MUSSOLINI OUTLINES PLANS FOR WAR

LAWS PASSED BY MINISTERS FOR CAMPAIGN

ROME, Sept. 24. — The Italian cabinet heard from Premier Benito Mussolini today what he proposed to do in case of international penalties against Italy, and passed a series of sweeping measures to prepare the army, navy, and air force for the East African campaign.

There was nothing in the result of the meeting to indicate weakening of Mussolini's intention to enforce his will against Ethiopia.

For some unannounced reason the cabinet postponed indefinitely the test mobilization of more than 10,000,000 Fascists, men, women, and children which had been set for tonight.

Denies Counter Proposal The cabinet's statement denied Italy had made counter proposals to the League of Nations proposal of the League's conciliation committee of five last Saturday.

After announcing that the cabinet had adopted various internal measures connected directly with the Ethiopian crisis, the statement said: "Premier Mussolini afterward examined possible developments in the situation on the basis of certain articles of the League covenant and the attitude Italy would adopt under the circumstances."

Text of Statement "Premier Mussolini made a brief report on the political situation from Saturday until today Mussolini said Italy had not presented counter proposals to Geneva but only verbally exposed his motive for finding the proposals of the committee unacceptable."

BRITISH CABINET APPROVES GOVT STAND LONDON, Sept. 24. — The British cabinet met today and unanimously approved Great Britain's policy, including Britain's stand at Geneva for complete enforcement of the League covenant.

Four Alarm Fire Sweeping Boston BOSTON, Sept. 24. — A four-alarm fire late today was sweeping several warehouses and a bridge connecting Charlestown and Boston.

STORMS FORECAST JACKSONVILLE, Sept. 24. — Shipping in the Caribbean was cautioned today against two tropical disturbances about the West Indies, according to a report issued by the U. S. weather bureau.

NEW LIONS OIL BELT DISTRICT IS PROPOSED

Cisco Lions will journey to Brownwood this evening and join other Oil Belt Lions in welcoming the Brownwood club into district 7-E, according to E. L. Smith, president of the Cisco Lions club who will lead the local delegation. The Brownwood organization has recently been transferred to this district.

All oil belt clubs will be urged at the meeting to form an unofficial sub-district of district 2-E which comprise a large portion of West Texas. Because of mutual interests, it has been proposed that the seven oil belt clubs form a sub-district for the purpose of being of greater assistance to each other in carrying out Lion ideals and programs.

District Governor C. P. Dodson, Decatur, is expected to attend and address the gathering, making the

WEIRD COSTUMES AT RANDY AS FROSH DRESSED FOR SLIME DAY

Monday night high and mighty seniors of Randolph college adorned lowly slimes in costumes which smacked of revenge for indignities of previous years and a sense of humor as a part of initiation ceremonies in anticipation of Slime Day celebration today. Red evening dresses on male slimes; abbreviated costumes, despite the Dean's censoring endeavors, which sent slimes scurrying for warmer garments as the rain lowered temperatures; grotesque as well as comical make-ups were featured at the evening frolic to the delight of seniors and chagrin of slimes.

The Radio Club and Hobbies

A group of Cisco boys, representing one of the boy scout troops, has been working for almost a year, studying radio. The boys have formed a club to pursue their studies better through their mutual interest and now are almost ready to take their examinations preparatory to securing operators' licenses.

The boys are to be commended for their work. They have had a hobby for a year and have worked at it given it their energy, their study, and their time. They have made it profitable to them, perhaps not from a financial viewpoint, but from both an experience and a recreational viewpoint.

During the period of the depression many of us have been so worried over our own business troubles that we have not given much time or thought to hobbies. We have tried to solve the depression problem by pounding away at our business problems and consequently worrying rather than giving them good, rational thought.

When we have taken any leisure time we have taken it in a nervous way that really gave us no relaxation at all. While we were ostensibly relaxing, we were in reality wondering how we were going to pay the butcher, the baker, and the tax collector.

We might have done well to have something to spend a little time upon, outside our routine business. The sage who first remarked that variety is the spice of life said something. That applies to hobbies as well as other forms of variety.

