Soviet Celebrates May Day With War Show

DISPLAY MOST IMPRESSIVE IN RECENT YEARS

MOSCOW, May 1.—Soviet Russia flung a sample of its military and aerial power across Red Square today in the most impressive May Day demonstration in recent years. A fleet of 660 airplanes dived over the parade at noon. They ranged from the world's largest land plane to four-motored bombers and a squadron of new high speed attack planes. More than 500 tanks clanked over the cobblestones from small types powered with Soviet Ford motor to ten huge tanks carrying one-pound guns and several machine guns. As in preceding May Day parades, the increase in the army's mechanization could be noted. A million persons saw the demonstration.

LEFT WING DEMONSTRATIONS OBSERVED OVER WORLD

By UNITED PRESS
May Day was celebrated around the world today with extensive labor and communist demonstrations. Minor outbreaks with casualties were reported in Paris and Vienna but disturbances in Europe were at a minimum. In Berlin Adolf Hitler proclaimed Germany's strength and her "honor among nations" in an address to 600,000 people.

MEXICO CITY, May 1.—Rioting broke out as demonstrations were held by 50,000 workers and peasants here today.

20 Church Additions At Revival Meeting

The revival at the First Methodist church which has been in progress since Easter Sunday continues to increase in interest and attendance. The messages which Rev. Mr. Henson has been bringing, have made a most profound impression on those who have heard them, and strong men and women have been converted and taken their places in the church. To date, there have been 20 additions to the church, which brings the total number received this year to 42. There are many others who have signified their interest. The service Wednesday night will be sponsored by the young people and children of the church. The older ones are urged to encourage these young people in this laudable undertaking. The theme for the evening service will be "Life's Supreme Mission." The services will continue each morning at 10 and evening at 7:45 with the exception of Saturday, coming to a close Sunday night. The public is invited to attend.

He arrived here yesterday to become resident manager, coming from Galveston. Approached this morning as to his policies, the new manager said that he would try to make the Laguna a more lively place in the community life of Cisco. If Merle Says 'Yes', It's a Match

All this marriage talk linking Merle Oberon, British screen star, and David Nevill, late of the Highland light infantry and now a film actor, may mean something, but — "Merle hasn't said 'Yes' yet, otherwise it would be all okay, as you Americans say," answers David. The striking British couple are shown here on the beach resting from their movie trip.

Anderson was chairman at the Lions luncheon today, at which time a musical program by the Randolph male quartette, with Miss Rennie Reynolds at the piano, was presented and an outline of the proposed Presbyterian encampment was furnished by Lion Hubert Seale and Rev. BIG RUSH ON AS FISHING S

The big rush began at midnight last night and by early this morning was on in full blast. Fishing season opened for Lake Cisco and Texas at midnight and many local fishermen sacrificed several hours of sleep in favor of an early start. Indications today were that this would be the biggest fishing and recreation season at Lake Cisco since the opening of the lake. The city secretary's office was working overtime, collecting money for more fishing licenses than for

DALLAS PAIR KIDNAPED BY BANK BANDITS

DALLAS, May 1.—Three men identified as Kansas bank robbers, who fled from their car last night after a collision near Dallas, kidnaped a youth and girl nearby and forced their victims to drive them to Terrell, 35 miles distant, officers learned today. Richard Vickery, 2, truck driver, and Miss Marjorie Downs, 19, reported the experience to Sheriff R. A. Schmid of Dallas. They said their abductors got out of Vickery's car near the Terrell business district and ordered them to drive on without reporting the happening to officers. The three men were identified by clothing left in their abandoned automobile this morning as Pat Cox, Sam Foster, and Ross Bruton, who escaped from the Pawnee, Okla., jail several days ago.

