Bill Would Prohibit Sale by Drink

MEASURE TO BE REPORTED TO SENATORS

AUSTIN, Sept. 23 — Liquor sales by the drink are absolutely prohibited in a bill given a favorable report today by the senate state affairs committee.

A tie vote of eight to eight was broken by Senator Will Pace, Tyler, who voted to report the bill favorably.

The measure leaves the question of sale by license system or by state monopoly to be settled by another act. Senator Clint Small, Amarillo, author, personally opposes state monopoly.

The bill defines and prohibits an open saloon. It defines the open saloon as:

"Any place where intoxicating liquor is sold, bartered, or delivered to be consumed on the premises where sold, or on premises accessible thereto, or any public place where intoxicating liquor is permitted to be consumed.

Any operator or employe who makes prohibited sale is liable for a fine not to exceed $100 or a jail sentence not to exceed 90 days. Second offenders would face a year in the penitentiary.

Senators who voted for the bill were: Ben Onal, Wichita Falls; Wilbourne Collier, Eastland; Clint Small, Amarillo; John Redditt, Lufkin; Tob Deberry, Bogata; Will Martin, Hillsboro; Claude Isbell, Rockwall; John Cotten, Palestine; and Chalmray Pace.

Cisco Radio Club Members Ready To Take License Test

Nearly a year ago the Boy Scouts of Troop 4, under the direction of J. R. D. Eddy organized a radio club. The West Texas Utilities agreed to furnish the club free electricity and Mr. Horne gave the club a small cabin to hold its meetings.

In the club began gathering up equipment and started practicing the International Morse code. The practice at first was slow and tedious but now the members are fairly fast at receiving the code.

After a while Clifford Estes took charge of the club. Estes is a former licensed operator. He drilled the club until now the members are just about ready to take the license test. They expect to take the test before Christmas. The members are learning to build and repair radios and transmitters.

The financial condition of the club is fair.

The club is now in possession of two telephone poles contributed by the West Texas Utilities which will be used to support an aerial.

New Receiver

Recently the club bought a $14 receiver with which the members will practice.

Meetings are held every Wednesday and Saturday night. On Wednesday night an hour is spent at code practice and one-half an hour is spent in studying the other requirements for the license. On Saturday night an hour is spent in receiving code from the receiver.

There are two requirements to be at least a First Class Scout and 21 to be at least 14 years old. The club has much literature including a handbook a license manual, and some magazines and books.

The meetings are orderly and serious and the club-house is kept neat and clean. Visitors are always welcome at the meetings.

The members are Cecil Edwards, Buster Martin, Robert Waters, William Hoyt, Eugene Lankford, Jr., Livius Lankford, and Evert Horne. The club has three prospective members in Troop 4.

PEACE REIGNS AS MINERS OF NATION QUIT

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23 — The nation's soft coal mines were shut down peacefully today as union leaders and operators narrowed their controversy over new wage and hour contracts.

Officials of the United Mine Workers estimated upwards of 400,000 miners would walk out under orders of President John Lewis because the contracts under which they were working expired at midnight.

They claimed the entire industry would be at a standstill. Because negotiations have not been broken off the union leaders were making no particular effort to rally enthusiastic support or demonstrations in the coal fields. They preferred not to regard the situation as a strike, but merely as a "concession of work" pending contract renewals.

President Roosevelt, returning to the White House was in touch with the situation. There was the possibility of presidential intervention, but for the time being Mister Roosevelt appeared as being reluctant to take a direct hand.

Rice for Newlywed Perrys

It isn't often that Fred Perry, world's No. 1 tennis amateur, can't give as good as he is sent, but not having a pocket full of rice, he couldn't return his friends' volley of rice as he and his glamorous film star bride, Helen Vinson, left New York on their honeymoon. He's ducking, but the shower doesn't seem to go against Mrs. Perry's grain.

