LODGE PLANS TEST MESSAGE AFTER DEATH

By H. L. PERCY
United Press Staff Correspondent
LONDON, April 3—One day—not so very long now—the world may have definite proof that the dead can communicate with the living.

Sir Oliver Lodge, Britain's foremost spiritualist and scientist, has deposited a sealed "test message" with the Society of Psychical Research. When he dies, and he is 83, he will attempt to communicate that message from the hereafter.

The content of the message is known only to Sir Oliver, and its nature is such that it will definitely establish its authenticity if received by mediums.

Message Hint in Book
Some hint of the form of the message is contained in his book, "My Philosophy." In it he takes an imaginary case, suggesting that a verse of even frivolous description which unknown to anybody else, has been constantly in the mind of a person may be remembered after death.

Sir Oliver has been an almost lifelong believer in communication with the dead. As long ago as 1898 he started the world with an announcement to that effect. Recently he reaffirmed "his absolute belief in life after death," in a countrywide radio broadcast.

Lonely Plains
He is spending his remaining days in an old stone-walled house on the lonely Salisbury Plains. The gray mists that continually swirl about it seem to hold the spirits with which he claims to converse.

To use his own words, he is engaged in "the enjoyment of tranquility," a tranquility that is undoubtedly enhanced by his belief that he will meet "on the other side" his wife, whom he so greatly loved; Raymond, his son who was killed in the war; his daughter, Violet; and others who shared his affections on earth.

Some months ago Sir Oliver underwent a serious operation and he still is convalescing. He has a favorite walk. Nowadays he can only complete half the walk.

Wine Etiquette Has Ten "Don't's"

PARIS, April 3—The following "Thou shalt not's" of the book of wine etiquette should be carefully memorized by those interested in genteel drinking.

This wine "Decalogue" has been prepared by the Paris Institute of Wine and Gastronomy, founded by Carl E. Ullrich, a Frenchman, and Frank C. Nesbit, an American.

The wine commandments are based on the best French practice; they contain a number of "Shalts" as well as "Sinit not's," which are as follows:

1. Never shake a wine.
2. Never put ice in wine, red or white.
3. Don't mix wine from two bottles in the same decanter or in the same glass.
4. Don't heat red wine, but don't ice it either. The room temperature should be attained naturally, not artificially.
5. Use extreme care in decanting red wines.
6. Serve all wine in sufficiently large glasses about half full.
7. White wines, which should be chilled or iced, are generally served with hors d'oeuvre, soup or fish.
8. Red wines should be served with roast fowl or game—all red meats.
9. Champagne should be chilled rather than iced, and can be served throughout the meal.
10. Precedence: dry before sweet, in the white wines; light before heavy, as regards alcoholic content, for the red.

BANISH COMMON CONSTIPATION WITH DELICIOUS CEREAL

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN Brings Relief

Look out for headaches, loss of appetite and energy, sallow complexions, sleeplessness. Frequently, these are warning signs of common constipation. If neglected, your health may be impaired.

Today, you can rid yourself of common constipation by eating a tempting cereal. Laboratory tests show that Kellogg's ALL-BRAN furnishes "bulk" and vitamin B to aid regular habits. ALL-BRAN is also rich in iron for the blood.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that found in leafy vegetables. Within the body, it forms a soft mass. Gently, this clears out the intestinal wastes. How much better this is than taking patent medicines!

Two tablespoonfuls of ALL-BRAN daily will usually overcome most types of common constipation. Chronic cases, with each meal. If seriously ill, see your doctor. ALL-BRAN makes no claim to be a "cure-all."

Serve ALL-BRAN as a cereal, or use in cooking. At all grocers. In the red-and-green package. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Scenes in New York's Violent Taxicab Strike

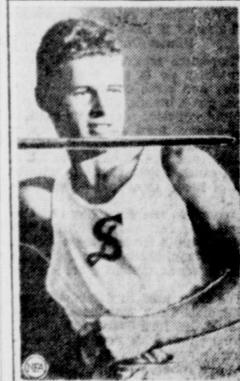

An infuriated mob of taxicab strikers that had swept through New York streets in an orgy of violence and destruction, found police prepared to resist them when they descended on Times Square to intimidate after-theater throngs. In these scenes during the "reign of terror" you see (at top) police breaking up a group of defiant strikers, (lower left) the ruins of a cab after strikers had burned it, and (at lower right), a policeman with bared nightstick giving the order to "move on."

Ford Analysis Shows More Ready Money

DEARBORN, Mich., April 3—Definite indications that the public has more ready money, is spending more freely and demanding "something just a little better" is seen in an analysis of sales of Ford cars during March, it was stated today at the head offices of the Ford Motor company.

This analysis showed that 60 per cent of all Ford cars ordered during the month were of the de luxe type, only 40 per cent of the orders calling for the standard types, the statement said. The ratio is in contrast to 1933 when the percentage of de luxe cars was only 44 per cent.

Since the first of the year the ratio of de luxe to standard cars has been rising steadily, according to the study of Ford factory orders. In January the sale of de luxe types was 55 per cent of the total. In February the percentage of de luxe cars had grown to 56 per cent. Orders in March call for 60 per cent, and advance requirements for April are 70 per cent de luxe types.

