Contested Hearing on Hickok Carbon Permit Is Lengthy

APPLICATION BEING FOUGHT BY LONE STAR

Hearing here Saturday on the application of the Consolidated Gasoline company for permit to burn carbon black in Eastland county resolved itself into a new phase of a contest between the Lone Star Gas company and the Hickok interests, which have been brought into active competition in the gas utilities field in Cisco with the construction of a rival distribution plant under a city franchise by a Hickok company.

New Deal Blast Stirs Furor

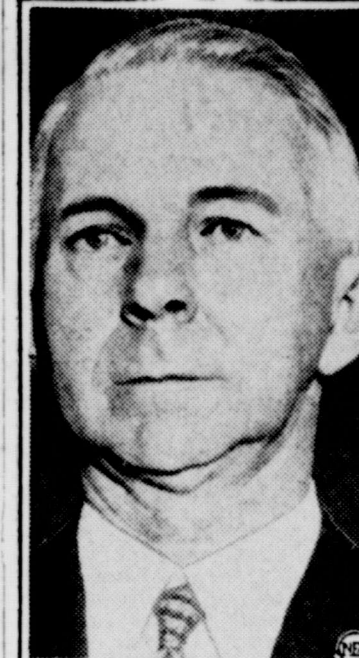

His sharp criticism of the New Deal in a recent widely read article has brought Herbert Hoover back into the limelight after his long retirement at his Palo Alto, Calif., home. Here the former president is shown as he spoke at the opening of the Los Angeles Community Fund drive in the Biltmore hotel bowl the other day.

SENATE CUTS BOND AMOUNT TO 5 MILLION

AUSTIN, Sept. 15 — The Texas senate today reduced the amount of its $9,500,000 relief bond bill to $5,000,000 by vote of 13 to 12. "We've got a peak of seed corn now, and you fellows come down here and want to eat it up. I warn you now, when the wheat will be another crop," asked T. J. Holbeck, Galveston, in urging adoption of the lower amount. The senate also voted to budget the $5,000,000, allotting $1,000,000 to November and limiting the amount of bonds to be issued and expended to $1,500,000 each for the months of December and January.

EARLY ALLRED DEBAR HEARING ANTICIPATED

SAN ANTONIO, Sept. 15 — Attorneys for James V. Allred today were expected to ask an early hearing on the court order which temporarily restrains democratic officials from certifying their nominee to the secretary of state. "The suit was filed by a bunch of hard losers," Allred himself said. "They could not beat me at the polls and now they seek through this or other methods to thwart the declared will of a great majority of the democrats of Texas."

Revealing Munitions Secrets

That King George of England had intervened in negotiations between an American munitions company and the Polish government two years ago in behalf of Vickers, Ltd., English armament firm, was the testimony of Louis L. Sweetster of the American Armament Co. as they waited to testify.

DEMAND MADE AFTER SPEECH AT NEW YORK

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 15 — Textile strike leaders demanded today that Gen. Hugh S. Johnson resign as national recovery administrator because of his speech in New York last night in which he accused the textile unions of bad faith in calling the walkout. Francis J. Gorman, chairman of the special strike committee acting as spokesman for the United Textile Workers, voiced the resignation demand and accused Johnson of not telling the truth, of bad faith and of idleness while "the textile workers were being slowly strangled to death."

RED WING, Minn., Sept. 15 — A "phantom killer" who bound and gagged his victims after the manner of a lurid picture on a detective story magazine cover, was sought here today. Lying beside a stripped body found in a box car was the magazine cover. The man, garroted exactly as portrayed in the picture, was a grim replica of the artists creation. The victim was unidentified. Authorities who accidentally found the body believed he had lain in the car many days.

FARMERS GET 27 MILLION IN OCT. PAYMENTS

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 15 — Cotton planters will receive approximately $72,500,000 in benefit payments next month, the agricultural adjustment administration announced today. The administration decided to combine the third payment in the 1934 cotton adjustment program with the parity due in December — with the second installment of the rental payment. The parity payment to contracting cotton producers totals $28,000,000 and the second installment of the rental payment is approximately $44,500,000.

