THOUSANDS BURIED IN INDIA QUAKE

ENTIRE REGION ON NORTHWEST FRONTIER IS DESTROYED WHEN TEBLOR TAKES TOLL OF LIFE

KARACHI, India, May 31. — A devastating earthquake demolished the Quetta region on the northwest frontier today, burying thousands of natives and Europeans in the ruins of a once prosperous city and countryside. Unofficial estimates placed the casualties at probably 20,000. It will be a long and difficult task to determine the number accurately since most of the victims are under the debris.

British and Indian troops toiled feverishly, extricating thousands of dead and injured from the vanished city of 17,000 inhabitants.

The fertile and beautiful spot, 5,500 feet above sea level and ringed by mountains, was a scene of utter destruction.

Camps for the injured and destitute were established on the race course and at the British residency.

Native Toll Greatest

The greatest loss of life occurred in the native quarter where the population was trapped in flimsy, shattered houses. The rescue work was impeded by constantly collapsing walls.

The dead, it was officially announced, included 44 white members of the Royal Air Force.

Despite the number of air force casualties, the military station which is some distance from Quetta was not demolished.

Direct communications are non-existent. There is no way of getting any news from Quetta except fragmentary reports being picked up from the official radio.

Early fears of starvation were banished when it was found that food supplies are adequate for the present and the railroads and highways still passable.

The government said the town of Mastung, 40 miles south of Quetta City, and nearby villages were reported razed and four-fifths of Mastung's population were killed.

JURY CHARGE IN CATO CASE IS PREPARED

LUBBOCK, May 31. — Federal Judge James Wilson prepared his charge for delivery to a federal court jury at 2 p. m. today in one of the most unusual trials in West Texas history, that of a sheriff and two prominent Post physicians charged with murder for the killing of a federal narcotics agent.

U. S. District Attorney Clyde Eastus, in closing prosecution argument, pleaded for conviction of Sheriff W. F. Cato, Dr. L. W. Kirchner, veterinarian, and Tom Morton, farmer.

The prosecutor claimed that the killing February 7 at Post of Spencer Stafford, narcotics agent, was the result of a conspiracy to "put Stafford out of the way" and halt his investigation of an alleged dope ring.

W. F. McLean, Sr., Fort Worth, one of the counselmen of the defendants, argued that the government had failed to show that Cato did not fire in self defense as the sheriff claimed and in ignorance of the fact that Stafford was an officer.

Marble Machines Again Ordered Out

INJUNCTION IS DISSOLVED BY COURT TODAY

All marble machines were again ordered removed from Cisco business houses today, following dissolution of a temporary injunction in 91st district court this morning.

The court dissolved an injunction preventing the city authorities of Cisco and Ranger from interfering with activities of certain men in the two cities who owned or operated the marble machines.

City officials immediately issued an order for the removal of the machines during the day.

In dissolving the injunction, the court failed to make any ruling on a definition of the machines as to whether they are "gambling devices" as the cities claimed or "innocent and harmless amusement devices" as their proponents said.

Representing the cities in Judge George L. Davenport's court this morning were City Attorney R. E. Grantham of Cisco, City Attorney W. S. Adomson of Ranger, and District Attorney Grady Owen. Representing the machine owners and operators were Earl Connor, Sr. and Bill McDonald.

Talk of Appeal

There was some talk today, it was understood, of the marble machine men posting a supersedeas bond and taking the case to the court of civil appeals.

When approached upon the subject today, City Attorney Grantham said he understood the move was being considered, but whether the bond could be posted.

"The injunction expired today," he said, "and I'm not sure it could be extended beyond the hearing, because it was not made permanent at that time."

The city attorney said that business men are moving the machines out of their establishments and that many of them already have taken them out.

He indicated that Cisco would not press the case further if the machines are removed, but that if their use is continued, the machines will be seized and the operators prosecuted.

Representing the machine side of the issue against the two city authorities are Carl Lowery, W. L. Moore, R. E. Waters, J. W. Hooks, Victor Cornelius and O. W. Novicy company.

Baptists Announce Summer Bible Class

The First Baptist church today announced that it would sponsor a daily vacation Bible school, beginning Monday, June 10.

