GENEVA, Dec. 8.—France and Italy today took opposite sides in the potentially dangerous political and territorial dispute between Jugo-Slavia and Hungary.

The Balkan conflict, brought before the League of Nations council amid talk of war, resolved itself into a dispute over revision of the post-war treaties by which Hungary—as well as Austria and Germany—lost territory in formation of the two Danubian states.

Holiday Tragedies

State Fire Insurance Commr. Raymond S. Mauk, who each year records about 500 Texas lives needlessly taken by fire and accidents in which fire and explosions figure, has invited Texans to think of simple safeguards during the Christmas season to avert some of these tragedies.

Christmas time, he pointed out, is a season in which fires in residences are especially prevalent. Here are some of the pointers he offers, to keep the shadow of tragedy away from the family Christmas tree.

Evergreen trees, decorated with inflammable materials, often catch fire.

Cotton or lighted candles should never be placed on the Christmas tree.

Santa Claus' cotton beard frequently catches fire.

The old Yuletide custom of placing a lighted candle in the window near curtains has caused many a tragic fire.

Small children should never be permitted to handle fireworks.

Wrappings from packages should not be allowed to accumulate.

Toy electrical devices should not be attached to light sockets until all fuses and connections are in perfect order.

Never use a penny, hairpin or other device as substitute, for a fuse plug.

Commr. Mauk expressed hope that widespread safeguards against fires may be made during the rest of the year, and that such a record will be maintained, for the rest of the year so that 1934 will go down in history as the best in Texas from the point of low fire losses, within a decade and a half.

Lawyer, Editor, Citizen

Texas has suffered the loss, in the death of Judge W. O. Huggins of Houston, a man who has served his adopted state in many ways in his busy, many-sided career.

Huggins, distinguished in the law, came in his middle life to direct the policies of the Houston Chronicle, and in this endeavor he was successful as a modern-type, human, friendly editor. His impress upon public affairs was felt throughout the state, both because of his executive position in the newspaper, and because of his personal activity in many fields of public endeavor.

He was a speaker known throughout the state. A reminder of his varied career was that he had accepted, for the very week of his death, the invitation of the Texas senate tax investigating committee, to go before the committee at Austin and give there his views on a state tax policy and tax reforms.

The flag of the Texas capitol flew at half-staff, in deserved tribute to the useful life of this citizen, who loved and served, even unto his final day, his adopted Lone Star state.

Over-Discounting the Future

In times seething with change and equipped for news distribution at electrical speed, serenity and poise are too often the prey of passing emotions. A legally ordered investigation of the telephone industry in the United States is announced; President Roosevelt's commendation of federal water-power development in the South is interpreted as indicating the prospective onset of government ownership in every state; a public utility inquiry in Canada threatens readjustments. The mercurial security markets of America suffer a sinking spell; investors and employees of privately owned utilities take on fresh worries, and suns go down upon thousands of people who fear the worst instead of hoping confidently for the best.

In a matter of hours, perhaps, the outlook changes all along the line. The Bell telephone system offers the fullest cooperation in the Communications Commission inquiry. The usual dividend declaration carries cheer to over half a million stockholders of the American company. Nation-wide government ownership is seen to be far off, and the President's opponents find little evidence of its advocacy in his recent utterances. American utility leaders meet in Arkansas and re-focus their thoughts upon the requirements of the times. Premier Taschereau of Quebec urges provincial utility security holders to avoid the disaster of throwing their holdings on the market in fear, saying that the "Government will see to it that capital and popular savings are protected."

Thus the racking emotions of one day are succeeded by the calming influence of constructive messages on the next. High governmental officials will do well to ponder the influence of their words, which carries far beyond their effect on market quotations into the deeper recesses of citizens thought. There may be room for White House reassurance that the investor in honest utility securities will have nothing to fear from his Government's future policies if the private power industry fulfills its stewardship. There is certainly a need of calmer appraisal of events and men in looking toward the future, and of refusing to be stampeded into false conclusions and rash actions by the swift unrolling of the economic pageant in which the civilized world is both spectator and participant.