By having an outside interest, a person is able to divide his interest in such a way as to keep out of the well known rut.

The mind is a wonderful thing. Psychologists hold that there is no such thing as mental fatigue, but physical fatigue is very real and about the best way to cause it is to worry about some one thing. A hobby would prevent much of such worry.

Any kind of hobby will do, but it is a good idea to follow one's natural inclinations in choosing one. It may or may not be made into a profitable avocation, and indeed many persons have made their vocations pay more in dollars and cents than their vocations themselves.

The Radio Club here likely will turn out some boys who, foreseeing the importance of radio in the future, will become licensed operators and may follow it as a profession. To others it likely will remain a pleasant hobby, a form of relaxation from their everyday routine.

Government Financing Address

Tomorrow W. A. Thomas, collector of internal revenue, will address the Cisco Lions club on the subject of government financing and the reasons for it.

It has been indicated that he will show the needs for such financing to reduce taxation by a retrenchment of government. The address, coming from an important government official who is an authority on the subject, should be of great interest to Ciscoans.

The Lions club is cooperating with the treasury department.

Behind the Scenes in Washington

BY RODNEY DUTCHER

WASHINGTON — Charlie Hilles is an astute politician who is one of the leading figures in the Republican party. You will notice that Mr. Hilles has not been heard from publicly in all the recent tom-tomming over who should be the party's nominee to run against Mr. Roosevelt.

Mr. Hilles has been busy, however, and you can't help peering up your ears when some of his friends predict that eventually he will reach into the supreme court of the United States and pick out a candidate who will be either Justice Owen J. Roberts or Justice Harlan F. Stone.

Such a move might provide the Grand Old Party with the strongest candidate available. It certainly would increase the prestige and power of Mr. Hilles, who is the national committeeman from New York and usually has influence with other contiguous delegations.

It would put flesh and blood on the constitution issue which is date is about the strongest one the party has been able to think up. In short, there are many in both parties who think it's a very bright idea.

JUSTICE STONE is the favorite in these preliminary whisperings. He is something of a liberal and didn't concur in the railroad pensions opinion by Justice Roberts, which would make the latter a target for liberals and labor if he were out where they could shoot at him.

Stone is also an old medicine ball playmate of Herbert Hoover, which may be an important factor. Roberts was once an attorney for the Pennsylvania railroad.

Uncle Andy Mellon, since the pension decision, has been reported ready to put up large sums to nominate and elect Roberts.

The wealthy friends of Mr. Hilles are ready to put up large sums of money for anyone they think can beat Roosevelt, but are not anxious to spend a nickel on a losing horse.

Mr. Hilles has very little use for Hoover and the general Wall Street idea seems to be that Hoover couldn't win.

Hilles has shown a lack of enthusiasm also for Col. Frank Knox of Chicago, and Bob Lucas, a Knox man, recently blasted Hilles as the dominating force on the national committee who would put the indelible stamp of Wall Street on the party ticket, platform, and convention if other Republicans didn't band together and stop him.

MR. HILLES is understood to be subsidizing certain Republican staking horses in the country who think they are candidates, but will be told differently by Mr. Hilles later on. Of course either Stone or Roberts—neither of whom may want the honor—would automatically disqualify himself if he concurred in any decision against the AAA.

You probably won't get a clear line on what Mr. Hilles is up to until the winter league session, at which the committee will pick a convention city and discuss candidates behind closed doors.

By that time the supreme court, including Stone and Roberts, may have spoken its piece as to the AAA.

ment in presenting him at its regular luncheon program. The Rotary club will also cooperate, the members of it attending individually.

More Private Relief Needed

President Roosevelt, speaking before a gathering of private charity organizations yesterday, appealed to the nation for more support of private relief. The president pointed out that, despite federal reemployment efforts and generally better conditions, there will be great need for private charity this winter.

The president's statement comes directly home to us of Cisco. Much of the burden of relief this winter will fall upon the United Charities and Welfare association and the Red Cross. Of these the first is a local organization and the latter national. All business men and every other citizen who is out of the red or who will not need help from the organizations should begin planning now to make some contribution through one or both of them.

