Seek Identity Of Cheese 'Bug'

VANCOUVER, B. C., Jan. 11 — The identity of the bacteria that makes cheese taste and smell like cheese is being sought by researchers working at the University of British Columbia... The department of dairying... experiments are being conducted under the supervision of Dr. By the Eagles, who believes that discovery of the responsible bacteria would revolutionize the whole dairying industry... "Cheese making will be a science, not a mystery handed down from father to son," he states. "As it is, you start to make cheese exactly the same way you have made it a thousand years; you may get good cheese, you may get bad cheese... We are trying to isolate the responsible bacteria. Then you can say to the farmer, 'If you have this fellow (or perhaps it will be this one and that bug working together) and put them into your milk, and do thus and so with it you will get good cheese.'"

President's Social Legislation Announced

FOUR POINTS IN SECURITY PLAN LISTED

By LYLE A. BROOKOVER, United Press Staff Correspondent (Copyright 1935 by United Press)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12 — President Roosevelt's sweeping social legislation plan, contemplated security for the wage earner, independence for the aged, and health insurance for needy and children, the United Press learned today.

The plan was revealed in the report of subcommittee of experts to the cabinet committee and goes to the White House where the president will bundle all the plans into a message to congress next week.

The security program, as worked out by the subcommittee and which the cabinet group and the president are expected to adopt in its main points, provides:

Provisions

- 1—Old age pensions of $50 a month for needy persons over 65.
- 2—Employment insurance to which labor would contribute 1 per cent of wage and industry 3 per cent of payroll.
- 3—A health insurance plan which would give free medical attention by private physicians, to those on work relief.
- 4—Extension of present work to protect child health.

In some quarters it appeared that the $50 a month recommended for old age pension will be cut below

FEDERAL OIL BODY STARTS PROBE WORK

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12 — The special committee named by Oil Administrator Harold Ickes to investigate conditions in the petroleum industry under operation of the federal pool, went to work today, just 24 hours after the appointment was made.

Paul Blazer, chairman, Ashland, Ky., said the group is asking operators "who feel they have been penalized by the code to file statements of their grievances at once."

"We expect to make a survey of the industry in about three weeks, operating from headquarters here," Blazer said.

The committee was instructed to investigate complaints that the oil code and section 9-C of the NIRA, held unconstitutional by the U. S. court, was unfair to producers.

The committee's report is expected to aid the administration in drafting new production control measures.

TEXAS COACH SPEAKER FOR LOBO BANQUET

Jack Chevigny, coaching sensation with the University of Texas, Longhorns last season and former All-American for Notre Dame, will be the principal speaker at the Lobo banquet here Saturday by O. J. Russell, member of the school board and of the banquet committee.

The banquet, sponsored jointly by the Lions and the Rotary clubs, will be at the Laguna hotel banquet room Thursday evening, Jan. 24, Russell announced. It has been set for 7:15.

The rest of the program will consist of musical and dance numbers, he said.

Charles Sandler and Jack Anderson of the Lions club and O. J. Russell and Ocie Leverage of the Rotary club form the banquet committee.

It was uncertain yesterday whether letters will be presented at the banquet, due to a new ruling of the school board and athletic council which requires an athlete to make passing grades for the entire term in which he participates in a sport in order to win a letter. Also, sport in order to win a letter, although final examinations will be completed, it was not known whether grades would be available at that time.

Swastikas Show "Tommy's" Sympathy of Saar

When the main body of British troops assigned to assist in the international army to police the Saar basin during the plebiscite on January 13 marched into Saarbrücken, the Hitlerite leanings of the area's capital was immediately apparent to all. The Tommies are pictured above marching down the main street of the city amid a profuse display of Nazi swastika flags.

Nazis Take Jews' Vote Cards

(Copyright, 1935, by United Press)

SAARBRÜCKEN, The Saar, Jan. 12. — Nazis are confiscating plebiscite voting cards of Jews in the Saar, leaders of the Anti-Nazi United Front complained to the League of Nations governing commission today.

Members of the Nazi German Front, the Anti-Nazis said, are going among Jews and asking them how they intend to vote in tomorrow's plebiscite, which will settle the future of the Saar.

The Jews, Anti-Nazis said, invariably replied that they would vote for return of the territory to Germany, and then the Nazis asked them to hand over their voting cards, thus depriving them of the possibility of voting.

BERUS, Saar Territory, Jan. 12. — On a green-swarth, strategic peak above the gleaming river Saar where it winds between France and this islet of the former German Empire a strange tower has been erected by stealth.

It is a Gothic tower built by humble hands of Saarland laborers as a monument to something they hold dear. In its tower is a light which does not burn; no flag flies from its flagstaff.

This is the "Hindenburg Tower" of the Saar, a replica of the "Turm" where the great field-marshal lies in eternal rest in his homeland, the cares of the vanquished warrior banished from his brow.

It will fly its flag—the German Reich's Black, White and Red flag—only when the Nazis say the news of the country's freedom from Versailles electrifies the Saar.

Taunt to Metz

Bright will blaze its light to shine just fifty kilometers away — as far, Saarlanders proudly tell you, as the French—but once German—fortress of Metz. The militarists of France will thus know that the Saar is officially German again and that, say the Nazis, France can keep her eyes off the Berus mount as a military vantage point.

Berus is one of the beauty spots which contrast with the black areas

GRAND JURY TO PROBE SLAYING IN BONES CASE

EASTLAND, Jan. 12 — Consideration of the McBee slaying at Rising Star likely will occupy the attention of the 91st District grand jury when it reconvenes Wednesday as announced Saturday by District Attorney Grady Owen.

