NEW WORD FROM KIDNAPERS AWAITED

Presbyterian Young People's Encampments Located Here

LAKE SITE TO BE EQUIPPED PERMANENTLY

Location of the annual summer encampment of the Fort Worth presbytery of the Presbyterian church permanently at Cisco was announced Saturday contingent upon the signing of papers which will transfer from the Lake Cisco amusement company a lease on a spot of ground where it is planned to erect permanent buildings. The land is on the bluff overlooking the swimming pool, across highway 23 from the country club.

The presbytery's intermediate group conference is to be held during the last week in June, when 100 or more young people from an area that stretches from Fort Worth westward beyond Sweetwater will come to Cisco for five days of religious training and recreational activities. This is the first time in the five years that the encampment has been organized that it has been scheduled for Cisco.

Buildings
Dr. J. Stuart Pearce, chairman of the presbytery's committee which is in charge of religious, educational, and social activities, said that plans under consideration call for the erection of a kitchen and dining hall to seat 200, first and an auditorium next to these buildings, together with others as planned to build, would be constructed of native stone, he said.

Dr. L. H. Wharton, of Austin, here last week in a series of services at the First Presbyterian church, was assisting in the plans, said Dr. Pearce, and praised the site at Lake Cisco as superior to any in the state for the purpose.

When the necessary arrangements have been made, said Dr. Pearce, two or three encampments, similar to those at Kerrville, will be held each summer, bringing hundreds of youngsters here for week-long conferences and recreational programs. This year it is planned to hold only the intermediate conference.

Katy Chairman Good "Mixer" Cisco Finds

The new chairman of the board of the Missouri-Kansas-Texas railroad came to town in a nine-car special train yesterday afternoon, and if he likes Cisco as well as the people of Cisco who met him like the Katy chairman he'll come back again. In fact, from the rear platform of the train as it pulled out of the yards with time to make up for the loitering here, he waved a goodbye and shouted a promise to come back and go fishing in Lake Cisco.

There were, perhaps, many serious thoughts running in the mind of Matthew S. Sloan, famed utilities leader who was called from early retirement to succeed M. H. Cahill as the Katy head, but as he rode over Cisco with an automobile party none of them came to the surface. He was a very personable human being, meeting new people and enjoying the experience immensely. He was not getting acquainted with the Katy system so much as he was getting acquainted with the people of the Katy serves.

No Mention of Policy
Never a word about plans or policies. No mention of the unusual fact that he is beginning railroad experience at the top. The former head of the New York Edison company. When he cut utility rates nine times without the request of patrons, never had had a moment of railroad operating experience when the Katy board the other day called him from two years of self-chosen idleness to take Mr. Cahill's place.

But yesterday, as the long train drew to a halt before the union station and eager helpers went forward to unlock the rear platform gate, he waved them aside. "I'm a railroad man, now," he laughed, and fumbled with the catches, himself. Then he descended, and shook hands all around, a twinkle of real eagerness in his eye, a flash of ready wit to enliven every situation. He entertained himself immensely.

The attitude appears to fit his explanation of his new job as one of "supersmanship."
The challenge of the job offered him was one too interesting to be waved aside, he has said. He regards railroading as no mystery—no more of a mystery than the selling of electric current or other services. The same rules of business that apply in fields where he has worked already, he believes apply to running the Katy. It has no excuse to exist beyond that it provides a necessary service and his job is to sell that service to the public, seems to be the kernel of the philosophy he proposes to use.

Learned About Cisco
So while Cisco learned the likeable qualities of the Katy chairman, the Katy chairman learned a great deal about Cisco in an hour and a half. He laughed, resisted any conversational efforts to make serious talk, and noted details of what he

MATTHEW S. SLOAN

HUGHES OPENS NELSON'S TRAIL GOVERNOR RACE AT M'KINNEY CAR IS STOLEN

MCKINNEY, April 28.—Demanding law enforcement, reduction of taxation, and repeal of state dry laws, with one half the subsequent liquor tax revenues to go to the state school fund, Maury Hughes of Dallas, former state democratic executive committee chairman, opened his campaign here today.

"There must be a drastic change in our law enforcement machinery," Hughes warned. He proposed establishment of a state police force, consolidation of the rangers and the state highway patrol, with a central law enforcement bureau at Austin to prevent "gangsters like Barrow and Dillinger from running amok."

Included in his anti-crime campaign would be a judicial reform to speed trial of criminals and adoption of a pardon system similar to that of the federal government.

"I am for immediate repeal," he said of the liquor question, "and not only will I vote for repeal, but I will fight for its accomplishment."

