Clues on Miss Tufverson's Trunks Removed

CONVENTION IS EMPLOYED TO SHOW LABELS

WENNA, Austin, June 19 — Police efforts had been made to locate clues pointing to Miss Agnes Tufverson from her baggage here, police revealed today. The baggage, containing the American woman's clothes, jewelry and other articles, was found in the apartment occupied by P. J. Puderjaj and his beautiful companion, Miss Susanne Arden, who are under arrest. The use of an invention police named surfaces. It revealed Tufverson's name on labels on baggage, which had been obliterated to the naked eye. Ferrante, police sought to trap Tufverson into some admission, would disclose the fate of the girl and New York lawyer. After the seizure of jewels, clothing and books that had belonged to Tufverson, police were convinced that Miss Ferrante and Puderjaj could tell what happened to Tufverson who disappeared after marriage to Puderjaj in New York last December.

NAVY PLANNING EXPANSION OF ITS MANPOWER

By MACK JOHNSON
Special Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON, D. C., June 19 — Navy expects to extend its enlisted strength of 82,500 to 112,000 and its officers from 2,500 to 7,000 by 1941 to meet the peace-time naval construction program in this country's three-point program is:—
1.—Annual expansion of personnel.
2.—Building of 102 ships, mostly submarines, in the next five years, costing more than $500,000,000.
3.—Expansion of the present naval force of about 1,000 planes during a period of 2,184.
Ship-Plane Program
The ship-plane program, already authorized under the Vinson Bill, this year with a $90,000,000 appropriation for 225 planes, one big cruiser, three light cruisers, 12 destroyers, two destroyer leaders and submarines.
Conclusion of the five-year plan, leading to Secretary of Navy C. A. Swanson, will guarantee the United States a "steady strength" second to none.
Swanson, pointing out that many in the navy are operating considerably below the 85 per cent efficiency line in "peace-time" crew complements, sees the personnel situation as one of the most serious items confronting him.
No Crew Increase Provision
Although the new ships and planes are authorized by congress no provision is made for increasing crew strength, he said.
The present shortage, it was said, is 60 destroyers from participation in the recent fleet review in New York harbor by President Roosevelt. The navy plans to ask congress for 1,500 men at the next session.
Request, it was explained, would be for only 5,000 men but an urgent demand the past year for 5,000 men was met by congress to 2,500.
Aviation Expansion
Most of the officers' increase is to be care of aviation expansion. There are 297 officers in the aviation branch, but this number will be increased to 2,087, according to plans. The navy plans to ask for the following enlisted strength increases: 3,500; 1937, 8,500; 1938, 3,500; 1939, 4,500; 1940, 1,000, and 1941, 1,500.
Increased after 1938, high naval officers said, would be principally to carry the air force because treaty strength in the ship numbers will have been reached.

CONGRESSMEN TREK HOME AS SESSION ENDS

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 19 — The 73rd congress which enacted into law the framework of President Roosevelt's New Deal went home today.
The end came undramatically at 11:45 last night to the congress which had vested the president with powers greater than any ever held by a peacetime executive.
Today congressmen and senators, most of them seeking re-election, trekking homeward, anxious to learn what the country at large had to say about the new course which they have charted for the nation.
And the nation, with congress out of the way, was at liberty to start the business recovery which so many have said would begin as soon as it was known just when the lawmaking would cease.
It is believed President Roosevelt would veto the farm bill, which would grant a virtual moratorium on the indebtedness of insolvent farmers.
Three of congress' acts will furnish the keystone for an intensive summer drive toward business recovery.
They are the tariff bill, permitting the president to negotiate reciprocal trade agreements with foreign nations; the housing act, designed to stimulate the construction industry; and the bill granting federal loans to the smaller industries.

YOUTH WIELDS AX TO PROTECT MOTHER, CLAIM

MAUD, Okla., June 19 — A youth's asserted effort to defend his mother with an ax from an angry suitor had the suitor in a hospital near death with a split head and the youth in jail without charges today.

