culturally, but enables her to improve the home to a degree beyond the standards enjoyed a generation ago.

To help her make the greatest use of these blessings of the modern day, the Daily News and the Community Natural Gas company invite the Cisco housewife to be their guest at the Happy Kitchen Cooking school beginning tomorrow at 2:30. Turn to the front page of this newspaper for details.

STEEL BOOSTS WAGES

The great steel industry has given the recovery movement another boost with announcement of a ten per cent increase in wages effective April 1. The pay increase is general, extending to all corners of the far-flung industrial enterprise which in times gone by was rated the barometer of prosperity. It is steel's answer to the challenge of a nation that is surely stirring itself from gloom and depression and greeting a bright Easter with new faith and new courage.

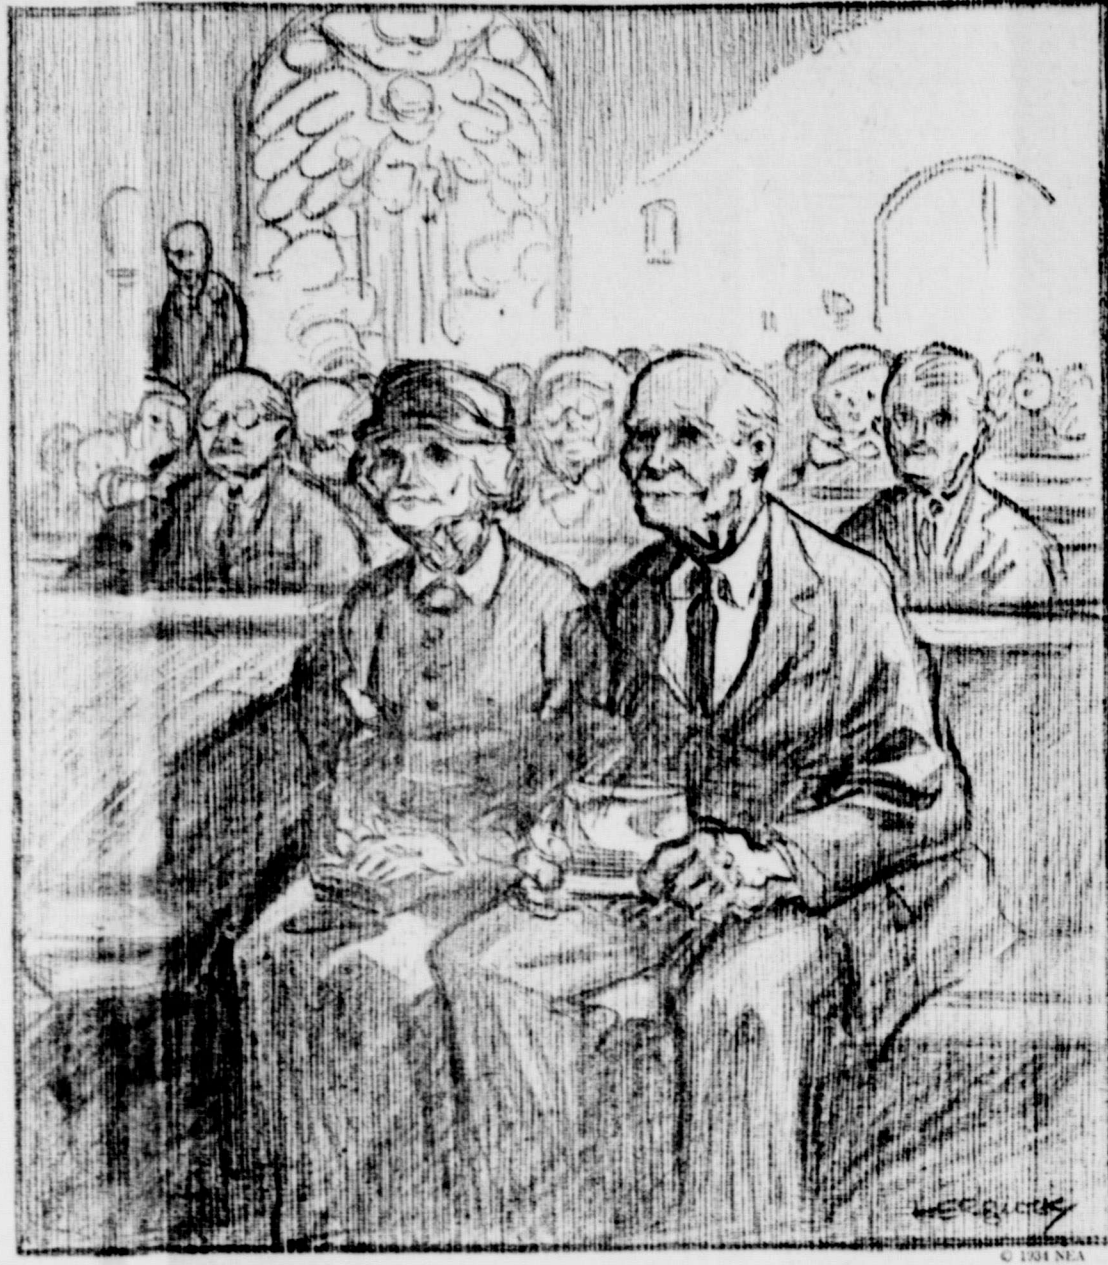

In this blanket increase in steel wages is seen another beneficial influence of the settlement of the automobile industry strike before that strike began. Steel was next in line to receive the effect of such a strike. The automobile industry was and is now the greatest single user of steel. With a great reserve of orders speeding the automotive manufacturing wheels to their limit, the steel concerns are sharing in the prosperity created by the demand for automobiles. But that is not enough. Railroads are using comparatively little. The construction industry is at a low ebb. Steel, while its condition has improved materially and continues to improve, is still below normal in activity. Had the automobile strike materialized and dragged itself out in a weary deadlock to an exhausted finish, the steel industry, which has been drawing upon accumulated reserves to meet deficits in operating costs and fixed charges, would have been flattened again. There would have been no increase in wages for the 325,000 men whose pay envelopes will be fatter beginning April 1. There would have been no increase in general retail conditions created by this boost in pay. There would have been, instead, many thousands of workers forced off the payroll by the shut down of mills, strikes, and a severe set-back to the whole recovery program if not complete disaster to it.

