Secrecy Surrounds Army Court Martial

WASHINGTON, May 21 — The army surrounded the court martial of one of its high ranking officials with such secrecy today that not even his name could be learned. Army officers refused to confirm more than that such a trial is being held in Washington barracks. The room where high officers sit in judgment of a fellow judgment is closely guarded.

Hitler Proclaims Right Of Rearming

BERLIN, May 21. — Chancellor Adolf Hitler tonight proclaimed unequivocally to the world Germany's right to rearm. He addressed the German nation through a meeting of the Reichstag shortly after the cabinet had approved the universal military conscription law calling for one year of military service for German citizens.

Animal Trainer Is Killed By Elephant

COVINA, Cal., May 21. — Joe Reed, veteran animal trainer, was killed today by an enraged elephant which gored and mutilated him at the Al G. Barnes winter quarters near here. Reed was rehearsing eight elephants for a jungle motion picture when they stampeded. Prince, a huge bull, chased the trainer and struck at him with a tusk. The elephant then grabbed the victim in his trunk, threw him to the ground, and gored him three times. Before attendants beat him off, the elephant had battered Reed with his trunk and trampled on the trainer's unconscious form.

Studies Motion To Quash Post Charge

LUBBOCK, May 21. — Federal Judge James Wilson had under advisement today defense motion to quash indictment against Dr. L. W. Kitchens, Post veterinarian, and Dr. V. A. Hartman, Post physician, charging violation of narcotic laws. Another indictment alleging conspiracy to defeat federal narcotic laws named Dr. Kitchens, Dr. Hartman, Sheriff W. F. Cato, and several others.

AAA Chief Pledged Farm Support

WASHINGTON, May 21. — Pres. Roosevelt's proposal to deliver his veto of the Patman bonus bill at an unprecedented joint session of Congress provoked a storm of debate in the senate today. How Many Use Our "Second Wind"?

Every one knows what it is to start a piece of work, either intellectual or muscular, feeling "stale." And everybody knows what it is to "warm up" to his job.

But for an unusual necessity forces us to press onward, a surprising thing occurs. The fatigue gets worse up to a certain point when gradually it passes away, and we are fresher than before.

For many years William James mused on the phenomenon of the second wind. Then he wrote:

"A third and a fourth 'wind' may supervene.

"Mental activity shows the phenomenon as well as physical, and in exceptional cases we may find, beyond the extremity of fatigue—stress, amounts of ease and power that we never dreamed ourselves to own—sources of strength habitually not taxed at all, because habitually we never push those critical points of fatigue."

"It is evident that our organism has stored-up reserves of energy that are ordinarily not called upon, but that may be called upon; deeper and deeper strata of combustible or explosive material, discontinuously arranged, but ready for use by any one who probes so deep, and repairing themselves by rest as well as do the superficial strata."

"Most of us continue our living unnecessarily near the surface."

The busiest man needs no more hours of rest than the idler.

Some years ago a psychologist kept three young men awake for four days and nights. When his observations on them were finished, the subjects were permitted to sleep themselves out. All awake from the sleep completely refreshed, but the one who took longest to restore himself from his long vigil slept one-third more time than was regular with him.

The man who energizes below his normal maximum fails by just so much to profit by his chance at life. Keep "warmed up."

How Wrong is our Educational System?

"Take any 100 boys of twenty-five years, and at the age of thirty-five, five of them will have passed away, ten will be wealthy, ten well-to-do, and seventy-five self-supporting."

"Add ten years more, or forty-five years of age," Stone continued, "and eighty-four will still be living, four of them wealthy, six well-to-do, fifty-nine self-supporting, and fifteen unable to support themselves."

With the addition of another ten years, or fifty-five years old, four more will have died, only one will be wealthy, four well-to-do, forty-five self-supporting, and thirty non-supporting."

"When they have reached sixty-five years, only sixty-four of the original 100 will be alive, only one wealthy, three well-to-do, but six of the balance self-supporting, and the balance, fifty-four, will be dependent upon others for the rest of their lives."

