GRAND JURY WORKS UPON CASE MONDAY

Trial of Frank Allen, Cisco negro held in connection with an alleged kidnaping and attempted criminal assault here Friday night, has been set for Feb. 18. Police Chief M. L. Perdue announced this afternoon.

The negro will likely be tried on several of the seven charges which were filed against him in Justice Joe Wilson's court. These included one of attempted criminal assault, three of attempted robbery, and three of assault with intent to murder.

The district grand jury investigated the case yesterday.

The charges grew out of the alleged abduction of three persons, Mary Kertesz, her brother, Joe Kertesz, and Dewey Ball by a negro answering to the description of Allen. The three arrived on a freight here Friday night, they told officers, and later were held up, and forced to accompany the negro to a wooded area east of the city, where he attempted to attack the girl.

Allen was captured the following morning by Cisco officers after being identified by the trio. In an outburst in the city police station, the girl's brother was said to have attempted to kill the negro.

Speedy trial has been asked in the case, due to the fact that the party consisted of transients and delay would be expensive to the state, it was said.

The three were to leave today for El Paso, where they were going when delayed by the incident here, police said today. The Kertesz couple have a brother living there, it was said. Their acquaintance with Ball was limited to their ride from Fort Worth, where they met him. He was on his way to the Veterans' hospital there at the time.

Rescue Comes in Nick of Time; Floods Sweep South

Surging waters of the Mississippi river, far out of its banks in southern states, pounded at this home near Memphis, Tenn., as a rescuer in a rowboat arrived to take off the marooned residents two of whom are seen perched on the roof. With levees menaced and rivers far above normal stage, the south is threatened with a flood which may equal in devastation that of 1913-1914.

CISCO PAYING TAXES BEFORE FINAL DATES

Tax collections have been coming in rapidly here during the last few days. It was learned this morning, but citizens of Cisco were asked to hurry their payments along even more.

City Secretary J. B. Cate said today that he did not know just exactly how much has come in during this month, in the way of city taxes.

"We have been too busy taking the money and doing our other work to get the collections posted up to date," he said. "We likely won't have a good check up on it until after the deadline."

Deputy Tax Collector A. A. Edmondson, who collected poll taxes at the city hall here the first two days of this week said this morning that he had issued 162 receipts of this number, 146 were issued Monday and the other 16 before 11 o'clock today.

School Taxes

W. Frank Walker, secretary of the Cisco school board, said that "taxes have been coming in pretty well" during the last few days. He did not have any figures immediately available.

Ciscoans were cautioned to have all their current taxes in before they become delinquent. Feb. 1 will be too late. The city secretary urged all citizens to come in and pay their taxes in the time that remains before then.

"They are allowed until March 13 to pay delinquent taxes, though," he said. This includes all taxes for years prior to 1934.

BIBLE SEEKS REELECTION ON CITY COMM'N

Commissioner H. A. Bible, along with Mayor J. T. Berry and Commissioner W. J. Foxworth, has announced his candidacy for re-election in the municipal voting here April 2. His announcement has already appeared in the Daily News.

This is the second time Commissioner Bible has sought re-election. During his term in office, he has served as sanitary commissioner. Along with the regular work of the commission, such as providing a plan for retirement of the city's bonded indebtedness and sponsoring of a drive for a competing gas company for the purpose of lowering the city's gas rate, there naturally came under his divisions direction the sanitary projects which have been carried out, including the cleanup of the city dump grounds.

Mrs. J. A. Houser of Marian, Ind., her brother, John Merrill from Hope, Ark., and Mrs. Myrtle Whitney of Breckenridge, were in Cisco yesterday to attend the funeral of Mrs. A. M. Williams.

FLEMINGTON, N. J., Jan. 29. — Attorney General David Wientz today flung at Bruno Hauptmann his own words written down by the police in New York to confound and confuse him, and to show how often the Bronx German had changed his story.

Before the noon recess, Hauptmann was involved in a tangle of discrepancies from which he was seeking to extricate himself by repeating over and over the words, "I don't know—I can't remember."