Let's Try to Get the Sea Serpent's Viewpoint

UNDER THE DOME AT AUSTIN

By GORDON K. SHEARER
United Press Staff Correspondent
AUSTIN, Dec. 8 — Lieut. Gov. and Mrs. Walker Wood will have handsome quarters in the state capitol. Back workmen now are hurrying to complete the improvements before inauguration. They are working over the southeast corner of the second floor of the capitol where the lieutenant-governor lives during legislative sessions. Old plumbing has been torn out. A modernistic tile bath will replace it. Walls are being retinted and new furnishings installed.

When Mrs. Edna Witt of Waco entertained during legislative sessions, she had to rely on a hot plate of a gas burner to serve coffee. The improved quarters will include a kitchenette.

There also will be an extra room for Walter Jr. He will be the first junior resident of the state capitol.

The speaker's quarters in the west wing of the capitol apparently will not be fixed over. Probably no one is sufficiently insistent about it. No one is sure yet of being speaker. Speaker Coke R. Stevenson and Mrs. Stevenson who have occupied it during recent sessions, breakfasted at a nearby drug store. If Coke wanted to shave, he had to use cold water.

What will become of the governor's reception room on the second floor of the capitol is uncertain. It is too shabby in its present state for any governor to receive anyone there.

Gov. Ferguson turned the reception room over to the state relief officials until relief administration grew beyond the room's capacity. Dan Moody, while governor, lent it to the newspaper men to use for a press room, while the official press room was being cleaned.

The room, with a splendid view, is seldom seen by capitol visitors. It faded hangings now are dusty—they would fall apart if an attempt were made to clean them. The patched carpet is shabby. A beautiful table and a perfect wall mirror recall its one-time splendor.

When you see pictures of a governor signing a bill while a group of interested people stand round, it isn't so. The pictures are taken with a still camera. If the governor wrote while it was being taken, there would be a blind. Only when a movie camera is used is there an actual picture of a "signing." Few have been taken at Austin.

From Terrell comes the suggestion: "Why don't you write something about J. P. Strickland in your state capitol news notes? Isn't he good copy?"

Frankly, "Jeff" is in bad repute just now. His Guadalupe ranch has raised a breed of deer that are so wild and so fast that none of the state capitol hunters have been able to shoot one. Numerous parties have returned well fed, but without deer. One hunter shot 20 times without a hit, or his companions lied.

keeps the movies on good terms in Texas.

During the Texas Centennial, researches a prize should be offered for the identity of the good looking girl who walked along the right bank of the Texan army when the Battle of San Jacinto was at its height. There must have been one. What else could account for so many of the heroes looking to the right (bank instead of at the Mexican enemy in the official picture of the battle in the state senate chamber?

Park Land Given To Corpus Christi

CORPUS CHRISTI, Dec. 8 — A plot of ground nearly six blocks long and from 25 to 30 feet wide was granted to the city by A. C. McCaughan, city commissioner.

In making the gift, the commissioner specified that the land was to be used for park or street purposes.

BERLIN, Kans., Dec. 8 — There's a future for Rex Cozard. When he went to visit his sister across the Nebraska line he took a 410 shotgun with him. On his return he announced that he had "done a little trading" and produced a 12-gauge shotgun, a rifle, a grist mill, a good sized ham and a hound dog.

Behind the Scenes in Washington

A Service Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON.—There will be plenty doing in the next Congress for such of us correspondents as are prone to report sometimes on the more dramatic and sillier phases of Capitol activity. We are going to miss the spate of charges of the venerable Fess of Ohio, who must be more than once convinced that, as he once put it, "this country is going to hell." And the warning roars of lugubrious, reactionary Dave Reed of Pennsylvania will be heard no more.

Ranting Robinson of Indiana won't be missed, though his absence will be noticed. That's more than you can say for the several other defeated Republican senators. Only confirmed habitues of the galleries knew them even by sight.

In the House, though there's little despondency about it, we'll no longer see Harold McGugin of Kansas—the only congressman who had the brass to try to initiate the famous "red scare" charges of Dr. Wirt—or Fred Britten of Illinois, who was so frequently yelling about "Reds" in the New Deal or something equally silly.

Many regret the defeat of picturesque old Edgar Howard, who always listed himself as a "Free Democrat," wore long hair and clothes after the manner of his friend William Jennings Bryan, and really was a good congressman.

So much for the dead! Now look to the 74th Congress: The most delicate situation in town will be the future relationship of the White House and the Democratic leadership with Senator Bronson Cutting of New Mexico.

