Bodies of Cisco Man, Companion Recovered

COLUMBUS IS ISOLATED BY RAGING RIVER

TWO DROWNED WHILE FISHING NEAR ABILENE

The bodies of a former Ciscoan and his companion today had been recovered from Lake Kirby at Abilene, where the two were drowned Monday afternoon, it was reported by the Humble company here.

Joe B. Barton, 26, and W. E. Downing, 45, employees of the Humble Pipe Line company at the Hawley pump station, were drowned when their fishing boat capsized 150 yards from shore shortly before 5 p. m.

Workers recovered Barton's body at 3 a. m. today. The body of Downing was brought to the surface two hours later.

The telegraph department of the Humble company here reported that funeral services for Barton, well known here, would be held in Cisco at 11 o'clock tomorrow morning. The drowned man was a son of Lee Barton, deputy constable here.

The body of Downing will be sent to Kansas for burial, it was understood.

A. R. McClure, farmer, working in a field near the scene of the tragedy, heard cries for help yesterday afternoon, he said, and ran to the lake shore, where he made a heroic attempt to save the older of the men. Barton had already disappeared.

Farmer Tries Rescue

McClure, who had not been swimming for 20 years, plunged into the water and swam to Downing, whom he clutched by the hair. The drowning man grabbed him. He broke the hold only to be seized again, and was forced to break loose and swim back to shore alone when he became strangled in the struggle.

Herbert Wilson, another farmer, reached the scene just as McClure, exhausted, fell on the bank. The latter had gone under twice before he reached shallow water. Both of the drowned men had disappeared.

Police and firemen were summoned and dived for an hour in an attempt to recover the bodies. They then began dragging a channel of the lake where the men disappeared. They kept up their efforts until early this morning, when they recovered the bodies.

The tragedy was the climax of what was to have ended in a family picnic for the Barton and Downing families.

The Bartons had moved to Hawley from Cisco a month ago. Mr. and Mrs. Barton celebrated their fifth wedding anniversary last Wednesday.

Rioting Breaks Out When Prisoners Mutiny In Kansas Prison Coal Mine

LANSING, Kan., June 18. — Rioting broke out today in the coal mines of the Kansas state prison when 299 mutinous prisoners tried to rush the gun case 720 feet below ground.

They were beaten back with tear gas.

Four guards equipped with gas masks were in the gun cage when the prisoners rushed the shaft and tried to fight their way into the cage filled with supplies of guns, ammunition, and gas.

The prisoners mutinied this morning. Prison officials had not learned the cause of their grievance.

The prisoners held a dozen guards hostages below ground. Four other officials who went into the mine did not return and no word came back from them over the single telephone wire the mutineers did not cut.

The mutiny began apparently by carting arrangements just after the prisoners entered the shaft at 6:15 o'clock. All had been marched from breakfast and lowered to the 720 foot level.

RANGERS TAKE OVER RECORDS OF McDONALD

AUSTIN, June 18. — Texas rangers took charge of records in the Texas department of agriculture today, under orders of Representative E. E. Hunter, Cleburne, chairman of the investigating committee appointed by the house.

Two assistants to the state auditor were detailed to make a third audit of the department, affairs of which recently were brought under scrutiny in the legislature when several members sought unsuccessfully to have J. E. McDonald, agriculture commissioner removed from office.

McDonald said he "welcomed" the inquiry today.

The rangers were instructed to take charge of the records and files and guard them until they were ready for presentation to the committee.

McDonald recently denied the charges brought by the members that he had been lax in handling financial affairs. He is serving his second elective term as agriculture commissioner.

3 — Mitchell renewed and elaborated his charges against the commerce department and asked appointment as special aid to the department of justice in prosecution of fraud.

4 — Senate commerce committee received reports from steamship inspection service that 160 American vessels were "fire traps" liable to such a disaster as overtook the Morro Sack.

The girl, Doris Jean West, was described as five feet four inches tall, weighing about 120 pounds, with a well-developed figure, who would pass for a 16 or 18-year-old girl. When last seen she was wearing a green dress and white oxfords.

She was said to have been hitch hiker to the home of her grandmother in Cedar Rapids, Iowa, but it was believed that she had come in this direction. She was said to have been fond of dancing and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Karl V. West, believed she might be working in a road house or night club.

Code Study Board Asked by President

WASHINGTON, June 18. — President Roosevelt today asked Chairman James O'Neil to set up an important and impartial board to study effects of code revision in preparation for any possible "propaganda" from private sources designed to promote a special interest.