Stone said his figures were the result of a careful study of all available records, and had been checked by some of the most prominent insurance actuaries in the country.

"When such a thing is possible," he added, "there is something radically wrong with our system of education. It is necessary for us to inculcate in our children the spirit of thrift."

The Open Road To Success

In the attainment of solid, well founded success there has never been found a sub for honest labor with the hands or mind. The ages have recognized this as an immutable truism, yet every age, including the present, has had its skeptics, its unbelievers, its seekers after fame and fortune without paying the price of work.

CAREFUL GARDNER STEWARTSVILLE, Mo. —Joyce Rae Patterson, 4, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Perry Patterson, was cultivating her small garden when her mother cautioned her "not to cut off the plants." Joyce came back with: "That's all right, Mother. I was afraid I might cut them off, so I pulled up all the onions and laid 'em on the ground."

SPANIEL BEARS 16 PUPS CLEVELAND. — Leah of Avalon, a black and white springer spaniel, bore 16 puppies here. Twelve lived. When it appeared Leah was in some post - natal danger. Walter J. Rees, her owner, had Belle, a police dog, summoned from Animal Protective League headquarters until the mother got stronger. Belle gave each puppy a bath and a meal.

Summer Sweethearts

By Mabel McEllett © 1935, NEA Service, Inc.

BEGIN HERE TODAY KATHARINE STRYKHURST, beautiful, 29, is restless and discontented with the useless round of social activities that make up her life. She rides daily with MICHAEL HEATHEROLE, who runs a riding club. SALLY MOON, local coquette, also enrolls at the club for riding lessons. ZOE PARKER, Katharine's friend, sent to Europe to forget a love affair with GIBBS LARKIN. Her mother, Mrs. Merzer, who runs a riding club, also enrolls at the club for riding lessons.

CHAPTER XI "We meet again," Violet Merzer had said lightly to the handsome, portly gentleman who had invaded her prime little sitting room with its white paint and polished old tables and bright chintzes.

Victor Strykhurst opened his eyes quite widely at this. "Violet! But this is extraordinary. My wife said..."

"What did she tell you? Sit down, Victor. Katharine is splendid, you may go up in a minute. But first I'd like to talk to you."

"Of course, of course." He sat fleshed comfortably in one of the deep cushioned chairs, glancing around him approvingly. "But I never knew you lived in Inulcock, Violet!"

"We've been here almost seven years." "I knew you'd married, of course. Saw a bit about it in the papers. Her dark eyes were rather engaging. You didn't write to wish me joy. I—I rather thought you would."

"He touched his full lips with the corners of a fine white handkerchief. "Katharine's mother died that year," he said rather hollowly. "Yes, I remember. Your daughter is a lovely creature, Violet. Does she remind you of me at that age?"

"Eh?" Victor Strykhurst's color deepened a trifle. He glanced apprehensively in the direction of the staircase.

"Don't worry," Violet went on softly. "Her door is closed. She can't hear. I was Katharine's age just 17 years ago, Victor. I was 20 when I went to work in your office."

"Is it possible it's that long?" murmured the man, exhaling a deep breath.

"I was rather like her," murmured the woman with the tired dark eyes, staring out across the darkened garden. "I had the same prickly-pear attitude in regard to men... oh, yes, I've talked to Katharine today rather a lot. I've found out more about her, perhaps, than you yourself know."

Mrs. Strykhurst for the first time today, Victor. He had the grace to flush. "Bertine's been splendid with Katharine. She's very executive. She took her in hand..."

"Exactly!" Mrs. Merzer's tone was dry. "Katharine needs a lot of love, sympathy and understanding," she pursued a moment later. "Or—well, you know how it was with me. She may go off the deep end..."

"I haven't the faintest notion what you mean!" The man's annoyance showed in every syllable. "I mean you may expect her to find sympathy—or love—wherever she can find it."

"Oh, Tommyrot!" "I did," reminded the woman, with rather a bitter smile. "My home was unhappy. I believed the first pretty story a man told me. You may remember..."

He looked as if the reminder were to him a painful one. Violet Merzer rose, as if terminating the interview. "Well, that's really all I wanted to say, Victor. Go on up now. First door to the right at the head of the stairs."