Cutting, one suggests, will be conspicuous among those few who no longer melt under the Roosevelt smile and the Roosevelt harm.

Texas Topics

By RAYMOND BROOKS

AUSTIN, Dec. 8 — The Texas capitol is getting acquainted with Gerald Mann of Dallas, whom it expects to see installed in the office of secretary of state after January 15.

Mr. Mann, active in the campaign of Gov.-Elect Allred, has taken a place as assistant attorney general in the final month of his term. Mann's appointment will be in keeping with the "new deal" and young democracy movement. He is a graduate of S. M. U. and of Harvard law school. It has been known since election day he will have an office in the new administration; and now opinion has focused to a degree of certainty on the office of secretary of state as his place for the next two years.

It is likely that Gov.-Elect James

Behind the Scenes in Washington

"My dear 'Digger,'" said Mr. Joe, "I deserted the Republican ticket for Roosevelt in 1932 and was again rewarded this fall when the administration turned thumbs down on him and even sent Democratic Senate Leader Joe Robinson to New Mexico to campaign against him. He nosed through by a hair, as regular Republicans also voted for his Democratic opponent to punish him for his independence."

Joe Gurney will be in the limelight not only because he is the first Democratic senator from Pennsylvania, but because he will be the outstanding political boss in Congress.

Many Democrats feel that Joe is no bargain, glad as they are to get Pennsylvania. Already he and his Republican colleague, Jim Davis, are being called "the indictment twins," since both have been victims of grand jury action.

Joe's indictment had to do with the whereabouts of federal funds in his care and was noble prosed. Jim, tried for alleged participation in a Moose lodge lottery, was acquitted.

YOU can also expect a few stories from time to time on such newcomers as the ineffable Senator Bilbo of Mississippi, who promised to "raise more hell than Huey Long." Senator Schweilenbach, who espoused EPIC in his campaign in Washington and will be pretty radical; Congressman Monaghan of Montana, who won fame as a fist-fighter when he was here before; Senator Harry Moore of New Jersey, who will represent the famous Boss Frank Hague, and Senator-elect Rush Holt of West Virginia, who is too young to enter the Senate, but probably will.

And Huey Long, who has all reports, will be wilder than ever.

Copyright, 1934, NEA Service, Inc.

V. Allred will have but three days as a private citizen before his inauguration, Jan. 15. Unofficial reports say William McCraw, attorney general, will show up January 12 to take his oath of office as successor to Allred in his present office.

But the future governor will not have three idle days, even if they are spent out of office. The job-hunters' rush will be over, largely, by that time; but legislative matters will be in full swing; and the free advice-givers, those seeking consideration of multitudinous matters after he gets in Austin for the inauguration and inaugural ball and reception all will tend to send him through the same busy paces as he has experienced with office-seekers in the past few weeks.

A huge amount of work remains to be done on the biennial budget which Gov. Allred will lay before the legislature as soon as he takes office.

The judiciary budget has been completed. The departmental budget has been decided upon in tentative form, and the computers of figures are being extended.

Half the educational budget has been reviewed, but all may be somewhat reshaped, particularly as to recommendations for new buildings. The elementary budget is yet to be worked out.

All this work is being done by the board of control. The budget law also calls for both the outgoing and the incoming governor to make their pre-appointment recommendations in parallel columns as to each of about 20,000 items in the supply bills.

No intimation has been given whether present salary cuts will be retained; but a guess—as good as any other now in Austin—that until the legislature shapes a tax policy to bring in more money, the 25 per cent reductions in all state salaries will be left for consideration of the legislature.

Did You Ever Stop To Think

By Edson R. Waite
Shawnee, Oklahoma

It takes time for any business to build a reputation that is strong enough to insure a steady growth. The success of every business depends on its gaining its reputation by honest advertising and diving up to its advertisements.

An advertiser who gets results is the one who advertises frequently and sufficiently.

The reputation of a business comes from satisfied customers—satisfied customers come as a result of honest goods and honest advertising.

Today the public does not seek a store; the store must seek the public and they must do it by advertising.

Business concerns that have enjoyed a prosperous business year after year have been constant advertisers.

The business that has grown from a small concern into a larger one has been heavy advertiser.

The growth of these concerns has been due to giving service, carrying standard goods at standard prices, and truthful advertising.

Newspaper advertising means quicker sales, better profits, increased demand, and satisfaction to both buyer and seller.