EFFORTS FAIL WHEN ITALY REJECTS PROPOSALS GIVEN FOR TALK, IT WILL REPORT

GENEVA, Sept. 23. — A committee of five nations, named to seek a solution of the Italian Ethiopian crisis, gave up its work as hopeless today. It decided to report to the League of Nations council that its efforts were futile.

The council then must face the task the most serious in League history of deciding its course in event Italy goes to war.

Just before the committee ended its efforts Ethiopia accepted the committee's plan which Italy rejected Saturday as the basis for negotiations.

The committee of five will meet finally tomorrow morning to consider its report, which members began drafting today. The report will include a statement of negotiations with Italy to date, including the proposal to Mussolini and his reply, which came in the form of yesterday's demand. Italy and Ethiopia will be notified that the council intends to publish all the material it has.

Millions Are Needed

Governor James V. Allred has taken the bull by the horns. He has passed on to the lawmakers the task of reducing the existing deficit and providing for increased expenses. This was the forward to his message: "Texas has got to have a great deal of money to pay for its added activities." He recommended a graduated chain store tax, a sulphur tax, a tax on pipelines, a selective luxury tax and some corrective franchise tax measures. Other tax measures included: a levy of one cent per cubic foot of natural gas produced, exported or imported, a tax of one per cent in smaller and two per cent in larger cities on utility gross receipts; a $20 state tax on pool halls—the cities and counties authorized to assess $10; increasing the sulphur tax from 75 cents to $2.25 per ton.

A series of important revenue bills were introduced in the house following the reading of the message and the chairman announced he would soon call a meeting of the revenue and taxation committee. Pension bills have been introduced and many measures, if enacted, will call for the tapping of new sources of revenue are in the hopper. Well, the qualified voters, declared for pensions, for, all over the age of 65. They declared for the abolition of the fee system and that all county officers should be placed on a salaried basis. Now it is for the lawmakers to make the enactments and for the taxpayers to face the music in coming years.

Many Grists for Legislative Hopper

Texas lawmakers in special session are stripped for action. Many bills have been introduced dealing with liquor, pensions, taxation and all that goes with taxation. Their leaders say that they may complete the job in 30 days. Old-timers who have watched the legislative grind of the years are predicting a second special session. Truth is the most important problems for years and years have been submitted to the general assembly of Texas. Liquor has ever been a tough problem in this state. It was so 40 years ago and it has continued down the corridors of time. The pension problem is a new one for Texas lawmakers and laymen. Its possibilities are enormous as well as perplexing and the cost annually may run into stupendous figures. There are many tax bills awaiting consideration of the men who make the laws. Additional revenue must be raised and this calls for the tapping of new sources—certain to make the taxpayers of the commonwealth enjoy more than a fainting spell. Governor Allred has made his tax recommendations. There is nothing evasive about them, or the bills he has advised. They may cut to the bone in a sense, but millions are needed and the makers of laws are not to be envied for the huge task that has been cut out for them by the adoption of the amendments in August—and the necessity for increasing the revenue of the state as never before.

Hopkins Backs Brazos Project

Harry L. Hopkins is not only works progress administrator but very close to the president. He is a very remarkable man.

Behind the Scenes in Washington

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON — Undoubtedly the most beautiful lobbyist operating here is Miss Mary Bendelari, and undoubtedly the most pious lobbyist is your old friend Joe Tumulty.

Let's tell you about Miss Bendelari first. If there's any member of Congress who doesn't know she's lobbying for a law providing protective copyrights for industrial designs, that member must have been hospitalized a long time in some remote place.

Two years ago she was carrying her war against "design piracy" to NRA and got provisions against it into 72 codes. More lately she has been battling Congress for a law permitting the author of any artistic model or design intended for use in manufacture to copyright same.

Single-handed, she persuaded the Senate to tack this onto the copyright bill. It died in a House committee with the rest of the copyright bill, but probably will go through next session.