He is convinced that "local option and local self government should be substituted for our present law, allowing counties to remain dry or sell liquor and be entitled to full protection of state and national laws."

Opposed Saloon
He opposed the open saloon and favored a strict regulatory legislation under a bond and license system.

"As soon as repeal is accomplished," Hughes promised, "I will advocate that one half of the liquor tax go to the available school fund for the payment of adequate salaries to our school teachers." The remainder would go to the general fund.

"Law enforcement," said Hughes, "after all, is a science and only those who are familiar with the technical machinery of the law can bring relief. If we are to curb banditry and lawlessness, there must be a drastic change in our law enforcement machinery. We must coordinate."

SEE POSSIBLE NEW CANDIDATE FOR GOVERNOR

By GORDON K. SHEARER
United Press Staff Correspondent
AUSTIN, April 28 — Possibility of a new candidate for governor before the entries close June 4 is being whispered about the state capital.

Hope of such a candidate is nurtured by a group that never has bowed to the wave of liberalism that swept the state recently. They long for a latter-day Charley Culberson to lead a relentless fight against what they consider the hosts of iniquity.

They want a candidate who not only will make retention of prohibition a chief plank, but one who will wage with vigor a war on race track gambling and legalized prize fighting.

Rumblings of discontent have been heard for some time. How serious they are becoming, politically, is illustrated in San Antonio. There, where no conviction ever has been had under the state liquor law, Mayor C. K. Quinn has ordered police to stop illegal liquor sales. Local option elections are being closely watched where they are called.

Hughes Opening
Maury Hughes, opening today at McKinney, put all the announced candidates for governor on tour. The early opening of the campaign and enthusiasm of the candidates promises some new campaigning records.

Tom F. Hunter already had made 60 speeches before his formal opening at Clifton last Saturday. He made two speeches today—one at Waxahachie and one at Kaufman. After a rest at Dallas Sunday, he will go to Bonham, Clarksville, Gilmer, McKinney and Gainesville on successive days and finish the week at the Old Settlers' reunion at Loan's Crossing. Besides main addresses at these places there will be numerous talks en route.

Hunter's 200 speeches in the first primary campaign of 1932 apparently form the existing record. In its closing days he made 12 speeches in 36 hours.

Publicity
A record also may be established in the employment of press agents.

A. W. von Starck chucked an important place in the national relief administration to return to Texas and supply publicity for Hunter. Paul W. Wakefield, former publicity aide to Jesse Jones and Ross Sterling, is handling Alfred publicity. Gene Cooper is sending out Witt's literature and Clint Small has had both A. W. Lyon and Leon Wilson on publicity work.

Cooper this week featured an editorial from the Houston Press praising Witt's talk at the Jefferson Day dinner. Significance is that the Houston Press was the only major daily supporting Mrs. Ferguson's campaign two years ago.

Some campaign oddities: Lon Smith carried every county but one in his last race.

Edw. K. Russell, candidate for governor, never lived in an incorporated town.

Hunter dictates letters while traveling between towns. "They are typed on a portable."

Charley McDonald is out shaking hands by 8 a. m. each morning.

Gonzales Inquirer is taking the first poll of the campaign.

Sen. John Hornsby, candidate for lieutenant governor, is uncle of the famous "Rajah" of baseball fame.

Edward Rex Wailer is the hard luck candidate. Up from a recent operation, his wife and child have both been ill.

MARY O'DARE IS GIVEN FREEDOM ON $5,000 BOND

DALLAS, April 28.—Mary O'Dare, the girl who shared Raymond Hamilton's fortunes when they were bright but who deserted him when he was recaptured, was free to go where she pleased today.

The girl, heart's fancy of Hamilton, was brought here last night from Waco where earlier she waived examining trial on charges of robbery with firearms in connection with a bank holdup at West, Texas.

She was released on a $5,000 appearance bond signed by a professional bondsman.

When word that the girl had been released reached Hamilton, confined in the Dallas county jail, he became more embittered at the thought that his sweetheart was through with him. He told jail guards he blamed her indirectly for his capture.

"I was in love with her. I know she was nearly broke. I wanted to help her, so I robbed the Lewisville bank to get her some money. Now she is through with me," Hamilton said.

Kerensky Calls on All Classes to Form "Internationale" to Oppose Communism

PARIS, April 28.—Alexander Kerensky, who became provisional president of Russia when the czar was deposed and was overthrown himself by the Bolsheviks, called upon men of all classes today to join in a new "internationale" to fight for personal liberties against fascism and communism.