Classes will be held each morning for two weeks from 8:30 to 11:30, it was announced. There will be four departments, beginners, primary, junior, and intermediate. A good faculty will have charge of the work, it was said.

Friday, June 7, will be preparation day for the school. All children were asked to be at the church at 2:30 p. m. to register. Following registration there will be a car ride and parade for the vacation students.

All children of the city not enrolled in some other school were invited and urged to attend the Baptist Bible school.

FIREMEN AID IN REPAIR OF WATER MAIN

Cisco was on a reduced ration of water for a while last night when the 16 inch pipeline from Lake Cisco burst near the road to the zoo at 5:30 Thursday afternoon.

The fact that the big pipe was the main line between the water supply and the city necessitated a quick repair job and a temporary line around the leak. The water department and the fire department were called out and together handled the situation until 3 o'clock this morning when repairs on the line were completed.

The fire department laid approximately 1,000 feet of hose between two fire plugs and pumped water around the leak, while repairs were made.

Some places in the city reported that they were without water for a while Thursday evening. The pressure was considerably reduced at all points while repairs were being made.

This morning, however, the water service was back to normal, the only complaint being that repair men had a chilly bath at 3 o'clock.

OPENING FOR POOL AT LAKE IS ANNOUNCED

Opening of the 1935 swimming season for Cisco and West Texas generally will be tomorrow, it was announced today by Lloyd Hughes, manager of the Lake Cisco Amusement company.

Hughes said that the Lake Cisco swimming pool, largest artificial pool in the world, which has annually attracted thousands of people from all over the country, will open at that time under Cisco management.

"We want the public to know that the pool is clean," Hughes said, "and that it is going to stay clean."

The amusement company, under his management, has just been working upon the pool, cleaning and scrubbing it to free it of all foreign material. Yesterday the concrete sides and bottom were as clean as a newly swept sidewalk, but he was still unsatisfied.

The shallow pool only will be opened tomorrow, he said, but this will allow plenty of room and plenty of water for all swimmers. Meanwhile, the deep pool at the east end of the island is being cleaned and new diving apparatus installed.

Safety Stressed

Every effort is being made for the safety of patrons, Hughes said, in the campaign to promote the pool and help Cisco business generally through the summer.

Stands for spectators are being strengthened and new safety rails are being installed.

Meanwhile the bath house is being renovated, with a strong trend toward sanitation. The building is being repainted, the colors being changed from orange and black to cream and green.

The company will operate a large passenger boat capable of carrying 20 persons, on Lake Cisco while rowboats may be rented.

Besides Hughes, officers of the company include F. E. Harrell, president; F. D. Wright, vice president; P. R. Warwick, secretary-treasurer.

Spencer Praised By Highway Speakers

J. E. Spencer, secretary of the Cisco Chamber of Commerce, was highly praised by Judge W. R. Ely of Abilene an d other prominent speakers who addressed the large crowd of people who thronged into Eastland Thursday to celebrate the opening of Highway-89 between Ranger and Weatherford.

It was the untiring efforts of men like Spencer who made the new highway possible, Ely said. Hamilton McRae, president of the Eastland Chamber of Commerce, also praised Spencer for his faithful and ceaseless work for better roads for this section.

Milburn McCarty of Eastland, chairman of the celebration committee, also commended Spencer and said that Cisco was well represented in the matter of road improvements for this section by the Chamber of Commerce secretary.

FDR Says Social Control To States

WASHINGTON, May 31. — The NRA decision by the supreme court deprived the national government of control over national social and economic conditions and relegated the interstate commerce clause of the constitution back to the horse and buggy days, President Roosevelt said today.

Speaking steadily for an hour to 200 newspapermen, the president said the decision was the most important of the supreme court since the famous Dred Scot decision of pre-Civil War days.

The implications of the decision, if carried to the logical conclusions, will strip the government of many of its powers, the president said.

Mr. Roosevelt, in measured words, said the nation was facing a very great national and non-partisan issue, and that the people must decide within the next five or ten years if they want to relegate to the 48 states all control of state and national social conditions regardless of the effect of the ruling of one state against another or restore to the federal government the powers which are vested in national government of every country the right to legislate or administer laws that have bearing on or control over national economic problems or national social conditions.