The McBee slaying occupied the attention of the grand jury most of the latter part of the week, the district attorney said. Three persons have been charged with murder in connection with the death of H. L. McBee, whose skeleton was found dangling from a tree near Rising Star shortly before Christmas.

The grand jury, reporting late Friday afternoon, returned nine true bills. None were no-billed, it was announced. Only two of the indictments were made public.

Jimmy Curtis was indicted in an alleged assault upon Jim George, Eastland cafe operator. The trouble was said to have taken place at the cafe last Tuesday night. Curtis was charged with hitting George with a heavy instrument.

Hallie Hartin was charged with attempted theft by bailer in an attempted theft of an automobile from the T. J. Moore automobile company of Ranger this week.

AFL Says Way Clear For Slow Recovery

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12 — The American Federation of Labor, in its annual review, today reported the nation moved gradually forward toward economic recovery in 1934.

The review said the groundwork is now laid for gradual recovery. Unemployment increased by 429,000, the report said. It added President Roosevelt's proposed $4,000,000,000 works program offers the only hope of new jobs in 1935.

On the debit side of the country, the review listed decreased farm production and 11,000,000 unemployed.

STATE TRACES RANSOM BILLS TO CARPENTER

TRENTON, N. J., Jan. 12 — Defense counsel said today they would investigate reports that a "double" for Bruno Hauptmann, charged with murder of the Lindbergh baby, had been found and might be able to refute prosecution testimony that Hauptmann was seen near the Lindbergh home on the day of the crime.

(Copyright 1935 by United Press)

FLEMINGTON, N. J., Jan. 12 — New Jersey will trace a total of $49,600 to Bruno Richard Hauptmann and prove that it is all but $400 of the $50,000 Col. Charles A. Lindbergh paid to ransom a baby already dead, prosecution attorneys said today.

This staggering blow against the German carpenter charged with kidnaping and murdering the baby was planned even while the state marshalled a group of experts were to testify that each and every copy of the ransom letters sent to Col. Lindbergh and his intermediary, Dr. John Condon, were written by the same man.

Hauptmann's trial was delayed over the week-end, while defense attorneys hastily checked off their evidence and witnesses, dismayed at the unexpectedly strong case presented by the state. Although Condon maintained an exterior air of confidence, it was known that the week had been one of surprises and disappointments.

COLD WAVE TO HIT TEXAS ON SUNDAY NIGHT

By United Press

A cold wave, bringing temperatures of far below freezing to north Texas and extending considerably south of Dallas will strike Texas Sunday, according to the weather bureau report.

Freezing weather will arrive at the northwest part of the state tonight and by Sunday night will be extended over the north portion of the state, Dr. Joseph Cline, U. S. meteorologist at Dallas, said.

In the panhandle the temperature is expected to drop to between 10 and 18 degrees.

There is a low pressure area over Colorado, Dr. Cline said, and a high pressure area over the Canadian border and the Dakotas.

The low pressure area is moving eastward from Colorado and is bringing the cold wave with it.

THOUSANDS IN RELIEF MARCH AGAINST PARIS

PARIS, Jan. 12 — Thousands of unemployed demonstrators clashed with police in the suburbs, while other thousands met inside the city to demand relief measures. More than a score were injured in the fighting and half a hundred were arrested.

Unemployed marchers who came through a snowstorm and bitter cold from northern France, joined in half a dozen suburbs where strong police forces used night sticks freely to prevent the crowd from entering the city.

Police also guarded three halls in Paris where a total of about 11,000 unemployed met.

14 Are Arrested In Malaria-Hypo Drive

CHICAGO, Jan. 12 — Fourteen persons were arrested by the narcotic squad today as an intensive drive was begun to prevent spread of malaria through hypodermic needles.

Four malaria cases that brought death last week have been attributed this source.

Texas Ranger Camp Named Nearby City

By United Press

A camp of Texas Rangers, located about two miles from the present townsite, gave the town of Ranger its name.

When the railroad was built through about 1875, the tent city moved to its present location. Lumber and building material were sent over the railroad, and soon the first buildings were erected.

The town remained unincorporated, however, for many years. In 1917 the first oil well in the district was brought in and the town experienced a sudden growth.

A charter was granted the town in 1919 and since the Ranger has become a thriving city.

LEACH TELLS WHY BAND AID IS NECESSARY

W. J. Leach, chairman of the committee appointed by the city commission to have definite charge of all matters pertaining to the high school band, gives an interview regarding the committee's activities since its appointment.

The committee, as appointed by the city commission consists of W. J. Leach, chairman, Homer Slicker and J. D. Lauderdale. The statement of Mr. Leach follows:

"I noticed the editorial in Thursday's Daily News and the weekly American and Roundup, regarding the destitute condition of the band funds to having any money with which to take trips or to finance itself for music, repairs, or other incidentals.

"It is my opinion, and I think the opinion of other members of the committee, that there should, by all means, be some definite way of providing funds necessary to enable the band to carry on.

"There is no gain saying the fact that we do have an exceptionally fine band and efficient bandmaster. The fact that they have captured and retained the trophy cup proves that, aside from the many complimentary newspaper notices that

SPENCER SAYS OUTLOOK FOR ROAD BRIGHT

Secretary J. E. Spencer of the Cisco Chamber of Commerce today was optimistic over Cisco's chance to get federal money for a highway relocation through the city.