His tread echoed pompously through the house. The woman, left alone, stared around her for a moment, as though rousing herself from a dream into which she had fallen. "Seventeen years," murmured the woman, half to herself. She settled herself with a book, but her gaze wandered from the pages.

"WELL, well!" Victor Strykhurst came downstairs briskly, rubbing his hands together. "Katharine's in fine shape. We were in luck to come off so easily. Don't you think I could take her off with me tonight?"

"The doctor advised letting her stay till morning," Violet Merzer smiled at him. "You'd rather get her out of my house, wouldn't you?"

"Nonsense, nonsense! I am eternally indebted to you for your kindness to Katharine!" "I'm not going to tell her anything about—us," said the woman with deliberation.

"Naturally, you wouldn't. You're a most sensible woman, Violet. I always said so..." "Not sensible enough!" A sardonic touch to her voice now. "That is, I'll not say a word, on one condition!"

"He stared. "And that?" "That you let her come to see me occasionally. That you don't attempt to wear her away from me. I like the child, I've taken a great fancy to her. I've two of my own now, Victor, you see."

"Really! But of course you must be friends with Katharine. Why not?" "There may be another objection to that," commented Violet Merzer dryly. "Your wife..." "Bertine is all right. She means well. It's not so easy, you know, to raise another woman's child."

"Right you are!" There was relief in the words. "KATHARINE came down the stairs slowly the following morning. "You're all right?" Violet's eyes sought hers anxiously. Outside Bertine sat at the wheel of the big car. Ellen, with a suitcase, followed her young mistress.

"Oh, I'm perfectly fine. Just have to get my hand legs again." Sybil and Diana were on the edge of the group, their long legs brown and slim under the brief shorts of their white play suits.

"Do come again to see us, Miss Katharine. Please do!" "Oh, I will! And there must be another puppy for the basket. Mustn't there? A nice quiet one who will stay at home when he's told to?"

"Oh, yes, yes," they chorused, dancing up and down. Bertine smiled stiffly, her company smile. She climbed out to assist Ellen who was helping Katharine in.

"Thank you ever so much, Mrs. Merzer. My husband and I are eternally grateful." Katharine waved to them until the car disappeared out of sight, around the bend.

"Mummy, who was the fattish man who came after we went to bed last night?" Sybil's wistful round face with its long golden mane was lifted to her mother's.

"Oh, you had ones, you were supposed to be asleep!" "We peeked," Sybil said confidently. "We heard the car stop and saw him come up the walk. Was that Miss Katharine's daddy and was he nice?"

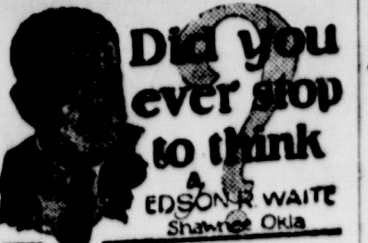

"Very nice," said Violet absently. Diana pounced upon her. "Mummy, you're not listening. I can always tell when you're not listening. You use such a faraway voice."

"Oh, do I? But I was, really, this time. Sybil asked if Katharine's father were nice and I said yes, he was."

"But sort of puffy, Mummy, wasn't he? It wasn't quite dark and we got a good look at him. Not nearly so good-looking as Miss Katharine. Don't you think she's beautiful, Mummy? Sort of like a movie star?"

"Yes, I do. She's really lovely. Shall I ever be that lovely, do you suppose, if I stop biting my nails and things?" Sybil asked gravely.

"I think very likely. Look, if we want to get down to the village to get things for lunch we'd better start." Violet wheeled the little car out and the two hopped into it. "Mummy, what were you muttering to yourself just now?" She flashed her dark eyes at them. "Just a song some one I know used to sing. The words of it, I mean. Don't remember the tune."

Joseph S. Stern, president of the United States shoe corporation, says: "Active feet and healthy feet are synonymous, yet so few women know anything about their feet and the right type of shoes which are most essential, not alone to their graceful walking but to their continued good health."