Conspicuous about Mary Bendelari, aside from her nut-brown hair, brown eyes, statuesque beauty, and the alertness with which she repels senators who make passes at her, is her direct method of approach. Working in a cause she had no reason to be ashamed of, she had no fear of tackling a member openly in any lobby, corridor, or room of the Capitol.

DAUGHTER of a successful inventor, she had a spinal injury many years ago and was sent to Europe to be treated by specialists. Lying in a London hospital, she thought up the idea of woven shoes and the result of that was that soon she was setting up a shop in Paris which eventually able man. He is a very able man. He termed "the proposed $30,000,000 flood control program on the Brazos river, a damned good project." According to the Associated Press he verified reports he had approved the WPA allocation of that amount but said his engineers have not completed detailed examination of the proposed work so he could make a definite recommendation to President Roosevelt. These are his words of approval of the vast project:

"I don't know whether the mechanics of the thing have been worked out in our office—I don't think they have—but it is a damned good project in my opinion."

Senator Morris Sheppard is a stalwart champion of the Brazos project. Senator Tom Connally has gone all the way in his approval. Senator Sheppard is responsible for the statement that Mr. Hopkins told him he expected to refer the matter to the president in "two or three days."

Hopkins always knows his own mind. He has the courage of conviction. If a project is a good thing and fills all the requirements for the country and its people, he never hesitates to go on record.

UNDER THE DOME AT AUSTIN

AUSTIN, Sept. 23 — Legislators are being kidded because State Treasurer Charley Lockhart moved $4,000,000 in currency from the state treasury to Dallas as solons gathered for their special session.

When flood lights were installed to illuminate the state capitol dome several years ago, visitors were told it was done to prevent politicians from stealing the capitol.

The prize yarn is told of a North Texas banker, a candidate for governor was to speak in his town. Business people decided to make the day a holiday and get out a good crowd.

A committee visited business houses for that purpose. When they entered the bank and suggested it be closed because of the candidate's proposed visit, the banker exclaimed:

"You don't think he'd try to rob the bank right in the middle of the day, do you?"

Senator John Redditt's dinner, honoring him as Governor-for-a-day, set a long-time record in Austin for snappy after dinner speeches.

Senator Will Pace, Tyler, was master of ceremonies and the whole affair had an East Texas homelike comfort. Senator Tom De Berry, Bogata, rebuked other speakers for referring to it as a "dinner," it was after milking time, he pointed out, so it must be supper.

Centennial roses from A. F. Watkins' Dixie Rose Gardens in Tyler were used profusely as a decoration. The "supper" took on statewide importance as J. W. Yancy, Houston, formerly of Redditt's home town of Lufkin, announced the purpose of East Texans to make Redditt governor for a four-year period instead of merely for a day.

It became international in scope when Governor Redditt said that his first official act had been to appoint a military staff of lieutenant colonels.

His final act was to tender Haile Selassie, Conquering Lion of Judah, etc., the services of the staff for the duration of the prospective Ethiopian war.

The supper also was remarkable for its frankness. A dignified judge of the state supreme court did not neglect to use the appropriate illustration when he told how a motorist had thumbed his nose at Governor Allred, himself, and another judge, when they tried to hitch hike to Austin.

Oil paintings of President Franklin Roosevelt and Vice President John Nance Garner were placed in the state senate chamber at the regular session of the legislature.

Before the special session adjourns, there will be added a portrait of Jesse Holman Jones, Texas chairman of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

It was painted by Edmund Pizzella, New York. Lieutenant Governor Walter Woodul hopes to have Jones visit the session and be present when the picture is hung.

Ed Clark, San Augustine, secretary to the governor, was fired this week. Acting Governor John S. Redditt fired him.

It was all a joke, for the two are closest personal and political friends. In fact, Redditt is responsible for Clark being in Austin.

The brass rail will be about all that will be missing if the liberals in Texas legislature get their way about defining an "open saloon." Representative C. E. Nicholson, Port Neches, things an "open saloon" is one that is closed. At least a bill he authored provides that any drinking place shall be a prohibited open place if it has unnecessary obstructions to the view.