In an exclusive interview with the United Press, Kerensky said:

"All dictatorships repeat the methods and mannerisms of bolshevism. In Russia it was the intellectual class that was crushed; in Germany under the nazi dictatorship Germany sought to crush another class—Jews.

NIGHT WATCH AFTER 'PHONE CALL IN VAIN

TUCSON, Ariz., April 28 — The distraught family of June Robles, 6, today awaited further instructions from her kidnapers as to the $10,000 ransom demanded as her ransom.

An all night vigil on the front porch of the Robles home after a telephone call was received last night from the child's kidnapers was unproductive.

Searchers suspended operations in and near Tucson in the hope that contact would be made with the child's father or her grandfather. The telephone call last night promised additional instructions as to how the ransom money should be delivered. It was ready in the currency of the denominations specified by the abductors.

Kidnaped Wednesday
June was abducted late Wednesday as she returned home from school. A newsboy, to whom it had been handed, gave her father the original note two hours later.

Two suspects, questioned at Phoenix because they were driving an automobile similar to the one said to have been used by the kidnapers, were released when authorities were convinced they had nothing to do with the kidnaping.

A telephone call received at the home of Fernando Robles, June's father, advised the family to "stand by" for further instructions. Lights burned brightly in the home all night. The father kept the vigil with the baby's grandfather, Bernabe Robles, wealthy retired cattleman. Both anticipated further word from the abductors.

Two suspects, Phoenix, G. R. Graham, 35, and Jack Prattie, 48, were taken into custody at a tourist camp on information they owned a dark green sedan similar in appearance to one several motorists said they saw on the Tucson-Phoenix road with two men and a small girl several hours after the kidnaping.

Telephone Call
The telephone call was received at the "zero hour" approached in the two-day time limit set in the original ransom note for the girl's family to deal with the kidnapers.

The caller notified an unnamed member of the family to await further instructions as to where the $10,000 ransom money should be deposited.

Police Chief (Gus) Wollard, who engineered the capture of John Dillinger and three henchmen here three months ago, dropped in to say he had no new information.

"It seems impossible to get any tangible clue," he said. "The best information we have so far has been received from June's schoolmates."

Reserve Officers Plan Get-Together

Plans are under way by the Oil Belt chapter, Reserve Officers association, for their first annual get-acquainted party in the form of a dinner to be held in the Colonial ball room of the Helms hotel in Ranger on the evening of Friday, May 11.

Arrangements under the direction of Capt. Wayne C. Hickey of Ranger, Majors J. A. Larner of Eastland and J. S. Pearce of Cisco, call for a banquet at the beginning of the program and a well arranged and informal dance following.

Dr. W. J. Danforth of Fort Worth, prominent after dinner speaker, who is very active in the ranks of the reserve officers, and is district governor of Lions International, will be the speaker of the evening. Spicy and wholesome entertainments, features will also have a prominent part in the program.

After the banquet entertainment will be provided to serve the individual tastes of the guests. According to the program committee, nothing will be left undone to make this a most pleasant and worthwhile affair.

Invitations are being arranged for all reserve and former officers of the United States army, navy, and marine corps and their ladies, and also friends of the reserve officers who are residing in the Oil Belt.

Slain Men Believed Heading for Texas

LOS ANGELES, April 28.—Police believed Wanda Stewart and Walter H. Wyeth, escaped San Quentin prisoners killed near Victorville last night, were attempting to reach Texas where Stewart was reported to have hidden $100,000, loot of a series of robberies.

Police here said Stewart's most notorious exploits were performed in and around Dallas.

Five bank robberies and a packing house holdup were charged against him. Stewart and a gang in 1932 terrorized the town of Knox City, Texas, and robbed a bank there of $15,000.

Baked Navy Beans
Do not soak beans but parboil them for 1-2 hour. Pour off water, and replace with fresh. Add several slices of salt pork or even fresh pork and continue cooking. Remove while beans are still a little hard in order that they will hold their shape.

Add 1 cup sugar and 2 heaping tablespoons of good grease, bacon or Mrs. Tucker's shortening, just so it does not have any settings.

Cover with slices of meat and place in oven to bake slowly for 4 hours. If preferred, place one large onion to the side of the pan. This will be enough to give an onion flavor.

LONG REMEMBER

By Mac-Kinley Kantor

These searing descriptions of the inferno that enveloped the battlefield of Gettysburg will forever brand with their ghastliness your associations with Lincoln's "The world will little note, nor long remember, what we say here, but it can never forget what they did here." It is a vivid account of the unearthly shrieks of wounded horses the battle cries of attacking soldiers, the smell of blood and decaying bodies, to a startling reality. Proof of the veracity of the battle description is offered by Kantor's bibliography and the obligations which he acknowledges to individuals, actually engaged in the conflict.