LAWYERS SEE WAY TO SAVE NRA

(Copyright 1935 by United Press)

WASHINGTON, May 31. — Some New Deal legal experts saw today in the opinion of two U. S. supreme court justices a possible method of salvaging the fundamentals of the NRA.

If the lawyers are correct, and President can be persuaded to their viewpoint, a new NRA may rise strong enough to stand the test of constitutionality. It would be narrower, but hours and wage standards would be protected against what New Dealers call the degrading practices of chiselers.

Labor Agrees Upon NRA United Front

NEW YORK, May 31. — Labor unions, claiming control of 350,000 workers, have agreed on a "united front" to resist any effort to reduce wage hour standards below NRA levels, James Bambrick, president of the Building Service Employees International Union reported today.

He said serious strikes would take place if there is any "backsliding" from NRA.

The "combine", Bambrick said, agreed on a mode of procedure at a conference will be held to consider reports from investigators.

SIX HELD AS MEMBERS OF KARPIS GANG

KANSAS CITY, May 31. — Capture of six persons, one hunted as the leader in the kidnaping of August Luer, aged Illinois banker, and the others in connection with southwestern bank robberies was announced today.

Those arrested were Walter O. Malley, hunted for nearly two years as the man who federal agents claimed had planned the Luer abduction; Dan Heady, former convict; Floyd Henderson; Dewey Gilmore; and Russell Cooper.

Heady's wife also was arrested. O. Malley and Heady and his wife were taken here Monday at an apartment building which had been watched for more than a week by officers.

Government agents said the Luer kidnaping and a number of bank robberies in this part of the country had been solved.

They said those under arrest were suspected of connections with the notorious gang of Alvin Karpis, who came originally from northeast Oklahoma.

New Cabinet Being Formed In France

PARIS, May 31. — Fernand Bouisson, president of the chamber of deputies, sought today to form a cabinet and prevent a financial crisis.

He accepted from President Alfred Lebrun a mandate to form a wide national union or coalition cabinet of sufficient strength to prevent a grave flight of capital and save the franc.

The seriousness of the situation was attested by the nightlong conferences that followed the defeat in the chamber of deputies at 1 a. m. of the government of Pierre Flaudin, who sought emergency powers to govern by decree until Oct. 31.

As Bouisson began the task, banks throughout France opened and business was resumed as usual.

Chauffeur Is Given Sentence of Death

LONDON, May 31. — George Stoner, 18 year old chauffeur, was convicted in old Bailey court today of murdering Francis Rattenbury, 67-year-old retired architect. He was sentenced to be hanged.

Mrs. Alma Rattenbury, 30, the widow, who was tried with her chauffeur, was acquitted. She admitted Stoner had been her lover and that he was jealous of her husband.

American Kidnapers Ever in Evidence

George Weyerhaeuser is the nine-year-old heir of the Tacoma house of Weyerhaeuser. The founder of the house controlled more timber land than any dozen lumber kings of America. He died passing on to his heirs a tremendous fortune. Indeed, it was said at the time of his passing that his wealth in timber lands and saw mills represented more than a half billion dollars. Now desperate kidnapers are in evidence again in the Northwest and on the Pacific coast. They abducted for ransom purposes the nine-year-old lad. They demanded $200,000 "and no questions asked."

Crime continues rampant in America. Extortionists and the kidnapers of children are as bold and as desperate as they were before the G-men of the government launched their crusade against the daring as well as vicious criminals of the underworld. Now the G-men are active again. They have sworn to run the abductors of the heir to the Weyerhaeuser fortune to earth. They are pledged to exterminate the gang if possible. And why not? Why should mercy be shown to terrorists who strike at child life and the homes of law abiding people.