Most of the proposed definitions connect standup drinking with the open saloon. Proposed legal service is limited to seated patrons.

When Governor James V. Allred was told that one of the bills defines an open saloon as a "grogg shop" he asked: "What is a grogg shop?"

One bill raises the question of what constitutes a "typical boarding house." It provides that the drink selling privilege proposed for hotels shall not extend to such boarding houses.

Legislators, however, worry little about attempting to define an "open saloon." It is the definition of places that may sell that interests them.

Governor Allred doesn't shoot doves. His recent interest in obtaining modification of federal regulations was strictly for the benefit of other hunters.

"When I was a boy in North Texas we never thought of killing doves," the governor said.

Questioned about doves, he said reminiscently of his hunting experience: "I don't shoot them either, very often."

By Rachel Mack © 1935 NEA Service, Inc.

BEGIN HERE TODAY
RUTH WOODSON, pretty, high-spirited girl of 18, in search of work, seeks refuge from a storm in an old store house with a white door in the little town of Worthville. The queer old caretaker, HERBERT GIBBS, who is ELAINE CHAMBERS, whose grandfather built the house, tells her and her young man next door, JOHN McNEILL, and solves the mystery of the "white door." Elaine, at a garage meeting to win the love of her childhood hero, John McNeill, she plans to go to Worthville, and writes John a letter telling of her intentions. She goes to New York for a week-end and meets her uncle, BERNARD HENDER, who has escaped from an insane asylum. John worries about "Elaine" being alone in the old Hunter house with Penny. He writes her a letter and realizes that the girl he has been calling "Elaine" is a fake. However, he tells her not to change to tell her so, but receives a telegram telling of an accident in his sister's family in Washington and asking him to come. John departs for Washington, first leaving with Penny, who is addressed to Ruth and asking her to wait for his return.

Oil paintings of President Franklin Roosevelt and Vice President John Nance Garner were placed in the state senate chamber at the regular session of the legislature.

Before the special session adjourns, there will be added a portrait of Jesse Holman Jones, Texas chairman of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

It was painted by Edmund Pizzella, New York. Lieutenant Governor Walter Woodul hopes to have Jones visit the session and be present when the picture is hung.

Ed Clark, San Augustine, secretary to the governor, was fired this week. Acting Governor John S. Redditt fired him.

It was all a joke, for the two are closest personal and political friends. In fact, Redditt is responsible for Clark being in Austin.

The brass rail will be about all that will be missing if the liberals in Texas legislature get their way about defining an "open saloon." Representative C. E. Nicholson, Port Neches, things an "open saloon" is one that is closed. At least a bill he authored provides that any drinking place shall be a prohibited open place if it has unnecessary obstructions to the view.

Most of the proposed definitions connect standup drinking with the open saloon. Proposed legal service is limited to seated patrons.

When Governor James V. Allred was told that one of the bills defines an open saloon as a "grogg shop" he asked: "What is a grogg shop?"

Texas Topics

By RAYMOND BROOKS

AUSTIN, Sept. 23 — Chain store and natural resource taxes have taken the lead toward bringing Texas new revenue for the old-age pension and other needs.

Rep. Vernon Lemens is to bring in a sales tax on luxuries. Several bills to increase franchise and inheritance taxes are already in the hopper. But the real fight will be on the chain-store measure, ranging up to a tax of $300 per store per year on all stores in excess of 50 in a chain.

Enough house members have signed the James bill to assure the exemption of gasoline filling stations and lumber yards from the chain-store bill. But for once, it appears that a really stiff cigarette tax bill goes to a governor's desk.

The oil, gas and sulphur bills by possible accident all propose to triple the present levies. Even that, those who feel that the policy of letting the states' irreplaceable resources be drained away, thus legislating a policy against the possible development of manufactures in the state to use them, seems a meager part of the value for the public to share.