That there should be no place in the great American system of publicly owned highways for privately owned bridges.

The existence of a great number of toll bridges at key points on the great national and state highways creates an anomalous situation. Through the expenditure of public funds, great highways are constructed leading from metropolis to metropolis. The users of these roads have paid for them through taxation direct and indirect. At some vital point on the road private enterprise reaches out to demand its tribute. The leech at the throat of travel is the ubiquitous toll bridge.

In the past toll bridges, just as toll roads, have been necessary for the development of the country. The opportunity for private gain was necessary to advance our frontiers. But now that our economic development has practically freed us from the toll gate on the post road, why shouldn't the toll bridge follow into oblivion?

The bridge is an integral part of the road. The people own the roads—why shouldn't they own the bridges? The roads are free. Is there any logical reason why the bridges should not also be?

Let us figure your next tax on our printing. Our job printing department is equipped to serve your needs.—Phone 80.

Finally, Senator Tom DeBerry, Bogata, broke up the discussion. "We are arguing," he said, "about what kind of buttons we are going to put on a shirt when we haven't any shirt."

AUSTIN, Sept. 24 — Senator C. Small Amarillo, sent the recipe for an Ethiopian cocktail to the senate's committee considering liquor regulation. "The drink takes its name," Small said, "from its effect. One drink makes you roar like a conquering lion." "We know that's the kind of liquor they have in dry territory," responded Lieutenant Governor Walter Woodul, from wet Houston.

The BLUE DOOR

By Rachel Mack

"If you will," answered Ruth. Presently they were smoking together, with the tension between them lessened. Ruth said, provocatively, "You came very quietly, but I know exactly when it was. It was—wait now, let me count back—it was Tuesday night about supper time. Wasn't it, Mr. Hunter?"

He nodded. "The day you made the excellent cake with the pink icing, I'm greatly indebted to you for that."

Ruth laughed. "So Bertha was cutting it for you? What a big appetite you must have had that night!"

He said evenly, "I had traveled quite a distance."

Ruth saw his face grow grim and shuttered again. She said quickly, "And it was you who took the Stevenson set, then? You'll never know how I looked for those books."

"Sorry!" He was smiling again. "Then, incredibly, they began to argue about their Stevenson favorite. Ruth held out for 'The Master of Ballantrae'—except for the ending. 'I think that's contrived horror, written to please the publishers.'"

"That's what happened," Duncan Hunter stated.

"TAKE ME," said Duncan Hunter ironically. "A perfect sample of what greed can produce in the way of horrors. My brother-in-law wished to swallow a railroad, stockholders and all. I reminded him that he didn't need such a large meal and might develop indigestion. And it was my father's railroad, at that, my dear girl. I was proud of it. Feit a paternal interest in the stockholders. When my brother-in-law wouldn't drop the idea, I struck him down in a nice, mahogany-paneled conference room. It was the wrong place to start a fight of course. Doorman pulled me from him, and the gentlemen sitting around the long table immediately lost confidence in my judgment. My brother-in-law, remembering I'd been fooling with tropical plants in the Brazilian jungle, decided to elect me for insanity. Matter of fact, I was running one of those jungle temperatures. Out of my head occasionally when the fever climbed, but clear as a bell the night of the meeting—"

Ruth exclaimed, "What a cruel set of circumstances!"

"And worse to follow, my unknown little friend. They put me in one of those private sanitariums where rich people are permitted to bury undesirable relatives. A doctor used to come to me every day for long talks—a psychiatrist, hired by my brother-in-law, the impeccable Mr. Deal. By every implication known to man this paid tend tried to teach me to consider myself insane. By suggestion. By God-knows-what perverted use of psycho analysis. I grew to dread any loathe him. My mind sickened under his tutelage while the jungle fever I'd contracted was neglected. Eventually, my child, I tried to kill him."

"So it's you I've been dodging," he remarked. "You've given me a good deal of annoyance by being here. I'd expected to have the house to myself. Will you have a cigarette?"

"To kill him!" cried Ruth in horror. "Quite so," he remarked. "To be sure, I'd expected to have the house to myself. Will you have a cigarette?"