Which proves again that a compromise is better than a war won.

WILL OF TRAYLOR ADMITTED TO PROBATE.

Chicago reports that the will of the late Melvin A. Traylor, disposing of an estate estimated at more than $500,000, has been submitted to probate. Value of the estate was officially estimated at $400,000 exclusive of insurance. The famous banker carried a million dollar insurance policy on his life which will be passed on to his widow and daughter and son. He was only 53 when he died. Born in a log cabin in Kentucky, he went on his own at Hillsboro, Texas, before he was 20. His first banking adventure was at Malone, a little town in Hill county. He was a fast traveler to the top of the ladder, nationally and internationally in finance, after he had scored a remarkable success in a Texas village of less than 1000 inhabitants. Men create their own opportunities in this ever-changing American world.

EASTER

After the War History an Old-time Repeater

By HUGH NEIST FITZGERALD

In the game of practical politics history repeats itself. In the wake of a bloody war history repeats itself. By a tremendous majority vote the house of representatives overrode the Roosevelt veto of the congressional plan for granting bigger allowances for veterans and more pay for federal workers. The count was interesting. It showed a vote 310 to 72 against the president. Many of the leading demagogues broke away. All but two republicans voted against the veto. The senate, which has sought an even more liberal allowance than passed into the bill by the house of representatives, then completed the smashing defeat of the president by voting to follow the house suit, making the vetoed bill a law despite the president's disapproval.

