RAIN, HAIL AND SNOW STRIKE TEXAS

2.9 INCH RAIN RECORDED ON CISCO GAUGE

Hail, cold, and a three-inch rain struck Cisco Saturday, while the Texas panhandle was blanketed under a layer of late spring snow that settled the dust in the drought stricken area.

The City hall rain gauge late Saturday showed that 2.9 inches of rain had been recorded here. A light mist was falling at the time.

Hail struck the city at 3 o'clock Saturday morning but apparently did little damage to crops, although some of the hailstones were as large as golf balls.

Winter spread a two inch layer of snow over the Texas panhandle today in a freakish late spring return to the drought parched plains area already buffeted by dust storms.

Large wet flakes of snow continued falling in the panhandle as rains spread fanlike over the remainder of the state covering corn and cotton fields and pastures. Strong winds damaging roofs at Van.

At Dalhart, where Tex Thornton, explosive expert, had been attempting for several days to blast moisture from the skies, the snowfall measured two inches. Grain men said the moisture would greatly benefit the grain crops already practically ruined by drought and dust storms.

Precipitation at Amarillo, mixed rain and snow, measured 25 inches as the temperature dropped below the freezing point. The ground was covered with snow two inches deep.

Precipitation at other points was listed as follows: Abilene, 70 inch; Childress, 92 inch; Weatherford, 98 inch; Taylor, 64 inch; Kaufman, 13 inches; Kerrville, 84 inch; Cuero, 24 inches; Henrietta, 48 inch; Mexia, 102 inches; Paris, 96 inch; San Marcos, one inch.

16 KILLED, MANY HURT IN NATION'S STORMS

By UNITED PRESS

Sixteen dead and scores of injured were reckoned today in the toll of torrential rain and electrical storms that swept over eight states of the Mississippi valley.

Floods in Indiana and Illinois held threats of further losses of life and property.

Violent wind and rain caused 11 deaths in Arkansas and four in Kentucky. An accident attributed to the storm was reported in Tennessee.

At Louisville, Ky., 70,000 Derby Day visitors were greeted by a 50 mile an hour wind. Roofs were ripped off. Clearing skies were predicted, however.

Winds of tornado force swept over a broad section of central and southern states, including Arkansas, Missouri, Tennessee, Mississippi, and Louisiana, accompanied by heavy rains and electrical storms.

Hurricane gales destroyed houses and crops in northeast Arkansas, and temperatures fell sharply.

Ranger Man Elected Cisco Band Director

EXPECTED TO BEGIN DUTIES HERE JUNE 1

Robert L. Maddox of Ranger has been offered the position of director of the Cisco band, it was announced by the Cisco school board Saturday.

The board said he has indicated that he will accept the position. The offer calls for him to begin his duties here June 1.

Maddox was offered the position following the resignation some time ago of G. W. Collier, now director of the Eastland band. Director Collier was head of the Cisco musical organization for 10 years.

Following a long campaign to secure more aid for the band and scholastic credit for band members, the school board and the band committee operating under the city commission worked out an agreement whereby the two organizations would maintain a bond through a joint fund.

This agreement called for a combination band director and part-time high school teacher. It necessarily limited the field of choice to a man with a college degree, a high school certificate, and a music certificate.

Three Names Offered

The band committee, after much investigation, certified to the school board the names of three candidates for the position, all of whom met the requirements as far as the committee was concerned. The school board passed upon the qualifications of the candidates for the position as a high school teacher, and chose Maddox.

Maddox, a graduate of Baylor university, has been director of the Ranger band for seven years, the school board said. He is married and has one child. At present, besides being director of the Ranger band, he is teaching commercial subjects.

Ranger people expressed the belief that Cisco was securing one of the best bandmasters possible and regrets at losing him as head of their own organization.

Both school officials and the band committee Saturday appeared to be pleased with their choice.

Named to Probe Virgin Isles Row

A one-man investigating committee, Senator Robert R. Reynolds, above, of North Carolina, will start hearings about May 10 into charges against the Virgin Islands administration of Gov. Paul Pearson, which have stirred up a bitter battle in Washington, with cabinet members and congressmen taking sides in the affray.