The greatest assets of any business are satisfied customers. Satisfied customers means more customers. More customers mean a better and more profitable business.

Dam Gives City Its Old-Time Prestige

DUBUQUE, Iowa, Dec. 8.—Partial completion of locks and dams along the upper Mississippi have restored to this Iowa river town a large portion of the activity it enjoyed in the old days when river packets plied their way up and down the Father of the Waters, making Dubuque one of the key cities in the wedding trip.

"I expected you to help," she continued. "Sarah could tell you I'm not much good in a kitchen. But I'm learning. What about the family?"

"After I bought the place I realized it would be a white elephant on my hands. But I hung on to it for some reason, and finally I got this family to stay here. I give them the proceeds from the oranges and a small monthly wage to keep things up."

He had opened a door and now turned on the light. Ann stood, lost in admiration. The living room was typically Spanish, with its tapestries, its balustrades, dark, ornate furniture supplemented by big wing chairs covered with bright cretonne. The curtains were cream with rich draperies of blue brocade. A stair with a wrought iron balustrade wound upward at one side of the room. A bright fire glowed in the fireplace.

"Oh, what a darling place!" breathed Ann.

"The bedrooms and bath are up stairs," Peter said. "Let's have a look at the kitchen."

The kitchen floor was covered with linoleum in large gray and black blocks, copying an old flagged stone flooring. The room had rough plaster walls and dainty raffled Swiss curtains at the windows.

Upstairs the survey led from Ann's bedroom to Peter's. The furniture in her room was painted cream and decorated in roses. Soft light shades covered the lights. There were gay pillows on the window seat, a gray chintz-covered chair under the reading lamp.

Peter's room was furnished in walnut and there was a practical, green-shaded light near his bed for reading.

Ann peeped in at the blue and white tiled bath. A tubland shower. Electric light. "Such luxury! I thought from what you said we'd be camping."

"I've run down a few times, so I furnished the place. But there are defects, as you will find out. Sometimes the water runs low. If it does, we'll do lots of our bathing in the lake."

"In January?"

"Lots of mild days. I'll walk over and tell Sam and his wife we're here."

"I'm going with you," Ann said. "Not our worlds would she have been left behind in this quiet little house."

THEY started out through the grove. The path was rough and the grove was dark, with black shadows along the path. Ann slipped her arm through Peter's and trudged along by his side while he pushed aside branches and guided her through the trees. A light streaming from the open door of the frame cottage made the path clear and she slipped her arm from his.

"Hello, Sam!" Peter called. The family trooped to the porch. There were Sam and his wife, a younger woman and her husband a little girl about three, and a boy. Ann judged that the boy, who had bright dark eyes, was around 10. "Howdy, Mr. Kendall," Sam said. "We tried to fix everything right, sir."

"Everything's fine," Peter said. "The house looks nice. Mrs. Kendall likes the flowers."

"We have a garden," Sam's wife

LEY AND LEPAGE ON SECOND STRING

Anderson, because of his outstanding play all season, was given a unanimous first-string ranking. The others received nine out of a possible 10 votes splitting their votes with Britt, who received a part of his for a tackle berth.

Cisco also placed Littlepage at center and Beasley in the backfield on the second all-star team.

There were five outstanding backfield stars and two ends, Jacoby of Ranger and Collins of Breckenridge. Other men had a harder time making the team. The fact that three quarterbacks were on the first team made it necessary to place another back at quarter on the second.

Two Cisco tackles, Barnes and Thomas Graves, were given honorable mention. Ranger had four men on the first team.

Following are the selections for the two teams, as compiled from the coaches' choices:

FORD TEST SET IS SECURED BY NANCE MOTOR

"We have taken the guess work out of motor diagnosis," says S. H. Nance, president of the Nance Motor Company.

"We have just secured one of the most astonishing pieces of testing equipment by which our mechanics are able to detect accurately and quickly and without loosening a nut, any defect in motor performance. It is known as the Ford laboratory test set.

This amazing piece of equipment will test compression, distributor fuel pump, generator, generator cut-out, starting motor, entire electrical ignition system, spark plug battery, lamps, horn, vacuum, oil pressure, anti-freeze solution, radio and radio tubes, etc.