One man was jailed and another suffering from a blow in the face but able to work today, following an altercation at the local relief office yesterday.

Tony Johnson, about 25, unemployed, pleaded guilty to charges of affray and was turned over to county authorities, following an alleged attack upon R. L. (Tub) Wilson, at the relief office.

Johnson was said to have been standing in the doorway of the office and to have struck Wilson, a former peace officer here, as the latter came in. No word was exchanged. Johnson then went home and later was arrested. He went quietly to the office of the justice of the peace and pleaded guilty.

Wilson said this morning that he believed the man had mistaken him for someone else, or that he had intended to strike anyone connected with the relief office.

Johnson had come to the relief office yesterday and sought to have his name placed on relief rolls. L. A. White, local relief officer said that he told him to register with the National Reemployment service, in the relief office, and supposed that he had done so.

The altercation came later when Wilson, who had been outside the building came in and Johnson, without saying a word to him, suddenly swung him around and struck him, according to the justice of the peace.

Wilson and Johnson were not believed to have had any conversation on the relief matter.

Roosevelt To Be Asked to Quit Post

Cusack, president of the Dallas County Young Democratic club, said today a resolution asking for the resignation of Elliott Roosevelt, son of the president, as vice president of the Texas Young Democrats, would be presented at a special meeting of the Dallas club tomorrow night.

Cusack said the resolution would be directed to the executive committee of the state organization called to meet July 16 in Fort Worth.

"Other members of the Dallas Young Democrats" join me in the feeling that Mr. Roosevelt's residence in Texas and his work in the organization are too limited to entitle him to the honor," Phil Overton, Dallas, member of the state committee said.

Six additional deaths brought to 20 today the number of fatalities caused in a week caused by storms and floods.

The town of Columbus in the lower valley of the Colorado was isolated today as that stream's destructive tide rushed toward the gulf, bursting a levee and flooding most of Columbus.

J. R. Ellis, 76, died in Stephenville today from injuries suffered when a tornado demolished his home. His three daughters were injured.

James Bent, 21, was killed in a cyclone that circled the farm of R. A. Adcox at Weatherford.

Two were drowned near Dallas, one when he stepped into a hole while wading in the Trinity river and a second man when his automobile skidded into a stream and sank in 10 feet of water.

Colorado Up 32 Feet

Downstream from Columbus more than 500 farmers and their families crowded into Wharton as the Colorado reached a stage nearly 32 feet higher than normal and was expected to rise at least eight feet more. Conditions were as bad as if not worse than during the disastrous flood of 1913.

Most of the principal South Texas highways were blocked by high water as the Colorado, Nueces, Guadalupe, Brazos and other streams raged toward the gulf.

Havoc was caused in La Grange late yesterday when that city was flooded after the Colorado river swept through the municipal power and water plants at Austin and destroyed property totaling $1,500,000. The Texas highway department estimated the flood damage to highways would total well above $2,000,000.

ENTIRE SOUTHWEST HURT BY FLOODS

By UNITED PRESS

The death toll and property damage continued to rise today in devastated regions of the southwest as a result of flood, tornadoes, and storms.

Residents of the Republican river valley in Nebraska were forced out a second time and the list of dead and missing mounted to 84 with the addition of four names. Damage to property mounted to approximately $13,000,000.

Heavy loss of life in Nebraska from the second flood was prevented by rapid evacuation after warnings. Many had not been able to return to their homes when the second flood came.

At McCook, Neb., the night was spent in darkness as the waters swirled through the power plant.

More than 700 are on flood relief rolls in Nebraska. Albert Evans, Red Cross disaster relief director said. He put the total, including about 100 in Colorado and 40 in Kansas at 640 and said the list may grow to 1,200 when all reports are in.

Typhoid and small pox vaccine were rushed to isolated regions to prevent spread of disease in the wake of the disasters.

TRINITY RISING TO 36 FEET AT DALLAS

DALLAS, June 18. — The Trinity river is expected to rise to the 36 foot stage in the next 12 hours as a result of heavy rains.

'Close Up the Gaps' - Highway Slogan

Harry Hines, chairman of the state highway commission, knows what he wants and he has outlined it in a building program.

He would close all the gaps in Texas, and there are thousands of gaps left open in bygone years. There are millions at the command of Commissioner Hines and his co-commissioners. They are going to close the gaps first if possible.