GOVERNOR IS EXPECTED AT CELEBRATION

Governor James V. Alford is expected to attend the highway 89 airline celebration at Eastland May 30, it was announced Saturday by J. E. Spencer, secretary of the Cisco Chamber of Commerce and member of the celebration committee.

Secretary Spencer said that the governor and members of the highway commission are invited to the celebration on Memorial Day and are expected to attend.

Plans for the program were worked out at a meeting of the committee in Eastland Friday afternoon, and speakers were announced.

Judge W. R. Ely of Abilene, former chairman of the state highway commission, and Harry Hines, present chairman, will be two of the principal speakers.

Judge Hamilton McCrea of Eastland will welcome the visitors to his city and Judge Sam Russell of Stephenville will welcome them on behalf of the counties through which the new cutoff passes. State Senator Grady Woodruff of Decatur will respond to the welcome addresses. Other speakers will be named later.

Milbourne McCarty of Eastland will preside at the celebration, it was said.

The Hardin-Simmons Cowboy band will be the official band for the occasion, it was announced. Local bands will also be present to play for the celebration.

Represented at the meeting Friday were the following cities: Weatherford, Thurber, Ranger, Eastland, Cisco, and Baird.

This celebration is being held in connection with the formal opening of the Weatherford-Ranger cutoff. The new road shows off 15 miles between Cisco and Fort Worth.

Germany Reveals Threats From Sea, Sky and Land

Dread that recalls the dark days of near-famine in the submarine blockade of 1917 stars again in England, with Germany's blunt announcement that she has built 12 powerful new U-boats, breaking treaty shackles, and further revelation that the Reich has a new flying and naval base on the Isle of Sylt. The map indicates the short distance planes and subs would travel to reach the French and British coasts. At the left is Britain's answer to the menace, an anti-aircraft gun in action near Aldershot, where the air defense brigade trains with all the latest equipment for detecting and combating invasion from the sky. At the right, above a sub nosing up from the sea, is a Junkers plane, easily convertible into a German bomber.

WASHINGTON, May 4 — President Roosevelt's criticism of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States for its stand against the New Deal brought a lashing attack against the president from House Republican Leader Bertrand Snell today, who said it was "absolutely unfair."

Snell asserted the president had accepted the chamber's support during the first two years of the administration as that of business generally, "and he certainly didn't find fault with the chamber until it started to criticize the New Deal."

"The president, in his fireside chat, said he welcomed constructive criticism," Snell said. "The members of the Chamber of Commerce comprising representative industrialists of every state, are certainly in a position to know as much about the practical effect of the New Deal as any other body of citizens."

AUSTIN, May 4 — Gov. James Allred said today he will not act up on the $3,000,000 Centennial appropriation bill until Monday at the earliest.

He showed considerable difficulty in determining what he could do.

In answer to a query if he had not recommended such an appropriation in a message to the legislature, he shot back:

"But I also recommended that the legislature provide revenue, which has not been done. The house twice instructed conferees to report no bill without assured return of the state funds."

Petroleum Opposed To Federal Control

CHICAGO, May 4 — The oil industry today announced a program opposed to any effort to establish a federal petroleum board classifying it as a public utility, but admitting a need for control of crude oil production.

The program was drafted by 40 leading oil men, governors of the American Petroleum Institute, in an effort to harmonize attacks on the entire National Recovery Administration oil code and a contention of producers that they had profited by federal and state control.

A lengthy resolution was prepared, referring to the Thomas oil bill for creation of a petroleum board as an "economic strait jacket."

Passing of D. D. Lewis

The passing of D. D. Lewis marks the going of another native Texan and pioneer of this section—one of the grand old men who have helped make West Texas from a wilderness into a pleasant and safe place in which to live.

A native Texan born, Mr. Lewis witnessed the changing scenes from the ox wagon that carried its heavy load surely along the country, almost without roads and with mudholes everywhere, and the ox plow which tore the roots out of a wooded land so that delicate but smooth running riding cultivators could make the once rough land into beautiful and fruitful farms and homes.

Early in life Mr. Lewis became a Christian, allying himself with those early church pioneers, who wanted to make society safe for their children. He was always found on the side of right and moral rectitude. In his position of deacon, he helped shape the affairs of his church as he did the affairs of his private life—a strict adherence to meet every obligation promptly and amply, "giving the code of the Golden Rule."

