Anti-Nazis Appeal to League For More Aid

SAARLANDERS IN TERROR AT NAZI ACTIONS

SAARBRUCKEN, Jan. 19 — Terror spread through the Saar today. Hundreds of men, women and children feared Nazi persecution. Anti-Nazi charged League of Nations governing officials had completely lost control of the situation.

Saar police were said to be taking orders direct from Berlin. Soldiers of the international army, brought here only for use in event of "serious" trouble, were in barracks. Those who voted against re-union of the Saar with Germany in Sunday's plebiscite had nowhere to turn for aid.

Socialist and communist leaders were absent.

Thousands of anti-Nazis — many afraid to try the journey to the French frontier — awaited their fate with resignation. Their only hope seemed to be from the League of Nations at Geneva.

Though there has been no recognition in Geneva of many stories of persecution, Saarlanders who oppose Nazism heard with some concern last night a wireless speech made from Geneva by Anthony Eden, British chief delegate to the council meeting.

Mr. Eden appealed to Germany to keep its promises to protect those who voted for the Saar to remain under league rule, and expressed concern at reports that Jews and communists were persecuted.

Hauptmann Flares Up in Court

Dropping the frozen stoidity that has masked his face throughout the murder trial in connection with the kidnaping of the Lindbergh baby, Bruno R. Hauptmann suddenly lost his composure and blazed out an exclamation of "stop that" at a witness for the state. With him here is shown his attorney, Edward J. Reilly, right.

BRUNO'S FATE MAY BE KNOWN IN FORTNIGHT

(Copyright 1935 by United Press)

PLEMINGTON, N. J., Jan. 19 — Two weeks from tonight Bruno Richard Hauptmann may know whether he is to die in the electric chair for the murder of Charles A. Lindbergh Jr.

The jury could, in finding him guilty, recommend mercy because the evidence is circumstantial. In that case, he would face life imprisonment. If found not guilty, he will be tried for extortion.

Defense forces seized the weekend adjournment of his trial to strengthen his case, knowing that by Wednesday at the latest they will have to start attacking the closely fitting mass of evidence linking Hauptmann with the murder. The state conceivably can finish its evidence by Monday night and perhaps will finish by Tuesday night.

Harmony in Defense Camp

Hauptmann's four lawyers entered their busy week-end with harmony apparent on the surface, but many resentments of personality still existed beneath. Chief Counsel Edward J. Reilly announced today that he and his associates were in perfect agreement and that there was no possibility of anyone withdrawing.

The defense found some little encouragement in the testimony of the last two of the state's witnesses at Friday's session — the first it has received during the two weeks the state has possessed one damning circumstance after another.

Edward O. Mulligan, Wall Street customer's man, who had dealt with Hauptmann since 1930 admitted under cross-examination that he had seen Hauptmann with Isidor Fisch, dead German furrier, "five or six times."

Mr. Fisch, however, never had an account with the firm, while Hauptmann did, and Mr. Fisch never gave him any money, Mr. Mulligan testified.

Gold Case Is Biggest Since Civil War Days

EDITOR'S NOTE: The decision of the supreme court in the pending gold cases may have an overwhelming effect on the nation's economic life. This is the last of a series of dispatches explaining the situation.

By JOHN A. REICHMANN
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19. — Students of the role which the supreme court has played in administering justice and shaping the destiny of the United States see its present position in deciding the gold cases as the most important since the confused and stirring days which led up to the Civil War.

One group foresees in an adverse decision in the gold cases the following results:

Every person holding a gold bond contracted for prior to the time the United States went off the gold standard — and there are estimated to be one hundred billion dollars of such securities — would have to be paid $1.69 for every dollar owed them.

Every debtor under one of the bonds would have to pay $1.69 on the dollar, leaving him just that much less to meet other creditors. This implies less for dividends, less in wages and salaries for workers, and less to spend for the purchase of goods and supplies.

COLD WAVE IS DUE TO STRIKE TEXAS SUNDAY

The weather man stirred up a strange mixture for Cisco and the entire nation this weekend.

