BRITISH NAVY SEALING UP GIBRALTAR

MEDITERRANEAN TAKING ON ASPECT OF WAR AS NATIONS MASS THEIR NAVAL FORCES

GILBRALTAR, Sept. 18. — Preparations were made by the British naval forces today to seal up Gibraltar completely in case of necessity. The south harbor was closed to submarine ships a few days ago by a boom across the entrance. Another boom was prepared today on the north side. Gibraltar was seized with warlike preparations. The dockyard showed the most activity since the World War. The harbor was crowded with warships and flying boats.

MUSSOLINI TO GET LEAGUE'S PEACE OFFER

GENEVA, Sept. 18. — Baron Pompeo Aloisi decided today to leave the peace discussion at Geneva and go to Rome to give Premier Benito Mussolini personally the League council's recommendations. The only faint hope held here of delaying or averting war in Ethiopia. Aloisi will take with him the text of proposals drafted by the council conciliation committee of five, giving Italy great economic and territorial concessions. Italian sources here have indicated rather plainly they do not expect the proposals to be accepted, but said that Mussolini might be willing to "consider" them. Premier Pierre Laval of France was understood to have urged Aloisi not only to outline the compromise to Mussolini by telephone but visit him personally and convey the views of the French, British, and others. The fact that Aloisi agreed to pursue the suggested course was regarded as a slightly encouraging sign. All delegations still doubted Italy's acceptance of the proposals as a basis of negotiation, although the possibility was seen that Mussolini might agree to consider them pending the end of the rainy season in East Africa.

ETHIOPIA TO ACCEPT PEACE OFFER

ADDIS ABABA, Sept. 18. — Ethiopia may accept the League of Nations committee of five for settlement of the country's dispute with Italy, it was learned today. A spokesman officially discussed the offer with the United Press correspondent after a conference at the palace at which Emperor Haile Selassie consulted with his foreign advisers. It was assumed, the United Press was informed, that the Ethiopian delegation at Geneva had been authorized to accept the suggested settlement.

Student Is Facing Charge of Murder

BEAUMONT, Sept. 18. — William Thornton, 24, University of Texas student, faced a murder charge today after the slaying of his former friend, Horace Gonsoulin, 24, refinery worker at Port Arthur. Following the shooting at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Thornton, the youth and his wife drove to Beaumont where Thornton surrendered. The sheriff who filed the charge said he learned that Gonsoulin and Thornton had quarreled several times in Gonsoulin's home, which they shared.

Roosevelt to Leave Next Week For Trip to Pacific Coast; No Speeches

HYDE PARK, Sept. 18. — President Roosevelt revealed today he would leave next week on his swing across the country. Departure, he said, will be from Washington, as soon as he is able to clear away a mass of administrative business both here and at the capital. San Diego will be the president's destination. Despite persistent reports to the contrary, he insisted that the trip to the west coast would not be punctuated with political addresses, pointing out he wanted to make it in five days. This schedule removed the possibility of a speech before the national meeting of the American Legion at St. Louis.

Fall Livestock Exhibit Is Planned

DATE IS SET FOR OCT. 25 AT C-C MEET

Budding Drivers Prepare for Kiddie Car Tour of Nurseryland

Initial plans were made last night to hold the annual Eastland County Livestock show here in the fall rather than in the spring. The date for the show was set as Oct. 25-26 at the regular meeting of the Cisco Chamber of Commerce directors. Reasons given for the change in time for the stock show were that sale of the animals would be more brisk and that better stock could be shown at less expense. It was pointed out that the farmers, who would be expected to purchase the bulk of the stock shown, would be in better financial condition in the fall than in the spring, and would be able to purchase more stock. Less Expense At the same time, it was said, the cost of feed would be less in the fall. Whereas it would be expensive for stockmen to feed their stock through the winter months to keep them in good condition for the show, they could be kept in good condition in the fall at little cost. Dr. F. E. Clark was named chairman of the arrangements committee for the stock show. Other committee members named were Dr. Charles C. Jones, F. E. Harrell, A. Z. Myrick, and J. M. Bird. W. H. LaRoque, B. A. Butler, and J. M. Bird were appointed on the publicity committee. To Work Out Plans The committees will work out further plans for the stock show in the near future, it was said. The show last spring was termed the best ever held in the county, and it was the hope of the Chamber of Commerce that the one this fall would surpass it. The Chamber of Commerce directors heard a report from E. P. Crawford on correspondence concerning the state park and CCC camp here. Progress on the relocation of Highway 80 through Cisco was discussed. Expenditure of $15 for a lease for highway sign service on the Highway 89 cutoff at Weatherford was authorized by the directors. Charles Sandler was appointed committee member on the State Manufacturing association.

