Brazos River Project Appears Strong In House Test Vote

PROPOSAL TO REDUCE FUNDS Tabled 86-35

Bulletin
AUSTIN, Oct. 19—With less than a quorum present this afternoon, the Texas house of representatives adjourned until Monday without further consideration of the Brazos River project bill.
AUSTIN, Oct. 19—By a vote of 86 to 35, the Texas house of representatives today tabled a proposal to reduce the amount of taxes to be levied for financing of the dam on the Brazos River project.
The vote is considered a test of the river bill.
The proposed reduction would have permitted only 1-4 of the state's ad valorem tax in ten counties nearest river mouth.
The bill, as passed by the senate, permitted diversion of all for 20 years.
By previous amendment the house limited to Jan. 1, 1937 the time in which negotiations may be completed for a federal loan of $30,000,000 for the project. Other amendments were taken up at an afternoon session.
Advocates were confident of its passage before night.
The Colorado river bill will likely be reached Monday.
The senate committee state affairs today reported favorably two bills to remit interest and penalty on delinquent taxes. Before they could be brought up for consideration, the senate adjourned until Monday.

POPULARITY OF NEW DEAL ON DECREASE

NEW YORK, Oct. 19 — Indications that the New Deal has dropped in popularity from a 69.03 per cent favorable majority to a bare 50.97 per cent at present were reported today as the result of a Literary Digest comparison poll.
A nationwide poll of 65,000 persons last March and April, the results of which were not revealed till today, showed sentiment of only one state, Delaware against the New Deal.
A "recheck" poll of the same 65,000 persons conducted in August and September showed 17 states unfavorable to the administration's policies.
The 17 states voting against the New Deal elected a combined total of congressmen equal to nearly 1-2 the house of representatives.

MIDGETS TAKE 12-0 WIN OVER PIONEER TEAM

The Cisco Grammar School Midgets, using a running attack consisting chiefly of spins and reverses, took a game from the Pioneer grammar school an 18 to 0 count at Pioneer yesterday.
Taking the ball on their own 25 yard stripe, the Midgets marched to a touchdown in the first five minutes of play, with Holder scoring on a single reverse, and then folded up till the second half. The Pioneer team immediately began knocking at the Midgets' goal line but lacked the punch to score.
In the second half Preston snatched a Pioneer heave out of the air, set sail for the goal line, and ran 90 yards for a touchdown. He scored the third touchdown on a plunge after Holder had taken the ball to within striking distance.
Fleming, Phillips, Stewart and Latch showed up well on defense for the Midgets.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Oct. 19 — The hunt for Thomas H. Robinson, Jr., fleeing from justice agents demanding his life for the kidnaping of Mrs. Alice Stoll, today led across the Allegheny mountains into Eastern Pennsylvania.
Behind him, at the scene of his crime, his wife, imprisoned on charges of aiding in the abduction, screamed that she had been double-crossed by federal agents.
Reports that Robinson, sometime insane asylum inmate, had been seen came from at least a dozen states, but the government officers concentrated their search in eastern Pennsylvania and Delaware.
Police teletype systems flashed a report that Delaware state police had vainly pursued three men, one of whom answered to the description of Robinson. The car was a Ford V-8 sedan similar to that known to be carrying the fugitive on his flight to escape into Pennsylvania.

Cisco Boy Among 1006 ACC Students

"The Eyes of Texas" To Be Speeded Up

AUSTIN, Oct. 19 — "The Eyes of Texas" has always been played slowly and solemnly by the University of Texas band, but at the Centenary college game Saturday the song will be presented in a spirited and lively manner.
The decision to speed up the tempo of the Alma Mater song was reached early this week after a conference of the band director and the heads of a number of campus organizations.
With due respect to the traditional tempo of the stirring tune, it was decided to speed it up a little, as an experiment, to keep in spirit with the feeling of the football team as it comes out on the field.
Director Bernard Pharr agreed to speed up the song and watch the reaction. That does not mean that it will be played fast on all occasions; "just at the opening kickoff when the team should be in the highest spirit," is the comment of student publications.

Unemployment Relief Must Be Speeded Up

Eastland County Men Are Indicted

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 19 — Emergency unemployment relief must be stepped up to meet a cold weather destitution peak and prevent violence in the United States this winter, responsible officials believed today.
Conviction that violence would occur if the nation fails to care for the destitute is based on the opinion that men would seize food, clothing, and perhaps shelter, before they would starve or succumb to exposure in large numbers. Potentialities of violence are no different this winter from last.
Before relief plans are in final form a major change must be made regarding pay scales on construction project with government funds. State and federal PWA projects now pay workers the prevailing local union wage scale.