With a cold wave due to hit Texas Sunday morning, Cisco people were happy Saturday in watching the biggest single rain in this section in more than a year.

The city hall rain gauge showed that one and six-tenths of an inch of rain had fallen on Saturday. Three tenths of an inch precipitation was recorded Friday, and a single tenth early in the month, bringing the total for the year to an even two inches.

Last year's total rainfall in Cisco was only 16.8 inches, and greatest single rain was recorded at 1.4 inches.

Saturday's rain was general over Texas. Mineral Wells reported that rain had been falling for two days.

Winter struck its most disabling blow at America today, bringing a savage storm and eight deaths to the Pacific coast, the coldest weather of the season to northwest United States and southern Canada, and snow or rain over the entire mid-west.

Government forecasters predicted the most severe and widespread cold since January of 1934 in the greater part of the Mississippi and Missouri valleys.

In British Columbia, thermometers registered 56 below zero at many points and 30 below in North Dakota and Montana as the cold mass moved south. The blanket of cold air had progressed halfway across Iowa bringing a temperature of five below to Sioux City.

The heaviest snow in years covered the northern Sierras where it reached 185 inches in depth in spots. An Idaho village was buried in snow.

TEXAS AWAITS CAPITAL NEWS ABOUT RELIEF

AUSTIN, Jan. 19 — With a census before them showing 225,000 unemployed among the 1,125,000 persons on relief rolls in Texas, relief officials, the governor and legislators, today awaited word from Washington before mapping the administration's relief program.

Mayors of Houston and San Antonio have been requested by Gov. Allred to arrange a conference of mayors to see what local communities can take care of.

"The closer we get the relief load to the people the less abuses there will be. At the same time, cities seem to be without means to shoulder a load and property cannot stand more tax on it," Allred said.

He admitted he has not yet reached a decision on what to do.

Newspaper Head, Calling Convention, Says Freedom of Press Threatened

NEW YORK, Jan. 19. — Howard Davis, president of the American newspaper publishers association, today sent out a call for a convention of newspaper publishers of the United States at the Biltmore Hotel, New York, on Jan. 28, to take up the question of jurisdiction under the newspaper code.

Davis said that the meeting would be for the purpose of considering the action of the national labor relations board in "modifying the daily newspaper code contrary to the provisions of article 7."

He said that this decision is vital not only as it affects further adherence to the code by the publishers but more particularly as it affects a free press.

Says Freedom Menaced

If the decision of the national labor relations board is consented to, Article 7 of the code "which was designed to protect the right of press of the United States to have a free press, will be nullified," the statement said.

Davis called the convention as chairman of the daily newspaper national code committee and the daily newspaper code authority.

The statement follows:

"To all publishers who assented to the daily newspaper code:—

"By direction of the six daily newspaper associations which cooperated in negotiating the code for the daily newspaper publishing business and also by direction of the code authority for the daily newspaper publishing business, a convention of all newspaper publishers who have assented to the code is hereby called to assemble in the Hotel Biltmore in New York

MOODIE HOLDS HIS POSITION AS GOVERNOR

BISMARCK, N. D., Jan. 19. — Threatened with impeachment by an antagonist house of representatives, Gov. Thomas Moodie, clung to his office today on the strength of legal advice that he has not been formally suspended.

While the house which voted 60 to 52 late yesterday to force Moody out of office, went ahead with preparations to place the impeachment before the senate, Moody remained as chief executive.

He was advised by Attorney General P. O. Sathre, himself a bitter political opponent of the new governor, that the house's action was not complete, until the issue is carried to the senate.

The senate is in adjournment until Monday.

The house claims Moodie, born in Canada, is not a citizen of the United States.

TERRACE PLAN GETS INTEREST OF FARMERS

Inquiries as to the terracing program to be sponsored by the Cisco Boosters have already started coming in, according to J. M. Bird, agriculture secretary of the Chamber of Commerce and originator of the project.

"We haven't even begun the work of raising money to buy the terracing machines," Bird said, "but the farmers are already interested in it."