Ninety-nine per cent of the sulphur, 60 per cent of the oil and probably 70 per cent of the natural gas is taken out of the state for use. Of course, much oil is refined into gasoline; but while the crude can be shipped at a tax of two cents a barrel, great quantities of it move out unrefined. Texas might even find it valuable to reduce the production tax on materials worked into finished or manufactured state within its borders, so as to develop the manufacturing end and create payrolls at home.

Did you ever stop to think

EDSON & WAITE
Lawyers - Okla.

In every city there seems to be people who think they know it all, who can tell you with a knowing wink just what should be done for the betterment of the home city and how the other fellows should spend their time and money. The only thing they are free with is advice.

It seems that there are two essential conditions to a modern state. First, it must have a strong and compact political organization—where there is good communication between "its head and tail" coordination and close junction between its limbs and body. Second, it must be an organization which is strong, and sound both within and without. It must have healthy blood circulation in the shape of taxes, also well developed muscles. The more taxes that are collected, the more successful the organization will be.

Everything of value you have obtained was brought to your attention by advertising. If you are married, you selected her yourself, but, goodness, how you did have to advertise yourself to get her!

King Solomon expressed a great truth when he sentimentiously remarked, "Much food is in the tillage of the poor, but there is that which is destroyed for the want of judgment."

If you don't think your town is the best town in the world for you, it's up to you to move out and make room for someone who does.

George M. Burbach, advertising manager of the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, says:

"Ringing door bells and saying 'please buy' is a process too slow to move merchandise in a profitable manner. The newspaper reaches thousands of the bell ringers' tents."

"A newspaper advertisement is taken into the home as a welcome guest."

"Newspaper advertising is salesmanship multiplied by the number of readers."

"Newspaper advertising has become an essential part of every successful business. If you doubt it, look into Dun & Bradstreet. Select five consistent advertisers and five who do not yet know the power of newspaper advertising. Look at the rating of each—there you will find the positive answer to the question 'Does newspaper advertising pay?'"

MOVIE TO BE FEATURED AT COOK SCHOOL

Cisco women will be treated to one of the most outstanding cooking schools of the year when two young women who lead in their respective professions come here this week. They are Katherine Hepburn, who will be shown in "Alice Adams" Thursday evening at the Ideal Theatre, and Miss Albertine Berry, widely known home economics and cooking expert, who will conduct a two-day cooking school beginning at 2 o'clock Wednesday afternoon.

The school and the picture are being brought here by the Community Natural Gas company home economics department, which Miss Berry heads. H. L. Dyer, district manager said Monday. Attendance at the cooking school entitles each woman to a theatre ticket for each session. Tickets will admit holders to Hepburn's portrayal of Alice Adams, poor girl who aspired to wealth and is cooked, will be awarded at each session and there will be three grand prizes awarded at the conclusion of the last session. Grand prizes include a beautiful radiant heater, enamel bath-tub heater, and smokeless type refrigerator.

Latest developments in cookery will be demonstrated and discussed at the school by Miss Berry, including meat cooking, cooking with hot oven, and broiler dinners, easily prepared but delicious deserts, cakes, and pies. A period each day will be devoted to questions and answers, during which Miss Berry will answer questions about her demonstrations, or cooking problems confronting housewives in their homes.

BIG DAM CHATTER

Oil Belt fans today hadn't quite recovered from the awful licking they took at San Angelo Friday when the Bobcats plastered the Ranger Bulldogs with a 50 to 0 defeat.

Ranger had been touted to the victors and the fans still believe there was something radically wrong when any team could beat the Oil Belt team by half a hundred points.

Likely what was wrong was that Ranger went to San Angelo feeling unbeatable and hit a tough team that was determined to break through a jinx. Before the Bulldogs realized what was happening to them, San Angelo had begun to run up the score and just kept running up.

So that's that. Maybe you have a solution that's better. Maybe you should try this one first. Anyway we're welcome to either.

Cisco is going to have a tough one with the Bobcats, far tougher than the one with the Electra Wildcats Friday night.

