WHICH — a Post Money Order or YOUR PERSONAL CHECK?

Are postal money orders better than checks? Let's see. . . . To buy a money order, you must go to the post office. You must fill out an application blank for each order. A $1.00 money order costs 6 cents, and if it is for $65.00 the fee is 20 cents. Then, too, the largest money order you can buy is for $100. Money order receipts are small, confusing, easily mislaid—in which case it may take time and trouble to prove payment of a disputed bill.

Contrast this with the advantages of paying your bills "by check" . . . make them out anywhere . . . they become the best receipt . . . they give you "business standing" . . . and when you keep a reasonable balance in your account in keeping with the checks you draw, they don't cost you anything.

Fighting Gasoline Tax Diversion

The American Road Builders Association recently announced a drive against diversion of gasoline and automobile taxes from highway purpose. In support of the drive, the aid of the public, legislative bodies and chambers of commerce will be sought.

The association contends that gasoline tax diversion—whereby the motorist is made to pay for something he doesn't get—is one of the biggest obstacles to the maintenance of an adequate program of highway construction in this country. In order to give the public the complete facts, the association plans to gather nation-wide information concerning the amount of gasoline tax funds diverted, and the purpose for which they are used.

It is doubtful if any tax has ever been so abused as that levied against gasoline. The tax was initiated some twenty years ago in order to make the good roads movement possible. It was predicted on the theory that motorists, who receive the principal benefit from fine highways, would not object to contributing, through the tax, a special fund for their construction and maintenance. The average motorist did not object—he was even eager to pay the tax, believing it to be equitable and just.

So it was—when it was used exclusively for road work. But during recent years more and more states have come to depend upon the gas tax as an inexhaustible source of revenue for the general fund. The tax rate has upped time and again—and less and less of the revenue has gone to highway departments. As a result, whenever the motorist takes his car out he is forced to pay a special, class tax, much of which is used to defray the cost of things which should be paid for by a tax equally affecting all people.

The motorist has stood for this "tax racket" long enough. It is a pretty safe forecast that he will rally with cheers behind the new drive to use gasoline taxes only for the purposes for which they were originally intended.

Roosevelt Hails 1934 Pioneers

President Roosevelt, dedicating a pioneer monument at Harrodsburg, Ky., calls today's Americans "pioneers of 1934." Harrodsburg, a century and a half ago, saw the West's first permanent settlement, the planting of its first wheat field, first peach and apple trees, the West's first grist mill, first spinning wheel. Those pioneers of ax and rifle had to hew a new path and learn to govern themselves well in new ways. Today the accustomed order does not suffice to meet the perils and problems Americans are compelled to face—Even mere survival of the United States now calls for new pioneering on its people's part.

Americans, President Roosevelt maintains, still have the pioneer spirit in them and are animated by the western pioneers' example. He sees today's tested citizens as guided and equipped to make a conquest of new frontiers of the spirit which are neither physical nor geographical. The pioneers of 1934 take up the task of hewing out a commonwealth that will truly bring the fulfillment of security, or freedom, of opportunity, and of happiness. This is what America asks—And what, through effort, it is entitled to receive.

Bulgaria Sidesteps

Bulgaria decides to cancel payment on its foreign debt. Premier Georgieff makes the announcement after a long Cabinet session and League Representative Chaysson leaves Sofia in protest. Bulgaria merely follows the demoralizing example of many of the larger nations. Even the United States went so far as to cease paying in gold on securities held abroad in which gold payment was specified. Little Finland, which alone has met its war-time obligations, probably feels its face growing redder than ever—It must be embarrassing to a nation to have its simple honesty make it conspicuous.

Japan Finds Hope in Baseball

Japan hears Prince Iyesato Tokugawa make stirring statements at a Tokyo luncheon to American League stars now on a triumphant tour of the country. "Between two great peoples able really to understand and enjoy baseball," the Prince declares, "there are no national difference which cannot be solved in a spirit of sportsmanship." He proves that baseball is no longer merely an American game. Many Japanese schoolboys do not know who is Premier—But every Japanese schoolboy knows and adores the name of Babe Ruth.