Marland denounced as "the worst I ever heard of." The charges were placed against Dr. I. Brewer, unmarried physician of Gauer, Okla., who maintained three homes for Oklahoma A. and M. college students at Stillwater. The action against Dr. Brewer followed investigation by a personal representative of Gov. Marland in the death of Mrs. Victor Jones, 29. FIVE MEN ARE MENTIONED IN SCANDAL HINT

AUSTIN, May 1.—Senate concurrence today in a house resolution to adjourn the session of the state legislature May 7 was followed quickly on the senate floor with a prediction that a special session will be called and charges that lobbyists had forced adjournment. Gov. James Allred was silent on the topic. "No comment," was the message he sent from his office to inquirers. Meantime house members and administration senators hunted a way to undo the adjournment. As storm of protest was launched by administration senators speaking from personal privilege as soon as the senate concurred. "This has been the worst blocked legislature ever to meet in Austin. It was stitched up before it ever met. There has been a well organized and successful effort to block race horse repeal, utility regulation, and tax measures," said Sen. Tom DeBerry of Bogata. Say Five Responsible Senator Grady Woodruff of Decatur said: "A senator told me in a facetious mood last night that five men not members of the senate could adjourn the legislature by a coincidence, though I do not charge they had anything to do with the adjournment, those five men left the senate gallery as a motion to reconsider was tabled. Their work is done for the session." "Stop right there," ordered Lieut. Gov. Walter Woodul. "The chair wants to know the names of the five men who, in the senator's opinion, can adjourn the legislature. If there are such five men, we ought to know who they are. The senator ought not to make such a statement without giving their names." Woodruff refused to divulge the names.

NEW YORK, May 1.—Frank Flynn, 39, father of a 16-year-old daughter, was held on a murder charge today after he drowned 6-year-old Margaret Parlatto, in a bath tub "because I decided she should not live." Although Flynn denied it, a deputy investigator said there were indications that the child had been attacked.

2 GAMES ARE SCHEDULED IN CITY LEAGUE

Although neither effects the league leadership, there are two games on the city softball card for this afternoon. Probably the game that will draw the largest crowd will be that between the W. O. W. and Nance at Chesley park. The two teams are among the best in the circuit, with the Woodmen second only to the City and the Motorists pounding every team hard.

Out at the college, Garner's will take on the Lobos, young team which has been showing steady improvement since the beginning of the season. Although in the cellar, the Lobos will be battling for a chance to come to the top beginning today. The Garner crew, on the other hand, with one game won and one lost, will be out to move off the halfway mark in the league race. There will be plenty of softball for everybody Friday, with six of the seven clubs in the league tangling in three games. Randolph and Garner's will meet at the college. The City and W. O. W., the present leaders, will battle it out at Chesley park. The grammar school diamond will be called into use when the Tigers and the Lobos meet for what may decide the cellar position.

Prison Management In The Past

Texas courts are grinding all the time and the prison farms of the Texas system are open to all comers who are convicted of violation of the criminal statutes. March was a record month for the system, more new men being committed to the penitentiary than any month before. Figures show that this inflow helped to swell the prison population from a low for 1935 of 5008 Jan. 4 to its present count of 5,633, and in addition to 409 new inmates 59 former convicts were returned to the prison or the prison farms. A reminder that the prison system of today was inaugurated during the reign of Dan Moody as governor. There is a prison board and that board elects the general manager. An astonishing showing has been made in prison management, reduction in prison costs, as well as in the welfare and education of the wards of the state. It was different in bygone years.

Thomas M. Campbell was the successor of S. W. T. Latham. He hired out some 1,200 convicts on monthly wages and made the boast of having paid the penitentiary expenses that way during his administration. It was during Campbell's administration that George Waverly Briggs penned a series of articles on the uncalled for brutalities in the punishment of convicts. This resulted in the passage of a penitentiary law providing for a board of three commissioners to manage the system. George Waverly Briggs was not the first writer to expose the cruelties and the inhumanities of the system. James Clayton McNealus, for eight years a member of the state senate, was a pioneer in the work. He branded the system before the coming of Campbell "as the shame of Texas."

Oscar B. Colquitt was the successor of Campbell. Colquitt had pledged in his campaign to reform and humanize the prison management and abolish the leasing of convicts. This he did the first year of his administration. He took over all convicts and put them on the farms. He abolished the brutal bat and the convict lease system. His predecessor, Campbell, was very angry and called a special session after the nomination of Colquitt to pass the penitentiary system law. Critics said that the law was expensive and bundlesome.