The most intimate faults are revealed by its sensitive devices. It will show whether compressions leakage is occurring through faulty piston rings or the intake valves. It will detect such things as burnt or improperly spaced distributor points, weak distributor point spring tension, improperly adjusted spark high resisting spark plugs, improper fuel pump pressure or vacuum, weak ignition coils or condensers, loose connections and a thousand other possible faults.

"It's another step forward in Ford service for the economical servicing of your car," continued Mr. Nance.

AMARILLO WINS OVER BULLDOGS BY 19-14 COUNT

AMARILLO, Dec. 8.—By playing their Oil Belt rivals off their feet in the first half, The Amarillo Sandies advanced to the state grid quarterfinals with a 19 to 14 victory over the Ranger Bulldogs here today.

All three of the Sandies' touchdowns came in the second quarter and both of Rangers' were in the third.

The Sandies scored when Steidger, quarter, drove off tackle for two yards after Harlow had been run out at the end of a 35 yard gain. A little later Walsh fumbled an Amarillo punt and Amarillo recovered on the Ranger 41-yard marker. After the Sandies had made a first down on the 18-yard line, Steidger went around end for a touchdown. The last score came when Steidger went off tackle after Jacoby had fumbled on the Amarillo 45-yard line as he returned the kickoff. Peterson kicked goal.

Come Back Strong
The Bulldogs came back strong in the third quarter and carried the ball to the Amarillo 3-yard line and failed to push it over, though, and Amarillo kicked out on the Sandy 45. Britt went through tackle to the three yard-line, and after he had hit the line three times, Anderson carried it over for a touchdown and kicked goal.

Amarillo fumbled and Britt recovered on the Amarillo 30 yard line. Anderson passed to Peyton on the five-yard line and then heaved another to Peyton in the end zone for the second score. Anderson kicked goal.

Ranger started a passing attack that threatened but did not score when Amarillo intercepted an aerial and played defensive football.

DRINKING WINE URGED FOR GERMANY

H. A. PETERS
Staff Correspondent

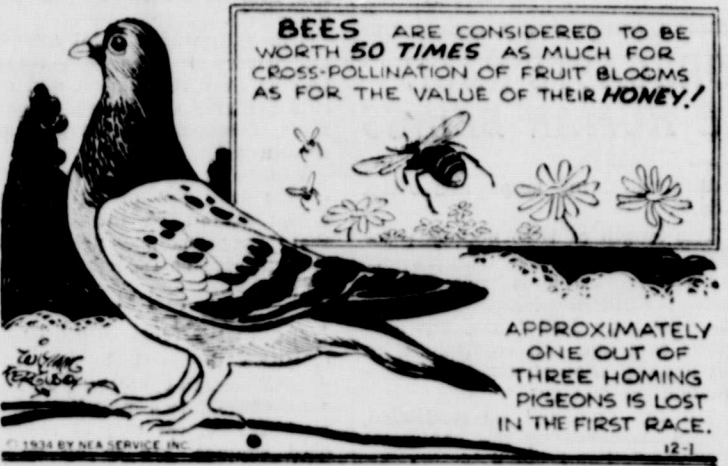

Dec. 8 — Germans are to drink up the 1933 vintage as quickly as possible in 1934. The new crop, however, is not expected to be as good as the 1933 crop. Housewives are urged to be patient if they occasionally return home a bit tipsy from this task. The wine industry is but one of the many that are suffering from the drought which has afflicted the country since the spring of 1933. The wine industry is one of the few that are still producing. Tomorrow's Menu
BREAKFAST: Stewed dried apricots, cereal, cream, crisp broiled bacon, cornmeal gems, milk, coffee.
LUNCHEON: Russian soup, toast sticks, rice soufflé, milk, tea.
DINNER: Beef and oyster pie, steamed squash, jellied cabbage salad, orange delight, milk, coffee.

Orange Delight
One and one-third cups sweetened condensed milk, 3 tablespoons lemon juice, 3-4 cup diced orange pulp and juice, 1 cup cookie crumbs (vanilla or chocolate cookies should be used).
Add lemon juice and orange pulp and juice to milk and stir until mixture thickens. Put a layer of crumbs in basket and cover with a layer of creamy mixture. Continue layer for layer until the basket is filled. Garnish top with orange sections, freed from membrane and chill thoroughly before serving.