Attorneys Allowed To Keep Statements

NEW YORK, Sept. 15 — Federal Judge Alfred C. Cox today quashed the subpoena under which Ward line attorneys would have been required to surrender to a federal grand jury the statements which they obtained from members of the crew and passengers of the burned liner, Morro Castle. Judge Cox held that these statements, obtained by Ward line lawyers, were private memoranda and should be regarded as the work papers of the lawyers.

Safety Meet Speaker Sees Peril in Gov't Invasion of Domain of Private Business

The Rev. Frank L. Turner, speaking on "Government in Business," delivered the principal address at the quarterly safety meeting of West Texas Utilities Co., District B, held here Friday afternoon in the store room of the local plant. Company representatives from Rising Star, Albany, Moran, Abilene, and Cisco attended the session. "The acts of the national administration within the last few months in trying to enter the domain of private enterprise is the most serious peril that recovery has at this time," Rev. Turner declared. "The national power policy, newest of Roosevelt's bureaus, is directed right at the utilities, and its sole purpose is to cover America with a network of municipal plants that will render the efforts of private utilities useless. Eastern capital has been invested in this state and as a consequence we now have remarkable electrification. This same capital should be allowed to make a just return on its investment."

Former Cisco Man Dies in Colorado

Maytag Men Attend District Meeting

Ciscoans attending a district Maytag sale meeting in Abilene Friday evening included S. B. Parks, C. M. Campbell and C. A. Farquhar, salesmen, and S. R. Wood of the Hyatt and Wood dealership here. Hyatt and Woods has the agency for all of Eastland county except the city of Ranger, and the southern part of Callahan county. The trend of the meeting was one of optimism. It was explained that the farmers of this district will have as much income this year as during last year, and that they will receive from the government practically half the income from a normal crop even if they do not plow a single furrow.

'Sweeping, Complete' Arms Probe Promised

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 15 — A "sweeping and complete" investigation of the munitions industry in the face of "large efforts to slow up the investigation" was promised today by Sen. Gerald P. Nye, Republican, chairman of the senate investigating committee. Referring to efforts to retard the inquiry, Nye said: "There is talk to the effect that the revelations being brought to light are quite apt to start a war. One can guess where this talk and others like it, comes from. "The facts are that if all the world will just hold its temper and finally know the facts about this war trade, nations will become very angry and will want to fight. But they will see clearly that their fight is not with other nations but with their own merchants and agents who are bent upon profiting even though their profits are dependent upon their ability to arm friends against friend and build fear and suspicion on every hand."

FARMERS WILL HOLD MEETING IN DECEMBER

Loboes Point for Season Opener With Gorman Panthers

USE OPEN GAME IN PUTNAM AND PIONEER DRILLS

By DICK WEST

Ending the first two weeks' practice with two hard scrimmages against Putnam and Pioneer, the Loboes are preparing diligently for their first conflict of the season Friday afternoon with the Gorman Panthers.

The Black and Gold charges, light and shifty and speedy, showed a very good offense against Putnam Thursday afternoon, but their defense was very weak. Seeing the necessity of trying to overcome his opponents with sheer power, Dexter Kelley, Lobo mentor, realizes that this year's Cisco team must score on open plays. His backfield is lined up in this type offense, with Ben Tracy, as Colium, Groce, and Stanbury, Riley, and Caffrey, to pick from. His problem at present is developing a line that will block and withstand pressure effectively.

Look Good in Spots

It is true that Putnam offered very little in the way of competition to the Loboes looked very good in spots on their offense. The two ends of the season appear to be Grece and Fred Riley, two very ambitious lads who developed a spring training. The former, with a little more size and confidence, will look exactly like Pete Shotwell's masterpiece—Boyce Magness. He takes long steps, is loose-jointed, invulnerable to injury, and most important of all—has a remarkable athletic temperament. Keep an eye on him about October 26 in Breckenridge. Riley's chief asset is a good side-step combined with power and drive. He is always good for that yard or two when most needed. He and Dick Stanbury practiced all summer on punting, and their fifty yard spirals show their results.