Officers said they were told that Collum, who was keeping Mrs. Stallings company, had quarreled with her at church and later came to the woman's home, broke in and struck the woman. Young Ragsdale, who told his story, said he heard his mother scream and rushed to her aid from his own residence near by.

Their efforts to open the bank vault were futile. They then robbed the two hardware stores. Their loot included guns, ammunition and clothing.

American Yachtsmen, Take Notice!

A pretty sight, to be sure, but not one to cause the American yachtsmen to turn handsprings. For that fast traveling yacht you see in the foreground pulling away from her nearest competitor at Harwich, England, is T. O. M. Sopwith's Endeavour, which will soon come to the United States in an effort to capture the America's cup. The race was the Endeavour's debut in racing competition.

BIG INCREASE IN FOREIGN TRAVEL SEEN

WASHINGTON, June 19 — While it expects the number of vacationists who "See America First" to increase 20 per cent this year, the foreign travel division of the American Automobile association also believes lower costs, special rates, and economically planned tours will mean a 10 to 15 per cent boost in the number of natives who travel abroad.
In a survey conducted by the AAA division, it was disclosed that the number of passports issued through April was 12 per cent above last year, with applications still pouring in. Also, since January 1, the division has handled 30 per cent more cars destined for foreign lands.
Special Tours
Compensating influences such as lower steamship, rail and hotel rates and a great variety of economically planned special tours, it was explained, have more than offset devaluation of the dollar in terms of certain European currency.
Steamship rates are said to be at the lowest level since 1926, while the cost for transporting automobiles aboard fast liners has been reduced 40 per cent.
Those who prefer to travel through foreign lands by rail will find unusually low rates in effect in virtually every country. Germany has reduced its rail fares for tourists 60 per cent; France is offering round-trip tickets for week-ends longer at a 30 per cent reduction; and Britain, Holland and other countries have made drastic cuts in rail vacation travel rates.
Hotel Rates Lower
Hotel rates in all principal cities abroad, it was said, average 30 per cent, lower than in 1926.
Conducted tours are priced lower this year than they were in 1930, and a tour which cost $785 four years ago would cost $592 today.

BULLETIN
WASHINGTON, D. C., June 19 — Settlement of the threatened street strike was believed impending today.
Shortly after steel union leaders handed Sec'y of Labor Perkins a four-point compromise plan she announced she would lay it before President Roosevelt later today.
WASHINGTON, D. C., June 19 — Steel union leaders offered to make the steel strike truce permanent today, but conditioned the gesture on government acceptance of proposals of their own making.
They laid a four-point peace plank before Sec'y of Labor Perkins. It was based on compromise proposals drafted by Wm. Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, and accepted by the union convention in Pittsburgh last week.
It differed only slightly from the government's newly enacted labor disputes conciliation law.

Willard was charged with advising, commanding and encouraging the issuance and circulation of 310,000 counterfeit stamps. The stamps are for a three-cent tax on a package of 20 cigarets.

Former Atty.-Gen. Claude Pollard, attorney for the Wholesale Jobbers Ass'n, who himself announced that he had been indicted "unjustly and outrageously" was under bond.
State Comptroller Geo. Sheppard, whom Pollard had called upon to "do the right thing" and asked dismissal of the charge against him, said the matter is entirely in the hands of prosecuting authorities.