The attorney general pressed his inquisition with the same relentless vigor that marked yesterday's session, but the fruit of his attack was little more than a new series of denials or an admission that Hauptmann's previous stories were "mistakes."

Wientz demanded to know if Hauptmann had not told the police he didn't take the ransom bills to the federal reserve bank "because I was afraid they would lock me up" and later said "it was because I didn't know where the bank was."

The man charged with murdering the infant son of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh "couldn't remember about that," but said if he had it was another "mistake."

The state had shown Hauptmann already knew where the federal reserve bank was because he had cashed gold notes there long before his arrest.

D. A. R. WANTS BAND PART OF SCHOOL WORK

The Charles Crawford chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution voted unanimously to endorse the move to have the high school Lobo band with all the work and to receive credits for work done in music in the school. And they also endorsed the plan to have the school board appropriate sufficient funds for the proper maintenance of the band so that it could function the same as other departments of the school.

Those present and endorsing the plan were: Mesdames P. Pettitt, Alex Spears, J. A. Bearman, C. R. West, Frank Pierce, Lee Clark, Lee Owen, Homer Slicker, and Frank Harrell.

SEES NEED OF CREDIT FOR WORK

Mrs. A. Spears, prominent in club and civic activities, made the following statement: "My idea are in hearty accord with other women of Cisco, who have expressed themselves relative to the band and its relation to the school program.

"I think that the study of band music in the school hours has reached a stage where it takes quite a large share of the students' time and they should, by all means, receive credits for work accomplished. Perhaps no school activity does more to advertise the school and community than does the Lobo band.

"It should receive the proper support from the school board so that it would not have to depend upon the mercies of a contributing public."

Mobley Hotel Gets New Roof Covering

The Mobley hotel is to have a new roof. Workmen today were busy melting tar and doing other work necessary to cover the building.

The hotel, built in 1915, is now owned by the J. M. Radford estate and is managed by C. C. Outlier. For many years it has been a popular hotel here. At various times it has had a dining room in connection with it, but at present consists entirely of guest rooms.

Jobless 'Demand' 25 Reforms

CHILD LABOR AMENDMENT IS BEATEN TODAY

AUSTIN, Jan. 29. — Texas senators today defeated ratification of the federal child labor amendment for the third time since it was submitted in 1934.

The vote was 10 to 18.

Today's decisive action killed the issue of Texas ratification for the remainder of the present regular session.

Two hundred women, some of them mothers, appeared before the senate's committee on constitutional amendments yesterday asking favorable action.

The amendment already ratified by 29 states, would give congress the power to regulate or prohibit the labor of persons under 18 years of age, comprising about 40 per cent of the nation's population. 36 states must ratify it to make it effective.

City Plants Show Revenue Increase

TIMPSON, Tex., Jan. 29. — The Timpon municipally owned electric light and water departments show an increase of $5,091.39 in revenue this year over 1933, according to the statement published by Mayor J. D. Hairston and Superintendent of Utilities W. H. Ingram.

Operating expenses for 1934 were $12,078.74, which included approximately $1,500 worth of permanent repairs. Equipment and other creditable disbursements totaled $6,925.49, including $4,000 transferred to the city general fund and $2,388.31 credited to city general expense.

New construction for the year totaled $511.92. In 1933 more than $11,000 was spent on a new distributing system for which cash was paid. Ingram said street lighting expenses have been reduced greatly since the new system was installed.

Flier Risks Death To Deliver Food

LAKEHURST, N. J., Jan. 29. — A pilot who risked a crash in snowdrifts on the naval air station field, carried food today to a man, woman and 2 children facing starvation in a snowbound farm house.

Pilot F. W. F. Wiley, made the flight of 6 miles to the farm house where Bingham Myers, his wife, and 2 babies, have been marooned since last week. Their food supply was practically exhausted Sunday when a rescue party dug through snowdrifts to the house but was forced to abandon the supplies intended for the family.

The naval flier took off from a drifted field and flew over the farm, dropping the food by parachutes.

LEAVE DOLE IS RELIEF AIM AT TWO MEETINGS

AUSTIN, Jan. 29. — Federal and state representatives meeting here tomorrow and at Fort Worth Friday, will plan to get Texas speedily off the dole and at work on federal projects.