Collum will undoubtedly make the fans gasp with his "will of the wisp" thrusts through the line. He has shown to good advantage in blocking which is a point in his favor for a starting berth.

The Cisco defense against Putnam was very poor. The Loboes need better grid play. Wendt and Merkett hold their assignments well, but they are so small. The best man in defense from showings in the scrimmages is Norris. Littlepage, scrapping center. Not one iota behind Littlepage are Roy Burnam and Pete Barnes, end and tackle respectively. Burnam is the only man in the field who has consistently caught passes in practice. In addition he has piled up many a play around his end with his sterling defensive tactics. Barnes' chief asset is an ever-prevalent hustle and an ability to block.

Pioneer had an unusually large team, wearing suits exactly like Ahlens. They were headed by J. T. Hammett, scrapping center, whom golf fans remember as a finalist in the 1934 Cisco Country club journey. They played especially hard football, roughing it occasionally, when it was not necessary along the lines of Pete Cawthorn at Texas Tech. Pupeve Beasley received a blow on the head that sent him from the play, and "Shine" Sanders went out a moment later with a bad leg.

Defense Better

Analysing this segregation from the little oil village, the Loboes showed a much better defense. The line was not the same unit that permitted Putnam to rip it often. It charged the Pioneer back before they reached the line of scrimmage; it so dashed the passes that they were forced to ground the ball; and it appeared not to weaken so easily under constant stress.

The offense that looked like a million against Putnam was not so fortunate, however, against Pioneer. This might be partly attributed to the absence of Caffrey and Colium. The ace blocker and quarterback can make a whole lot of difference. Riley was the whole show, his driving and charging and twisting being superb. He made two touchdowns. Beasley to, and Groce, Burnam, and Shackelford one apiece.

The Loboes will spend most of the coming week polishing up their line play and defense, developing an aerial attack and correcting their weaknesses that were most conspicuous.

The starting lineup is becoming more certain every day. Something like this will probably take the field against Gorman: Stedee and Burnam, ends; Barnes and Groves, tackles; Wendt and Merkett, guards; Littlepage, center; Colium, or Stanbury, quarter; Caffrey, full; Riley and Groce, halves. Beasley and Shackelford might start, the outcome being determined on the squad's showing during the coming week.

HOOKS AND SLIDES

MICKY WALKER and Tony Canzoneri, down in the mouth after their recent disastrous experiences, ought to hop a boat for Australia.

Perhaps they will after reading this story of Tod Morgan, a worn warrior who was down, but who came up again in the land down under. Gee, the eerby's potent these days.

Morgan fought his last fight in this country at White Center, a Seattle suburb, a little more than a year ago. His cut was $11.

Then he went to Vancouver, B. C., to promote, and flopped.

Morgan was stone broke for a spell. He lived with Doc Snell, a former feather, in Seattle. He didn't even have carfare down town.

The outlook was dismal. Certainly he must be through at 31, and after 14 years of ring toil.

Morgan no doubt was thinking of that when he bumped into Ben Tracy, an Australian boxer authorized by the Rushcutters Bay Stadium, promoters, of Sydney, to recruit talent. It was last December that Tracy shipped Morgan to the Antipodes, the veteran taking the trip to be assured groceries for the winter.

Morgan the Killer

MORGAN drew with Nel Tarleton, the Briton and ran second to a pair of home guards. He then won a bout or two, before Joe Ghrouly, young St. Louis lightweight, once more made him an appropriate case for retirement.

But Morgan obtained another chance, and began hitting on all eight. He finished Jimmy Kelson, an Australian who previously had outgalloped him, in eight rounds, and belted out Tommy John, of England, in the first frame.

"Pretty well all the accepted principles of fighting, and longevity in pugilism, have been calmly battered into smithereens by Morgan," writes W. F. Corbett, Sydney's widely known cauliflower critic.

Another scribe called his performance against Kelson "one of the greatest exhibitions of forceful and accurate punching since Eugene Criqui beat the Filipino, Dencio."

Morgan reversed his usual form and became the "killer," although, I suppose, the blokes over there aren't any too hard to "kill."