Returning from Abilene where he talked with Judge Ely of the highway commission, he said that the commission apparently was favorable toward the project, which will be recommended by the engineering department, following a meeting here last week.

"He said he believed, although the job would cost considerably more than was at first believed—some $85,000 or $90,000—the funds would be available."

At the same time, he pointed out, some of the business men of the city are fighting the project. "I believe, though," he said, "that most of them are in favor of it. I hope we will take the money that would be spent somewhere, while it is available."

Pardoned Convict Jailed in Holdup

HOUSTON, Jan. 12 — F. Gresham, 27, pardoned three days ago, today was back in jail on a charge of attempted robbery by firearms and carrying a pistol.

C. A. Davis, taxi driver, said Gresham threatened him with a pistol when he told Gresham the taxi bill was $9.

Davis, who had taken the keys from his taxi when Gresham threatened to steal it, ran to a drug store and called officers, who arrested Gresham.

FIRST PERSON TO MAKE SOLO PACIFIC HOP

OAKLAND AIRPORT, Oakland, Cal., Jan. 12—Amelia Earhart landed here at 1:30 p. m. (PST) Saturday, completing the first solo flight from the Hawaiian Islands to the mainland of North America.

Her time was 18 hours and 17 minutes, three hours and 16 minutes slower than Sir Charles Kingsford-Smith's record two months ago.

Miss Earhart put her trim monoplane down on California soil an hour after she had informed the department of commerce radio station here that she was in sight of the coast and thought she was about 80 miles south of her goal.

The slender, blue-eyed woman was the first flier of all time to span the Pacific alone and first also to have completed long flights over both the Atlantic and Pacific oceans.

"Everything Okeh" Periodically Miss Earhart had reported by radio. "Everything Okeh" but had refused repeated queries as to her whereabouts.

The sun was bright overhead. A wind from the north and west lapped at the tail of her ship during the flight, speeding it along. As she neared the coast, wisps of fog shrouded her view of the ocean surface above which she had been flying since 9:15 p. m. Friday.

The weather couldn't have been better, aviation men said as the famed aviatrix roared down the last arc of the bright circle she had followed for the 2,400 miles from Honolulu.

As her calm voice, apparently unweary by hours in the air, told of fighting her first fog, excitement broke out among the great crowd gathered at the Oakland airport, her prospective destination.

TERRACE PLAN AS PROJECT OF CISCO URGED

Asserting that Cisco's future depends fundamentally upon agricultural development, J. M. Bird, agriculture secretary of the Chamber of Commerce Saturday opened a drive for more terracing to conserve the land for future prosperity.

"We are going to have to come back to the idea that we get our wealth from the soil," he said. "Oil although it helps, is a secondary means of livelihood. We are going to have to have the land."

He advanced the theory that if the Cisco Boosters or some such organization of business men could take as a project the more-terracing campaign, a great deal of good would be accomplished.

"If each man would get one farmer to have his land terraced, we would save a lot of farms around here, and would have a better agricultural situation, both as to present yields and as to the future."

As the same time, he pointed out, such a project would bring about better relations between the business men and the farmers in this area.

"I'd like to have each man in the organization go out to some farm and get the farmer to have the terracing done. This would give the business man a better understanding of the situation, and would promote a better feeling between him and the farmer."

"Since last Sept. 15, the Future Farmers chapters have run more than 50 miles of terrace lines. These terraces have built and are saving the land."

DOG IS FIRE ALARM CANYONVILLE, Ore., Jan. 12 — While G. C. Wolfe was visiting neighbors, his house caught fire. His dog leaped through a window of the burning structure, ran to the neighbor's home, and led them back to the blaze.

Ice Age Predicted For United States
PITTSBURGH, Jan. 12 — There will be every reason to button up your overcoat if you live 20,000 years to see Dr. Max Waldemar Kurniker's predictions come true.

"A sudden ice deluge will descend from the north," Kurniker told an audience "New York will be crushed under a mighty glacier. Los Angeles will be an Arctic waste. All civilization will be snuffed out by a mountain of ice encircling the globe."

Kurniker hastened to explain that probably won't happen for a few thousand years, and by that time maybe science can do something about it. He believes however, that we are now entering a new ice age, and that the moon is gradually coming closer to the earth, foreshadowing a catastrophe for earthlings a few million years hence.

Mr. Warren Barnhill and Mr. Chambliss have decided to quit coasting and study awhile, until after finals.

Vera Taylor is having a difficult time conforming to the new dormitory rules. But can she help it if the car gets sick?

Somebody ought to tell A. G. Holmes that it is still January. The poor child has already started going barefooted.

There's no school like experience. So George tried to mix basketball and biology, but Miss King didn't want to play that way.

Ivan Little was completely surrounded by girls Saturday morning. And did he look happy or did he look happy?

Our college is full of ladies and gentlemen. Real ones, too. Because the librarian asked everybody to please leave if they had been talking, without her having to call their names. She said that all of the real ladies and gentlemen would leave without having to be told twice. The library certainly looked lonely when all the ladies and gentlemen had vamoosed. Among those leaving was our sweet little Nellie.

Birtle Doty—the house—rates three girls and then goes and buys cigarettes instead of candy.

Fancis Bar... to Eastland to see a man about a dog.

Edison... and Crawford Knox just can't resist going to town during study periods, and studying in front of a drug store.

Mr. Fat Cochran seems to be worried a lot about his little next door neighbor, Miss Price. Look out Mary Jane.

