Loan Received and Charter Formally Granted New Bank

OPENING NEXT MONDAY HOPE OF OFFICIALS

Formal announcement of the opening of a state bank charter to the new bank in the Fort Worth area, successor to the Cisco Banking company, was made by State Banking Comm'r E. Brand at Austin yesterday. The charter was granted conditionally several days ago, with formal announcement reserved until transfer of a loan of $140,000 by Reconstruction Finance Corp. to the bank.

The money on that loan yesterday was credited to the account of the new bank in the Fort Worth area, and the loan formally completed. In a statement at Austin, Executive Vice President Guy Dabney of the bank said that it is hoped to open the bank Monday, July 16. J. Lauderdale, another official of the bank, said here today that the opening date cannot be positively fixed for the reason that the essential stationery has not arrived and it cannot be said positively when it will arrive, although delivery was promised this week. The bank cannot do business without checks, deposit slips, ledgers and other stationery he pointed out, and therefore cannot set a definite opening date until this is on hand. However, he expressed belief that the bank would be here in time for the opening of the bank Monday.

Resources of the bank will be put to work on the opening of the bank on September 1931. The new institution has a capital stock of $500,000 and a surplus of $100,000. Immediately upon opening it will offer to depositors in the old Cisco Banking company 60 per cent of their deposits in cash, the remaining 40 per cent to be made available as readily as the resources of the bank.

The personnel of the Cisco State Bank has not yet been announced, but its organization will take place immediately.

Profit Sharing in Great Britain Down

LONDON, July 10.—Profit-sharing appears to be declining in Great Britain. Of the 655 schemes known, to have been started at various times in the United Kingdom, the ministry of labor reports that more than half of them were extinct last year. About one-quarter of those abandoned disappeared either because it passed into new hands with different ideas; the others were dropped, it is stated either because they did not improve business, or for other reasons were unsatisfactory to the employers, or because the employees received increased wages for shorter hours in lieu of the annual share in the company's profits.

In 1919 and 1920, when profit-sharing was popular, 96 different schemes embracing 33,000 work people were started; last year not a single new scheme was launched, and five old ones were wound up.

British experience seems to show that banks and public utilities make the greatest success of profit-sharing, apparently because their income is less subject to violent fluctuations.

The biggest single scheme in Britain consist of seven banks with 14,700 employees; the average share of profit received by the employe of 1933 was $280, an increase of 16 per cent on the ordinary wages, or salary received. Public utility companies — gas, water and electricity — had 68 such schemes in effect covering 49,900 employes; the average share of profit amounts to over $45 an increase of 4.8 per cent on earnings.

Peyroux promised that there would be no danger of a strike today or tomorrow.

"After that I can't say," he said. "A strike will come as a last resort."

Two extra armed guards were placed on duty at the main car barn and additional lights were installed as precautionary measures by the company.

STRIKE SERIOUSNESS WIRELESS PRESIDENT

County Bankhead Act Administrator Named

Tax exemption certificates to be issued to cotton growers in the amount of the cotton that they will be allowed to produce tax-free under the terms of the Bankhead act, will serve as a crop insurance, said a statement issued today by R. P. Lawrence, administrative assistant to County Agent J. C. Patterson in charge of administration of the act in Eastland county. The certificates will be issued to the growers on the basis of approximately 60 per cent of their average annual production over the period 1928-1932, inclusive.

If the farmer produces less cotton this fall than the amount of the tax exemption certificates he holds, he may sell these certificates through the county office at a price set by the government, said Mr. Lawrence. In the event he produces more cotton than the amount designated, he must either purchase additional exemption certificates or pay tax to the government when sold. Thus, in the event of a crop failure, he is assured of an income on unproductive acres in the amount of the value of the certificates as fixed by the government.

If, and the other hand, he produces more cotton than called for, the theory of the government tax is that he will make no money on the portion above what he is entitled to produce.

Will Handle All Contracts
Announcement of Mr. Lawrence's appointment as county Bankhead act administrator was made today by County Agent Patterson. Lawrence's salary will be paid by the federal government, said Patterson, and he will also represent the government in the handling of all Agricultural Adjustment administration contracts in the county. When not engaged in administrative duties, Lawrence will assist in other county agent activity. Patterson said.