The plan is to have Bird and members of his F. F. A. chapters who are acquainted with the work, run terrace lines for the farmers, and then to lend them machinery to build the terraces themselves.

Dr. H. Seale and George Boyd, co-chairman of the committee to raise funds for the machinery, have announced that the drive will start Tuesday of this week.

During the campaign, Bird will conduct terracing schools, and members of the Boosters will attend meetings of the farmers and the agriculture secretary at the community schools. Topics of common interest, pertaining to terracing and other methods of controlling soil erosion will be discussed.

TWO ROBBERS GET $500 FROM HANDLEY BANK

HANDLEY, Jan. 19. — Two bandits, one of them armed with a submachine gun and an automatic pistol, this morning held up the First National Bank of Handley and escaped with about $500.

A cashier fired at them with a rifle as they drove away, but the storm will turn eastward and miss the state, Dr. J. L. Clinch, Dallas, meteorologist said.

By Sunday morning the mercury in north Texas will be down to 18 or 26 degrees. In the panhandle livestock warnings were issued and temperatures as low as 8 degrees were predicted.

The little likelihood that the storm will turn eastward and miss the state, Dr. J. L. Clinch, Dallas, meteorologist said.

OFFICER SAYS MAN SOUGHT IS NOT HAMILTON

BUFFALO, Jan. 19 — Reports that Raymond Hamilton, fugitive killer, escaped from the Huntsville death house, was in this section, were discounted today by State Highway Patrolman Neil Arthur.

Arthur, a member of a posse who set a trap for Hamilton last night, returned shortly after midnight.

"Several other officers are still out in the country, but we don't think Hamilton is in the party were waiting for," Arthur said. "The men were after are wanted in connection with the Hamilton case, but we don't believe Hamilton is one of them."

HOUSTON, Jan. 19 — Simple Simon, the nursery rhyme hero who likes his pie big and numerous has a counter-part here. When a pie company man left his truck to take an order from Mrs. Jim Brown, a thief stole 73 delicious dishes.

The show is sponsored by the Texas Pigeon association and the Texas Breeders' association. The Pigeon clubs of Houston, Waco and Fort Worth cooperated with the Dallas organization in bringing the national show to Texas.

FOUR GANGMEN ARE GIVEN BIG TERMS, FINES

OKLAHOMA CITY, Jan. 19. — Four gangsters' fear of the hangman's noose drew pleas of guilty and long federal prison terms for them today in the government drive to robbers of national banks. They could have been hung had they fought the case.

Jim Clark and Frank Delmar, Oklahoma desperadoes, who were leaders in the Kansas prison break of Memorial day, 1933, drew 99-year sentences and $5,000 fines.

Aubrey Unsell and Francis Smiddy drew 50-year sentences and $5,000 fines.

The U. S. attorney here will recommend that the quartet be sent to Alcatraz island, the government stronghold for its most dangerous prisoners.

Famed Writer Texas Road

AUSTIN, Jan. 19 — Dobie, saviour of Texas cowboy literature, has turned to the two other criticized citizens of the state the armadillo and the road-runner.

Dobie, writer and teacher, Southwest lore, took up the after armadillos and road-runners had been accused of shortening supply of Texas quail.

"The printing of mere numbers against them is base," said Dobie. "Road-runners and armadillos are other forms of wild life not classed as game make the countryside as interesting, attractive, charming, and gentle to man as do game animals. They are entitled to fair consideration before they are condemned."

Both armadillos and road-runners have been declared by Dobie to have value as insect-eaters.

Allred Continues Pardon Cancellling

AUSTIN, Jan. 19 — Gov. James Allred today continued his campaign of cancelling Gov. Ferguson's paroles of convicts reported in fresh trouble.

"I do not intend to have people gunning around with a pardon in one hand and a pistol in the other," Allred said.

Three former clemencies already have been revoked. Others are under study.

With 300,000 Tenants Housed, London Is Biggest Landlord Among Cities of World

By HARRY FLORY
United Press Staff Correspondent

LONDON, Jan. 19. — Almost 300,000 of London's teeming millions live in municipally owned houses or flats, built largely with the aid of national and municipal government subsidies.