How to Candy Baskets
After these baskets are made they may be used just as they are or they may be candied and filled with marmalade or Christmas candies—a fine gift from you to a friend.
To candy orange baskets, put them in cold salted water to cover, using 1 teaspoon salt to 1 cup water. Bring slowly to the boiling point and simmer half an hour. Drain and simmer in heavy syrup until transparent. Drain from syrup and roll in granulated sugar. Line with waxed paper and fill with rice. Let stand until cold and firm. As the handle cools shape it gently.
An easy filling for the uncandied basket is orange delight, with sweetened condensed milk instead

TEXAS FARMERS MORE HOPEFUL THAN YEAR AGO SAYS BANKER

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8 — Farmers in Texas are more optimistic than they were a year ago in spite of the serious damage done by the drought. A. C. Williams, president of the Houston Federal Land Bank, told a conference of the 12 Federal land bank presidents here today.

"Considering the severity of the drought in Texas, the collections of maturing instalments on Federal land bank and Land Bank Commissioner's loans have been good this fall," President Williams said. "Borrowers have appreciated their loans from the Federal land bank and the Land Bank Commissioner and are cooperating by prompt payment."

"In spite of the drought there is a very good demand for farms and our sales of farms will exceed sales during 1933," Mr. Williams reported. "We are anticipating a continued rise in the prices of good farms for some time to come," he continued.

"The cotton crop in Texas was only about one half of normal this year because of the drought and was considerably below the allotment under the Bankhead Bill. Higher prices and benefit payments, however, have partially made up for the short crop. Cattle numbers in the livestock sections of Texas have decreased materially as a result of the drought and sales to the government. A rise in the price of livestock is expected when the effect of the shortage in breeding herds begins to be felt," President Williams stated in discussing agricultural conditions in the tenth Federal land bank district.

"Although there was a slight seasonal rise in the number of applications received for loans by the Houston Federal Land Bank during the early fall a decline occurred during November when about 1300 applications were received, compared to 3500 during November 1933. This would indicate that the number of farmers needing to be refinanced is declining and the bank is returning to a more normal period of operation," President Williams said.

Two New Bridges To Be Open Dec. 15.
DEL RIO, Dec. 8 — The two new bridges over San Felipe creek, made necessary by re-routing highway No. 3, will be opened for traffic about December 15, it was said here.

Work was started on August 27. Total cost of the structure will be about $35,000.

CENTENNIAL IS MADE SURE BY MILLION CLUB

DALLAS, Dec. 8.—Support for the Texas Centennial celebrations of 1936 to be held by numerous cities of the state possessing shrines of Texas liberty or otherwise associated with the glorious history of the state, is being assured in every section of the state by means of the Texas Million Centennial club.

Local units of the organization are being organized in every county in Texas through cooperation of the Texas Federation of Women's Clubs and other organizations and societies interested in assuring that proper recognition is accorded the commemoration of the hundredth anniversary of the achievement of the state's independence.

Membership blanks are being circulated from the Panhandle to the lower Rio Grande Valley and from Texarkana to El Paso by volunteer workers, whose sole ambition is that the Centennial as a project both patriotic and progressive be kept intact. To become a member, there is entailed no financial contribution, promise or obligation, but merely a pledge to endeavor to further the Texas Centennial celebrations plans.

Heading the membership drive for the Texas Million Centennial club is Mrs. Volney W. Taylor, of Brownsville, head of the Texas Federation of Women's Clubs and an active worker for the Centennial cause.

Berlin Theaters Produce Classical Plays, Not Nazi Political Propaganda

By PAUL KECSKEMETI

BERLIN, Dec. 8.—The Berlin theater is marked by Nazism to a much lesser degree than either the radio or press.

Berlin's many theatres are playing again, but most of them produce classics or revive successful plays by modern authors. Contemporary drama, so it seems, will be in the background this winter.

The reason is clear. Serious new plays can be produced only if they have a distinctly Nazi outlook. The public interested in such plays background this winter.

The Hitlerites admit that "The last theatrical season," Dr.

Clemens Saueremann, a Nazi theatrical authority, recently wrote in the party's theater organ, "failed to fulfill expectations. Despite the rich supply of good and useful plays, public interest gave out. We had to revert from political plays to musical comedies and farces, if we did not want to risk financial ruin."

In the season beginning now, the situation seems to be the same.