Why should the governor of Missouri commute the sentence of Walter McGee, the head of the gang of outlaws who abducted for ransom purposes the daughter of the mayor of Kansas City? Kidnapers of high and low degree should be sent to the chair. They are more blood thirsty than mad tigers or other beasts of the jungle. They are without conscience and more deadly than the cobra or other reptilian terrors of tropical lands. Law should be upheld at any cost. The federal government should go the limit and the department of justice and its G-men should bring "em in dead or alive." G-men are responsible for the extermination of many of the most desperate and destructive criminals that Texas has known. They have placed behind the bars for life criminals who were to the manner born, natives of this grand commonwealth, but the daily press reports found in the pages devoted to crime and criminals furnish ample evidence that vigilance is the price of law and liberty and that stern measures enforced by courageous G-men, the local authorities ever cooperating, is the surest way to rid this and all other commonwealths of an ever increasing menace to American civilization.

Preparing For the Next Depression

The recent observance of Life Insurance Week has focused public attention on an industry which has been of invaluable service to the nation during depression—and which promises to be of still greater service in the future.

Life insurance has paid out hundreds of millions of dollars in the past five years, through matured policies, loans on policies and surrender values. A very large percentage of that money has gone to people who had little else in the way of financial resource. It has prevented untold misery and want. It has stood between thousands of people and utter despair and breakdown of morale. Thus, it has been as splendid and as great a social as an economic influence.

It is a noteworthy fact that life insurance sales have been steadily increasing for the last year or two—even during periods when business was stagnant or retrogressing. That can mean but one thing—more of the family budget is today being devoted to life insurance in one or another of its forms than in the past. It is being purchased by the foresighted both as an investment and a protection—and as an assurance that the next depression, if it comes, will not find them without a safe and secure financial rock on which to lean.

Farmers Endorse Acreage Setup

Wheat growers of America have registered their verdict. They are for controlled acreage and a processing tax. This by an overwhelming majority with republican Kansas growers returning a heavy count of ballots for the program. Cotton growers of the South have spoken. They have declared for the control of acreage and the tax that goes with it.

The world wheat conference held in a European capital has blown up, so to speak. Argentina smashed the program and Argentina is one of the largest growers, or rather producers of wheat. There are 37 wheat producing nations. Since the close of the World War all these nations, (large or small) have gone in strong for wheat production. In other words, they are going to feed "the people at home." Their slogan: "Home first and the world next." Canada is a great producer of wheat. Australia has a tremendous acreage, Russia has millions of acres planted to wheat. Uncle Sam has his granary of wheat and his granary of corn. Why worry? Wherever the crops are large the mouths of the world will not go hungry for bread.

FDR Will Veto Any Bonus Rider

President Roosevelt has promised any attempt to attach a new bonus plan to the social security bill would result in a veto of the bill. F. D. R. keeps his word. "Sink or swim, live or die, survive or perish," he goes all the road. He declared to senate and house leaders that he considered the social securities bill the major measure before this congress and any attempt to add extraneous legislation to it would be met with prompt action.

Summer Sweethearts

By Mabel McEllett © 1935, NEA Service, Inc.

BEGIN HERE TODAY
KATHARINE STRYKHURST, beautiful, 20, becomes acquainted with MICHAEL HEATHEROE, riding teacher, and acknowledges an unwilling attraction toward him. She is worried over the progress of an affair between ZOE PARKER, her best friend, and GIBBS LARKIN, of whom Zoe's parents disapprove.

CHAPTER XX

KATHARINE said, persistently. "I want to get away, Daddy. Victor Strykhurst frowned. "I don't know what gets into you girls nowadays," he complained. "Zoe Parker has to be dragged all over Europe and even when she gets home she's not satisfied; why, you've got everything in the world you want."

Katharine listened patiently. Stubbornly she went back to her argument. "There's nothing for me to do here. Frankly, I'm bored. I'd like a job."

The snowy eyebrows shot up. "What could you do? No, it's nonsense; I won't have it. People say Bertine hadn't been good to you. And she has been good, hasn't she?"

It was almost pathetic, his desire for approval of Bertine, Katharine thought. Dryly she said, "Of course. But, Daddy, couldn't I have some of my own money now—the money Mother left in trust for me? It will be mine anyhow next year."

The nearest shadow crossed his face. "Eh? No, I think that would be irregular. The bank probably wouldn't hear of it."

"I thought you had it in charge?" His high color deepened. "Little girls shouldn't bother their heads about business. Your money will be paid over in due time."