The president told the congress in his message the added funds carried by the bill would upset his budget plan. The money required for emergency relief and violate principles believed should govern the allowances of veterans' compensations. Moreover, it would add $228,000,000 of continuing expenses for which congress had failed to provide by additional taxation.

In general election year the president recommends and the practical politicians who are the lawmakers of the nation ignore the recommendations or vote to override his vetoes.

All this is running true to form and true to history.

There are millions of veterans in the 48 American commonwealths. There are thousands of employes on the government payroll. They constitute a voting strength that is very important as well as very formidable in many congressional districts the country over. Looking backwards the federal soldiers who were the victors, not only clamored for high pensions or allowances but for years and years they dominated the elections. As for the veterans of the Southland who lost, they were compelled to go before the legislatures of their respective states and battle for meager allowances—but they had a larger share in the political spoils at home for years and years following in the wake of the surrender of the sword of Lee to Grant at Appomattox court house.

There will be a nationwide election in November. All the members of the house of representatives who wish to succeed themselves must stand for re-election. A third of the membership of the senate must go before the voters of their respective states. Politics is a scientific game. Americans from the beginning (for the most part) have been scientific players where self interest governed the individual mind and action. Self interest is deep-seated in the human breast.

HOSPITALIZATION OF CRIPPLED CHILDREN

Sen. Margie E. Neal is the director of the White Cross seal campaign for the Texas Society for Crippled Children. This incorporated organization has launched a campaign to raise funds to augment state appropriations of $10,000 per year for the hospitalization of crippled children of the commonwealth. This campaign is in the nature of a White Cross field sale which begins this Sunday (Easter) and closes May 1. A goal has been set by the society of not less than $25,000 and Sen. Neal hopes that the amount may reach $50,000. With the 20,000 crippled children in Texas the only woman senator reminds the public the state appropriation of $10,000 would mean only 50 cents per child. The people can readily see that those administering this new law, which went into effect Sept. 1, 1933, "would be rendered impotent to effectuate any results and for this and many other reasons the Texas Society for Crippled Children has agreed to come to the rescue and to help raise sufficient funds to enable the state to make a satisfactory showing during the first year of the operation of the law.

Texas are reminded that they responded happily and generously to the call for aid to children crippled with infantile paralysis on the occasion of the president's birthday, but Texans should realize only a small per cent of the crippled children will go to Warm Springs, Ga. This is the Neal appeal: "We must hospitalize them in Texas and as near their homes as possible—this is a matter of economy to the state and of heart interest to the parents."

Sen. Neal, as author of the law which the society is endeavoring to make as effective as possible and as director of the campaign, earnestly urges the press of Texas to give this cause as great publicity as possible and to give the directors what personal assistance it can in furthering this humanitarian movement. Twenty per cent of the seal sales go toward research to be conducted by the international society for stamping out infantile paralysis and the remainder will be used for hospitalizing the crippled children of the Lone Star commonwealth. This is the call: "Every man, woman and child owe a responsibility to the handicapped of Texas. Easter week, beginning with Easter Sunday, will be known as 'Crippled Children's Birthday Week.' Every child is asked, if he can to buy as many seals as he is years of age and not less than one seal at the price of a penny: every adult, likewise, "and a dollar's worth if possible."

WAGNER WILL REVIVE LABOR BOARD BILL

Sen. Robt. F. Wagner of New York is the foremost champion of labor, organized and unorganized, in the American congress. He has been responsible for a vast deal of labor legislation. He has a bill pending. It is known as the labor board measure. Many of the leading industrialists of America have been pounding the bill or certain provisions of the bill. Sen. Wagner is not a radical. He has changed front a bit. He is going to revise his measure. One change would permit employers to initiate the formation of company unions, providing "the intent was to be helpful to labor, and provided employer-control of the unions was outlawed." President Roosevelt carried a copy of the revised act on his pleasure jaunt "for a much needed recreation."