Opening of a contest for the beautification and improvement of lawns in Cisco to be sponsored by the Cisco Garden club, has been announced by the president, Mrs. C. H. Fee.

NEBRASKA GOP BOOMS M'CARL FOR CANDIDATE

McCOOK, Neb., April 28 — Old guard republicans here are booming J. Raymond McCarl, former mayor of the McCook "hometown quartette" and comptroller-general of the U. S. treasury, as a prospective leader to carry the party banner in the 1936 presidential elections.

Although more than a year has yet to elapse before the country once again elects its national executive, Nebraska republican leaders are on the alert for evidence that McCarl might be considered. Advice from Washington and the east in their estimation, have signified that McCarl's prospects are not remote.

Cool to Hoover

Nebraska old line republicans have received trumpet blasts of Ogden Mills with noticeable coolness. The "pleasure trip" of the former President Hoover through the middle-west, while not reaching Nebraska, failed to stir up any enthusiasm here.

Mention of McCarl's name, however, usually is well received. His supporters here point to his mental acuity and his position in Industrial Control Reports, issued by the James True Associates at Washington, as indicating that his name actually is being considered.

Citizens here, who were intimately acquainted with McCarl, trace his liberal attitude to his long association with Senator George W. Norris, leading exponent of the liberal gospel in the United States senate. After his graduation from the University of Nebraska school of law in 1903, McCarl returned to his home here to try his first case before the then Judge Norris. The trial formed the basis for a long friendship.

Norris' Secretary

When Norris went to congress as a representative for the first time he took McCarl with him as secretary. The young man's flair for politics soon was discovered and utilized by his party leaders in the capital. In 1920 he was named by the republican national committee to direct the party's national congressional campaigns. The returns from the congressional elections that year with a smashing victory for the republicans, consolidated McCarl's position.

Largely as a reward for these services, he was summoned by President Harding after the general accounting division had been created and the position of comptroller-general was open for the first time. McCarl accepted the president's offer of the position and began his 13 years term in 1921. To the extent of his power in official Washington is indicated by the fact that no president is empowered to remove him from office no matter how many official logs he may step on in his authority to "blue pencil" all expenditures, large or small, in the federal service.

Chance Dime Novel May Be Valuable

PHILADELPHIA, April 28 — Perhaps in rummaging through the attic, you will discover some paper-backed dime novels.

Do not throw them away, shuddering at memories of the woodshed. They may be quite valuable. For the dime novel has leaped from its obscurity of 50 years ago to a place of honor in the congressional library at Washington.

Thousands of collectors are eager to pay high prices for genuine "Diamond Dick" thrillers of the '80s and '90s. In Philadelphia a Happy Hours Brotherhood, composed of 60 members, has been organized to promote interest in dime novel collecting.

Robert H. Smeltzer, vice president of the brotherhood, believes dime novels not only are harmless but actually have done considerable good.

"I was brought up on a farm, and in my teens I read my first dime novel. My grandmother and aunts considered dime novels trash, so I read them in secret back in the haymow.

"I can't for the life of me see what was wrong with them, unless it was the fact that they were so frequently concerned with death and fighting. The good man always triumphed, however, and justice always prevailed. There are things more objectionable in most modern magazines."

German Women Police Break Up Highly Organized Band of Juvenile Thieves

COLOGNE, April 28 — Cologne's British-trained female police have just broken up a highly organized and effective juvenile thief band which had baffled the law for months.

A total of 23 children, ranging between seven and 12 years old, have been arrested. They probably will be sent to juvenile detention homes until they are 19.

The parents, if they are responsible for their children's actions will be punished most severely. The police have not yet established who inspired the thefts, but the simplicity and ease with which the unique scheme was worked point strongly to some adult "master mind."

The process, explained by Fraulein Marianne Pfahl, commissar for the female division, was as follows:

One of the children would enter the shop designated to be robbed and ask for a cigar box for fretwork, or perhaps for a cigaret picture card. The shop door was purposely left slightly ajar and while the shopkeeper was getting the box or card from the back room, a second child entered and hid under the counter.

The door opened a bit, there was no bell-ringing to announce his entry. The first child received his requested box or card left the shop, and the shopkeeper went about his business.

The second child, having located the simple cashbox with which most German shops are equipped emptied it at a favorably opportunity and returned to his hiding place. A third child entering gave the second his chance to escape. The third requested also some sort of gift and left openly.