Lawrence's statement on general features of the operation of the Bankhead act, was:

"Under provisions of the Bankhead act each farmer who produced cotton before 1934 and has cotton growing on farm at present is entitled to exemption certificates on number of pounds of cotton allotted to his farm. This allotment is based on approximately 60 per cent of the five-year average from 1928 to 1932. If no cotton was grown on this farm during this period the 1933 acreage and production on this farm and commodity average is used in figuring his allotment. If no cotton was grown on farm during base period 1928 to 1932 and none in 1933 there will be no allotment made for farm by the county committee. Such applications will be sent direct to state board for action. If any allotment is made it will not be taken from county allotment."

Under Oath
"Every cotton farmer that does not have a contract with government must, with aid of community committee, give his yearly production."

CITY MANAGER PLAN GROWS IN POPULARITY

CHICAGO, July 10.—Six counties and 425 cities in the United States have discarded the Jeffersonian theory of "government by amateurs" and substituted "administration by technically trained managers."

"The City Manager Profession," a study of this development in local government, has just been published by the University of Chicago Press. The authors are Clarence E. Ridd, director of the International City Managers' association and associate professor of Political Science at the University of Chicago, and Orin F. Nolting, assistant director of the association.

At present the city manager is the administrative head of cities ranging in size from Polk City, Fla., with 222 inhabitants, to Cincinnati, with 451,000.

Since Staunton, Va., installed the first city manager in 1908, the number of cities adopting that form of administration increased to 105 in 1918, then to 361 in 1928, and by last year there were 425 cities in the United States with city managers. The extension of the manager idea to county governments has been a new development which promises to grow rapidly.

The typical city manager, according to the treatise, has attended college and has held one or more public positions before receiving his appointment as city manager at the age of 37. He has been in his present position four years and nine months. He is married and is now 47 years old.

SLAYER FLEES WITH PAL; ONE OTHER TAKEN

HOUSTON, July 10.—Blood-hounds for the Blue Ridge prison farm and the Houston prison farm today were believed to be on the trail of the notorious killer, Ed (Perchmouth) Stanton, and his companion, Andrew Neilson, who escaped from police during a gun battle last night.

J. B. Stephens, 28, bank robber and escaped convict, third member of the bandit gang, was arrested after his two companions wrecked their automobile in a blind alley.

The automobile, abandoned by the bandits, was seized by police. In the car officers said they found an automatic rifle, two sawed-off shotguns, a large supply of ammunition, an assortment of license plates and a jail key.

The trio and Bill Doupe, convicted bandit, made a sensational escape from the Lubbock county jail June 24, taking two hostages with them. Stephens told police that Doupe "dropped out of the party."

When the officers approached the bandits they said one of the bandits was standing on the curb. The occupants of the car sped away as the officers were sighted. During the wild chase, officers said they fired more than a dozen shots at the fleeing car.

Stephens was arrested later as he walked down a street near the scene where the officers first sighted the car.

Speed Up Plan
 The Tydings-McDuffie independent act provided that the convention should meet not later than July 1, 1934, but Philippine independent leaders decided to speed up the process toward ultimate freedom. Originally it had been intended to convene on June 26, in order that it might convene on July 4 — Independence day of the United States — but later developments caused a postponement.

The second election to stir the Philippine archipelago within a week. On June 5 elections were held for the legislature, which convene on July 16. Those elections resulted in a re-affirmation of power of Manuel L. Quezon, speaker of the senate and leader of the Tenth Independent Mission to Washington.

Distribution of Delegates
 The 202 delegates are distributed in the ratio of two delegates for each representative district, except in the special provinces of Mindanao (Sulu), which shall have two delegates each, and the Mountain provinces, which will elect two delegates each of its sub-provinces and two of the city of Baguio.

All constitutional conventions, Philippine convention will be bicameral body. It will not be a "sovereign," however, as certain limitations on the contents of the constitution have been dictated by the United States government under the terms of the Tydings-McDuffie act.

The "commonwealth government" is to rule during the 10-year transition period before complete independence is achieved will be effective after its constitution has been drawn up, ratified by a plebiscite by the Filipino voters, and approved by the president of the United States.

The Filipino nationalists hope to inaugurate their "Commonwealth" on January 1, 1935, it is not outside the realm of possibility that delays ensue.

PHILIPPINES IN MAKING

Completion of the constitution and its submission to the president of the United States on March 24, 1935, which is two years after the termination of the Tydings-McDuffie independence act.