As a matter of history, the Campbell act provided for a commission of three to manage the entire system, including the farms. It was a failure. Colquitt came in. Each time his legislature met, he recommended the creation of the office of business manager to direct the system—and not by a board of three members with divided authority as provided for by the Campbell law. These are facts of history according to the record and the record should be kept straight for those who are on earth today.

Advertising and Progress

Advertising has proven itself to be the barometer of progress.

It has not been long since business advertising was as severely criticised and ridiculed as boasting of personal qualifications. At the same time there was as little faith in the claims of advertisements as in the claims of the braggard. Only the quack and the imposter, who had everything to gain and nothing to lose, then resorted to advertising.

Business is ever the standard bearer and apostle of progress, and so it was business which discovered that advertising was a vital factor in all growth. When advertising was admitted to the fireside of business it was not the big business of today. Big business traces its beginning with its employment of advertising.

In its conversion to advertising business was soon followed by industry, commerce and the professions. The benefits of advertising had made themselves manifest in each step forward.

That was the evolution of advertising, until today advertising plays a part in every phase of life and is the working instrument of all except the doctor and the lawyer, who still consider it "unethical" to advertise for business. He may place his "card" in the weekly newspaper in patronage of the publisher, but it is professionally forbidden for the doctor or the lawyer to inform the public of his capabilities.

Nothing in life has attained perfection and evolution as an eternal, ever-continuing advancement. The evolution of advertising will not stop with its adoption by medicine and jurisprudence, but that adoption will establish another milestone of progress.

Business Fertilizer

One of the country's leading investment bankers estimates that his branch of business, represented by an association of about 700 members, is spending $40,000,000 a year in financial advertising. He says:

"I think if anybody had told the bankers of the United States twenty years ago that they would spend $40,000,000 a year in advertising, they would have the banking industry could not possibly stand it. And I will make a prediction that in another ten years' time the members of this association will be spending $80,000,000 a year; and if they do not, their business is going backward."

The growth of advertising of all kinds in this century has been almost incredible. Yet nearly always it has justified itself, and continues to do so. This is the basis for such prophecies as the one given.

Advertising—published news of available goods, investments and services—enlarges the market and creates new wants. Industry and trade supply the wants. More advertising, more production, more consumption and more accumulation of wealth! Advertising is the fertilizer of business, making a poor soil good and a good soil better.

Nervous Complications

Texas Topics

By RAYMOND BROOKS

AUSTIN, May 1 — John Henry Kirby of Houston, chairman of a temperance education committee, in a s announced the organization will make a state-wide campaign in favor of the repeal amendment, in whatever form determined this week by the legislature. Vance Muse of Houston will be the active leader of this campaign. So far assuming the prohibition amendment will be submitted either leaving the legislature to prescribe the form or containing the alternative of state monopoly but one other amendment is sure to be considered along with repeal August 24 of this year. That is one that should have been adopted long ago, to extend the benefits of free textbooks—the same books as used in public schools—to the parochial schools.

It received virtually unanimous support, only one senate vote being cast against its submission. This question will help out a vote that will be counted in the prohibition repeal election as well. Mr. Kirby has pointed out that two big cities that gave the repeal of the 18th amendment 50,000 of its 115,000 majority two years ago now show a 30,000 decrease in poll tax payments this off year from 1934.

Let us figure your next job of printing. Our job printing department is equipped to serve your needs. —Phone 80.

Kirby said San Antonio and Houston and their counties showed this decline, and Tarrant county a decline of about 15,000 poll taxes. Jefferson county voting a 7000 majority repeal of national prohibition, has 1,000 fewer voters this year. There are 900,000 qualified voters this year, as compared with 1,200,000 last year, Mr. Kirby said. Effect of the survey apparently was to show that the repeals will need to make a real campaign, and maybe to stir them up by warning them the outcome is not at all sure.