FUNERAL FOR N. L. PERKINSON STILL PENDING

Final arrangements have not been made for the funeral services of N. L. Perkinson who died today at 2 a. m. in a local sanitarium. Mr. Perkinson was proprietor of the Main Street Lunch Room and was better known as "Pop". He has been a resident of Cisco for 12 years having come here from Weatherford. He is survived by his widow, a son, W. E. Perkinson, of Cisco; two daughters, Mrs. J. A. Nichols of Wichita Falls and Mrs. T. D. Hill of Nacogdoches; a grandson, Donald Albert Perkinson of Dallas. Green's Funeral home has charge of body and interment will be at Laurel Land Memorial Park, Dallas.

G-Men To Stay Out Of Long's Inquiry

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18. — The federal government will hold aloof from the investigation of the assassination of Huey Long unless definite evidence of violation of federal law is submitted, justice department officials said today. They explained that murder of a United States senator under such circumstances or plotting such a murder is not a federal crime, any more than is the murder of any other citizen. Only if evidence were offered showing that ramifications of the assassination transgressed federal laws would the G-men take a hand, it was said.

American Fliers Held in Baseball Player's Death Will Be Released

TORONTO, Sept. 18. — The attorney general's office announced today that criminal charges against William Mulqueeny and Irwin Davis, Americans, charged in the death of Len Koenecke, major league baseball player, would not be pressed, and they will be released on bail. The fliers will be asked to tell their story at an inquest tomorrow night. They will be arraigned formally Friday morning and then discharged. The attorney general, it was explained, it was satisfied that the men were forced to kill Koenecke, who was crazed by liquor, to save their own lives. They are held in jail on manslaughter charges. The ball to be asked was not revealed.

Allred Wants New Taxes for Pensions

AUSTIN, Sept. 18. — Governor James Allred today recommended old age pensions to a special session of the legislature and pointed to chain stores, sulphur, pipe lines, and luxuries as the sources of needed tax revenue. "I particularly urge the immediate passage of a real graduated chain store tax, a sulphur tax, on pipe lines, and a selective luxury tax," he said. He reiterated specific recommendations of his tax message to the regular session last February, referring legislators to it for details. By renewing the old message, Governor Allred again declared against a general sales tax. Many members believe a general sales tax is the only practical way to raise enough money to pay old age pensions.

CERTIFICATES ON BALES ARE ISSUED TO 300

Three hundred tax exemption certificates on this year's cotton crop were issued at the Chamber of Commerce this morning when county cotton officials were here. The certificates represented exemptions on approximately 600 bales, it was said. A. E. Arthur, assistant in cotton adjustment, Ira Swift, Joe McNeely, and F. S. Boland were those at work on the issuing of exemption certificates here today. It was pointed out by Arthur that the blue two-bale certificates, representing 100 per cent exemption, are non-transferable and must be turned back for transferable certificates.

Penn Man to Head Spanish War Vets

SAN ANTONIO, Sept. 18. — Robert Cain, Pittsburgh, Pa., senior vice commander, was nominated without opposition today for the office of commander of the United Spanish War veterans. Nominations occupied most of the morning so that by noon none of the resolutions against communism and asking that aliens be exported had been brought to the floor.

Quezon Is Elected Island President

MANILLA, Sept. 18. — Manuel Quezon, the dapper "Don Manuel" of international politics, will be first president of the new Philippines. His election by an overwhelming majority became more certain as returns came in from the provinces to swell the total vote.

CITY REPORT FOR 4 MONTHS IS RELEASED

Total receipts for the city of Cisco for the four months of May, June, July, and August were $21,974.32, as against total disbursements of $35,464.73, according to a report for the period issued today by the office of the city secretary. The latter figure included, besides the regular expenses the bond interest, refinancing of old bonds, and the handling of new bonds, the report showed. Total receipts for the period, $22,015.57. ### Many at Revival At Bluff Branch

The revival being conducted by the Church of Christ at Bluff Branch is drawing large crowds at each service. Rev. M. F. Manchester of Desdemona is doing the preaching. Everyone is invited to attend and take part in the worship. STEAL BRIDGE RAILING FT. LAUDERDALE, Fla., — With considerable daring, thieves dismantled 200 feet of pipe railing on a bridge in Howard county and carted the loot away, probably hoping to sell it as junk. SHUN HAZARDOUS JOB BOSTON — Pumpkins are growing in Charlestown's business district. They are ripening on the vines in a flower pot. Where the seeds came from is a mystery.

L. McCurdy, energetic worker in the community, reports that McCurdy who was operated some weeks ago is improving. Her friends will be glad to hear this.
Under Rev. C. S. Moad has fishing... he made it possible for us to get a taste of the thrill that comes from catching five or six... then he deserts us just as we are ready to try again.
Superintendent R. N. Cluck just stay put... too much energy business for one man... J. M. and Dr. Charles Hale talking guns and ammunition.... to be planning the death of or two.
F. E. Clark takes time out prescribing bitter medicine to about increasing the quality stock to be grown on Eastland farms... he says wisely the boys are the hope of the future... Bird can teach them methods... older farmers and growers are more or less set their ways.
seems that the efforts of E. P. Crawford parrot committee for chamber of commerce, and who are working on the CCC for Cisco, may be on the eve accomplishment... Hon. Thomblanton is on the job it seems and he usually does things never known to fail.

