HALF INDIAN,
HE SEEKS HELP
FOR ALLOTMENT

HOUSTON, Sept. 6 — Henry Horton, born in a wigwam in the Okla- homa Indian Territory the year af- ter Texas joined the union at 88 has asked aid in getting his claim for an Indian allotment established.
As Indian as the head on an old-fashioned penny, Horton, half Cher- okee, told this story.
"My grandfather was Jeff Moss, a fullblooded Cherokee. My grand- mother also was a Cherokee.
Their daughter, Minnie, married my father a white trader named Jeff Anthony Horton, and I was born May 17, 1846.
"My mother died when I was a baby, and my father joined another trader named J. W. Flaglee. We went to about where Paris, Texas, now is. When I was five years old my father died."
From that time on, Horton said, he drifted here and there, working in a store for $2 per week and board, in a planing mill, as a pump repair man on a railroad and on a saw mill.
A friend wrote to the Department of Interior, division of Indian claims. An answer received said the citizenship rolls of the Cherokee tribe are closed.
"Horton's name does not appear on the final rolls of the Cherokee nation," the form letter from John Collier, commissioner, said. "and only those persons who are enrolled can receive tribal benefits."
"It looks as though I am cut off from my rights because I cannot read or write," Horton said. "I only want a little to take care of me in my last days."
"Did the relatives of the late mil- lionaire Indian Jefferson Burnette, ever get their claims settled?" Horton asked.
The Houston Social Service pro- vides him food.

Circles Have Shower For Mrs. Blumberg

The circles of the Presbyterian auxiliary of the First Presbyterian church met in separate meetings Tuesday afternoon at 4 p. m.

Circle 1 met at the home of Mrs. B. S. Huey. A short business meeting was held in which the members discussed plans for the fall season.

Circle 2 met with Mrs. Leith Morris. Mrs. E. P. Crawford gave the devotional prayer by Mrs. C. H. Fee. The lesson was taught by Mrs. Crawford. There were eight members present.

Circle 3 met with Mrs. John Kleiner, in regular business meeting. Mrs. Pearl was welcomed as a new member. There were ten members present.

This was the first time during the summer that the circles have met separately. Because of the absence of so many members during vacation the auxiliary has been meeting collectively.

After the meetings all circles went to the home of Mrs. Leith Morris where they gave a handkerchief shower for Mrs. Blumberg, a member who is leaving Cisco soon.

Personal Mention

Mr. and Mrs. S. R. Wood and three children were expected to return today from San Antonio where they attended the Texas Methodist centennial celebration. They left Cisco Saturday by motor for the trip.

HOOKS AND SLIDES

Al Shiparo of Wilson, Okla., was a Cisco visitor Wednesday and Thursday.

Mrs. Charles Joyner and Pauline Joyner of Merkel were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Powell Wednesday.

Mrs. Josie Bates of Bastrop has returned to her home after a visit with her son, Ed Bates.

Margaret Lavern Key is visiting in Fort Worth.

Miss Hettie Ann Parrott of Throckmorton is visiting her sister, Mrs. Carlton Cochran.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Donica and Mr. and Mrs. M. D. Gallagher have returned from a trip to Carlsbad, New Mexico.

Judge J. D. Barker left yesterday for his home in Sweetwater. Mrs. Barker and daughter, Marguerite will leave for Sweetwater this afternoon.

Come Chism who has been visiting in Cisco left yesterday for Lubbock where he will attend Texas Tech. Mr. Chism will be employed by the Hilton Hotel in Lubbock.

CINCINNATI—Charley Dessen's baseball theories largely coincide with those of Bill Terry, and if the new manager of the Cincinnati Reds wishes to be a success, it would pay him to adopt some of the Giants' strategists' business methods.

Terry is in supreme command of the New York club. He practically has made an office boy of Jim Tierney, the former government agent, who, as secretary, had a great deal to say in regard to the affairs of the Giants during the latter years of the reign of John McGraw.

Dessen cannot hope to succeed if Cincinnati is to continue as the dumping ground of major league baseball.

There are 15 or more cast-offs on the Reds roster at the present time—Chick Hafey, Allyn Stout, Sparky Adams, Larry Benton, Jim Bottomley, Adam Comorosky, Paul Derringer, Wes Schulmerich, Ted Kleinhaus, Mark Koenig, Ernest Lombardi, Clyde Manion, Tony Piet, Oski Slade, and Tony Freitas.

He started making friends when the late Iron Man Joe McGinnity led him into the Peoria Three Eye League park in 1919, and told Jimmy Hamilton, now half owner of the Nashville club, that he was a fine prospect. Dessen played with McGinnity's Staley Star team, an independent outfit of Decatur, Ill., his old home town.

Charley made more friends during his half dozen years as the Cincinnati third baseman, and it was a fine tribute to him here recently when more than 200 fans traveled 200 miles from Nashville, and an equal number 300 miles from Decatur, to be present on Dessen Day at Crosley Field.