They pay a total annual rental to the London County Council of 2,900,000 pounds ($14,500,000), equivalent to about four shillings ($1) weekly per person. The rents actually range from 85 cents for a one room flat to $6.87 for a six room house.

The London County Council is thus the biggest municipal landlord in the world. More than 66,000 houses or flats are owned outright by the municipality. Four thousand more are in the course of erection or contracted for. And still more thousands will be built within the next five or ten years, thanks largely to the national government's slum clearance and anti-crowding schemes.

Started in 1892
The development of municipal housing is mostly post-war, although the London County Council's first block of dwellings was built in 1892. But when the war broke out the L. C. C. owned fewer than 10,000 or flats. All had been erected without national government subsidy, but at considerable cost to the municipality.

Generous national exchequer subsidies, beginning in 1919, were largely responsible for the six fold increase since the war. In addition that 35,000 houses and flats will be constructed within the next seven years to take care of displaced slum dwellers, and another 45,000 to 50,000 within the next decade to remedy the over crowding situation.

In contrast with the United States where "own your own home" is the popular slogan, here most government emphasis is placed on ensuring an adequate supply of modern dwellings to rent to low paid workmen at rents they can afford to pay.

In general London's municipally owned houses and flats are reserved for such deserving tenants. At regular intervals there is a clearing out process. If it is found that a municipal tenant is fully able to pay a higher rental he is asked to move, to make way for prospective tenants more deserving of municipal solicitude. In general practice no head of a family earning more than £400 ($2,000) annually is allowed to occupy a municipally owned house or flat.

Plan Is Nation Wide
Municipalities all over England, Wales and Scotland are in the housing business just like London, although on a smaller scale. The intensity of current building varies more or less with the political complexion of the local council.

Local councils controlled by labor representatives generally are more active than those controlled by conservatives. Labor councillors think first of the welfare of the "forgotten man." Conservative councillors generally think first of the possible losses or landlords whose slum property may be condemned, and of the local tax or tax payer, whose rates quickly reflect the costs of intense building activity.

But by and large Great Britain, even under the supposedly reactionary national government, is making great and successful efforts to house her lower classes cheaply and well, at the expense of the taxpayer.

News Want Ads Bring Results. Heroines

Dorothy Lee Miller and Carol Elizabeth Long, of Kansas City, Kan., may not be rated as heroines among the men folk but the ladies of their home town think that the little girls deserve at least honorable mention as typifying the neighborly spirit and quiet heroism evidenced by many other workers on the Birthday Ball for the President. Last year, as candle-lighters for the huge Presidential birthday cake at Kansas City's ball, the Misses Miller and Long, instead of retreating in panic, fought off the threatened attack of a mouse, and routed him completely before ladies in the huge audience could start a stampede for the door.

The Kansas City affair in 1934 is considered typical of 5,600 parties which will be held in communities from coast to coast this Jan. 30, honoring the President's 53rd birthday anniversary, and raising money for local and national work toward aiding victims of infantile paralysis and toward discovering an effective preventative of the disease. More than 4,000,000 persons are expected to attend, but Dorothy and Carol report that no mice will be invited.

Missouri Planning Count of Wild Life

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., Jan. 19. — Beaver, otter, turkey and deer may be restored to their natural population in this state. A wild life survey will be completed next summer and data collected will be studied to see how the number of birds and mammals can be increased within the state.

The state-wide survey is being conducted by the game and fish department, the U. S. Forestry Service, the National Park Service and the University of Missouri aided by Dr. Rudolph Bennit and W. O. Nagel of the university.

Some Game Thrives
The only species of game that are holding their own like the original number are dove, quail, rabbits, squirrels, foxes, skunks and opossum. Badger, carrier pigeon and the black bear are virtually extinct in Missouri. The ruffie grouse and otter are on the verge of extinction.

In 20 years the number of licensed hunters tripled in Missouri. About 240,000 licenses are issued yearly now.

Cooperating in the survey are several organizations interested in wild life, hunters, sportsmen, trappers and farmers. A fairly accurate picture of game conditions is being made. In the conservation of wild life certain important facts stand out, according to those making the survey.