Sanity should govern all concerned. It should govern national lawmakers. It should govern employers and the employees. Give the republic of the fathers and all its industries and all its human atoms an opportunity for the readjustment of conditions which were precipitated not only by the world crash four years ago but by the crash in all the states of the union.

Through the Editor's Spectacles

The meteorological disciples of the mesquite are more numerous than I suspected. The other day I referred to Henry Drumwright's confidence in the accuracy of the mesquite buds as harbingers of spring, and those remarks have stirred to the surface the fact that mesquite prognostication is an important subdivision of the unwritten library of folk lore in this country. Mrs. O. J. Russell is one such believer. A week ago she and Mr. Russell were driving north on Highway 23. Suddenly Russell stretched his neck out of the car window and gazed upon the mesquites. Said he: "I believe they've budded."

Said Mrs. Russell: "I've been noticing the buds for the last two or three miles; but I didn't mention it because I was afraid you'd laugh at me."

But Husband O. J. it developed, reached that level. We are continually thrown back in defeat in our attack on the problems around us. Man has always had to yield in fear or awe to death. Jesus was one who did not submit to but triumphed over this terror of man. His unusual life and His victory over death are beyond our power. Because it is not within man's experience Hume and other rationalists would say that it cannot be. But some things are happening continually that we cannot count as experiences. Yet we have to admit their truth. It takes only a little use of analogy to convince us that many other facts are not within our experience, and hence that fact does not depend upon experience.

Professor Henry Drummond was an English scientist and theologian. He saw the conflicts between scientific and religious thinking and found satisfactory answers to some of these questions which are written in his noted book, "Natural Laws in the Spiritual World." By analogy he applies the laws of nature in the higher realm of spirit. His argument on the resurrection would be something like this: Soil particles have date in April. There was an uncommon amount of thundering in February, according to the red pencil checks that O. J. has placed upon his April calendar.

Suggest that you people who have tender vines to protect, call O. J. at 301 and put his record to some public use. By checking your own calendars with the information you may guard your tomatoes, et cetera, from falling victims to the possible discovery that there is a scientific fact or two buried under the superstition.

Nature and Human Nature

Miracles are thought of in different ways by different people. A common element in these ideas is that of wonder, that they are beyond our understanding and our ability. Modern science seems to approach ancient miracles in its use of natural forces, in its command over disease, in its almost bringing life back from death. The Creator gave man dominion that is limited only by the limit of his faculties. Jesus may have done some things in His day that man will finally learn to do by using natural forces. But so far we have not reached that level. We are continually thrown back in defeat in our attack on the problems around us. Man has always had to yield in fear or awe to death. Jesus was one who did not submit to but triumphed over this terror of man. His unusual life and His victory over death are beyond our power. Because it is not within man's experience Hume and other rationalists would say that it cannot be. But some things are happening continually that we cannot count as experiences. Yet we have to admit their truth. It takes only a little use of analogy to convince us that many other facts are not within our experience, and hence that fact does not depend upon experience.

He saw the conflicts between scientific and religious thinking and found satisfactory answers to some of these questions which are written in his noted book, "Natural Laws in the Spiritual World." By analogy he applies the laws of nature in the higher realm of spirit. His argument on the resurrection would be something like this: Soil particles have no experience of life until lifted up into the material of plant leaves and stems. Likewise plant tissues know nothing of conscious life until the animal grazes and transforms grass into nerve tissue which is capable of responding through instinct to the environment. In like manner the animal knows nothing of ambitions and memories and intellectual achievements, but its flesh may feel the brain that does reach such heights. So we might go another step and conclude that the man does not know—though he may anticipate by faith—the experiences of a spiritual realm until the transforming power of hope changes him into the heir of the everlasting kingdom.—W. Did You Ever Stop to Think?

By EDSON R. WAITS Shawnee, Oklahoma.