"Bud" (Bryan Lee Winston) walked in his sleep last night and you should have heard what he said. He was a walking, talking, Romeo.

JOB SURPLUS

LAWRENCE, Mass., Jan. 12 — The ERA job supply here is greater than the demand. Local Administrator Cornelius J. Casey reported he received only 370 applications for 500 jobs.

ALBANY, Ore., Jan. 12 — When county officers arrested Frank Adams for stealing money, it was found he had on seven pairs of pants and five shirts, but no socks or underwear.

"Of course you are. What a host I'm turning out to be! Let's raid the ice box."

"You said it while I enjoy the fire. I'm really dead, Allan. On my feet all day. Of course if you don't think you can manage—"

"Of course I can. I'm a real cook." He stood looking down at her. He touched her hair, tentatively, caressingly.

"You are adorable. Ann, you do fascinate me! It was the only way I knew I've wanted you so. It was like a fever—driving me mad."

"What is there to fascinate?" Ann said early. "Will you make coffee, Allan? Make it strong."

"What else?"

"Bacon. And I'd like eggs."

"You want breakfast, not supper?"

"You'd never cook two meals." She glanced up at him and met his long, eager look.

He was completely dazzled, she saw. Sober his wife would have been sharper. He would have seen through her change of attitude. In this muddled state he believed only what he wanted to believe—what she was trying desperately to make him believe.

ALLAN stooped, kissing her hair, and then went to the kitchen.

There were three exits. One at the rear. It would be necessary to pass through the kitchen that way. There was a door leading outside toward the sun parlor. It was locked but there would be a key in the lock if Ann were lucky. Sometimes Sonny removed it. He was always removing it. Ann prayed that the key would be there.

She would go into the front of the house, turn on the radio and then unlock the door, putting the key in the lock on the outside. Then she would open the front door, come back step through the side door, lock it and wait. Allan's first thought would be to look about the house. The door to the sun parlor would be locked and he wouldn't suspect her trick. He would dash through the front door, get his car and search for her on the road that led to town. He would know she couldn't be far away. When he didn't find her he would return and she would be here. In the meantime she would have called a taxi. She would insist that the driver write down the directions. She must be sure, sure that he would make no errors.

Ann went to the kitchen door, humming "Stormy Weather."

"Stormy is right," Allan grinned. "The bacon smells good. Supper almost ready?"

"Almost."

Ann started toward the front of the house. "Allan, isn't Hebbie Wilton broadcasting from the Peacock tonight?"

"Gosh, Ann," he muttered. "I don't keep up with jazz programs."

"You miss something," Ann called lightly from the living room. She turned on the radio. In a moment more there was a blast of sound.

"It's murderous. Turn the darn thing low."

"All right. I don't think this is his program. "She was twirling the dial, one program merging into another."

"I have it now. Doesn't that sound swell?"

Under the steady flow of melody Ann crossed to the sun parlor and pulled aside the curtain at the French doors.

The key was in the lock.

MODERN ELECTRIC COOKERY

SAFE . . . SURE . . . AUTOMATIC

Modern Electric Cookery is safe because there are no flames, fumes, smoke or odors to endanger ones health. These facts also do away with the drudgery of scouring pots and pans, as the flameless heat of electric cookery is clean.

Electric cookery produces consistently better results with less time and effort. It retains the precious vitamins of food, as they are not boiled away or poured down the sink.

The automatic features of electric cookery releases time for other duties or leisure. You can prepare an entire meal, place it on the range, and leave it entirely. This one feature alone makes your investment in an electric range pay you dividends in time and energy.

Terracing for Better Cisco Farms

Back in 1908, approximately 75 per cent of the land around Cisco was planted in cotton. That year Eastland county produced 54,000 bales. In 1934, with far less of the land devoted to the raising of cotton, the county quota was set at 2,300, but the quota was not reached. There is a reason. Listen to J. M. Bird, agriculture secretary of the Cisco Chamber of Commerce.

"Our land has washed away; it has blown away; and we've one-cropped it to death."

Understand, this is not a wall for the "good old days" when the county produced 54,000 bales cotton. Far from it. Cotton was only taken as an example because it is the big money crop of the entire south.

But there are three reasons, as Mr. Bird has indicated, why the land does not yield as much of any crop as it might. As he has said, they are erosion by water, erosion by wind, and lack of proper crop rotation.

The three faults could be corrected, and are being corrected to some extent. Of course the third one can be corrected by a change from the one crop to a rotated crop planting system.

The other two faults can be treated, to a great extent, as a single one. The first step for both is terracing of land.

Returning after a long absence, an old timer of this part of the country would look sadly upon the many ravines and gulches that cut up what was once a great, smooth agricultural area. He would have reason to be sad, for those gulches could have been prevented.

Once a streamlet cuts a tiny path through the land, that land is doomed unless some step is taken to prevent the streamlet from widening into a great ditch. Terracing is what will prevent this. It reshapes the land so that the water running to lower ground cannot get a grip on the land to cut a pathway through it.

Some of the farmers about Cisco have already done much to improve their land as far as water and wind erosion is concerned. Since September 15, Mr. Bird and his chapters of Future Farmers have run more than 50 miles of terracing lines. The terraces have been built by the farmers, the county road machine, or the Texas road machine won by the chapter.

Many more farmers could improve their land if they would avail themselves of the terracing service. They could prevent the great ditches that will otherwise mark their farms, get a richer yield from their crops, and have something in the way of land to pass on to their children when they themselves have plowed their last furrow.

Where Does Your Tax Money Go?