Submission of the constitution to a plebiscite of the Filipino people within four months of its approval by the president.

If the constitution is ratified, provisions for officers of the new "commonwealth" shall be convoked within 30 days and shall be held in place for less than three months and not more than six months after their expiration.

New Charters Show Gain During June

AUSTIN, July 10.—New charters granted corporations during June to carry on business in Texas showed a substantial rise over May, according to Dr. F. A. Buechel, statistician in the bureau of business research of the University of Texas. A total of 130 charters was granted with aggregate capitalization of $1,890,000, increases of 8 per cent and 50 per cent respectively over the number and capitalization in May. There was, however, a decline of 30 per cent in number and practically the same percentage drop in capitalization in comparison with June, 1933; and for the year to date there was a drop of 12 per cent in number and 39 per cent in capitalization compared with the corresponding period last year.

A total of six firms with capitalization of $100,000 or more each was chartered against two in May and six in June last year. During the first half of the current year seventeen firms were chartered against 34 during the corresponding period last year.

Woodward Claims Oil Bill Influence

COLUMBUS, July 10 — Senator Walter Woodward of Coleman had a major part in writing every state oil conservation bill, he told a large audience here Tuesday morning in a speech in behalf of his candidacy for attorney general.

"I saw several oil fields in my part of the country ruined because of waste in production," Senator Woodward said. "I resolved that I would do everything in my power to safeguard our oil fields and conserve the source of supply of the oil industry which thousands of our citizens are dependent for a living."

One of the main responsibilities of the attorney-general's office is to see that oil conservation laws are obeyed.

"I believe I can stop the hot oil business which is robbing thousands of farmers on whose land oil has been struck and which is destroying the price of oil by the flooding of the market with illegally produced petroleum," Woodward said.

Senator Woodward was to speak Tuesday at Hallettsville and Yoakum. Wednesday he speaks at Gonzales, Cuero and Victoria.

The Coleman pastures southwest of here, famous as a cattle grazing region ever since barbed wire brought an end to the open range, have been purchased by S. E. McKnight for stocking with Herefords. The pastures, well watered and highly productive of rich grass, comprise 600 acres.

AGED IN CORNERSTONE JONESBORO, Ark., July 10

Whisky, aged 48 years in the cornerstone of the old Craighead County court house, was found when the building was razed to make way for a new $102,000 structure. Old-timers remembered seeing several quarts of liquor sealed in the vault with documents nearly half a century ago.

ALLRED SCORED BY SMALL IN AUSTIN SPEECH

AUSTIN, July 10 — Senator Clint Small loosed a double-barrelled attack in a campaign speech here Monday night against the claims of Attorney-general James V. Allred on the amount of money he has recovered from the oil companies for the state and against the gambling interests.

Small spoke here at a big central Texas Small-for-Governor rally, attended by a large number of Austin people and by delegations from many towns in this section.

The gambling interests are making a huge campaign fund to try to keep him out of the run-off for governor. Small charged because his strong campaign against the gambling mania which he says has swept the state after passage of the horse race gambling law.

"They know if I get in the run-off that I'll be the next governor of this state and that when I am I will do everything that I can to run the gambling interests out," Small declared.

"Million Dollar Check" Small took his opposing candidate, Allred, to task severely and especially for "displaying a million dollar check and claiming that he recovered that amount of money for the state from the oil companies."

"Why my friends," he declared, "that suit was filed seven years ago, before this state ever heard of Jimmy Allred. All the institution and prosecution of that suit was done by Dan Moody, Lee Bobbitt, and Claude Pollard when they were in the attorney-general's office. The case had already been tried and the judgment rendered in favor of the state before Jimmy took office."

"The defendants appealed the verdict and the suit was before the supreme court when Jimmy became attorney-general. And what was his first move? He decided he would ask for dismissal of the case but this contemplated action met a storm of criticism and he filed a new motion. The state then affirmed the lower court's verdict and the oil company had to pay off. And now this giant killing, trust buster modestly folds his cape about him and declares, 'Look what I did.'"

Lieut.-Gov. Ole Olson, shown here in a new picture, claims he legally is the governor of North Dakota because of the conviction on U. S. felony charges of Gov. William Langer. Olson took the oath as governor, but Langer refused to surrender his office. Troops guarded the capitol at Bismarck to prevent a clash.