CONSTITUTION DISCUSSED AT LION MEETING

Rev. J. Stuart Pearce gave a talk on the Constitution of the United States at the regular Lions luncheon today in his introduction he stressed that the constitution is not a divinely inspired document in the sense that could not be changed nor improved upon, but being susceptible to changes, changes should be made difficult that too hasty acts could not be the greatest guarantee to liberty ever promulgated, and which has made this the greatest freest nation on earth. "We should be slow," he said, "to remove these safeguards to liberty personal happiness which have been the result of the constitution. This document does not cure all but gives its people the liberty to work out their problems in safety peace it should not be changed for the convenience of any political party nor for the classes he should and does promote education and the intelligence to live the document. No people who ignorant can live under a deplorable government which gets life from a constitution. It provides opportunities to live and share the nation's state of living in doing so implies obligation to the people. They must respect the constitution and happiness of others granting them to the individual. Therefore," he continued, "it depends on a conscience of morality on us who owe to our country. We should respect the liberty of others and the constitution guarantees all things to the citizen. He should with the injunction to be of changes and make them better."
Reports of the Lions Minstrel committee showed a net proceeds of $25.23. A vote of thanks was given to those who had been active in the promotion of the event.

Officers Searching For Five Prisoners

OKLAHOMA CITY, Sept. 18. — Officers today blocked a wooded section near Edmond, in which five men who broke from the county jail today were believed cornered. The Oklahoma county sheriff's plane was cruising the territory, attempting to locate the men two whites and three negroes. They escaped before daylight by prying loose the bars of a cell block and knocking a hole in the ceiling.

Illinois Farmers Ready for Rustlers

JOLIET, Ill., Sept. 18. — Determined to "shoot to kill," 2,000 Will county farmers today oiled their shotguns, placed them in reach, and awaited the alarm to start hunting cattle rustlers. The Will county Anti-farm team, association adopted the battle cry of "Get your Shotgun."
Modern cattle rustlers in fast trucks have stolen hundreds of head of cattle in the Chicago area. They are blamed for the slaying of a farm hand near here several weeks ago.

Half of PWA Applications Void

More than half the 11,500 PWA applications for federal allocations have been declared void, in that they do not meet standards set up by the resident. They were to total $1,100,000,000, which can not be allocated for them until they are revised.

That means, Harold Ikes, holder of the purse strings of the Public Works Administration, has pointed out, that the deadline originally set for yesterday was wiped out and that no deadline will be set immediately.

Meanwhile all over the country sponsors of PWA projects will be in a mad scramble to revise their applications to conform with the regulations and get them approved.

The Dole as a Boomerang

What will happen to the army of social case workers when direct relief is abandoned in the several states?

The outlook is indeed blue for this group of emergency officials. It rather looks, indeed, as though they themselves will have to go on relief.

From FERA headquarters at Washington has come the suggestion that the states make provision for the social case workers. But where is the state that has sufficient funds?

Abandonment of the huge administrative structure used for dole-dispensing purposes naturally will entail hardships for its immediate beneficiaries.

But it would be unfair to the taxpayers for an unnecessary instrumentality to be maintained after the costly WPA has begun functioning at top speed.

And so it appears that the social case workers will be stark up against the very condition they have been alleviating and that they will have to seek other avenues of service or join the ranks of the leafsweepers, the boon-dogglers and the ditchdiggers, for better or worse.

It's all too bad, but that is the inevitable price of governmental bureaucracy temporarily established under pressure of emergency conditions.

Pay for What We Get

Lieutenant Governor Walter F. Woodul next year will campaign for adoption of constitutional amendments raising the salary of the governor attorney general, comptroller, treasurer, land commissioner and does Texas so often have to go outside the state to get higher executives, technical and professional men?

The answer will be that unconscionably low brackets of salaries in the state drives Texans of the highest talents

Behind the Scenes in Washington

BY RODNEY DUTCHER

Washington—Plans are being laid in various quarters for attacks both behind the scenes and in public, on Chairman Jesse Jones of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation. Jesse seems likely to be in for plenty of trouble unless he can demonstrate that he isn't playing favorites with the Wall Street crowd (the Morgans at the head of the list) and other enemies of the administration. For the gang that has gone sour on Jesse is tough and usually rather effective.

A couple of cabinet members, at last reports, were preparing to tell Roosevelt that "the world's biggest banker" was playing too close with the president's political enemies. But the chief complaint of the wrecking crew is that Jones is willing to lend a hand—and a lot of government money—to the lawyers, bankers, and managing executives who raked in millions from big railroads now in receivership and are anxious to start the same process all over again at the expense of investors.

