Justice Agents May Be Used in War Dep't Investigation

BIG SCANDAL SUSPECTED BY HOUSE GROUP

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 23 — Convicted a major army scandal hidden beneath the red tape of war department sale and purchase methods, the house military affairs investigating committee today prepared to use justice department operatives in an intensive summer inquiry.

The move came as the names of act Secy of War Harry H. Woodring, Ralph O'Neil, former American Legion commander, and Robert Jackson, resigned secretary of the democratic national committee, entered testimony concerning a surplus clothing sales contract.

The committee is the same which previously started the war department by unanimously recommending removal of Major Gen. Benjamin D. Hulse, air corps chief, on charges of inefficiency and violation of the law requiring competitive bidding on plane contracts.

General Douglas MacArthur, chief of staff of the army, testified before the committee at a secret session today. It was understood he discussed recent developments which included an admission by Col. Joseph J. McMullen, of the advocate-general's office that McMullen accepted fees from business concerns while on active duty.

The committee, it was learned plans to continue hearings here next week again questioning McMullen and Quartermaster-General Louis H. Pugh.

Los Angeles Jury Gives Woman Death

LOS ANGELES, Cal., June 23 — Mrs. May Madison, dark-haired, middle-aged, convicted slayer of her fourth husband, was sentenced today to die on the gallows.

A superior court jury spurned agency and returned a verdict denying the extreme penalty for the alleged murder of a man the defendant insists is still alive.

The verdict was as astounding to courtroom as was Mrs. Madison's plea that a man shot to death in her apartment was a stranger, and not her husband, Eric Madison, a Danish employe and reputed son of a former Danish politician.

She told the jury her husband, while in a studio safe, abandoned the marital union the night the stranger was slain in her apartment. She had not seen him since, she said. Mrs. Madison denied killing the "stranger."

Germany Will Send Delegates to London

BERLIN, June 23 — Great Britain's invitation to the government to send a delegation to London in effort to avert the trade war threatened July 1, when Germany imposed a moratorium on foreign debt payments, was accepted today.

Great Britain announced that it would issue a clearing house to ease German credits in sufficient amount, if possible, to meet services on German securities, but it offered to negotiate. Germany had announced might retaliate by barring imports from the entire British empire—a move that would penalize the dominions.

FROM GOLD DOLLARS TO OYSTERS PRESIDENT'S WORD IS SUPREME

Congress Leaves Roosevelt Dictatorial Powers Such as no President of the United States Has Ever Before Wielded

By FREDERICK C. OTHMAN
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, June 23 — Congress has left President Roosevelt dictatorial powers such as no chief executive before him ever demanded.

From the amount of gold in the dollar to the amount of water in a quart of oysters, President Roosevelt's word is supreme. From the Texas oil wells to the New York stock exchange his signature is all powerful. He can tell the Georgia farmer how much cotton to plant, the Illinois banker how much interest to charge, and the Pennsylvania coal miner how many hours to work.

There is hardly any phase of American life which the president's influence, empowered by law, does not touch. The republican senatorial-congressional committee has compared Mr. Roosevelt to Mussolini, sees in his mounting powers "an end to liberty" and has called them an expression of the "socialist idea."

Democratic Retort

The democrats retorted that the president must have these extraordinary powers to combat the depression. They point with pride to progress so far made and insist that President Roosevelt has no idea of making himself an American dictator. The president himself says little, works hard, sets up new recovery aids and prepares for a lengthy vacation.

The specific powers of the president are divided among these 12 major programs:

1. Business control through the National Recovery administration, with authority to regulate through codes the minutest details of competition.
2. Agricultural Control
3. Labor control, through the NRA wages and hours provisions and through the new new labor bill providing for arbitration of disputes.
4. Stock market control, with a

JUNGLE ARMIES LOCKED IN HAND TO HAND FIGHT

BUENOS AIRES, June 23 — With bayonet and machete, Bolivian and Paraguayan infantry fought hand to hand today for the sixth consecutive day.

The living were haggard and near exhaustion. Thousands of casualties were scattered over the bloody plain in the Gran Chaco jungle.

Each side had thrown its picked infantrymen time and again against the other's position.

Paraguayans fought for a victory that would route the Bolivian army across the border of the disputed jungle region into its own country. To the Bolivians the battle was won that must not be lost. Thrown back mile by mile for many months, the seriousness with which they regarded their present position was shown by the stoutness of their stand.

Agents Seek Kidnap Trail at El Paso

EL PASO, June 23 — Department of justice agents today attempted to pick up the trail in El Paso of kidnapers who last Saturday abducted Mrs. Joseph Fidanque from her San Jose, Cal., home.

Mrs. Fidanque is recovering from nervous shock and a dazed condition at Deputy Sheriff Harry Wiley's home. She was discovered at an El Paso hotel yesterday registered as Julia Travers, a name she used as a radio entertainer.

She said she believed she might be able to give federal agents definite information which will enable them to pick up the kidnapers' trail. She was abducted while alone at her home by a man and a woman. She was forced to drink what is believed to have been a drug. Her eyes were bound with cotton and tape.

Parker Goes With Petroleum Council

AUSTIN, June 23 — R. D. Parker, resigned enforcer of state railroad commission oil regulations in the east Texas field, today accepted a position with the Texas Petroleum Council.

He left immediately for Washington in company with John Kilgore of Wichita Falls, general attorney for the council to confer with federal authorities on the production tax of one-tenth of one cent per barrel of crude oil.

HUNTER LEADS CISCO CANVASS FOR GOVERNOR

Tom Hunter led in the returns from the Cisco Daily News' gubernatorial sentiment vote completed Saturday. Response to the News' straw vote brought in 134 ballots—a figure considerably larger than was anticipated. Of these, Hunter received 59 votes.