Michigan Crops Are Ravaged by Insects

LANSING, July 9.—Insects infesting Michigan crops have lost all sense of "politeness."

At least that is the conclusion of Michigan State college entomologists, who claim the bugs this year arrived considerably ahead of schedule and are "hanging around long after they should be satisfied with the damage done."

Beetles, moths, flies, bugs and many other kinds of insects have combined in all stages of development to make 1934 a "pest" year of record in the state's farming history, a survey by the college entomologists shows.

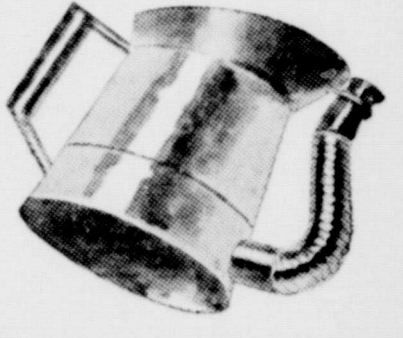

These insects have launched a concentrated attack on everything planted. At this time, scientists point out, the cut worm continues to cut down plants weeks after the cut worm's usual season of destruction.

The army worm is likewise a parasite without any sense of "propriety," insist the specialists. This worm usually multiplies in crops on low areas and then marches to other fields as the original food supply becomes exhausted.

HOW BIG A LUBRICATING JOB CAN A QUART OF OIL DO?

Five Quarts of New and Improved Conoco Germ Processed Motor Oil lubricated a motor nearly five thousand miles in a test against five nationally known, widely advertised motor oils . . . .

IF YOU are one of the many motorists who believe that a quart of any brand of quality oil is like any other quart, read this story of the "destruction" test made at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway under the strict supervision of the Contest Board, American Automobile Association.

Here are the representatives of the Contest Board of the American Automobile Association who supervised every detail of the test and attested to the records made.

Six strictly stock cars of the medium priced class, and six different brands of oil of the same S. A. E. grade were used in this test to prove the motor protection and consumption of each oil. Simultaneously the cars were driven for an average of 500 miles a day at 50 miles an hour until the motors refused to operate. On the 4th day, three cars were out of the test, Oil No. 4 had gone 1,713.2 miles; Oil No. 6 had completed 1,764.4 miles and Oil No. 5 had finished 1,815.9 miles. On the 5th day, Oil No. 1 failed, after going 2,266.8 miles.

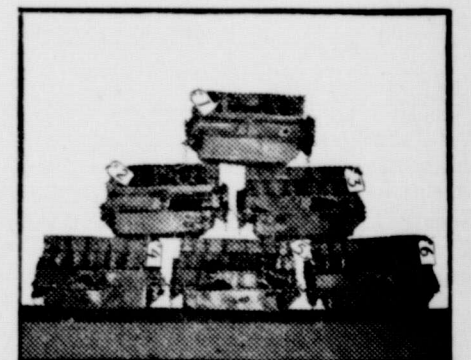

This left two oils competing. In defiance they ran the 6th, 7th, and 8th days, when Oil No. 3, after totaling 3,318.8 miles, wrecked its motor and crept to a stop. Oil No. 2—New and Improved Conoco Germ Processed Motor Oil piled up a total of 4,729 miles! More than 3,000 miles farther than the first oil to go out, and more than 1,400 miles farther than the last oil to fail.

New and Improved Conoco Germ Processed Motor Oil has much greater vitality, or film strength, to withstand great pressures and increased heat of modern automobile motors. It has great resistance to effects of dilution and the minimum of carbon and sludge. It has greater oily penetration called the "Hidden Quart," protecting your cold motor in starting, when most of the wear occurs. This oil is covered by recent United States patents and only Conoco can make it.

It was these superior qualities that carried New and Improved Conoco Germ Processed Motor Oil to a record of 4,729 miles on five quarts.

Here is a record of motor protection and low consumption that conclusively proves how big a lubricating job a quart of oil can do. Drive to a Red Triangle Station, fill and know that you have the highest lubricating value in either miles or dollars that your money can buy.

These were new motors before the test. They were wrecked to prove to you how to protect yours.

Five quarts of each brand of oil were carefully put in the cars by AAA officials.

The official sealing of crankcases after fill of five quarts was put in.