DRY FORCES IN NEBRASKA WILL LAUNCH FIGHT

LINCOLN, Neb., June 19 — Dry forces of Nebraska, recognized as a stronghold of prohibition before enactment of the 18th amendment to the federal constitution, will be mobilized to defeat a movement for repeal of state prohibitory laws. R. F. Hutton state superintendent of the Anti-saloon league has announced.
Voters of the state will pass upon a proposal for state repeal at the general election in November.
Urges Dry Voters on
"If the 80,000 members of the Nebraska Christian temperance churches who habitually neglect to vote can be gotten to the polls this fall, whisky will not be legalized in Nebraska," Hutton predicted in his annual report.
"If these voters sit at home, whisky joints will open up along the paths of youth; solicitors will hunt them down in their homes," the millitant dry declared.
Hutton assured Nebraskans it will be a good advertisement for this state if a big vote in favor of prohibition is polled.
Special Attention
"Such action would attract here desirable settlers and enterprises," he said. "But we couldn't be bad enough to be conspicuous, no matter how hard we tried. And to be hopelessly average is to be helplessly lost."
He urged Nebraska and Kansas, heart of the "Bible Belt" to be conspicuously righteous and conspicuously sober.
Hutton proposed that a state meeting of church leaders, women's club heads and temperance organizations be held "sometime before the month ends," to organize for a statewide campaign for prohibition, to be carried into every voting precinct.
"A big vote for prohibition is not only right but profitable," will be the rallying cry of the drive.

GARNER EARNS A REST

Texas "Jack" Garner is coming back to Texas and a well-earned and longed-for rest with fishing his principal avocation. After a third of a century in the halls of congress, culminating in the vice presidency, John Garner deserves a rest. At no time in that long career, no doubt, is he beginning a vacation with such a personal satisfaction in having earned it. For John Garner has done more for the democratic party and the success of the administration than any single person in Washington, outside the president. In leaving his senate presidency post he was applauded with an expression of non-partisan appreciation such as few presiding officers of that august body have received.

John Garner, as speaker of the house, was the most powerful person on Capitol hill, not to say in Washington, during the last days of the Hoover administration. He was the democratic party, so to speak. He guided democratic legislative policy with a sure and capable hand that paved the way for the Roosevelt administration. All looked to him. He was the man of the hour, the skilled ambassador of a New Deal. And when the New Deal arrived he retired into the obscurity of the vice presidency, surrendered his prominence and publicly closed his mouth, acknowledging like a good soldier the chief that the votes of the people of the nation had set over him. He gave his allegiance wholeheartedly to that chief. He never opened his mouth to utter a word that would conflict with the policies or the purposes of that chief, and he never said a word but what he knew the man in the White House wanted him to say. And he was respected and his counsel sought by that chief. He was said to have been the pilot who guided the Roosevelt legislative program through the treacherous channels of the congress. It was his sage advice that helped shape the administration program in the privacy of the White House executive offices; and it was his experience and his great knowledge of the channels, the deep currents and the dangerous undertows that exist beneath the august surface of the congress that steered this program to enactment. John Garner contributed a great deal more to the New Deal than will be at present known, for he never thought much of his importance. He never ran off at the mouth. He never entertained his visitors with grandiloquent gestures or attempted to impress them with the greatness of the office of vice president. He usually put his feet upon his desk and swapped yarns and publicly longed for the fishing holes of southwest Texas. Now his wish will be fulfilled, and John Garner has earned it.

GERALENE GETS REWARD

Geralene Arnold has been given $4,000 as what the court held to be due her of the $15,000 promised reward for the capture of George and Katherine Kelly, two of the convicted kidnapers of Charles F. Urschel, Oklahoma City millionaire. The girl who rode with the desperado pair hundreds of miles over Texas, Louisiana and Arkansas roads in their efforts to dodge the pursuing forces of justice, was the chief aid of the officers in their trap which was finally sprung upon the hapless pair in Memphis, Tenn. She led the officers to their quarry. But the promised reward was withheld on the contention that she gave the officers no more information than they already possessed. She was entitled to a share of the promised fund. The officers relied upon her help and she assisted them, despite the fact that the characters of the man and woman they sought were known to respect nothing, and that her life and the lives of her people were in danger of retaliation at the hands of the pair. The fact that the officers relied upon her was proof enough of the vital part that she played in leading them to the successful culmination of their chase. The reward was promised. It was right it should be paid. Law-abiding people had called upon her for help. Why should they set her an example of infidelity and broken promise that might henceforth color her thoughts with contempt for the principles they professed to represent. It ought to have been a matter of gratitude and pride—gratitude for the part the girl played, pride in the honest motives of law-abiding society—to have handed the little girl her share of the sum.