T. A. Grehan, advertisement manager of the Dublin (Ireland) "Irish Independent," says: "A few days ago I interviewed two men. I had never seen either of them previously and they came to me in response to an intimation that I had a vacancy for two men to go out into the country towns and get advertisements. One of these men was in the early forties. The other, stripping just turned twenty. I spoke to them for about a quarter of an hour. I told them what I wanted. I told them how I thought they could get it. I gave them—both listening to me together—all the hints, suggestions and selling data I could think of. The stripping asked a few questions along the way. Each of his questions showed me that he had imbibed what I had told him; and that he had fairly well got old of the idea I was endeavoring to put over to these two fellows. The older listened, asked no questions at all, but when I had finished he did say this, where, sir, could I buy a good book on how to get advertisements? "I instantly knew that this fellow had not got the 'inner something'—let us call it 'Personality'—for the job in hand. "Well, I gave each the job of getting advertisements. As I expected the younger man delivered the goods splendidly. The older man is still looking for that unwritten book of 'How to get Advertisements.'"

The ROMANTIC RUNAWAY

BEGIN HERE TODAY PABLOTO a handsome youth, becomes a fugitive when due to circumstances he is confined to the hospital. He is a young man who has been a member of the Florida State Police for several years. He is a young man who has been a member of the Florida State Police for several years. He is a young man who has been a member of the Florida State Police for several years.

der through India Park and on toward Obispo some distance away. He had seen in a shop there a German caricature that he wanted. It was called "At the Bath" and it showed a group of old men with fat, sagging pouches of stomachs, hairy legs, scrawny or very short, thick necks, and concave chests, chatting while wrapped in bath towels. He planned to hang this picture in the gymnasium. Pabloto wondered whether he was getting a rotten disposition or whether, by now, he had one.

"I was sure you didn't. He never mind! It's too unpleasant. What are you doing here if you don't mind telling me? But perhaps that is too inquisitive." "It isn't at all," he answered. "I'm in the midst of one of those sporadic congestions that Obispo and the other narrow streets of old Havana are subject to and for a space their talking was ended. He chose a path for her, keeping off the grass that pressed too close, frowning blackly at a young Cuban who obviously looked upon her as fair game.

CHAPTER XXVII THERE was accusation in Beau's eyes. "You done that!" he stormed at Lottie after Pabloto had pounded down the concrete stairway and slammed the grilled iron gate below.

Estelle Field had halted before a shop window in which there was a display of fans. It had occurred to her that she might buy one for Miss Treadway who was coming to visit them. There was a black fan in the window that was spangled with silver in a Chantilly design—a lovely fan. Estelle turned into the shop.

"I'm going to ask you to sit down on a bench with me for a few moments," he heard her say. "That is, if you have time." He smiled down at her and his breath inflated his nose, night chest. "I have all the time in the world," he answered.

"Mind your own business and shut up, will you?" Lottie snapped back.

"He's paid you more than he ever owed you and he knows it," Beau told her. "He's no sucker. What makes you pick on him so?"

SHE had always liked him, she thought, as she sat down. Always, and in a way she liked one else. And he was just the same now as he had been—only nicer!

Sen. Neal, as author of the law which the society is endeavoring to make as effective as possible and as director of the campaign, earnestly urges the press of Texas to give this cause as great publicity as possible and to give the directors what personal assistance it can in furthering this humanitarian movement.

An almost overpowering emotion swept the broad-shouldered young man who had stepped into the shelter of the doorway. It seemed now that he had never forgotten Estelle for a minute, and as if seeing her again, he had recovered something infinitely precious that had always been truly his.

"You said you'd tell me what you're doing," she prompted. He told her with a gathering shame.

Then young man was, at that moment, walking rapidly down the street, his eyes narrowed and fixed unseeingly at this and ahead. What he really wanted was a drink but he had a match next week at the Miraflores Club. He didn't dare risk forgetting his troubles in alcohol.