He rose, terminating the interview. "Buy yourself a new hat and forget about it, my dear."

That, Katharine told herself, wandering out into the morning, was that. She had been a fool to think she could do anything with her father.

But how could she bear Innicoek now? Bertine's words of the day before rang in her mind. Was it true? Could it be true that Michael Heatheroe was going to marry Sally Moon?

Incredible! Katharine's mind—her heart—rejected it.

BERTINE had said coolly, "Of course the Moon's are up in arms. But what can they do? The girl's always been a wild one. And undoubtedly the man's a fortune hunter. Sally Moon will have a very tidy little fortune of her own some day."

She had dismissed the whole matter. Somehow Katharine had got out of the room. No one, she was sure, had noticed. Not even John Kaye, who saw everything, usually. She made the day pass somehow. Strange how empty hours could be when you hadn't anything to look forward to. Swimming, tennis, French lessons—sitting at the wheel of some boat with an attentive, bronzed young man beside you. It was all a dream in which you moved and spoke automatically.

So Michael Heatheroe was a fortune hunter! Could she believe that? Michael, with his lean, tanned face and those eyes that were so shrewd and kindly—could a man like that be really mean and base?

Or had he fallen desperately in love with the bundle of feminine flutter and curls that was Sally Moon?

The town buzzed with the sensation for several days. Have you heard? That crazy Sally Moon's gone and got herself engaged to the man who runs the riding club. Of course he's a nobody, my dear, but quite good manners, and so good-looking! Oh, well, the Moons are really outsiders, anyhow. Her mother was a girl in a shop, some place. . . . And so on and so on. Small town gossip. Picked up avidly by the lunching, bridging, playing women at the country club, tossed from mouth to mouth.

Katharine thought it would drive her frantic, at first. But she steeled herself to it. After a week—two weeks—she found she could bear the thought without flinching.

She had not been back to ride since the formal announcement in the papers. Therefore she had not met the slightly puzzled, unhappy look in the eyes of Michael Heatheroe. She had not been compelled to see Sally's triumphant smile or air of possessiveness.

"Well, I know one thing, my dear," she heard Bertine say impressively to Mrs. Romantic. "I know if she brings him to the club I shall complain. I shall certainly expect all the members who know the man to cut him. It's not decent."

Rage had choked Katharine. She had flung herself out of the house, unable to trust herself further.

ZOE was completely recovered now. Lisa Parker took her out to Colorado in late August. Dr. Kaye came out less often these days. His practice was growing. Bertine had told everyone proudly that he was Park Avenue's most popular specialist.

So Katharine was left more and more to herself. She began to refuse invitations to dinners and dances, including the younger set of Innicoek. Such parties bored her. She got into the habit, without Bertine's knowledge, of putting her sketching things into the car and driving up to Violet Merger's. Even if Violet were not at the house Katharine could set her easel up in the garden back of the little white house and work away busily and happily for hours.

The Merger garden was a pleasant jungle of old-fashioned flowers, Zinnias, nasturtiums, ageratum, snapdragons made a perfect riot of color here. Hollyhocks, gone to seed, leaned idly against the clap-boarded walls and within a picket fence enclosure of the drying yard.

A rocky path wandered up the hills behind the house. Katharine tore her stockings and scratched her hands on tangled berry bushes. Mint grew in a fragrant carpet behind the asters. It was all old-fashioned and comfortable and satisfying. Sometimes one of the small girls, sunburned and hatless, with tawny hair flying in the breeze, would run out to glance over her shoulder.

"Oh, that's lovely! Come, Mummy, see—she's done the bird bath and the roses."

Katharine loved it here. It meant release and escape. Her soul, feeling its inevitable growing pains, expanded in this simple, uncritical atmosphere.

Stanley Merger came back from his western trip and joined the family group without destroying the charm. He was a stooped, silent, gentle man in his late thirties. An artist, Stan Merger, and a good one. The little girls adored him. His wife was devoted to him, anxious for his comfort and happiness.

It was a good marriage—a solid, permanent, companionable marriage. Katharine, observing it, felt that Violet Merger was a fortunate woman. Still Violet had told her one day that Stan hadn't been her first love. No, their coming together had been the culmination of a more mature attachment. Yet Violet was happy. . . .

