PUERTO RICO PICKS ITS OWN "BRAIN TRUST"

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the sixth and last article on Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt's recent inspection trip to Puerto Rico.

By RUBY A. BLACK United Press Staff Correspondent SAN JUAN, P. R., April 12 - The New Deal's "brain trust" has not only become "Puerto Rico conscious" with the study made here by Assistant Secretary of Agriculture Rexford Guy Tugwell and his associates, but the island is developing a "brain trust" of its own.

Professor Fernandez Garcia has been given leave from the University of Puerto Rico, at the request of Dr. Tugwell, to make a detailed study of the proposed government purchase and homesteading of the bankrupt United Porto Rico Sugar Company.

Lawyers, engineers, economists, professors, doctors, are devoting much time to consulting with political leaders on the new plans for rehabilitation of Puerto Rico. Dr. Carlos Chardon, chancellor of the university, is in frequent conference with both insular leaders and federal officials there, trying to solve Puerto Rico's problems.

Relief work here has been handled on a non-political basis, after considerable battling. Some of the projects are: 300 miles of municipal roads; building or repairing 100 bridges; 1,000-bed tuberculosis hospital; draining or filling 1,000 acres of malarial swamps; paying 400 teachers; paying municipal doctors in 27 of the 77 municipalities; distribution of four tons of quinine among the poor, reducing the death rate from malaria materially and decreasing school absences to 10 per cent from 40 per cent; employment of 100 nurses on nutrition and child health projects; building electric light and telegraph lines.

Mrs. Roosevelt visited several of the 120 relief offices and was impressed with their efficiency.

Norge Display Tours Residential Areas

Hyatt and Wood Grocery company, Norge refrigerator representatives in this area, Friday sent a Norge demonstration on tour of the residential districts of Cisco, Eastland and Ranger.

A Norge refrigerator, mounted on a trailer, was carried through the streets, preceded by a sound truck from which a voice called public attention to the distinctive qualities of the Norge.

The simplicity, lasting qualities and the refrigeration power of the Rollator-compressor were described together with such other features as the cut-out switch which protects the motor against electrical storms, high and low voltage on the power lines; the sealed-in ice compartment which keeps ice and food-free; the one-piece porcelain interior with its rounded, easily cleaned corners; the adjustable waist-high shelves and so forth.

The demonstrator is on display at the Hyatt and Wood store.

Those careful homemakers who know just where they stand are the ones most enthusiastic about the new Norge. Their past records show what they used to spend. As soon as Rollator Refrigeration goes to work in their kitchens they see these old figures drop as much as $11 a month.

Rollator Refrigeration now comes to you with added improvements and refinements in the leading models. Notice how the latch opens at a touch... how the interior is at once flooded with light. Pull out a smoothly sliding ice tray—from an ice compartment that is odor-proof. Arrange the shelves to suit your purchases. Note the convenient egg basket, Hydrovoir, frozen-dessert tray and butter and cheese rack.

No wonder women everywhere are talking about this new Norge. They want it for the time it will save them, and the comfort it will bring them. But most of all they want it because every month, it will bring them a good substantial money saving. If you would like to have an extra sum of money to spend every single month, see the Norge before you buy any refrigerator.

Observance of Nat'l Flower Week Sought

Mrs. Chas. H. Fee, president of Cisco Garden club, has called attention to the observance of this week as National Flower Week.

A national flower and garden show opened yesterday in Rochester, N. Y., with magnificent and abundant floral exhibits which attracted more than 200,000 spectators were reported to attend.

It is Mrs. Fee's suggestion that this week be observed locally in an attempt to begin the beautification of lawns in order to assist Cisco Garden club in their effort to make Cisco the most attractive city in this section.

This club has done much since its organization two years ago. Its present membership numbers about 25 and is extended to any Ciscoan interested in gardens and the general beautification of the town. Officers are: president, Mrs. Fee; 1st vice-president, Mrs. W. H. LaRoque; 2nd vice-president, Mrs. H. C. Henderson; secretary-treasurer, Mrs. F. J. Ryan.

The most important undertaking which the club has accomplished is the purchase of the site for which the club has purchased a site for a playground and picnic grounds, equipped with playground apparatus for children. Success of this enterprise was witnessed by the gathering of children and grown-ups gathered there each evening during the summer.

The club will meet soon, the exact date to be announced later, according to Mrs. Fee, for the customary exchange when members bring cuttings and seeds to change for others. Definite plans for this spring and summer's campaign will be made at that time.

Woman's Day to Be Observed

April 26th was designated "Woman's Day," Monday at the meeting of the City Federation of Women's Clubs. Representatives from five clubs were in attendance.

On this day, to be observed throughout the state, theatre managers are offering sponsorship of a play to be shown in the local theatre to the Federated club organization, proceeds from which will be used for payment on the clubhouse located in Austin.

Wm. Reagan was chosen chairman for local arrangements. The meeting opened with the club song read by Mrs. Phillip Pettit. A report from the finance chairman, Mrs. J. Olson, was heard, in addition an interesting account of the District Federation meeting, given by Mrs. Olson.

Plans were completed for "Clean-up Week" with each clubwoman being appointed as block chairman to cooperate with Street Commissioner A. Clements in a clean up campaign. Reports from various committee women concluded the session.

Evenly Attend Bridge Tournament

More than seventy guests attended the bridge tournament given Wednesday evening at the Rectory by the Catholic Society. Places, bridge, wreath, and a variety of pot plants were used in the fashion to brighten the room. Adequate accommodations were provided for both auction and contract play.

Prize for high score in contract was won by Mrs. L. C. Moore; second by Mrs. J. W. Holloran; and third by Mrs. Ester Hale. High score in auction was won by Miss Pearl Grant; second high by Mrs. O. P. Wright; and third by Edward Wright. Miss Ora Bess Moore was awarded the all-round cut prize.

Refreshments of cake, sandwiches, ices and coffee were served.

Circle Meets With Mrs. Walker

The Blanche Rose Walker circle of the First Baptist church met Tuesday with Mrs. C. E. Taylor, hostess.

Mrs. Ray Judia, vice chairman, presided during the business meeting. When plans for banqueting the high school seniors were discussed, the conclusion of the lesson night from Thessalonians II by W. D. Brecheen, Mrs. G. T. Adkinson led the closing prayer. Refreshments were served to Messdames Lee Stevens, W. D. McCarroll, Mrs. McRoy, Ray Judia, E. C. McMillan, O. V. Cunningham, R. D. Williams, W. D. Brecheen, and G. T. Adkinson.

XXth Century Club Will Give Texas Day Program

The annual celebration of Texas Day, observed by the Cisco Twentieth Century club with the presentation of a special program, will be held Thursday evening at 8 o'clock at the Federation club house with clubmembers and invited guests in attendance. Mrs. J. T. Anderson will be hostess for the event.

Dr. Rebecca Smith of Texas Christian University, Fort Worth will be principal speaker for the occasion.

The receiving line will be composed of the club president, Mrs. E. P. Crawford; district president, Mrs. Joseph M. Perkins of Eastland; first vice-president, Mrs. J. T. Anderson; second vice-president, Mrs. C. C. Jones; corresponding secretary, Mrs. P. P. Shepard; recording secretary, Mrs. Homer Slicker; treasurer, Mrs. S. E. Hiltson; parliamentarian, Mrs. Phillip Pettit; and the presidents of other local federated clubs. The reception committee includes Mrs. Chas. Fee, Mrs. C. Q. Smith, and Mrs. William Reagan.

The program will open with the song, "Texas, Our Texas," led by Mrs. Chas. Brown. Other numbers will include a song, "The Swallows," by the Community Choral club.

Brewer-Lovett Nuptials Performed

The home of Senator and Mrs. Wilbourne B. Collier in Eastland was a charming background for the wedding of Miss Sadie Brewer, daughter of Eastland county, and Dr. Frank Lovett, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Lovett, who have been identified with the history of the county and city.

The wedding at 10 o'clock Tuesday was attended by immediate relatives of the families.

The bride entered the reception room on the arm of the groom.

She was lovely in a navy blue sheer crepe going-away suit, with hat, shoes, and accessories to match, with clever touches of white. She wore a corsage of lovely pink roses.

Attendees were Miss Thelma Brewer, student of Southern Methodist university, in pastel pink tailored crepe with white hat and accessories. The groom's best man was Raymond Lovett, his brother, a student of Baylor university.

The beautiful ring ceremony was said by Rev. E. F. Stanford, pastor of the Methodist church.

Dr. and Mrs. Lovett left immediately after the ceremony amid a shower of good wishes and rice, for a motor trip to San Antonio. Upon their return to Eastland on Sunday, they will be at the Leonard residence in Hillcrest.

Miss Brewer is a graduate of Texas university following a two-year course at Texas Women's college in Fort Worth.