About four years ago, Mr. Lewis decided to spend his last years back in the quiet scenes of his farm home. He often remarked that the simple farm life, with its busy activities, gave him much pleasure, but ill health drove him back to Cisco where he could take it easy and end his days quietly near his church and among the friends acquired during the more than ten years of his activities here.

Another good man gone to his reward—resting eternally on the laurels of a life well spent—leaving an example that in many ways might well be emulated by the younger generation.

Centennial Runs Gauntlet of Its Foes

Congratulations to the lawmakers of Texas. Congratulations to the governor. Congratulations to the publishers of newspapers and their staffs who forced the issue to a showdown and made success possible for the "anniversary birthday of freedom" to be observed in the coming year. Congratulations to the Texans who have passed away and who gave a commonwealth as a heritage to the 6,500,000 native or adopted children of the Lone Star who will be on earth to celebrate the occasion from the gulf to the foothills of the Rockies and from the Red to the Rio Grande. Now, on with the procession and its passing show and make it one of the most sublime in a panoramic and historic sense ever given to the people of an American state.

Wrigley Says, Keep Shouting

Wrigley, the chewing gum man, has explained how he built up a business of millions of packages, a day. He has done it by sticking to his one line and advertising it. He spends over a million dollars a year in buying newspaper space to tell the world about 5 cent chewing gum. He has educated people to chew gum and to chew Wrigley's. He did not stop shouting as soon as he attracted attention. He says you must keep it up or the buyers will forget you. Whether yours is a 5 cent or a $50,000 business, keep telling about it.

Kingfish Long's Claim of Supremacy

Kingfish Long visited Des Moines, the capital of Iowa, and stole the play away from Col. Milo Reno, the chief of the national farm holiday left-wing brigade. Indeed, Reno was reduced to the ranks and the kingfish declared the leader of the Hawkeye left-wingers.

Radio Priest Coughlin did not fall into the trap. He kept his distance. He intimated that he was not going to join a political drive with the Pelican leader, who had an audience of 18,000 at the capital city of the Hawkeye commonwealth. A modest man is the kingfish. After the function was over, he whispered it to the reporters that he had "the important state of Iowa (speaking of its ballots) in his vest pocket." Many a practical politician leader has made the same claim in other years, and, on the morning after, he came out of his trance only to make the discovery that "the enemy had stolen his vest."

Power and Storage Dams for the Colorado

Gov. James V. Allred signed and made effective at once an amendment to the Colorado River authority act that permits borrowing $20,000,000 from PWA to build power and storage dams. It amends a former act for a $10,000,000 project.

For 40 years men of vision had clamored for the harnessing of the upper and lower Colorado and now success may come to those who have walked in their footsteps and won a winning battle which will result in the completion of the Hamilton dam as well as the storage dams for the needs of the people as well as to capture the flood waters to be held in reserve should droughts come or an August sun parch the earth until it resembles a desert of Sahara.

LETTERS FROM READERS

Why should not the emergency officers who were disabled in line of duty in the World War be given the same treatment as retirement with pay that is accorded to officers of the regular army? This is a question being asked by many persons who have noted the unjust discrimination.

Officers of the regular army were in most instances, educated at government expense at West Point and graduated into permanent jobs at living wages in the army. When the World War occurred these officers did not have to abandon their life work but instead, they received post-graduate training with increased rank and with no hazards greater than encountered by emergency officers. The regular had assurance before the war began that if disabled in line of duty he would be retired on a subsistence allowance.

The emergency officers, on the other hand, secure this education, basic and professional, at his own expense. If he had any military training, as was the case with officers of the National Guard and Organized Reserves, this had been acquired at a sacrifice of his own time and money. When he entered the war he abandoned his business or employment on very short notice with full knowledge that if he got back alive and sound he still would have a struggle to readjust himself because of the readjustments that would inevitably occur while he was away. Returning, at the close of war, disabled, the task was made doubly hard. Why should he not be given at least an even break with the regular and provisional officers of the army? Why should he be required to give a "causative factor" for disability admitted in line of duty?