He thought, a little unsteadily. "This is what love is!" Boldly he left his hiding place to make his way swiftly to the window through which he could see her. She was standing by a counter waiting, one hand resting on the counter and her head a little to one side. A minute and the clerk who had been waiting on another customer, moved toward her. She spoke to him, turned toward the window and then she saw Pabloto. For a long moment her gray eyes were almost blank with surprise. Then they lightened. She smiled uncertainly, flushed hard and nodded.

"But it's honest," she said and then flushed. She had so often read attacks upon the business methods of her father that she felt honesty was not for her to mention.

When the houses began to elbow one another he boarded a tram car that stopped obligingly in the center of a block, then renewed its camel-like progress at an unhurried pace alternated, when the motorman felt that way by sudden and almost maddening spurts of speed.

Estelle left the shop a few minutes later, a slender packet under her arm. Outside she smiled once more, not quite certainly, as she looked up at Pabloto.

"Do they think I killed Jeffries?" "Yes." "Why?" "Your dagger was found—She could not go on.

There was an amazing amount of a very vibrant sort of life in Havana, Pabloto realized. He realized, too, that he did not feel part of it.

"I have never thought you had anything to do with Mr. Jeffries' death." This she confided in a whisper when for a moment they were apart from the throng of pedestrians.

"I lost it a little while after I left you. I suppose someone took it," he said. He thought about "Beau!"

There was an amazing amount of a very vibrant sort of life in Havana, Pabloto realized. He realized, too, that he did not feel part of it.

She saw his look of surprise and her heart leaped, thinking, "How could anyone even suspect him of it?"

"I didn't know he was dead," Pabloto told her.

"I didn't know he was dead," Pabloto told her.

There was an amazing amount of a very vibrant sort of life in Havana, Pabloto realized. He realized, too, that he did not feel part of it.

She saw his look of surprise and her heart leaped, thinking, "How could anyone even suspect him of it?"

"I didn't know he was dead," Pabloto told her.

BRISK EASTER BUYING PUTS BUSINESS UP

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 31.—Brisk Easter buying in the country's leading stores was believed today to have carried business activity to the best levels in six months, and close to that of the relatively active 1931 spring season.

Preliminary reports to administration and banking leaders indicated that business has continued its greater than seasonal advance with prospects of further important gains soon.

Increased purchasing power from increased employment and wages, as marked by rising bank deposits and confidence in the future, are credited with boosting sales of many retail stores to the best Easter levels in three years.

Activity in nearly all business is exceeding the conservative estimates made months ago by President Roosevelt's advisers. Even so, administration leaders are pushing the recovery program with no less vigor.

New Recovery Steps. New recovery steps include the ambitious program to stimulate the construction industry, the principal lagged of the last 12 months. A plan to promote financing or rehabilitation and construction of homes is expected in a few weeks.

Automobile production last week reached another new high level for the year at 31,896 units, compared with 25,796 units in the corresponding week last year.

It was unofficially estimated that 350,000 men went back to work during March, bringing unemployment to around the 11,900,000 figure, compared with the record high of 13,500,000 reached a year ago this month.

Steel ingot production this week was estimated at 48 per cent of capacity, compared with the year's peak of 49 per cent in the first week of March.

Electric power output last week gained over the previous week, and 17.6 per cent above the corresponding week of last year.

United States foreign trade during February was at the best levels in three years. Export trade increased from 44 per cent of the 1923-25 average to 47 per cent.

Minister Brought Gospel to Harvest

FORT WORTH, March 31.—Religion rode into Fort Worth in the saddle bags of a circuit-riding minister who came to lend a hand during the wheat harvest of 1933.

The old, but little known fact, has come to light in a pre-Easter back-to-the-church movement here in which all local churches have joined hands with meetings being held daily in a downtown theater to interest business people in attending church.

When Tarrant county's and Fort Worth's first minister arrived in this area, before the Civil war, he carried a Bible and a hymn book in one saddle bag, in the other he carried a trusty revolver.