Work toward state public utility regulation at the long session has not been wasted, even though the measure is on the shelf. The administration bill may be counted upon, with active support of the League of Texas Municipalities and the vigorous demand of the folks back home for action, to have a front seat at the first called session of the 44th legislature. If not passed then—the average has been four called sessions each biennium for some time now.

Did you ever stop to think
EDSON & WAITE
Shreve, Okla.

You should do your share toward making your city the industrial and commercial metropolis of your section.

When a structure is built upon sand and not upon rock, it is certain that unless the foundation is strengthened the structure will weaken when floods and winds beat upon it. Too many New Deals seem to be built upon sand.

If you are looking for a quiet place to rest and sleep, just look up a few of the towns where the merchants do not advertise. They are the dead towns where you can rest in peace.

Surplus crops are like a river in flood. The river will in time burst its banks. Surplus crops accumulated in various countries will always, if possible, flood other countries.

Too many cities have too many factories. They should each give and take a little and hit some happy medium where they can work together towards the up-building of their city.

The politician with a glib tongue and the patronizing one who asks about the health of the family and all the relatives are often a doubtful proposition.

How you advertise what you have to sell has much to do in the selling.

A whole lot of people in this world should work more and talk less.

National Puzzlers League Will Meet

CLEVELAND, May 1 — The National Puzzlers' League, in case you didn't know it existed, is going to have its annual convention in Cleveland, Labor Day weekend. Not only that, it will convene jointly with the American Cryptogram association.

Members of the two societies are tucked away in all crannies of the globe, according to George Lamb, of Chardon, O., who as editor of the cryptogram association's journal happens to be in charge of arrangements.

The most active chapters of the National Puzzlers' League are in Hong Kong, China, said Lamb.

Members include all sorts of persons — millionaires, elevator operators, professional men, ranking members of the Army and Navy intelligence services, according to Lamb.

One of the best known of these is Maj. Herbert O. Yardley, who, during the World War, was in charge of military cryptography.

Here's what a cryptogram is: "The cryptogram is the aristocrat of puzzles. The fascination of puzzling them out is being discovered by more and more people interested in intellectual games," explained Lamb.

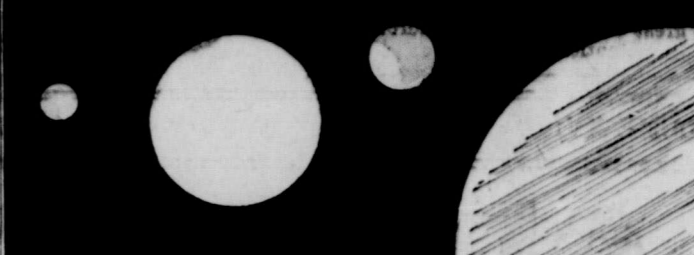

"Many newspapers and detective story magazines print cryptograms, and I am sure it will not be long before the cryptogram takes the place of the cross-word puzzle in popularity."

The DARK BLOND

By CARLETON KENDRAKE

BEGIN HERE TODAY
MILLENCE GRAYES, secretary to GEORGE DRINGOLD, heads her car driven by the woman in a beautiful shop where she is transformed into a brunette, then takes her home, introducing her as his secretary. She meets HOPP's son, NORMAN; his step-sister, RUBY; and her partner, HOPP; DICK GENTRY, Hopp's partner; VERA DUCHENE, Mrs. Hopp's maid.

In Hopp's home Millicent sees the mysterious "woman in black evening" whom she believes has some connection with Dringold's death.

The chauffeur is found dead. Later Hopp is kidnapped. Millicent and Norman learn the car driven by the woman in black belongs to PHYLLIS FAULCONER. They go to her apartment and find there the substance of books showing a shortage of $200,000 in Gentry's accounts.

Millicent and Norman leave and later return. Norman goes in Great Britain to investigate Millicent enters. The place is in wild disorder. A man who says he is a policeman opens the door. Millicent takes him to the kitchen, then escapes. Running down the hall she hears a police whistle.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XLIII
MILLENCE dashed down the stairs as fast as her feet could carry her. She crossed the lobby on the run, pushed open the door of the apartment house, and sprinted across the strip of sidewalk between her and the taxicab.