Dr. Lovett is a graduate of Baylor university, Waco; of the Medical university of Chicago, and was assistant physician and surgeon for two years in Charity hospital, connected with Tulane university in New Orleans. He has been associated the past year with Dr. T. E. Payne in the Payne-Lovett hospital of Eastland.

Birthday Party On Friday, 13th

Friday 13th may have ominous portents to some, but little Miss Peggy Lou Nix, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Nix, 400 H avenue, celebrated her sixth birthday Friday, and to show her complete disregard of the unlucky number, invited thirteen guests to her party.

Games were played during the afternoon and pictures made of the children. Refreshments of ice cream and slices of a large white cake, topped with green candles in pink holders were served.

Guests were: Patsy Jean Walton, Marjorie Crawford, Billie Jean Bolinger, Joy Lee Brownwell, Dorothy Jean Watson, Margie Dupslaf, Ima Jean Curry, Frances Helen Meador, Eula Mae Jackson, Jackie Glenn Webb, Mona Carol Bates, Mary Ila Uihman and the honoree, Peggy Lou Nix.

Mrs. Shepard Has Thurs. "42" Club

Profusions of lilies, snapdragons, spirea, tulips, and stock made lovely the home of Mrs. P. P. Shepard Thursday when she entertained members of the Thursday "42" club.

Prize for high score among the guests was won by Mrs. A. C. Davies and high for the club by Mrs. W. H. LaRoque. Dainty refreshment plates of salad, ribbon and open face sandwiches, tea and cake were served by the hostess assisted by Messdames Brandon, Cox, and Butts.

Present were: Messdames J. T. Berry, L. E. Richardson, T. J. Dean, Chas. Hale, W. H. LaRoque, J. W. Manell, Wm. Reagan, J. Stuart Pearce, Phillip Pettit, Johnnie Cox, J. E. Spencer, Frank L. Turner, Shivers, of Dublin, H. Brandon, J. J. Butts, Geo. D. Fee, B. W. Patterson and A. C. Davies, of Eastland.

Mrs. Wilson at Daughter's Bedside

Mrs. J. P. Aycock, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Wilson, underwent an operation in a Sweetwater hospital Thursday. Reports from Mrs. Wilson who is with her, were that she is doing nicely.

Just a week earlier, Mrs. Aycock's son, Jack, underwent a tonsillectomy.

Lily Pond Is Nucleus for Lawn Design

A lily pond is an interesting project for those who enjoy working in the yard and provides a nucleus around which can be worked out an attractive landscaping design for a back or side lawn.

There are two in Cisco which I have seen recently, one of which is just completed, the other, not yet ready for water to be run, but they are most attractive and represent types of extreme difference.

One is in the side lawn of the W. J. Armstrong home, 1308 M ave. This illustrates the shallow type—not over a foot in depth at the center and inclining to the edges. Minute shells and brilliant rocks gathered by members of the family while on vacations to the Gulf and Pacific coasts, are strewn on the bottom paved with cement. The pool is some 5 feet long—its curving, irregular border outlined with medium-sized rocks interspersed with large shells. Two tiny fishermen with poles are perched along the side, and a miniature toy duck swims among the leaves of just-beginning-to-open lilies, water fern, and cat tails.

The other pond, which is only a single part of a plan that will change the back lawn of the Guy Dabney home, 707 I avenue, into a garden with a vine-covered sun-house, and beds of blooming flowers, is an entirely different type.

As a tribute to Mrs. Dabney's ingenuity, may I mention the fact, that the pond was formerly a storm cellar. With the top removed, and the bottom filled up a foot or more, an ideal pool results. The steps were left and on them are planted varieties of water lilies, ferns, etc., in addition to the other water thriving plants bedded on the bottom. Bulbs and flowers have been planted in the beds bordering the pool and a rock walk is planned. Though incomplete at present this will make a most attractive pool, and is an excellent example of what a bit of clever planning can do.

One of the most extraordinary lily ponds that I have ever seen was in the midst of a lawn fully a city block square. The house, a white bungalow affair trimmed in green, was located on the top of a mesquite and sage covered hill over a mile from a small town near San Angelo.

The owner informed me that the exact spot now occupied by the pond had formerly been the site of an immense bed of perennial California poppies. Deciding upon the pond, she had huge rocks, with which the hills nearby are rampant, hauled and piled more than half a man's height at one end of the designated place. The ground was the excavated—the deep end, about three feet, being dug next to the rocks. The bottom was sloped to meet a winding and curving curbstone that edged the pool some 12 feet by 8. The excavated dirt, which was from the poppy bed, was thrown into the crevices and on top of the rocks. You can imagine the result: the next spring—an almost solid mound of yellow poppies, their golden petals reflected in the pool. Other flowers, ferns, lichen, and plants suitable for rock growing had been planted to replace the poppies when their blooming season was over.

There are numerous ways to build a lily pond; size, depth, and shape can be a matter of choice. They are an attractive addition to any lawn and offer opportunity for exercising originality and ingenuity in creating something new and different.

Miss Bessie Pierce and Miss Nina Smith are in Temple this week, accompanied by Dr. Lee Clark, where as representatives of Randolph, they are entering a debating contest.

R. L. Farley and Omar Finley of Wink are spending the week-end in Cisco.

Longview Visitor Honoree at Bridge

Honoring Mrs. Chas. Hale Jr., of Longview, who with Mr. Hale has been guest of Dr. and Mrs. Chas. Hale this week, Miss Ester Hale entertained with bridge on Wednesday evening.

Pink and white were colors emphasized in bridge appointments and the refreshment course. High score was won by Miss Titta Belle Simmons, and guest prizes were presented to the honoree, Mrs. Hale, and Mrs. J. W. Holloran, of San Antonio.

The guest list included: Messdames Cra Bess Moore, Viola LaMunyon, Winnie Thomas, Ida Mae Collins, Titta Belle Simmons, Catherine Cunningham, Laura Lu Waring, Katherine Pettit, Louise Trammell, Marjorie Mayer, Blanch Van Horn; Messdames R. N. Cluck, Dexter Shelley, H. Brandon, J. W. Holloran, Arthur Cunningham, and Chas. Hale of Longview.

S. S. Class Hosts At Picnic Friday

Members of the Victory Bible class of the First Baptist church were hosts at a picnic given Friday evening for their wives.

Tables were laid in the picnic grounds at Lake Cisco, and a delicious lunch served. President of the class, H. Brandon, and teacher, W. F. Walker, were in charge of arrangements for the entertainment.

Talks were made during the evening by C. S. Karkalits, Rev. E. S. James, and Asa Skiles, adjunct superintendent of the adult department.

More than sixty guests attended.

Lucille Reagan Circle Meets

The Lucille Reagan circle of the First Baptist church met Tuesday at the home of Mrs. Isenbower on D avenue.

The business session was presided over by Mrs. Skiles, chairman, who also led the devotional. Mrs. J. R. Burnett taught the lesson from the Book of Matthew.

During the social hour, refreshments were served to those present and "Pal" gifts were exchanged. Nine members and guests attended.

Mrs. J. J. Butts spent yesterday in Dallas and Fort Worth.

Table Settings for Warm Weather

The day is started cheerfully by breakfast on the terrace. This table is particularly charming with its hemstitched cloth of Scottish linen in a design of squares of alternating pastel tints.

1/4 tsp. salt
1 tsp. vanilla

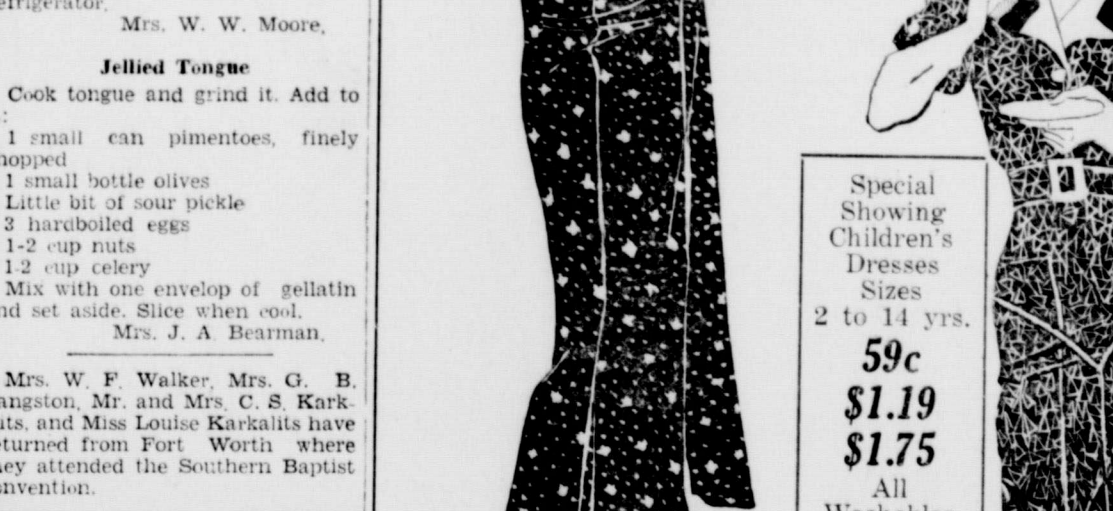

Beat eggs, to which salt has been added, until frothy, and add cream of tartar. Continue beating and add sugar slowly. Then add vanilla. Fold in flour, which has been sifted from 4 to 6 times, very carefully in order to avoid air bubbles. Bake for 45 minutes at 300 degrees.