No group bears so heavy a burden of class taxation as do motorists.

In 1933, for example, refineries produced gasoline valued at $759,000,000. The federal government taxed this gas $181,000,000. The states taxed it $519,000,000, or a total of $700,000,000. As a result, the gasoline tax actually amounts to almost 100 per cent of the value of the product!

This situation, as the San Antonio Express recently said, would be bad enough if all gas-tax money were spent for building and maintaining roads. The motorist would be at least getting something for his money. But a constantly rising number of states are coming to regard the gas tax as an inexhaustible source of revenue for all governmental purposes. They divert gas tax funds to pay for schools, for unemployment relief, for harbor-maintenance, for oyster propagation and for a long list of similar undertakings, none of which directly benefit the average motorist. It seems perfectly obvious that such undertakings should be paid for out of the general taxes, provided by all the taxpayers, and not by added taxes on that group of citizens which owns and operates motor cars.

It is an encouraging sign that aggressive opposition is developing in all parts of the country against the diversion of gas tax money from use on roads. Road work was the reason for the tax being inaugurated in the first place and motorists accepted it without objection. But now every motorist has a thoroughly justified complaint against his gas tax money being used for projects unrelated to road development—and every motorist should enthusiastically join in the movement to bring gas tax diversion to a halt.

Hurrying to Arrive on Time

AN AUTOMOBILE FATALITY IN THE U.S. EVERY FIFTEEN MINUTES

UNDER THE DOME AT AUSTIN

By GORDON K. SHEARER
United Press Staff Correspondent
AUSTIN, Jan. 12 — Shock troops alone could have held the doors of the house of representatives when the opening session of the Texas legislature recessed.

Hundreds of job-hunters packed in the capitol corridors made a rush as the gavel sounded. The members of the house and the speaker were there. Old members got out through a back stairway which opens onto a west corridor of the house of representatives. New members, knowing only the main exit, were caught.

Senators two years ago had private offices equipped at the rear of the senate chamber. They can take refuge in them from the position hunters.

The name of President Franklin D. Roosevelt is still an asset in legislative debate. It's a sure-fire applause winner. Rep. Sarah Hughes of Dallas won applause with it in recording the nomination of R. W. Calvert for speaker though the speaker's opponent by 12 votes majority Governor-elect James V. Allred got credit from a White House conference with the president on housing and rehabilitation. Governor Miriam A. Ferguson in her message mentioned that the president had communicated with her on the topic before Allred went to Washington.

Rep. Franklin J. Spears of San Antonio is the House's new orator. He made the most effective of the nominating and seconding speeches in the speaker's race. None of them probably affected a single vote, but his was most entertaining. The audience got the biggest laugh out of the Calvert supporter who said that long whiskers used to be a statesmanlike attribute but that the day of smooth cheeked youth has arrived.

Mrs. Louise Snow Phinney, re-elected chief clerk of the House of representatives, is beginning her fifth term in that important post. She was assistant chief clerk in the 39th Texas legislature before becoming chief clerk when Carl Phinney resigned to become secretary to Governor Dan Moody. Later she and Phinney married.

Those who heard members of the house of representatives take the oath of office will not wonder that cheer wording gets into acts. Instead of picking between "swear" and "affirm," they repeated parrot-fashion after Reading Clerk A. C. Dunn: "I solemnly swear or affirm."

To those who are superstitious, the absence of Rep. Augustine Celaya, of Brownsville at the opening session is a good omen. With Celaya present, Coke Stevenson would have been re-elected by a majority of 13. Instead he has the same 12-vote majority that he received when elected Speaker of the preceding session.

Frank Putnam, former Houston newspaper man and candidate for the democratic nomination for governor, complains that he has been unable to break into the republican party to which he recently turned. He advises capitol dome. "Some time ago you wrote a paragraph covering the fact that I had joined the republican party. I write now to explain that this fact I have been unable to establish contact with that party, which in Texas appears to possess more the quality of an office holders' private club than a free political association."

He announces further that "having taken up arms against the Democratic party," he will carry on alone if need be. He launched his first attack on Sen. T. J. Holbrook's proposed two per cent sales tax to retire bonds. It should carry with it a provision exempting $3,000 of homesteaded property from all tax, both state and local. Putnam said: "If the people can't get the homestead exemption through the democratic party he predicts the need of a strong opposition party will be apparent and will bring it into being."

Speaker Coke R. Stevenson chose a section of the state constitution for applicants for assistant reading clerk to read to the house before the balloting on that office. It was the section that declares the executive, legislative and judicial departments shall be kept separate. Pressure to defeat Stevenson as unsympathetic to the incoming governor's program was thus recalled.

Job-forgotten Rains county still was jobless after the election of the reading clerk. A plea had been made to name Will A. Harris of Emory because Rains county has no representative in state departments. Harris nosed out radio announcer Frank Hester of Giddings 18 to 17 to get in a run-off with Sam Hanna of Dallas. Hanna, despite a sore throat was elected 89 to 42. Defeated candidates include William Flat of Cleburne, J. L. Micham of March-Isom, Joe Eganizer of Liberty county and Prentice Ball of Fort Worth.

Long Training Tour Seen for Phillies

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 12 — The Phillies — Philadelphia's representatives of the National League — will open their spring training this year on March 5 at Winter Haven, Fla. President Gerald P. Nugent announced.

This will give the Phils just one week to get the winter kinks out of their arms and legs before starting a 19-game spring exhibition tour. The first game will be with the champion St. Louis Cardinals at Bradentown, March 12.