By the time the theft had been discovered, the children had long since disappeared. In most cases, moreover, suspicion fell on the wrong persons, usually those living in the house, and as the shopkeeper did not wish to charge them, the thefts remained undetected for some time.

The thefts occurred all over town, and the authorities have not yet discovered what became of the proceeds.

The female police were organized August 1 1923, during the British occupation of the Rhineland, under the supervision of Commandant Allen, of London. Their purpose at that time was to round up prostitutes and undesirable women.

Horned Toad Derby To Be Aid for Charity

MIAMI, Fla., April 28 — The horned toad, nature's prize ugly duckling, has undergone a metamorphosis.

He's emerged from a so-called toad to a sport with the announcement of a Horned Toad derby at the Miami Billmore Country club.

The derby has another unique angle. It brings the denizens of the Arizona desert under the guardianship of lions. However, this apparent new wrinkle in natural history has nothing to do with the king of beasts. It's the Lions club of Miami which is sponsoring the derby as a charity event.

Exploding the old adage regarding the difficulty of the first 100 yards, one of the favorites for the forthcoming sweepstakes is a youngster of 200, Plenty Grand, which holds the world's record of 38 seconds in a 25 foot ring.

Early entries in the juvenile class include a bevy of blue ribbon winners between 75 and 90 years old. However, they still are at the skittish age and too young to be dependable bets, according to Jack Bartlett, owner of a string of blue-blooded spiked speedsters.

According to Bartlett, although he may look like the apparition resulting from a session with bathtub gin, the horned toad actually is a swell guy. He's a strict prohibitionist and even mineral water is taboo. His idea of a drinking bout is to open his pores and absorb moisture from the aid and sand.

He sits down to eat only twice a week and never leaves warts for remembrance.

HEAD SIZE NO MEASUREMENT OF BRAIN SIZE

By ALFRED BERTHINET
 Staff Correspondent
 CISCO, April 28 — Your brain is only a rough estimate of "brains" inside, according to a study made by Dr. T. D. Stewart of the division of physical anthropology of the Smithsonian Institute.

Ordinarily, it would be assumed that two skulls of the same length, width and height would have the same brain capacity. In other words, the head would be a good measure of brain size. However, a study of 230 skulls of the same length, width and height, but of different brain capacities, has shown that this is not true.

Dr. Stewart's first study was made in the American Anthropological Association. He found that the brain capacity of a skull is not necessarily proportional to its external measurements. In fact, he found that a skull with a large external size could have a smaller brain capacity than a skull with a smaller external size.

Dr. Stewart's second study was made in the American Anthropological Association. He found that the brain capacity of a skull is not necessarily proportional to its external measurements. In fact, he found that a skull with a large external size could have a smaller brain capacity than a skull with a smaller external size.

Clint Small and His Family

Sen. Clint Small of Amarillo, candidate for governor. Mrs. Small and their two children. Clint Small, Jr. and Miss Winifred Small.

SMALL IS GIVEN BACKGROUND OF VARIED CAREER

AUSTIN, April 28 — Sen. Clint C. Small, the Panhandle's first major contender for the governorship of Texas, has written his name into the law books of the state as author of the famous Small land bills.

Small is making his second race for governor, having placed third in the contest four years ago. As a background of the race, a long career of varied public activity, as city and county attorney, county judge, mayor, district judge, president of a chamber of commerce, and state senator, have occupied most of his adult years.

Sen. Small was born "back in Alabama" May 22, 1893. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Small, came to Texas when he was three years old, settled in Collingsworth county, where they still reside on their ranch homestead.

Small attended public schools and the university, receiving his law degree from the university. He and a fellow law graduate opened offices at Collingsworth, where after a year Small carried on alone.

In Politics Early

Soon he was elected county attorney, next county judge. Then he served awhile as Wellington city attorney, then mayor of his city, president of the county fair.

He was married to Miss Winifred Zoe O'Neal of Childress. Sen. and Mrs. Small have a son, Clint Jr., student in the university, and a daughter, Miss Winifred Small, high school student.

After a long service in city and county offices, Small was elected district judge of the 100th district, comprising several Panhandle counties. Soon his people put him in the race for state senator, and elected him. He is now serving his sixth year in the senate.

More in Record

This is a thumbnail sketch of the personal side of Sen. Small's career. Much more is told in terms of the policies and measures he has sponsored in the senate.

His name has been linked most prominently with the land bills to define and preserve land titles of the western pioneers, particularly the streambed survey bill, validating titles in hundreds of river surveys throughout Texas.

He shared in authorship or support of many laws. He had a part in writing the present state budget law and the road bond assumption law, the relief legislation of the past two sessions, the penitentiary reform law which kept the prison at Huntsville and modernized it.