The Missouri Pacific is still in the hands of the Van Sweringens, who are in the hands of Morgan. The Vans never put any money in it, but before going bust in 1933 it borrowed $25,000,000 from RFC under their auspices on the basis of a financial statement which RFC lawyers publicly claim was "an amazing set of concealment" of liabilities.

Now the Vans, with Morgan holding their holding company shares as collateral for a $48,000,000 loan—the same holding company whose shares it holds controlling Missouri Pacific—come to RFC with a reorganization proposition under which bondholders would get $7,500,000 a year instead of $25,000,000, as now.

It is charged that the promoters, bankers, and lawyers would proceed to clean up at

to the governor. Governor Alfred relies on his findings. It is not an agency to go out into the cotton patch and see how convicts are worked; or to discuss the aspirations of convicts for freedom. It should be given one or more able-bodied young employes to do that work. But the board belongs in Austin. Attorney George Mendell, in securing an injunction against its removal, contends there is no authority to take agencies of government away from the seat of government, and thus the removal law is unconstitutional.

Whether unconstitutional or not it seems an extremely bad precedent, and a bad policy with respect to orderly handling of clemency matters.

Texas Topics

By RAYMOND BROOKS

AUSTIN, Sept. 18.—A new state department, that of public safety, at last has integrated state law-enforcement agencies.

published by the University of Texas in two huge volumes in October, comes the proposal, backed and sponsored by the American Legion and cooperating agencies, of a further department of public welfare.

This public welfare department was proposed by the administrative reorganization bill. Its functions now are performed by agencies, such as bureaus of the board of control, the parole board, the prison system, a dozen eleemosynary institutions. It will come sometime as an entity comparable to the public safety department.

Mrs. S. M. Marrs, past national Parent-Teacher association president, is sponsoring a weekly series of radio broadcasts at 1:15 p. m. Sundays, in which results of the child welfare survey and needs of the public welfare department will be discussed.

The legislature will consider objections, and probably a bill to repeal the new law, now enjoined, to remove the governor's board of pardon advisors from the seat of government to the penitentiary at Huntsville. The pardon and parole board is composed of former judges. Its function is to review clemency applications and recommend action

Did you ever stop to think

T. A. Grehan, advertising manager of the Dublin (Ireland) Independent Newspapers, Ltd., says: "I find a good many people seem to imagine that there is something illusory, weird, or uncanny, something beyond the ordinary understanding of plain men and women about Advertising. I want to impress upon you the fact that there is no such thing. Advertising there may be that at first sight is baffling, and probably a bill to repeal the new law, now enjoined, to remove the governor's board of pardon advisors from the seat of government to the penitentiary at Huntsville. The pardon and parole board is composed of former judges. Its function is to review clemency applications and recommend action generally more impressive than helpful.

HEROES ARE MADE—NOT BORN

"Like many other human activities, Advertising has advanced. The science and practice of Advertising today have grown wondrously, though, of course, the basic idea of Advertising still remains as heretofore, a method of attracting attention to induce sales.
"I think the timid man has been a god-sent to us in the Advertising world. I will tell you why. The timid man, to begin with, is, as a rule, careful of his money. He wants to pick his steps, and I tell you, he is always right in so doing, for you burn a lot of money very quickly in ill-conceived, ill-planned, slovenly-conducted Advertising. The timid man is not given to doing things in an ill-conceived, ill-planned, slovenly way, and so when he starts to nibble at Advertising he walks warily, plans with caution, and experiments with sagacity. He begins with a modest expenditure. Having taken pains to make sure he is on the right lines, he gets results that encourage him to go on and to go further afield, but always advancing with caution. In the end he finds out by his complete satisfaction that by Advertising planned according to his principle of caution he gets satisfactory results, and having, we say, 'seen the light,' he is our best propagandist. So we always welcome the man who plays for safety."