But you can stake your Aunt Sam's faith teeth on the fact that there won't be any 50 points scored by either team.

Maybe you thought of that first.

Maybe you, too, based your belief on the fact that the Loboes, without having much on paper, are a winning team.

The nearest thing to a passing game Cisco has ever had came out of the game Friday. The Loboes unknocked two passes in the first quarter, each of which was almost good for a touchdown. Later passes went by, however, which they were rounded or batted down.

At the same time, the Loboes were on the alert with a pass defense that intercepted two of the Wildcats' heaves and allowed completion of only short ones just over the line.

Judging from the opinions of the sports writers, there will be two victories in the ring tomorrow night when Joe Louis, the Brown bear, takes on Max Baer, the white Playboy.

One group quotes the "odds at ten to five on Louis, while the other says that Baer will win by a knockout about the halfway point of the scheduled rounds.

Boston College To Play Before Coach

BOSTON, Sept. 23 — Denny McManis, new football coach at Boston College, is looking forward to seeing his home team play every week this season.

During the eight years McManis coached at Fordham and Boston College, he averaged only two games at his home field. He saw the 1934 Boston college squad play only against Fordham and Holy Cross.

PHOENIX, Ariz. — To 4-year-old Charles Brown of Phoenix goes the credit of being the "hit-and-run" victim of "hit-and-run" bulldogs. Charles was run over by two bulldogs with whom he was playing. He suffered a broken

Chevigny Growing More Optimistic

AUSTIN, Sept. 23 — "Our whole outlook is much better since the seniors who will form the backbone of our team have come around better and faster in the first ten days than was expected." Thus Jack Chevigny summed up the status of the University of Texas Longhorns as he glanced over the squad in Saturday afternoon's light scrimmage.

The Steers are about a week farther advanced than they were at this time last season and are showing excellent timing and technique in the execution of plays. Better blocking and more thorough knowledge of individual play assignments has been demonstrated by the squad as a whole, Chevigny said.

Five letter men, four of them seniors, are considered the real nucleus of the team this year, and it is their unexpected high class performance that has prompted Chevigny to unveil some of his early gloom.

SHORT STAPLE COTTON SHOWN DURING WEEK

For the third consecutive week, the classification of samples received currently from representative gins in Texas has shown a change toward shorter staple lengths compared with the three preceding weeks. Only 13 per cent of the samples classed this week was 1 inch and longer against 24 per cent for last week.

The grades for the cotton classed this week are lower than for the two previous weeks. Only 12 per cent this week was strict middling against 32 per cent last week. To date, about 20 per cent of all cotton classed has been strict middling.

The proportions of cotton shorter than 7-8 inch have increased steadily for the past few weeks. This week over 11 per cent of the samples classed was shorter than 7-3 inch. Most of this short cotton, which is undesirable on future contracts, was received from District 3, the red lands and plains, in which ginning has only recently become active, and from district 8, the sandy coastal plains.

About 4 per cent of the total samples from Texas gins classed to date has been shorter than 7-2 inch; about 17 per cent has been 7-2 inch; 7-8 inch; 53 per cent 15-19 inch; 24 per cent 1 inch; and about 2 per cent has been 1-1-16 inches and longer.

Bees Are Killed By Cotton Poison

BELTON, Sept. 23 — Apiarists here have lost considerable money this year through the killing of bees feeding on poisoned cotton.

Some owners have reported that almost all their swarms have been killed. The cotton, which has been poisoned in this section, affords almost the only source of food for the insects.

A few owners managed to save their hives by shutting the bees up during the season while the cotton was being poisoned, feeding them water and sugar. Even these owners, however, suffered serious losses.