A man that popular must have something on the ball. It would be a shame to see him fail for lack of material, and the safest way for him to guard against this is to make himself the boss after the lines of Terry.

Charley Stoneham has implicit faith in Memphis Bill, who hires and fires, fixes salaries, and signs his own players.

Most successful baseball managers wouldn't get to first base in a popularity contest.

Terry's stock reply to criticism is, "I suits me."

Cardinals' Boneyard

ALL any club that wanted to get rid of someone had to do during the past two seasons was call up Sidney Weil, which is one of the reasons why the automobile man moved out as president last winter.

Sam Bredon and Branch Rickey and their extensive chain-store system found the Reds particularly handy, unloading no less than nine who either had worn out their welcome or didn't fit in the Cardinal organization.

This Dessen must stop—and will, unless those who know him as guide of the Nashville club are mistaken. Dessen isn't the kind who will sit by and yes a club official who is not a practical baseball man. Little Charley is

Wisp of Range Woman at 63 Can Punch Cattle With the Best of the Cowboys

BAY CITY, Sept. 6.—Mrs. May Cleveland is 63, a little wisp of a woman, but even now she can turn a lariat, throw a half-breed Brahman or slap on a branding iron with the best of the vaqueros.

"A cow and a horse, that's all I know," she said. "And I'd rather be dead, yes, I really had, than not to be able to handle my own cattle."

But from appearances she does not have to worry about that for several years at least. When branding season comes she dons a ten-gallon hat, bit-roped spurs, high boots and riding pants and goes out on the range to help in the branding.

She is one of the last of the old order of cattle-women reminiscent of Amanda Burks of the last century, the so-called cattle queen of Cotulla who drove herds of South Texas cattle over prairie trails to northern markets.

Mrs. Cleveland comes of hardy stock. Her father was Norman Savage, early day cattleman. Her own grandmother, back in the late 40's killed an Indian with a rifle down near the old town of Matagorda.

Inherited Qualities

She was born and reared in Matagorda county where her grandparents settled during the war with Mexico in 1847. She has known the range all her life.

And a short conversation with her is convincing that she inherited a large quantity of her grandmother's qualities.

"A good cow pony and a six-shooter, they're the best friends the cattleman ever had," she said.

Then she will relate the story of her "best cowpony," how it would keep the mother cow away while Mrs. Cleveland applied the branding iron to the calf. The pony was so adept, she recalled, that only on rarest occasions did the cow ever succeed in pulling the calf away.

The impounding of floodwaters behind great dams during rainy seasons and the gradual release of these waters during dry seasons in order that there will be room for the waters of the next flood period.

Brownwood sees in this the threat that the authority will condemn its impounded supply as it wishes to release the tributary flow both to make room for future flood waters and to provide a stream for power, irrigation and possible navigation development below. It has lodged a protest, asserting that such a program will do the upper stream areas no good by keeping them dry in order to supply water to downstream areas. Assurance has been given that such will not be the case, but that Brownwood will be secured in its right to the waters it has impounded.

That is as it should be. Brownwood by adventuring a large sum of money and initiative in the construction of its dam and the development of its great water project has a prior and essential right to the advantages of that project. That right, it seems to me, should not be endangered by interests that may be subsequently served by the broad program of stream development. At the same time, the part that the Brownwood project plays in relation to the whole program should be recognized and the district reimbursed in proportion to that service. The same is true with the Cisco dam and lake in relation to the proposed Brazos valley development. Cisco will not wish to surrender certain rights that it has achieved by reason of community initiative, but it is entitled, it seems, to consideration for what this initiative will have contributed to the whole program.

There is another and important fact to be considered, which is that the size of the Cisco dam is so accommodated to the rainfall upon its

The impounding of floodwaters behind great dams during rainy seasons and the gradual release of these waters during dry seasons in order that there will be room for the waters of the next flood period.

Brownwood sees in this the threat that the authority will condemn its impounded supply as it wishes to release the tributary flow both to make room for future flood waters and to provide a stream for power, irrigation and possible navigation development below. It has lodged a protest, asserting that such a program will do the upper stream areas no good by keeping them dry in order to supply water to downstream areas. Assurance has been given that such will not be the case, but that Brownwood will be secured in its right to the waters it has impounded.

That is as it should be. Brownwood by adventuring a large sum of money and initiative in the construction of its dam and the development of its great water project has a prior and essential right to the advantages of that project. That right, it seems to me, should not be endangered by interests that may be subsequently served by the broad program of stream development. At the same time, the part that the Brownwood project plays in relation to the whole program should be recognized and the district reimbursed in proportion to that service. The same is true with the Cisco dam and lake in relation to the proposed Brazos valley development. Cisco will not wish to surrender certain rights that it has achieved by reason of community initiative, but it is entitled, it seems, to consideration for what this initiative will have contributed to the whole program.

There is another and important fact to be considered, which is that the size of the Cisco dam is so accommodated to the rainfall upon its