Following their last contest on April 4 with Montreal at Winter Haven, the Phils will return here April 6 for the opening of the city seas with the Athletics, of the American League.

Chicago Opera Gets Lowbrow Patrons

CHICAGO, Jan. 12 — So-called "low-brows" outnumbered operating "highbrows" at Chicago's civic opera this season, according to George W. Rossiter, president of the company.

Top hats and white shirt fronts were seen only in the boxes or "down front," as the man and woman of moderate circumstances stormed the box office. "The reason? It's purely financial," Rossiter said. "Seats which formerly remained empty in the top-price rows, now are jammed by music lovers of less pretentious means, who pay a price opera managers usually class as in the 'cheap' bracket."

Texas Topics

By RAYMOND BROOKS

AUSTIN, Jan. 12 — Sen. John S. Redditt of Lufkin, new chairman of the senate finance committee has announced the purpose of studying state salaries with a view of re-adjustments which will bring up some of the rates of the rates of pay and he said likely reduce some individuals. "I shall try to work a schedule of salaries based on the responsibility of the various jobs," he said. Sen. Redditt was not prepared to say whether any general flat rate revision of eliminating any part of the 25 per cent cuts of two years ago will be undertaken, but the plan of readjusting salaries he said, will be followed regardless of the base rates.

Rep. Charles H. Tenyson of Wichita Falls has prepared for re-introduction his famous bill that got changed in copying from "not more than" to "not less than" 10 per cent return for utilities. It will have this essential difference this time. It will propose to limit the return to 6 per cent. "It's going to have some tough sledding," Rep. Tenyson predicted. "But I'm going to push it as far as possible and send it to a vote."

Senators appointed to serve on a joint committee to canvass the vote for governor and lieutenant governor, and to conduct the inaugural ceremonies of James V. Allred and Walter F. Woodul's installation next Tuesday include: Senators John W. Hornsby of Austin; Ben G. Oneal of Wichita Falls; K. M. Regan of Pecos; Frank Rawlins of Fort Worth, and Tom DeBerry of Bogata.

Col. Alvin M. Owsley of Dallas, U. S. minister to Rumania, who is back home in Texas now, has been invited by resolution already adopted in the senate and sent to the house for adoption to, address a joint session of the legislature, Friday morning Jan. 11.

Col. Owsley is a former national commander of the American Legion. He was a campaign speaker for Gov. Miriam A. Ferguson two years ago.

Did You Ever Stop To Think

By Edson R. Waite

Every business concern profits in dollars through increased prestige of the home city.

A lot of people who are not interested enough in good government to vote should soft-pedal some of their opinions.

A business that has faith in itself advertises and wins the faith of the public.

Taxation is the process of taking a dollar from somebody to whom it belongs rightfully and using it for the benefit of the people collectively—it matters not in the taking if it is somebody's last dollar. "Sold for taxes" is a common phrase.

No matter how worthy a cause the live business men of your city are promoting or the results obtained, you will always find a bunch of fault-finders ready to use their hammers.

Honesty merely because it is the best policy is a species of dishonesty.

Advertising is profitable for a community or state as well as for an individual or private corporation.

Square pegs will not fit in round holes. It is true, but square peg can be made round and find themselves fitted very nicely—often in a shorter time than they could have found a square hole—and a more comfortable and lasting fit.

A wise man in India says that intelligence is inherited and knowledge is acquired. We wonder!

Behind the Scenes in Washington

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
NBA service staff correspondent
WASHINGTON—The good old Christmas spirit still flames in the hearts of the du Ponts—even for the Senate Munitions Committee, which has taken them for rather a hard ride.

The du Pont brothers, makers of munitions, didn't quite come to singing carols under the windows of Senator Nye and his colleagues on the committee. But they did send gifts. And greetings.

Members received copies of a book on Russia which tends to indicate that the nation Lenin made is largely a land of cockroaches and bad of no plumbing. The author objects to the odor of the Russian peasants.

And with it a pleasant note from Irene du Pont herself, indicating that the du Ponts are out to save senatorial souls from the evil principle of Communism and especially from horrible belief in government ownership of the munitions industry.

It isn't the first time the du Ponts have hinted there was Communism in the investigation.

YOUTH must be served, so the New Deal will soon have a federal office to be known, probably, as the "Youth Section."

It will only be a part of the federal Office of Education, but its creation is a recognition of the "youth movement" which has been increasingly insistent that it be recognized.

President and Mrs. Roosevelt, along with other New Dealers, have been sympathetic. Like so many other things, the new division—it won't be big enough to be called a bureau—will be under Secretary Ickes.

YOUR old friend the consumer who hasn't any too many friends right here in Washington has a new magazine devoted to his interests and distribution of the government. This is a magazine one called "Consumer Notes" and is designed by the Consumer Division of the National Emergency Council for its several score country summer councils.

Remarkably enough, in an administration which has engaged a vast choir of propaganda artists, which is expected to sing a note, the publication doesn't spill an occasional bug.

You can read how the Boston and Portland councils found themselves tangling with local trusts, entrenched in power capacity control clause in the ice code. And how the local summer groups studied and read the code's effects and noted that the regional advisory code authority, whose reports contradicted, were in both found to be principal cause of the local monopoly.

The intimation is that as a result of consumer council efforts, will take action to end competition and reasonable prices in Memphis and Portland.

Consumer Notes also tells other councils are doing so. Making in fabrics, thumbing at the "power trust" for its propaganda methods as recently exposed by the Federal Trade Commission and takes a shot at merchant pains for fewer returned with the assertion that trust of returns to department are due to wrong size or faulty poor merchandise.