Heads of various federal recovery agencies will meet tomorrow morning. They will be joined in the afternoon by various state officials, experts and citizens active in planning state rehabilitation.

Julian Montgomery, Fort Worth, will preside at the Fort Worth conference Friday. City, county, and school officials have been asked to participate for the purpose of a statewide survey of possible projects.

Fraud Charged To Land Bond Holders

WASHINGTON, Jan. 29. — Perpetration of widespread fraud and dishonesty by real estate bond holders' protective committee was reported to the house today by a special investigation.

Thousands of investors were cheated of their savings by these "depression scavengers," who gained control of defaulted bonds by dishonest means and charged excessive fees, the committee reported. The committee detailed charges against groups in Philadelphia, New York, Chicago, Detroit, Milwaukee. Plans are for further in Pacific coast cities, New Orleans, St. Louis, Kansas City and Cleveland.

Terracing Machine Bought By Comm'n

A terracing machine, to be used in the terracing campaign being carried on by the Cisco Boosters has been purchased by the county commissioner, it was announced yesterday.

The machine will be under the supervision of Commissioner Arch Birt, of this precinct.

POSSIBILITY FOR STATE PARK AND CCC CAMP LOOMS BRIGHTER

Possibility of obtaining a state park as a site for a CCC camp at Lake Cisco today was considered stronger than at any other time, when a representative of the state park board at Austin said that the land which he and a committee of Ciscoans viewed is suitable for such a project.

M. C. Coney, landscape park commissioner of the board, pointed out that the land shown him by the committee is more attractive than the average shown throughout the state, and said that the chances of getting the park here were good.

He held a gathering of Cisco business men that 500 acres would be required for the purpose.

It was pointed out by Commissioner H. A. Bible that the city now owns approximately 387 acres of

MATTY BELL GIVEN JOB AS PONY MENTOR

DALLAS, Jan. 29. — Matty Bell, first assistant coach at Southern Methodist university, was appointed head coach today to succeed Ray Morrison.

Bell was given a three-year contract at a conference of university officials.

Morrison recently had handed in his resignation, so that he could accept the head coaching position at Vanderbilt.

Bell, came to SMU last year after serving for several years as head coach at Texas A. and M. college. He also had been head coach at Texas Christian university.

School officials announced Bell's salary would be $5,000 a year.

ELK HERD ABDUCTORS HOQUIAM, Wash. Jan. 29

Audacity of elk herds roaming the countryside reached its climax when the beasts ate straw fillings from scarecrow farmers erected to frighten the animals away from crops.

Youth Keeps Time Collecting Clocks

AUSTIN, Jan. 29. — Old clocks, pocket watches, grandfather clocks, imported clocks, a calendar clock, and the clock the mouse runs up — all are contained in the collection of 22-year-old Marvin Wright of Austin, whose lifetime hobby has been to collect rare timepieces and see what makes them tick.

Wright has 13 clocks in all, five in the living room, three in the dining room, one in a bedroom and four noisy ones in the garage. He began at the age of three and has continued experimentation with clocks until his collection is worth more than $1,200. Although its net worth was less than $50.

A perpendicular mouseclock is numbered from bottom to top, with a tiny white mouse pointing the correct time. The piece is about 25 years old. Wright owns a hand-made French clock, imported while Texas was part of Mexico. Five other clocks accompanied it. One burned in the old Texas state capitol. One has disappeared. The others are in private collections here.

What Would Happen?

Speculation is rife as to what would happen to the United States in the event that the Supreme Court held against the Government in the gold clause case. Confusion would arise immediately in the securities markets. For an adverse verdict would clamp $50,000,000,000 on $100,000,000,000 of bonds bearing the gold clause.

Railroads and utilities are the private concerns with the highest ratio of bonded debt. Take one case, the Santa Fe Railroad. It now has $310,000,000 of "gold" bonds outstanding. These would be refigured at $500,000,000. With most railroads in more or less the same condition, they would have to go into bankruptcy. For they would be unable to meet the swollen interest charges on their debt. Meantime the owners—that is, stockholders—would suffer. They would see the dollar value of their holdings shrink as the bondholders saw their rise. To prevent such a "slaughter of equities," the stock market would probably close pending quieter readjustment.