NEW ERA IN MOTION PICTURES INAUGURATED BY "BECKY SHARP"

For nearly forty years motion picture technicians the world over have acknowledged that natural color cinematography would attain widespread commercial success if a really practical three-color-component process was developed. During that time innumerable experiments have been made, and scores of patents granted, upon three-color processes, some of which gave excellent results under laboratory test conditions. None of them, however, proved completely satisfactory under the rigorous test of commercial production. None the less, rumors have always been rife that such a process was just around the corner. That corner now has been turned, and the event signalled with Pioneer Pictures "Becky Sharp" as the first complete feature film produced in the perfect color.

For the last decade, it had been known that the exponents of Technicolor - already successful as a two-color process - were developing a trichromatic process. No official hint, however, came from the Technicolor laboratories, where everyone was much too busy solving the laboratory problems of producing two-color films in quantity to make any statements about possible three-color developments. Late in 1932, Technicolor announced that the new three-color process was at last a fact and commercially available. Since then, the process has been used in more than a score of Walt Disney's "Silly Symphonies," and in musical and travel shorts. However, Pioneer Pictures' featurette of last season, "La Cucaracha," was really the first dramatic vehicle to make the industry color-conscious. "La Cucaracha" was released by RKO Radio, whose producing head at that time was Merian C. Cooper, and to whom also goes the credit for being the first major executive in Hollywood to see the full possibilities of this new color process. It was his enthusiasm which inspired John Hay Whitney to organize Pioneer Pictures to devote itself to a program of all-color vehicles. Upon the completion of his contract with RKO Radio, Cooper becomes vice president in charge of production for Pioneer. "La Cucaracha" today holds the record of having played to a volume of business, and to a total of theaters, over any black and white short subject ever produced. With the success of "La Cucaracha," Pioneer Pictures bring "Becky Sharp" to the Palace theater screen tomorrow as the first trichrome full-length feature ever made. The picture is produced by Rouben Mamoulian and has a cast which stars Miriam Hopkins and includes Frances Dee, Alan Mowbray, Billie Burke, Alison Skipworth, G. P. Huntley, Jr., Colin Tapley, Nigel Bruce, Sir Cedric Hardwicke and others with color by Robert Edmond Jones. CATCH TOO EASY SEATTLE - Fred Johnson tells how he caught a salmon without tackle. As he walked along the beach, he spied the fish swimming in shallow water, a flasher with a long piece of line attached trailing from its mouth. He strolled into the water, grabbed the line and pulled in the salmon.

SISTER MARY'S RECIPES

BY MARY E. DAGUE NEA Service Staff Writer

ON hectic days it seems as if "tempus fugit" faster in the kitchen than any other place, and that if you take your eyes for one second from the vegetable on the stove they burn or otherwise misbehave. And that's where you prove your mettle as a housekeeper by knowing how to turn failure into success. Any vegetable that has just started to burn can be placed—in its cooking pan—into a larger pan of cold water. The vegetable then should be SHAKEN, not scraped, out of the burned pan into a fresh pan or bowl, leaving the scorched portion in the pan. If not done, a little boiling water can be added and the cooking finished. Season and serve as usual, and nobody will know the difference.

Shake Pan to Prevent Scorching An excellent precaution for the new cook is to shake the sauce pan occasionally in which a vegetable is cooking. Often the smooth-cut, flat surface sticks and burns before the water cooks away or the vegetable is done. Shaking prevents this without crushing as stirring might do. Potatoes and sliced carrots are examples of vegetables that often scorch. If too much salt threatens to spoil the soup, add from half a cup to a whole cup of sliced raw potatoes to the kettle of soup. Let stand ten or fifteen minutes, remove potatoes and serve. The potatoes absorb the excess salt. If the mayonnaise separates, take another egg yolk in a fresh bowl and slowly beat in the curdled dressing, continuing as usual until all the ingredients are used. If a custard sauce curdles, beat it well with a Dover beater. This same beater often will beat the lumps out of white sauce that has been made in too big a hurry. If the sauce is very lumpy it can be rubbed through a fine sieve and reheated. If the breakfast cereal lumps despite vigorous stirring, use a heavy wire whisk or a strong Dover beater. A tomato cream soup that shows an inclination to curdle can be converted into a thick puree by adding butter and flour rubbed together in the proportion of 1 tablespoon butter and 1 tablespoon flour to each cup of soup. One tablespoon fine sifted soda cracker crumbs added to each cup of soup will correct the tendency to curdle, too. Reheating Sugary Jam If jam becomes hard and sugary before it is used up, place it in a moderate oven until the sugar melts. When cool the jam is almost as good as new. Baked frosting that insists on running when put on the cake can be made stiff by adding powdered sugar until the mixture will stay put. A gelatin jelly that refuses to stiffen in the required length of time can be hurried if more gelatin is softened in cold water, dissolved over hot water and added at once to the offending jelly.