Jellied Tongue
Cook tongue and grind it. Add to it:
1 small can pimentoes, finely chopped
1 small bottle olives
Little bit of sour pickle
3 hardboiled eggs
1-2 cup nuts
1/2 cup celery
Mix with one envelope of gelatin and set aside. Slice when cool.

Florist Gives New Ideas for Cisco Gardens

Whether it's a instinctive feeling for the soil, a certain pride in coming as near as we mortals can to producing a living thing, or whether it's just Spring that tricks us into believing we can raise a garden of orchids in a rocky corner near the back fence—whatever it is, it appears just about this time of year, it's perennial in occurrence, and it is accompanied by such symptoms as this:

We view the backyard from all angles; we measure the front yard; we vision a rose garden here, a flower bed there. Finally we drag out the spade, hoe and rake. Operations with these implements prove rather a pin prick to the inflated enthusiasm; but if it does survive the aches and pains, we rush to town to purchase packages of seed with the most beautifully illustrated flowers. The directions say they will grow easily, and the pictures look so beautiful. Somehow we forget that we live in Texas, and even though Texas can boast of every type of climate from frigid to torrid, it all doesn't happen to be located in Eastland county.

Suggestions
Mrs. Barton Philpott, of Philpott the Florist, and an authority on flowers, has volunteered suggestions of several specimens of flowers which grow well in this climate and will furnish a slight variation from the common varieties such as petunias, zinnias, and phlox, which do so well and which we finally resort to as old-standbys.

A new kind of nasturtium, which Mrs. Philpott calls attention to, is a double-petaled variety, which flourishes as well here as does the single-petaled type. It is of unusual beauty and extraordinary sweetness. The vines grow from 2 to 3 feet in height and should be supported.

TAX RETURN PUBLICITY

Another plan has been adopted by the senate to rope in the tax-dodger. Heretofore income tax returns were sacred. No light of publicity was allowed to invade the darkness in which the government shielded the statistics of wealthy citizens who contributed the bulk of the taxes to the federal coffers. The senate, adopting the LaFollette proposal, has voted to make all tax returns public records. They will not be published by the government, but the records will be open to inspection by the public and the returns of the Rockefellers, the Morgans, the Mellons and so on down the line to the Mitchells and the Mitchell ilk may be conned over by the smallest citizen who is anxious that his vote shall be recorded in effective government—that is, these returns will be thus opened in the event the house adopts the proposal and a White House veto does not cut short the enactment. Publicity for income tax returns has been a debated issue since income tax became a fact of government revenue. Publicity is a great moral force. Under its white spotlight, rascality and crookedness finds sterile soil. A government and government operation shrouded in uncertainty and mystery develop the poisonous fungi of selfishness and eventual despotism. Censorship and ignorance are weapons of tyrants, the implements of the Mussolinis, the Hitlers, and all the dictators. It is rare, indeed, to find one such whose powers are benevolently exercised. When the rarity does occur, the national advance is the swifter, but the tyranny ceases to cultivate the public interest when the benevolent user of it is removed from the picture. To know is to do, so far as the public is concerned. To suspicion is to cultivate violence. The country whose government must endure the continual test of the public knowledge, one whose administration is intimately responsive to the public will may not advance in nationalism as rapidly as another temporarily under a patriotic dictatorship, but it is assured of a sounder citizenship and a longer and stronger life. Democratic failures in the past have been due to a lapse of citizenship responsibility, and a surrender of the prerogatives of that citizenship to cliques and clans and blocs and mobilized selfish interests. These have little chance to develop power under the public knowledge of their objectives and equipment. A ready knowledge of the holdings and financial influence of wealthy people and corporations as well as a knowledge of the political ramifications of powerful persons or groups of persons would serve a purifying purpose in bringing the hidden to surface and treating it to the infra-red rays of the sun of the public understanding. But, there is at the same time a limit to such publicity. A certain distance in this direction can be gone with impunity. But there is the fact that private affairs are not only entitled to reasonable secrecy, but that such secrecy is often necessary to the protection of these affairs. There are interests and persons who would not hesitate to adapt legal compulsion to subversive ends. The issue approved by the senate brings in the old, old question of the preservation of the influence of private initiative in the national development. It is a question of proper balance. Governing a nation like the United States is a staggering task, and the success of such a government is a mighty tribute to the democratic powers inherent in its people.

THE BUS HOLDUP

Holdup of the Greyhound transcontinental bus near Weatherford the other day recalls ancient Solomon's statement that there is nothing new under the sun. The bus holdup was simply a re-enactment of the old-fashioned stage coach robberies with modern weapons. The guns used would shoot faster and truer and one of them would shoot several hundred times in one loading—a considerable improvement over the "thumb busters" with which the Bret Harte type of road agent persuaded his victims into surrendering their valuables. But a bullet from the modern weapon would kill no "deader" than one from the old-fashioned weapon. The horses of the stagecoach were transformed into the horsepower of a powerful gasoline motor and the prairie ruts into a smooth pavement. But the effect of the command to halt was the same, and there was no difference between the motives of the bandits of today and yesterday and the emotions of the people who were the victims of the robbery.

The point to be considered is the fact that the success of the recent robbery may encourage more crimes of the same character, much to the discomfort of the travellers and the injury of the bus company. It may come to such a point that each bus will be required to carry an armed escort as did the old stage coaches.

STILL A WHITE SPOT

Texas continues to be a white spot on the map. Commercial failures in March were 34 per cent below the number for February, 1934, and March, 1933, according to the report of the bureau of business research of the University of Texas. Number of failures during the first three months of 1934 was 58 per cent less than for the corresponding period last year. There were 21 failures in March and 79 during the first three months. Total March liabilities were $436,000, seven per cent under February and 24 per cent under March, 1933. A year ago the human atoms of the social order were "scared to death." Now a vast majority are as full of fight as a Boston terrier. A wonderful resurrection.

CENTENNIAL HALF-DOLLAR

Likeness of Stephen F. Austin and of Sam Houston, the familiar outlines of the Texas Alamo, and the Lone Star, state emblem, will all be depicted upon the Texas Centennial Museum memorial half-dollar, to be minted under the Connally-Patman coinage law. Sen. Connally has announced that the design has been approved, and a sculptor will be chosen soon by a committee, including three congressmen from Texas and himself, to prepare the forms for the coin. Every cent of revenue from the sale of these coins will go into construction of a state museum on the university campus.

EXTRA! EXTRA! SUCKER BITES SHARK

Chief of the Dumbbells in "The Hall of Folly"

By HUGH NUGENT FITZGERALD

This is a merry old world—regardless of the lean years and fat years and the morons who work themselves into high place on the fringe of the passing show. Dr. William A. Wirt, superintendent of the steel town of Gary, speaking of its public schools, sought publicity and he found it. Dr. Wirt has been paraded in the public fringe for many years as an educator. Indeed, he has devised many new systems and has exploited his view as well as self wherever and whenever he could plant his polished brogans in the center of the stage of publicity. There appear to be single track minds ever seeking publicity in the world of education as well as in the wide domain of political action. Dr. Wirt loves publicity as the show girl of the Folies loves to be pictured and publicized in the press of the country.

Yes, "he eats it up."
He made a sorry spectacle of himself in his latest fling.
Speaker Henry T. Rainey of Ill. drew the record on him. Two years ago this worthy chief of the American dumbbells and publicity seekers was for what is known as "advanced radicalism." Indeed, he flooded Speaker Rainey with the thirdest creations of his brain cells. Like Paul of Tarsus the worthy doctor walked down the broad highway known as the public road and executed a beautiful flop. He told it to the world that Roosevelt was "the first Kerensky of a communistic revolution to come" and that the stage was all fixed. He was shocked. His deals and traditions became red hot and full of thunder and lightning and dynamite. All the anti-Roosevelt publications of the country and inspired orators caught the Wirt idea. The Hoosier schoolmaster became famous in a single night. His face was in the public prints everywhere. Then his hand was called. He was invited to appear under the big dome in the city of Washington. He was sworn as a witness. He was held to the rule. He flinched, he flickered and fell. He was sent back to Gary, one of the famous house of steel centers of the western world. He had shot his bolt but it wasn't a bolt—it was a mass of pulp, worthless as evidence, but even then it was branded as a mass of fiction or byplay that had been passed on to the head of the tribe of American dumbbells by the merry girls and boys at a lively dinner party.