CLEANER FILMS

The cooperative demand of Catholic, Protestant and Jewish churches for cleaner pictures has set the industry hastily to refurbishing up some of its neglected "p's" and "q's." Never before has there been such a submergence of denominational differences beneath a concerted demand for reform.

The fact of such a general outcry in the name of proper morals prompts a question as to what Czar Will Hays and his organization—embracing most of the industry—have been doing with their expressed motive of keeping pictures sane and clean.

That religious groups of the nation have been aroused over persistent disregard of accepted morality in recent films serves to prove what the motion picture makers have argued all along. That is that motion pictures will be no better than what the theater-going public demands.

The assurance of clean entertainment is a vigilant public, and if there has been a subtle progression from accepted standards to insidious influences it has been the fault of the public in not making its demands clear enough known to guide the producers.

By HUGH NUGENT FITZGERALD. Sen. Lynn J. Frazier, a non-partisan republican of North Dakota, is largely responsible for what is known as the Frazier-Lemke farm mortgage moratorium act.

Frankly he said it is not intended that there shall be any wholesale use of the new method and added "neither should a wholesale method of foreclosure be permitted under existing circumstances."

Now that he has stopped attending services at night, he told me bluntly today that the change was the result of my influence. I don't go to church at night, except on rare occasions.

For the past year, Frank Turner, the Methodist church pastor, has been trying to iron that much of the devil out of me. But the kink still persists. No matter how hot the iron, or with what pressure he applies it, I can't get into the habit.

Let that be as it may, but he did discover among the loot that the police had taken from the two boys one thing that was taken from the Cate home during the burglary. It was a small watch that Mr. Cate had given Mrs. Cate before their marriage.

Most of you folks were fortunate this morning and didn't know it. I regret to have to refer to a subject like Dick Lauderdale so much but when he stands in the middle of a street at 5:30 a. m. and yells like an Indian while you are making up sleep lost on an all-night ride the day before, he ought to be mentioned.

Behind the Scenes in Washington

BY RODNEY DUTCHER. NEA Service Staff Correspondent.

WASHINGTON—Jack Garner, the vice president, is somewhere down around Uvalde, Tex., for a summer of hunting, fishing, and loafing.

Those who have heard Garner speak in private of "that fellow down in the White House" didn't need his public assurance that he would follow Roosevelt through the fires of hell if F. D. happened to be going that way.

The fact is, Jack is a small town banker and he just loves the way Roosevelt has freed the government of Wall Street control.

Insiders know better. The vice president is the authority on Congress at cabinet meetings, and that's an important job. On the Hill, he's the man who knows what Roosevelt and the cabinet are doing and thinking.

Don't imagine the old boy never speaks up at cabinet meetings. He talks plainly and frankly.

END of the college commencement season was almost important as adjournment of Congress.

Most Brain Trusters return to class reunions or to speeches at their alma mater. Their old chums were generally proud of them, but they had a way of explaining to do. And they knew how the old grads are with their repeat and good fellows and everything.

Anyways, quite a few turned up here nursing what was known in non-intellectual circles as hangovers.

GEN RAFAEL NOGALES, famous soldier of fortune, has fought in Turkey, Russia, and elsewhere, dropped at the office here to curse the heat. "Why can't we all wear heat cloths?" he demanded.

Secretary Hull seemed in straight straw hat, same weight brown coat and white necktie as I met him in Lafayette Square and walked to the Department with him. He talks a lot of foreign affairs or bargaining, but of the immense amount of delayed construction which would bring prosperity it once got under way.

His 20 years in the House, ending with the speakership, have fitted him in an unprecedented though secret three-cornered liaison job with Roosevelt, House and Senate.

My sat down with the child and her arms and looked at her. She had never seen so young a baby before and this queer dark-eyed wrinkled creature seemed to her rather a blind, little mole or mouse than a child, a little ugly lumping little, utterly helpless, unwelcome to be flung into any possible life—the callous cruelty of it struck Amy afresh.

You ought to be ashamed to say you'll hate this child. You can't hate it. It's part of your body and your soul. You might as well say you hate yourself."

"Well, you wouldn't mean it. You think very well of yourself. You always have. But you'd really hate yourself, loathe yourself, if you abandoned this child to anybody who's willing to take it. You'll never know what becomes of it."