Maybe It's the Climate

ANYWAY, from the depths of despair, Old Man Morgan, as they refer to him, again hit the golden trail. While the honor may be dubious, he's called the saviour of the game in Oustralia. He's glorified in public print. Crowds follow him down the street—kids anxious to touch his clothes, and all that sort of thing.

Yes, sir, there's Tod Morgan, who made a sizeable fortune defending the synthetic junior lightweight crown oftener than anyone ever did, grabbing another stake after all these years.

Yes, sir, there's Morgan, who lost his phoney crown by being knocked kicking by Benny Bass at Madison Square Garden five years ago in a bout that was looked upon obliquely, coming up from has-been alley into the brilliance of another nation's athletic limelight.

It might be the climate. You'll recall that Billy Shade became a pretty fair fighter when he invaded Australia, and others have taken new leases on life in that faraway land.

And if you find out for certain that the Australian climate returns youth to the aging in any respect, please telegraph me collect.

CHEVIGNY WILL SHOW VALUE OF ROCKNE STYLE

By RICHARD M. MOREHEAD
United Press Staff Correspondent

AUSTIN, Sept. 15.—Coach Jack Chevigny, protégé of Notre Dame's famed Knute Rockne started at the University of Texas this month to show the sports world that Rockne style football is not a dead issue.

Texas' new coach has answered criticism that the Rockne defense is helpless before forward passes with the announcement that the regulation seven-man line, four-man zone secondary, would be used to stop the passes and charges of opposing teams.

This year marks Chevigny's debut in the Southwest conference. He came to this section last year to coach St. Edwards' university of Austin in their first Texas conference championship. A forward pass was responsible for the only touchdown scored against St. Eds in the conference last season.

Many believe Chevigny will be forced to change his defense against Coach Ray Morrison's air-minded Southern Methodist university Mustangs. Morrison's teams have been notably successful against Rockne style defense, even at Notre Dame when the nation's late No. One coach was at his height.

Depend on Offense

Texas will depend on offense rather than defense to win its games. Under the revised rules of forward passing, permitting successive incomplete passes without penalty and allowing incomplete passes to fall over the goal line without losing the ball, Chevigny expects to provide an attack that will be both colorful and effective.

The new rules make possible a wider range of ground plays by presenting a greater puzzle for the defending team. The Texas coach further insists on versatility in his backfield, and insofar as possible will further befuddle the opposition with four triple-threat backs, all of whom must be able to lead interference and block.

Whether Rockne football at Texas is successful or not, it is certain the Longhorns will see plenty of that style this year. Their opening game is with Texas Tech at Lubbock, where Pete Cawthon teaches this system. The following week-end, Chevigny will introduce a new custom in this section when the Texas varsity and freshmen play a regulation game.

The climax of Texas' non-conference season will come Oct. 6, when Texas meets Notre Dame at South

Cisco Men Attend Breck Grid Dinner

Representatives from Cisco who attended the annual football dinner given by the Breckenridge Lions club at Breckenridge Friday night reported an enjoyable occasion. Takeoffs on sports writers and the installation of Red Moore as the new coach at Ranger were highlights of the occasion. Moore was considerably taken aback by the frank proceedings.

Those representing Cisco were Supt. R. N. Cluck, Principal H. Brandon, J. E. Caffrey, and Capt. Sentell Caffrey of the Loboes.

33 CANDIDATES DRILLING FOR MIDGET TEAM

Practice sessions for the Grammar School Midgets will be held each afternoon in an effort to get the team into shape for the season's campaign as early as possible, it has been announced. Thirty-three grid candidates answered the first call for training last Tuesday and have been working out daily since then.

Most of the boys are inexperienced, according to Frank Langston, grammar school coach, and it will be necessary to rebuild the entire team. The team was hard hit by graduation, last year's entire starting lineup going to high school.

A reserve backfield, held over from last season, was considered as a likely set of ball toters for this year, but the quartet has failed to materialize, only one of them, Gray, having returned to the present squad. Warren, Qualls and several others promising candidates.

The team will necessarily be light and may use a passing attack as its chief offensive weapon. Preston, husky end and center of last season, may be shifted to the backfield to help with the passing and kicking.