Cooperation Of The Humble Company

The good work of Humble Pipe Line Supt., J. W. Thomas in securing the splendid cooperation of the Humble employees toward securing funds for buying uniforms of the band has received much commendation from his fellow committeemen. It is deserved and credit is due every Humble employee for his individual contribution.

But Cisco has never had cause to complain of lack of cooperation from Humble employees. They have always been a fine bunch of men, always ready to do their bit for Cisco. As evidence of that fact we clip from our files of the Cisco Daily News of November 7, 1927 as follows:

"One of the greatest single factors in the upbuilding of Cisco has been the Humble company which maintains here the most expensive oil camp in the southwest. Division offices for the producing and pipeline departments are maintained here, and the payroll for these two departments and the sales and refining and gasoline departments for West Texas are handled through the offices here. The company has a large number of men working in its offices here, while many others work out of Cisco in various capacities.

W. W. Wallace is superintendent of the production department which employs 258 men with a monthly payroll of $14,299,000. Also under his direction are 11 geologists with a payroll of $2,253.00 per month and three engineers drawing $577 per month. Mr. Wallace has been superintendent for this district several years, and during that time has taken an active part in public affairs in Cisco. He is a director of the Cisco chamber of commerce, a member of the Rotary Club and president of the Cisco Country club. During his presidency the country club has greatly improved its property, enlarging and completing the club house and greatly improving the golf grounds.

The pipeline department is headed by Fred D. McMahon assisted by C. C. Moore. A large number of men are employed by this department, both in the offices here, which control operations of huge pipelines extending from the Panhandle to the Gulf and from the numerous West Texas fields to the trunk line. This company during the last summer laid much pipeline, thus employing several hundred extra men and providing employment while the oil industry as a whole was slowed up a bit by lower prices.

The gasoline plant department employed in making casinghead gasoline at numerous plants throughout West Texas, is also operated through the Cisco office. Total of 152 men are employed with a payroll of $24,490 a month."

Texas Anti-Tax Lobby Greatest in Years

By RAYMOND BROOKS

The most numerous anti-tax lobby of recent years has massed in Austin, with only two gaps in its ranks.

The "no new levy" phalanx lacked only C. A. Jay of Dallas, foremost general exponent of state retrenchment and spokesman of the three regional chambers of commerce cards which recently demanded a 50 per cent reduction in state ad valorem levies, future cuts in state expenses, and a constitutional limit on taxes for state purposes.

But individual interests were abundantly represented. Petroleum, natural gas, sulphur, railroads, mercantile business, insurance business, gasoline and highway interests, investment and security interests.

Some of the "third house" battalion was here with respect to other matters than new tax levies, but ready to rush the fortress if taxation comes along. Some specifically were concerned with the remission of tax penalties and interests, as affecting the rights of foreclosure upon properties. Some were in Austin having official connection with other measures, including both public development programs and the Texas Centennial.

CENTENNIAL MEASURE CRUX OF SCARE

But the Centennial measure, calling for $8,500,000 of appropriations, which the state was asked to finance from source and various proposals of house members for finding the revenue, was at the crux of the tax scare. Many of those who were defending specific lines of business or economic interests from new levies were not opposing, and some were favoring the Centennial and other proposals of this session.

Investment interests were ready to smash any mortgage moratorium proposal that might follow that on ad valorem tax penalties.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE PARTIALLY STOPPED

The West Texas Chamber of commerce board was partially stopped from pushing resolutions it voted at Waco recently against taxes and state expenditures by the fact that its past president, Walter D. Cline, is executive chairman and chief spokesman for the Texas Centennial movement now asking extensive state financing. Mr. Cline has made it clear he proposes to ask no outlay of money from the state general revenue fund, and borrowing from the highway gasoline tax fund, for repayment out of the increased tax Centennial visitors will pay has been seen as the chief financing proposal so far advanced. This principle was embodied in a house bill by Savage and others just introduced.

Texas Topics

By RAYMOND BROOKS

AUSTIN, Oct. 19 — There are two sides to the question of super-corporate development.

For instance, Mr. Seagraves of Moody-Seagraves was supposed to have collected about $125,000 in one year as his salary with respect to a complicated group of interwoven business companies. But then, Mr. Seagraves also was credited with having induced eastern financiers and finance houses to spend about $100,000,000 of money, originating outside Texas, in the natural gas business in Texas. That, obviously, was development on a scale that could not have been financed in Texas and by Texas.