The cab driver saw her coming. He jerked open the door of the cab, shifted gears, raced the motor, and held the clutch down with his foot. As Millicent jumped into the cab he slammed the door shut and let the clutch in, all in one motion. It seemed to Millicent that the car fairly leapt forward, throwing her back against the cushions.

The tires squealed as the cab driver negotiated the corner and skidded into the side street. Millicent felt as helpless as a kernel of popcorn in a hopper on a hot stove.

She saw the broad shoulders of the cab driver braced back of the wheel, realized that his foot was crowding the throttle, pushing it down clear to the floor boards, but as she looked back through the rear window of the cab, it seemed to her that they were barely crawling along, so great was her panic and so keen her desire to get away from the neighborhood.

All sorts of visions floated through her tortured mind and she heard, as from a great distance, the voice of the cab driver saying, "Any place in particular, Miss?"

It took her several seconds to get sufficient control of herself to trust her voice.

"No," she said. "Just away."

He slowed the car slightly, flashed her a quick glance over his shoulder and said, "That's the way I figured it, Miss. When you came out of there on the run I figured you wanted to make a quick start, and boy, oh boy! did I make it!"

HE leaned forward, realizing that this cab driver would become either a dangerous witness against her, or an invaluable ally. "I'll say you did," she said. "You certainly made a fine job of it. Pull in to the curb here for a moment. I want to talk with you."

"There's a garage there, ma'am. I'd better swing around the corner."

"That's all right."

to a stop but left the motor idling. He turned around to face her with a friendly grin.

"Trouble?" he asked. "I don't know," she said. "My friend wasn't where he was supposed to be and someone became very offensive."

"I'll go back there and take a pop at him," the cab driver offered. "No. You couldn't do that because he's on the force."

"You mean a cop?" "Yes."

"Say—that's had!" "Well, it couldn't be helped, but under the circumstances I wouldn't want you to take a pop at him, as you express it."

A reminiscent grin came over the man's features. "Well, now, Miss, I'm not making any admissions but if these knuckles of mine smacked up against the face of a cop, it might not be such a surprise to you as you'd think." He chuckled reminiscently.

"There's one thing, however, that you can do," Millicent said. "What is it, Miss?"

"Just remember the time when I went into that apartment house and how long I was gone."

"You mean you want me to swear that you wasn't in there very long?"

"That's right. I wouldn't want you to swear to anything that wasn't the truth, but I wasn't in there very long and I'd like to have you remember it just that way."

"M'AM," he said gallantly, "you walked into that door, and so help me, I don't think it could have been over 30 seconds later—that you came out on the run—well, maybe a minute, but a minute at the outside."

"No," she told him, smiling. "You're just a little bit optimistic. You don't need to go that strong. I think perhaps I was in there three or four minutes."

"As long as that?" he asked in surprise that was either genuine or remarkably well simulated.

"I think so. I had to take an elevator to the third floor, go to an apartment and then come back down the stairs, and I was talking with this man I was telling you about for perhaps a minute or so."

"Well, just as you say," he said. "If you did all that, I guess it was probably three minutes. You might even make it four at the outside, but that's stretching it to the limit."

at the hotel where he met her earlier.

"If you want to trust me with the name of the hotel, ma'am, wouldn't . . ."

"She shook her head and said, "It isn't that, but this is one of those cases where what you do know won't hurt you. That's all I want him to have and wouldn't be enough to get you in any trouble if the wrong party should ask you questions."

The cab driver's grateful face closed about the bill Millicent handed him.

"Ma'am," he said, "the wretched parties could question me from now until they made skating rink in the hot place, and they couldn't get anything from me."

"You don't understand," she said. "Sudden comprehension filled Millicent's countenance."

"Oh, I see, there, Miss. I shouldn't have said that. I see I was just a little dumb. Don't worry. You're playing safe when you play with me. How long you want me to wait there?"

"Well," she said slowly, "perhaps half an hour, or . . ."