At the ends Fleming, a letterman, and Holder have been showing up well. Cone, Vick, and Coffey have handled the work at the tackles, and Stewart, McCannles, and Donovan have been in good early-season form at the guards. Latch and Boyd have been battling it out for the pivot position, the former showing up well on offense and the latter on defense. Most of the work so far has been drills in fundamentals, but by next week the squad will probably be ready for harder work.

of a more detailed nature. Kicking and passing are due to get a lot of practice.

Football was given an enthusiastic welcome last fall when it was returned to the grammar school as a part of the physical education program. Its aim has been to develop the physique, cooperation, courage, and ideals of the boys themselves rather than strong contenders among junior high school team of the state.

SNAPPERS TO PLAY GORDON AT 3:30 TODAY

The Cisco Snappers will play Gordon at Chesley park here at 3:30 this afternoon in the game that may decide the league championship. At present the Snappers are tied with Stephenville for the lead in the second half of the season's play, having won the first half.

Gordon has a good ball club and won an 11-inning affair from the Snappers last time the two teams met. Satch Henson and Bucky Harris will likely be the starting battery for Cisco.

Stephenville is playing May today and is due to win. The Cisco-Gordon game will decide whether the Snappers will play a three-game series with Stephenville in case the latter wins today.

On a Broader Base

As the democratic party at Galveston passed out of the woods of Ferguson domination, it showed that it has gained a broader footing for its official structure than for many years past.

Instead of having the controls in the hands of some minority group, as in the case of Ferguson's last two administrations, and perhaps during the Ross Sterling term, many elements of past party leadership had joined hands at Galveston with new leadership. Pretty well all the party is represented in the new official set-up. There are even some old-time Ferguson regulars in the ranks.

The Ferguson people were mollified in having been able to name Vice Pres. Garner to the national committee, one jump ahead of what the Allred forces would have done.

There were at the party convention two former governors, Neff and Hobby; both present United States senators, Sheppard and Connally; two supreme court justices, Judge Pierson and the nominee, Judge Sharp; all three retiring congressmen-at-large, Strong, Bailey and Terrell. There were notable former leaders, such as Tom Ball and Cullen Thomas.

The new leadership at Galveston definitely called from the ranks many distinguished and well-known democrats of other times. This will mean a lot for future success and harmony. Even the most blatant of those who were Ferguson leaders when Fergusonism was in flower were not left to feel like homeless exiles; but in having their own policy with respect to Garner accepted by the party, were given a share in the responsibility of the party's welfare in future.

The convention's success was measured by this avoiding a restricted, narrow, and necessarily inexperienced group, as sole helmsmen for the next two years.

The Whole Story Should Be Bared

Considerable agitation is being developed in some international quarters as well as in areas of domestic business which have a direct connection with international trade in arms over the increasingly embarrassing exposures of the senate's munitions inquiry. The examination that is bringing to light with rather startling effect some of the hidden and subversive influences underlying international relationships is the object of insistent pressure from private business and foreign offices for its curtailment. It is claimed that the investigation not only is injuring American and other international trade by the disclosure of important and confidential matters but is developing serious resentment abroad.

The deeper reason no doubt is that the American investigation is drawing closer and closer to an influence that is charged with holding the destiny of international peace in the web of a pernicious influence and that sooner or later the inquiry at Washington. The international scope of the strands of this web will be drawn across the record of agreements and the harmonious and happy manner in which the vast industry has proceeded to the division of world munitions markets is emphasized with cumulative effect as the inquiry proceeds. Business, generally speaking, is entitled to its secrets, because respect for this right is essential to its performance of a service, but where such secrets involve subtle influences that underlie the national welfare, and particularly where an industry profits by the increase of suspicion and jealousy and fear between peoples, the right to keep such matters from public knowledge may seriously be questioned. No industry has the right to profit at the expense of national calamity, least of all the right to incite the conditions that tend toward such a calamity through over-emphasis or supersaturation. It is questionable whether or not the munitions industry wishes war, since war depletes the ability of nations to pay, but it is not questionable that its incitement of governments toward equalization of armaments and the idea of a balance of power between countries as an insurance of peace cultivate the conditions for war.