Golden Powder For Makeup in Autumn

CHICAGO, Sept. 23 — Women will go on the gold standard this fall if they keep their eye on the complexities of smart complexion. The wave for the decorative launched by Renaissance styles and colors has cast its influence on makeup, say nationally known beauty specialists in the Merchants Mart here. The result is a new golden treatment for eyelids, a magic-making shade of blue for lashes and brows and a number of new and exciting shades in lipstick. Despite the definite trend toward the new and unusual in makeup, complexionists approach the natural more closely than for many seasons. Foremost news in makeup is the new golden powder, with infinitesimal flecks of gold blended into its base. Discreetly applied on the lids of brown and hazel eyes, this new powder gives them glamour. It also can be used effectively by the woman who knows her makeup calculus to accentuate the best lines of cheek and jaw. The gold powder can be used during the day if discreetly applied, experts say. Azure blue mascara, introduced by the more daring deivers in make-up last year, is definitely accepted by the more conservative. In lipstick the newest shades are champagnes for blondes and a deep russet color for brunettes.

Katharine Hepburn Routs Snobbery In "Alice Adams" Role Here on Thursday

Pretense and deception weave a tangled web in "Alice Adams," which stars Katharine Hepburn in the title role, coming to the Ideal Theater Thursday evening as an added feature of a cooking school to be conducted Wednesday and Thursday afternoons by Miss Albertine Berry. Based on the Booth Tarkington novel which won the Pulitzer Prize for 1922, the story is an unvarnished picture of the struggles and heartaches which a girl endures in her fight for love and social recognition in a small Mid-western town. Not since Miss Hepburn won the Academy Award with her portrayal of the stage-struck girl in "Morning Glory" has she had a role which gave her such opportunities for unusual characterization, sensitiveness and understanding. In the story, Alice Adams battles snobbery and social ostracism with pretense and deceit, only to find that these weapons are useless. It is only when she drops her mask of make-believe and turns the light of truth upon her enemies that she wins the love and recognition which she craves. Her faith and courage and her struggle upward to ultimate triumph make for a great and entertaining picture. Each of the characters in "Alice Adams" is vividly drawn and capably played by well known screen and stage artists. Included in the cast are Fred Stone, famous stage star, Fred MacMurray, Evelyn Venable, Ann Shoemaker, Frank Albertson, Charles Grapewin, and others. George Stevens directed this RKO Radio Picture.

included in the junior group are special students or are students taking some academy work. Religiously Inclined Apparently the student body is religiously inclined, for all except 10 gave a church preference and of the other 73 all except nine are already members of the church of their choice. Grouped by church affiliation, the largest number indicate a preference for the Christian church, 26 being in this group, and all but one being members. The Baptist church is second with 24 students choosing it, 18 of whom are members. Other churches are the Methodist with nine, Presbyterian with seven, Church of Christ with three, Church of God with two, and the Lutheran and Christian Science with one each. While the students know what they believe, they are not so sure what vocation they desire to follow. Thirty-six of them or 42 per cent did not list their preference as to a future occupation. Of the ones who had made up their minds, teaching was the choice of 13. The ministry came next with seven. Music, stenography, and engineering claimed four each. Then came law with three, business administration with two, journalism with two, and science, medicine, radio, library work, dietics, speech arts, and evangelistic singing with one each. "Born in 1935"
Fourteen students were born in 1918 and are approximately 17 years of age. Eighteen were born in 1917, ten in 1916, seven in 1915, five in 1914, five in 1913, one in 1912, and four in 1911. Four failed to give the date of their birth and two reported that they were born in 1935. April and July were the most popular months for birthdays, each having 10, and August was the least popular, only two students being born in that month. As would be expected, the registrar showed more students are enrolled in English than for any other subject, 76 students having matriculated in this subject. Education and Spanish are tied for second place, each enrolling 50 students. Then in order come Science with 46, social science with 44, Bible with 42, mathematics with 32, public speaking with 16, physical education with 13, church history with 11, French with 11, and dramatic art with three. The junior class has organized with Dascam Stephens as president; Varge Daniel, vice president; Louellen Clark, secretary; Professor H. R. Garrett and Dr. Lee Clark, sponsors; and Lavius Lankford, reporter.