"Your local store continually advertises orthopedic footwear in your local newspaper. This type of shoe no longer is of the clumsy variety; in fact, many manufacturers making orthopedic types exclusively are among the style leaders in what is known as the walking type of shoe."

"Unquestionably there is a last made to fit your foot. Go to your shoe dealer, tell him you want healthy, happy feet and let him prescribe the type last and the height heel that is necessary for your individual comfort and your individual foot freedom."

"Get the right shoe for your foot and you will be amazed at the difference it makes in your everyday life. "Too many women go into a shoe store just to be 'fitted' in a type of shoe that appeals to their fancy rather than to their feet."

"I have read newspaper advertisements time and again appealing to the intelligent type of woman to secure, literally, a beauty treatment for her feet, and have met hundreds of women, and received letters from thousands of them, all stating that once they secured their proper lasts their foot troubles vanished forever."

"Go to your local shoe dealer; put your feet in his hands and learn what foot happiness means."

GULLS GIVE LESSON VICTORIA, B. C. —Seagulls have opened a swimming school for crows on the waterfront here. The gulls show the crows how to alight on the water. They spring from a log into the water and back onto the log. The crows, after watching the performance, try it with varying degrees of success.

37 YEARS TOO LONG LOS ANGELES. —Mighty patient is the law, but 27 years is too long to wait. So Judge Edward Bishop dismissed a lawsuit filed March 2, 1908, by J. P. Dodson, contractor, against A. M. Smith, for a small sum said to have been due in a paving contract. The suit had never been followed up by prosecution.

A LA FRANK BUCK ISMAY, Mont. —The "brint'em back alive" spirit has invaded this western cattle town. Riding the range on the McKay ranch near here, John Brange, cowboy, saw a coyote feeding on a calf. Brange leaped from his galloping horse, bulldogged it. Then, with assistance of companions, he tied it up with saddle throngs and brought it home.

Stories in STAMPS By I. S. Klein

BURLESQUE KNIGHTHOOD

ON April 23, 1616, two of the greatest literary geniuses in history died. One was William Shakespeare, the other Miguel de Cervantes-Saavona, Spanish novelist, soldier of fortune, and one of the greatest satirists in literature. Cervantes' "Don Quixote," ridiculing the glamorous romances of the days of chivalry, is a classic. In 1916, on the 200th anniversary of Cervantes' death, Spain issued a duplicate series of four official parliament stamps in his honor. One set was designed for use of the Spanish senate, and the other, in different colors, for the chamber of deputies. No values were designated.

Behind the Scenes in Washington

BY RODNEY DUTCHER NEA Service Staff Correspondent WASHINGTON.—Mr. J. P. Morgan, who became famous when a midget sat on his lap, may have two more dates with Senate committees before the year is up.

Testifying before Senate committees before Mr. Morgan. He mites bores Mr. Morgan. He says so himself. But the Nye committee investigating the munitions industry is going through his firm's wartime files and expects to want to see him later.

And Senator Burt Wheeler will almost surely be investigating railroad financing, in which the Morgan company is involved up to its neck.

The railroad investigation is temporarily held up for lack of a $25,000 appropriation. It has been desperately fought by Wall Street bankers and some of their controlled officials of railroads.

Sponsors are admittedly crack-brained to control reorganization of the Van Sweringen railroad empire, which was picked up on a "shoeing" basis after the investing public had put about two billion dollars into it.

For a month, the grant of $25,000 has been blocked by opposition of Senator Millard T. Tamm of Maryland, a member of the Senate's four-man audit and control committee, which must approve it. Townsend of Delaware, the Republican member and a banker, sides with Tamm's majority vote is needed. Railroad Coordinator John D. Harbo and SEC Chairman John C. Coffee have appeared to urge the appropriation, but Tamm is saying the inquiry would be an expedition and that he wants it.

The Senate Interstate Commerce committee voted for the legislation and most of its members believe Tamm's obstruction is a barefaced usurpation of that he can't get away with it.

CONGRESS doesn't trust a final arbiter of the transaction and most of its members believe Tamm's obstruction is a barefaced usurpation of that he can't get away with it.