The whole underlying ramifications of this international arms business ought to be bared. Once its sinister influences are known, it is quite probable, as Sen. Nye remarks, that the majority of world peoples will be ready for war—but not with each other.

"Codocrats" Are Watched at Austin

Another new state department is proposed for this session of the legislature, or that final taxation and oil control session reported just around the corner.

It is for the creation of a state code authority commission under a bill, already drawn, and so far known as the "Decker bill" from its sponsor, Maj. Stiles M. Decker.

Reports say Gov. Ferguson was planning to introduce the bill this week or past.

An authoritative summary says the effect of the bill would be to give official state status to and perpetuate an unknown large number of code officials.

An opponent of this prospective bill says it was sponsored by a "group of codocrats." The bill is supposed to originate among those now holding code authority jobs, who anticipate their NRA connection will cease, and who have figured out a new state commission as a means of reinstating or gaining a new status for and keeping alive the jobs.

Anyway some of those who will have to pay the bill are watching the "codocrats" with critical eyes.

Eight Constitutional Changes to Be Voted on Nov. 6

AUSTIN, Sept. 15—General election day will not pass in Texas this year with the usual perfunctory vote. Not that any fear is felt by democrats that its state ticket will be defeated, but because the state's million or more voters will ballot the same day on the proposed state new deal.

Eight sweeping changes in the state constitution will get approval or be rejected Nov. 6. They are: a limit on taxation; different tax rate for real estate and other property; abolition of the fee system; continuation of counties; salary fixing powers for county governments; taxation of the University of Texas; vast land areas; four year terms for municipal officers; and right of cities to change their charters annually.

The tax limit amendment pegs at $11.25 per person the total amount of revenue the state may collect annually from taxes, licenses, permits and fees. Based on 6,000,000 population, that is approximately what the state collected from such sources in 1933. The $68,000,000, so collected, left a big state deficit. The amendment has been proposed to prevent any legislative spending spree.

May Abolish Exemption Opponents of the plan to permit different tax rates for real estate and for all other property grouped by reasonable classification, expect help against the amendment from the small homesteaders. An exemption of several years ago exempted $3,000 of homestead property from tax. The new amendment, it is said, will abolish that exemption by its provision that "Taxation of real property shall be equal and uniform."

Larger units of local government are sought by an amendment to permit abolishing and consolidating counties. A clause in it provides that no county shall be created with an area of less than 900 square miles nor any existing county be reduced to contain less than 900 square miles unless both the new and remaining county have a population of 50,000 or more. In border counties the 900 square miles total may be varied if it is impractical. It will be possible to make city and county boundaries coincide under the amendment on counties. The provision on small counties with not less than 50,000 population permits this.

Fee Amendment Abolition of fees for district and county officers has with it an accompanying amendment which gives county commissioners courts powers to fix fees of county-wide or precinct officers, and to combine offices within the county. The three foregoing amendments are all part of a plan to reduce the cost of local government.

Western counties will continue to receive taxes on the vast tracts of University of Texas lands, under another of the proposed amendment made them taxable. The new one provides that the taxes shall be paid by direct state appropriation. The university land once was tax exempt. Counties and school districts complained that the large areas of the tax free land not only prevented ample provision for schools and other facilities but blocked issuance of bonds for such purposes.

Municipalities are especially interested in two proposals that will be voted upon. One makes it possible to have three or four year city terms of office, instead of two years; the other permits charter cities to amend their charters annually instead of biennially.

UNDER THE DOME AT AUSTIN

By GORDON K. SHEARER United Press Staff Correspondent AUSTIN, Sept. 15 — Peering ahead, the January session of the Texas legislature seems destined to be a particularly busy one.

Eight amendments to the state constitution will be voted upon Nov. 6. If they are adopted the next legislature will be called upon for wholesale revision of the existing tax laws. County consolidations will be in order and lengthened terms for municipal officers will be possible.