Maury Hughes and Jimmy Allred staged a neck and neck affair for second place, with the Dallas candidate leading the attorney-general by a nose at the finish. He had 34 votes to 32 for Allred.

Clint Small, who carried these boxes by a large plurality four years ago had to be content with a mere seven in this unofficial poll. At that, he tied with Edgar Witt, and beat C. C. McDonald, who was favored by only four of the 184.

Edward K. Russell scratched with one, thus giving the poll the distinction of finding support for all candidates.

Probe of Poderjaj Case Completed

VIENNA, June 23 — Police today completed their investigation of the case of Ivan Poderjaj, international adventurer, and are preparing to send a full report to authorities in New York.

They will request an immediate reply from New York as to whether the evidence warrants extraditions. The Vienna police report will be radioed to mailed to New York, where authorities desire to question Poderjaj about the disappearance of his former bride, Agnes Tufverson, New York and Detroit lawyer.

Texas Woman Held in Dentist's Slaying

SHAWNEE TOWN, Ill., June 23 — Evelyn Anderson of Woodsboro, Texas, today was held for grand jury action after a warrant was issued by county authorities naming her in connection with the slaying of Dr. Homer Meyers, El Dorado, dentist.

A warrant was issued for the woman, who was deserted by Harold St. Clair, an ex-convict, who yesterday confessed to New Orleans police that he killed the wealthy dentist.

PIGEON FLIES HOME

BOSTON, June 23 — Pigeons get homesick, too. "Tillie," a carrier pigeon, was sold by Richard Davis of Boston to W. S. Skinner of San Antonio, Texas. One day, not long afterward, "Tillie" reappeared at the Davis home here. It had flown some 1800 miles.

PRESBYTERIAN CAMP OPENS HERE MONDAY

The camp will bring 100 young people here for a week ending with breakfast Saturday morning. Plans are under way to make Lake Cisco the permanent site for this and other young people's encampments of the church, with a group of buildings constructed for the accommodation of the visitors, but for the present the girls will be housed in the country club and the boys on the second floor of the swimming pool bathhouse. Cots will be provided by the encampment, and each child will furnish his or her bedding.

The camp will be open only to children of 12 to 15 years, inclusive.

The camp will be in charge of the Rev. M. H. Applewhite, of Fort Worth, who will be assisted by Dr. J. Stuart Pearce, Cisco First Presbyterian church pastor; Miss Stella Hovey, Fort Worth, presbytery director of religious education; Rev. Frank Taylor, recreation director, and others.

Religious courses will be taught and a program of supervised play carried out during the week. The daily program as contained in the camp bulletin calls for rising each morning at 6:30 with devotionals and class periods occupying the morning period; tribal meetings, rest, directed activities occupying the afternoons, and an assembly with a message each evening.

The encampment is under the direction of the presbytery's committee on religious education, of which E. P. Crawford, Cisco, is a member.

Plane, on Way to Port, Crashes, Pilot Dead

BURBANK, Cal., June 23 — A Central Airways passenger plane crashed into a street near here and exploded today, killing the pilot, just before it was to pick up passengers.

Hope of determining the cause of the crash apparently perished with the pilot, C. L. Bucher, who died instantly. The ship was ferrying to the airport here where several passengers were awaiting the takeoff on a flight to Mexico.

Dewey Moore Passes State Pharmacy Exam

Dewey Moore, of the Moore Drug company, last week passed the state pharmacy board examinations and was awarded a certificate as a registered pharmacist, it was announced.

Police refused to divulge the source of their information but said it was the "hottest tip on Dillinger in a long time."

NUDIST UTOPIA PLANNED ON SOUTH SEAS ISLE

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., June 23 — Utopia, a naked, languorous paradise on a tropical isle, beckoned today—available to all good nudists for $1,000 per nude.

And is soon as they have raised sufficient funds to purchase the island, and a small steamer at least 160 San Francisco nudists will be on their one-way trip to paradise, according to Maurice Allard, president of the Nature's Recreative association.

Allard disclosed the group intends to take for their tropical retreat royal island of Vanna Vanna, in the Gambier group.

The verdant island, 250 miles southeast of Tahiti, is nine miles square and abounds with coconuts, mangos, guava, pineapples and breadfruit, Allard said. He said it is owned by a South Seas prince, who has indicated an inclination to sell it.

The Vanna Vanna group have it figured out that there will be twice the number of persons necessary to work pineapple and coconut plantations, products of 40 years' cultivation.

Consequently, they'll beggar the NRA by requiring only four hours' work a day from the inhabitants.

"Money?" Allard remarked. "We won't need any. The clothing bill will be eliminated. There'll be no butcher bills to fret about. Fish, crabs, turtles and shrimp abound."

Even the prospective little nudists are being provided for.

The little nudists, Allard explained, enter the picture quite definitely inasmuch as all members of the colony must be married. Inter-marriage between the succeeding generations is part of the scheme, so ultimately the island will be peopled with a race of super-nudists.

But Vanna Vannans don't intend to discard civilized ways altogether. Recognizing that even in Utopia there may be divorces, alimony, noisy parties and other matters requiring judicial decisions, the nudists will elect a board of governors, consisting of chairman, vice-chairman, leader and secretary-treasurer. It is the latter who will collect, safeguard and disburse the $1,000 membership fees.

Steamers will touch the dreamy isle only twice a month. Consequently, the Vanna Vannans will set up a radio station to keep in touch with their friends.