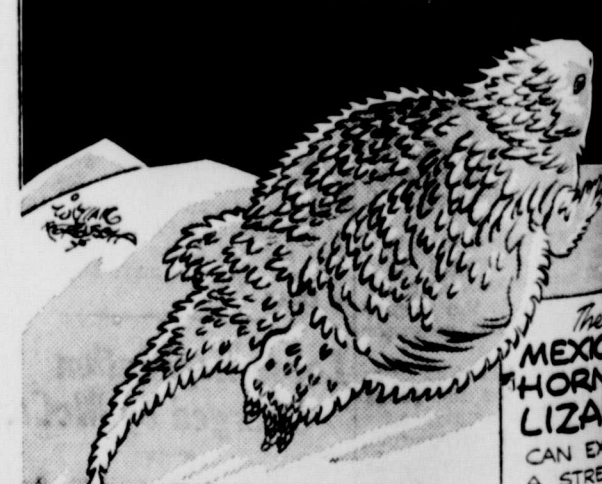

Said Congressman Van Antwerp of New York: "Would be far better to have a national amendment passed to effect that the supreme court have no right to declare unconstitutional and declare the precedent set by the case in the Marbury against Madison case, which is the worst autocracy ever legislated into the constitution of this country."

Said Blanton of Texas: "We would have no government. We would have a Committee that would be worse than the four-man audit and control committee, which must approve it. Townsend of Delaware, the Republican member and a banker, sides with Tamm's majority vote is needed. Railroad Coordinator John D. Harbo and SEC Chairman John C. Coffee have appeared to urge the appropriation, but Tamm is saying the inquiry would be an expedition and that he wants it."

Floodlights Will Illuminate Paris
PARIS, May 21. — The illumination of buildings and monuments of Paris, which has done so much to make the city a brilliant spectacle at night, will be increased this year. Tourists visiting the capital of France will find a city shining with light at night.

Among the famous landmarks that already have been thrown into sharp relief by floodlights are the Arc de Triomphe, the Obelisk, Notre Dame, the Madeleine and the opera. The entire avenue de l'Opera and the Place de la Concorde also have been bathed in a glare of electricity.

To these will be added the Pantheon, where the bones of France's illustrious dead are buried; the Coincierge, those two conical towers of the Palace of Justice, which nearly were destroyed by fire recently, and which will shine in reflection in the Seine; the Institute of France, where the Forty Immortals sit; the Perrault colonnade of the Louvre; the Arc du Carrousel; the graceful nobly proportioned building of the Chancery of the Legion of Honor; the Invalides; the City Hall; the Porte Saint Martin; the Comedie Francaise; the Opera Comique; and above all of them, apparently floating unsupported, the saccharine Oriental domes of Sacre Coeur.

Floodlighting also will be applied to the entire Rue Royale, making a continuous blaze of light from the Seine through the Place de la Concorde to the Madeleine.

Pains That Cardui Helps
For monthly discomfort, tired nerves, run-down women ought to try Cardui. So many who build up with the help of purely vegetable Cardui overcome periodic pains. "At times, I would cramp and feel mighty bad," writes Mrs. M. L. Brady, of Swansea, S. C. "I knew that I needed something to help me. My mother had taken Cardui and had told me about it. It helped me. I find it a very good tonic as well as a help for pain and nervous condition."

Thousands of women testify Cardui benefited them. If it does not benefit YOU, consult a physician.

A Buying Guide.....

Before you order dinner at a restaurant, you consult the bill-of-fare. Before you take a long trip by motorcar, you pore over road maps. Before you start out on a shopping trip, you should consult the advertisements in this paper. For the same reasons!

The advertising columns are a buying guide to you in the purchase of everything you need — including amusements! A guide that saves your time and conserves your energy; that saves useless steps and guards against false ones; that puts the stretch in family budgets.

The advertisements in this paper are so interesting, it is difficult to see how anyone could overlook them... fail to profit by them. Just check with yourself and be sure that you are reading the advertisements regularly — the big ones and the little ones. It is time well spent... always.