There is a merry side to life. There is a whimsical side to life. There are political jesters or clowns or comedians who ever come to the surface and (when invited) are willing entertainers in the house of jollity and they wind up by becoming the victims the stuffed victims, of the people who have taken them for a ride. Dr.

William A. Wirt, in his own mind the wisest of men, was taken for a ride. He was stuffed like a goose or a turkey ready for the oven and then he was dismissed by the revelers of the night and sent back to the woods of Hoosierland as thoroughly plucked and stuffed as the Vermonters stuff the Thanksgiving bird for the table in celebration of the coming of the early Puritans in the long ago.
There are times when the book wise are fools and worldly fools are the wise.
Educator Wirt is eligible for the kingship of the great tribe of high-brow or low-brow morons who are as thick as fleas in the sand in many of the groups who pose as the Solomons of the age and the brainiest among their fellow mortals. Give him the crown and may his life be long and his scant stock of worldly wisdom increase as time rolls by. Next.

Through the Editor's Spectacles
By GEORGE

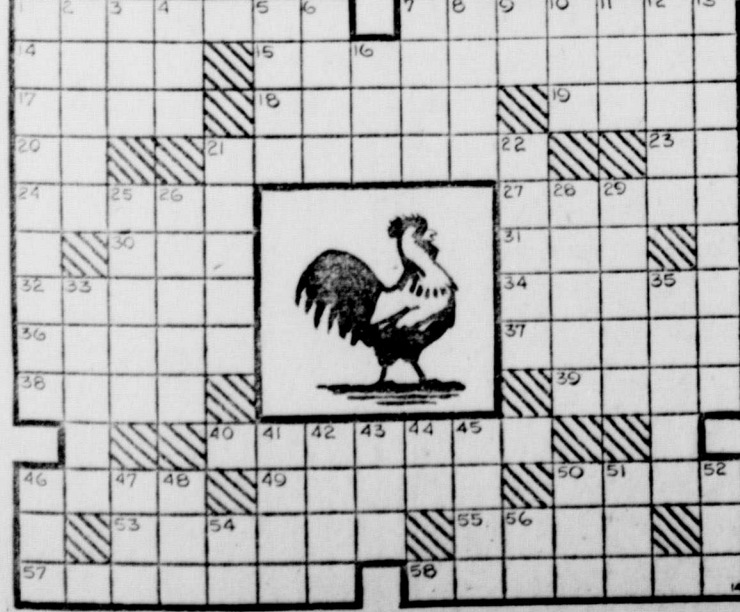

I am happy to have been the agent to thaw out the ecclesiastical dignity. The congregation of the First Baptist church this morning should find genius warmed with a spark of human sympathy as a result. Not that I intentionally surrendered the editorial person to any Chaplin-esque roles, but because O. C. Leveridge couldn't throw straight and I measured about one-third the distance between first base and pitcher's box in grabbing for the ball.
What was funny about that, I am unable to appreciate, even at this distance, but it was enough to get Matthew and John mixed up in the ministerial mind. If the Rev. E. S. James takes his text from Paul and preaches on Silas this morning, the reason will be obvious in my mind.

Tomorrow's Star Signals
By OCTAVINE

The morning concerns serious problems. Do the routine work on inventions. Be careful of colds in the throat. Look into real estate matters. The afternoon is deceitful for lovers. It is too tricky for satisfactory social events. The early evening favors the signing of contracts.
Are you planning a garden?
The Mars garden is for you, who are born in Aries March 21-Nov. 21, and Scorpio (Oct. 24-Nov. 23). It consists of sweet rocket, hedge mustard, scarlet flax, arabis, honeysuckle, flowering tobacco, anemone, nepetula, star thistle, coleus and barberry.
TOMORROW'S BIRTHDAYS
You are interested in curious things. Curiosity may lead you to invent. The balance wheel of Saturn, will hold you straight in your course April 5, through May 1 and July 17 through August 15 and January of 1935. The need for financial adjustment will arise between Sept. 17 and 27.

The bluebonnets are getting out in a hurry. Brown sanitorium has a beautiful parkway bed in full bloom. Dean E. B. Isaacs, of Randolph, is reaping an aesthetic harvest of blossoms from a bed he sowed with wild plants five years ago. City Sec'y J. B. Cate has a residential crop of them. There are many others.
* * *
Speaking of blossoms, east Texas, Louisiana and other warm wooded sections have one forest plant in particular whose spring blooming I envy them. That is dogwood. Those star-like white petals crowded against a background of moist, new green in the deep of the woods form a sight as magical as Easter lilies in Easter calm. I love west Texas for its virility, its freedom and for the unfathomable mystery and beauty of its pulsing vastness, but there are some beauties I wish it might borrow of elsewhere to supplement its own. The quiet reverence of deep woods, the virgin purity of dogwood blossoms in filtered sunlight, the sharp scent of pine boughs sticky with new sap, millions of golden specs floating in a slanting beam—these are impressions of nature's woodland spring picture that one cannot forget.
* * *
It is comforting to reflect that west Texas soil is capable of supporting such horticultural charm. Only the human agency is required.
* * *
Perhaps miracles, like sin, multiply. At any rate W. R. Ezzell has started something with his report of four peaches out of one bloom. Now he will have to go more carefully through his peach orchard if he outdoes Dean E. B. Isaacs, of Randolph college, with a horticultural miracle. Mr. Ezzell Friday reported, with a convincing exhibit of the phenomenon itself, that one bloom on his peach tree had produced a quartet of embryo peaches. He said that he had not seen such a thing in his life before, and doubted that a nurseryman had ever seen it.

But Saturday Dean Isaacs went to Mr. Ezzell one better twice from his own orchard at once. Explaining that confusing sentence, the dean Saturday morning brought in two exhibits each of which had five (5) little peaches growing out of what had been one flower. Thus he went Mr. Ezzell one peach better twice at once.
Like Mr. Ezzell, he left the exhibits here. He also found a triple peach growing on the same twig with the quintets, but triplets are small shakes to quintets, of course and he merely mentioned it.

How's that for a whole lot of rare thing.

BROCKTON, Mass., April 13.—Miss Cora A. Davis was mistaken as to the true date of her birth until 70 years of age. She believed her birthday to be March 31, 1864, the notation entered by her parents in the family Bible, but records in the town hall showed the true date to be March 30.

The ROMANTIC RUNAWAY KATHARINE HAVILAND TAYLOR

BEGIN HERE TODAY
PABLITO, handsome youth, becomes a fugitive when he flees from Key West to Havana with BEBE and LEE, two thieves. Pablito has been accused of a murder he did not commit. MARIANA TRIKANDY, who would ruin him innocent fears, scandal and remains silent.
Pablito falls in love with ESTELLE FIELD, daughter of rich JIM FIELD, in Havana, under the name "Juniata." He is celebrated as a boxer and he and BEBE open a gymnasium.
SIR ARTHUR, a titled Englishman and Pablito's father, begins a search for his son, employing BILLINGS. He is convinced Pablito is Sir Arthur's son and innocent of the charge against him. Sets to work to prove this.
Three years pass and Pablito sees Estelle again. They meet secretly until her father takes her away on a yacht cruise. When Pablito finds out, he returns. He reports that Estelle is engaged to ALICE DAVIDS, who has been months in Havana. Estelle is lost to her. Estelle does agree to marry David's son.
Newspapers report the death of SIR ARTHUR.
NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XXXIX
PABLITO read the news of Estelle Field's engagement to Alice David's, the son of Mrs. J. Turner David's of New York, Paris and Newport, as he sat on a bench in the sunshine of Nice. The news paper mentioned the fact that the engagement had been rumored some time before and when Pablito saw the word, "rumor," his heart paused a beat.
Then he folded the Paris Herald carefully and neatly and laid it beside him on the bench. A much rouged woman with heavily darkened brows and lashes passed by, sending him a glance of invitation. He looked through her, seeing her not at all, and she moved on with a hardening of an already hard face and little shrug of the shoulders.
The woman had seen the blond hair and blue eyes before and had tried, in her usually successful way, to capture him. Always before he had looked away from her, embarrassed. Today he was hard, well, the woman thought, fortunately the sea is full of fish. Nevertheless she remembered the young man's face, forgetting for a time to make her careful, skillful estimate of the male occupants of the benches.
* * *
PRESENTLY Pablito arose and walked toward the hotel at which he was stopping. He was wearing of carefully planned flower beds made up of canna and low growing foliage of red and green striped leaves; wearied of the endless fleur de lis made by gardeners who saw no beauty in the casual arrangement of flowers; wearied, too, of the equally artificial men and women who came to this world, seeking that which they saw as "pleasure."
He would go back to Cuba. Pablito decided to the bleak apartment over a grocery store. There at least the sounds and the smells would be genuine.
In New York Mr. J. Smithson Billings cleared his throat. He was dictating a letter and what he had to say was, "I can find no trace of him—" He knew he must say it but the words did not come easily. Billings moved in his swivel chair, picked up a pencil and laid it down again. Then he said boldly, determinedly. "I can find no trace of him—"