This result is all predicted on the assumption that Washington would stand by and do nothing. But this is too tame a surmise for a very active Administration. The Government could do one of several things.

Unthinkable as such a course would be, it could "reorganize" the Supreme Court and seek a new verdict after reorganization. Or it might revalue the dollar back to its old gold equivalent. Then the "velvet" would disappear as quickly as it was acquired. Or it might risk another test of the Supreme Court—the "due process" clause—by taxing the new "profits" 100 per cent.

What would happen in the event of revaluation is extremely problematical. Devaluation, it is true, has not yielded the results in higher domestic prices and bigger foreign trade that was promised by the extreme Warrenites. But undoubtedly it has helped in both connections. Such a benefit would be rubbed out, and the United States would revert to deflation. This Administration, however, is committed to reflation. Therefore, denied of the reflationary weapon of devaluation, it would probably turn to printing press inflation. Explicitly it might begin to pay off the public debt in greenbacks.

What if the Supreme Court rendered a half-and-half decision—that is, decided that the state could not deny its own promises but that private and non-federal bodies had no right to make them. That would mean no change in private and state and municipal debt. But it would immediately add about $12,000,000,000 to the existing $28,000,000,000 of federal debt. Either tax—or a greenback legislation would probably soon follow. For the holders of 60 per cent of the federal debt are banks. One can imagine the damagocry cries of: The Supreme Court divides for Wall Street. Such a drastic decision would be followed by equally drastic legislation.

New Worlds to Explore

Harvard's geophysicist, Dr. Harlan True Stetson, tells of the amazing ionosphere, which lies beyond the stratosphere. It is a place where vast clouds of ions and electrons are swept by tremendous winds. It calls for discoverers. Marco Polo won fame by traversing the lithosphere to explore China. Columbus braved the serpent-infested hydrosphere to find America. The Wrights broke trail through the troposphere, just as Piccard has since done in the stratosphere. The call now is to conquer the ionosphere, "jumping off place of space." But perhaps it isn't that—Surely there'll always be new worlds for eager new generations to make their own.

Fast Service For Yeast

Puerto Rico avoids a bread famine by importing 10,000 pounds of yeast by air. San Juan bakers, running out of yeast, discover that the longshoremen's strike has allowed all the yeast shipments on steamers in the harbor to spoil. Quick cabling saves the day. A New York concern sends five tons of yeast in two shipments to Miami in fast refrigerator cars. Pan American's new big Sikorsky S-42 flying boat will rush the stuff to San Juan at 50 cents a pound. The pilots believe high altitudes will keep the yeast cool—And even if it doesn't when yeast gets to "working" it can only "even."

Did the United States forestall, after it had been ready to insist upon, a court trial of former Kaiser Wilhelm of Germany? Washington buzzes over wartime correspondence made public by the State Department. President Wilson signed the Treaty of Versailles, an article of which proposed arraigning the Kaiser as the war's arch-criminal. After the senate rejected the treaty, Secretary of State Lansing informed the Allies, waiting to make demand on Holland for the Kaiser's person, that the United States would not support any such demand nor a trial. The plan halted, was dropped—Wilhelm of Hohenzollern has remained unmolested to this day.

STEAL BIBLE DALLAS, Jan. 29—A religious thief appeared here recently. Entering the home of Mitchell Cridwell the prowler took the family Bible, three quilts, two sheets and a counterpane.

FINED FOR SEEING LIGHT CONNEAUT, O. Jan. 29—Five men were fined $18.50 each by Judge

Charles Appleby here by attending a cock fight.

LIQUOR HOURS FOR SOLONS SALEM, Ore., Jan. 29—Oregon's State Liquor Control commission has an eye to business. It thoughtfully provided for the Salem liquor store to be kept open from nine a. m. to midnight, six hours longer than the regular schedule, during the 1935 sessions of the legislature.