Inasmuch as the list prices of the de luxe cars are $40 higher than those of the standard types this encouraging symptom is taken to indicate that the public not only is spending in greater volume than last year, so far as new motor cars are concerned, but that it is also purchasing something beyond bare transportation requirements.

The differential between the list prices of the Ford standard and de luxe types covers the additional equipment on the de luxe types, including safety glass not only in the windshield but also in all doors and windows, as well as dual horns, tail-lights and sun visors, and other de luxe fittings.

Ladies of the Press Learn Whole Trade

DENTON, April 3—Ladies of the Press seek training in their field, and the female of the specie "pre-cub reporter" at Texas State College for Women (CIA) is completely at home with the intricacies of newspaper writing and newspaper terminology after four years on the Lass-O college newspaper.

With headquarters in a news-room equipped with a copy desk, mat files, newspaper racks, "morgue" typewriters and magazine files, the pre-cub reporter has experienced the run-of-the-mill of newspaper "jobs," from linotype operator to editor with printer's devil, "leg" reporter, rewrite man, "ad" man, circulation manager and proof reader in between.

The reporter has covered the campus inch by inch, wheeled and "threatened" news stories from all, counted headlines by the hundreds, interviewed "pros" and visiting celebrities, janitors and world-famous artists of the dance and stage, business men and presidents of universities.

She has tramped the streets with self-made layouts, to return with a quota of advertising inches, and has even indulged in the operation of the "line," that mysterious object of belts and wheels, which now means to her columns and columns of type.

WEIGHT OF JAPANESE IMPERIAL INFLUENCE TO BE AGAINST WAR

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the second of a series by Miles W. Vaughn on the possibility of war between Russia and Japan.

By MILES W. VAUGHN
United Press Staff Correspondent
Emperor Hirohito of Japan undoubtedly will throw the whole weight of his influence to prevent any new Russo-Japanese war.

The emperor does not want war because he believes it would be a bad thing for his country. He feels Russo-Japanese differences can be settled by negotiation.

In nine years as a United Press correspondent in the Orient, with headquarters in Tokio, I saw the weight of the imperial influence thrown in the scales a number of times. It never failed of success.

One cannot talk to the emperor—Japanese he is a holy person, literally a "Son of Heaven"—but one can see clearly, by watching the course of events, what he believes and what he desires.

Anti-War Events
And events so far have proved he does not want a new Russo-Japanese war. These events include:
(1) A complete transformation of the personnel of the higher command of the Japanese army in Manchuria. It was this army which was immediately responsible for the "Manchurian incident" of Sept. 18, 1931. That incident led to creation of the independent state of Manchoukuo, of which the former emperor of China, Henry Pu Yi, was made emperor; to the branding of Japanese an outlaw nation by the withdrawal from the league; to a drastic revision of the whole process of international thought about "machinery for the preservation of peace." The emperor of Japan fully appreciated the gravity of the events which his troops had set in motion. He could not prevent the events, but he could take steps to see they were not repeated. And he did. They have been replaced by men who are acting in accord with the imperial desire.

Retention of Adviser
(2) Retention of the venerable Prince Kimmochi Saionji as the principal imperial adviser. Prince Saionji opposed the method used by the Japanese army in Manchuria from its outset, for the creation of an independent state in Manchuria. He was marked down by sympathizers of the extreme Japanese militarists for assassination. He barely escaped with his life at a time when two prime ministers, a minister of finance, and other opponents of the militarists were murdered. But he did not lose the confidence of his ruler. Saionji is a liberal; an advocate of parliamentary government; an opponent of war-like imperialism.

(3) Refusal to yield to the army's demand for a military dictatorship which would have put Japan at once on a war footing with a program of "defiance of whole world." On May 15, 1932, extreme elements in the Japanese army, working with fanatic groups of civilian "patriots" staged an abortive military coup in Tokio. They hoped to force the emperor's hand: to create a situation of which gravity that Hirohito would have to turn to the army "to save the nation." Soldiers and sailors broke into the home of Tsuyoshi Inukai, prime minister shot him. They raided the huge building which houses Tokio's great metropolitan police headquarters; they bombed banks and other "capitalistic institutions"; they attempted to seize public services. But the emperor stood firm. The plotters were arrested, found guilty, punished. No military government was established. Had it been established a Russo-Japanese war might have been the result, for the extreme militarists admittedly believed in Japanese territorial expansion and looked toward Russia's provinces to the north as a direction in which to expand.

Rarely Speaks to People
(4) The public statements of the emperor. Japan's ruler rarely speaks directly to his people. When he does speak his words are called a "rescript." They carry vast weight. They are literally precepts to govern the conduct of every Japanese. They are the "rules of the nation." And the emperor gave a rescript for peace in March 1932, when Japan withdrew from the League of Nations. He said:
"Advancement of peace is what, as evermore we desire and our attitude towards enterprises of peace shall sustain no change."

Gas Refrigeration

The most economical safeguard for perishable foods

Perishable foods are safer in Electrolux because the gas refrigerator employs a totally different, more efficient method of operation. There's no starting and stopping. The tiny gas flame keeps the harmless refrigerant in CONTINUOUS circulation—hence, a constant, steady cold. Even when defrosting the chilling process continues. When you remember that this constant cold below 50 degrees is maintained with out troublesome, noisy machinery you know something of the perfection which is swinging modern homes to gas refrigeration.