Up to this good hour there has been something like 1500 bills introduced in both houses and most of them are of no importance to the people of this state, and up to now there have been something like 200 resolutions introduced. Most of these bills have been introduced by one of the corporation lawyers in order to prevent some useful legislation from passing.

The most important bills we have had before us, in my judgment, are the Sulphur Tax Bill by Mr. Spears from San Antonio, the Intangible Assets Bill by Mr. Tenneyson and myself and the Income Tax Bill by Mr. Bradbury and myself. These bills would be of benefit to the state had we been able to enact them into the law.

Of course the Sulphur companies and other special interests are maintaining strong lobbyists in Austin, and they are spending plenty of money to see that these measures are killed. They realize that these measures will pass the house of representatives if they are given a direct vote; therefore, they are using all dilatory tactics possible in order to keep these measures from coming before the house and senate for consideration.

The special interests can always find members of the legislature who are willing to work in their behalf and some members were elected by the special interests in order to serve them in the legislature. Of course I prescribe to the old Biblical saying that no man can serve two masters at the same time.

On yesterday we voted down House Joint Resolution by Mr. William Fox of Williamson County, calling for submission of One House. In other words, to abolish the senate and maintain the house. This resolution was voted down by a vote of 69 to 66. I was one of the 60 who voted for the resolution and I am proud of my vote for the following reason.

I think if the people of Texas realized what was going on here in Austin, they would vote solid for this Resolution because every time we pass a measure in the house it is killed in the senate. Each and every time we consider a bill some member will say the senate won't pass it anyway so why go on with it. I think if we only had one house we could find out where the trouble is. Had we just had one house in the past, we would not be in session today.

The lower house had already passed the old age pension resolution submitting this question to the people of this state to be voted upon on August 24th of this year, but the senate has not acted on this important piece of legislation up to now and I do not know whether they will or not. I am proud to say that I have supported this old age pension resolution, and I will do so again when the opportunity presents itself. I really and truly hope the senate will act upon it before we adjourn, however, I doubt it seriously whether they will or not. This is one of the reasons I am a strong advocate of the one house proposition.

I want to further say to the people in my district that I have already complied with my promise that I would vote to cut down on the expense of the government and not to place any additional burden on the home owners in our state.

This will be my last letter to you while I am in the legislature and I wish to thank you for your loyal moral support and to assure you that I shall always be glad to carry out your wishes in pending legislation, and I shall always feel that I am the servant and not the master.

With best wishes to all, I am
Sincerely yours,
CECIL A. LOTTEP

AUSTIN, May 4—Liquor repeal submission fixed the date for a special session of the legislature, when repeal enabling acts, tax, high utility, control and other unfinished business will be taken up. If the August 24 repeal election carries as generally is foreseen, the legislature must be called to provide the supervision, machinery and taxing of the liquor sale. The session will be called within 20 days of the election, or by Sept. 13.

As a special session, it will be limited to the subjects laid before it by the governor. One of its foremost questions will be to levy enough new taxes to meet the $3,000,000 Centennial appropriation, assuming this appropriation is approved by the governor. Meaning of the state will have a little chance to see just how much added money the tax bills bring in.

Days and weeks united in voting submission of the repeal resolutions, for an election this year and another in November of next year to determine whether the state monopoly liquor plan shall be mandatory. We're joined on the ground that with the control left optional in the legislature including power to define "open saloon" according to prevailing sentiment the second amendment will be held unnecessary. Dry supporters the plan on the ground that a year's experience with statutory control, meaning probably widespread competitive sales by profit-making concerns, the state will more readily turn to the monopoly plan. It was the idea of the dry to segregate the two questions into elections 15 months apart.

The August election would let the legislature so define "open saloon" that people could buy all the hard liquor they wanted along with one of those stage piece rubber sanc-

The DARK BLOND

CARLETON KENDRAKE

BEGIN HERE TODAY
MILLICENT GRAVES, secretary to GEORGE DRINGOLD, finds her employer in his office dead. JARVIS HAPP, a hunchback, is called to help her. He sends her to a beauty shop where she is transformed into a beauty. She takes her home, introducing her to her secretary, the movie actress, ROBERT CAISE, MRS. HAPP, DICK GENTHY, HARRY HARRIS, VERA DUCHENE, Mrs. HARRIS, etc.