Monday's Menu BREAKFAST: Chilled apple sauce, cereal cooked with dates, cream, bread crumbs, pancakes, syrup, milk, coffee. LUNCHEON: Cream of tomato soup, croutons, macaroni and salmon salad, graham rolls, grapes, milk, tea. DINNER: Brunswick stew, jellied vegetable salad, pumpkin pie, milk, coffee.

THIS CURIOUS WORLD By William Ferguson. ROALD AMUNDSEN DISCOVERED THE SOUTH POLE IN ORDER TO RAISE FUNDS FOR A TRIP TO THE NORTH POLE! SOAP, DROPPED INTO A GEYSER, CAUSES IT TO ERUPT! IF YOU LIVED IN ABSOLUTELY PURE AIR, WE WOULD ROAST IN THE DAYTIME AND FREEZE AT NIGHT. ROALD AMUNDSEN, from childhood, had ambitions to explore the polar regions of the north. While struggling to get backing for such a trip, word was received that Peary had discovered the North Pole. Amundsen, knowing that the eyes of the world now turned to the undiscovered South Pole, secured aid for such a project... all in the hopes that it later would help him raise money for a trip to the North Pole.

Baer-Louis To Bring Million Gate

BATTLERS ARE IN GOOD SHAPE FOR 15 ROUNDS

By GEORGE KIRKSEY
 NEW YORK, Sept. 24. — Max Baer, short of his heavyweight title and willing to make amends for one of the most disgraceful exhibitions ever staged in defense of his honor, battles Joe Louis, Detroit's undefeated negro, in a 15-round bout tonight under the arc lights at Yankee Stadium.

Not since Jack Dempsey's comeback match in which he knocked out Earl Shubert in 1927 has a championship heavyweight bout created as much interest as tonight's affair. Promoter Mike Jacobs estimates that a capacity crowd of 85,000 will pay approximately $1,500,000 to see the Baer-Louis battle.

In the eyes of many boxing followers the winner of tonight's fight will be recognized as an unopposed heavyweight champion.

James J. Braddock, the raspy-voiced titleholder, is scorned in most quarters because of the way in which he won the title from a much bigger and more heavily-trained Max Baer last June.

Louis' skyrocket rise to popular fame in 14 months has captured the imagination of boxing public and no fighter has since Jack Dempsey's fatal fall ruled the heavy-weight division. The frozen-faced negro turned professional July 4, 1934, and knocked out Jack Jackson at a small Chicago club house round for a purse of $50. All other Louis has had 24 professional matches, winning 20 by knockouts and four by decisions.

Lost Four Amateur Bout
 During his two years in the amateur ranks Louis engaged in 54 bouts, winning 43 by knockouts and 11 by decisions. He lost four seasons, one each to Johnny Miller, Max Marek, Clinton Edwards and Stanley Evans.