Allard said he once lived seven years among the islands, which are under French protectorate, and is convinced of the scheme's practicability. Temperatures run from 80 to 84 degrees, generally, he said.

And in their spare moments, the colonists will work up a mother of pearl dice, he explained, to get a little pocket money.

He did not explain, however, what they'd do for pockets.

HUMBLE SALES PICNIC DRAWS 500 SATURDAY

With the great majority of visitors arriving late in the afternoon, 500 officials and employes of the Abilene and Fort Worth retail sales districts of the Humble Oil and Refining company were here last night for their annual picnic, the first they have held at Lake Cisco.

The program began with a wailer, followed by a few who braved the blistering sun. Through the afternoon the visitors scattered in search of recreation featured by soft ball games, golf, boating and swimming.

The big event of the picnic, however, was the dance at the Cisco Country club preceded by a barbecue and fish fry at 6:30 p. m.

Tip Says Dillinger Is in Indianapolis

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., June 23 — A confidential warning that John Dillinger and three of four companions were in Indianapolis was sent out to all police radio squads today by Capt. Jesse McMurphy.

Police refused to divulge the source of their information but said it was the "hottest tip on Dillinger in a long time."

NEEDED: GOOD HECKLERS FOR STATE RACES

By GORDON K. SHEARER
United Press Staff Correspondent
AUSTIN, June 23 — What the Texas political campaign needs is some good hecklers.

Candidates are talking generalities and platitudes. A few good hecklers would make them be specific.

Nearly all candidates for governor in some speech or other have used an old age pension as a talking point. Audiences are left to believe that they can go blithely down life's pathway, regardless of the future, if only they elect that particular candidate for governor.

A good lusty-lunged heckler would ask some questions about it. He would inquire who is to pay the pensions and how. He would ask if it is to have a fate like the mothers' pension. The state legislature next year get credit for a mothers' pension law and shifted the burden to the counties. County commissioners were authorized to grant such pensions from county funds, if they saw fit.

The heckler would ask what age will be required to become eligible for a pension. He would ask if the aged man or woman is to be required to take the pride-breaking oath of pupership.

Rich Pensioners

An indigence clause as a prerequisite to Confederate pensions was so distasteful to public sentiment that it is ignored. Some pensioners, made rich by oil strikes, are reported to continue as state pensioners. Many of the planks being voiced by candidates are subject to pertinent inquiries. Lack of questioning indicates that public interest has not been stimulated by them.

All candidates are for easing the tax burden. How they are going to do it varies with the candidate. A heckler might ask each one how adequate appropriations are to be made if the state income is reduced in face of an overdraft of nearly $5,000,000.

"How about insane sleeping on floors for lack of buildings?" is a question that might give a candidate considerable pause. Most of the candidates have foreseen that some such question, if unasked, at least may have arisen in the minds of voters. They are ready to answer.

Onion Field Strike Violence Threatened

ADA, Okla., June 23 — Barefoot men and women, striking for higher wages for their back-breaking toil, strengthened picket lines around the world's largest onion patch today in a labor war in which the threat of violence increased hourly.

The fields cover an area of more than 17,000 acres. More than 750 onion workers, most of them elderly, defiantly threatened to use force if necessary to prevent landowners from bringing strike breakers into the region to remove weeds which threatened to choke the crop.

HOLY ROSARY CHURCH
This is the fifth Sunday after Pentecost and the epistle is taken from the First Epistle of St. Peter III.8-15, the gospel is from St. Matthew V.20-24. Today, June 24th, is also the Feast of St. John, the Baptist, in whose honor the mass is said today. In this mass the epistle is from Chapter 49 of the prophet Isaiah, and the gospel is from St. Luke 1:57-68. The feast day of the saints is kept on the day of their death, which is their eternal birthday. St. John is an exception. His feast is kept on the day of his birth as there is a belief that he was sanctified in his mother's womb. Mass will be at 7 a. m. by Rev. J. Fernandez.

Champagne Pops at Both Ends of Scale

PARIS, June 23.—Champagne has put the pop in popularity at both ends of the social scale. This sparkling wine, invented over 200 years ago of Dom Perignon, no longer is an exclusive privilege of the patrician in Passy, or the titled aristocrat in the Faubourg Saint-Germain. Today, the communist in Clichy and the blue-bloused proletarian of Montmartre are sipping the beverage with equal gusto.

More champagne is being consumed here this year than ever before. Bartenders will smile instead of frown down their noses even if you order a coup de champagne at nine a. m. Champagne dinners have become thefad, and is almost invariably the rule in high Paris society. At a recent gala dinner at one of the smartest restaurants sponsoring the "Saisons de Paris" champagne was the only beverage served.

In the "haute mode" of course, this preference for champagne is merely a matter of taste, and the question of price does not enter the equation. In the thousands of Paris homes, however, where champagne formerly was served only for great occasions, such as marriages, deaths, births and betrothals, it is becoming a common occurrence. At least one of the reasons d'être is that champagne prices have come down, and ordinary folk now can afford the golden bubbles.

Steam Will Be Used To Cool Railway Car

CHICAGO, June 23.—Steam generated by the locomotive will be used to cool railroad cars this summer on the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul road.

The road's fleet of cars is being equipped with a method of air-conditioning that does not require the use of a refrigerant gas or ice. Instead it is based on the principle that the higher the altitude the lower the temperature at which water will boil.

Steam jets at high velocity produce the effect of high altitude by creating a vacuum, causing water in a chamber to boil at 45 degrees, thereby cooling it to that temperature. This cooled water is pumped into cooling coils overhead in the cars to absorb heat and return to the water chamber where the heat absorbed causes it to boil again.