The chauffeur is found dead. Later HARRIS is kidnapped. MILLICENT and HARRIS learn the car driver by the woman to examine belongs to PHYLIS FAULCONER. They go to her apartment, where she believes she does not return MILLICENT follows. The place is in wild disorder and there is a man in a suit. MILLICENT goes to a nearby garage, asks to see PHYLIS FAULCONER's car and goes to the apartment floor. Someone grabs her arm. It is DICK GENTHY. He opens her pocket and finds the note written by Bob Caise, and accuses her of being Phyllis Faulconer.

Now go on with the story CHAPTER XLV
BUCHANAN said, "That catches it. You're Phyllis Faulconer. That note was written by Bob Caise, Sergeant Mahoney got me 10 bucks that when we got out of Faulconer I'd find that Bob Caise had tipped her off about the car. That's why he sent me to wait for it. Come on, you're going to head quarters and get booked."

"But you don't understand," she said. "That note wasn't left for me. That was . . ."

"Oh, Mahoney!" he said. "I've heard enough of your alibis. You come with me. You can tell your troubles to Sergeant Mahoney."

"Thank heavens!" she said. "I can at least talk with some one who's got intelligence."

"Go on, smarty, make all your wise cracks," he said, opening the door of the automobile and pulling her by the handcuffed wrists. "You may think I'm dumb but I had sense enough to trap you and trap you right."

She recognized the utility of further argument and braces herself to be led down the stairs. Once more she saw the pitying glance of the uniformed attendant of the garage and now she understood its complete significance. He had known that a police detective was waiting to arrest whoever showed up to take out that Faulconer sedan, and he had known she was walking into a trap when she climbed the stairs.

"Well," Buchanan said triumphantly, "I got her."

"Do you need those handcuffs?" the garage man asked.

"I'll say I do. She's wanted for murder."

The garage attendant stuck by his guns.

"You're about a 100-pounds heavier than she is," he remarked. "If she hasn't got a gun you should be able to handle her without handcuffs."

"You don't need to tell me how to do my job," Buchanan remarked. "All I want you to do is to show me where the telephone is and then keep quiet."

The attendant jerked his head toward the office. Buchanan took his foot around the leg of a chair, jerked it a few inches toward Millicent and said, "Sit down there and rest yourself. Don't try to make a break."

He picked up the telephone. "Police headquarters," and then, after a moment said, "Homicide Department. . . . Is Sergeant Mahoney there? Well, tell me talk with Ramsey. . . . Hello, Ramsey, this is Buchanan. I got the Faulconer case. . . . Yes, she's sitting right here at the Savory garage. Where's Mahoney?"

all the authority you bother about."

"I mean," she said, "who has sense as well as brains?"

"I had sense enough smart you," he told her.

"She ignored the command. After a few moments maddened again. 'Well, we waiting for?'"

"That," he said, "is things you might like but you're pretty smart to know what I want to know nothing else."

"I demand," she said, taken to headquarters to know that you've got before a magistrate with rest me."

"So," he said, "you've criminal record, have you?"

"No, I haven't a criminal record, but I've got an opportunity to vindicate myself. 'Don't worry. You'll get that I promise. If you're up and up we'll know very few minutes.'"

"How?"

"WE'VE got someone who can identify Phyllis Faulconer. I've your word one way or another. I'm betting you're Phyllis Faulconer, but just in case going to give you the name of the apartment. 'Oh,' she said, 'it do that if you'd only be one from the apartment who knows the real Phyllis Faulconer and I know square-shooter who can't sign over on him. Here he comes. Millicent heard the heavy steps. She anticipated the vindication to be hers. She turned a face, and then the smile on her lips and panic filled Buchanan."

The man who pushed through the glass partition nodded a greeting and shifted his eyes to Millicent. He was the officer who knocked on the door of the meat and complained to about the excessive noise man who had blown the whistle when she had the apartment!

"Sister," he told her, "I've got"

New Oil Extraction Means To Aid China

DONCASTER, Eng., May 4 — China is the latest country to become interested in the low temperature carbonization method of extracting oil from coal. Two Chinese engineers, sent by their government have arrived here to study, at the Askern plant of Low Temperature Carbonization, Ltd., the actual treatment of a load of Chinese coal which has been shipped here for testing purposes.