Lawmakers, at Austin are turning to the theory that instead of a direct, final tax, to raise the money necessary to pay off a Centennial appropriation, that some form of "advance" will be made—an appropriation, diverting temporarily, or leaving temporarily some revenue with the pledge in the same bill to repay it, either to some state agency, or to taxpayers by reductions at a future time.

So far, neither of the two or three admittedly-legal ways of collecting tax upon the sales of hard liquor in Texas have been proposed in connection with the Centennial One of these plans is the individual importation of liquor taking the shipment by consumers; the other is to make a man himself, rather than his physician the doctor to prescribe medicinal liquor when he decides he needs that kind of physic.

Old Fashioned Nap Good For Children

AMES, Ia., Oct. 19 — Old-fashioned mothers, who insist that their less-than-three-year-old babies get a good nap each afternoon are pretty close to the right formula for raising children. You have that on the word of Mrs. Lulu R. Lancaster, director of the Child Development Department of Iowa State college.

Panhandle and Plain sections of Texas will share substantially in the partial 1935 emergency highway program financed wholly out of federal funds. Other projects will come on in the rest of the program. Partial lists covered $3,800,000 of the work. There remain about $8,500,000 more for later federal approval.

The first list includes paving highway 7 in Garza, Lubbock and Lynn counties. It provides for grading and structures on highway 5 across Donley county, and for paving highway 10 in Collingsworth county. Out of this particular area, improvements will be extended on highway 3 to Clay and Cooke counties.

Small nursery school pupils at Iowa State college has convinced us that the child who sleeps soundly and long in the afternoon will sleep more soundly at night." Mrs. Lancaster said.

And sound sleeping at night contributes not only to the welfare of the baby, she pointed out but makes parents much easier to get along with.

"The Monday nap at the nursery school is the hardest nap of any day and often the shortest too," Mrs. Lancaster added. "A disrupted schedule with possibly no nap during the week-end probably is the cause of this."

Physical difficulties often keep a child awake and restless. Mrs. Lancaster said. Uncomfortable bed-clothing, hunger, indigestion or over-fatigue are common causes for sleeplessness also.

"Worry and fear may be the cause of sleeplessness," she said. "Lack of an uninterrupted daily nap schedule is one of the most common reasons, however."

The Clew of the Forgotten Murder

By CARLETON KENDRICK

BEGIN HERE TODAY

When DAN BILKIN, publisher of the Blade, learns that CHARLES MORDEN, police reporter here, has been killed, he determines to employ SIDNEY GRIFF, famous criminologist, to solve the mystery.

Morden had been assigned to learn all he could about FRANK H. CATHY, wealthy and prominent who had threatened to sue The Blade because the newspaper reported Cathay had been arrested. Later it was proven that the man created by the newspaper was an impostor. The Blade published a retraction.

Then Morden is found dead and a few hours later comes the news that Cathay is dead—possibly poisoned.

Sidney Griff undertakes the case. He goes to see CHARLES FISHER, Cathay's attorney and then to Cathay's home. There he sees CARL RACINE, private detective, leaving in Cathay's car. The chauffeur says hostilely to Griff, "You can't see Mrs. Cathay." Now GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER XIV

THE chauffeur worried back behind the wheel of the big car. The rear shift lever snapped home and the automobile, with Racine, the detective, inside, slid smoothly down the driveway, progressing as effortlessly as a trout gliding through the dark depths of a forest pool.

Sidney Griff watched the car until it had turned the corner of the block. Then he stepped to the doorbell and a moment later was handing his card to a solemn-faced butler who assured him that Mrs. Cathay was receiving no one.

"You will tell her," said Sidney Griff, "that I have no wish to intrude upon her grief. It is, however, important that I see her. You will explain to her that I am a criminologist and that if she can grant me an audience now it may save her much inconvenience later."

The butler took his card, showed him into a reception hallway. As Griff waited he looked about him, noting the Chinese rug on the floor, the dark wood table and chairs of solid, Tudor design, the maroon silk draperies reaching to the floor. Through the doorway he could see the living room and caught a glimpse of a fireplace with a mirror above the mantle. The furnishings looked expensive. Everything about the house looked expensive and characterless—the typical home turned out by a fashionable interior decorator who knew how to please wealthy clients.

It was only a few moments before the butler was back with the information that Mrs. Cathay would see Mr. Griff.

The interior of the house was hushed and there was about it the aura of death. A musty smell struggled with the lovely odor of flowers that were dying, and, in return, were used to ornament death. Griff saw a maid in the next room, noted that the servants walked about on tiptoes, with strained, set faces.