RICE GROWERS COMPLAIN OF SURPLUS

There is a drouth in the granary states of America. There is no wheat surplus for export this year. There is a drouth in the corn belt section of America. Price of corn jumped four cents a bushel. There may be a cotton failure and no surplus except the carryover. But a huge rice surplus is shown. According to the American Rice Growers Cooperative association, the present rice crop exceeds the normal supply. Officials in session at Lake Charles, La., wired Secy. of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace "to declare the surplus in the rice industry and take steps to reduce the excess." Action of officials and the executive committee of the cooperatives was announced by the association manager who said "the association for some time has been attempting to divert the surpluses to relief channels and to certain export fields."

What's wrong with rice as food? Old time darky cooks in the Southland knew how to cook rice. They knew how to prepare it for the table. They knew how to prepare rice pudding. They knew how to serve it as the most tempting of all Southern dishes or courses. Now why should there be a surplus of rice in drouth years in the grain or corn belts of America? It is a cheap food, a palatable food, a nourishing food, and the people should be taught its value as a table offering.

SURPRISE!

Tugwell "Hands His Critics a Wallop"

By HUGH NUGENT FITZGERALD.
Rexford G. Tugwell has been pictured and publicized in the public prints since the coming of the New Deal legislation. He has been criticized and cauterized and lampooned and barbecued by the hostile critics of the so-called brain trust. His name was sent to the senate by President Roosevelt for the post of under secretary of agriculture. Cotton Ed Smith of South Carolina is a farmer-planter senator from the Palmetto state. He reached for the scalp of Rexford. He had branded Rexford as an enemy of the constitution and lastly as a wild man running at large teaching the farmers how to farm. Cotton Ed declared that a dirt farmer should be the under secretary.

Well, Tugwell was called before the senate committee Cotton Ed questioned him. Tugwell never lost his poise. He made a magnificent exposition of self control. He declared for the constitution of the United States and the republic of the fathers. He had no sympathy with communism or Leninism or Stalinism. He was for the declaration of independence, the magna charta of the United States, the republic of the fathers subject to the changes in law or government made necessary by the changing conditions of the times. In other words he recognized that evolution is the order of the day and evolution in government or systems of government is on the march all the time. It never sleeps—it never dies.

The McLennan county highway had been completed some time ago. The Bell county portion, including overpasses to eliminate all grade crossings from Temple north, is now finished. Work has started on building a new straight-line highway between Georgetown and Round Rock, and has been ordered for part of the 30-odd-mile Hays county gap on Highway 2. Grading has been done in Comal county, and in Bexar county, and surfacing has been started on some of the work. The road has been graded and bridges are being completed in Travis county. Surfacing these graded units is to be provided for out of the $12,000,000 federal highway appropriation to be available July 1.

Through the Editor's Spectacles
By GEORGE
I see by the papers that 12,000 Fort Worth residents have no bath-tubs. It can at least be said for Cisco that we have fewer people without that modern hygienic necessity. * * * Queer how people's attitudes change. Not so long ago, relatively speaking, the bathtub was looked upon as unhealthful. The accepted scientific dogma of the day argued that the epidemics exuded certain essential ingredients that were removed by too frequent washing. Later it was discovered that the ingredients were just plain dirt and sweat with a odor that was responsible for so many wallflowers until someone discovered Biah Biah's soap for stinking people. * * * Supt. R. N. Cluck, whose duties as chief executive officer of the Cisco public schools include rounding up the census supplementary roll these hot days, thought yesterday morning he had found a bonanza of some sort. These Great American families are worth exactly $16 per head to the school system. * * * He approached a colored woman, large and comfortable, occupying a goodly portion of the front porch of her dwelling, and inquired her name. She told him. "Any children of school age around here?" he asked. The woman inspected him critically. "Yes, suh," said she after a flourish of documents and the earnestness of the superintendent had convinced her that he wasn't taking the trouble because he enjoyed the heat. Cluck disposed his bundle of census sheets upon his knee, took out a pencil and flourished it expectantly over the ruled forms. "All right, name them to me," he cried. "Well, fust off there's Mardy. She's about ten, I reckon." "You reckon?" Cluck regarded her in astonishment. "I don't want any of your reckonings. Don't you realize this is an official record? How old is the girl?" The colored woman was rather abashed. "She's ten," she qualified positively after a moment. "I know dat for a fact." "All right." And Cluck filled in the space allotted to that bit of information. One after one, the colored mammy told off the youngsters, pausing between instances to wrinkle a dark brow into serious reflection. She reached the seventh one. "Sam, he about nine, I reckon." "There you go again," expostulated Cluck, drenched with sweat and restless in the tedium of reducing this halting information to statistics. "Didn't I tell you you can't guess at this. These are records. You certainly know when the child was born?" "No suh," admitted the woman, "I can't say I do. I wasn't there." Cluck's eyes nearly popped out of his head. "You weren't there?" he spluttered. "Whose children are these?" "Well, dey's fust one and den another's." "Great Scott! Are you trying to kid me?" The colored woman's face was a picture of injured innocence. "Why, no suh, Mr. Cluck. I thought you wanted the names of some of dese here younguns that ought to be in school." CHURCH-THEATER RAZED