The tests are declared to have shown that Chinese coal can be profitably treated by that method and the two engineers have been authorized to place contracts in Sheffield for a plant to be erected in China.

While China is one of the richest countries in the world in coal resources, with an annual output of around 29,000,000 metric tons, she is very short of good coking coal suitable for blast furnaces. In fact, this lack of good coking coal is stated to be one of the great handicaps of the struggling iron and steel industry in the Pacific basin. As one of the advantages claimed for the low temperature carbonization technique is that it produces, as a by-product, a good semi-coking coal not unsuitable for blast furnaces, it is considered probable that this aspect of it has weighed with the Chinese authorities.

It also produces, of course, motor spirits and lubricating oil, but, although these are useful enough, they would have to compete with the huge natural petroleum resources of the Far East and are probably less interesting, from the economic point of view, than the semi-coke.

Yes, Painting Ideas HAVE CHANGED!

SWP HOUSE PAINT

You can tell the difference between SWP and a cheap pigment and oil job. The SWP job is glossy, fresh and smart looking. The cheap pigment job appears prematurely dull, dirty and shabby looking—even though protection may still remain in the paint. This is usually true because single pigment and oil paint has less control of "chalking"—weather roughens it, and dirt and soot cling to its roughened surface. Modern SWP with its Multi-Pigment, balanced formula, produces a clean "just painted" kind of job that stays lastingly beautiful. There is one sure way to get a lasting and economical paint job—insist on SWP.

Let us show you how little it will cost to give your house a REAL coat of paint-SWP.

FOUNDERS OF CITIES TO BE GIVEN HONOR

QUEBEC CITY, Que., May 3 — Quebec this spring is preparing to honor more than a score of "home town boys who made good" as the discoverers or founders of territories and cities in nearly half of the states in the American Union.

Following a year of historical research, the Quebec Highway Ministry has announced a preliminary list of the native sons of this French Canadian Province who figured largely in the development of the United States and whose quaint birthplaces here are to be brought to the attention to U. S. motorists through erection of commemorative markers.

Amazed at Number

The Hon. J. E. Perrault, Minister of Roads said he believes Americans will be amazed at the large number of French Canadians who "fathered" the discovery and settlement of so much of the United States. He said the Quebec government is anxious to appropriately recognize common bond between citizens of the two countries.

Twenty-three Quebec cities and villages, from which came the mayors of two great U. S. cities, bishops, military men and explorers are to be marked this year. The work will recall the pioneer days of American communities ranging from Niagara, N. Y., to Duluth, Dubuque and Los Angeles and from St. Paul to Memphis and Mobile.

The List

The list follows:

Ville La Salle, home of Caveller de la Salle, one of the discoverers of the Mississippi, and founder of Niagara, N. Y., Joliet, Ill., and Memphis, Tenn.; Quebec City, birthplace of Pierre Menard, founder of Keokuk, Ia., and of Peter Skene Ogden, from whom Ogden, Utah got its name and home town of Nicolet, discoverer of Wisconsin; Montreal birthplace of d'Arville, founder of Louisiana and Mobile, Ala., and home of Lamont-Cadillac, founder of Detroit, Mich., and Duluth, explorer of Dakota whose name became that of Duluth, Minn.; L'Assomption birthplace of Salomon Jumeau, founder and first mayor of Milwaukee, Wis.; Saint Remi-de-Napierville, birthplace of Vital Guerin, founder of St. Paul, Minn.; Saint-Pierre-les-Becquets, birthplace of Julien Dubuque, founder of Dubuque, Ia.; Sainte-Anne-des-Plaines, birthplace of Prudent Beaudry, mayor of Los Angeles, Cal., and one of its pioneers; Revere-in-Leup, birthplace of John McLaughlin, father of Oregon; Beconour, home town of Nicolas Perrot, famous explorer of the American midwest; Saint-Pierre-de-Montmaury, birthplace of Norbert Blaneset first bishop of Oregon; Saint-Henri-de-Lauzon, birthplace of Louis Blanchette, founder of St. Charles, Mo.; Trois-Rivieres, birthplace of de la Verendrye, discoverer of the Rocky Mountains; Saint-Michel d'Yanaska, birthplace of Noel Leveseur, founder of Bourbonnais, Ill., and of J. B. Lefevre, founder of Superior City, Wis.; Laprairie, birthplace of Michel Menard, one of the pioneer settlers of Galveston, Texas; Maskinonge, birthplace of F. X. Aubry, one of the famous trail-makers in western U. S. pioneer days; Contrecoeur, birthplace of de Contrecoeur, who erected a fort on the present site of Pittsburgh, Pa.; Mascouche, home of de Repentigny, founder of Sault Sainte, Marie, Mich., and Oka, home of Francois Piquet founder of Ogdensburg, N. Y.