The BLUE DOOR

By Rachel Mack

BEGIN HERE TODAY
RUTH WOODSON, pretty, high-spirited girl of 19, in search of work, seeks refuge from a storm in an old stone house with a blue door in the little town of Worthville. The owner, Mrs. McNeill, is HERBERT GIBBS, also known as FENNY, thinks Ruth is ELAINE CHAMBERS, college student who recently meeting in the love of her childhood hero, JOHN McNEILL. She came to get a school man known as JOHN SMITH escapes from an asylum, buys a wood-car and starts for Worthville.
Ruth decides to stay on at the old house, pretending to be Elaine, for two reasons: she needs a shelter and she has fallen in love with John McNeill. She is not disconnected by old Herbert Gibbs' queer actions or by the strange noises she hears in the old house at night.
John McNeill has fallen in love with Elaine, who is a very successful company. One night, on a date with a woman, she is dancing, they are arrested for speeding and Ruth, not wishing to get the same fate as John McNeill, goes to the police records, tells the officer her name is "Ruth Woodson." She later tells him this is her "favorite alias." She is happy in John's company, but she is secretly planning to slip away and end the adventure.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
CHAPTER XIX
It was Friday and Elaine Chambers was leaving college for a weekend in New York.
As a porter carried her bags away she paused in the doorway of her room to bid good-bye to her friend, Hortense Stokesbury, who was applying herself to Renaissance art on the chaise longue. "Good-bye as long as you like, Hortense," Elaine said. "These rooms are more comfortable than yours."
"Thanks," replied Hortense, though not graciously. It was not pleasant to be reminded that Elaine's was the choice suit of Graycastle. "I'll stay all night, dress for dinner. Then I'll look up after me. Well, good-bye. Don't week Canby's rhythm at the Windmill Club tonight. He's still playing there, isn't he?"
"Yes," answered Elaine. "But don't worry about his rhythm. He taught it to Duchin and Valise. By the way, darling, do you mind if I tell my parents I'm spending fall vacation with you in Boston?"
"Of course not," Hortense assured her. "Are you actually going through with that Ohio trip?"
"Yes," Elaine replied, snapping shut her handbag. "Have a smooth time at West Point tomorrow—which reminds me, if I get any mail from Annapolis today or tomorrow, put it in a special envelope and forward it special delivery, will you? You'll find envelopes and stamps in the desk."
That evening Hortense found the expected Annapolis letter in the school mail office and, being genuinely conscientious about promises, took it to Elaine's room to readress it.
While rummaging for a large plain envelope to enclose the Annapolis missive, Hortense chanced on a sealed letter directed to John McNeill, 1810 Garfield Avenue, Worthville, Ohio. . . . So Elaine had written to that Ohio chap and forgotten to stamp and mail it! Well, she'd attend to that one, too. She did. Presently the two letters were mailed.

ELAINE, her mother and step-father had dinner en famille that night.
Elaine diverted conversation from Desauville to Worthville by asking, "Do you ever think of going back to Ohio to visit, Gwen? To your old home, I mean?"
"God forbid," said Gwen Deal. "Nothing's left but that mausoleum and old Herbert Gibbs. I do my duty by both. I keep them."
Higate Deal looked up from his plate with heavy-lidded eyes. "And you're a fool, Gwen, to do it."
"The house is not entirely mine to sell," said the woman sharply.
"Who else does the place belong to?" asked Elaine.
Her mother answered shortly, "My mother-in-law, Uncle Duncan. He's insane. Locked in an institution."
"Oh," said Elaine. She saw her mother's face grow more sharp, her stepfather's more expressive. There was something menacing and uncomfortable in the air. Elaine made haste to get up. "I used to like to visit there when Grandmother was alive. There were some attractive kids in town. I remember. What's become of the McNeills, next door?"
"That would become of them?" said Gwen.
"They're vegetables, and vegetables stay where they're planted. Ellen McNeill was Ellen Reed. Good family, plenty of brains. Her younger sister who died was my childhood friend. Ellen married into Uncle Duncan's family. She's a widow now. Has a daughter importantly married in Washington, and a younger son. He ought to be in his early 20's. Old Bertha used to mention the McNeills now and then in her letters, but she doesn't mention anybody lately. Her eyes are bad."
"You ought to get rid of her," said Higate Deal clearly with a quick stab at his sh.

ELAINE thought, "So he hates old Fenny. I wonder why?"
Long ago, as she child, she had learned to read his almost expressionless face. She asked, "Would you mind, Gwen, if I'd spend the fall vacation with Hortense Stokesbury in Boston? It starts Wednesday."
Mrs. Deal said, "Why, no. That would leave me free to run down to Asheville. I seem to need the mountains in the fall. Yes, go, dear."
Later, as Elaine was putting on make-up and wrap for the theater, Gwen Deal came to her. She said, first closing the door carefully, "I'm terribly worried, Elaine. It's something I can't talk to your stepfather about. Your questions about Worthville stirred me up again."
"Discover the matter, Gwen? Do hurry. Teddy's waiting for me."
Gwendolyn Deal said, "I won't keep you long. It's about your Uncle Duncan. He's escaped from that place. They wrote me a con- napolis missive, Hortense chanced on a sealed letter directed to John McNeill, 1810 Garfield Avenue, Worthville, Ohio. . . . So Elaine had written to that Ohio chap and forgotten to stamp and mail it! Well, she'd attend to that one, too. She did. Presently the two letters were mailed.

Elaine stared at her, a fire with interest. "Where do they expect to catch him?"
"Trying to get to South America. He was a botanist, you know. He collected tropical plants from the Brazilian jungles. It was known he wanted to go back there."