A motor-operated blower forces fresh air through the cooling coils to be chilled and then into ducts opening in the body of the car, thus maintaining a low temperature. The system is controlled thermostatically to maintain uniform temperature. Credit for the air-conditioning invention is given to J. R. Barry of Philadelphia, who obtained a patent on it in 1855. The invention was not used until recently because for many years comfort and speed of travel were not the essentials. Safety was the goal.

HOME IMPROVEMENT

The small homeowner will be the one to benefit most under the new housing bill, says an article published the other day in the Daily News. Terms of the bill enable the homeowner to obtain easy term credit through accredited loan associations who are guaranteed their money by the government.

The provisions of this bill open up a new source of credit that is badly needed. The immediate problem before building trades recovery is the repair of many thousands of homes which, through neglect because of the lack of money, have fallen into a sad condition, and the provision of many other thousands of new homes to take the places of those not worthy of repair as well as to house the increase in population that has normally occurred.

Cisco residential conditions are similar to those elsewhere. There is hardly a liveable house left vacant in the city. Some of the vacant ones could be transformed into respectable conditions by the expenditure of a few dollars.

But the crux of the problem exists in a condition that was the inevitable result of the depression in values. That is the condition which transferred so many of the town's residences from private ownership to building and loan companies. The loan companies are endeavoring to sell these properties at sacrifice prices, because they are not in the homeowning business and because every piece of property that they do own restricts their field and interferes with their potential business welfare.

Until there is a general transfer of home ownership from corporations to individuals, the program of home improvement in Cisco as well as in other communities similarly situated, is going to be made hoped for than realized.

PRESBYTERIAN ENCAMPMENT

Opening of the Fifth Annual Intermediate Camp conference of the Fort Worth Presbytery of the Presbyterian church at Lake Cisco tomorrow has a considerable significance in that it promises to be the forerunner of a considerable summer camp development at the lake. Kerrville, Texas, where a similar enterprise grew into great proportions, is an example of what may be done. Cisco's lakeside opportunities are capable of accommodating an indefinite multiplication of such church summer schools.

Cisco ought to show a compelling interest in the efforts of her Presbyterian leaders to bring the camp here and to secure for future camps a permanent site at the lake. These church leaders are performing a patriotic service to their community in these efforts, and while we grant that they are also seeking to give these religious institutions the greatest opportunity for success in the proper atmosphere, facilities and location, their efforts in behalf of bringing the institutions here are not required by loyalty to the church. The denomination can as readily locate its summer encampments at some other site and probably have just as much success with them.

What the Fort Worth presbytery of the Presbyterian church will be doing with its intermediate encampment here this week will be giving Cisco and Lake Cisco a try-out. The least that Cisco people can do is to bend every civic effort to make the encampment successful and convince the officials that they have chosen the right place for these summer institutions.

SECOND BIGGEST APPROPRIATION

The congress has adjourned—after having sent over the top the second biggest appropriation bill in peacetime history, carrying more than $2,000,000,000 for relief and public works. The only bigger appropriation bill passed by congress during peacetime was the deficiency measure put through in the closing days of the last session, carrying a little more than $3,000,000,000. As for the second biggest appropriation bill, it carried authority for the president to use $500,000,000 of Reconstruction corporation funds for relief and public works. Now the president will have $1,200,000,000 available for public works and about a similar sum for relief, including both general unemployment and drought aid.

According to the congressional leaders and the advisers of the president, with other relief expenditures now running about $110,000,000 a month the new appropriations should carry the government along for at least eight months, by which time congress will be in session again "and able to appropriate more if needed."

FEDERAL FUNDS FOR ROAD BUILDING

President Roosevelt has signed a bill authorizing expenditures of $522,000,000 for the emergency road building program over a period of three years, $200,000,000 to be spent in the fiscal year beginning July 1. Approximately 5000 projects are now under way employing directly 240,000 men. Work now under way and part of that to be begun under the new authorization is financed entirely by the federal government with states not required to match federal funds. Upon the conclusion of this program road building in the United States will revert to the plan under way in 1932 and 1933, with states and federal government sharing equally the cost.

The beginning of a survey of the inter-American highways from Texas to the Panama canal also is assured. A preliminary survey by the federal board of public roads held such a road practical. Mexico already has taken steps to begin construction of the highway from Texas south to the Panama Canal past Mexico City. This project, a direct highway to the Panama Canal, should receive the enthusiastic approval of all Texans.

Another Rugged Individualist Leaves Washington

Senate and house will determine the extent to which the federal government will participate. This followed approval before adjournment by the house of the Connally resolution authorizing creation of the committee and an appropriation of $5,000 for its expenses. Sen. Connally is slated to be chairman of the committee. Before his departure for home the senator announced that the special congressional committee will meet with members of the state Centennial commission early next fall for the drafting of the federal plan.

There is a primary to be held in August and a general election will follow in November. Again the warning is given that the governor and lieutenant governor and senators and representatives to be named this year will be the office holders of the history of the Centennial year of the history of the commonwealth. It is important that high class men, men having the Jeffersonian qualifications for public service, should be named by the voters of the commonwealth. According to the political economists there is an army of 1,000,000 demonstrators and women who are qualified to cast ballots in all the elections, primary and general, this year.

Through the Editor's Spectacles

By GEORGE

My reference to the Johnson grass pastures at home and the invasion of the 'possums' the other day has drawn me the censure of the neighbors who charge me with spilling community secrets without justification or reason. For instance, Dick Lauderdale has refused to reveal anything else that happen about his home for the alleged reason that I have no sense of propriety or pertinence and therefore am not to be entrusted with confidences.