They are wise. They are starting right. There should be no gaps left "unclosed" in the road system of this commonwealth. Patchwork should be voted a thing of the past. Un-sightly gaps should be abolished without delay. There should be scientific building all along the line. Commissioner Hines has convinced himself that $100,000,000 will be necessary, and that this sum would provide labor for a vast army of Texans who are clamoring for jobs and who don't believe in the dole—if it is necessary for labor to do it.

Commissioner Hines has gone to Washington to consult with the powers that be. He needs an additional $70,000,000 for vast construction work as well as for the huge task of closing the gaps. More power to his brain and elbow—and his vision.

Pollard Tells of the Problems of Railroads

(Problems of the railroad are the problems of the community and on their solution depends the mutual progress of the railroad and the communities they serve) declared Claude Pollard, general attorney for the Texas Railroad association in a talk before the Rotary club on "Railroad Week." Speaking of taxes and taxation, he said:

"The figures for the Texas railroads show the payment of $68,508,386 in taxes during the last 10 years—the railroads of Texas paying more taxes than any other state except California, Illinois and Kansas. Last year Texas railroads paid $7,016,308 in taxes or about $20,000 a day. Distribution of these taxes showed eight per cent went to the state government, 15 per cent to counties, 14 per cent to cities and towns, 17 per cent to highways and 56 per cent to the schools."

He then cited figures to show that the railroads and schools have a distinct relation when he asserted that Texas railroads last year paid taxes sufficient to pay the tuition of 49,586 public school pupils for one year while the western roads paid a corresponding item for 2,500,000 pupils.

The reader is reminded that the western railroads, located in 24 states west of the Mississippi, which are celebrating June 10-15 as railroad week, have invested in equipment, track and rolling stocks and stations a total of $10,000,000,000 covering a territory totaling 145,000 miles and have 205,000 miles of track including sidetracks and double tracks. Wage earners are interested in the following:

"In normal times these railroads paid $1,000,000,000 in wages a year of $2,900,000 a day." They paid $153,000,000 a year in taxes. The figures for the Texas railroads show the payment of $68,508,386 in taxes during the last 10 years. According to the Pollard figures the railroads have outstanding $11,000,000,000 in bonds. He asserted the rails are not owned by the people of the country. He placed this in the record of the day: "One half of these bonds are owned by savings banks and insurance companies and $2,000,000,000 owned by churches, hospitals, charitable institutions and schools. Hence it can be seen that every person who has an insurance policy, a dollar in the bank and every pupil and patron of the schools has a direct interest in the success of the railroads."

"Railroad Week" has been a marvelous success the nation over. It has been a campaign of education. It was sorely needed. It has made millions of people think and when the people think they can come out of their trance and are not intoxicated or carried away by the music of the demagogues who are clamoring for "a share of the wealth of the nation or the destruction of property rights of the people."

Grass Root Republicans Call For Aid

Leaders of the grass root republicans are organizing for the battle to come in the politics of the nation. They have issued a general invitation to "disgruntled democrats to join their ranks to save the constitution."