"Why was he locked up, Gwen?" asked Elaine.
Gwen Deal began to weep profusely into a fragile china handkerchief. "It's all a horrible scandal, Elaine! Sometimes I can't sleep at night for thinking of it. Your Uncle Duncan came back from one of his South American trips just in time to attend an important directors' meeting of the railroad. I think he may have been half out of his mind with fever or something. He agreed with your stepfather policies and they came to a blow. Higate had him put in a sanitarium. He almost killed a doctor there—the doctor Higate engaged to treat him. After that we had him adjudged insane and locked up. It's horrible. I'm your own sister and I haven't seen him for years. And now he's escaped—wandering around, God knows where. He may come here and kill Higate, out of revenge."

ELAINE said, "Nonsense, Gwen. I remember Uncle Duncan very well. He was a good sort. Not the revengeful type at all. "People become different when they lose their minds," Mrs. Deal pointed out. "They said they traced him to one of the big ways leading to New York. It seems he escaped with a crew of students who'd been held through the place. After he'd them he went to a used-car store and bought a small car—he says have had money on him—and exact directions for driving to New York. They feel sure he's trying to get a boat out—"

"And I hope he gets it!" Elaine exclaimed.

When she met Teddy Van Harrington in the drawing room she kissed perfunctorily, exchanged gossip and went out to his waiting car. They attended the theater and then were driven to the currently fashionable night club known as "The Windmill," where Paul Canby's orchestra was playing.

Here, quite as she expected, Elaine had trouble with Teddy. He suddenly remembered that she was his fiancée—or at least of the verge of being—and suddenly resented the orchestra leader's attentions to the golden Miss Chambers.

It was an old story to Elaine. It had all happened a dozen times before. Even popularity and notoriety sale in time. Her heart ached. Her feet ached. Her heart was heavy. She thought of quiet walks at Annapolis along the deep Severn, with a young man beside her as deep and quiet as the river itself. She told herself, while she smiled in a conciliatory way at Teddy, "I believe I'll find myself a half-hearted chaperon and run down to Annapolis next weekend."

And then she remembered that she would be out in Ohio. Taking on that McNeill man who had been pointed out to her by John McNeill, she said the name to herself as she danced in Teddy's arms to Canby's music. She remembered how she had adored him when she was 12 and he was 16. The memory was sharply vivid and nostalgic. She thought, "It's not going to be hard medicine to take after all!"

Light Drills For Lobos This Week As They Prepare To Meet Wildcats

5 SOUTHWEST GAMES TO BE THIS WEEKEND

The Cisco Lobos will hold easy workouts for the rest of this week, in preparation for their opening game against Elvira here Friday night. Coach Dexter Shelley said this morning.

The Lobos had a good, hard scrimmage against the husky Putnam eleven yesterday afternoon, and rest and light drills, with emphasis on polishing plays, will be the order for the rest of the week, Shelley said.

A good reason for the order to ease up is the fact that Friday's game will be no cinch. The Elvira eleven, reported to be fast and shifty, outweighs the Lobos an average of 13 pounds to the man.

Elvira is said to average 165 pounds, while the Lobos can muster up an average of only 162 pounds of beef.

First Game for Lobos

At the same time, it will be the first game for the Ciscoans this season, while the Wildcats last Friday night battled to a scoreless deadlock against the Mangum, Okla., gridlers. They were reported to have played most of the game in Oklahoma territory, but were unable to push over a touchdown.

Although young and very light, the Lobos apparently are in good spirits for the contest, and that counts a lot in football. They are fairly fast, too, and are developing a quick charging line that will have to make up in aggressiveness what it lacks in bulk.

The weight has been shifted recently to get a little more left into the backfield. Roy Burnam, captain of the 1935 aggregation and a former end, tackle and center, has been moved to fullback and is being tried out as a ball lugger. His 180 pounds can be used to good advantage in the serious business of line-ramping and backing up the forward wall.

Tarleton Squad To Average 169 Pounds

STEPHENVILLE, Sept. 18.—The average blowout at John Tarleton college this fall, if one may judge by the 72 candidates out for camp last week, will be 5 feet 11 inches tall, and will weigh 169 pounds. He will play in the line 51 per cent of the time, in backfield 44 per cent, and back-and-forth 4 per cent.

A check on statistics about football aspirants shows that big David Richards, 240-pound tackle from Wink, is the heaviest player in the group. Eddie Bryant, recruit from the 1935 graduates of Stephenville high school for Tarleton's backfield is the lightest, tipping the scales at 133 pounds.

Morris Jenkins, of Breckenridge, tackle, and Harold Duncan of Kingsville, end, tie for honors at the head of the camp, both being 6 feet 4 inches into the line. Nick Finley of Uvalde, who plays guard, will have to work hard to reach the heights, since he measures only 5 feet 5 inches.

Tip Rates Posted To Help Tourists

PARIS, Sept. 18.—The perplexing problem of "How much should I give the porter who carries my baggage?" has been solved by the French tourist authorities.