Beginning To Catch Up

Your Income Tax

TO AVOID COMMON ERRORS

The period for the filing of income tax returns covering the calendar year 1934 begins January 1 and ends at midnight of March 15. Within this period are filed annually millions of individual income tax returns, a large proportion of which report income subject to the tax. The latter contain a considerable percentage of errors, which if uncorrected by the audit would result to the disadvantage of the taxpayer. Many are errors of computation easily discovered on the face of the return, which usually is accompanied by a payment of more than the amount of tax due. In other returns it is readily discernible that the taxpayer has failed to take advantage of the personal exemption, credit allowed for dependents, or deductions from gross income to which he is entitled.

WHEN? The filing period begins January 1 and ends March 15, 1935.

WHERE? Collector of internal revenue for the district in which the person lives or has his principal place of business.

HOW? See instructions on forms 1940A and 1940.

WHAT? Four percent normal tax on the amount of net income in excess of the personal exemption, credit for dependents, earned income credit, dividends of domestic corporations, subject to taxation, and interest on obligations of the United States and obligations of instrumentality of the United States.

University of Pittsburgh Coach Doesn't Care Who Is Subsidized On His Team

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 29 — Now that everybody else, including the apartment house janitor, has had his say about subsidization of college athletes, Dr. John Bain Sutherland thinks it's time the football coach goes on record.

"I don't care who are subsidized on my football teams," the University of Pittsburgh field marshal flatly told a Y. M. C. audience.

"I got some help going through school and saw nothing wrong with it."

Warning to his subject, the Panther coach, who has achieved a modicum of fame by guiding Pitt's football fortunes for 11 seasons, said the annual outburst of "public opinion" at the end of each football season is led by those who have something to "cover up."

"Usually you will find," he said, "that the ones who complain loudest are the ones who are covering up more than the others."

Dr. Sutherland slipped easily into a discussion of professional football as the goal of the college player.

"I wonder to where, after four or five years of the 'pro' game—

Did you ever stop to think

When you are served in a store by a clerk who really seems interested in you and you purchase what you are pleased and go back again when you are in a buying mood. It looks as if the small town investors are among the forgotten men. Their submissiveness passes comprehension. New business buildings and residences are to a city what new blood is to an estimated person. It is quite true that none of our leaders possess a magic wand with which they can satisfy the needs and personal desires of everybody. Your town can be talked up as easily as it can be talked down. Lack of wisdom in taxation is most evident in the failure to consider the effect upon the people from whom the money is taken. A man's individual prosperity is dependent upon the success of the industries of his community and they are therefore deserving of his whole-hearted support and cooperation. We hear much about the right and left way. There is an old Chinese saying: "In the middle way lies safety." A live city gets better and better while a dead city gets dead and dead. Human nature is pretty much the same everywhere. It resents being driven in any way.