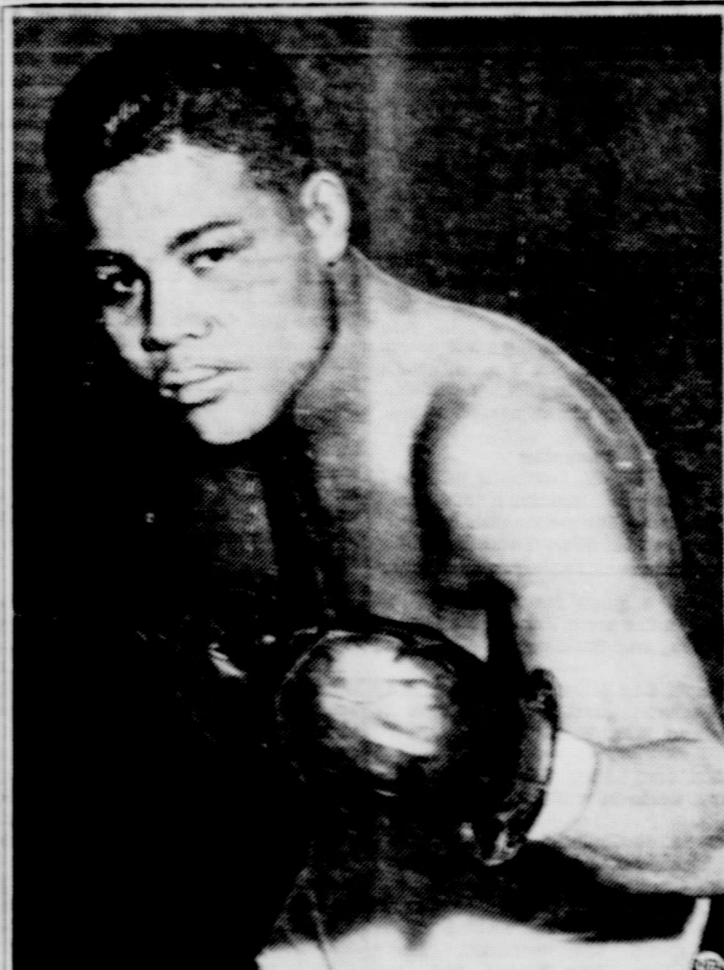

Louis' popularity has been heightened by the manner in which the West-end Detroit negro has conducted himself out of the ring. He has shunned public appearances, and strictly to his own business had been a credit to his race.

After Baer's miserable showing against Braddock, he generally was er with both hands, is also a fine boxer, having a knack of rolling away from punches. He has never had to take any hard wallops during his short professional career. He has never been on the floor since his amateur days.

Louis Is Short Puncher
 Some experts believe that Louis will beat Baer to the punch, as he hits from a shorter range than Max, and won't have to take any of the ex-champion's long-distance wallops.

In his last seven bouts no opponent has been able to last six rounds with Louis. The two most important victories in Louis' 24 straight triumphs were a 6-round K. O. over Carmen and a 1-round K. O. over King Levinisky.

that he will make amends for his recent miserable showing against Jimmy Braddock. The Brown Bomber from Detroit, undefeated in his 14 months of professional ring experience, is heralded by some as the greatest negro fighter of them all, greater even than Jack Johnson, the former champion.

Black Widow And Katydid In Draw

THREE RIVERS, Sept. 24 — If you rise Black Widow spiders as a hobby, don't attempt to feed them on katydid. Isaac W. Hayes, Three Rivers school teacher, warns.

Hayes placed a "golden stink" katydid in a flask with a Black Widow. The spider immediately began spinning a web to entangle her lunch.

Hayes found the body of the katydid lying, legs on the flask bottom the next morning. The katydid in her own web was the katydid body of the Black Widow with great wounds in her jump abdomen.

BIG DAM CHATTER

It is rumored that the Ranger boys at San Angelo Friday didn't play the very best brand of football of which they were capable.

It is rumored, further, that they might have put up a much better showing than they did, but got playing when they got a little behind.

According to the tale, the Bobcats took the lead and when they saw that the Rangers were standing about talking of next week's preliminary lesson or a date with the girl friends Saturday night, they decided to run up the score a bit. They did.

Rigorous Tests May Mold New Teachers

KALAMAZOO, Mich., Sept. 23.—School teachers of the future will not be grouchily old maids, envied by some little boys, if plans of the Western State Teachers college are successful this fall.

Results of a recent faculty meeting revealed that personal qualifications and talents of applicants will be a weighty subject in awarding teachers' certificates in the future.