Maybe all the fevers and fury of first love were wasted.

AND yet—and yet—Katharine couldn't bear to see Michael Heatheroe just now. Later, perhaps, when she had got over the shock of knowing he was going to marry someone else. When she'd managed to forget those scraps of words she had treasured so foolishly.

"My darling!" he had called her, holding her in his arms, that day Fury had flung her.

Or had she dreamed it?

Voices intruded into her day dream. "Katharine, we're going to have tea under the big maple. Want to take time out?"

She put down her pencil. "Oh, tea would be grand!"

Lavinia brought the big silver tray with the quimper cups on it and the thinly-sliced bread and the silver pot.

"Anybody want it iced? Stan, you? Or Evelyn?"

Evelyn Vincent was an Englishwoman, a friend of Violet's. She came now, balancing her cup, to glance at Katharine's sketch.

"Oh, that's very nice, my dear. Look, Stan, don't you think so?"

"Mind if we look, Katharine?" The girl shook her head, smiling. Funny, she didn't mind in the least if these people looked at her work. With Bertine, she would have fairly squirmed.

Stanley Merger, tall and loose-jointed in his white cotton slacks and blue shirt, came over to squint down at the easel.

"Why, this is awfully good. Evelyn, you ought to be able to do something with it."

Katharine, her heart beating very fast, looked from one to the other. They weren't making fun of her; they were in earnest! She had tried so hard to get it all in—the rocks and the drooping gray-green plants clustered about them and the flame and burnt orange of the nasturtiums. . . .

"You're not something there, really," said Evelyn Vincent, who ran an art shop in Fifth Avenue.

For the first time in weeks hope stirred in Katharine's heart. Her "dabbling," as Bertine had always called it, contemptuously, might prove to be a way out for her, after all.

Man Lives 2 Hours After Called Dead

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., May 31 — Hospital attaches today discussed the case of a man who pronounced dead by a physician came to life and lived for two hours to prove the report premature.

John McCrory, 48, unemployed of a Birmingham suburb, was ill with pneumonia, his condition steadily growing worse. The man's family waited in the hospital corridor for the fatal news. An interne watched the patient. He ceased to breathe.

But instead of notifying the family immediately, he applied a stimulant. A routine matter in such cases, there was one chance in a thousand. He waited—one minute, two, then three. The patient failed to react. The family was informed.

A moment later a ripple of excitement ran through the ward. Someone had discovered that McCrory was breathing!

The startled family gathered by the bedside. For two hours the man lived, although he never regained consciousness nor spoke a word.

Girl Gets Dividend From No-Smoke Bet

EDINBURG, Ind., May 31 — Making good on a bet that she would not smoke cigars during her freshman year at Franklin college has paid Miss Beatrice Farr Bradley a first dividend of $323.15.

When Beatrice graduated from Edinburg high school she bet her aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Ferger, and a cousin, Joseph Gayle, $5 each that she would refrain from smoking.

When the girl won, Gayle suggested that he pay his bet by giving her two pure-bred Folanos China sows. She accepted, and moved the hogs to the farm of her grandfather, Harry Bradley.

Out of a litter of 20 pigs, born in September, Beatrice raised 17 for market. She kept two pigs to add to the two original sows of a breeding herd and sold the 15 pigs at an Indianapolis stockyard for a net profit of $323.15.

Further sales are expected to pay her expenses through college.

Girl Gets Dividend From No-Smoke Bet

EDINBURG, Ind., May 31 — Making good on a bet that she would not smoke cigars during her freshman year at Franklin college has paid Miss Beatrice Farr Bradley a first dividend of $323.15.

When Beatrice graduated from Edinburg high school she bet her aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Ferger, and a cousin, Joseph Gayle, $5 each that she would refrain from smoking.

When the girl won, Gayle suggested that he pay his bet by giving her two pure-bred Folanos China sows. She accepted, and moved the hogs to the farm of her grandfather, Harry Bradley.