DONNA OF THE BIG TOP

BEGIN HERE TODAY
DONNA GABRIEL, circus performer, falls from the trapeze and is injured. To rescue her her father, MADLINE SIDDAL, Donna goes to Madeline's home to recuperate, pretending to be the other girl. She is ashamed of the deception but keeps it up even when BILL SIDDAL, Madeline's cousin, asks her to marry him. Bill and Donna are married. MRS. PLANTER, housekeeper discharged by Donna, is her enemy. Madeline who has married CON DAVID, animal trainer, is killed. Con knows of Donna's deception and decides to blackmail her. He comes to the nearby town and Donna meets him secretly. Con threatens to come trouble for her. Mrs. Planter learns of the meeting and writes Bill an anonymous letter. Bill goes to see Con and during his absence Grandfather Sidral dies. Bill, believing Donna has committed bigamy, tells her he "knows the truth" and will leave immediately after the funeral. Donna steals away and boards a train for Chicago, Con, on the same train, confesses that he has liberally misled Bill. From Chicago Donna sends Bill a telegram. NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
CHAPTER XLVII
It was Minnie who discovered that Donna was gone. Miss Perkins, the nurse, who considered it a blessing that Amos Sidral was at rest at last, spoke sharply to the servant girl and hustled her into the kitchen to get supper. Whether any one else in the family wanted food or not, the nurse felt the need of it. "Ask Mrs. Sidral to come down, Minnie," she added. "Tell her I said she must have some food. She mustn't let herself get ill." Rubbing her red eyes with a handkerchief, Minnie mounted the stairs. The stuffles were gone when she dashed back into the living room. "She's gone!" Minnie cried excitedly. "Mist' Sidral's gone!" "Noneense!" Bill muttered. "Maybe she's outside," the nurse suggested. "No, Ma'am. Her traveling bag's gone and there ain't any toilet things on the dresser! There's a big trunk in the hall with her name on it. Oh, my Lordie!" Minnie began to wring her hands, as if Donna's disappearance affected her personally. Bill pushed back his chair and strode from the room. Only too evident were the indications of his wife's departure. Bureau drawers and clothes hangers were empty. The huge wardrobe trunk with the black letters, "Madeline Gabriel," stood at the foot of the second flight of stairs. She had gone without a word to him. If he needed further proof that Con David had told the truth this supplied it. Bill searched for some farewell message but there was none. Even before Grandfather's funeral Madeline had left the house. Was she utterly heartless? But why expect more of a woman who had been a cheat from the day he had first met her? WHY had she married him? Had she separated from the animal trainer and been afraid a divorce had been frowned upon by Grandfather? Or was she and David divorced, so that she was legally Bill's wife? No—if that were the case she would not have run away.