World Mourns Original 'Alice'

The world mourns its Alice in Wonderland, Mrs. Alice Hargraves, who died in Westerham, England at 82, was the little girl of 10 that Lewis Carroll's imagination sent adventuring after the white rabbit into an enchanted world of nonsense. Millions of persons, in their childhood and later, have laughed and wept with the child. Alice typifies something that lives inside every wholesome human being—it is the something that rejuvenates us by escaping the sad patterns of the familiar to riot in the joyous uplands of fancy.

Socking the Blues Away

Texas Topics

By RAYMOND BROOKS

BROOKS

AUSTIN, Nov. 24 — Rep. Sarah Hughes of Dallas tried to carry her opposition against the Colorado River Authority bill to U. S. Sen. Ikeles public works administrator, even after the law had been approved; and her encounter with Ikeles added a highlight of relief to the serious, bitter end fight against the public policy measure. Mrs. Hughes saw Ikeles while he was at the Dallas oil convention and began telling him why she had opposed the bill. She made some reference to his telegram on water rights.

"I never heard of any telegram; I didn't even know Mr. Hunt had been to Texas on the matter," Sen. Ikeles told her.

Mr. Ikeles pointed out that as a cabinet member, public works administrator and head of the federal oil administration, and member of so many councils that it took a card index he did not personally keep up with the minutiae of each project.

Mrs. Hughes already has given notice she is going to try to repeal this CVA law which gives her a first share in the national power development policy of President Roosevelt in his Tennessee Valley address.

Gov. Miriam Ferguson will have four more appointments to make before her term ends. She will be called upon in December to appoint a regent of the university to succeed L. J. Sulak, senator-elect. On Jan. 1, she has the appointment of three members of the state board of education. These three will give her majority control of the state board of education, by virtue of the senate's rejection of two of Gov. Sterling's appointees two years ago, unless the same senate takes the same action with respect to at least one of those whom Mrs. Ferguson is to nominate.

Impressed by the persecutions of church dignitaries in Mexico and Germany, Texas people have reason for pride that his nation is the sanctuary to which religious leaders naturally turn to escape the attacks of governments which meddle with spiritual affairs.

There are now in Texas several bishops and high church officials, safe in the protection of this government. It is one of the oldest stories of the activities of government, but unthinkable in Texas that a man should be imprisoned or punished because of his service to any religious denomination, sect or cause.

This sanctuary is the highest expression of a free people.

COOPERATION WITH POLICE DINNER TOPIC

The police banquet Friday night at the Laguna hotel, at which the city commissioners and their wives, together with the ministers of the city, their wives, the newspapermen and their wives, were the invited guests afforded a means of a closer discussion of the problems of law enforcement which confront every city in the nation.

Police Commissioner H. C. Henderson, presided at the banquet and introduced each member of the police force and told their duties. The city commission was then asked to stand so that they might be identified.

Rev. Frank Turner pastor of the First Methodist church introduced the new presiding elder, Rev. J. B. Curry, and Mrs. Curry, and Rev. and Mrs. Preston Broxton, of the Twelfth Street Methodist church.

Did You Ever Stop To Think
By Edson R. Waite
Shawnee, Oklahoma

Arthur C. Dorrance, president of the Campbell Soup company, says: "The art of successfully preserving foods in tin owes its discovery to the demands of war — yet the invention of canning is one of the greatest civilizing forces the world has ever known."

Napoleon Bonaparte in his desire to supply his armies with rations during the long sea voyages offered a reward for a satisfactory method of preserving food.

Nicolas Appert, a Frenchman, discovered a means of keeping foods edible by sterilizing with heat and making it impossible for air to touch. This is the basis of modern canning.

Canned foods have aided civilization in its endless advance by giving the world more leisure for the pursuit of cultural activities. The products of the canning industry have made possible many voyages of exploration and discovery which have opened new horizons for mankind.