"I don't want to know." "Why, you wouldn't do that to a puppy or a kitten! You'd not give one of them away without being sure it had a good home and wouldn't be abused or ill-treated. Oh, Jane, it would be unforgetable."

"It's no use. I'm going to do it. You simply don't understand." They went over it again and again. But Jane continued to search after channels of adoption which would give the protection of secrecy to the mother in spite of all Amy could say, and at last refused to answer, but her hands over her ears and kept them there whenever Amy protested. "Leave me alone, can't you? I feel so wretched already," she said.

Through the Editor's Spectacles. By GEORGE. It appears I have exerted a bad influence upon some of my friends. Yesterday's news story about the burglary of several Cisco homes, contained an inaccurate reference to J. B. Cate, that the story credited him with having gone to church Sunday night.

The story was correct in that it said the ransacking of the Cate home occurred while Mr. and Mrs. Cate were at church. But the story was incorrect in the statement that their home was entered at night while they were at church. It occurred during the morning while they were at services. Mr. Cate called my attention to this inaccuracy today. He and Mrs. Cate were away from home Sunday night, all right, and to that extent the implication of the story were true. But they were not at church Sunday night, and Mr. Cate has let me know that I am to blame.

ALLRED POINTS HIS CRITICS TO LOCAL OFFICERS

NOCONA, July 10 — Some of his opponents for governor are deliberately misrepresenting the facts concerning law enforcement, Attorney-general James V. Allred charged in an address here this afternoon.

"Local officers are charged with the enforcement of the criminal laws of this state," Allred declared, "and the people will get just the kind of enforcement they demand of their officials."

"If the criminal laws are being violated in some sections of the state, why don't my opponents go there and criticize the local officers whose duty it is to enforce them? I'll tell you why they're not doing that. They're afraid it might hurt them politically if they place the blame where it belongs. It's easier to jump on me, that's why."

"They're not jumping on the county and district attorneys, and charging them with failure in line of duty. They're not jumping on the sheriffs. They're not jumping on the ranger force which is three times as big as your attorney-general's department. No, they're jumping on me and saying I ought to be a policeman."

Attorney-general Allred declared it was the duty of every citizen, knowing of a violation of the criminal law in his community, to go either to the sheriff, county attorney, district attorney or the grand jury, and make a complaint.

"If these candidates for governor know of violations of the criminal laws, it is just as much their duty to do the something. Instead of running around over the state criticizing your attorney-general who is not charged with enforcement of the criminal laws," he asserted, "Allred will speak tonight at Gainesville."

MAURY HUGHES CLAIMS GAINS IN WEST TEXAS

HOUSTON, July 10 — Predicting that south Texas will put him at the head of the ticket in the first primary three weeks hence, former State Democratic Committeeman Maury Hughes of Dallas, candidate for governor, spoke in Houston Monday night.

Liberal democrats in all sections of the state, aroused over the prospect of a dry governor, are rallying behind to make him their candidate for the run-off, Mr. Hughes said.

"I have never been worried about my strength in south Texas, for I expect to carry it," Mr. Hughes said.

"But I have just been to west Texas and have made enormous gains out there. In El Paso, I had the third largest audience of my campaign."

"Charles McDonald is losing ground, for the liberals at first committed to him are going to vote for me for they know he would be defeated in the run-off."

"This year in Texas, we have an odd political situation. There are two liberal candidates. The rest either are dry or half-dry and half-dry. This state has demonstrated a liberal majority. And yet, if the strongest liberal is not chosen for the run-off, the will of the majority will be defeated, and the minority will rule."

"Unless you elect a liberal governor and a liberal legislature, you cannot expect liberal laws."

Expect Deficit

You can expect, if you elect a dry, continuation of the intolerable conditions brought about by prohibition. You can expect the deficit in the state's general fund of $4,500,000 at present to get larger. All of this is because the drys would refuse to legalize liquor and tax it.

"Perpetuate political hypocrisy and you will continue to have bootleggers. You will continue to have higher taxes, and more of them. You will preserve laws that restrain and restrict nearly every act of life, the consummate mischief of the fanatics wrought through two decades of demagoguery."

"Other states are enacting liberal laws, and undoing the legislative handiwork of fanatics and fools. It is time that Texas does the same. It would be ridiculous for other states to be able to point to Texas as a state where saboteurs run wide open, and yet retains dry laws and elects dry public officials."