AUSTRIA MAY PRODUCE LOW PRICED AUTO

VIENNA, May 4 — Austria, a country with only one auto for every 200 persons, soon may have a popular priced "people's car" it is reported.

The government is said to be behind a project to produce an auto costing from $600 to $1,000 under the lowest priced car now selling here.

The government, it is said, is anxious to increase the number of cars in Austria, but high production costs in the local industry and huge taxes on foreign cars have made it practically impossible for the average man to own one.

Popular Model

The Steyr-Werke, a government subsidized factory, tried to sell a so-called popular model for $1600 but there were not many sales. The model went begging because of the initial high cost and the additional high taxes.

For several months the government has been under pressure to let down the bars to cheap foreign cars, or to produce a low priced Austrian car. The government apparently has decided to try the former alternative.

Foreign cars are extraordinarily expensive in Austria, but even despite this there is a greater demand than can be filled by the very limited import quota.

84 Cars a Year

Because American firms are not allowed to sell more than 84 cars yearly in Austria, a popular low priced American car sells for about $3,000 in Vienna. The same car costs about $500 in the United States.

Representatives of American firms have tried to get the government to consent to the production of American cars in Austria, or else grant a more liberal import quota. The government, however, has refused.

The new Austrian car which the government has in mind probably will be exempted from the ordinary tax, and the tax on gas increased.

Automobile experts say Austria is a rich market if it could be opened to low priced cars. It has the lowest car registration of any important country in Europe.

U. S. Tourists Get Fare Cut in France

PARIS, May 4 — A reduction of 60 per cent on the railroad fare from any frontier station to Paris will be granted to all American tourists who arrive in France during June, provided they remain six days in the French capital for the 1935 Fete de Paris.

This reduction is available to all Americans, whether they embark at Cherbourg, Le Havre, Boulogne, Calais, Marseilles or Villefranche. Those who enter France from Belgium, Luxembourg, Germany, Switzerland or Italy will also get the benefit of the special rate.

In addition all American tourists reaching France in June will be given a reduction of 40 per cent for all travel they do by rail within French territory during June and July. This includes the homeward journey via any frontier station or port of embarkation.

Many affairs of interest to Americans will take place during the fete. The American Chamber of Commerce will hold its annual banquet to which visiting Americans are invited. The American Legion will place flowers before the statues of Washington, Franklin, Lafayette and the American Volunteers monument. There will be special ceremonies on Independence Day in honor of John Paul Jones, America's first admiral.

A marble tablet will be placed on the site of his first grave in what used to be the "Cemetery for Protestant Foreigners."

Douglass Montgomery Is Unsuccessful In Effort To Look Older Than He Really Is

By ALEXANDER KAHN
United Press Staff Correspondent
HOLLYWOOD, May 4 — Douglass Montgomery has spent a lifetime trying to look older than he is and now while still in his 20's he admits he hasn't had much luck.

"I started acting while still a kid in knee pants," the sage and screen actor said. "Because I have a deep voice and I am fairly tall, I rarely was given parts of youngsters but usually played men's roles."

"When I was 17, after I had been working on the stage for three or four years, I was acting and helping direct at the Pasadena Community Playhouse. The director had plenty of irons in the fire, including producing a Greek drama at a local college."

"Not having the time, he sent me over to handle the thing. I was scared. The members of the cast were all three or four years older than I, the director, was."