The stenographer made pot books on a pad of soft, gray paper. Billings went on quickly now "Shall I go on with it?" he added. "Something you let drop when we last met made me think that perhaps you wished to drop the case—"
* * *

PABLITO, in his hotel room went to stand by the elaborately draped window from which he could see the shimmer of blue water through the palms.
He was stricken by the realization that the first announcement of Estelle's engagement had been only a rumor and also by the feeling that he might, perhaps, in some manner have forestalled the consummation of that earlier hint.
He was certain that Alice David's—whichever he might be—could not love Estelle so wholly as he himself did. Equally certain was he that he and Estelle belonged together in a way that was as rare as it was beautiful.
Bitterness welled in him. Some man—his father—had caused him to be born of shame and into pain. Angela had put scars upon his body which, creeping into his soul, and memory, had made him a murderer. Being a murderer, he had lost the right to claim the one girl in the world he loved. That was the picture of his life. If only he could meet that father who had forsaken him! What he would do to him—
But all that was getting him nowhere. The words on the printed newspaper page danced before Pablito's eyes. "A rumor of the engagement—"
Yes, he would go back to Cuba, the only place that he could think of as home. He would build a house there, get to work and keep himself occupied with varied interests as a child builds up heaps of blocks, knocks them down and builds them up again. A home with a garden, some vegetables and fruits and trees and flowers. He could have that much, at least.
Perhaps he would become a collector like some he had met and go about buying little pieces of pottery, big canvases, carved things from Spain. Then when he had grown portly and old he could toddle about among these treasures saying, "I picked this up in Toledo," or, "I found this in one of the bazaars at Biskra." By that time, perhaps, he would look back on the hot noon of his youth with pity and not even a faint understanding, for by then he would love things and not people. Perhaps that was the better way to love, after all.

She looked up from the deep chair in which she sat and saw his face, drawn by pain and blanched by it. She couldn't stand that. Estelle knew misery, whether it was deserved or not. She put out a hand and her father clasped it, holding it tight.
"Estelle," he said, his voice not quite even, "I'd like to run down to Cuba if you will. I've never suggested it—since that time—perhaps you're over all that now. I've wondered—"
"I haven't much feeling left about anything," she assured him in a tone that was more chilly than she liked.
"Well then, if you can be ready tomorrow there's a boat sailing at 10. I thought the trip on the water might do me good. I haven't been feeling quite well." He mopped his brow.
"Tomorrow at 10 will be all right with me," the girl told him.

Estelle noticed that her father was oddly pale as he made his way into the great New York house one cold evening of late March. He had been increasingly difficult to get along with. He was snappish, snarling or, in turn, morose. This evening he seemed unsteady after he had ordered a stiff drink and raised it from the tray on which it had been brought to him. A little of the amber liquid went over the rim of the glass, sinking into the thick rug.
He drank too hastily, then he filled his glass from the silver shaker. He wondered whether Estelle had seen the evening's newspaper. Of course Alice David's and that mother of his had seen them. Of course Mrs. David would snub Jim Field now!
He decided he would give Alice half an hour to break the news to Estelle that the engagement was off. Field wondered what excuse Alice would offer, if any. Alice's sort could be brutal. He wondered, with a softening of heart, whether this would hurt Estelle greatly and, propelled by a rare instinct, moved toward her, standing close to her, hungry to lay a hand on hers.

She looked up from the deep chair in which she sat and saw his face, drawn by pain and blanched by it. She couldn't stand that. Estelle knew misery, whether it was deserved or not. She put out a hand and her father clasped it, holding it tight.
"Estelle," he said, his voice not quite even, "I'd like to run down to Cuba if you will. I've never suggested it—since that time—perhaps you're over all that now. I've wondered—"

BEHIND THE SCENES IN WASHINGTON

BY RODNEY DUTCHER

WASHINGTON—Demand for detective fiction here has fallen to many mysteries close at hand.

More fun to do your own investigating, speak your own mind, and your own clues, and your own solutions.

Many local mysteries aren't ever solved except by consensus of opinion.

But Washingtonians still prefer the puzzles offered by Roosevelt, General Johnson, the Brain

Trust, and others to the problems

Philo Vance, Hercule Poirot, and

Peter Wimsey. Take a few minutes:

Did Roosevelt care much

whether he was beaten on his veto of the veteran-federal pay cut bill?

What's behind the NRA cen-senhip order?

Were the airmail contracts needed so as to give more contract to E. L. Cord?

Who kidded Dr. Wirt?

Why did the Justice Department announce trial of its suit against Remington-Rand right after and had viciously attacked the deal?

These are the most complete answers anyone can give at this time, though scores of wisecracks explain more luridly and cock-snily.

Apparently not Administration defense in the House was stopped managed. Roosevelt could have vetoed the bill in the Senate had he vetoed himself. He hasn't yet decided to anyone why he didn't veto and fight.

General Johnson is staggered from exhaustion. Recently he came incensed at a series of newspaper interpretations and comments.

Apparently it just happened that the peculiar airmail favored left

Cord in an extremely favored position to bid for contracts.

4. Dozens of names have been mentioned in current gossip and several inaccurate versions have been printed. Perhaps several persons had a hand in it, but the list is narrowing and the tale will soon be told.

5. Such "coincidences" happen

so frequently that it's a moral certainty the White House gave the word. But try and prove it!

DON'T buy any live gorillas from Washington by mail. It's a racket and a fellow has just been indicted for collecting money through the mails for gorillas he didn't possess. Curtis Dail, presidential son-in-law, hadn't been heard of here for some time until he publicly protested the Securities

Act. Alice Longworth languaged the Senate veto debate.

Roosevelt, Ickes, and Morgenthau are all enthusiastic stamp collectors. They trade with one another and traded with Litvinoff during Russian negotiations. Whether Litvinoff is a bona fide collector or brought stamps as an added attraction is still unclear. Pat Harrison has been waving a handkerchief and I forefinger in recent debate. He burned them in lighting a match. Blind men are being given the newspaper-magazine commissions in lobbies of federal buildings and it's expected that 150 of them will soon be working at it, with the result that most blind beggars will be off the streets.

the deposit account was reduced by that amount.

The indictments alleged that the entire transaction was designed to mislead depositors and stockholders.

In a statement today Mr. Van

Sworesen described the transactions as "open and shut purchases and sales of property for cash."

Hammond Will Be U. S. Marshall

WASHINGTON, April 14.—President Roosevelt will send the name of M. Frank Hammond of Houston to the senate "in a few days" for confirmation as U. S. marshal for the southern district of Texas, Senator Tom Connally of Texas said today.

If confirmed he will succeed H. E. L. Toombs, a republican and youngest U. S. marshal at the time he took office Feb. 3, 1931. Mr. Toombs has been removed from office by presidential order, Senator Connally announced. Mr. Hammond, a democrat, is a former Harris county sheriff.

exquisite blooms for cutting and arranging in vases. It is a delicate, umbrella-shaped flower that comes in a variety of colors.

The Snapdragon is another species of flower which is beginning to popularize itself with gardeners of this section. The seeds are small and do better if planted first in a box and transplanted to beds, said Mrs. Philpott. Special care should be taken in watering these plants not to spatter water on the blooms, or if they must be watered by a sprinkler, do this early enough in the morning that the blooms may be dry by nightfall. Reason for this, she explained, is the plant's extreme susceptibility to rust.

Statice is an attractive flower in either the green or the dried state. It thrives in a sunny location where the soil is poor and needs little moisture. Colors of the small clusters of blooms are white, lavender, and purple.

Asters
Asters, if one obtains the wilt-resisting variety, can be grown here with moderate success. They do better in partly shaded places for too much sun rots their stems. Blooms are smaller than the hot-house plants, but they are pretty for bouquets.

Salpiglossis with its lily-like blooms of rich coloring arising from a low base of leaves, is an annual ideal for boxes.

Gypsophila elegans or baby breath is a delicate little flower that combines beautifully with other flowers in bouquets or vase arrangement. It grows best in a shallow box. Candytuft is another dainty flower excellent for massing or borders which combines well with other flowers. It comes in a variety of colors, but the white does better here. If you have a small space left in your garden, try one of the flowers mentioned by Mrs. Philpott. It might prove a permanent addition to your list of favorite flowers. Patronize Our Advertisers.