"I will be the candidate of liberal democracy in the run-off in August, and I will win."

OWL CCC CAMP PET T

BELTON, Mont., July 10 — Not to be outdone by another Glacier park CCC camp which boasts a moose calf for a mascot, CCC camp No. 1 here has a big horned owl for its pet. The owl's name is "Beautifull" and has accompanied the corps on its travels in Utah, California and Montana.

ONE JUSTIFICATION FOR PRIVATE CONTROL OF TVA DEVELOPMENT

By DR. ARTHUR E. MORGAN
Chairman of the Tennessee Valley Authority
(Written for the United Press)
KNOXVILLE, Tenn., July 9.

The only justification for the self-appointed management by private ownership of a development so essentially public in its nature as that of the Tennessee Valley project, is the fear of incompetence and corruption through the spoils system, or dry-as-dust bureaucracy through a perfunctory civil service.

It is entirely possible to administer the civil service system, by removing security of tenure from the lower ratings, and by seeking the doors open at the top for high ratings, to largely eliminate dead wood and to maintain vitality.

The political spoils system has put men into office to pay political debts and not to lead the people to prosperity. The spoils system and prosperity cannot live together.

Waste of Patronage

The waste of political patronage in government is one of the greatest evils of political life. If the government is to go into business as in water power, fertilizer and forestry, it must be on a business basis. Men must be employed because they are competent and not because they have political influence.

We have a habit in this country which is fatal to the best interests of government. It is the habit of treating administrative public offices as though they were political offices. Most of the functions of government are administrative. In administrative governmental positions you need skill and professional attitude.

Before we get good government in this country, we must raise administrative work to a professional level so that a good man can have a career in this field.

We can revolutionize the character of government if we were to treat administrative public office on a professional basis. An able man demands certain things for his life—he demands that he will have some continuity to his calling. He does not want to be limited to one position in the world. He wants to be judged by people of quality in his own field. There are certain fundamental desires people have which good government will recognize.

An element of economic waste is the duplication in local government.

For example, the counties in the Valley were organized to fit transportation methods now obsolete. Today a quarter as many counties would be enough, and a large tax burden would be relieved.

Our counties were organized more than a century ago when there were no good roads. Counties were large enough so that one could ride horseback to the county seat and get back by nightfall.

We have made investigations in counties in the Valley area and we find that in some of them the work of an entire week can be done in half a day. In some court houses the officers are present only on Saturdays. The people of the county are straining themselves to keep up the cost of a county government that is busy only one-tenth of the time. They are going without essential services in public health, agricultural services, etc., where this money might be used if the government were properly organized. That is a problem so obvious that it doesn't take much imagination to see it.

A consolidation of counties might more than cut in two the cost of local government, and greatly improved its quality. It would, however, interfere with personal interests to make such a simplification. There would be officeholders whose positions would be eliminated.

There are some counties in and near the Tennessee Valley area where approximately 75 per cent of the inhabitants are on public relief rolls, due to lack of planning.

duction on each farm. He should have this information ready to list in application for allotment and tax exemption certificates, which statements will be under oath. Producers who have signed contracts will be under oath as to correctness of statements presented in the former contract; however, they have the privilege correcting figures before taking oath. These applications will be in the hands of local committees in near future and will be filled out in community centers designated by committees. This application must be filled out in order to sell any cotton tax free.

If there is less cotton produced on farm than amount of tax exemption certificates issued to this farm, the holder of such certificates will be allowed to sell them through the county office at a price set by the government. The privilege of selling these certificates is equal to crop insurance. If there is more cotton produced on this farm than allotment given, the owner of said certificate or pay tax to government when cotton is sold. Regardless of how long cotton is held either as seed cotton or lint cotton, the U. S. government will still hold a lien on it to the amount of the tax at the time it was harvested or ginned. Any person attempting to evade this tax is liable to heavy penalty.

"All allotments, contracts and exemption certificates are handled by U. S. agricultural department, collections are handled by U. S. internal revenue department.

"All farmers will be notified meetings that will be held at different communities in the county. At these meetings the provisions of the Bankhead act and program arranged by county cotton production control association will be thoroughly explained. Every producer, whether contract or not, should be present at these meetings."