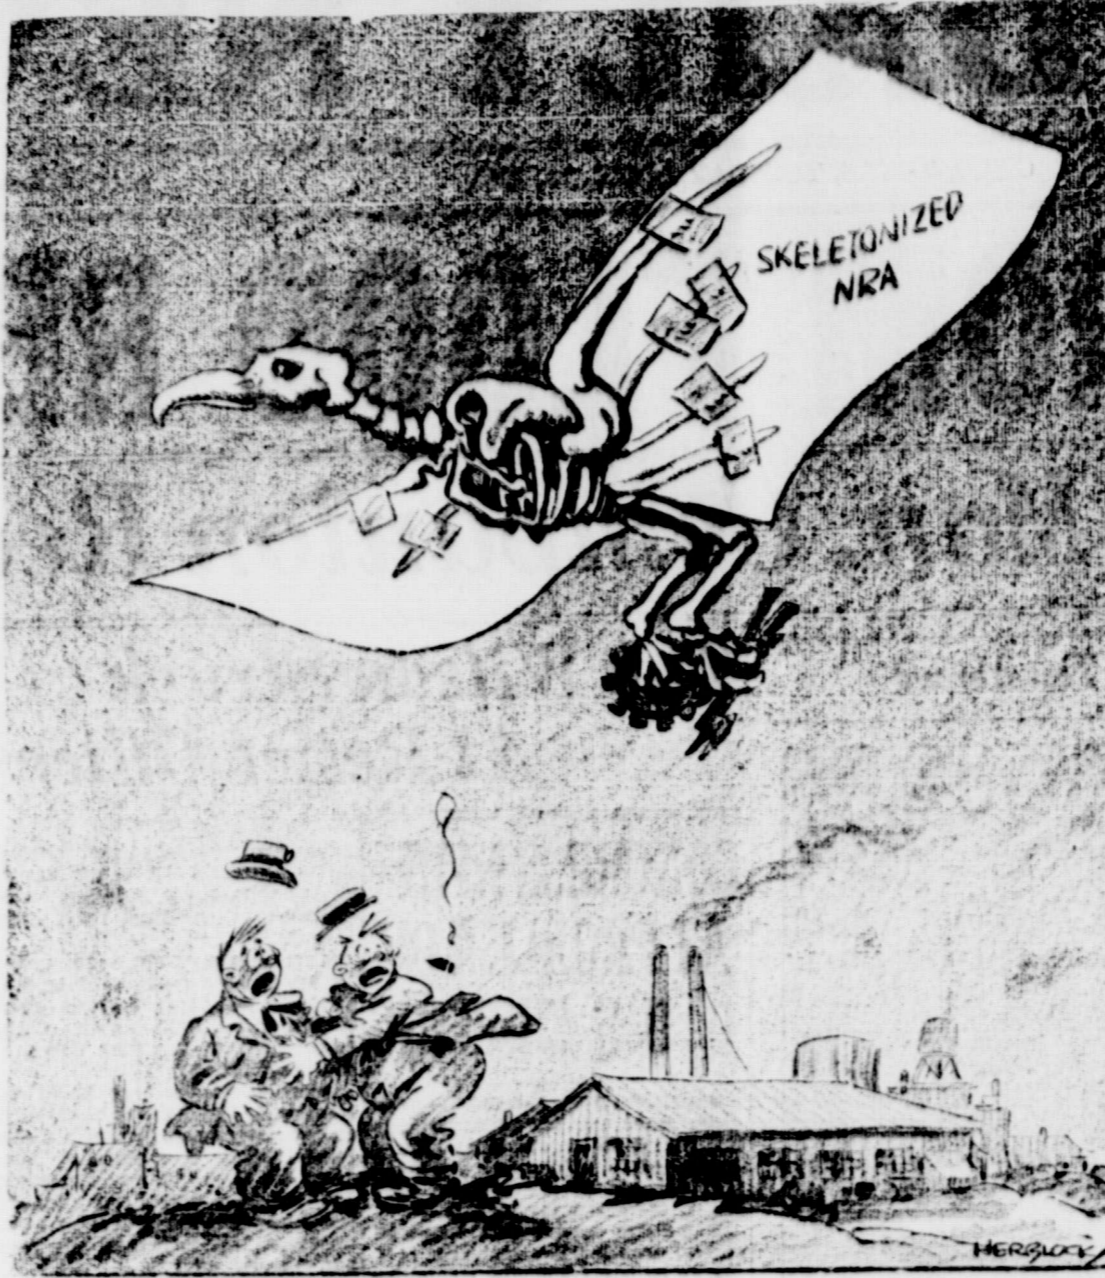

They overlooked the fact that Abraham Lincoln defied the constitution in the Dred Scott case. Indeed, the leaders of the old republican party flouted the Dred Scott decision until a bloody war was precipitated and the shackles taken from the limbs of the black slave.

In those ancient days, Southern democrats upheld the constitution and branded their political opponents as men "who are seeking to destroy the venerable document." Frank O. Lowden of Illinois appears to be the big ace among the grass rooters. He was a famous governor of his state and one of the ablest Illinois has known. Now he is for "the constitution and its preservation."

All sane Americans are for the constitution and its preservation with its marvelous bill of rights. Lowden in bygone years was a republican candidate for the presidential nomination. He was tossed aside by the reactionary leaders of his party. He refused second place on the ticket with Calvin Coolidge. Now he is in the picture again and would like to be the Moses in 1936.