STARGAS efficiently operates Electrolux in country homes and camps beyond the gas mains.

New City Is Created By Missouri Dam

KANSAS CITY, Mo., April 3 — A new city is rising at Fort Peck, Mont., the site of the old frontier town of half a century ago.

This city, modern in all details, will house the thousands of workmen who will harness the Missouri river into an inland sea larger than the Great Salt Lake.

The town will be laid out so it may be enlarged and new buildings added with little difficulty. There will be four types of residential quarters.

The barracks will be built to house 24 in one large room. Then there will be large foremen's bunks consisting of 15 small rooms to a building, each for two persons. A dormitory and guests' house will be another type. Officials and their families will occupy frame houses, of which there will be about 125.
The model city will have a city hall, school, hospital and business district. The government will be handled by a city manager and his council, appointed by Major Thomas B. Larkin, district engineer. Members of the various city offices will be chosen from civilian forces.

It is undecided what the town will be called. At present it is named the Fort Peck Construction camp. Many believe this name will remain.

TRUCE TO AID CROWS
WICHITA, Kan., April 3 — A truce has been called in the war on crows for two weeks by Kansas wheat growers. The farmers claim the large black bird is their friend during this period. Cut worm begin their campaign to eat the sprouting wheat crop about this time. The crows are the only birds in the state now in large numbers that will eat these worms.

POST OFFICE PROSPERS
STOCKHOLM, April 3 — The Swedish post office department showed a net surplus in 1933 of 16,544,901 kroner, which is 3,000,000 kroner more than in 1932. This surplus corresponds to 35.81 per cent of the capital employed by the post office during the year.

DRAW A CIRCLE AROUND THE CENTER OF THIS FINE TOBACCO PLANT

"It's toasted"
✓ Luckies are all-ways kind to your throat

These are the Center Leaves—the Mildest Leaves—the heart of Lucky Strike

As you can see from this picture—Luckies' fine, smooth quality doesn't just happen—for we use only the center leaves! Not the top leaves because those are under-developed—not ripe. Not the bottom leaves because those are inferior in quality—they grow close to the ground and are dirt-covered, coarse, sandy. We select only the center leaves—for which farmers are paid higher prices—for the center leaves are the mildest leaves—they taste better—then—"It's toasted"—for throat protection. And every Lucky is fully packed with these choice tobaccos—made round and firm—free from loose ends—that's why Luckies do not dry out. Luckies are all-ways kind to your throat.

HAVE ALL GOOD: The young lions do lack, and suffer hunger; but they that seek the Lord shall not want any good thing.—Psalm 34: 10.

REORGANIZING THE RANGERS

The latest and most distasteful crime attributed to Clyde Barrow and his red-headed consort in felony, calls to mind the 500-mile per month limit laid upon the Texas Rangers for traveling expenses in the pursuit of evil doers. The limitation, foolish in the face of conditions which make 500 miles a leisurely distance between suns, may be taken to mean that the legislators or whoever placed that restriction upon the officers, have no more confidence in the Rangers than in the criminals they are supposed to chase. Apparently, the purpose of the limitation is to guard against the possibility that the officers, or some of them, will take advantage of the account to do a lot of unnecessary, and perhaps pleasure traveling at the state expense. The Rangers are furnished no cars but must provide their own, the state paying the expenses of operating them for the first 500 miles. If the officer is in hot pursuit of a felon he must abandon the chase at the end of 500 miles or pursue it on his own expense. Nor is the Ranger paid sufficient salary to enable him to meet the costs.

The fallacy of that sort of legislative reasoning is apparent on the surface. In the first place the Ranger force is a law enforcement agency, or it is a joke and a needless expense. If it is a law enforcement agency then it should be provided with the means to carry out its duties and to meet the criminal element on an equal footing. Common sense would dictate that the force be removed as far from politics as possible; that it be made into an organization of highly specialized officers with the opportunity for permanent employment and advancement. Back in the days when the Ranger force was organized it was an organization of a specialized character, trained to meet a definite problem. Its duty was to police the frontier and for that task it grew from necessity. Therefore it was both trained and equipped for its work and it did a mighty good job of it. The modern day Ranger force is the victim of an illogical romanticism held over from the popularly glamorous days when Indians and outlaw Mexicans and white renegades harassed the outlying districts. Instead of having been adjusted to meet modern day needs, the force is continued in a role that is no longer of any practical value. The force should be reorganized into an effective state unit specially trained and specially equipped to supplement county officers and state highway police in the tracking down of criminals and solution of crimes. It should be remote from the expediencies of political patronage, or it should be made into an honorary body to which appointment might signify the pleasure of the executive without benefit of pay check or fee. In the latter case it should be removed from the law enforcement picture and frankly converted into a memorial of the great institution which once made the Texas border a mighty unhealthy place for the criminal.