Such SAFETY and ENDURANCE at HIGH SPEED

THINK what this means to you. You need the same reserve safety, blowout protection and dependability that Ab Jenkins demanded when he recently smashed 77 World Speed Records on the hot salt desert track at Bonneville, Utah, where temperatures were as high as 120°.

Car owners today travel faster and farther because the modern highway is built for fast driving with its wide roads and gradual turns. High speed driving creates heat in tires that eats the very life out of tire cords unprotected against friction. That is why you need Firestone High Speed Tires.

Firestone Tires proved they have something other tires do not have—an Extra Reserve Margin of Safety—provided by Gum-Dipping—the heat-resisting Extra Process used only in Firestone Tires.

Come in—let us equip your car with a set of new Firestone High Speed Tires—so that you may have this Safety and Blowout Protection.

THE NEW FANGLES (Mom'n Pop)

By COWAN, 'Famed 'Roller Coaster' Highway of Texas To Be Replaced By Modern Level Road

OMAHA, Jan. 11.—Texas' famed "roller coaster" highway, whose dips and turns in following the natural contours of the sand dunes are so steep that they never fail to give motorists a thrill, will soon be a thing of the past.

Contrast for rebuilding the stretch, which extends for seven miles in Ward county, has been set by the state highway department. The roadway is to be turned into a level stretch of highway.

It will be made into a level stretch of highway, that is, if the elements permit. For the sand hills through which the road passes are constantly shifting with every change of the prevailing winds.

When the "roller coaster" road was built in 1817, the first road through that section, natives were skeptical. The first wind storm, they said, would bury the highway under feet of sand.

The engineers on the job replied that by building the highway to follow the natural contours of the dunes, the wind could be made to sweep it clean rather than cover it up.

The first sandstorm that came proved that the engineer was right. When the air cleared after several days, the highway was clean, and polished smooth as marble.

Now the highway commission is building a new road, straight and level, utterly disregarding the century-old threat of the dunes, that have buried Indian camps, fences and everything else that got in their way.

Will the dunes at last submit? Old timers shake their heads. The highway department they say, will have to hire a crew of sand shovellers to keep the new roadway clear.

Canary Has Part In Murder Trial

OMAHA, Neb., Jan. 11.—Back in 1929 John F. Taylor, Omatia bird store employe, sold a canary. Not an unusual event within itself, but the transaction is scheduled to have an airing shortly.

The government learned of the transaction, and Taylor is to be one of the witnesses in the second trial of Major Charles A. Sheppard. The 63-year-old man is docketed to go on trial in Topeka on Jan. 28 on charges of murdering his wife, Zenana, at Fort Riley, Kan., in 1929.

The bird Taylor sold was the gift of Major Sheppard to Grace Brandon, Texas stenographer. The government contended Major Sheppard wanted to marry Miss Brandon, and to gain that end, poisoned his wife.

Sheppard was convicted and sentenced to life imprisonment in 1930. The United States Supreme Court granted him a new trial.

Taylor said he would testify that Sheppard bought the bird a month before Mrs. Sheppard died on June 15, 1929. Sheppard, an army medical officer, was a steady customer at the store when he was on duty at Fort Crook, Neb.

On May 10, 1929, Taylor said he received a letter from Sheppard asking him to select a good canary for Miss Brandon.

"He got it," Taylor said. "It cost about $12 and for that money you can get a beney of a canary."

MONTREAL EXPECTS TENNIS STARS AT INDOOR TOURNEY THIS MONTH

MONTREAL, Jan. 12.—Headed by Sydney B. Wood, youthful veteran of the United States Davis Cup team, a representative international field of amateur tennis players will come here for the Montreal Indoor Tennis Club's annual Canadian covered court singles and doubles championships late this month.

The tourney is expected to be one of the keenest in the history of the event.

Denying reports that this year's championships would be limited to Canadian players, Charles W. Leslie, chairman of the tournament committee, announced that a number of leading United States players would compete, among them members of the first ten in the rankings.

Among those who are expected, in addition to Wood, are Gregory Mangin, of Newark, N. J.; Richard N. "Dick" Williams, former U. S. Davis Cup star; Manuel Alonso, former Spanish Davis Cup player, and William D. "Bill" Aydelotte.

Wood will be one of the favorites to succeed Frank X. Shields, first-ranking United States player, as holder of the Canadian indoor crown. Shields is not expected to defend his title. George M. Lott, Jr., a former champion and frequent contender for the title, will also be among the missing, as he recently became a professional along with Lester Steffen, his doubles partner.

Seeking to regain the championship for the Dominion will be most of the leading players of Eastern Canada. They will include Marcel Rainville, Canadian outdoor champion; M. Laird Watt, Canadian Davis Cup player; Robert D. Murray, Quebec titleholder, and Roland Longtin, high-ranking Quebec player.

The tournament will open Tuesday, Jan. 22, and will conclude with the finals in singles and doubles on Saturday, Jan. 26.

Syrian Girls Go Flapperish In New Freedom

By GEORGE RENTZ United Press Staff Correspondent ALEPPO, (Syria), Jan. 12.—Syrian handmaidens have cut up their veils to make silk panties.

A wave of emancipation has spread down from Istanbul over the Syrian desert and mountains toward Mecca. The efforts of Mustafa Kemal to modernize Turkey and turn it from Oriental to Occidental customs have had a great influence upon native manners and customs throughout the whole of this sphere of former Turkish influence.