GRUFF followed the butler. In the midst of the atmosphere of hushed restriction the healthy budding of the criminologist's footfalls were as the influx of an out-

Behind the Scenes in Washington

BY ROLAND L. ... NEA Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON — Notes from a day or two with the "radicals": First I saw the Senate munitions committee quizzing our three biggest submarine magnates. They didn't look like "merchants of death," though they talked like it.

They looked like stage or movie types—each one. At first they acted like three small boys caught at something naughty, but not very bad.

And the extraordinary callousness of the witnesses! President Henry R. Carase of Electric Boat looks vaguely like a porcupine. A man with an almost bridgeless nose and a couple of double chins unsupported by a real chin—leaving his thick lips to shift for themselves.

In the movies he would be cast as a banker. Earlier, he snickered, but by the end he was speaking as if with a mouth full of hot mush—though always frankly, it seemed.

AN "honest Yankee" type. Vice President Lawrence Y. Spear is a weather-beaten, high-browed, hatch-faced gent whose skin doubtless is made of parchment. He served his apprenticeship for this business as a naval officer and seems the smartest of the trio—although that one may be Vice President Henry R. Sutphen, who hardly said a word.

Sutphen is well fed. He has white hair, smartly parted mid-way, black eyebrows, a deep tan as if from yachting, and two eyes as bright as Alice in Wonderland eyes. A sort of kewpie—who you might expect to see playing the part of small nursery school pupils at Iowa State college has convinced us that the child who sleeps soundly and long in the afternoon will sleep more soundly at night." Mrs. Lancaster said.

And sound sleeping at night contributes not only to the welfare of the baby, she pointed out but makes parents much easier to get along with.

"The Monday nap at the nursery school is the hardest nap of any day and often the shortest too," Mrs. Lancaster added. "A disrupted schedule with possibly no nap during the week-end probably is the cause of this."

Physical difficulties often keep a child awake and restless. Mrs. Lancaster said. Uncomfortable bed-clothing, hunger, indigestion or over-fatigue are common causes for sleeplessness also.

"Worry and fear may be the cause of sleeplessness," she said. "Lack of an uninterrupted daily nap schedule is one of the most common reasons, however."

SISTER MARY'S RECIPES

BY MARY E. DAGUE, NEA Service Staff Writer.

THE secret of perfection in salads lies in the choice of fruits to be combined. One bland fruit—one mild in flavor and acid—should be included to serve as a balance for the tart, full flavored fruits.

Tomorrow's Menu: BREAKFAST: Concord grapes, cereal cooked with dates, cream, crisp oven toast, milk, coffee.

Hiawatha Salad: Three quarters of stewed pear, 3 segments of orange, 3 segments of grapefruit, 3 threads green pepper, 3 threads pimento, 3 marbles cream cheese, lettuce, French dressing.

Mint and Pear Salad: Another delicious and eye-satisfying salad is made by stewing pears in a thin syrup flavored with mint.

MAV-BULLDOG GAME TO DRAW LARGE CROWD

EASTLAND, Oct. 19—One of the largest crowds to witness an Eastland-Ranger football game in several years is expected to be on hand this afternoon at Lillard Field in Ranger when the two teams clash in their annual conflict. The game has been called for 3 o'clock.

The game will be played in nearer proximity to Eastland than have other conflicts of Eastland-to-date. The game will mark the first opportunity Ranger fans will have an opportunity to witness the Bulldogs in action since they played a 0 to 0 tie with McMurry College freshmen from Abilene.

In previous years the Bulldogs have been seen in action on the Ranger gridiron several times before the opening conference season but due to the fact that many fans have been unable to see either team in action, the game is expected to draw many fans from over the section.

John Garrison, Maverick quarterback, passer and punter, is back at practice with his mates but will not be able to play against Ranger, it was definitely announced by school officials. Garrison suffered bruised shoulder injuries in the Breckenridge game Friday. X-rays have failed to reveal any fractures his attending physician has announced.

The Bulldogs suffered a few injuries in the San Angelo game, though several are playing with bandages on their legs, and the two teams are expected to be evenly matched for the game.

The Mavericks will be slightly outweighed, but the slim advantage the Bulldogs have is expected to be counteracted by a fast-charging line and a fast, shifty backfield that is expected to give plenty of trouble all the time.

The Mavericks had little trouble pushing over a touchdown against the Strong Buckaroos, which is an indication of their real strength when they have their team intact. Against San Angelo Eastland pushed over two touchdowns, indicating they have plenty of power on the offense and lots on the defense coupled with one of the best passing attacks in the Oil Belt.