"To hide my extreme, tender youth, I put on dark glasses and smoked what seemed like tons of cigars. And over every cigarette I almost choked to death. I guess the play went off good enough. At least I didn't hear many kicks."

Although he has played all sorts of character roles as well as romantic leads, Montgomery looks like an undergraduate college man.

Montgomery bemoans his early years on the stage, not for the training he received, but because he got into the habit of working and doesn't know what to do with himself when not working.

"I envy those guys who can go months and years doing nothing. I like acting probably more than anything else, but I wish I could roam around Hollywood like these 'idle rich' and not feel bored as the devil."

"When I'm working, I find time to get books read, go to the dentist, write letters and exercise. When I'm not working, I never seem to have time for anything and never seem to get anything done. Leisure time drives me 'nuts'."

"Oh, well, nature should slow me down eventually and most movie actors don't stay at the top long, so I ought to achieve both my desires — to look older and to be able to loaf."

PROSPECTORS PLAN HUNT FOR INDIAN'S GOLD

EDMONTON, Alta., May 4 — One of the most amazing gold hunts in Canada's mining history is being planned this summer by Alberta prospectors.

Without proof that it even exists, hardening sourdoughs are planning to hunt the many hills of the White Court area for the legendary "gold cache" of Old Moostas, 79-year-old Indian, around whose gnarled figure a legend of fabulous riches and superstition was weaved by prospectors several years ago. At that time he saved a tribe of Indians from starvation by bringing back a "bag of gold" from the secret cache in the hills.

"Great Spirit's" Gold

Moostas believed that the gold was put in the cache by the "Great Spirit" for use only in time of dire need and died several months ago without revealing where it was and refusing to tell how he found it.

The cache is believed to lie among the hills in the White Court district. It is described as a "prospector's dream — a cave lined with pure gold."

The legend is that although Moostas knew of the existence of the cache for years, he visited it only once. Several years ago, when an Indian tribe in the White Court district faced starvation, Old Moostas hitched up two ponies and went into the hills.

Bought Out Store

Two days later, he walked into a trading post at White Court, dumped a "poke" of gold nuggets on the counter and bought out the store. He distributed the food and other goods among the starving Indians and then retired to a lazy existence on the Indian settlement.

Then started a long battle of wits between prospectors and the old Indian. For years white men tried to wrest the secret from him. They plied him with questions and made many enticing offers, but the old Indian rebuffed them with stoical silence. For months his every movement away from camp was closely watched, but Moostas never visited the cache again.

Last winter, when Moostas died, the legend was revived and prospectors started laying plans to systematically search the hills in a last effort to locate the cache. The hunt is expected to start as soon as the snow melts.

Omaha Wins Brilliant Victory Over Texas Horse in 61st Kentucky Derby

CHURCHILL DOWNS, Louisville, Ky., May 4 — Omaha, carrying the colors of William Woodward's Belair Stud, with Willie Saunders in the saddle, scored a brilliant victory in today's sixty-first running of the Kentucky Derby.

Derby Winner

Omaha

Roman Soldier, winner of the Texas Derby, was second and Whiskie third. Calumet Farm's Nellie Flag, the favorite, was fourth. Winning time was 2:05 over the track, one second slow. A crowd of 50,000 persons saw the race. This number was considerably under expectations, due to rain and a 50-mile an hour gale which earlier had ripped roofs from buildings in Louisville. Early estimations had placed the probable crowd at 70,000. Omaha paid $10 on $2 straight mutuels. Place prices: Omaha, $5; Roman Soldier, $6.40. Show prices: Omaha, $3.80; Roman Soldier, $4.29; Whiskie, $3.40. Today, early favorite was scratched because of a swollen knee resulting from a bad foot.

Every Day Is Loaning Day

This Is The BANK that SERVICE Is Building

This bank has never discontinued the business of loaning money to its customers on banking day in its history.

The only requirements that ever prevent customer from getting a loan at this bank was customer's inability to furnish a bankable note.

From time to time we have stressed bank's desire to make loans, but the fact that bank is still here and no depositors ever had to without their money on demand on any banking day is all the justification necessary for bank's insistence upon having a good note before making a loan.

Bring your account here and we will give you a cordial, satisfactory banking service.