The Rev. A. M. Deas, took his place alongside of other laborers in the wheat fields of Col. Nathaniel Terry whose farm lay just north of the hamlet that was Fort Worth.

Soon he learned there were no churches and no schools. A lawless band looted the village. The double-fisted but gentle minister determined to help the small band of God-fearing settlers. His efforts resulted in Fort Worth's first church—The First Christian church, then housed in a small hut but now one of the finest church structures in the city.

Cement Output In February Jumps

AUSTIN, March 31.—Production of cement in Texas during February totaled 280,000 barrels, against 195,000 in January and 197,000 in February 1933, gains of 44 and 42 per cent respectively, according to the University of Texas bureau of business research. Shipments of 273,000 barrels were 4 per cent above the 261,000 barrels in January and 35 per cent above the 201,000 barrels during February last year. Stocks at the end of February stood at 492,000 and were 23 per cent below those of the corresponding date a year ago.

United States production during February at 4,168,000 barrels represented an increase of 10 per cent over January and 10 per cent over February last year. Shipments of 2,200,000 barrels showed a decline of 22 per cent from January but a rise of 30 per cent over February a year ago. Stocks of 20,672,000 barrels were 6 per cent above January but 7 per cent below February last year.

Capacity operated in plants throughout the country was 20.2 per cent in February, against 16.6 in January, and 13.4 in February, 1933.

RENTAL PRICES SHOW GENERAL UPWARD TREND

DALLAS, March 31.—Scarcity of dwellings and apartment houses has caused a general upward trend in Texas rental prices, a United Press survey has revealed.

Although rentals for residential buildings have dropped an average of 20 to 25 per cent from the peak years of 1929 and 1930, the general rental average increase to date is approximately 10 to 15 per cent.

Chambers of commerce in major cities reported the scarcity of dwellings and apartment houses due to additional businesses, industries and manufacturing plants moving from other states to Texas.

Real estate boards of the same cities reported the shortage was brought about by families which doubled up under a single roof during the depression years now separating and absorbing the surplus space and office rentals have declined.

A shortage of houses and apartments was reported in the better neighborhoods. What building of homes going on was reported in suburban districts. Rents here were reported increased as much as 10 to 15 per cent within the last six months. Tenant movement here was reported excessive in the rent houses and apartment buildings.

The Fort Worth chamber of commerce reported construction there almost too small to give a comparative figure, with few if any new homes being built. Authorities said the situation was partly due to the lack of financing facilities.

However, there is no shortage of houses and apartments, although families living under one roof have separated. This separating has caused an increased demand for rental houses and apartments which have been vacant for months. Rentals in Fort Worth have not increased and were unchanged during the last two years, the survey revealed. Rents were reported 10 to 20 per cent lower than in Dallas. Tenant movement in Fort Worth was considerably smaller than anywhere else in the state.

Small business and residential construction was reported underway in Houston, due to difficulty in obtaining loans to finance the projects. Several large homes above the $50,000 margin have been built and one home costing $75,000 was reported. Rents there have increased 10 per cent on all classes of houses and apartments within the last year, the survey showed.

Vacant houses were reported filling rapidly in El Paso, also due to the separating of families under a single roof. Rentals which have dropped as much as 35 per cent have steadied, but no increase was revealed in the survey.

The El Paso chamber of commerce reported construction of new buildings and houses has been at a standstill the last few months. Only permits granted within the last few months were for remodeling purposes, the reports stated.

Austin was reported doing so well in both business and residential sections. The percentage construction, however, was reported there were reported increased 10 to 15 per cent.

In several of the cities rents and apartments were being increased agreement between owners and creators, the real estate boards and chambers of commerce reported. The effect of the agreements largely felt in Dallas.

