WHEELING, West Va., Oct. 4 Federal agents here today claimed confession from two men that they planned to kidnap Betty Bloch. 24, daughter of the Mail Pouch To. bacco company head, on the eve of her wedding.

The men were held under $100,000 bond after arraignment before Comm'r John W. Kindelberger on harges of conspiracy to kidnap. Agents said the men were: Therman Bowen, clerk in Wheeling haberdashery, and Harry Thornton, 32, divorced, unemployed but well known in this section as professional football player.

At Norristown, five deputy sher-iffs, who had been guarding the mills since the strike started month ago, were held on charges of suspicion of homicide. They were arrested following the death of a spectator who was shot when the guards fired on strikers and sympathizers who stoned two buses

NEW YORK, Oct. 4 - A truck wned by Bruno R. Hauptmann ielded what was considered one of the most important pieces of evidence in the Lindbergh case—a road map of the district from which Chas. A. Lindbergh, Jr., was kidnap ped.

District Attorney Samuel Foley announced the discovery and said that it contained minute mileage of the area where the child was abducted and where he was later found Since the prisoner's arrest to place Hauptmann at the scene of the crime or to link him directly with the kidnaping has been one of their outstadning and most difficult roblems.

Foley said that Hauptmann knew the surroundings of the home so well that he could reproduce from memory small roads leading from

In addition Foley said that a German-American dictionary was found at Hauptmann's home. This is to support a theory that Hauptmann wrote the ransom note. The writer evidently used a dictionary when composing the note. This was suspected because a small ordinary word was often mispelled while the longer ones which would appear in a dictionary were almost always correctly spelled.

ren, of whom 10 are living, the eldest having achieved the age of 90. One may count it strange that a man could have lived for 146 years in a country as turbulent as Morocco. Besides, the proof of the claim is difficult to supply. The son of Maati is said to spend his time lying on rugs and eating fruit and cheese. It may have seemed like 146 years to Labbib, with such a regimen; but some of us will be skeptical as to the truth of his story. On the other hand, he seems to have no desire for a movie or vaudeville contract, so why should he claim to be so old if he isn't?

If a man is as old as he feels, and a woman as she looks, there are days when we are Methusaleh, and we know some women who are our elder sisters.

Stopping Hot Oil

The legislature agreed it was wise to give the railroad commission authority to stop the shipment of gasoline refined from illegal oil.

Yet it was unwilling to put this power into the hands of 22 Bone pro the commission immediately, and forced a 90-day delay in the effective date of the measure.

This reflects a strange trend of legislative reasoning. The lawmakers evidently had thought they curbed traffic in the products of hot oil, as well as in the illegal oil itself; but on technicalities, the courts said not. Now, the same lawmakers say explicitly, they still regard such traffic unlawful, but that it will not be subject to control, or violations subject to punishment until December 25.

A lot of hot oil can go through the stills before Christmas.

But the same set of lawmakers, who alone can declare the legislative intent" will be back this month. Perhaps they will decide not to continue as sponsors and authors of such a farce.

Burning Up Our Homes

As a thought for Fire Prevention Week, people should consider what fires cost them. We all help pay for them in insurance bills. The man who owns no property may think he pays nothing for it. Yet his landlord has to insure the property, and the insurance is one charge that makes rents higher.

The annual cost of fires is about $4 per person. A family of five thus pays about $20 annually for fires. Probably fire protection costs at least $10 to the average family. If so, the average American family pays $30 annually for fires. Most of us know where we could put three ten spots where they would do much more good than in burning up our buildings.

The senate munitions probe is leaving many loose ends. We still don't know how much a purchasing agent for a Latin-American government pays for the job.

TOM CARSONS, of the detective bureau, was killing time until the men from the service station would arrive to make the identification. He looked up as Morden entered the room and nodded. Then he turned back to the tall, somewhat paunchy individual who sat on a wooden bench, his shoulders slightly stooped, his eyes nervously flickering about the room. On a chair nearby sat a girl with eyes that were dark, wary and watchful. Morden swept the girl with an appreciative eye, waited until her

Tom figures the man's got political connections here he can work if he wants to, Cathay is going to pay about a hundred bucks to get eased out the back door and have the whole thing dropped. The men were held under $100,000 bond after arraignment before Comm'r John W. Kindelberger on charges of conspiracy to kidnap. Agents said the men were: Therman Bowen, elerk in a Wheeling haberdashery, and Harry Thornton, 32, divorced, unemployed, but well known in this section as a professional football player.

HAUPTMANN TRUNK YIELDS KIDNAP MAP

NEW YORK, Oct. 4 - A truck owned by Bruno R. Hauptmann ielded what was considered one of the most important pieces of evidence in the Lindbergh case—a road map of the district from which Chas. A. Lindbergh, Jr., was kidnap. ped.

District Attorney Samuel Foley announced the discovery and said that it contained minute mileage of the area where the child was ab ducted and where he was later found slain. Since the prisoner's arrest to place Hauptmann at the scene of the crime or to link him directa with the kidnaping has been one of their outstadning and most difficult

Foley said that Hauptmann knew the surroundings of the home so well that he could reproduce from memory small roads leading from

In addition Foley said that a Gernan-American dictionary was found at Hauptmann's home. This is support a theory that Hauptmann wrote the ransom note. The write evidently used a dictionary when composing the note. This was suspected because a small ordinary word was often mispelled while the longer ones which would appear in a dictionary were almost always cor rectly spelled.

one Si Labbib ben Maati, a Moroccan, who says he is 146 years old, has been married 14 times, and has had 34 children, of whom 10 are living, the eldest having achieved the age of 90.