Chief Justice William Pantangall of Maine is one of "the disgruntled democrats" who is going to help the grassrooters "to save the constitution and the government." Chief Justice Pantangall was a democrat until the campaign of

The White Eagle

1924. He was the democratic member of the national committee for Maine. Mrs. Pantangall was the national committeewoman for the democratic women of Maine. Pantangall battled against the Klan. Mrs. Pantangall battled for the Klan. McAdoo lost the nomination. John W. Davis was selected by the bi-partisan leaders of Wall Street for the sacrifice. Pantangall returned to his home in Maine. He deserted the democrats. He was welcomed to the republican camp by the republican reactionaries.

He was made an associate justice and later chief justice of the supreme court of the state. Now he is ready for the new combination of "disgruntled republicans who supported Hoover in 1932 and now classify themselves as "disgruntled democrats."

Politics is a queer game. It's a queer game because there are so many queer people who masquerade as democrats in one campaign and as republicans in the campaigns to come. Bill Murray of Oklahoma and Pantangall of Maine would like a wonderful ticket, in a certain sense, for the grassrooters in the year 1936. They are political "has-beens" seeking an ark of safety in their old age.

Mussolini Muzzles the Press of Italy

Mussolini is one of the most accomplished as well as successful of modern dictators.

Long ago he muzzled the press of Italy. Now the number of pages a daily issue may carry. Six days they are privileged to print a six page paper. On the seventh or Saturday it is their privilege to print an eight page paper. Freedom of the press is as dead in Italy as it is in Soviet Russia.

It is dead in all nations where dictators flourish and "a bill of rights" has disappeared in all countries except in those controlled by the British Empire and the democracy of the United States. Freedom of the press has not been tampered with or throttled in this country. Freedom of conscience continues. Freedom of action is the order of the day. Think of a United States senator, Huey Long, one of the most accomplished as well as adroit of modern demagogues, filling the Congressional Record with 48 complete pages of his frothy utterances and his receipts at a cost to the taxpayers of thousands of dollars. He is a loud-voiced stinger who is not concerned with costs just so long as the taxpayers foot the bill.

OUT OUR WAY

UNDER THE DOME AT AUSTIN

By RICHARD M. MOREHEAD
United Press Staff Correspondent

AUSTIN, June 18 — What Uncle Sam intends to do about highway aid is the question holding up a $225,000,000 program Texas has prepared for the next two years.

Harry Hines of Wichita Falls, new chairman of the highway commission, hopped when he left for Washington with a group of highway boosters and business leaders. That this state's recovery allotment might be raised from $28,000,000 to $100,000,000 in the next two years. With that amount of federal funds aid, and not too many strings attached, Texas could give tourists a neat surprise in 1936 when they came to visit the Centennial celebrations.

With nearly 20,000 miles of designated roads, Texas leads all other states. Considering the state's vast size, however, that is not unusual.

Wording of a telegram from high-headquarters in Washington apparently worried the state commission. The message outlined terms for spending the first federal aid grant. They are:

1. Must use 90 per cent - relief labor.
2. Work will be measured at the rate of $1400 per man per year.
3. Projects must be where relief labor is available.
4. Twenty-five per cent of the state's appropriation must be used on secondary projects. "feeder" roads in cardinal state and federal highways.

Thus the state's share of federal aid will be reduced to "pick and shovel" jobs, intended to create a maximum of work at minimum expense. Under such conditions, the man-per-dollar ratio would prevent highway building in its expensive phases, such as concrete paving.

Texas Washington trippers also will see if the terms cannot be liberalized.

Three significant projects of the New Deal reported progress this week.

Secretary of State Gerald C. Malin's drive to educate Texans on the meaning of the new "blue sky" law, requiring registration of all persons dealing in stocks commercially.

Three widely-distributed leaflets explained who should be licensed, defined "security," and pointed out that a license is not required for a person making only one deal.

The second New Deal project was announced at a directors' meeting for Texas Rural Communities. Federal authorities gave notice that plans for Ropesville community in Hockley county were satisfactory. Built on the largest farm terrace in the world the community will furnish a 4,000-acre farm where 65 families will find new homes. About $225,000 will be set aside to improve the settlement.

No. 3 project is a comprehensive survey of child welfare and living conditions in Texas homes. Two separate studies were conducted by the Texas Relief Commission, cooperating with social agencies of AUSTIN, June 18 — Republicans, attacking President Roosevelt's policies and administration, sat beneath a picture of Abraham Lincoln and praised Lincoln enthusiastically, while narrating for the U. S. supreme court decision that toppled some of the recovery program.

Of all patron saints, they made Mrs. Malaprop's first choice. Perhaps they didn't remember that Lincoln appealed to the same supreme court on the question of slavery, and when the court ruled against him, he started a war about it—or whether public sentiment outside the slave supported him.