Out of a litter of 20 pigs, born in September, Beatrice raised 17 for market. She kept two pigs to add to the two original sows of a breeding herd and sold the 15 pigs at an Indianapolis stockyard for a net profit of $323.15.

Further sales are expected to pay her expenses through college.

For a More Abundant Life

"WE HAVE IT" . . . for homes, for farms, for towns and cities, for industries.

ELECTRIC POWER!

West Texas is abundantly supplied with power resources. The West Texas Utilities Company's 2,600 miles of transmission lines are linked with modern, strategically located generating stations, bringing power to you wherever it is needed.

"Let's Have Cheap Power!" We Have That, Too.

Power is a commodity which grows cheaper the more it is used. The power from this company's lines, available every hour in the day or night for a variety of uses, can be purchased cheaper than it can be manufactured by the individual city, or the individual industry, farm or homes.

"Let's Have Abundant Power, for a More Abundant Life." We Have That in West Texas, Too.

You may recall, many years ago, when some neighbor was able to boast of his electric lights through cords hanging from the ceiling. Light was expensive then, only the well-to-do could buy this service. Today, everybody uses electric service, for the electric dollar buys now an abundant amount, about three times as much electric service as it did before the World War. Electric service is delivered to you now so cheap that its daily cost can be counted in pennies.

The area served by the West Texas Utilities Company has ample power facilities to meet the demands of this growing and progressive "Land of Opportunity," West Texas.

2 Politicians Are Worried by Silver

CASTLE, Mont., May 31 - Residents of this once populous mining town are watching current maneuvers in world silver markets with keen interest. Rising prices are likely to bring the city to life again, and that would totally disrupt the present political setup. The situation is a bit peculiar. Back in the '80's and '90's, Castle was a booming mining camp. The depression of 1892 and the demonization of silver started a decline. But higher silver prices are expected to cause a revival of mining operations and the town may resume some of its former activity. And, as has been said, that would disrupt the political situation. You see, under the peculiar political situation Mayor Joe Martino and ex-Mayor Joe Kipp each control the same number of votes. So they've reached an agreement that this year it was Martino's turn, and next year Kipp is supposed to take over again, etc. New voters would upset this balance of power. Mayor Martino and ex-Mayor Kipp are the only residents.

MACHINERY ATTRACTED CHEYENNE, Wyo. - Some burglars, evidently, are about to go into the light business. They broke into the warehouse of the Cheyenne Light, Fuel and Power company and stole a centrifugal pump and electric motor.

Dr. Sam Scothern, former member of the state board of medical examiners, will respond in behalf of the osteopaths. Following the banquet there will be addresses of a professional nature by Dr. R. H. Peterson, new member of the state board of medical examiners, and Dr. Charles Kennedy. After the meeting there will be a horse race on the half mile track at the ranch, Dr. Stephenson announced.

ANSWERING THE ETERNAL QUESTION "What to Serve?"

LONGEST CASE IN COURTS OF TEXAS ENDED

HOUSTON, May 31 — A ruling by the plaintiffs by the supreme court of Texas recently ended the longest case ever tried in state courts.

The case—Palmetto Lumber company vs. J. P. Gibbs—required 24 weeks in court and resulted in 4,500 typewritten pages of verbal testimony.

A district court's opinion in favor of the lumber company was upheld by the supreme court.

More than a week was required to read the "briefs" in the case, the plaintiff submitting 1,070 pages and the defendant 1,341. A. C. Fort, plaintiff's witness, gave testimony for 31 days.

Exhibits filed were 501 bound pages for the plaintiff and 967 for the defendant. There were approximately 1,000 sheets of loose exhibits.

The Palmetto Lumber company entered into a contract with Gibbs in 1907 to borrow $196,000 to purchase and divide a tract of timber.

The contract provided that the company would pay such expenses and interest, carrying charges and taxes. The company dissolved in 1927, ten years after contract, and asked for division of profits, but was told interest had consumed its share.

The firm's suit asked for an accounting and $1,100,000.

Shakespeare Club Of Children Formed

FORT WORTH, May 31 — A children's Shakespeare club here is soon to present "A Midsummer Night's Dream." It is believed to be the only Shakespearean drama organization in which children are the players.

Shakespeare himself said "Out of the mouths of babes..." should come the truth.