Signs have been posted in the Saint Lazare station, the terminus of the majority of boat trains, informing the public of an authorized schedule of prices. Two francs (13 cents) must be paid for the first trunk or package and one franc for each additional one. The porter is strictly forbidden to ask for more.

These prices, it is stated, are effective day and night. Regardless of the hour and the nature of the package, the porter is not supposed to ask for more.

Whitney Gin Model Purchase Is Urged

WESTBORO, Mass. Sept. 18.—The Westboro Historical society wants Massachusetts to buy Eli Whitney's first model of his cotton gin.

The original model now is in the possession of Victor Despres, owner of the farm where the inventor was born. He soon will return it to its owner, Luke Burdett, Georgia cotton grower.

Several states have offered to purchase the gin, which is valued at $10,000.

The gin was lent to Despres in honor of his success in growing cot-

OTTAWA, Ont. Sept. 18.—Canada's army of professional athletes will have to continue solving their own unemployment problems.

The Canadian Senate banking and commerce committee has decided that all athletes, such as boxers, wrestlers, hockey and baseball players who are paid for performing, will be excluded from the Canadian government's unemployment insurance bill.

Hitch Hiker's Pain Scheme Gets Rides

CRESTON, Iowa, Sept. 18.—As a hitch-hiker Roy Gardner is divided that all athletes, such as boxers, wrestlers, hockey and baseball players who are paid for performing, will be excluded from the Canadian government's unemployment insurance bill.

He takes off his shoes, stretches across the road and waits until an automobile looms into view. Then he begins writhing as though he were struck by a hit-run driver and left on the highway in mortal pain. Drivers invariably stop and take him to his destination.

THE NEW FANGLES (Mom's Pop) By COWAN.

HARVARD TRIES NEW STRATEGY BY NEW COACH

By ERNEST BARCELLA
United Press Staff Correspondent
CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Sept. 18.—A new era dawned today in Harvard football.

Richard Cresson Harlow, bird-fancier by avocation and football coach by profession, officially began his reign as Harvard's first non-graduate gridiron chief today.

The former Western Maryland strategist trotted out a string of talent which he hopes to mold into a combination that will restore Harvard football to the peak it held in the days before the Big Three, from the standpoint of gridiron prestige, became a hallowed tradition.

Coaching System Changed

Second of this trio of "ivy colleges" to establish such a precedent, Harvard scrapped its graduate coaching system entirely after Eddie Casey abdicated last December. Casey since has been named coach of the Boston Redskins of the National Professional Football League.

He resigned under fire after pressure had been brought to bear, particularly by indignant alumni who began to take a string of Crimson losses as a personal affront.

Apparently actuated by the success Princeton has experienced since it broke tradition by selecting a non-graduate coach, Harvard athletic authorities scooped the land, and in a surprise move last January named Harlow, known to the trade as Dick, and a disciple of the open game.

Harlow Coach For 23 Years

Harlow, whose hobby is ornithology (a high-hat word meaning the science that treats of birds), is only 44, but an old hand at coaching football. He's been in the business 23 years.

He started at his alma mater, Penn State, in 1912 and remained there until 1921, when he went to Yale where he remained until 1928. For the past nine years, he had doubled in brass as coach and athletic director at Western Maryland. His football teams there lost only 12 games in 81, being undefeated last season.

Along with the problem of introducing and developing his system at Harvard, Harlow faces the immediate task of building up the middle of the line, wrecked by graduation and withdrawal from college of Danny Comfort, veteran pivot man.

Sophomores To Get Call

Sophomores probably will be called upon to plug the gaps at guard and center.

The veterans, Mike Aolis, Ed Burton and Graham Spring, provide the necessary experience at the tackles, while the Crimson appears well fixed on the flanks with Emilie Dyeck, the pole-vaulter, and Shaun Kelly, who improved with each game last season. This pair appears to have the end assignments clinched with Pete Knapp, Garrov Gerer and Jim Gaffney of the 1934 varsity all available for relief duty.

Captain Bob Haley heads an impressive line of returning backfield veterans, including George Hedblom, Berman Gibbs, Johnny Adelman, Ferdie Moseley, Bill Watt, Tommy Blodeau, George Blackwood, Billy Parquette, Ely Jackson and George Ford. Haley is a certainty for the signal-calling berth.

Some May Be Ineligible

While a fairly abundant crop of veterans will be back in the fold, the academic status of some of the promising timber remains in doubt. Some of the boys still have make-up exams to take—and pass—before they can start thinking too seriously about winning a berth on the team.

Only Wes Fesler, end coach, remains from last year's varsity staff.

BIG DAM CHATTER

The Big Dam Lobos yesterday elected their biggest squadman to lead them in this season's efforts to bring the Old Belt title back to Cisco.