Coming House Fire Is Fatal to Youth

FRANT, Okla., April 14.—Roy Doan, a student at Southern State Teachers' college, was killed today when a fire broke out in his room. Doan, 19, isabel, was burned to death and his brother, Dewey, was badly burned when a rooming house here was destroyed by fire today. The two were trapped in a second room but Dewey Doan was rescued. Cause of the fire was not immediately learned. When firemen reached him, the woman jumped from a second story window, sustaining slight injuries. Eight others were able to escape by the stairway. Roy Doan is a teacher in the day school near Durant.

V-type Engine Holds World's Records

- ON LAND
- ON WATER
- IN THE AIR

SALUTE THE CHAMPION—THE V-TYPE ENGINE. It holds every major record on land, on water and in the air.

It has the stuff that makes a winner in any grueling test . . . speed to go into the lead and the endurance to hold that lead to the finish. For it takes more than speed to win under the severest racing conditions. It takes efficiency of a rare order and the ability to keep going when the others drop out.

That's why record-breaking automobiles, speed boats and seaplanes use the V-type engine. And like these V-type engines, the Ford V-8 can take it.

Right there is the reason for the outstanding performance of the New Ford V-8. No other low-price car can match it on the road because no other low-price car has a V-8 engine. Fact is, you have to pay more than $2000 to get a V-type eight-cylinder engine in any other car but Ford.

We invite you to drive the New Ford V-8 and let it tell its own revealing story of performance, safety and comfort.

21 Date of Double Significance To Students and Friends of Randolph

R. COGSWELL, President Ex-Students Ass'n.

It is a date of double significance to those who have been students of Randolph college. To them it signifies not only a memorial day in Texas history, but also a day that has grown to be an annual home-coming for the school. Last year there were more of the exes present than in several years. The date is most upon us again, and it is most fitting that it should be marked with an interest and more enthusiasm than last year.

Do you remember how she could throw those free goals?

Ex-Student Notes

Prospects for a large number of ex-students attending the Randolph day and Home-Coming, April 20 and 21, are very bright. In fact, it promises to be the biggest and best Home-Coming ever held. A large number of the old students have already written or sent word that they would be here at that time.

Miss Louise Pyron of Sylveser, formerly of Cisco, wrote that she planned to be here on Saturday. Miss Pyron for the past several years has been teaching at Numan.

Mrs. Cecil Craig arrived the past week from her home in San Antonio, and will remain until after the Home-Coming. Mrs. Craig will be remembered here as Mary Farley.

Mr. and Mrs. Austin Holmes of Pleasant Hill plan to be here for the Home-Coming. Mr. Holmes is the principal of the Pleasant Hill school.

Charles Roberts writes that he will be here Friday, April 20, for Randolph Day and Home-Coming. Mr. Roberts is a student in Texas Tech, Lubbock, this year.

Marion Roberts of Skelitytown sends word that he will be here for the Home-Coming. Mr. Roberts for the past year has been connected with the Magnolia company.

Mr. and Mrs. Justin Holmes and son, Justin Allen, will be here for Randolph Day. Mrs. Holmes will be remembered as Evelyn Peterson. Mr. Holmes is the principal of the Trinity school.

Ned Kemp writes "Just a word to wish you and the school all the luck in the world for your plans for Randolph Day." Mr. Kemp is now associated with the Y. M. C. A. of Galveston.

Miss Mildred and Evelyn Creath have written that they would be here for Randolph Day. Miss Evelyn Creath is teaching this year.

Word has been received that Miss Jennie Fae "Chubby" O'Neal would be here for Randolph Day.

Lynn Faires sends word that he and his wife will be with us for the Home-Coming.

James Martin sends word that he plans to be with us for the Home-Coming.

Word has been received that Miss Lenora "Cockle" Cook of Coiorado will be here for Randolph Day. Miss Cook for the past two years has taught in the Westbrook schools.

Floyd Martin of Dunn is expected for the celebrations.

Oscar Leech of Sylvestor sends word that he will be with us for Randolph Day.

Alban Lynch expects to be able to attend Randolph day. Mr. Lynch is the pastor of the church at Slaton.

J. Hollis Clark says he will be here for Randolph day. Mr. Clark is a student in S. M. U.

Miss Hazel Preston says she will be here for Randolph day. Miss Preston is a teacher in the Ivan schools.

Mrs. B. N. Nichols of Baird will be with us for Randolph day. Mrs. Nichols will be remembered here as Miss Ruby Latson.

Rev. Ben Parker is expected to attend the Home-Coming. Mr. Parker is the pastor of the First Christian church, Breckenridge.

N. L. Taylor sends word that he will be with us. Mr. Taylor is a student in Abilene Christian college this year.

Miss Jessie McFall says that she will be here for Randolph day. Miss McFall is a teacher in the Romney schools.

Miss Grace Bradshaw says she will be with us for Randolph day. Miss Bradshaw is one of the teachers in the Romney schools.

Miss El Dora Cooner of DeLeon will be here for Randolph day and Home-Coming. While here Miss Cooner will be the guest of Miss Mary Wilson. Miss Weathers was formerly of Cisco.

Joe Frederick will be here as he says "in a big way" on Randolph day and Home-Coming.

Miss Kathryn St. Clair of Seymour will attend the Home-Coming. While here Miss St. Clair will be the guest of Miss Rozelle Pippen. Miss St. Clair will graduate from John Tarleton, Stephenville, this spring.

J. W. St. Clair of Seymour will be here for Randolph day. Mr. St. Clair will be the guest of Miss Jennie Lee Matthews while here.

RANDY CAMPUS APPEARANCE IS MUCH IMPROVED

"A thing of beauty is a joy forever." School days at Randolph then will long be remembered as one of the choice spots of beauty since that campus itself has now grown into a lovely and graceful park. The progressive spirit which has characterized Randolph for the past year has actually made itself seen and felt. The campus has been so improved that the school no longer seems a mighty fortress on the summit of a barren hill but rather invites everyone to enjoy its oasis, if one might call it such, among the rocks and crags.

Spelling welcome to all who wish to avail themselves, there stands at the entrance of the grounds an arch of native stone built by the present senior class whose motto veritably seems to be "Forward." On either side of the winding road which, by the way, is no longer a dangerous hazard, young trees have been set out and will one day lend their shade to those in quest of higher learning. The hillside has been cleared of underbrush, tall grass, and weeds and rather resembles a park in the making. On top of the hill leading to the administration building there is a sidewalk on each side of the road bordered by a private hedge and a row of pecan trees. A double road has been built from the main building to the boys' dormitory corresponding to the one leading to the girls' dormitory. Flowers will soon offer a spot of color against the hedges and evergreen trees which have been set out in the space between the roads. Another road leads from Bivins hall to the president's home and it too has been bordered with hedges and trees. The road from Bivins hall to the lake road has been completed and affords a convenient short cut.

Graveled Walk A walk of gravelled rock has been laid up the hillside to the girls' dormitory and is a great improvement over the rocky, weedy path which formerly led up the hill. Hedges have been set out on each side. A flagstone walk leads from the gravelled one to a canna bed and on to a cactus bed. The cactus bed, one of the prettiest of its kind, looks as if no human hand had placed it on the hill but as if it had just grown there in its natural setting. This bed contains numerous kinds of cacti which have been brought in by interested students. On the other side of the gravelled walk is a yucca bed and a bed of shasta daisies.

Sidewalks have been laid from the front of each dormitory to the main building, and a brick walk has been laid at the side entrance of the boys' dormitory. A rose garden has been planted on the west side of the main building to balance the one on the east side. Evergreen trees have been planted in no small number between the administration building and dormitories. A newly mowed lawn adds greatly to the general appearance. The two hilly ponds have also received recent attention; purple frings are now blooming around one. No part of the campus has escaped notice. Even the ancient football field has been set out in trees, and a hedge has been placed around the tennis court.

Come out to see for yourself and remain to compliment our lovely campus.

THE LIBRARY

A number of new books have been added to the library this year, and the entire library has been "overhauled." Books have been reclassified, and are now being recatalogued. Those who have assisted the librarian, Miss Ruby Russell, in this work have been very faithful. All visitors are invited Randolph day to visit the library.