That represents the usual difficulties into which a newspaper writer gets himself. To please one-half of the public he must tell something on the other half. What happened to the king of Unknagook on the planet of Mars is of no interest to the average Cisco reader, who is vitally interested in what happens to J. B. Cate, Geo. P. Fee, or any of the 6,000 odd other folks that we have in this town. Consequently, we have to talk about J. B. Cate's thinning locks and the puddle-jumper that George uses to run his farm errands in. I wonder why I've overlooked that piece of machinery as long as I have?

Now, I think that Dick should be extremely grateful for the restraint with which I handled that story. The temptation was almost too strong to give you a picture of the figure he made in his nightshirt as he chased the 'possum through his shrubbery. One called out of bed at 2:30 to catch a 'possum makes a fair subject for adjectives, methinks.

Another result of that neighborhood yarn has been the attention it called to the unimpeachable condition of the hay. Hardly had the story come from the press before the fire department rushed out there pell mell to stamp out a blaze that got started back of Dr. C. C. Jones' home. With that sort of support, any editorial campaign ought to succeed.

For another effect, the story got the cattle industry interested in our part of town. I've had several offers to pasture steers on the grass. Thanks, but we haven't quite got down to the level of the stock yards, yet. A moving machine and a hay rack would work much better, aesthetically speaking.

Dies Counsel for Texas Oil Program

By HUGH NUGENT FITZGERALD

There is a house commerce sub-committee preparing to visit all important oil producing states in an investigation of the need for further federal legislation to control petroleum production. Rep. Cole (D) of Maryland has been named chairman of the sub-committee. Rep. Martin Dies of Belmont has been designated as counsel for the sub-committee, without pay. He is going into the great east Texas field to collect evidence as to the extent of illegal production and kindred problems. All this is interesting to Texans, regardless of political affiliations.

a tax of one-tenth of one cent a barrel on "all crude oil produced and a tax of the same amount on every barrel refined." a measure Sen. Tom Connally of Texas was instrumental in having enacted. Federal agents will have the right to check all production and the refinery records in connection with this tax and from what information they will be able to tell whether or not the oil is being produced in excess of the quotas called for in the petroleum code. Louis R. Glavis is the head of the federal bureau of investigation for the department of the interior. He is functioning, Charles I. Francis of Wichita Falls is an assistant attorney-general of the federal department of justice. These representatives of Uncle Sam are in charge of prosecution in the production divisions and others.

Unless the signs are misleading there is going to be a red hot campaign pushed in the east Texas fields against the runners of "hot" oil. "Cracking down" appears to be the policy of the federal as well as the state officials—for the summer and fall months anyway.

SOPHIE KERR'S SUPERB LOVE STORY

"STAY OUT OF MY LIFE!"

By Sophie Kerr

—TODAY HERE TODAY

When Howard Jackson comes to the small middle-western town of Marlboro, Jane Terry, the sweetest girl in town, determines to win his heart. Howard, a young geology instructor, is attracted by Jane's friend, Amy Love, but Jane schemes to keep the two from becoming better acquainted. Jane, an orphan, lives with her aunt, Miss Rosa Terry. Amy's father is a professor.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER III

It was only a matter of three weeks, as the calendar marked it, but Jane knew that it might as well have been centuries. She loved Howard Jackson. She would never love anyone else. From the moment she had first seen Howard coming out of the Museum, had watched him going into her house and had kept Amy from knowing it she had centered her feelings on him with her entire strength.

But it was awkward for Howard Jackson to have her so forthcoming. He couldn't step back and he wasn't at all sure that he wanted to step too far forward.

He wanted very much to know Amy Love, to hear her music, but Jane managed to block it and Amy didn't help him. Amy played Jane's name, handing him over to Jane without any sign of knowing how much such treatment irritated him. But one morning as he went from the library to the Museum he heard the organ as he passed by the college chapel and found the side door open. Amy was there, playing the Franck "Pavane Angelique," and he sat down where she would not see him and let the music flow over him in a tide of noble glory. When she had finished he called up to her, "That was beautiful. Thank you." She came to the rail of the loft to see who it was.

"I hope you don't mind my being here," he said. "I couldn't resist the chance."

She looked at him doubtfully. "I'm only practicing—"

"You don't want me to stay?"

"I thought you worked every morning."

He looked for the stairway and saying, "I'm coming up there," reached her side.

"You're not very friendly. If you knew how much I like to hear good music and how much I enjoy yours—What's the matter with me, any way? You never want me to hear you."

"I've been silly," thought Amy. "Treating him as if he had to belong to Jane, for he doesn't, of course. It must make things queer for him."

Aloud she said, "But I don't mind you hearing me at all. I love to have somebody hear me who knows what I'm playing and knows about music. Usually people ask me for jazz and, though it's all very well and I like it, it isn't—"

"It isn't anything to live by," finished Howard.

They had a moment of agreement on this. "If you'll go down again," said Amy. "I'll play some more. I'm usually here for an hour. There are things I know you'd like."

"Couldn't I sit up here?"

But she said no. The effect was better below. Reluctantly he went down but took a place where he could see her, intent, serious, forgetting him, forgetting everything but the sweep and power of her music.

By her playing and by his listening they spoke together without words, an intimacy without awkwardness or restraint.

When she came down at last he went to meet her. "Do you practice every morning?" he asked. "Could I come in sometimes and listen?"

"I usually practice three times a week. Today wasn't very serious. I was showing off to my audience. I'm afraid. You wouldn't enjoy the usual performance."

"It isn't that you don't want me to come?"

Amy's humor woke. He was so like a disappointed little boy. "You're flattering yourself."