"MAKE it an hour," he said. "You can't tell what might happen. I'll make it an hour at then before I leave I'll go ring the bell on every apartment in the building and tell them that I have a customer that went in the building some place and left without paying. And . . ."

"Oh, could you do that?" Millicent asked eagerly.

"Sure thing," he told her. "What's more, I'll leave my car right in front of that house so your friend should come out and know I am in looking for him."

"Oh, that would be just wonderful," Millicent said. "Only be careful. Be very, very careful."

"How careful?" he asked. "My friend seems to have disappeared somewhere in the building."

The cab driver opened a pocket in the side of the door, pulled out a big wrench and slipped it up his sleeve.

"M'AM," he said, "if they be me before I beat 'em to it with this wrench they're gonna be good. She fumbled with the door cat and the driver reached out and opened the door.

"You're gonna get out here?" she asked.

"Yes. I don't want to go but I want you to get started."

He gave her a smile, tipped his cap and slid the cab into motion. "On my way," he called.

She watched the tall light of the cab, her lips upturned in a half smile. She liked this man as she sensed that she could depend upon him. Suddenly she snapped her eyes into focus upon a couple who had rounded the corner and started walking toward her.

A moment she stared with wide incredulous eyes. Then, with an exclamation of quick dismay, she drew in a deep breath, prepared to screaming to the cab driver, realizing it was too late. The light slid around the corner and as she watched.

A dark doorway was at her elbow. Millicent jumped into the doorway, her hand at her throat, the pulses pounding in her ears. (To Be Continued.)

Triple Threat Horse Too Much For Rider
NINNEKAH, Okla., May 1—Oscar Brown has ridden horses that threw him off and he has been around horses that would have kicked him from here to yonder. Brown has found a horse, however, which is comparable to the "triple-threat" football player, except that this particular equine doesn't "pass," but only runs and kicks. The horse threw him and adding insult to injury, lashed out with a vicious "left" which Brown caught on his jaw. Brown was released from a Chicasha hospital after treatment for the severe gash.

WORLD'S GREATEST LIFE SAVER

Lincoln "Made Fool Of Self" On April 1

ONE man who is credited with having saved more lives than any other person in the world, and who even after his death continues to save thousands of lives a year, is the great Louis Pasteur, French chemist and bacteriologist. Best known for his process of pasteurization, by which milk is made safe from bacterial infection, Pasteur is almost as famous for his discovery of a serum against rabies. And in France especially he is also noted for his discovery of a cure for the dread silkworm disease which once threatened to ruin the French silk industry. France has honored this great scientist in many ways. In stamps it is by means of a belated issue in 1923, commemorating the 100th anniversary of his birth in 1822.

METHODIST RALLIES FOR MAY PLANNED

Central Texas Methodist adults are preparing for three one-day rallies to be held in key centers of the conference May 7, 8, 9. Detail information has gone to all ministers, presiding elders and workers throughout the conference. These meetings are to take the place of the annual summer assembly for adults. These rallies are planned to cover the problems, programs, and tentative program outlined by Dr. M. Leo Rippey, director of adult work for the church, Nashville, Tenn. The meetings will open at 10 a. m. with a brief devotional led by the district director of adult work in the district sponsoring the meeting. The pastor host is to give an inspirational address or sermon at 11:45. Groups will be formed for the purpose of discussion under the leadership of G. A. Schaefer, executive secretary of the conference, and I. E. McWhirter, conference director of adult work. Each rally will close at 8:45 p. m. with an inspirational address by Dr. Rippey. The Central Texas Conference consisting of ten districts will be divided as follows for these rallies: Tuesday, May 7, Waco, at Austin Avenue Methodist church, with the following districts in attendance, Clarksville, Gatesville, Georgetown and Waco; Wednesday, May 8, Cleburne, at Main Street Methodist church, with Waxahachie, Fort Worth and Cleburne districts participating; Thursday, May 9, Ranger, at First Methodist church, with Weatherford, Brownwood and Cisco districts comprising the delegation. Dr. Rippey, who will head up these sectional meetings, is no stranger in these parts as he has been in Texas many times in the interest of adult work, which is his responsibility in Southern Methodism. All adult workers, pastors and members of adult organizations are urged to attend these meetings.