EAGLES BEAT EASTLAND BY 20 TO 0 COUNT

ABILENE, Nov. 24 — The Abilene Eagles, after their disappointing show against Breckenridge last week, came back yesterday to administer a 20 to 0 defeat to the famed passing team of Eastland Mavericks that invaded Abilene. The outstanding man for the Eagles was King, sophomore back, who made a couple of touchdown sprints of 73 and 56 yards, respectively. The second was called back when Abilene was offside.

The Eagles scored in the first quarter when Elio Howell, carrying the ball for the first time this season, followed good interference around right and for five yards and a touchdown. Galbraith kicked goal. In the second quarter King found a vacant space in the Eastland line, went through it, cut back and dashed 73 yards to the goal. Galbraith again converted. King made the third touchdown in the third period when Harris hit the line times for a total of eight yards.

SHOWS SHE'S CLIMBER DELAWARE WATER GAP, Pa. Nov. 24 — Despite her age of 20 months, Viola Kern has shown a marked aptitude for a steeplejack's career. She recently climbed to within two rungs of the top of a 60-foot forest fire observation tower from which her father, Francis Kern, unconsciously of her proximity, was looking for smoke on a wooded slope of the Delaware Water Gap. The father aged several years during the brief time required to effect the rescue.

ET LOUIS, Nov. 24 — Hundreds of acres of vegetable crops are being plowed under by produce farmers near here, as they find their products more valuable as fertilizer. The market has fallen so low, County Farm Agent O. W. Meyer said, that he expects from 2,000 to 3,000 acres of produce to be plowed under.

Lovable

BEGIN HERE TODAY ANN HOLLISTER, pretty and 20, learns that her college course was made possible by money loaned by friends of her father, now dead. To repay them she offers her home for sale and holds a sale of the family antiques.

After he leaves, Ann finds a blue vase missing. In its place is a note signed "T.H." and a $50 bill. In the larger city where she goes to find work Ann obtains a library post, she becomes friendly with SARAH BENT, also on the library staff. She meets TONY MICKLE, commercial artist. Tony tries to find a direction. Sarah, who suspects Ann is interested in Tony, decides to warn her against the irresponsible young man.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER III

SARAH made a thorough job of telling Ann about Tony. She began by saying: "I suspect Tony's laying a foundation for one of his grand campaigns and, because I like you, Ann, I'm going to warn you. It wouldn't do for you to go around with Tony, if simply wouldn't do."

Ann laughed. "What has he done that's so terrible? He might be a gangster, the way you're talking."

"If the idea appealed to him Tony would probably turn gangster," Sarah said, smiling. "But Tony's risks are of a different kind. Like falling for other men's wiles."

And here Sarah told Ann about Tony's lovable qualities, his weaknesses, his deadly charm, his responsibility. No girl could ever be sure that Tony would keep a date. Anything might interfere—a call to join another party, a sudden decision to work, or just forgetfulness.

Sarah stopped talking for a moment and met Ann's cool, wise gaze. "You're not surprised?" she asked.

"Of course not. I knew all about Tony before he ever spoke to me."

"And here I've been worried to death. Pardon me, Ann, but you look such a kid."

Tony was leaning across the table now, looking at Ann with that halting light in his eyes. "I've never seen anyone so lovely before," he said.

Some place about six. "Suppose we say the library. That's as good a place as any." Ann paid her bill and returned down town but the shopping was destined not to be done. She was walking along the street, feeling lost in the milling throngs of people, when she was hailed blithely: "Well, look who's here!"

It was Tony Mickle. "It was impossible to resist Tony's contagious smile and good humor. Ann found herself smiling back at him."

"There, that's much better," Tony said. "You're quite a different person when you smile. Do you take your mood from your surroundings, Ann?"

"Bold and mannerless young men must be put in their places," Ann retorted. "I'm sorry, but I'd do it again if there were no other way of meeting you."

They were walking along the street, Tony adapting his long step to hers. Ann said, "Well, at least you have one virtue—honesty."

"And I have excellent taste," Tony said. "What are you planning? Right now?" "No, you're not. I just left John MacDonald who was on his way to meet Sarah. They're going to take in a show. Let's see if we can't work a miracle and get some good seats for 'Tip-Top.'"