Regarded As Crop
Game must be looked upon as a crop, or a self-perpetuating resource, they say. An inroad on the breeding stock usually dries up the source and causes it to become extinct.

To save the breeding stock means to build up the natural conditions through control of erosion and reforestation, and by an educational program. Missouri with its varied geography has excellent facilities for natural provision for wild life conservation.

JUNEAU, Alaska, Jan. 19. — Alaskan fur prices, far under pre-depression levels, are improved over the last several years, an auction revealed. SISTER MARY'S RECIPES

BY MARY E. DAGUE

A GOOD way to take care of the holiday entertaining without undue strain on a budget already strained to breaking point by Christmas is to give a buffet supper.

Of course, if you have room for everyone at one big table a supper served by the host at the table is grand. If not, have small tables set about informally.

Choose for the main dish something hot and savory and plan to have most of the other foods prepared in advance.

It's a good idea to have cold cuts to reinforce the main dish. Cold baked ham, cold boiled tongue and cold roast fowl can be used with almost any main dish.

Here are some menus:
Creamed crab meat in crustades, pickles, celery, olives, cold boiled tongue, rolled sandwiches, stuffed tomato salad, fruit cake, coffee.

Oysters, mushrooms and bacon en brochette, orange and grapefruit salad with green pepper garnish, jellied chicken, hot rolls, cranberry relish, individual mince pies (hot), coffee.

Shrimp jambalaya, cold baked ham, grape juice salad, pumpernickel, individual plum puddings, coffee.

And here are recipes for the more difficult dishes:

Creamed Crab Meat in Crustades

Cut slices of stale bread three inches thick. Cut into rounds by marking a circle with a round pointed knife. Remove the center leaving a wall about 3-4 inch thick on bottom and sides. Fry in deep hot fat to a golden brown. The fat should be hot enough to brown the crustades in forty seconds. Fill with creamed crab-meat.

Oysters en Brochette

Oysters, mushrooms, bacon, lemon juice, salt, pepper, melted butter.

Allow four medium sized oysters for each person to be served. Four 1-2 inch squares of thinly sliced bacon and 2 mushroom caps complete each. Wipe oysters and let stand in lemon juice seasoned with a few grains of cayenne pepper for one hour. Partially cook bacon over a low fire to insure crispness. Dip mushrooms and oysters in melted butter. Put a mushroom cap on each skewer, then alternating slices of bacon and oysters until four of each are used and finish with a mushroom cap. Place skewers across a narrow dripping pan or place them on the broiler rack. Broil or cook in a very hot oven, 500 degrees F., for five minutes. Serve on narrow strips of toast and pour over the juices which were drawn out during cooking.

Grape Juice Salad

Two tablespoons granulated gelatine, 4 tablespoons cold water, 2 cups grape juice, 4 tablespoons lemon juice, 3 tablespoons sugar, 1-4 teaspoon salt, 1 cup skinned and seeded California grapes. Soften gelatine in cold water for five minutes. Dissolve over hot water. Add grape juice, sugar, salt and lemon juice. Let stand until mixture begins to jelly. Then fold in grapes, turn into molds and place on ice until chilled and firm. Unmold on bed of lettuce and serve with mayonnaise.

NEW LIGHT ON CAPITAL RAID IN 1814 FOUND

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—The British naval commander who planned the capture of Washington in 1814 was so little impressed that he wrote a nephew of his king that he would "not take up your Royal Highnesses time with a detail of our adventures."
The original letter sent to William Frederick, second Duke of Gloucester, by Sir Alexander Cochrane, commander in chief of the British naval forces in North America during the second war of American independence, recently was placed on display at the library of Congress.

Not in Battle
Cochrane was not actually in Washington during the successful attack as his ships landed troops at the Maryland village of Benedict. He received his information from the second in command, Rear Admiral George Cockburn.