Roy Burnam, 180 pounder, was named captain of the team at its meeting yesterday. He was said to have been the unanimous choice of his fellow squadmen.

Burnam should make a good captain. Big and powerful, he plays heady football with the best of them last season and only an unfavorable line crop of ends in the district, including the mighty Britt and Jacoby at Ranger, prevented his selection as an all-district man.

This season he will have the additional aid of leading the team. The boys like him and believe in him. Although he is somewhat younger than some captains the team has had, he does not appear to be the sort whose head can be turned by the honor, but rather one who will consider the position a duty and a trust as well as an honor and who will lead the team well.

Burnam likely will play fullback this season. Yesterday he was given a trial there against Putnam and proved to be a power. He still has much to learn in the matter of shiftness and change of pace, but he appears willing and eager to learn.

Last season Burnam was used at end. This season he will be used at tackle after spending the spring training period at center. He should be well grounded in general football as well as in the duties of his own position.

Reuben Wendt—Hitler to you—training guard, has been out of the game but has been right along with the other boys just the same, so as not to miss anything. Reuben has a trick ankle which he hurt in practice recently. That didn't keep him away from practice, even though he did not don a uniform. He has been there, getting an eye-full of all the instructions the coaches have to the squad, learning the plays and helping out generally by refereeing at scrimmages.

Keeping Up With The Boy Scouts

Scout News

Now that all scouts are in school, almost every scoutmaster is going to see a decided increase in their troop advancement program — especially so where tests are more of a scholarly nature. Contrary to the opinion of most people that scouts make the greatest advancement during the summer vacation period, they make more advancement during the school months. The tests that have to do with the outdoors are the ones that are passed most during vacation time. This is largely due to their wanting to forget about tests that require "indoor" thinking.

Scout Rallies

The council is planning for a scout rally for each of the four sections of the council during the fall months. The date for the central section is October 12. Dates for the other sections will probably be announced next week. The usual contests will take place in various scoutcrafts.

County Fairs

A number of troops are planning to take part and have exhibits at their home town fairs, which are to be held during the fall.

Court of Honor

Breckenridge district states that they are to have a big court of honor for their district September 20. Mr. Odie Minstra, chairman of the court of honor, will be in charge, assisted by scouters in the district.

Archery

More and more interest is being shown in archery—more evidently as this true since the summer camp and the handicraft schools, which have been conducted. It is hoped that a number of archery tournaments can be worked out in the near future, and that by next spring the Comanche Trail council will have a real group of archers.

WITH emergency shelves and delicatessen stores handy, there is no reason on earth why a simple home meal planned with the children in mind should not easily be converted into a company one with frills at need—and no fuss about it, either.

A soup—canned or home-made—a salad of fresh fruits or vegetables or a dressy looking dessert will do wonders to the plainest meal. Or home-made relishes or preserves or hot baking powder biscuits will furnish up an everyday menu.

A week's menus planned in advance is a definite means toward economy. Money, time and labor are saved thereby. The tendency toward extravagant marketing is checked and there is no frantic haste when it's nearly meal time and nothing planned. Often in sheer panic because the cupboard so closely resembles Old Mother Hubbard's we rush out and buy chops or steak we can't afford because they will cook quickly.

Save Work, Too

Advance planning often enables you to double up on cooking processes, too. Enough potatoes can be boiled at one time for the immediate meal and creamed potatoes, hashed brown or any one of a number of savory uses planned for the following one. A meat pie, timbale, hash or croquettes will take care of the left-overs from the weekly roast.

Bread pudding, bread crumb panakes or a mock duck use up a week's accumulation of stale bread and crumbs. A jellied salad in the middle of the week finishes odds and ends of fruits and vegetables.

Cookies and cakes which have lost their freshness can be made

Laval Declines To Use State Palaces

PARIS, Sept. 18.—The two palaces which France set aside as the town and country houses of her Premier are empty, gathering dust, as Premier Pierre Laval continues to insist upon living in spartan simplicity in a few rooms over his offices.

Not once since Count Louis Cahen d'Anvers formally turned over to the republic the keys to his luxurious castle, the Chateau de Champs-sur-Marne, to become a French "Chequers"—a country place for French Premiers to go to with important guests for quiet weekend discussions—has M. Laval put his foot into the place.

He has also refused to go inside the Hotel Matignon, the luxurious mansion which M. Pierre Etienne Flandin, while Premier, took over as the Premier's town house. It is rated one of the richest architectural glories of France and was the old Austro-Hungarian Embassy until seized and sequestered during the World War.

Meanwhile M. Laval continued to keep his little six-room residence in the Villa Said, a short dead-end street just off the avenue Foch where he has lived through most of his career. He also moved for convenience into the Ministry of Foreign Affairs where he took over an apartment and moved in a few personal belongings.

President Albert Lezraun also has secured the Chateau de Champs-sur-Marne, preferring to spend his