On the other hand, the Ranger force, backed with so much of inspiring tradition, could be perpetuated in a modernized form adapted to the crime conditions it is required to meet. Of late the force has done well in the breaking up of theft rings of extensive character, but it would be a much more effective unit if it were established with a permanency of personnel, with opportunities for personal advancement upon merit, and regulations as to character, training and ability that would insure only the highest type of officers.

TURKS ACT DECISIVELY

The Turkish government appears not to suffer from the indecision complex which provided Samuel Insull with so long sanctuary in Greece and finally permitted him to leave unmolested aboard a tramp steamer. The fugitive ex-utilities magnate will not be permitted to remain long enough in the hands of the Turkish authorities to become an object of public concern. Instead, he will be bundled aboard a ship with his destination the United States of America, whose authorities have been patiently trying for the past year and more to secure the custody of his person to answer charges of embezzlement and fraud in connection with the crash of his vast midwestern utilities empire. While the Greek officials vacillated between concern for international relationships and fear of the Greek public mind, the dramatic analogy of the hare harassed by the hounds grew, and the Greek public sentiment finally prevailed. As a result, U. S. diplomacy suffered. Turkey, however, appears determined to deal with the case in a forthright manner and reveal no indecision as fertile ground for public sympathy.

INSURANCE OF DEPOSITS

Confidence is returning in many quarters. Insurance bank deposits increased $450,000,000 to $15,512,744,137 during January and February, Leo T. Crowley is chairman of the federal deposit insurance corporation. In a review of the first two months of insurance of deposits up to $2500, he said banks belonging to the corporation increased 1015 to a total of 13,632. Number of insured accounts in banks which are members of the insurance fund increased by 2,068,229 during the first two months to 54,814,249 at the end of February. The state showing the largest increases in the number of insured banks during the two months ending were Wisconsin, 156; Texas, 133; Pennsylvania, 66; Ohio, 62; and New York, 55. It is sufficient that the review shows the 10 leading states in respect to deposit insurance have 75.46 per cent of all the insured deposits in the United States and 65.52 per cent of all insured accounts. New York led all the rest.

Bank deposit insurance appears to have "come to stay."

"It Must Be Nice to Be a Railroad Worker"

An Inch From Respectability Is a Fall Hard to Climb

The murder of two highway patrolmen near Grapevine Sunday afternoon by a man and a woman, supposedly Clyde Barrow and his red-headed "moll," Bonnie Parker, may have done certain things to the state highway patrol. The two young men were the first members of the department to be murdered. It used to be said of the Texas Rangers that the slaying of a member of that once noted force would certainly be avenged by the remaining members either in tracking down justice or in summarily blotting him off the face of the earth if the erstwhile object could not be accomplished.

The state highway patrol has been organized only a short while. It has proved an effective unit subject to high standards and strict regulations; but it has had no sufficient cause to bring about the criminal element. The cold-blooded and dastardly murder of two of its members will supply it with the invigorating tradition that it needs to make it an avenging force. The manner in which the two officers were shot down demonstrates clearly enough the character of the criminals. It is a case of the wolf against the pack, and there will be no quarter. War to the pistol point is the word, and Barrow will probably not be taken alive unless he is surprised in some haunt or trapped where his desperate and savage mind can perceive no opportunity to make escape. In the latter event he will probably turn into a cringing cowardly creature, as do most assassins of his character when the odds are against them.

BEGAN AS CHICKEN THIEF

The career of this creature illustrates the dangers of little beginnings in crime. According to For. Worth officers, Barrow began as a chicken thief. As a youth he followed a career of petty crimes, graduated to burglary for which he was sent to the penitentiary, and after his parole took up the gun and became a killer. The road he traveled has been swift, as the road of crime is always swift. A slight success here, a more ambitious attack upon society there, and the hysterical courage of being compelled upon a course swept him along. With such as he the laws that govern a falling object increase their desperate ferocity as they go. He cannot stop now if he wishes. It is himself and his band of felons against society. If he is arrested it will be the chair. Outraged society would condone no clemency.

A "PUNK" TURNED INTO A KILLER

Just an inch off the ledge of respectability begins a precipitous slope up which it is almost impossible to climb. Once started down that drop, the detritus at the bottom is the end. It is hard to live honorably, but it is infinitely more difficult to come back from a fall. Barrow is a "punk." He did not have the courage to live honorably, to make a decent citizen out of himself. He could not "take it," as the slang goes. He dabbled in little crimes, made little excursions into misdemeanor, rather than attack the business of making his way honestly in a competitive society. The edge of the ledge crumbled under his feet; he plunged downward with vertiginous speed. He is a "punk," a coward turned into a ferocious killer by the very desperate anxiety of his course.

Through the Editor's Spectacles

By GEORGE

Mickey Carroll has a conscience. It is extremely rare to find one of those things nowadays. Most avowed consciences are merely professions and not an implanted pattern of convictions and opinions which prick the possessor into an honest career. More especially is it difficult to find a conscience where political matters are concerned. In the area of the hustings one is accustomed to take much for granted and to measure sincerity with another tape. Oratory and the ability to reconcile scruple to expediency are the principal issues, and the person with personality can get away with a great many things, and be praised for it.