Opinion now holds that if the supreme court in the historic slavery case had legislated a way out, there would have been no fratricidal civil war. But that does not alter the fact that Lincoln appealed from the court in Washington to the court of public opinion, and remade the constitution upon which courts have been hair-splitting—and legislating involved meanings, implications and extensions—ever since.

BEGIN HERE TODAY
KATHARINE STRYKERHURST, 20 and beautiful, allows her emotions to rule when she marries MICHAEL, HEAD INSTRUCTOR, a young riding instructor who comes into a title and fortune. Katharine's father is rich and her stepmother is snobbish.

The night following his marriage Michael is injured in a traffic accident and when he regains consciousness his memory is lost. He forgets the marriage. Katharine, unaware of this, plans to leave for New Mexico and her friend, VIOLET MERSEUR, agrees to engage a lawyer to annul the marriage.

JOHN KAYE, an old friend, tells her he has always loved her. NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XXXV

VIOLET MERSEUR was weeding her rosebed when she saw Michael ride by. It was the first time she had caught a glimpse of him since his accident and since Katharine's amazing discovery. Katharine had been gone two days now. Stanley Merseur was taking steps toward the end of the girl was now so anxious to attain—the announcement of that astonishing marriage ceremony a few weeks before.

"The man must be a most horrible villain," Violet said to herself, prodding at the earth about the roots of a Dorothy Perkins. "And yet—he doesn't look like one in the least." She was rather ashamed of her earlier enthusiasm for Michael.

The whole thing was definitely queer. First the boy had engaged himself to Sally Moon. That made him appear a fortune hunter. Then he had run off with Katharine on what seemed now a most cruel impulse, only to behave as though the whole thing had never happened at all.

Violet stood up, brushing her earth-stained hands impatiently together. She ought to go to see him, ought to find out how he stood in the matter before Stan turned the affair over to Adrian, their discreet lawyer friend.

She washed her hands at the sink in the gleaming small kitchen and called to Lavinia who was on the porch, shelling peas for the children's lunch, that she was going to walk up the road a bit. Michael's horse had been going in the direction of the riding club. And he had been alone. It would be a good time to talk to him.

AS Violet Merseur turned into the lane that ran beside the old shingled house she could see the tall figure of the man she sought, standing in the doorway of the stable.

"Good morning!" Michael whirled, his eyes clouded, his muscles taut.

"Good morning," he said without smiling. Three days were difficult ones to be got through. Strange people were always coming up to him and being brick and hearty. He had to fend them off as best he could.

Something in the wariness of his attitude put Violet off. All at once she was conscious that her errand lacked dignity. It was not for her to meddle in Katharine's affairs. She said rather lamely, "About the horses—for the little girl. She hasn't been riding lately."

Michael bowed. His tone was formal, aloof.

"Do you mind seeing Jerry, my assistant, about that? I haven't been well lately. . . ." He passed his hand over his eyes and, with another stiff little bow, went into the house.

Jerry was at her elbow. Somehow Violet managed to say something coherent to him, to walk away. But her brain was whirling.

"Good heavens!" she cried to herself. "What if that should be the explanation of it all? What if he doesn't really know what happened?"

You heard of such things. To the healthy person such a possibility seemed extremely far-fetched. But Violet knew it was not out of the bounds of reason. He had been struck on the head, perhaps. The newspaper account had said "multiple bruises." Who could tell what damage had been done?

She walked swiftly toward her own house, eager to put through a telephone call to her husband. "Stan, have you got in touch with Adrianson yet?"

His slow, reassuring voice answered her. "Have an appointment with him at two. Why? Anything happen?"

She dared not talk over the telephone. Everyone said the exchange operator listened. "Can you postpone it?" she asked. "I think I've hit on something. It may be a hunch. I don't know."

"I DON'T understand why you want me to do it so quietly," pouted Sally Moon. "Old Ruthie has been calling up every day to see if I've any date to give her. She's anxious to run the story of the wedding, but she doesn't dare say a word about it as long as I tell her to hold off. And probably everyone's talking about me. Probably they say the thing's off."

"I have my reasons," Mr. Moon said solemnly. If Sally weren't so wrapped up in her own affairs, he thought, she would be able to figure out the problem for herself. He wanted all the votes he could get for village trustee and the election was next week. With insisting on getting all her flowers and catering things from the city instead of patronizing the local tradesmen (who were sure to be antagonized), the election would be certain to go against him. He knew Innicoek. He hadn't been president of the bank for 20 years without learning a good deal about the way the minds of the villagers worked.