- Library News 1. What's a check in the library? Yes, an added attraction for the sports. 2. Oh, yes, a new magazine rack for all true story and western magazines. 3. Pictures on the wall? Yes, a change of scenery. 4. New books? Les, lots! But the same old story—education books! 5. The library as a poll, in that voting boxes for beauty contests, are so important that they are placed on the dictionary which is never used, which accounts for the empty boxes. 6. A new waste basket which of course is always empty and the paper on the floor! Why? Because a waste basket is a foreign object. 7. A new paper rack has also been acquired, preferably to keep the papers, although sometimes they take racks and all. 8. The librarian, although this is her fourth year, is just now catching on to the dean's tricky, education questions, of "What are the three sweet peas of compositions?" etc, which of course are found in Hall Quest, the most popular book in the library. Locking through the library doors You see: 1. Howard Martin—Pat Horn. 2. Jack LaRue—Hortez Tyndall. 3. Charles Elmore—Clara Belle Burkes. 4. The librarian, saying "Please study and don't talk." 5. Charles Ella Hamlett—writing letters. 6. Melrose Henderson—talking to just anybody. 7. A preacher boy—with just any girl? 8. Of course, the studious few—who are A pupils.

be with us for Randolph day and Home-Coming. Miss Mallie Lee Pyron of Byers will be the guest of Miss Ethel Mae Wilson. Miss Pyron is one of the teachers in the Byers schools.

ALMA MATER On fair Cisco's northern border Reared against the sky, Proudly stands our Alma Mater While the years go by. (Chorus) Forward ever be our watchword, Conquer and prevail, Hail to thee, Our Alma Mater, Randolph, all hail! Cherished by our sons and daughters Memories reach the throng, Hail to thee, Our Alma Mater, While we sing our song.

YOU ARE INVITED April 11, 1934. To the Ex-Students and Friends of Randolph: The faculty and student-body of Randolph Junior College invite you to be present for Randolph Day and Home-Coming, April 20 and 21. We are planning a big Randolph Day and Home-Coming, and we want you to be with us. We want to make this the best Home-Coming ever. We are sure that you would like to come back and see the improvements that have been made on the campus and to greet the old students and friends, and we hope that it will be possible for you to be with us. April 20 and 21 is the time. We do hope you can make it. Sincerely yours, DAVID F. TYNDALL, President, Randolph Junior College.

"Pop" still tells them how.

BUILDINGS AT RANDOLPH ARE PUT IN SHAPE

Every ex-student of Randolph regardless of whether he left the school gladly or sorrowfully, left with a mental picture of the halls, classrooms, dining hall, auditorium, and even the Dean's office. Alumni, in visiting their alma mater, enjoy recognizing things. If the buildings look the same from a distance the student is pleased and begins to feel himself somewhat at home. As he approaches the school he sees things which revive memories that make him smile and memories which make him wonder at his former inexperience. He even stops just outside the entrance to the administration building and finds the brick whereon is inscribed his name and that of his Randolph sweetheart—or was she his partner in crime? How they frooled the matron that night!

Then Mr. Ex enters the scene of his struggles in science, history, trying to keep a wake, English, math, and endeavoring to hold his temper when his daydream was disturbed. Were these walls this color when I was here? "No, they have been recently caulked and some of the rooms have curtains and flowers."

Mr. Ex finds however that the steps leading to the chapel still creak. Ah, the auditorium has been almost entirely remodelled. New green paint on the walls, new paint on the woodwork, new scenery on the stage, and the walls have been replastered. "Yes but still old Randy, look at the plaster that has fallen off back there and there is the same stage curtain on its spindle roller which is likely to break any minute." The things that the ex-student remembers please him, but he also experiences a feeling of pride that his alma mater is getting improvements which serve to give the original buildings a feeling of new life. Mr. Ex finds pleasure in the fact that his school has changed to meet conditions just as he himself has developed since he sat in these classrooms.

Francis Bruce.

Randy Debaters to Go to State Meet The girls' debating team of Randolph Misses Bessie Pearce and Nina Belle Smith, left Thursday for Temple where they will compete with various junior colleges of the state for the state championship. Miss Pearce and Miss Smith represented Randolph in debate last year, but won only second place in the district meet. Tribute is paid Randolph Lee Clark for his untiring efforts in making it possible for these girls to participate in this debate. With their enthusiasm and competence we are sure that this team will bring the honor of champions back with them when they return this week-end. Use Cisco Daily News want ads for results.—Call 80.

SENIOR CLASS WILL DEDICATE NEW ARCHWAY

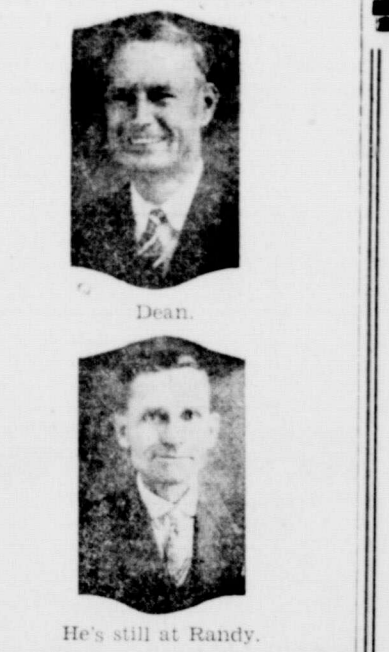

By CYRUS E. JONES, Esq. Jr. The spring of 1933 was a progressive one for Randolph. The campus, all three buildings were beautified both within and without. It was during this progressive movement that the juniors of '33 wanted to do something to show their appreciation in regard to the work being done by the senior class. So the juniors started a popularity contest to raise the money to erect an arch at the entrance of the campus. Much to our regret, the arch was not erected last year, but with high hopes, plans began for the erecting of our arch in '34. Through the C. W. A. organization, the seniors were able to get the labor free, only to be at the expense of the cement and lime. A 50-cent deposit was first collected from each senior and adding that to the proceeds of the last year's popularity contest, the first work was begun on the arch about January 1, 1934. Within a short time the arch was completed, and by much hard and untiring efforts of the senior class. The result of the arch not only adds to the beauty of the surroundings, but adds to the school. The arch is 24 feet wide, 14 feet high, and erected at a cost of $99.90. The seniors have sacrificed every possible means to pay for our indebtedness. Randolph day the seniors will dedicate the arch to the school in rotation of the regular program, which will come at 10:30 a. m. The seniors will march from the administration building down the winding path to the arch where Cy Jones, the senior president, will present the arch to the school and in turn President Tyndall will give the acceptance speech. The seniors are more than proud to have their names engraved on plaques in the pier of the arch, which will stand for years as our token of love for our Alma Mater.

"The Happy Family Of Father Time"

Many talented students of Randolph participated in the operetta, "The Happy Family of Father Time" at the college auditorium, April 9. This artistic presentation of music and drama was directed by Mrs. Lee Clark. The story represents the unyielding power of Father Time over the seconds, minutes, hours, and days as guarded by the beauties of Fidelity, Love, Hope, and Duty. The allegiance of all time to the king, Father Time is tempted by the coyness and promises of the Thief of Time. In the conclusion, one is reminded that regardless of what happens Time is always supreme.

Barbecue At Noon

Then if you are hungry as you probably will be before now you will be called at 12:30 to help consume 500 pounds of barbecued beef, goat, and guinea, besides the buns, pickles, coffee, etc. This is free, but admission is by a ticket which, in the case of old students and out of town friends, can be obtained for the asking. Several hundred Cisco citizens join with us at this time, but tickets will be distributed to them earlier. Last year we had 500 at the barbecue and this year are expecting a much larger attendance of old students. During the afternoon the

He's still at Randy.

Editor's Note--- This page is devoted to the interest of Randolph college as an advertisement of the school's annual home-coming celebration, April 20 and 21. The articles appearing here were prepared by the publicity department of the college.

Play, Parade, Barbecue and Ex-Student Banquet Big Items in Randy Program

The committee this year has tried to arrange a program that will appeal to every ex-student and friend of the college. We wanted it to be worth coming half way across the state as several probably will do. We expect to continue each year the idea of combining Randolph day and Home-Coming day, and want each observance to be a drawing card for the one to be held the following year. So we have tried to make this year's program worthy of that ideal. Come and you will not be disappointed.

The celebration really starts on the day before at 3 p. m. when the seniors and juniors lock horns in their annual baseball game. The players have been working out daily and a good game is promised. The other event scheduled for Friday is the senior play, "Two Days to Mary In." at 8 p. m. It is expected that all or nearly all of the visitors will have arrived by that time, and that they will help to swell the attendance. A small admission will be charged for this event to help the seniors pay for the arch. Don't you remember the play you were in the "Great Southwest," or "Sainty Hypocrites and Honest Simonners," or "The Pirates of Penzance," or "A Poor Married Man?" Come and see the younger generation give their play.

Parade Is First

The first event on Saturday is the parade. Much interest is being taken this year in this feature and it is expected that this will be the biggest and best parade Ok Randy has ever staged. Bring some bunting or crepe paper in the good old red and white colors and enter your car even if you should be unable to decorate it as well as some cars will be. This will be at 9 o'clock, and will pass through the business section of Cisco and back to College hill, where at 10:30, the seniors will dedicate their arch. This beautiful 24 foot arch that spans the front entrance to the college campus is a thing of which the college and all Cisco are proud. Naturally then the seniors are proud of it and are preparing a formal program of dedication. You will want to be here and see the procession of seniors in cap and gown as they march from the college down the hill to the arch and back again after the dedication ceremony.