Behind the Scenes in Washington

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
No end of people, including many who enjoy high government salaries, are living in what they consider uncomfortable quarters as a result of the local housing shortage. They haven't any choice, because apartment vacancies are so few now, but the squawking about the situation has reached a high pitch and even has been heard on the floors of Congress—especially as regards rents. The city is jammed and one estimate often heard says there are 60,000 new residents here than being responsible for much of the Plenty of officials and members of Congress are living in hotels because that's all they can find and the hotels are filled every night. NEW CONGRESSMEN, some of them accustomed to towns where they can get a nice house and lot for $25 a month, are noisily protesting $125 or $150. Congressman Henry Ellenbogen of Pennsylvania, who failed to make a deposit on a $12 apartment and found the rent $159 when he tried to move in yesterday, will introduce bills to all-profiteering and encourage new building. House and Senate committees are considering the rent situation and listening to proposals from members to tax excessive rents. Many other sources of irritation might be revealed, but there's no use giving the town a bad name. And then, too, by the time you read this the sun may be out again. GALE HENDERSON, pretty and 23, works in a silk mill. She and her brother, Phil, 19, support their invalid father.
"STIVEE SEPTER, who also works in the mill, asks Gale to marry him. She promises to give him an answer in a few days.
"Later that evening Gale goes skating on the river, goes through the ice and is rescued by BRIAN WESTMORE, whose father, now dead, built the mill. Brian asks Gale to wait while he gets his car but when he returns she is gone.
"Brian has come home after two years in Paris, convinced he can never become an artist and ready to go to work in the mill.
"THATCHER, daughter of HONORE THATCHER, general manager of the mill, schemes to captivate Brian.
"Brian sees Gale in the mill, recognizes her and is amazed to find she is an employe. Vicky telephones that her car has broken down and a shorter dark haired man beside him. One or two older men were back in the darkness.
"Phil Henderson, who had been waiting for her, stepped into the street. The two men were on their feet now. One was a slender fellow, hatless, wearing soiled working clothes. He said something and the other—broader, heavily built—lunged forward. The blow missed. Someone shouted profanely and a man in front moved so that Brian could not see what was happening. Brian asked a boy on the sidewalk, "Who are they?"
"The youngster stared. "Ed Vogel an' Phil Henderson," he said. He mumbled the names, slurred them almost unintelligibly.
"Did they work in the mill?"
"Sure." The boy's eyes became wary. With a sudden movement he wriggled forward, disappeared in the group of men.
"Brian moved so he could see the two in the street. They had separated. Suddenly they sprang together and there was a sharp oath and another, as the stout man's fist jabbed into the other's face. Three times. Savagely. Cutting the flesh. The younger man fought back, but less effectively. There was blood on his face now; his clothing was torn.
"But he kept on hitting. The slender body was a dynamo—whirling, slashing, now landing blows, now missing them. The stout man's fist smashed against the other's stomach, driving him back. It wasn't a fair fight; it wasn't anything like it.
"Brian stepped nearer. "Somebody stop them," he shouted. "Why doesn't somebody—?"
"A man wearing a battered black hat turned and looked at Brian. There was no change in the expression on the man's face but he edged away. Another turned and somehow, without a word spoken, Brian felt the eyes of all of them on him. There was something about the way these men looked at him that was disturbing.
"A hoarse voice called, "Ed—Phil!" and then other voices joined in, coarse, excited, futile. The crowd was breaking apart. A big man with a red face, aged, his

CUBS SEE RIGHTHANDED HITTERS AS ANSWER IN PENNANT CHASE

United Press Staff Correspondent. CHICAGO, Jan. 29.—The Chicago Cubs are going back to right handed hitters. They won the National League pennant in 1929 with only one left-handed hitter in the lineup.

This season Manager Charlie Grimm plans to have only two left-handed hitters in the Cubs' lineup—Chuck Klein and himself.

The Cubs' probable batting order: Cuyler, cf. Herman 2b, Klein rf, Lindstrom, 3b, Stainback, lf, Jurgens, ss, Grimm, 1b, Hartnett, c.

There is a possibility that Cuyler may not even be a regular as he will have to compete with Frank Demaree, Coast League rookie, for his job. Demaree led the Coast League in batting last season with a .383 average. He had a brief tryout with the Cubs in 1931, and hit a home run with two men on during a World Series game. He is a right-handed hitter.

Most of the reserve players are right-handed hitters—Catcher Gobel and Stevenson, and infielders Woody English and Eddie Chiswick. Augie Galan, who will be

TEN MILLION AT STAKE IN COURT FIGHT

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Jan. 29.—Estimated annual revenue of $10,000,000—is the stake for which the State of Illinois is fighting in a suit before the State Supreme Court to compel private and public owned utilities to pay the state two per cent sales tax.

The case is before the court on a petition for rehearing filed by Attorney General Otto Kerner following a recent opinion in which it was held that the utilities were not required to pay the tax.

In the rehearing petition Kerner has relied on only one point in his efforts to have the high tribunal reopen the case and reverse its previous ruling. The point is "whether the utilities are engaged in the sale of tangible property at retail."

As a matter of fact, Kerner says, the legislature followed closely a previous ruling by the Supreme Court that a sales tax law was unconstitutional because it exempted gasoline and farm products from the tax. The assembly made a spe-

The growing threat against his rule brought Long hurrying home from Washington, to face the demand that the legislature be called to repeal all Actatorial laws.