He had several reasons for not telling Sally this. The first was that she would not consider the argument weighty enough. She all his own way of over-riding was that an more than straightforwardness. She was inclined to be a bit mysterious herself. "Sneaky," Mr. Moon called it. Like her mother's people. None of the Moons had been sneaky—all open and aboveboard like himself. Still, a man had to protect his interests against the depredations of his womenfolk. Women had no consciences whatever when they wanted their own way.

He wouldn't be sorry to see Sally married. She'd been a bit of a problem since her mother died of a cocktail, flirtations, all kinds of craziness, her father told himself. This young fellow was good with horses. Maybe he'd cowponies for the Stamford Reunion.

Besides the special features, the rodeo includes the usual cowboy sports of calf-roping, wild-cow-bucking, steer-riding and bronco-busting. These events will be staged each day. Day money totalling $1,600 will be awarded in these events, besides the handsome handmade saddles which go to the champions in each contest.

The rodeo arena, with improvements made this year, has a seating capacity of 10,000, which is expected to care for the crowds even at the peak shows. However, visitors will likely find the night performances more pleasant due to the cooler night air. Performances will begin each day at 8:30 a. m., 2:00 p. m. and 8:00 p. m. The usual low performance prices will prevail, general admission to the afternoon and night shows being 50 cents for adults and 25 cents for children and grandstand seat 25 cents additional. The charge for the morning matinee will be 25 cents for everyone. All tickets are tax-free due to the fact that the Reunion is a non-dividend organization.

Half Of People In Bad Mental Health

DALLAS, June 18 — Fully 50 per cent of all persons employed in American industries suffer from varying degrees of emotional or mental ill health, according to Dr. H. L. Pritchett, professor of sociology at Southern Methodist university.

Many men and women who are highly successful in business and are entirely rational, none the less suffer from emotional maladjustment, Pritchett said.

Relatively few people are engaged in the type of work they really wish to follow, he said. Most people are engaged as they are because of compulsion or circumstance.

"Strong physical health is the foundation of mental health," Pritchett said. "Plenty of work done with a feeling of satisfaction that it is worthwhile is the best cure for emotional unbalance."

BOY KING PETER DENIED PLAY IN TRAINING FOR JUGO-SLAV THRONE

By STEWART BROWN United Press Staff Correspondent

BELGRADE, Jugoslavia, June 18.—King Peter II of Jugoslavia has the toughest job ever set before an 11-year-old boy.

In slightly more than six years he must be prepared to take over the burdens borne by his father, the late King Alexander, who was murdered by a Macedonian terrorist in Marseilles last fall.

On Sept. 6, 1941, King Peter, who then will be 18, will assume active responsibility for a territory of 96,000 square miles with a population of 14,000,000 persons of many different races, religions and often bitterly conflicting political opinions.

Four of King Peter's nine predecessors on the throne were assassinated, while of the remaining five only three died in bed during their rule. The other two abdicated, and the son of the king who allegedly forced them into an unequal union with the Serbs.

Every morning Peter faithfully picks a handful of flowers from the garden and places them before the picture of his father. He will let nobody else in the house perform this task. The boy already realizes the difficult role he is to play and his mind is serious. Rarely does he laugh and romp about with his brothers as he did before last year's tragedy.

Pirate Gold Tales Lure Ship Salvage

WALLISVILLE, June 18.—Pirate gold has lured searchers to Lake Charlotte to raise a ship that was sunk more than a century ago.

E. H. Sherman, local resident, found the ship and interested a salvage firm in the report that the boat was laden with gold.

Operations have been started to raise the 70-foot vessel from 16 feet of mud. Work was retarded, however, by recent high water, resulting from heavy rains.

Federal Aid Sought For El Paso's Park

EL PASO, June 18.—Federal funds are to be requested to help make El Paso's newly-discovered "Valley of Pyramids" into a park.

At the proposed park site, "pyramids" caused by wind erosion action on clay and limestone formations, rise up sheer from the floor of a valley near Fabens.

Deer and antelope are still common in the region of the park.

4 Grandchildren In Same Commencement

WAXAHACHIE, June 18.—Parents interested in their children's graduation from high school know how M. P. (Pick) Roebuck felt because four of his grandchildren graduated on the same day.