WHO WINS FIRST IN AMERICA

THE DAY PASSED WITH NO SENT

Then came the funeral. Sent were held at home and, in spite of the distance from town, many present. Neighbors who had known Amos Sidral all his life and he him. Many drawn through curiosity to learn, if possible, of Young Mrs. Sidral had gone as she was to see how Bill was taking the situation. It was a bitter ordeal for the sight of Mrs. Planter in black, sobbing dolefully, was almost too much for him. He would have liked to fling her out of the house but he could not do that. She lived in the Sidral home for years and was supposed to be a close friend. He managed to avoid her ignored the condolences she offered. Joe Hoskins, the lawyer, a life acquaintance of Grandfather, called with Bill. Minnie and the car with Bill. Minnie and the Perkins sat behind. Little was said on the drive but on the way home at the attorney asked, "Shall I call you to your place to read the will or will you come in to the office?" "It doesn't matter," Bill answered gloomily. "The property all goes to Madeline. You'll be in touch with her." Hoskins coughed and advised you. "No," he said, "he doesn't. Your Grandfather leaves Madeline a cent." "What?" "The farm and everything is yours, Bill, unless—well, he leaves a letter addressed to the will, but I have an idea he hasn't anything to do with property." "But I don't understand! ways thought—" "I reckon he figured that as were man and wife, it didn't make any difference who was wiser and maybe it was wiser the man to have the say than woman." "But this will can't stand. —It's wrong! Let's read it once, Mr. Hoskins. There must be some mistake!" "Just as you say, Bill, but the mistake. The will will stand." (To Be Concluded)

Turkey Is Soon to Have Silver Money

ISTANBUL, June 1—Silver money is to reappear in Turkey soon. This is welcome news to natives and foreigners alike, as the Turkish pound notes dirty and torn, present a danger to health.

There will be coins of one, one-half and one-quarter of a Turkish pound (A Turkish pound equals about 80 cents). Silver money has been out of circulation since the republic, shortly after coming into power, invalidated the old Ottoman currency. The government repeatedly had announced their intention of carrying out this monetary reform, and even a new printing law had been adopted not long ago, but, owing to shortness of silver stocks, its realization had to be postponed. An amendment to the silver bill, which the administration has just presented in the national assembly, to issue silver coins of normal value of 16,000,000 Turkish pounds. One-half is to be put into circulation immediately, and the balance at a later date. Present stocks of silver in the hands of the government amount to 32 tons. Twenty-six tons were collected by calling in the obsolete silver coins of the former regime and seven were bought in the British market. It is expected that further purchases will precede the actual minting.

NRA Labor Advisory Board Seeks to Help Labor and Industry in Troubles

WASHINGTON, June 19—The Labor Advisory Board of NRA sees its greatest achievement during the past year the application to relations between labor and industry a new social control, more flexible than any law, and adapted to varying conditions.

The board was established last July through appointment of nine members by Labor Secretary Frances Perkins. Dr. Leo C. Wolman was named chairman. He has been absent since April 15, when he took charge of the automobile strike settlement board at the request of President Roosevelt.

Five of the original nine members were American Federation of Labor officials. When the board membership was increased to 13, the four new members were officials of the labor union. Sidney Hillman's clothing workers' union was brought into the federation during the year, increasing the A. F. of L. representation to 10 out of 13 members.

The chief responsibility of the Labor Advisory Board according to the president's order, was to assure that "every affected labor group, whether organized or unorganized is fully and adequately represented in an advisory capacity."

Labor advisers were named for every code hearing, labor representation was given a hearing and opportunity to make arguments, file briefs, and negotiate with the industries and deputy administrators of NRA.

Model labor clauses worked out for codes eliminated the loose phrasing which provided loopholes for industry to escape code restrictions. Industries now are not anxious to have codes reopened, according to Gustav Peck, the board's executive director, fearing tightening up of labor provisions through code phrasing changed by experience. The later codes have very little possibility of evasion in labor clauses, he said.