The immortal Englishman remembered children in many of his plays. Human understanding was Shakespeare's greatest faculty and he recognized the importance of children in this sometimes dreary world as guileless spirits who could see truth through the disillusioning adult mentality.

STATE THINKS GRAY WOLVES NOW EXTINCT

ENCAMPMENT, Wyo., May 31 — There will be no more gray wolves at the door of Wyoming.

The last known gray wolf in the state was found dead, recently, in Encampment Valley. The animal died after eating poison meat set out by Fred Potter.

With the passing of the last of the gray wolves, old stories of their depredations were recalled.

Cattlemen's Problem
Fifty years ago wolves were the worst problem the cattlemen had to solve. In 1896 the state paid bounties, of $3 each, on 3,458 wolves.

Buffalo, elk, deer, antelope, and other big game, were killed by the wolves. Then the beasts turned to cattle and horses.

From 1895 to 1927 there were 36,161 wolves killed or captured in the state. In 1915, when the biological survey started work in Wyoming, there were 1,000 wolves doing damage to game and livestock estimated at $1,000,000 annually.

Same in Park
With the exception of Yellowstone park, there probably are no more gray wolves in Wyoming.

A number of the wolves, killed by federal and state hunters, had notorious pasts. Notable among the wolves were: Scarface, Five-Toes, Cushion Foot, Red Flash and a pair of Sheridan wolves.

The most notorious wolf killer, and the one who carried the largest price on his head, was the Custer wolf.

This king of the killers ranged over northeastern Wyoming and western South Dakota for nine years. During his reign of terror he killed cattle valued at more than $25,000.

Big Reward

As his killings increased and his fame spread the reward for his death increased until the old wolf was carrying around a price of $500 dead or alive.

His mate was killed, but old Custer, cunning and sly, avoided all traps and poison. Two coyotes acted as bodyguard for the cunning old wolf and followed him as he ranged through the country.

The coyotes always would be near him, but never ran by his side. They would follow him and feed on his kills after Custer had eaten his fill.

H. P. Williams, after following the wolf for six months, finally caught him in a trap and killed him.

MAGICIANS ARE DUE TO GATHER IN CONVENTION

LIMA, O., May 31 — Magicians, both professional and amateur, all members of the International Brotherhood of Magicians, prepare to market their year's efforts in tricks at the 10th annual convention here, June 4 to 6.

Amateurs, in every magic classification, including mentalists, card manipulators, illusionists, sleight-of-hand experts and coin kings will try to fool each other, and will also participate in a contest, for which the various dealers will award prizes.

Professionals watch these contests for new ideas or effects which they might purchase.

Many of the most important discoveries in magic are made by the amateurs, professionals claim, but lacking showmanship or means to utilize the tricks, the amateurs sell their tricks to the professional.

The organization claims a membership of 5,000. W. W. Durbin Lima, is president of the national organization, and is also Registrar of the United States Treasury.

Shirley Temple's Fan Mail Shows That Nearly Mother Has Daughter Like Her

HOLLYWOOD, May 31 — Sorting through Shirley Temple's fan mail is like looking in the telephone directory at the Jones clan.

Nearly every mother in the United States has a daughter like Shirley.

It's not surprising the number of letters this child star gets from mothers who enclose photographs of daughters they avow are exact images of her.

The mothers, seeing Shirley on the screen or her photographs in the magazines and newspapers, apparently are carried away by their imaginations, as the pictures they enclose don't bear the slightest resemblance to very young Miss Temple.

Mrs. Gertrude Temple, her mother, has studied hundreds of these mailed-in photos and has yet to find one that resembles her daughter.

All Wellwishers
 Unlike the fan mail most Hollywood stars receive, all the letters to Shirley are kindly. As a general thing, they merely wish her continued success.

Inquiring mothers also write Mrs. Temple to learn what Shirley eats, how she relaxes, what games she plays, and how Mrs. Temple goes about selecting her clothes. Studio attaches say they haven't received a single letter expressing jealousy or resentment over Shirley's success.

And she has received as many as 7,000 letters a week.

Many letters come from modistes, eager for the chance to outfit the