So far as is known, the Western State Teachers college is the first institution of the type to adopt such a system, although in other states similar efforts are being made.

The scheme is one of continuous selection. Detailed information regarding some student will be assembled from the time of entrance to the time of certification.

The usual procedure will consist of tests, data, observations and personal interviews, all of which will provide the cumulative, as to qualifications of the student for the purpose of teaching, will be made.

Professional training for a student who is to obtain a degree and a life certificate will start at the beginning of the junior year if the person shows adaptability to the profession.

atched to be through as a top-notch fighter. He showed in the Braddock bout that he had little left for the game, cared less for the title and, with defeat staring him in the face, failed to show even a spark of fighting spirit by refusing to fight back as any true champion would when facing the man of his crown.

Baer Turns Serious

Things happened to Baer after the Braddock fiasco to make him a changed man. He married Mary Ann Sullivan in a surprise wedding and soon afterward took on a serious turn of mind that seemed to require that he at least make a supreme effort to win back what he so scornfully tossed away.

Even before he was matched with Louis, the California Adonis began training to strengthen his hands, one of his alphas for his disheartening against Braddock. He worked hours daily to wood-chop, rowing a boat and roadwork, during which he carried rubber balls to exercise his hands.

When he moved to Speculator, N. Y., to undergo serious training, he had his mother and father come from California to be with him. One of the few persons who Baer fears is his dad. When Pa speaks, Max acts.

Good Condition Indicated
 Baer's training camp bouts at Speculator indicate that he is in better condition than he was either of his bouts with Primo Carneri or Braddock. Some of his exhibitions have been criticized, but Baer generally has looked bad in the gym all during his career.

The important thing about him for this fight is that he seems to be in condition for the first time since he dropped Max Schmeling in 10 rounds here in June, 1933.

The Livermore wallop makes no secret of the fact that he does not think Louis can take punishment, and he plans to come out swinging Baer's best punch, a sweeping right-hand punch, which many fighters have been able to see coming but couldn't get out of its way.

Louis, who is a dangerous punch-

MISS BERRY

HERE TO OPEN FOOD SESSION

Miss Albertine Berry, cooking expert and director of home economics for the Community Natural Gas company arrived in Cisco Tuesday for a two-day cooking school in the local theater, which begins at 2 p. m. Wednesday.

Miss Berry will demonstrate and discuss more than 12 new recipes including: miracle cake, baked icing homemade biscuit mixture, cherry pecan ring, angel parfait, whipped evaporated milk, ginger ice-cream cookies, lemon velvet pie, refrigerator rolls, pastry, hot water sponge cake, filling for ice box cake, and frozen apricot shortcake.

Most of these recipes call for use of refrigeration and are designed for storage, making it possible for the housewife to prepare her foods ahead of time and at her own convenience. Miss Berry will use an Electrolux gas refrigerator in her demonstrations.

The cooking school is free to all housewives in and adjacent to Cisco, H. L. Dyer district manager, said. Besides food prizes at each session, three grand prizes will be awarded at the conclusion of the school. Each woman attending will also receive a free ticket to Albre Adams, a Pulitzer prize winning novel by Booth Tarkington which has been dramatized. Katharine Hepburn portrays the title role.

The free tickets will be given at each session.

A period will be set aside for questions and answers, concerning Miss Berry's demonstrations or other cooking problems.

Lady Took Cardui Says Pain Stopped
Many women who have taken Cardui have reported just such results as Mrs. Dow Parker (of Farmington, Mo.) describes below.
"I was weak and tired and did not feel like doing anything," she writes. "I had cramping spells. At times, I would be very nervous. The pain was mostly in my back and sides. I would just complain and not feel good. I heard several ladies speak of Cardui and my mother had taken it. I decided to try it. I took several bottles of Cardui. It helped the nervousness and the pain stopped. I felt just fine. I gained in weight and strength."
Of course, if Cardui does not benefit YOU, consult a physician.