Additional amendments to the constitution will be pressed upon the legislators to pass on to the people. Among them will be more relief bonds, repeal of state prohibition and pruning of the pardon power. The next legislature also will be asked to make adequate provision for the Texas centennial and likely for amendment or re-enactment of the cigarette stamp tax law.

Just why validity of the cigarette stamp act is in doubt is somewhat hazy for non-lawyers. A section of the state constitution says that an act shall not be amended by reference to its title but that the whole statute as amended shall be set out at length. The cigarette act was amended by adding a section designed to punish counterfeiting of the tax stamps. In doing so the whole act was not again set out. Apparently that is simple enough to the layman. But the courts, through the years, have felt called upon to make some fine distinctions. The constitution does not always mean what it seems to say, according to the courts. They have left it so unclear that some of Texas' ablest lawyers argued for two days about it in district court here. The rubbin' of it seems to be that if the new part is entirely independent it can stand alone. If you must refer to the preceding statute to understand the new one, both must be re-enacted.

A surprising thing about the cigarette tax act is that it in no place mentions a three cents a package tax. It is generally called a three cents tax and three cents appears on the stamp affixed to cigarette packages. In fact the tax is levied by the thousand pounds. A section authorized the state treasurer to design and issue stamps of convenient denomination to indicate payment of the tax. State Treasurer Charley Lockhart issued the three-cent stamps as that amount represents the portion of 1,000 pounds tax due on the ordinary packet of 20.

Laymen learned, too, in the recent discussions of the cigarette tax act, that all rulings of the final criminal court in Texas are not accorded the same veneration. Particularly, the opinions of the court of criminal appeals during a former period carry little weight. At that time the court membership was so divided in its views that in one case arguments before the court were postponed because of feeling on the bench.

The state democratic convention at Galveston cost the state $10,000 as capitol statisticians figure. A day's cost of a legislative session is put at $5,000. The Galveston convention resulted in two days' idleness because more than a third of the members were at Galveston. Their $10 a day pay was uninterrupted.

"We used to have a law against the sale of liquor in prohibition territory," said Dry Dan Moody, former governor in court here while illustrating the vital parts of an indictment. A ripple of smiles went round the court room at this virtual acknowledgment of the dry leader that the state prohibition law no longer is in active use.

Court attendants got another smile in the same case when Judge R. L. Batts referred to the state

BEACH CLUB GIRL

BEGIN HERE TODAY BOOTS RAEBURN IS and pretty, he recalled. Russ gets a job in Miami and leaves, promising to send for her. He does not write. Months pass and then comes word that Russ has been killed in a motorboat accident. Almost immediately she realizes the marriage is a mistake. She gets a job in Miami and leaves, promising to send for her. He does not write. Months pass and then comes word that Russ has been killed in a motorboat accident. Boots gets a job in a department store. She is lonely until she meets DENNIS KEVY, a young author. He introduces her to some of his friends, including beautiful KAY. Boots is received cordially and has a gorgeous time until Kay appears. NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XXXIII A CLOUD had fallen over the face of the sun for Boots. The day had been so perfect—her little oasis in a desert of dullness—and Kay had appeared to spoil it for her. But she remembered Boots, certainly! It would be easier to hate her, thought the younger girl with a fierce pang of resentment, if her manner were not so perfect a blend of cordiality and patronage. It would be easier to hate her if she snubbed one openly. But this was not Kay's line. Indeed, as Boots observed her, she was hard put to it to decide what the other's "line" was. Dennis, she noticed, was cool, almost sulky with Kay. And all at once suspicion, verified by further observation, flashed into Boots' mind. Dennis had known that Kay was week-ending at Easthampton. He had planned this whole thing. He had deliberately used her as a pawn in his game. They had quarreled—something unimportant probably—but still a quarrel—and Dennis had brought Boots with him to show how little he cared. Oh, I hate him, I hate him, she cried in her heart, afflicted. They were murmuring together now, side by side, in low-slung canvas chairs. Boots, through Leo's silly running fire of slangy patter, was actually conscious of Kay's silky voice; of Dennis, protesting, angry. "But, my dear, it's only until tomorrow morning," Kay said easily, in a silence. "You can't mind that, surely. Yes, I know the man is a rotter but after all I'm his wife's guest. And the chef is too, too divine. I couldn't resist the invitation..." Dennis' face was white, set to her easily blandishments. Leo's demented monologue went on and Boots, the bright spray of her hair hiding her troubled face, half-listened. "But you have your own small amusements," she heard Kay's creamy voice say indolently. "The little blower from the Village..." Her heart thudded angrily against her ribs. Dennis said something, very low, for Kay's ears alone. Oh, to get away, to get clear away from all this, this bright, careless, cruel crowd of people, thought Boots remembered that day when