Advocated Rural Aid

He supported and advocated the mental aid appropriations. He helped out down state appropriations to the present levels, and at the same time to preserve and maintain grants for the conduct of the schools, colleges and state institutions.

At the recent session, small though not a proponent of the postponement of execution of contracts by the moratorium law, helped work out a moratorium bill that his experience as district judge led him to believe might be sustained by the courts.

Small has made it a point to be rather cautious and conservative in legislation, as evidenced in his recent declaration as he began this year's race, warning voters that extravagant promises of candidates were incapable of fulfillment.

Small is a genial, likeable man, not at all puffed up with senatorial dignity; a man who in the passage of his land bill in his first term scored one of the greatest personal triumphs in the history of the law-making body.

saw with a keenness that put some of those who have lived in Cisco for a generation to shame. He saw the lake, the dam, the parks, the zoo, the fish hatchery, the business district, Humbletown and parts of the residential section.

In build he is slight, in manner brisk, in features young. There are the dynamic qualities of the man of action in his movements and his talk. His hair is black with wisps of gray at the temples. His eyes are gray, and they see with a twinkle. But they see a great deal. There is nothing faked in his manner. It is genuine. He is a good "mixer," the first prerequisite of the salesman.

And he is much liked by the Katy organization—at least he is much liked by the more than 100 officials and employees who are with him on the special train that left St. Louis a week ago and completed its tour of practically every mile of the Katy track at Dallas last night. The Katy, so some of these officials said, believes that it has made an ideal choice.

With the party, which arrived at 1 p. m. and remained until 2:30, were two vice presidents (the Katy has yet to name a president), the general counsel, the comptroller, the treasurer, the secretary, the purchasing agent and so on down the line. There were about 55 St. Louis headquarters was almost depopulated of officialdom to bring that imposing array of railroad titles to Cisco and other points on the Katy system. D. C. Dobbins, superintendent of Texas Central division, escorted the party over the route through here. J. C. King, Cisco agent, was the local host, having made the arrangements. Plenty of cars and Cisco business and professional men were on hand to provide transportation and to welcome the group here.

of race or class is to unite in a new internationale to fight for personal liberties and the resurrection of democracy. Otherwise dictatorial regimes will suppress the few remaining privileges of the personality of man, the finest thing in human history.

No Gloomy Picture

Kerensky, bitter foe of communism, did not paint a gloomy picture of the political situation. He held communism—Marxian socialism—to be dying. He predicted that fascist dictatorships would not spread in Europe—but that states now under dictatorships would gradually regain constitutional liberties.

"Among all dictatorships existing in Europe today," Kerensky said, "communism is the severest. No other dictatorship has sought to exterminate or crush the native qualities of the race.

"As for Marxian socialism, it is dying. The fault lies with Karl Marx and socialism itself.

Tremendous Evolution

"Marx wrote his theories when there were two great classes—proletariat and capitalist. The middle class seemed doomed. But the world underwent a tremendous evolution and today the middle class is greater than the other two."

Kerensky said he believed there would be war in the Pacific because the world war shifted the center of political balance from the Atlantic to the Pacific.

"Within a year," he forecast, "Russia under Japanese pressure will agree to demilitarize the Manchukuo frontier. Stability in the Far East is impossible so long as Russia is weaker than her neighbors.

"In my opinion the United States committed a fault in its Far Eastern policy in not understanding that Russia is unable to play the role necessary to America. Russia can not be a partner in that international game. A moral regime of self government by the Russian people must be reinstated before Russia can be expected to play her role."

Naked Truth Got Student Into Court

STEPHENVILLE, April 28 — A quick dash across the street and back caused a John Tarleton college football star to be dismissed from the college and to be faced with court charges.

The gridder, who would have been eligible to play on the Plowboy team this fall, took a shot at winning $3 but the naked truth of the thing got him out of college and into court. He ran across the street in front of his boarding house with a little clothes on as a nudist would wear in August.

Residents of the neighborhood objected, the landlady objected, the college authorities objected.

Taking a group of students on a wager, the star athlete, undressed, slipped on a robe and went down the street. On the porch he left his robe, and he was not back in the robe until he had taken a mad dash across the street and back.

Officers said charges of indecency had been filed, but they would not disclose the student's name.

Christ's Standard of Greatness

Text: Matt. 20:1-34 The International Uniform Sunday School Lesson for April 29. BY WM. E. GILROY, D. D., Editor of Advance

THERE were incidents in the life of Jesus that brought out the full contrast of his teachings and the values that he set upon life, as against the worldly motives and ideals of power and success that for the most part influence men in worldly conduct.