DR. PEARCE SPEAKS BEFORE CO. P. T. COUNCIL

Urging the P. T. A. to do everything in its power to bring about a change in the source of public school revenue and to secure a permanent source in order that all schools may remain open and for full-length terms, Dr. J. Stuart Pearce delivered an address before the Eastland County Parent-Teachers council yesterday, in session at the Cisco high school.

"Literacy is a problem not to be confined to a state or a community, but a universal problem," said Dr. Pearce. "Literacy, pauperism, criminality—these three destructive forces can be rooted out only by education—it is the first step in economic progress."

Mrs. W. B. Gunn of Pioneer county council president presided at the meeting opened with a prayer led by Mrs. A. J. Olson.

Musical numbers on the program included vocal numbers, "Sous le Palmier," by Kreidler, and "Songs My Mother Taught Me," by Dvozak, sung by Miss Jewel Ely, and "Valley of Laughter" by Sanderson and "Wake Up" by Montague F. Phillips, sung by Mrs. P. L. Ullom.

Mrs. H. J. McArdle spoke on "Health," and Mrs. C. E. Maddox, of Ranger, county chairman, gave a short talk on the summer "round-up."

During the short business session which followed the meeting, the newly elected officers were announced as follows: Mrs. W. B. Gunn, (re-elected) president; Mrs. F. E. Jacobson of Ranger, vice president; Mrs. Jack Emory, of Rising Star, secretary; and Mrs. Floyd Joyce of Pioneer, treasurer. Mrs. Gunn was elected delegate to the state meeting of the P. T. WHO PAYS THE FIDDLER?

Yesterday the News carried a statement by the City Commission trying to explain their expense for 1933 admitted to be $76,600.00, which is three times that of Ranger and two and one-half times that of Eastland.

We have statements of expense of both Ranger and Eastland on file with the Cisco Citizen. Anyone wishing to see same can do so. It shows Ranger has a municipal Chamber of Commerce, a cemetery and sanitation department all of which were maintained out of their total operating expense of $24,600.00 as compared with ours of $76,600.

What Have We Got?

We wish to call attention to the fact that in ADDITION to the $76,600.00 spent by the city that approximately $75,000.00 was spent upon the recommendation and under supervision of the City Commission out of CWA and Relief funds. Ranger built a modern airport through CWA. Eastland paved several streets without expense to their City Government. What does Cisco have to show for their $75,000.00?

Will Tax Payers Pay?

Yesterday's statement said "BY ORDER OF THE CITY COMMISSION." Must we understand that this advertising will be paid for from taxpayers funds? The Commission claims in their statement heavy attorney fees and "Expenses." WE WONDER if the HEAVY EXPENSES includes Mr. Burnett's trip to the World Fair at Chicago and a visit to his relatives in Washington.

Do you remember Candidate Burnett opposing the Chamber of Commerce in his first race. Does he oppose the chamber now? After his election he rented his building to the Chamber of Commerce.

A WORD TO THE VOTERS

Kindly keep this in mind in making COMPARATIVE STATEMENTS WITH OUR NEIGHBORS.

Also we would remind you that included in the $49,299.90 are heavy fees in connection with the city bond indebtedness suits, and attorney's fees and expenses in contesting the proposed raise in the city gas rates.

Cisco's Big Department Store

This is truly the "Electrical Age." Science has developed ways and appliances to do all our tasks by simply pushing a button.

Cooking, Water Heating, Dishwashing, Refrigeration, Washing Clothes, Ironing, Sweeping, Air Conditioning—to name only a few of the every-day household tasks—may be done with the modern Electrical Servants... and at a very reasonable cost!

Electricity is the most flexible and dependable source of power known to mankind, and with the development of modern electrical appliances to take the place of hand labor it is becoming obsolete to use any other form of energy. In the home, in the store, on the farm and in the factory, economic life and industry is creating greater uses for electric service.

Do you know that your increased use of Electric Service is billed on a surprisingly low rate schedule... and adds only a small amount to your total bill?