"In that case, will you let me call this evening at your home and play for me there? And would you have dinner with me at the French tea room, which seems to be about the best place?"

"I'll tell you, you come and have dinner with us. I'll ask Jane and a couple of other people—"

"No, please. Don't ask anyone. Don't ask me either, for dinner just let me come in the evening and listen."

"But it's not a bit of bother, if that's what's the matter."

"What I'm trying to tell you is that for once I'd like to have your undivided attention. I'd like you to talk to me and play for me, all by myself. If you don't want to, very well."

"We're certainly making a lot of fuss about nothing. Yes, come along."

All the way home Amy thought about his insistence and then, disturbed by Jane, Jane would be pleased when she heard this. Indeed, Jane would be furious.

"Maybe I ought to call her up and tell her," Amy thought, "but she'd think I was trying to rub it in. If she calls up, though, I'll tell her."

strait, waiting without question for confirmation. When she at last turned from the piano they knew each other better than they could have done in weeks of ordinary acquaintance.

"It's impossible to find any way to tell you how much I liked it," Howard said hesitantly. "Let me come again soon, will you?" He paused, frowningly. "Tomorrow that dance, brightening. You're going, aren't you?"

"Yes, Amy was going.

"Then I'll see you there, and then, the day after—that wouldn't be too soon, would it?" His eyes were saying plainly, "You lovely, darling girl. If I dared I'd snatch you and kiss you. It's absurd to wait. We both know that, but I mustn't hurry you. I want you to be quite sure of yourself, of me, of everything."

Amy said, "Not Sunday because we have a neighborhood sing on Sunday nights, but of course you could come then with the crowd if you like." And her eyes, too, said something to add: "Wait a little. It's too quick. It's too new. I must be very, very sure it's real."

OUTSIDE in the summer night Howard Jackson strolled along aimlessly, still in the sky. He couldn't go back to his room yet, though he knew it was late. The houses were dark. The street was empty, quiet. Suddenly he heard a rush of steps behind him and someone caught his arm, his whispering half trying, entirely distracted, accusing, pleading. "Found out where you were—found out—what made you tell me you were going to Professor Ellert's? You never went near him—you've been at Amy's all evening—"

It was Jane in a whirlwind of anger. Jane, shaken, trembling. "I've been waiting and watching—and waiting. How could you do it—Oh, Howard—Howard—"

"But I didn't tell you I was going to Professor Ellert's."

Jane pulled herself together. "What on earth—why—don't you tell me?"

"You let me think it was Professor Ellert's. I'd never have known until Aunt Rosa happened to say she'd seen him going away for the week-end. And all the time you hid where you were really going. Oh, I must have asked you. You'd never have hurt me so yourself!"

He was overwhelmed with pity for her. "Why, my dear girl, you mustn't—you mustn't! I didn't want to hurt you. I never for an instant imagined that—"

"Oh!" she cried, and now somehow, she was in his arms. "I knew it was Amy's doing. Then you do love me, you do. I knew it. I love you, too. I've loved you all the time."

Her face against his, her hands clutching, his eagerness, her rapid turn—he was shocked and right-ened, but he tried to keep his head. "In the morning," he thought, "when she's not so hysterical, we can clear this up. I'll tell her the truth. I'll set it straight."

In the morning Jane telephoned Amy, her voice triumphant, a little mocking. "I want to tell you the first of all. Amy, because you've always been my best friend. Howard and I are engaged. Yes, isn't it wonderful? He came by last night, late, after he'd called on you. Oh, I'm so perfectly happy!"

invalid parts thereof if they had only been advised concerning the same prior to the passage thereof. BE IT ORDAINED by the City Commission of the City of Cisco, Texas:

1. The following schedules or rates are hereby adopted, and fixed as the minimum rates which may and shall be charged and collected by any person, public utility, association of persons, partnership, private corporation or municipal corporation for gas sold and delivered within the limits of the City of Cisco, Texas, and the following are fixed as the minimum bills to be charged and collected each month irrespective of the amount of gas sold and delivered, to-wit:

DOMESTIC RATE

For gas used for domestic purposes only the minimum rate shall be sixty cents per thousand cubic feet, but no bill of less than one dollar per month shall be charged and collected irrespective of the amount of gas used.

COMMERCIAL RATE

For the first twenty thousand cubic feet of gas sold a minimum rate of sixty cents per thousand cubic feet; for all gas sold over and above twenty thousand cubic feet and up to thirty thousand cubic feet a minimum rate of fifty-eight and one-half cents per thousand cubic feet; for all gas sold over and above thirty thousand cubic feet and up to forty thousand cubic feet a minimum rate of fifty-four cents per thousand cubic feet; for all gas sold over and above forty thousand cubic feet and up to fifty thousand cubic feet a minimum rate of fifty cents per thousand cubic feet; for all gas sold over and above fifty thousand cubic feet and up to one hundred thousand cubic feet a minimum rate of forty-five cents per thousand cubic feet; and for all gas sold over and above one hundred thousand cubic feet a minimum rate of forty cents per thousand cubic feet; and up to five hundred thousand cubic feet a minimum rate of twenty-two and one-half cents per thousand cubic feet. No bill of less than one dollar a month shall be charged irrespective of the amount of gas used by customers selecting this rate.