One does not expect outright lying, but one does make allowances where forthright frankness and the unvarnished truth might mash someone's tender political toes. Therefore, one puts conscience in a neat jacket and proceeds blithely to believe what one wishes, and to disbelieve what one does not wish to believe. The result is a sort of double standard to which some of the most moral practitioners are apt to succumb, as they are bitten by the little buzzing bee.

In spite of this, comes Mickey Carroll with a conscience. It hurts Mickey internally to have to entertain a candidate when he is without a poll tax receipt.

He says that he feels guiltily miserable whenever one of the ilk appeals for his vote, making all sorts of promises and going to considerable trouble to prove fitness for public pay. He said he hates to admit that he has been derelict in his duty as a citizen and neglected to qualify himself for the responsibility of helping decide a candidate's fate, and he just stands there "yes-yessing" and making himself out a fibber, so that the candidate wastes a lot of his valuable time.

"So I always equip myself with a poll tax so my conscience won't hurt me," he explained.

The letter from Wilson Elkins, Rhodes scholar, former coach of the Cisco Lobos, and a Texas university teammate of the present coach, Dexter Shelley, had many interested readers yesterday. Elkins, a rare combination of student and athlete, knows how to write fitness for public is significant, perhaps, that he said nothing of "gay Paree," the place which the motion picture companies would have us believe is a sort of seventh heaven for Americans. It is also significant that he writes of simple things, those characteristics and incidents which we can appreciate in relation to our own lives. Mr. and Mrs. Leon Maner and other Cisco friends of Elkins have received several letters from him and all of them have been of the same character.

Most tourists who visit Europe or the Orient send back colored post cards bearing lithographs we could purchase on almost any street corner in America. Usually the home bought pictures are the better for the reason the description of the scene is better. All of us know—that is, all of us qualified to read a letter from abroad—that the Tempelhof airdrome is at Berlin; the English parliament buildings at London; that the tower of Pisa leans about 13 feet from the perpendicular, and so forth. We also know that the Palace of Versailles has a Hall of Mirrors famous as the site of the signing of the peace treaty that ended the World war, as well as other international events of considerable significance.

But most people go galloping through European centers, gawking at the scenery, and seeing nothing more inspiring than facades that have been pictured for decades in American school books and travelogues and would readily be recognized by a child of average experience and intelligence. They grab a post card at some convenient counter, cash off a few trite lines and send the missive homeward in the naive confidence they have done the stay-at-homes a treat by providing them with a card that originated in Paris or Geneva or Madrid. Many of the things we use on our tables at breakfast and dinner originate in more romantic places, and bear more of the atmosphere.

The trait, as well as ability to get in sympathetic touch with the life that moves among these objects of tourist interest is rare. It produces charming reading when the traveler writes home about it, too.

RUBBER IN CRAW

CRANE, Mo., April 3.—A story that ranks near the top of odd ones regarding discoveries in stomachs of animals and fowls was furnished here by Mrs. B. R. Biller, who said she found a 13-inch strip of rubber in the craw of a Rhode Island rooster.

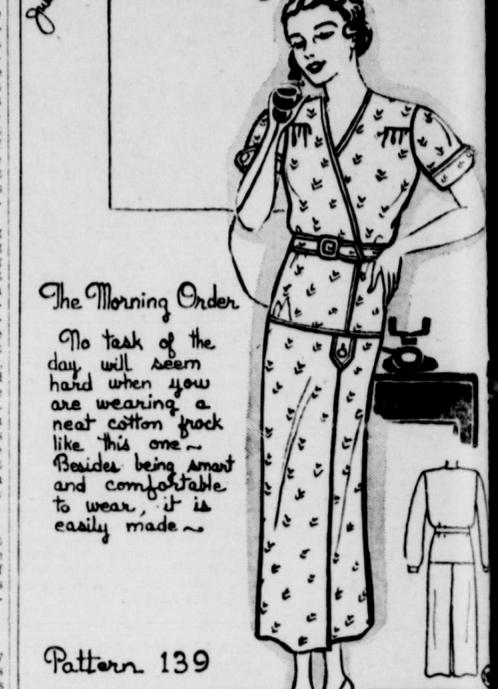

SAVED HIM

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, April 2.—"Acrobymastic" ability of Elmer Anderson, 53, painter saved his life when a ladder he was working on, collapsed. Anderson managed to grasp a two-inch ledge long enough to twist his dangling body in the direction of a wider projection, 20 feet below. His drop to the lower projection saved him from falling 100 feet to the ground.

PHONES PROSPER STOCKHOLM, April 3.—Swedish royal board of telegraph and radio showed a surplus in 1933 of 30,078,000 kronor or some 3,900,000 kroner more in 1932.

Today's Pattern

INEN or percale are alternate suggestions for this charming L house dress. You can get it in nine sizes: 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, 48, 50 and 52. Size 44 requires 4-3-4 yards of 32 inch material with short sleeves or 5 yards with long sleeves, plus 1-4 yards of binding.

To secure a PATTERN and simple sewing chart for this model tear out this sketch and mail it to JULIA BOYD, 103 PARK AVENUE, NEW YORK, N. Y., together with 15 CENTS IN COIN. Be sure to enclose, on a separate sheet of paper, YOUR NAME, FULL ADDRESS, YOUR SIZE, THE NUMBER OF THIS PATTERN (No. 139), and mention the NAME OF THIS NEWSPAPER.