One may count it strange that a man could have lived for 146 years in a country as turbulent as Morocco. Besides, the proof of the claim is difficult to supply. The son of Maati is said to spend his time lying on rugs and eating fruit and cheese. It may have seemed like 146 years to Labbib, with such a regimen; but some of us will be skeptical as to the truth of his story. On the other hand, he seems to have no desire for a movie or vaudeville contract, so why should he claim to be so old if he isn't?

If a man is as old as he feels, and a woman as she looks, there are days when we are Methusaleh, and we know some women who are our elder sisters.

Burning Up Our Homes

As a thought for Fire Prevention Week, people should consider what fires cost them. We all help pay for them in insurance bills. The man who owns no property may think he pays nothing for it. Yet his landlord has to insure the property, and the insurance is one charge that makes rents higher.

The annual cost of fires is about $4 per person. A family of five thus pays about $20 annually for fires. Probably fire protection costs at least $10 to the average family. If so, the average American family pays $30 annually for fires. Most of us know where we could put three ten spots where they would do much more good than in burning up our buildings.

The senate munitions probe is leaving many loose ends. We still don't know how much a purchasing agent for a Latin-American government pays for the job.

Previous High "Prior to 1933, the all-time high record of foreign cotton production, according to Garside of the New York Cotton Exchange, was 11,-8881,000 bales i n 1929-30. Foreign production in 1933-34 is estimated o have bee n12,193,000 bales, and the estimate for this year is 31,225.-000 bales. Foreign production for the first time since the Civil war will exceed United States production. If present authoritative estimates are correct, United States eotton production will constitute only about 41 per cent of the world total crop and foreign countries, 59 per cent. World total production this vear is now estimated at approximately 22,500,000 bales, a decline of about 2.500,000 bales from last year. Production in the United States is down about 3,500,000 bales.

With the restriction program of the Agricultural Adjustment administration and the Bankhead act the federal government has cut Amercian acreage planted to cot ton for the season 1934-35 to 28.024 .-000. "Perhaps the truest and most sig-nificant test of the extent of America's loss of foreign markets raw cotton is the dercease in the proportion of foreign consumption supplied by the United States. During the three years 1926-28 inclusive which are typical average years the United States supplied over 45 per cent of the raw cotton consumed in foreign countries. In 1933-34 the United States supplied 41 per cent of the raw cotton consumed through foreign markets, and indications are now that in 1934-35 the United States will supply only about 30 per cent of the world cotton consumption outside the United States "The facts cited above state in no uncertain terms that the time has already passed for discussing wheth. er or not foreign cotton producing countries are going to take our foreign markes. The cold fact is, they have already done it to the extent of approximately 2,000,000 bales since the goverinment inaugurated its restriction program. The real questions confronting the United States now are, can the lost mar-kets be regained, and if so, at what price? "What will hinder the United States from getting back its markets and normal production? Consider the following facts: The government twelve cent loan program now in operation to encourage farmers to hold cotton, plus the large amount already frozen in government hands. will prevent all but the very minimum reduction of carry-over of American cotton at the end of this cotton year. The prospect now that the carryover of American cot. ton will be reduced not to exceed 2,-000,000 bales. In other words the American carryover will still be ex-cessive in August, 1935, and because of the twelve cent loan it is possible that 5,000,000 bales of the carryover on that date will be concentrat. ed in the hands of the government which supply will eventually have to be sold in direct competition with

Cisco post office receipts during the September quarter of 1934 (embracing July, August and September) showed a gain of approximately 14 and one-fourth per cent over receipts for the similar period of last year, Postmaster W. H. Caddock said today

THE best way to get at the truth behind L the fine things you hear and read about the new Chevrolet, is to get in the car and drive. Take this car, drive it over the same routes, in the same way you drive your present automobile, and let the results you can see and feel tell their own story. You have heard that Knee-Action makes bad roads good, and good roads better. A ride will prove it. You have heard that Chevrolet provides shockproof steering, Syncro-Mesh gear-shifting, a remarkably flexible 80-horsepower engine, and cable-controlled brakes. A few minutes at the wheel will show you what a different these advancements make in safety and ing ease. And when the ride is over, and step out refreshed and ready for more, will know why so many thousands have for it impossible to return to ordinary dr after an experience like this. Big league pitchers know that power is not enough. The important thing is to control that power-particularly in tight situations where you've got to bear down to win.

The Ford V-8 gives you all the power you need - and some to spare. But that's only half the story. It performs superbly because it gives you sure, effective control of that power.

Speed that takes you over the pathways of the world and brings you ely home, as fast as you want to go. Stability on curves and a feeling confidence in every tight situation. A quick change of pace that saves you utes in traffic.

The Ford V-8 shortens distance, not so much by its potential top speed, t by the swiftness with which it resumes running speed after the inevitable ps and pauses.

It's a seasoned campaigner—this Ford V-8—and it has proved it can take in many severe tests. It has scored important victories in road races at gin, Jacksonville, Los Angeles and Targio Florio. On Labor Day, three Ford V-8 cars broke all previous stock car records for climbing Pike's Peak. the Fords in this climb were equipped with high-compression cylinder heads, tional equipment for altitude driving. The V-type engine holds every nor speed record on land, on water and in the air.

Every day-on every road-in the hands of hundreds of thousands of storists-the Ford V-8 is proving its leadership both by outstanding perrmance—and by low cost of operation. Drive it yourself and see what a remendous difference the V-8 engine makes.

MICKEY COCHRANE Manager of the Detroit Tigers "I've caught a lot of great says: pitchers and they've all had two things . . . power and control. That's what has put us up there this year. All top-notchers have it—in baseball and in other lines of sport."