INDUSTRIAL RATE NO. 1

For the first fifty thousand cubic feet of gas sold a minimum rate of forty-five cents per thousand cubic feet; for all gas sold over and above fifty thousand cubic feet and up to two hundred thousand cubic feet a minimum rate of twenty-seven cents per thousand cubic feet; for all gas sold over and above two hundred thousand cubic feet and up to five hundred thousand cubic feet a minimum rate of twenty-two and one-half cents per thousand cubic feet; for all gas sold over and above five hundred thousand cubic feet and up to one million cubic feet a minimum rate of twenty-one cents per thousand cubic feet; for all gas sold over and above one million cubic feet and up to two million cubic feet a minimum rate of twenty-one cents per thousand cubic feet; for all gas sold over and above two million cubic feet and up to three million cubic feet a minimum rate of twenty-one cents per thousand cubic feet; for all gas sold over and above three million cubic feet and up to five million cubic feet a minimum rate of eighteen cents per thousand cubic feet. No bill of less than forty-five dollars per month shall be charged irrespective of the amount of gas used by customers selecting this rate.

The above rates are intended to be the minimum rates at which any person, public utility, association of persons, partnerships, private corporation or municipal corporation may sell and deliver gas in the limits of the City of Cisco, Texas, and it shall be illegal and unlawful to charge any rate below the same as hereinabove fixed, but nothing herein contained is intended as any restraint on the right to fix maximum rates on gas to be sold and delivered.

2. Any consumer or purchaser of gas shall have the right to select the schedule of rates that shall be applied to the gas purchased or to be purchased during any twelve month period and shall have the privilege of changing from one schedule of rates to another at the termination of such twelve month period; in other words, consumers shall have the right to determine whether they shall be charged for gas under the Commercial Rate Schedule, Industrial Rate No. 1 Schedule or Industrial Rate No. 2 Schedule. This right to select the rates and change the same shall not apply to purchasers or consumers of gas used for domestic purposes.

3. Any person or corporation or the receiver or any legal representative of any person or corporation, or any agent or employee of any person or corporation or the receiver of any person or corporation, who violates any provision of this ordinance, shall upon conviction in a court of competent jurisdiction, be fined in any sum not to exceed $100.00 for each offense.

4. 5. From and after the date this ordinance shall become effective, all previous ordinances or parts thereof in conflict herewith shall be and are hereby expressly repealed.

6. Should any section, article, provision or any part of this ordinance be held and declared to be unconstitutional and void by a court of competent jurisdiction, such decision shall in no wise affect the validity of any of the remaining parts of this ordinance, unless the part held void is indispensable to the operation of the remaining parts.

Startling price reductions, just announced, place Chevrolet further ahead in its field than ever — in price, quality and value

In the face of the greatest demand in years, right when the trend toward Chevrolet is at its peak, Chevrolet reduces prices! No wonder America was startled when this news flashed across the country just a few days ago. And now that the public has had a chance to figure out what this price reduction means in terms of greater value, the news becomes even more important than before. Because it means that Chevrolet now offers you a big, substantial, quality car with the famous valve-in-head engine for as little as $465, f. o. b. Flint, Mich.—making it by far the lowest-priced Six in the world. It means that you can get enclosed Knee-Action, Blue-Flame performance, cable-controlled brakes, and all the other big advancements of the day, for as much as $35.00 less than before—and Chevrolet's former prices were already among the lowest of the low. It means, in short, that Chevrolet now presents America with the finest buy the low-price field has ever seen.

REVIVAL SERIES AT M. E. CHURCH ARE CONTINUED

The revival series in progress at the First Methodist church will enter the second week today with services at 11 a. m. and at 8:15 p. m. The latter to be held upon the lawn. The pastor the Rev. Frank L. Turner, will preach, as he has been preaching throughout the past week.

His subject for the morning sermon will be "David, or a Call to Re-consecration." At the evening hour he will preach on "Ships."

Friday evening the pastor spoke to a large congregation on the theme "Weighed and Found Wanting." Using the Biblical story of the fall of Belshazzar, the Babylonian monarch whose capital city was taken by the crafty Persian king while he and his lords were drunken with revelry, the pastor reminded his hearers that the hand of God may write upon the walls of the soul the divine judgment at any moment.

Four "scales" in which godless men weigh themselves, were enumerated by the pastor. They were: "The Scales of Kinship," in which a sinner endeavors to justify himself upon the righteousness of his wife or other relatives through whom he contributes to the church. "The Scales of Comparative Righteousness," in which the sinner points to the hypocrisy of certain members of the church. "The Scales of Moral Uprightness," in which he lays claim to heaven by virtue of his own moral purity, and "The Scales of Prospective Righteousness," in which he promises to become a Christian at some convenient moment in the future, only to be caught in the fatal net of procrastination.

FAMED EMPIRE OF UNDERWORLD HAS CRUMPLED

By ROBERT T. LOUGHRAN CHICAGO, June 23 — Gangland, the world famed empire of the lawless, has crumpled and fallen.

During the years of prohibition, Chicago was noted as the playground for gangsters but a survey today revealed that gang rulers have abandoned leaving a disorganized army unable to continue illicit trafficking in all things at fancy prices. Fast gathering dust in luxurious headquarters is evidence that a crusade of law and order virtually has wiped out gangland.

Dismantled breweries, distilleries

Forms New Bulgarian Government

Trouble-torn Europe saw another major political upheaval when Bulgaria's army, in a coup d'etat staged before sunrise, set up a military dictatorship, ending parliamentary rule. King Boris, who is said to have sponsored the move, is pictured above with Queen Giovanna and their daughter, Princess Maria Louisa.

many chieftains are some of the gone to seed and jail sentences for results of the relentless war carried on by federal and state authorities in Chicago for two years.

A crime report issued by Mayor E. J. Kelly showed a drop of 3.1 per cent in Chicago crime in the first five months of the year from the same period last year. Murders decreased 15 per cent.