Classic Play
The state's theater plays a classic, Heinrich von Kleist's "Herrmannschlacht," a play written about 130 years ago amidst the turmoil of the Napoleonic wars. Kleist's nationalistic inspiration already turned to the old Teutons in order to stimulate his countrymen's resistance against the victorious French; as the Nazis follow the same method. Kleist appeals to them greatly. The state theater's production, incidentally, is a success.

The greatest success at present, however, is a revival of Shaw's "Saint Joan" at the Deutsches Theater. The success is largely due to the fine performance of the heroine, Paula Wessely, who is Berlin's most popular actress for the time being.

There are not many remarkable personalities left on the German stage after the Nazi purge of Jew and Marxists. Kottner, Bassermann, Elizabeth Bergner are gone. Paul Wegner has also withdrawn so did Werner Krauss and Rudolf Forster at least for the time being.

Stage Favorites
Berlin's most characteristic stage figure at present, besides Paula Wessely, is Gustaf Grundgens, the head of the Prussian State theater. Grundgens' acting is completely devoid of sentimentality. He is clear-cut sharp and angular. His specialty are cold, glib crooks. In his best roles, he is demonic; he is never dull.

As to stage managers, Berlin has lost the head of the older, impressionistic school, Max Reinhardt, as well as the boldest innovator seeking a new, "mechanized" stage style, Erwin Piscator. Outstanding stage managers who remained in Berlin include Jurgen Fehling and Heinz Hilpert.

LIGHTS BURNED 26 YEARS
FORT WORTH, Dec. 8.—An electric light bulb has burned continuously for 26 years in the hallway between the stage and dressing rooms at the Palace theater here. The bulb has never been turned off and the only times it ceased to shine was when the city power was turned off.

BABY SPECIALIST FORECASTS RACE OF IMMENSE HUMAN BEINGS

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Dec. 8.—A race of physical and mental giants will be descended from the present generation, Dr. Russell Hippensteel, baby specialist, predicted here.

The isolation of vitamins in foods, the knowledge of their action in prevention of disease and the general building up of health is the most outstanding development in the care of modern babies he pointed out.

"Though it will take more than a few generations to produce, future men and women will have better general health, finer teeth and will be free from social degenerative diseases," said Dr. Hippensteel.

"This advancement will be the direct result of improved methods of obstetricians and pediatricians," he added.

Dr. Hippensteel's prediction was substantiated by Dr. A. M. Mendenhall, also a baby specialist, who said that while it will take years for the improvement in the human race to show in the general population, there is no doubt that the future will bring larger and better adults.

The length of time necessary for the improvement is difficult to predict because it is not known what percentage of babies are getting not only proper food but adequate care and correct vitamins in satisfactory proportions, Dr. Mendenhall pointed out.

"In my opinion," he continued, "there are relatively few babies receiving all that is available in proper baby care."

Merchant Kept Busy By Practical Joker

BOSTON, Dec. 8.—Samuel Med. war, storekeeper, found life complicated the other evening.

First the NRA office called and demanded a report of his working two unlicensed taxis appeared at his store, and an undertaker paid a visit.

It was learned that it was the work of a practical joker.

HOOKS AND SLIDES

NEW YORK.—Runners and their more glamorous game may rapidly be driving trotters and pacers from American tracks, but the picturesque pastime of "grand pappy's day" still is all the rage in a dozen European countries.

We are reminded of this by the international aspect of the 40th Old Glory Auction, to be conducted at Squadron A Armory here on Nov. 27, 28, and 29.

The history of the Old Glory sale of harness horses, launched in New York in 1894 and never missing a year, shows that within recent years the threat of foreigners sailing away with our best yearlings and veterans, as well, is steadily increasing.

Already this year such as Alameda, Prince Hall, Una Signal, Brown Berry, Laurel Hall, and Day Star have been shipped to the other side.

This fall, with several top-ranking buyers from abroad already looking over the market and each ship bringing a new expeditionary force, defenses are being hastily thrown up.

Yankee owners from every corner of the land are planning a concerted assault on the Old Glory that Europeans may not purchase the choicest of the standard bred crop.

Expect Old-Time Bidding
THREE hundred horses, rated well enough collectively to maintain Old Glory's position as the world's foremost sale of standard bred equines, are to go on the block Thanksgiving week. Among the young and old, good and not so good, will be youngsters that are to be champions and tried and true racers of the Grand Circuit and minor loops.