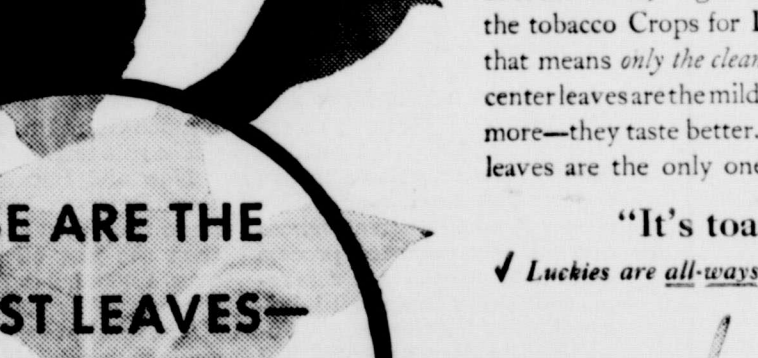

Tentative policies of the board have become standards which decide whether a code shall be approved. These standards are similar for related types of industries, in line with general Administration policy to coordinate code administration for related groups.

Administration Hugh S. Johnson has granted the board the right to name labor men on all industrial relations agencies, and A. F. of L. men are named in all organized industries, except where independent unions have a majority of workers.

One of the board's greatest problems is to find proper labor representation for unorganized industries. Technically trained men are required, impartial and uncontrolled, sympathetic to labor and able to represent its viewpoint, yet without union affiliation.

DISTRICTS RICH IN FOSSILS ARE FOUND IN INDIA

By ALFRED BERTHINET
United Press Staff Correspondent
NEW YORK, June 19.—Paleontologists and geologists, those historians of the pick and shovel have discovered a fossil bonanza in the central provinces of India.

Neither the Gobi desert, nor Wyoming, have any monopoly on dinosaurs, for according to the general report of the geological survey of India, Dr. C. A. Matley in charge of the Percy Sladen Trust expedition has unearthed two broken ribs of a dinosaur and a portion of a scapula of antarcosaurus, another type of dinosaur. Both of these 20,000,000-year-old finds were obtained at Bara Simla, near Jubbulpore.

Fossilized Reptiles

In the Chanda district near the village of Pijura, Dr. Matley has secured many fossilized remains of reptiles hundreds of thousands of years old. These consisted of several fragments of dinosaurs' jaws, 85 vertebral centra, a number of ribs and broken limb bones.

Giraffes do not live in India today, but the fossil evidence dug up by the scientists indicates that thousands of years ago they were to be seen there. The skull of one of the most perfectly preserved of our types of fossil giraffes, has been removed from the rock matrix, cleaned and has been developed, resulting in greater anatomical detail.

New Species

A number of new species of gastropods from the limestone beds of Quilon, Travancore state, have been collected. In northwest Baluchistan, Captain Bomford discovered fossil corals, and in Jabalpur fossil remains of fern-fronds were found, the latter proved to be a genus which has not previously been observed in India.

The geologic survey of India, situated at Calcutta, has traded a complete set of colored plastercasts of the fossil anthropoid apes of India for similar casts of the remains of the recently discussed Pekin man, which were forwarded from Peiping through Professor Davidson Black of the Peiping Union Medical college.

GRAND OPERA HEADACHE IN LOS ANGELES

By LEO BARON
United Press Staff Correspondent
LOS ANGELES, June 19.—A symphony orchestra playing "Tiger Rag" would be guilty of nothing short of heresy, but L. E. (Eee) Behymer, impresario of opera here, is publicly chanting the blues these days.

With half a million dollars worth of opera talent under contract Behymer is worrying about the prospects for next season. And dismal prospect they appear, too. The infidelity of opera fans, the high cost of big names, the radio, the movies, the unions and last, but by no means least, the conflicting dates of eastern schedules, have combined to make his life pretty unpleasant.

Los Angeles opera-goers' aversion for local talent is trouble No. 1 for Behymer. That means big names must be imported and big names cost money. John Charles Thomas for instance, Behymer points out, would do for "Blank's Cough Syrup" at 5,000 a broadcast for 26 weeks on the air than $1,250 a concert he could earn in Los Angeles.