Prosecutions
Prosecutions were the weapons of the crusaders. They were aided by a cooperative spirit among criminal judges. The drive at the outset, disorganized the notorious Capone syndicate by wholesale conviction by income tax violations. Al (Scarface) Capone, its leader, is serving 10 years in Atlanta penitentiary. Others of his aides are serving terms ranging from one year to five years for similar offenses.

Criminal Judge Michael Feinberg, who broke up the Roger Touhy gang with 99-year sentences for kidnaping John (Jake the Barber) Factor, said the disintegration of gangland was due to the "finest set of working judges ever assembled in the criminal courts."

Speedy trials, he said, made it possible to dispose of gangsters within 30 days after an indictment. He sat in judgment in about 300 criminal cases during the two-year campaign. Total sentences approximated about 5,000 years.

A summary of gangland's status today showed:
The Capone syndicate completely disorganized. Murray Humphries, successor to Capone, has given up control because of two indictments pending. A few members are trying to keep banded together through limited illicit liquor sales.

"Gentleman" Farmer

er. His associates are scattered everywhere.

Joe (Polack Joe) Saltis, back of the yards terrorist, has retired to his northern Wisconsin summer resort. His family lives in a sumptuous house in Beverly Hills, a suburb of Edward (Spike) O'Donnell, leader of the South Side "blue-eyed Irish boys," has given up everything, even his coal business. When he recovers from a broken hip he expects to embark for London to tell Scotland Yard how to handle mobsters.

with a plan for shifting the burden of taxation.

"Equalize it" is the phrase heard from the political stump.

"Hot Potato" Issue

The sales tax was one of the early methods proposed. Then the little fellow figured out that he does most of the buying, and it has been dropped like a hot potato. A tax on mortgages and notes (the big fellows hold them) has taken its place. Now the little fellows who sign the notes and mortgages are asking if the big fellows will not add just that much more on to his charges in interest and fees.

Other candidates would tax the chain stores. Chain stores made such a showing when it was attempted that legislators shied off. Other industries, singled out, to take the burden of the land and the little fellow might get hecklers to ask the candidates the questions they will ask when bills for the taxes reach the legislature. But they save their ammunition. They know campaign promises are brittle.

Sincere Candidate

A candidate who is sincere and

HOOKS AND SLIDES

JAMES EMORY FOX is possible he will break Babe Ruth's home run record of 60.

"All other marks are so why shouldn't that one? If I don't better it this season, I'll do it in the next real good one I enjoy," he says.

The Fox ran home runs home 58 times in 1932, and led major league macemen with 48 last year.

"It would be well for someone to top Ruth's total. Something like that is required to bring out the trade. It is the long-range hitters who keep the fans on the edge of their seats."

"Interest in baseball hasn't lessened. The game obtained a flying start in the matter of attendance this spring in all cities except St. Louis and Washington. But some of us will have to do the unusual if we are to keep the customers coming. They simply haven't got the money, and won't turn out for anything ordinary."

There was a difference of $15,000 between the Fox and Connie Mack when they opened negotiations in February, and the Athletics' big first baseman merits more than the $17,500 he obtained in a compromise.

There are several players whose salaries exceed that of the Fox, more than one by a surplus of $10,000. The American League's leading batsman says Mack frankly told him that under current conditions the Philadelphia club could not afford to pay him what he's worth.

Golden Days Gone Forever

WHILE the foremost right-handed hitting home run hammer of all time is confident that the left-handed Ruth's maximum will not stand, he agrees with those who do not believe the Bambino's fattest contract—for $50,000 in 1933—ever will be approached again.

The story of the Fox reads like a sensation. A champion home run hitter discovered a champion home run hitter, for it was J. Franklin Baker who recommended his husky young neighbor down there in Maryland to his old mentor, Mack.

Baker earned the sobriquet, Home Run, on the strength of nine in 1911 and two more against the Giants in the world series that fall. He led the junior loop procession with the staggering aggregate of 12 in 1913, long before they stuffed the sphere with cork and rubber.

"The ball certainly must have been dead then, for Frank could smack one as hard as anybody I ever saw," beams his protegee.

Followed Dad's Footsteps

THE FOX, who harnessed six-horse teams on his father's farm at the age of 9, grew up in a baseball atmosphere. His dad, Dell Fox, was a catcher, and father and son were teammates in many games.

The Fox was a remarkable all-around athlete in high school, where he twice ran the century under 19 seconds. His 22½ in 1921 remains the high school record for the 22 in the Old Line State. The young Fox high jumped 5 feet 10 inches, and scintillated in basketball and soccer. The only reason he did not play football is that it was not played in the small rural schools down yonder.

Rogers Hornsby and Harry Heilmann were his boyhood idols, and he speaks with all the assurance of Hornsby.

Ruth's mark of 60 home runs isn't at all safe with an eye and wrist action like that of the former plowboy playing around the plate. Not as long as there is a pair of Jackrabbits in each ball, at least.

"knows his stuff" will welcome a heckler. He quickly can gain sympathy of an audience in an impromptu exchange with a heckler. At the worst, he has amplifiers and can drown the heckler out.

Hecklers in the past have been used to help a candidate. The late Senator Joseph W. Bailey, phlegmatic and somewhat ponderous in his arguments until roused, was spurred into a return to his old-time fire by planned use of hecklers.

Supporters noted that Bailey was not setting the pace he could set. Without Bailey's knowledge a heckler was placed at the rear of an audience ten senator addressed at Uvalde. A few barbs from the heckler and Bailey was going at his best.

Dan Moody used to quell hecklers when it was inconvenient to answer their questions by shouting. "When did you get your pardon?" If the heckler was made angry the crowd laughed all the more.