HOW different it was all to be in the actual result! These men so full of fire became full of love and zeal for righteousness. Where they had aspired to become great through lordship it over others, they were to learn the Master's lesson that greatness is through character and love and service, that the greatest of all men is the minister.

But Jesus evidently perceived in these ambitious, fiery-spirited men the qualities of strength and the power of action that could make them mighty pillars upon which to build his church, once their lives were purged of selfishness and worldly ambition.

Here in our lesson the mother had come to him with an urgent request concerning her sons. She asked that one should sit upon the right hand and the other on the left when he should come into his kingdom. She had as deep a misconception of the nature of Christ's Kingdom and power as had the young men themselves.

Not necessarily the man who bears a "D. D." or before whose name "Rev." is placed, but the man, wherever he is found, who gives his heart and life in simple sincerity to the purpose of Jesus in serving his fellow men.

Fortunately this is a ministry and a greatness within the reach of us all. We do not have to be born to it. We do not need wealth or favor or influence to secure it, but where even the lowliest of God's children will devote himself to simple tasks and duty and to a life of ministry and service, he will find that he has entered Christ's hall of fame and the places of the great.

BEHIND THE SCENES IN WASHINGTON

BY RODNEY DUTCHER NEA Service Staff Correspondent WASHINGTON—Backstage maneuvers in the fight against the stock market bill—which produced the present wave of propaganda against the "Brain Trust"—have fascinated ordinarily wise insiders.

When you read that the huge Wall Street lobby sought to make the control act more flexible and to kill the section which expressed the intent of Congress, it may have sounded perfectly innocent. Why not?

Well, the fact was that President Dick Whitney of the New York exchange and his pals were simply trying to produce a bill which would be declared unconstitutional by the Supreme Court. Those boys want no regulation.

The more flexible Congress makes a law by allowing large discretion to a federal commission, the more likely the Supreme Court is to murder that law by deciding that Congress has delegated too much legislative power.

Precedents indicate that the court would kill the law if it passed without that declaration. The country has been led to believe that the original one per cent margin requirement set by the willows—can be made into a dish of culinary delight by the addition of a little wine or beer.

For fish in beer sauce, take 2 pounds fresh fish, 1 pint beer, 1 onion, 1 lemon, 1 tablespoon minced parsley, 1-2 tablespoon grated carrot, 1-2 tablespoon minced celery, 1-2 teaspoon minced celery, 1-8 teaspoon allspice, 2 tablespoons crushed ginger snaps, 1 tablespoon butter, 1 tablespoon flour.

Choose a fish steak or fillet of fish. Wipe with a damp cloth and rub over with salt. Put into a sauce pan and add beer, onion thinly sliced, lemon cut in slices, parsley, carrot, celery, allspice and ginger snaps. Simmer over a low fire for 20 minutes or until done. Remove fish to hot platter and keep hot. Melt butter and stir in flour. Cook and stir until bubbling and slightly browned. Strain over sauce in which fish was cooked. Cook and stir until boiling. Pour over the fish and serve with boiled noodles.

Half wine and half beer can be used or use wine entirely if the bitter taste of beer is not liked. Of course the ginger snaps can be omitted but they do give an unusual and pleasant flavor to the dish.

Eight Feet Off the Ground

Thundering into the stretch to make their final bid for that dash across the finish line come Inception, left, and Mrs. John Hay Whitney's Last Tag—all eight feet off the ground! This rare action photo was snapped during the Middleburg, Va., hunt program. Irgan McKinney, gentleman jockey, is up on Last Tag.

CINNABAR VEIN FOUND

ALPINE, Texas, April 28 — A 15-foot vein of cinnabar ore, from which quicksilver is obtained has been uncovered in the Study Butte mine at Terlingua. The vein is of "benanza" proportions.

Joe Wilson, justice of the peace in the sixth precinct since March 3, 1933, when he was appointed to the place vacated by the death of J. H. McDonald, is asking the voters of the precinct to place the stamp of approval upon his administration of the office by giving him the democratic nomination in the July primaries, a selection tantamount to election.

Justice Wilson, who walked into Cisco from Caddo before the town was organized to get a job, and found one for life, is one of the charter citizens of the community. He arrived, a stripling, in 1881 when the present townsite was dotted with tents. He liked the community so well that he remained, married Mrs. Wilson and with her raised a family of four sons and three daughters. One daughter burned to death at three years of age.

Only once before has he asked and held office—he was city alderman from 1893—the year of the big cyclone—to 1897.