SISTER MARY'S RECIPES

BY MARY E. DAGUE

A FRUIT soup is perfect as a beginning for a summer luncheon or dinner. Its rich color is pleasing to the eye and the faint fragrance of the fruit adds to its appetizing effect.

If the idea of a fruit soup is new to you, perhaps a few suggestions regarding its serving will be welcome. Any service which would be correct for either bouillon or a fruit cup can be used for the chilled fruit soup. Bouillon cups chilled in the ice-box before filling, sherbet glasses, cocktail glasses or grape fruit sets all are permissible. The soups are eaten with a small-bowled soup spoon or a bouillon spoon.

These delicate fruit soups must be served very cold, because half the charm of the soup lies in its temperature.

Tart fruits are best suited to a chilled soup which above all must be zesty and stimulating to the appetite. A combination of flavors is good and affords a variety of effects.

The thickening agent may be cornstarch, arrowroot, tapioca or even flour. Infinite care must be taken not to make the soup too thick. A firm, sticky connection is far from inviting, but a slightly thick, syrupy consistency is cooling and delectable. These soups are not jellied to any suggestion of firmness; they are fruit juices thickened just enough to lift them from the cocktail class.

The following recipes may suggest other possibilities to you.

Plum Soup

One quart plums, 4 cups water, 1 stick cinnamon, 3-4 cup sugar, 1 tablespoon arrowroot, few grains salt.

Arrowroot often is used for thickening sauces and puddings in place of cornstarch. It is especially ly desirable for children, since it is more easily digested than cornstarch.

Salt always is used to take care of the "flat" taste of whatever thickening is used.

Wash plums thoroughly. Put fruit into kettle with water and simmer until skins are broken and fruit is tender. Strain through jelly bag and add sugar. Bring to the boiling point and add tapioca and salt. Cook until the mixture is transparent and syrupy. Chill and serve.

Red Raspberry Soup

Two cups red raspberries, 2 cups currants, 3 cups water, 3-4 cup sugar, 2 tablespoons quick-cooking tapioca, few grains salt.

Stem currants. Wash berries and currants and put into kettle. Crush and simmer in water for twenty minutes. Strain through jelly bag and add sugar. Bring to the boiling point and add tapioca and salt. Cook until the mixture is transparent and syrupy. Chill and serve.

Blackberry and sour apple is a piquant mixture. All berries are inviting, used alone or in combination.

HOOKS AND SLIDES

NEW YORK—Whatever the answer, foreign sires of running horses are at present driving their American brothers into eclipse. Breeders now cannot afford to overlook the achievements of certain progenitors of foreign birth, Sir Gallahad III, for example, the French stallion that got Gallant Fox, High Quest, and many another good one, such as Gallant Sir, Happy Gal, and Sir Thomas.

Until recently, foreign sires meant to American horsemen. They recalled Challenger II and Papyrus, and the efforts on this side of the French animal, Epinard. They remembered that save for Bonnie Scotland, Australian, and Eclipse—all imported during the Civil War period—no foreign stallion had been able to found an enduring line.

Bazaar, the filly which captured last year's rich Hopetal and other stakes, was, as was Cavalade, imported "in utero" from Old Albion.

Ten of Fifteen Greats

STARTING with Reich Count, a representative list of 15 great or near great horses of the past few years includes: Equipoise, Twenty Grand, Gallant Fox, Sun Beau, Whicome, Cavalade, High Quest, Mate, Burgoe King, Peace Chance, War Glory, Dark Secret, Gallant Knight, and Gallant Sir.

Ten of these are by foreign progenitors, only Equipoise, Burgoe King, Peace Chance, Dark Secret, and War Glory being American bred.

Looking over the list of mares, one might name Trendy, Top Flight, Mata Hari, and one or two others. Trendy was by the imported Sir Greyvelot; Top Flight by the imported Dix Dene.

Man o' War Still Tops

NINETEEN stallions are standing in the United States at a published price, or stud fee, of $1,000 or more. Man o' War, held at private contract, and the imported Sun Beau are tops at $5,000, which is the highest stud fee in this or any other country.

Eight of the 19 were imported, and Sun Beau has two of his offspring on the list, Sun Beau at $3,000 and Pompey at $1,000. Sir Gallahad III has Gallant Fox standing at his own figure, $2,000, and his own internationally known generator, Teddy, at $1,500. Chicla has his son, Whicome, on the list, both standing at $1,000.