THE NEW FANGLES (Mom'n Pop)

By COWAN. About Our Friends

OFFICIALS TAKE CUTS

ZANESVILLE, O. — Mayor William F. Wetherald, members of his cabinet and all appointive officers here volunteered to take drastic salary cuts ranging from 33 to 50 per cent during a financial crisis facing the city. Their offer came at the same time that firemen and policemen offered to stay on the job after the forces had been ordered cut to four men in each department for the city of 45,000.

'BOUGHT IN WAR AT'

UHRICHVILLE, O. — Isaac Haslins, who "enlisted" in the Civil war as a drummer boy at 11, is dead. During a retreat of Union troops in the Shenandoah Valley, the lad threw away his drum and decided to shoulder a rifle instead. The weapon was so heavy that officers saved off 12 inches of the barrel so he could carry it. At 85, he was one of Ohio's youngest vets.

FORM BALL LEAGUE

CLEVELAND — A Rumanian baseball league is being organized in the United States, with Cleveland its headquarters. George Danou, business manager of a Rumanian newspaper here, organizer of the league, said six teams already had been formed and that others were being set up.

'GOOD SAMARITAN' ROBBED

FOR FULL MOTOR PROTECTION

Say "OK-Drain" — FILL WITH CONOCO GERM PROCESSED MOTOR OIL

Modern cars must have oil with extra oiliness

THE development since 1931 of motors of 80 to 180 horsepower has brought about correspondingly increased bearing pressures and crankcase temperatures. Motor manufacturers have turned to new alloy metals of extra strength and durability to meet these new conditions. For full protection of such motors, you must have oil with enough extra oiliness and film strength to get safe lubrication under extreme pressure and heat. Yet motor oils generally have no more oiliness and film strength now than they had ten years ago. Some oils have less, because over-refining to eliminate carbon and sludge has robbed them of oiliness and film strength. There is one exception—Conoco Germ Processed Motor Oil. It, too, is free from carbon and sludge troubles, as its users know after millions of trouble-free miles of driving. But more important, Almen and Timken machine tests prove it has more oiliness and 2 to 4 times the film strength of any straight mineral oil! That added oiliness and film strength protect your motor under all conditions. Germ Processing—adding concentrated oily essence to highly-refined oil—gives other valuable advantages. Because Germ Processed Oil penetrates and combines with metal surfaces, a "Hidden Quart" stays up in your motor and cuts down starting-period wear. Germ Processed Oil gives longer mileage with greater motor protection, as proved by the famous Indianapolis Destruction Test. Say "O.K.—Drain"—fill with Conoco Germ Processed Motor Oil and get full motor protection!

Air Conditioning Is Announced For All Coaches On Texas And Pacific Trains

DALLAS, May 1.—Again pioneering in the betterment of railway passenger service the Texas and Pacific railway has provided complete air conditioning and cooling of all principal trains. J. B. Payne, vice president, traffic, announced today. Two years ago the Texas and Pacific was the first to introduce air conditioned comfort on Southwestern trains when its lounge cars were equipped for this ultra modern service, Payne said. The experiment proved so popular and effective that dining cars also were air conditioned and then all Pullman cars. Now coaches and chair cars have been completely equipped in the same manner to assure a new high point in travel comfort. Regardless of how hot or dusty it may be outside, Texas and Pacific trains now manufacture their own weather to provide a comfortable temperature and clean, fresh air. Tightly sealed windows exclude travel noises while the air is cooled, filtered and treated before it is circulated through the cars. In the recent dust storms passengers in Texas and Pacific trains could hardly see the roadside through the windows, but the air they breathed inside their cars was pure and free from dust, Payne said. Following shortly upon the completion of air conditioning service comes the inauguration of low summer vacation rates which go into effect May 15, Mr. Payne said. This means that vacationists who ride the air conditioned trains receive a far superior service than formerly at a lower price. And a vacation begins the minute a traveler boards an air conditioned train where manufactured weather is as cool and comfortable as at any summer resort.