The ROMANTIC RUNAWAY

BEGIN HERE TODAY PABBITO, a handsome youth, becomes a fugitive when he flees from Key West to Havana with BEAU and LOTTIE, two thieves. Pabbito has been accused of a murder he did not commit. He is in love with ESTELLE, FIELD, daughter of rich JIM FIELD, who feels he has exiled himself from her forever.

In Havana he becomes celebrated as a boxer and he and Beau open a gymnasium. BEAU, a titled Englishman, working for his son, employing Pabbito and Jim Field's father, is HILLINGS, New York detective. Three years pass and then Pabbito and Estelle meet again. She tells him she has always known he was innocent. MARGIE, THEADWAY, states the evidence could prove that Pabbito was not the murderer but remains silent, fearing scandal.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XXIX ESTELLE had disliked Trisy Gulden from the day she first met her. Now she knew why—having just seen the tableau of her father's rough capture of this social hoyden; Trisy's perfumery struggle and Jim Field's kisses.

Estelle thought, through a dizziness that came from actual physical nausea, "He should remember to be more careful." Marcia Treadway had felt that Estelle would never grow up but there were ways in which Estelle had grown up long ago. She had begun to realize that the appearance of respectability was all she could hope for from her father.

A little later she wrote a note to Pabbito which she sent by Carlito, a servant whom she trusted. "Dear Juanito," Estelle wrote. "I wonder if you can meet me in the park at three? I think surely I can get away then. I am a little depressed and you always cheer me up. You can send an answer by Carlito who is bringing this. Your friend, Estelle."

Her eagerness to see Pabbito would have told her more than it did had she been more experienced. As it was, she knew that even though she tried she could not any longer pretend about her father. She knew, too, that Marcia's calculating creed was the creed of most of the men and women of the shoddy social world into which her father had introduced her. Estelle felt incredibly hurt and incredibly alone. With Pabbito she could forget all this and, with him, she would not have to believe that all men were like her father's set.

CARLITO came back swiftly, rattling like a brown-roasted peanut in the small car the servants used. He made his way upstairs carrying a tall glass of malted milk on a silver tray. Beneath the cloth on the tray was Pabbito's answer. Estelle took the milk. Then she smiled at Carlito and lifted the tray cover. "Thank you so much, Carlito," she said. "He is a good young man, Senorita. All Havana knows that he is a good young man. Ah, how he flushed as he saw me! It was dramatic. But even the strong are as little children at the touch of love!"

Carlito bowed himself away then. Pausing a moment at the door before closing it, he saw the girl, suddenly pink of cheeks, reading her letter.

Pabbito had written: "Will I be there at three? Don't you know at all how I feel? Your waiting to see me if only a little, has made me more happy than I've ever been before."

The letter bore no salutation. She wished he would call her Estelle. Presently she stood with the letter in her hands, imagining what he would say when they met. Then, once more, she saw the tableau in the living room.

At half-past two Estelle told Ruy that she would use the Lancia to take her to Havana. She had shopping to do and a friend at the Inglaterra to see. Ruy stifled a smile at her explanations. All the servants knew of her meetings with the young man. They discussed the affair frequently and hoped the lovers would elope. They narrated tales of Juanito's strength and bravery, of his excellence of character. Obviously Jim Field was unfit to be housed with a creature so young, so sweet and so altogether lovely as his daughter.

"Ruy," Estelle said, "you need not wait but you may return for me at five. At the usual place—near the Cosmopolita."

"Si, Senorita. Gracias," he answered with a bow and a flash of teeth.

ing blindly at the row of beds that were gay with Spanish shawls hung across their balconies. Then the world rocked for him. He felt her hand on his cuff, stealing into his. He turned, saw that she had been crying. "It's all right," she whispered with a little quiver of a smile, "you can't believe something you must believe—and then you'll see that you can, you're so happy almost an ache."

He understood her not at all but it did not matter. "You're the finest person I know, Pabbito."

She felt his sharply indrawn breath and felt her hand pressed against his lips.

Her heart trembled and seemed to turn within her. She saw figures on the screen only as indistinct blotches and moved closer to Pabbito. With her free hand she patted his arm. He dropped his hand then and turned eyes toward her that dawned the last of reserves.

"I do—love you," she whispered. She had not known what to say it.

FOR a short second she put her arm around her slender shoulders, pressing her cheek. She felt his lips against her hair, started at that. We—we mustn't do that. People might see. "It's dark and they do say—some times—down here—whispered in turn.

He kept her hand in his, kissing it when he dared trust himself. He was secretly afraid he might go wholly mad, to sit up, fling wide his arms and say things, to laugh and cry and say her—his heart.

Texas Topics

By RAYMOND BROOKS

AUSTIN, April 3 — A group of patriotic Texans, many of them for years identified with the planning of Texas' 100th birthday celebration, will assist in the sale of Texas Centennial half-dollars, coined under the Connally-Patman law to permit the construction of a permanent museum on the University of Texas campus, and use by the university of a long-needed repository for its valuable historical and other collections.