In the year between March 3, 1933, and the same date in 1934, he disposed of 224 criminal cases—32 in the last month—and tried 58 civil cases. Both dockets are clear.

Says he: "I have tried and will continue to try to administer the duties of this office impartially and in a spirit of justice to all. If the people of the sixth precinct see fit to continue me in this responsibility, I shall be grateful, and promise a continuation of that policy and a better service for the experience I have gained."

Number of Players.—A team may be composed of seven to ten players, inclusive. If ten players are used there shall be two shortstops, one playing between first and second and one between second and third.

Pitching Regulations.—The pitcher shall take his position facing the batter with both feet on the pitcher's plate. In the act of delivering the ball he may step forward with one foot but the other must be kept in contact with the plate until the ball has left his hand. The arm must be swung underhanded and kept parallel with the body. (The pitcher is not required to throw underhanded except to a batter.)

Base Running.—A base runner shall not leave his base while the pitcher has the ball standing in his box. On a pitched ball the base runner shall not leave his base until the ball has reached or passed the batter. A runner who leaves his base too soon shall be called out.

Hit by Pitched Ball.—If the batter is hit by a pitched ball the ball is dead and no runner may advance. The batter is not entitled to first base but the play counts as a "ball" against the pitcher except as provided in the following: If the batter intentionally gets in the way of the ball, it counts as a strike. If it is the third strike the batter is out.

No Spiked Shoes.—Spiked shoes shall not be worn by any player.

requirement is being made to insure each club its full quota of players throughout the season and to keep up the interest in the circuit.

At a recent meeting of the clubs of the city loop the same rules were adopted as those in use in the Texas interscholastic league. They call for the same rules as those ruling baseball with the following exceptions:

The Diamond.—The bases, except the home plate, shall be 1-1/2 feet square. The home plate shall be one foot square. Each side of the diamond shall measure 45 feet. The pitching distance shall be 30 feet.

Equipment.—The ball shall be a standard playground or indoor baseball 14 inches in circumference, either in seam or out seam. The bat shall be a standard indoor or playground bat.

Number of Players.—A team may be composed of seven to ten players, inclusive. If ten players are used there shall be two shortstops, one playing between first and second and one between second and third.

Armon recently engaged in a fight, Bur-h faithfully reported to the federal judge, but it was with outsiders who were attempting to manufacture beer on Boss Shannon's place.

A few weeks ago, Burch reported "some traveling road show offered Armon a job and before giving them his answer, he wrote for my advice. As a result, he did not join the company but remained on his farm with his family."

Burch said he believes young Shannon is trying to profit by his mistakes and become a good citizen in his community.

the various branches of law enforcement. After this is accomplished, judicial reform must follow, and then we must have a change in the system of granting pardons."

He declared for the establishment of a state police force and the consolidation of the state ranger force with the highway patrol. "The ranger force, as constituted at the present time," he declared, "is absolutely ineffectual and a waste of practically $100,000 per year." He advocated establishment of a central law enforcement bureau in Austin, with a responsible head, and the equipment of the state police force with the most advanced aids for the apprehension of criminals.

Judicial Reform

Judicial reform, as another important plank in his law enforcement platform, was promised. Hughes pointed to his long experience as a district attorney as equipping him for this task.

A policy of cutting state costs and putting the government on a "pay-as-you-go" basis was advocated. The state ad valorem tax, said Hughes, could be cut in half if the property now escaping taxation were rendered. He said he favored a registration tax on notes, bonds, and certificates of indebtedness. He opposed both a state sales and income tax.

Hughes accused Atty-Gen. Allyn of "fence-straddling" on the prohibition issue. He charged Allyn with knowledge that the state law is being openly violated in south Texas without taking any steps to see that the law is enforced. "While this prohibition farce is continuing," he said, "the state is losing millions of dollars in revenue and the liquor traffic is continuing untaxed, unlicensed and uncontrolled."

An elective highway commission with the state divided into four highway districts was proposed.

Other planks in the Hughes' platform included an old age pension system, firemen's pension and relief fund, a retirement fund for school teachers, reduction in automobile registration fees to a sum not exceed $5 for a passenger car and a stringent "anti-lobbying" law.

Abilene, Wink, Albany, Midland, Electra, and Wichita Falls, won medals for superior playing. A quartet and a duet from Wink took medals in ensemble contests.

Cisco high school, winner of the Class A division three successive years, did not enter this year. Abilene had no competition in this division, but the band's superior playing was praised by the judges who rated it 97 and 8-9ths per cent. G. W. Colium, Cisco band instructor, assisted in the judging.