Trees Bear Twice Because of Drouth

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Sept. 15. — The drouth has the fruit orchards all haywire.

L. C. Tusler, Wichita, Kan., is exhibiting blossoms and buds on sprigs taken from his apple tree. They are the second produced this year.

His apple tree blossomed and bore two bushels of apples early this summer. During the drouth they struggled for life. August 1 the tree revived and began pushing forth buds.

The same phenomenon was noticed near Jefferson City, Mo., where Joseph Triber hopes to harvest two crops of apples this year. His trees bloomed early this spring and produced fruit in June. They are in bloom now and promise another crop before frost.

Ray H. Stauber, of St. Joseph, Mo., likewise is hoping to climb his fruit ladders for the second time this year. Deluded by lower temperatures and rains, his backyard apple orchard is in full bloom. The blossoms, however, are white instead of the customary pink.

Alfred McDonald, Wichita director of parks, has stepped forward with an explanation.

"Fruit trees have been known," he said, "in times of drouth, to protect themselves by becoming dormant during the dry periods. Then when cooler weather returns and there is some moisture the tree might start to grow, with little green leaves on the ends of the limbs and by blossoming a second time."

FORD offers this NEW SERVICE

... Instead of an "Overhaul" — a factory reconditioned engine

Every mechanism, no matter how finely made, eventually wears and must be reconditioned. Automobile engines are no exception.

The Ford V-8 is the finest, most dependable and most rugged engine Ford has ever built. But there comes a time when any piece of machinery should be reconditioned to renew the efficiency originally built into it.

The Factory that built this engine is best equipped to recondition it. Here are the men, the precision equipment and the inspection methods which insured the excellence of the engine in the first place. Therefore the Ford Motor Company has instituted this exclusive new service to owners of Ford cars and trucks. When the owner of any Ford built since 1927 finds that his engine needs an "overhaul", he can have a factory reconditioned engine—at approximately half the cost of an old-fashioned "overhaul".

The Ford owner not only gets a much better job at far less cost—but only a few hours are required to make the exchange.

This "Exchange Plan", which also includes many other units of Ford cars and trucks is an important forward step in automotive practice.

HOW THIS NEW SERVICE WORKS

If you need an engine "overhaul" simply drive your Ford into the nearest Ford dealer's. The engine will be lifted from the car. Carburetor, distributor and other units will be removed and placed on a cylinder assembly that has been completely reconditioned at the Rouge Plant of the Ford Motor Company, Dearborn, Michigan.

You get a complete assembly consisting of cylinder block with mirror-finish cylinder bores, new main bearings, a crankshaft with all bearing surfaces just like new. Also new pistons, piston pins, piston rings and a set of connecting rods equal to new. Included in the assembly, of course, are the camshaft, push rods, valves, valve springs and retainers. Cylinder head with new cylinder head gasket is bolted on. The timing gears and front cover are in place and the oil pump is included. It is a complete cylinder block assembly—carefully inspected and block-tested—ready to give you new engine performance.

With no waste of time the reconditioned engine is put back into your car or truck. Only a few hours are required for the entire job. And you have an engine that's as good as new.

Many Other Units Included In This Exchange Service

If your carburetor, generator, or any of several other important units need major repairs it can be replaced with a factory-reconditioned unit—at much less than the usual cost of repairs. Note the low charges for factory-reconditioned parts:

Engine	V-8	"4"
Cyl. Assembly	$49.50*	$46.50*
Distributor	1.90	—
Carburetor	1.85	—
Shock Absorber	2.00	2.00