BROOKS pointed out that when 1,300,000 people have these prized Centennial half-dollars, there will be just that many daily reminders, that many permanent advertising souvenirs, for the Centennial. The museum project in no way will conflict with the official Centennial celebration, but rather will help it; and creation of a museum to serve the entire state another 100 years will be a definite and permanent part of the present movement.

Workers of the American Legion who sponsored this museum have been serving at a personal sacrifice of time and income. Neither they nor anyone else can make a cent of profit out of the Centennial coin sale.

No needy person in Texas will go without food, clothing or shelter, as the new and better-planned relief and work relief program is shaped, at the close of the civil works set-up this week. This is the declaration of Adam R. Johnson, relief director.

Under civil works, many who owned property, some who have revenue-bearing property, were as much entitled as the most destitute, to employment if out of a pay job. Under the new plan only those without any source of income, and without means of securing income for themselves, will be accepted for either relief or employment on work relief projects.

Mr. Johnson said that approximately two week's delay in starting the work relief should not cause uneasiness and that all the needy will be cared for on direct relief until the jobs are established.

Candidates and others keep insisting there should be some sort of closed shop in the legal profession, as to admitting those to practice capable of passing all the examinations.

One candidate for judicial office this week proposes that no applicant for a bar license no matter how well qualified, could be authorized by the state to engage in his profession unless "his local bar association" endorsed him. Or unless an established group invited competition.

Since the law profession furnishes the personnel of the judiciary, all those gestures about professional control of admission gets close to letting a particular group dictate selection of the judiciary.

The trend is so strong already that candidates for judicial offices give fantastic weight to the endorsement of some local bar association, even though it is merely a bunch of politically-minded people.

8,000 GIRL SCOUTS

STOCKHOLM, April 3 — There are more than 8,000 Girl Scouts in Sweden. It was brought out at a meeting here of 350 Girl Scout officials from all over the country. This is an increase in one year of nearly 1,000.

Get your Consumer Check Card at any Humble Station

For the second time this year we ask you to check Humble products. We want you to test them thoroughly in practical, every day use and then tell us frankly — on a Humble Consumer Check Card — what your experience with Humble products has been. Humble's "Consumer Checks" are made four times a year in order that we may give you products which your experience tells you are satisfactory for your needs. We asked you to check Humble on January first; and we will ask you to do this again on July first and October first. ● Humble products are continuously improved. Laboratory tests and scientific tests made in actual use tell us that Humble products are second to none. But we are not satisfied until you say "approved!" because we feel that we should be guided in the improvement of Humble products by the experience of the practical buyer, in whose service Humble products are manufactured.

● The second consumer check period will last ten days, April 1 to April 11. This time, all Humble service stations will distribute Consumer Check cards to our customers. We cannot too strongly urge you to fill out your card and mail (no postage necessary). We are sincere in our effort to give you the right price with the right kind of service.

The Humble Company stands squarely behind the President's Program for National Recovery. All Humble products are manufactured and sold in strict compliance — letter and spirit — with the code of Fair Competition for the Petroleum Industry. We believe that this Code is fundamentally sound; we believe that the public wants every industry to realize a fair and reasonable profit from its operations in order that Code schedules of wages and employment hours can be maintained; and we believe that the majority of thinking people will support with their patronage any organization which takes a firm stand for those governmental policies which have already proven their usefulness. Every Humble Service Station is one hundred per cent N. R. A.

Here is a sample of the instructions posted up for the information in the streets of the Japanese capital. Who can say that they are not couched in the choicest language:
"At the rise of the hand of the policeman, stop rapidly. Do not pass him by or otherwise disrespect him."
"When a passenger of the foot
hoves in sight, koodle the horn, Trumpet to him melodiously at first.
If he still obstacles your passage, tootle him with vigour and express by ward of mouth the warning, 'Hi hi!'"

"Beware of the wandering horse that he shall not take fright as you pass him. Do not explode the exhaust box at him; go soothingly by.
"Give big space to the festive dog that shares sport in the roadway.
Avoid entanglement of dogs in your wheel spokes."
"Go soothingly on the grease mud as there lurks the speed demon.
"Press the brake of the foot as you roll around the corners to save the collapse of tie-up."

B. of A. Convention

DALLAS, April 3 — The convention headquarters of the seventh annual meeting of the Broadway of America Highway association, today announced that delegates to the forthcoming convention would travel to the convention city in two motorcades.
J. H. Greene, manager of the chamber of commerce, Colorado, Texas, will lead a group of good roads enthusiasts from San Diego, California, the western terminal of the route.
R. A. Jones, Hot Springs National Park, Ark., will head a group leaving Knoxville, Tennessee.
Both motorcades are expected to reach Dallas, the convention city on the evening of May 7, prior to the opening of the convention on May 8.
With touring bureaus through out the nation calling for literature and maps of this scenic route, the officers of the association expect a heavy flow of traffic this summer.

Before the close of 1934, the Broadway of America will be 100 per cent paved, from Broadway, New York to Broadway, San Diego. This, it was pointed out will be the first all paved trans-continental highway in the United States.

RECIPES

Used yesterday by Mrs. McDonald, cooking school expert.