Two of Roebuck's sons and two of his daughters are parents of Mildred and Ralph Roebuck, Alen Herrington and Frances Marchbanks who graduated in the same class from Waxahachie high school.

Piedras Negras To Form New Polo Team

EAGLE PASS, June 18.—General Jesus Jaime Quinones, widely known sportsman who took charge at the Piedras Negras garrison on June 2, as commander of the North Coahuila Military zone, is planning the formation of a polo team in the border city.

He brought a number of thoroughbred polo ponies with him from Mexico City, and has stabled them at a farm on the outskirts of Piedras Negras.

Nearby, he is having a field cleared and shaped for polo contests, and has already sent an invitation to the Fort Clark polo team for several matches, to be played here July 3 and 4.

FRECKLES and HIS FRIENDS

Money His Chief Worry

His worst worry is money. His mother, Dora Marie, put him on a limited allowance which the youthful king found too small for his requirements.

He asked his mother for more money. She refused, saying he must learn to make economies. To this Peter replied:

"Very well, I will learn a trade and make more money for myself."

He did. From his spending he bought and equipped a carpenter's shop. He made small objects which the queen allowed him to sell to private persons. The demand is great. Peter's time to meet orders is now more money.

Peter's day starts at 7 a. m. when, after prayers, he breakfasts with his family. After breakfast he walks in the park with his mother and two smaller brothers, Tommy and Andre.

At 9 a. m. the young monarch must lay aside his royal authority and start school work. He is prompt to report for work, but when the weather is good he insists on having his lessons out-of-doors.

He has 16 hours of lessons a week, and an additional 6 hours of physical education. The Dowager queen is anxious to put her somewhat delicate son in the best physical condition before he takes the throne.

Takes Rigorous Exercise

To build up his body he does the gymnastic exercises of the Sokols (sort of military Yugoslav Boy Scouts), rides, swims and skis. According to Mrs. Sam Ferrara, of Hammond, La. "I was suffering with my back and side. I would get so dizzy I could hardly stand and then have a weak feeling in my back. This made me very nervous and I did not rest well at night. I felt better after two bottles and felt a great deal better. It certainly is a fine medicine."

Successfully used over fifty years. Thousands of women testify Cardui benefited them. If it does not benefit YOU, consult a physician.

Price Fixing AAA Amendment Defeated

WASHINGTON, June 18 — House administration forces today defeated a price fixing amendment to the AAA bill which would have authorized the secretary of agriculture to fix the maximum retail of farm products.

The amendment was offered by Rep. Thomas O'Malley, dem., Wis., and was defeated without a record vote.

Squeezing Charge Aired at Oil Meet

WASHINGTON, June 18 — Charges major oil companies were fixing prices and "squeezing" independent marketers out were aired today by oil men attending the National Oil Marketers association meeting.

The association ordered a special committee to ask officials to order a department of justice investigation to determine if major oil companies had violated anti-trust laws through secret agreement.

The independent marketers charged major companies were maintaining retail prices without a sufficient margin of profit through subsidiaries in the marketing field through secret agreements that balanced losses in one field with excess profit in another.

Marriages Drop In France During 1934

PARIS, June 18 — The World War, which caused a shortage of conscripts for the French army this year, also caused a shortage of French husbands during 1934, according to a comparative table just issued by the Bureau of general statistics.

These figures show that marriages during 1934 totaled 298,192 or 17,274 fewer than the preceding year.

This falling off in the number of marriages is attributed to the fact that there were less young men of marriageable age in 1934 than in previous years, due primarily to the decline in the birthrate during the four-year war period. Other figures showed little differences although the number of births continued to decline.

In 1933 there were 682,680 births as compared to 677,365 in 1934—a decrease of 5,315. Births, however, outnumbered deaths by 42,840 as compared to 21,598 in 1933.

Nevada Opens Drive For Liquor Taxes

RENO, Nev., June 18 — There's many a slip between cup and lip—as all good bartenders can tell you.

It remained, however, for William Klaus, state liquor inspector, to find out there's many a laugh between selling the new state liquor stamps and licenses.

Klaus visited a beer dispenser and asked to see his importer's license.

"The brewery just shipped it to me," the liquor dealer told Klaus, explaining he had no importer's license.

Klaus had his laughs and then became business-like.

"Yes," he told the dealer, "that's a new kind of Santa Claus. Well, send it back or take out an importer's license."