Dictates Receipt
Fevzi Bey, chief of Smyrna police dictated slowly to Faik Bey, harbor commissioner, a receipt for Insull. This signed, a copy of the warrant for Insull was handed over.

It was a red ribboned red sealed, two-page document, a copy of a warrant signed by President Roosevelt April 10 aboard the yacht Nourmahal and cabled to the American embassy. It said Insull was wanted on charges of five violations of bankruptcy laws.

Captain Habel offered Insull a drink of whiskey.

"Only once in my life did I ever take a drink of liquor," Insull responded in refusing. He did not say when.

Insull retired to his cabin and later he appeared in the ship's lounge, smoking and watching the shore.

Eye tourists who were his fellow passengers took mild interest in him. He went to bed before the ship sailed, as good, barring accidents, as in the United States.

AT THE CHURCHES

FIRST METHODIST CHURCH
Sunday school at 9:30, S. H. Nance, Supt. At 10:50 a. m. worship period. Justice W. P. Leslie, of Eastland, noted lay leader and teacher of the men's Bible class of the Eastland First Methodist church, will speak in the absence of the pastor, who is engaged in a revival meeting at Ranger. There will be no evening service. The young people will meet at the usual hour.—FRANK L. TURNER, Pastor.

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH
Sunday school at 9:45, C. S. Karkalits, Supt. Sermon subject for the morning service at 11 o'clock, "Life, a Career or a Mission—Which?" Mrs. P. L. Ulom will sing. At 2:30 p. m. there will be ordination services where it is proposed to ordain E. J. Poe, F. E. Shepard and C. F. Coats as deacons, a presbytery of neighboring preachers and deacons being called. B. T. S. at 7 p. m. (a change from 6:30 p. m.) and preaching at 8 p. m. (a change from 7:30 p. m.) Subject for the evening sermon, "Without Price." There will be special music.—E. S. JAMES, Pastor.

CHURCH OF CHRIST
Sunday school, 10 a. m.; preaching 11 a. m.; evening service, 7:15 p. m.—J. EDDIE WEEKS, Pastor.

HOLY ROSARY CHURCH
This is the second Sunday after Easter. The epistle read is taken from the First Epistle of St. Peter II:21-25, and the gospel is from St. John XI:1-16. Here we are told that Christ is the good shepherd and that he laid down his life for all men—his sheep. Next the Forty Hours' Devotion will open in this church. Mass will be at 8 a. m. today.

The Lowdown
HOW do I know Max Baer will beat the Oaf? Say, I never was surer of anything in my life! Baer not only will beat the oversized one but he will lay him out as cold as one of those frosty Dalquiris he serve at Sloppy Joe's down Havana way.

Accordingly this department has started putting aside five cents a week for the evil purpose of watering that Baer knocks out Carnera inside of 12 rounds. Don't say you haven't been told soon enough to get aboard the band wagon. Lay it all that way—the odds ought to be right or 19 against—and sit back and watch the working people for a while.

The Argument
I WASN'T quite so positive about this until I saw the Oaf against Tommy Loughran a few weeks ago in sun-kissed Florida in the battle of the fractured arches. That Sharkey affair stuck in the memory. But now I can see how bad Sharkey really was that night last summer, and how actually ineffectual the Oaf is.

After the 10th round, the Oaf hit Tommy with all he had. And if it wasn't enough to put away doddering old Thomas, it will be just a pat or two to this gorilla with the tassel on his cap who is romping up and down the Sierras.

Loughran let me in on a few things down in Miami that night. In one of the early rounds, he let go with a right hand that he brought all the way from Philadelphia via Air Express. The boys back in the two-bit pews saw it coming. The Oaf was as wide open as a New Orleans bar, and that right hand went right to the but ton.

But Baer Has It
POOR old Tommy didn't have it of course. He never was a hit ter, and hasn't improved with age. But that right hand knocked the Oaf cackoo, just the same. The ancient Loughran chilled the Biz Stiff for just a few feeble seconds. The Oaf shook it off, came back all hot and bothered and stepped on Tommy's toes, but that isn't the moral of the story.

What I'm trying to say is that there is some connection between the Oaf's jaw and his brain cells, after all. And if old Thomas' feeble right hand could put a couple of brain cells on half time for a few seconds, it appears to me that the Oaf is vulnerable.

My picture is Baer swinging his right hand against the same point of contact. What a crash that's going to be!

SISTER MARY'S RECIPES

BY SISTER MARY

Tomorrow's Menu
BREAKFAST: Stewed dried apricots, cereal, cream, baked French toast, maple syrup, milk, coffee.

LUNCHEON: Rinctum ditzy, carrot sticks, cinnamon rolls, milk, tea.

DINNER: White wine soup, roast leg of lamb, new potatoes roasted with meat, mint sauce, new peas in turnap cups, grape fruit and cucumber salad, deep dish rhubarb pie, milk, coffee.

blespoon sugar to stiffly beaten whites. Pour soup into tureen and drop egg whites from a tablespoon into the soup. Cover closely and let stand five minutes. The soup must be boiling when poured into the tureen because the steam is needed to poach the white of eggs.

German Beer Soup
Three cups beer, 1 cup water, 1 stick cinnamon, 1 whole clove, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 2 tablespoons sugar, 1 tablespoon cornstarch, 1 slice lemon, 1 egg.

Add cinnamon, clove, sugar, salt and slice of lemon to water. Bring to boiling point and boil two minutes. Add beer and bring to boiling point. Mix cornstarch to a smooth paste with a little cold water and add to yolk of egg which has been well beaten. Stir into soup and bring to the boiling point. Remove cinnamon and clove and slice of lemon and pour into tureen. Cover with white of egg beaten until stiff with 1 tablespoon sugar, sprinkle with powdered cinnamon, cover tureen for five minutes and serve with Zwieback or thin slices of rolls toasted until crisp.

White Wine Soup
One pint light white wine, 2 cups water, 1 stick cinnamon, 2 cloves, 2 slices lemon, 4 tablespoons sugar, 1 tablespoon cornstarch, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 2 eggs.

Add cinnamon, cloves, sugar and lemon slices to water and boil five minutes. Beat yolks of eggs well with 1 tablespoon wine and stir in cornstarch carefully to avoid lumping. Add wine to boiling water and bring to boiling point. Stir egg mixture into this, stirring vigorously. Stir constantly and bring slowly to the boiling point. Remove at once from the fire and skim out lemon slices, cinnamon and cloves. Add salt and whites of eggs beaten until stiff and pour into tureen for serving. Serve with Zwieback or thin slices of rolls toasted.

Instead of folding the whites of the eggs into the soup, add 1 ta-

Baerish Advice
A GRINNING young gorilla with a big tassel on his cap started romping up and down the Sierras the other day in preparation for a night in June when he will win the heavyweight championship of the world.

Muscles long used to clasping fluffy arms are being assigned now to the serious business of busting beaks. Legs that carried the man through the caprices of the Caricaca are diverted now to the hard mountain trails. Max Baer is getting ready to knock a few pages into history on a night in June in that big bowl on Long Island.

ON LOANING MONEY.....

This is the BANK that SERVICE is Building

Modern Safety Deposit Service

First National Bank
IN CISCO, TEXAS
MEMBER FEDERAL RESERVE SYSTEM.

Banks like to loan money. That statement may seem strange, considering the proverbial delight of a banker in saying "No." However, it is true—banks like to loan money, for it is mainly from the interest received on loans that the bank is enabled to pay salaries to the personnel, and to give the stock-holder a fair return on his investment.

However, since the bank's primary obligation is to the depositor—to safeguard his funds—the bank can make loans only to those who will unquestionably be able to repay when the loan is due. Such a policy is only good common sense and fairness. It is the only way to properly safeguard the depositor—to have his money ready when he wants it—and it is the only way that the bank can have a constant source of funds available for other business enterprises.

A sound loan policy is the best possible indication of a good bank, for only through sound loans can the banker fulfill his obligations to the depositors, to borrowers and to the stockholders.

WRECKED PHONES
NORWALK, Conn., April 14.—More than 125 telephones were put out of commission because a 12-year-old boy "tried out" a rifle owned by a boarder at his home. The bullet traveled an eighth of a mile and struck an overhead telephone cable, severing the wires.

NINE EGGS IN HEN
NE WBRITAIN, Conn., April 14.—Nine unusually large eggs were found inside a year-old Rhode Island Red hen when N. D. Hancock killed it for dinner. The largest measures 8 inches in circumference.