The nimble fingers of Syrian telephone operators are bright red from varnished fingernails. The lips with which they ask "Number, please" are now reddened by the magic wand of lipstick. In the few offices of Aleppo bobbed heads nod over fashion sheets as Syrian beauties chew gum.

The whole East is rousing from its sleepy tradition and by a strange coincidence veils are disappearing simultaneously with the sweeping craze for silken underthings. Modest faces that once were hidden by shimmering silk now smile boldly at male customers in the business establishments of the larger cities.

Everywhere is the growing spirit of feminine freedom in evidence. Syrian women are reading books that they wouldn't have dared to glance at a few years ago. French novels and translations of some of America's best sellers are being devoured by the younger girls.

Even feminine conversation is changing. Instead of chatter about sewing and babies, the subjects now range from sophisticated fashions of the western world to political problems, to say nothing of movie actors.

Plenty of Room For Entire Human Race

EUGENE, Ore., Jan. 12.—The earth is a long way from overpopulation yet, according to Dr. Warren D. Smith, professor of geography and geology at the University of Oregon.

Dr. Smith says that science is now able to compute that the world would support some 5,500,000,000 people, more than twice as many as it now supports. The estimate of 2,024,286,000 is generally accepted as a fairly accurate total of the present population. The five billion figure is possible, however, he says, only with careful planning and development of resources.

Among other findings in Dr. Smith's recent survey are: That birth control and birth selection are imperative if a high plane of civilization is to be maintained; that the tropics are now the great goal of the whites; and that brunette whites will probably dominate the earth in time.

The government learned of the transaction, and Taylor is to be one of the witnesses in the second trial of Major Charles A. Sheppard. The 63-year-old man is docketed to go on trial in Topeka on Jan. 28 on charges of murdering his wife, Zenana, at Fort Riley, Kan., in 1929.

The New Ford V-8 for 1935 A New Kind of Motor Car—Designed for Easy Riding

'NEW SEAT POSITION' 'NEW WEIGHT DISTRIBUTION' 'NEW LONGER, MORE FLEXIBLE SPRINGS' In the New Ford V-8 for 1935, all the weight of car and passengers is correctly balanced and distributed. Seats are moved forward so that passengers on the rear seat ride nearer the center of the car. This, with new spring suspension, and longer and more flexible springs, gives new smoothness, ease and riding comfort on every road.

For 1935, Ford has taken another revolutionary step forward. To the proved performance of the famous Ford V-8 engine has been added remarkable riding comfort. And the entire car has been clothed with a new and modern beauty, both inside and out.

The illustration on this page shows the distinctive modern lines of the New Ford V-8 for 1935. When you see the car in the showrooms or on the road you notice at once its larger size as well as its handsome appearance. It is longer, with more body room, more leg room and more baggage room. It is lower to the ground —easier to step in and out. The front seats are as much as 5 1/2 inches wider in some body types. The curved gear shift lever gives additional front-seat comfort. NEW, LONGER SPRINGS OF UNUSUAL FLEXIBILITY The springing of the New Ford V-8 for 1935 is entirely new. The springbase of the car (the distance from the front to the rear spring) is 123 inches, or eleven inches longer than the wheelbase. This has been accomplished by mounting the front spring in front of the front axle and the back spring in back of the rear axle. This design gives you increased comfort without sacrificing ease of handling. Front and rear springs are longer and more flexible, with tapered leaves for the most effective spring action and quieter operation. NEW FEATURES FOR SAFETY, COMFORT AND EASE OF HANDLING See the New Ford V-8 at the showrooms of Ford dealers. They have many interesting things to tell you and show you about its outstanding V-8 performance and comfort, luxurious new upholstery and appointments, improved, quiet-stopping brakes, new easy-pressure clutch, easier steering, new rigid X-type frame, Clear-Vision Ventilation and the many other features of the car. All 1935 Ford V-8 cars have Safety Glass throughout, at no additional cost. All have all-steel bodies.

Leach Tells

have been received from wherever they have played. Then it does seem that Cisco is being unfair, not only to the band as an organization but to ourselves as well, when we neglect them and fail to avail ourselves of the publicity to our city that their public appearances would be sure to bring.
Before School Board
So action on these premises, I took it upon myself to go before the school board to see if it would arrange for some stipulated amount to be taken from the gate receipts at football games, since the band was such a vital force in all football activities. I appeared personally and told them that the citizenship of the town had donated liberally and had subscribed some $800 to be used to equip the band in uniforms, and that there should be set in a fund now, so that the rundown condition of the band should not occur again in future. I asked that the school board give the band a per cent of the football proceeds or else arrange for a monthly sum of say $25 for the nine months school term so that money would be available.
Knowing how matters are sometimes deferred and then forgotten,
I asked that they act upon the matter immediately in this meeting so that I could get their reactions to the matter and thus be able to report to my committee and the citizenship in general in an intelligent manner, what had been accomplished.
However, I have not been able to get the proper action, and so far as I am informed, no further action has been taken.
I am deeply in sympathy with a move to place the band on a business basis, with a little money for necessary incidentals and expenses for trips that would be encouragement for them and publicity for Cisco.
The reason for my going to the school board was that upon investi-ation I found that they were not contributing any money to the band and yet were getting more from the band through football activity than anybody else in Cisco. Hence I thought that they should be willing to do something in the way of financial support.

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 12 — Three hundred men, women, and children barricaded in their church, fought off police and firemen today in an ricaded themselves within the