2 New Prizes

and up to the close of the third period of the campaign, 5,000 credits will be issued to the person who accepts such nomination and enters the Opportunity club. Only one nomination blank however will be credited to a club member. However, there is no limit to the number of persons you may nominate and if one of those you nominate accept nomination and is declared the winner, by the official campaign judges of the car you nominated that person to win, then you will be awarded one of these two extra cash prizes accordingly: if you nominated the winner of the grand capital award, the 1935 Chevrolet Master Six sedan correctly you will receive the $1500 award, or if you nominated the winner of the second grand award, the 1935 Ford V-8 DeLuxe coupe, correctly, you will receive the $1000 award.
Should you by any chance nominate the winners of both cars, correctly then of course you will receive both of these two special awards—making a total of $25 just for sending in the name of the winners.

Nominations Registered
All nominations made will be time stamped and registered at Opportunity club headquarters, the nominators name laced on file in Opportunity club headquarters and will not be divulged to anyone until the close of the Opportunity club campaign when the winners of not only the two cars but all of the major awards will be announced, along with the names of the persons who nominated the two car winners. Precedent will be given to earliest nominations. Nomination blanks that are incorrectly filled will be void, as will any nominations received at Opportunity club headquarters after the closing of the third period of the campaign.
Open to All
The rules and regulations of the Cisco Daily News and The Cisco American and Round-Up Opportunity club which a nominee accepts and abides by in accepting nomination have been made the easiest ever known in a campaign of this kind.
The big list of rich and valuable awards is topped by two automobiles, one for each district besides seven other awards and hundreds of dollars in cash commissions so that every member of the Opportunity club will be more than well paid for their effort. There will be no losers as under the published rules and regulations. Everybody wins—a car, or one of the several other major awards or ten per cent cash commission of the total amount of their subscription sales.
Right now the sun of opportunity is shining brightest for today while the Opportunity club is yet in its announcement stage—just getting under way—is the time for you to cash in. Remember, it costs nothing to enter—nothing to try and you have everything to gain and nothing to lose.
That nomination blank spells money—cash—to you in two ways plus—it is the same as an entry blank if you want to use it yourself. It might just as well be you as someone else that wins one of these two smart cars.
Fill it out—now—but be careful you don't toss a brand new 1935 Master Six Chevrolet sedan worth $846 or a brand new 1935 Ford V-8 DeLuxe coupe worth $724 into someone else's lap when you can take it.

Authority for Two New Rivers Sought

AUSTIN, Sept. 24—A new "authority" for the Guadalupe-Blanco rivers, has been asked by representatives of 11 Central Texas counties.
Technically the Guadalupe-Blanco river authority is not new since it has been operating under a preliminary bill of the Texas legislature.
Representative T. J. Dunlap, San Marcos, has revised the original bill, modeled it after the successful Colorado River Authority, and asked permission for the body to seek $5,600,000 PWA aid.
Of that sum, 45 per cent would be a grant, the remainder a loan. Two-fifths of the state taxes paid in Comal, Hays, Guadalupe, Kerr, Kimble, Gonzales, De Witt, Victoria, Calhoun, Refugio and Caldwell counties would be diverted to repay the loan.
Plans of the authority would call for a system of four dams. Two major dams, one at Wimberly reservoir on the Blanco river and the other above New Braunfels on the Guadalupe, would cost $2,000,000 each. Two smaller dams would be built below these.

Records Show Worth Of 'A Continent'

HARRISBURG, Pa., Sept. 24. Bacon at $2 a pound nowaday would divorce many an egg from its favorite breakfast company but during the Revolutionary War Pennsylvania paid that price and included the pork delicacy in supplies for its soldiers.
Old records rediscovered at the capitol reveal that the price of bacon was more exorbitant than quotations on other supplies bought for the troops.
Certificates of purchases included: four barrels of beef, $5.86; one horse, $0.66; one grain fed but $3.20; 70 bushels of oats, $2.25. Payment was in continental money. The figures removed all mystery from the expression "Not worth a continental."

OIL STRIKE IN MINE
NELSON, B. C.—The news of a rich strike in a mine believed to be playing out revived interest in the Beverdel mining camp near here. More than 150 tons of ore, valued at about $35,000, have been taken from the Beverdel-Wellington mine in the past few weeks.