Ham Baked in Sweet Milk
Center slice of ham, 2 1/2 inches thick. Make a paste of 2 T. cream
1 tsp. mustard
1/4 cup brown sugar

Place over the ham and pour over it enough sweet milk to come within 1 inch of the top. Cover and set in the oven of the Roper Range and bake at 350 degrees for 1 1/2 hours.
Serve on platter surrounded with lima beans.

Dish of Stuffed Vegetables
6 tomatoes
6 bell peppers
6 cabbage leaves.
Drop the leaves and peppers in boiling water for 5 minutes. Remove and set aside. Cut tops from the tomatoes and remove pulp.

Stuffing: 3/4 lb. of ground meat of 2 cups of cold roast or any other kind of cold meat.
2 cloves of garlic chopped fine
1 onion minced
1 cup cracker or bread crumbs
1 tsp. salt
1 1/2 cups celery
4 pimento pods chopped fine
1/2 tsp. Tabasco sauce
1 egg.

Mix together and put a large spoonful in cabbage leaves. Fold edges over and fasten with toothpicks. Add tomato pulp to balance of meat mixture and fill peppers and tomatoes. Place vegetables in a baking dish.
Sauce: Place 1/2 cup Mrs. Tucker's shortening in skillet and add 1 onion saute. Add:
1 bayleaf
1/2 tsp. Tabasco sauce
1 can tomato soup
1/2 can water.
Let boil and pour over vegetables.
Bake all in Roper oven for 1 hour at 375 degrees.

Grape Jelly Cake
1 cup butter or Mrs. Tucker's shortening.
2 cups sugar.
4 eggs
1 cup sweet milk
3 cups Gladiola flour sifted 5 times with 3 tsp. K. C. Baking powder.
Bake in 3 layers at 375 degrees for about 25 minutes. When cake is cool, stack with the following:

1/4 cup Concord grape jelly
2 egg whites beaten together until very stiff.
Place between layers and on top and sides of cake. This filling will not be hard, but will keep soft.

Parfait
1 1/2 cups sugar
1-3 cup water
Boil just to the thread stage. Pour hot syrup over 2 well-beaten egg whites and whip until practically cool. This must not be sugary like cake filling. When cool, flavor with Vanilla extract and a sprinkle of salt and fold into 1 pint of Cisco Dairy whipping cream. Add 1/2 cup of shaved nutmeats or marachino cherries chopped fine. Pour in freezing tray of Electrolux and let harden.

CONOCO INTRODUCES A Remarkable new MOTOR OIL

THIS new oil has a tremendously increased "film strength"—and a penetrative oiliness to always protect your motor. The "Hidden Quart" never leaves a dry spot or a bearing without lubrication—it resists dilution—and eliminates much trouble caused by carbon and sludge.

The process which gives these exclusive new features is protected by recent U. S. patents. Conoco refines a high quality paraffin base oil and then adds the extra oiliness that is absolutely necessary to obtain the protection and low consumption every motorist should demand.

... New and Improved Conoco Germ-Processed Motor Oil excels in the most convincing test ever made, under the supervision of the Contest Board, American Automobile Association.

MANY "new" oils are presented to you without proof of claims made for them. You have to "test" them at your own expense.

In presenting New and Improved Conoco Germ-Processed Motor Oil you are furnished facts of performance. You will at once be convinced of the direct value of this new oil. A test so dramatic, so honest, that it will go down in history!

This test was held at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway. The Contest Board of the American Automobile Association supervised all details, thus assuring an unbiased opinion. Six new regular stock cars were delivered direct to them. They tested and measured each to obtain an equal condition in all.

Six brands of motor oil, of the same S.A.E. grade, were used. Five of them, all purchased by the AAA on the open market, were nationally known, widely recognized leaders. The other one was New and Improved Conoco Germ-Processed Motor Oil. All cars were then carefully broken in for 2500 miles.

Five quarts, a new and complete fill, were put in each car and the cranks sealed. Then the real battle for supremacy began. The cars were driven for as long as the motors continued to operate. Started equally, they were driven as far as they would go—completely ruined—run dry and cracked up.

Here are the results: Oil No. 4 quit at 1713.2 miles; Oil No. 6 quit at 1764.4 miles; Oil No. 5 wrecked the motor at 1815.9; Oil No. 1 ceased its lubricative protection at 2266.8 miles; and Oil No. 3 at 3318.8 miles.

New and Improved Conoco Germ-Processed Motor Oil carried on to a total 4729 miles! Over three thousand miles farther than the first oil to go out, and over fourteen hundred miles farther than the final oil of the five!

It is the Germ-Processing principle, only used by Conoco, that won the test. This "Hidden Quart" that lubricates all parts at all times—that stays up in your motor and never drains away. Here then is proof of motor protection and proof of low consumption. Here is the oil that will make your motor last longer and cost less for the oil it uses.

Drive into a Conoco Station or Dealer for a fill. You are getting the most in lubrication value that money can buy.

Warning TO NEW CAR OWNERS

Some car manufacturers are using new types of bearings which will stand greater pressures and temperatures, resulting from increased power and speed. New and Improved Conoco Germ-Processed Motor Oil has been exhaustively tested on these new bearings. The results show that it gives them greater protection against damage than many straight mineral oils now on the market.

Protect your new car by using the motor oil you can be sure of.