The movies also have played no little part in harassing the opera here. An oboe player will find it more profitable to make sound effects for Bing Crosby's newest picture than to blow his instrument with the poor struggling Philharmonic Orchestra. The unions? Behymer's answer to that is that it cost him $1,146 more for musicians during a two-day run of "Emperor Jones" here this season than it did in San Francisco.

But with all these handicaps, Behymer has gambled $500,000 in grand opera contracts for next season which tentatively is scheduled to open October 2 and continue until October 10 or 12. Some of the artists able and willing to appear include Ezio Pinza, baritone-bass; Elizabeth Rathberg, soprano; Ninon Vallin, premier soprano of France; Mario Chamlee, tenor; Marek Windheim, tenor; Alfredo Gandolfi, baritone; Richard rooks, tenor.

Lucrezi Bori and Grace Moore are wanted but are not expected for one cause or another.

THE TOUGHEST TEST A MOTOR OIL COULD TAKE

A DARING TEST! New and Improved Conoco Germ Processed Motor Oil outdistanced five worthy rivals, thanks to the extraordinary film strength and penetrativeness our recently patented process gives it. Five quarts of this remarkable new motor oil lubricated a car for the almost unbelievable distance of 4,729 miles before the motor was wrecked.

Five other oils, all nationally known and widely advertised, competed under identical conditions with New and Improved Conoco Germ Processed Motor Oil in this test.

New and Improved Conoco Germ Processed Motor Oil went more than 3,000 miles farther than the first oil to fail, and over 1,400 miles farther than the best of its competitors.

The results of this test should guide your next oil purchase. A tremendously greater motor protection and remarkably lower consumption await you at Red Triangle Stations. Drive in today.

New and Improved Conoco Germ Processed Motor Oil winner in terrific "destruction" test at the Indianapolis motor speedway—supervised by the Contest Board, American Automobile Association.

These six new strictly stock cars were used in the "destruction" test. AAA officials assigned the brand of oil each carried by drawing of lot numbers. Only AAA officials knew which oil was in any car.

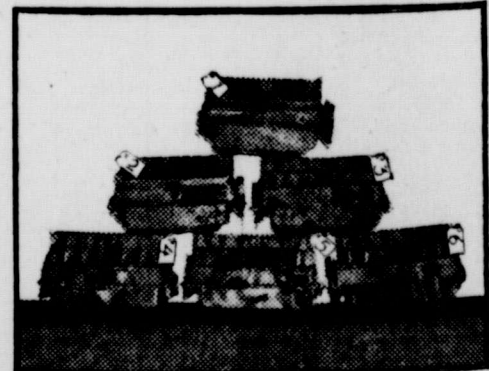

Mileage and all final details were checked by these two AAA officials. Electrical timing instruments were used.

Five quarts of each brand of oil of the same S. A. E. grade from measures checked by the Bureau of Weights and Measures, State of Indiana, were carefully put in the cars by AAA officials.

The official sealing of crankcases after fill of five quarts was put in. No addition of oil was permitted in this "destruction" test.

These were new motors, before the test. Oil No. 4 failed at 1,713 3/4 miles; No. 6 failed at 1,764 3/4 miles; No. 5 quit at 1,815 9/16 miles; No. 1 failed at 2,268 3/4 miles and No. 3 at 3,318 3/4 miles, while No. 2 New and Improved CONOCO Germ Processed held up to 4,729 miles.

Here are the representatives of the Contest Board of the American Automobile Association who supervised every detail of the test and attested to the records made.

Here is the winner!—the car that covered 4,729 miles at fifty miles an hour, lubricated with New and Improved CONOCO Germ Processed Motor Oil.

Warning
TO NEW CAR OWNERS
Some car manufacturers are using new types of bearings which will stand greater pressures and temperatures, resulting from increased power and speed. New and Improved Conoco Germ Processed Motor Oil has been exhaustively tested on these new bearings. The results indicate that it gives them greater protection against damage than straight mineral oils. Protect your new car by using the motor oil you can be sure of.