The letter follows:
His Maj's Ship Tonnant
Patuxent river Chesapeake Bay, 3d Sept 1814

Sir,
I will not take up your Royal Highnesses time with a detail of our Adventures, farther than to say that within the short space of Eight days, The Enemy's Flotilla has been destroyed, His Army defeated, His Capital taken, All the public buildings including the Capitol, President's Palace, Arsenal, Dock Yard, Ships of War &c &c reduced to ashes, and the Army unmolested allowed to return 50 miles to the place they landed without a shot being fired.

In the Action, and during our Advance, we sustained a loss not exceeding Three Hundred Men which is astonishingly few, considering what the troops had to perform.

I had the honor to receive your Royal Highness letter by Lieut. — I trust I will be credited when I say that upon this and every Occasion I will feel a most sincere pleasure in obeying your Commands, but let me beg of your Royal Highness to get him placed upon

PRO BASEBALL FOR JAPANESE STILL FAR OFF

TOKYO, Jan. 19.—Baseball in Japan may be at the beginning of its transitional stage in which professional ball may come to the front as one of the leading national amusements.

Despite the fact that the first professional club has been organized, authoritative sports writers believe it will be several years before professional baseball as it is conducted in America, gets a genuine start here.

Japan is not ready for it, they believe, principally for economic reasons.

30 Games Enough
While popular interest in baseball would seem to be on a par with that in the United States, the sports writers believe that the university and inter-city matches which now provide thirty first class games a season, just about supply the demand.

Baseball interest still centers on the universities. Attendance is excellent and sometimes reaches 60,000 for a single game. Still the great mass of fans pay something less than 20 cents U. S. currency for admission. The top price is 50 cents.

It is believed that there is not enough loose amusement money to support a professional league with a schedule of anything like 154 games a year.

500,000 Season Gate
The Tokyo University League the outstanding organization in Japan took in a total of 240,000 yen during the 1934 season or approximately $90,000 United States currency. The writers point out that this figure once represented Babe Ruth's annual salary.

Fans can just about pay for what it is getting now. A considerable part of this expenditure is inspired by interest in the universities and the students rather than in baseball itself.

Most of this "college spirit" money would be spent for football quite as readily if the game had a foothold.

The professional team that was organized after the visit of the American stars here, will meet only professional teams from the United States and the Philippines unless another professional club is organized early in the year.

Alaska Gold Field Is Being Reopened

SEWARD, Alaska, Jan. 19.—Alaska mining men today anticipated resumption of dredging in the Cooper's landing gold district, 30 miles from here.

Work was started there before the World War but increased operating costs made it unprofitable to continue. High price of gold established by the U. S. government brought renewed interest in the field.

Last summer a number of miners working by hand earned $3 to $5 per day on Kenai River bars. Drillings before the war reached 35 feet deep without touching bedrock. The sand and gravel assayed about 40 cents worth of gold per cubic yard.

wish to accomplish the result."

They also feel that the court, in deciding issue, generally gives a hint as to how it may be done constitutionally — even though it may mean revising the constitution.

Just Compensation

It is also worthy of note that the court need not necessarily rule that the debts contracted for in gold dollars of 25.8 grains nine-tenths fine must be met in currency, each dollar of which is equal to 25 5/32 grains of gold nine-tenths fine.

The plea of those that hold gold bonds is that they are being deprived of their property—a contract for so much gold—without just compensation. It is barely possible, in the minds of some observers that the court may direct repayment in "just compensation" and leave for some other judicial tribunal — to the case the court of claims — the determination of what constitutes "just compensation."

Basis of Devaluation

Devaluation was based on the contention that most of the debts which debtors were bearing during the depression and which were responsible for many of the depression's hardships were contracted for in dollars that would buy more today than they did before the depression.

In other words, the debtor contracted to pay gold dollars which would buy far less goods for the creditor than they would today. These dollars had become, of course harder for the debtor to get because he had to give more labor or more of the goods he produced in order to get one of them.

The aim of the monetary policy was to relieve the debtor from paying, in goods or services, more than he had promised to pay, interpreted into goods and services.

For this reason the court, it is possible, may say that "just compensation" is a matter for the courts to decide and that this must be determined before it will say whether devaluation has been constitutional.
