ITALY ABOUT READY TO QUIT LEAGUE

About Our Friends

By STEPHEN A. LONG

There goes our friend Rev. E. S. James, looking as though he was going to driver over us... turns in to let us continue to live... will likely ask us why he should do... be hard to give a good answer.

Another preacher friend of ours, Mr. J. Stuart Pearce, celebrated his thirtieth wedding anniversary Thursday... he says some people think that a woman thirty years should be given a medal... he thinks that any medal should be given it should be his because he has been such a good man all these years that it was easy for Mrs. Pearce to be with him... This may need investigation.

The Rev. C. S. Moad, still another minister friend, has promised to look into the time for successful fishing and notify us... we'll pass on to others who have time for the sport.

Well, this is not exactly preacher with us but it does seem that these chaps are rather numerous around... perhaps they are trying to do their part in looking after us... good company anyway... Now Mr. Williams is a good conscientious chap... he sets the example in buying now... comes down and sells himself a new brown suit... shoes to match... really didn't know he could look that well... Possibly W. J. Leach and Horace Condeley have covered up their new suspenders with a coat today.

Coal Miners Peaceful During Strike

The same peaceful atmosphere shown here as the soft coal miners of the nation walked out a week ago prevailed throughout their strike, which terminated today with better feelings between miners and operators, and with new contracts calling for shorter hours and more pay for the miners.

Soft Coal Miners Win New Contracts

WASHINGTON, Sept. 27 — Soft coal miners won a $80,000,000 victory in the wage agreement which early today ended the peaceful walkout of 400,000 miners.

The miners, except for a few thousand in the southern district, will go back to work tomorrow, assured of a seven-hour-day and wage increases, at least until April 1, 1937.

Police Excited As Their Car 'Stolen'

The police car was reported stolen last night from in front of the city hall, right under the noses of the night police force—and for a while it remained stolen, so far as the police were concerned, white, Commissioner and Mrs. H. C. Henderson, seeing the incident, enjoyed the antics of the city cops.

The police in the station heard someone start the car hurriedly, and ran to the front door in time to see it leave in the same manner. According to Henry Stubblefield, day desk sergeant, "the chief ran out to the street, Hendricks ran toward eighth street, and Evans jumped up and down and yelled that they stole our car."

Night Chief Frank Pierce, leaving for something to eat, had come back to get the car then to pursue another, it was later learned.

Cancellation of the Park Project

For some time Ciscoans have been working hard to secure approval of a WPA project for building of a park in the Sandy Creek bed area between the swimming pool and the fish hatchery. Recently the project was approved and Ciscoans rejoiced that they were going to get a park project started on their big park program for Centennial year, and to give WPA workers the labor they have needed.

Then, like a bombshell, came the news that the work order for the project had been cancelled. All workers were notified that they would be unable to secure work cards and to go to work as original plans had said they would. The project was to have started Monday. Announcement of the cancellation order was made yesterday.

The question uppermost in the minds of the people here is: Why? They want to know why their project was stopped before it was started and after it had been approved by the president after going through the necessary channels.

Officials here were unable to give any answer. All they knew was that the order to cancel the work order had come in a telegram from Washington. Possibly they would know soon. Meanwhile the Ciscoans, both workers and those who were interested in the park from a civic-minded point of view want to know if the project is to be abandoned or if the delay is only temporary and if it is temporary, when work will start, and why it was delayed in the first place.

If the delay was occasioned by some technicality in plans, they would like to know it so that the matter could be ironed out. If the cancellation is to be permanent, they would like to know that so that the matter could be abandoned. If it is permanent, they would like to know it also in order not to seek any more projects which would be objectionable for the same reasons.

The League's Game of Marbles

The League of Nations yesterday decided formally that it would invoke the League covenant in defiance of Italy if and when hostilities break out between that nation and Ethiopia.

The section to be invoked is that leading up to collective military penalties against an aggressor in case of armed conflict between members of the League. It is the section which the League decided to invoke as it met to decide upon the Manchurian and Gran Chaco crisis and the invocation of which caused the withdrawal of Japan and Paraguay from the League. Its invocation likely will cause the withdrawal of Italy also.

In the United States there is a game called marbles which is very popular among boys of the public school age up to and including early adolescence. Some few of us have declined to play marbles during our boyhood for the simple reason that we could never agree upon any rules before the game started.

The chief rules in a marble game, as it is played in this

Behind the Scenes in Washington

WILLIS THORNTON, NEA service staff correspondent, is pinching hitting for Rodney Dutcher, NEA and (Name Paper) Washington correspondent, while Dutcher is on his vacation.

BY WILLIS THORNTON
NEA service staff correspondent
WASHINGTON — It's rather a pitiful little acorn right now, the organization from which the great oak of the social security program is expected to grow.

About 25 borrowed employees in borrowed quarters—that is all that can be seen today of an organization that is expected eventually to employ 10,000 people in administering benefits that will touch more than 15,000,000 Americans.

Because the bill which was to have provided funds was filibustered to death as Congress closed its last session nobody can be regularly hired by the Social Security Board. A dozen or so employees have been borrowed from NRA and another dozen from Edwin Witte's committee on social security which helped frame the plan.

Unless the board's appeal to the director of the budget relief act, under the emergency relief act, equal to a month's administrative expense, is granted, it's doubtful if even the salaries of Commissioners Winant, Altmyer, and Miles can be paid until Congress meets next winter and appropriates some money.

Of course, they're going ahead anyway.

The mail already is flooding in, stacks of it. Most of it boils down to two questions: "How about a job?" and "When do I get my pension?"

The borrowed staff is hardly large enough yet even to return the simple answer that must go to all such inquiries to the first class. We haven't anything to use for money yet and to the second. Nothing doing for at least two years.

PLENTY of the applications for jobs come sponsored by congressmen who were there the night the appropriation was filibustered to death, and who should know better.

The mailman dumps a big stack of mail on a bare table. It goes into the file that is beginning to spring up, forerunner of a system that aims in 1937 to begin to be a complete personal account of every employee in the United States—no less—establishing his age and keeping his wage and contribution record for old-age insurance benefits after 1942.

The Social Security Board, which has only just held its first meeting, is being given almost a whole floor of the new Labor Department building formerly occupied by the old National Labor Board.

It will probably have around 500 employees the first year and will build up from that to the 10,000 it eventually will take to administer the gigantic program.

THE money the government spends on payrolls here circulates all over the country to a surprising extent. Go down to the local postoffice on a government pay day and look at the money-order line. It's three times as long as it used to be a few years ago.

Government employees are sending money back home to relatives who need it worse than they do, or to the families they have hesitated to bring to Washington because of the high cost of living here, or because their jobs look too temporary.

Two Conferences

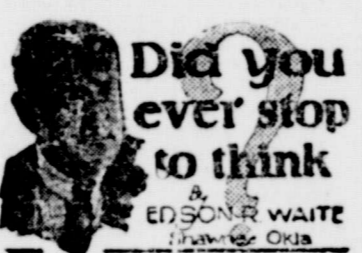

part of the country, are (1) knock as many marbles out of the ring as possible, and (2) make your rules as they are needed.

The rules of the marble game were never very explicit. If the small boy about to shout cried out "Innies!" before the opponent could call out "Venture Innies!" he was allowed to do almost anything short of picking up the marbles and walking away with them. If, however, his opponent beat him to the call, he had very little left to do but shoot, and very few ways to do that. The rules were greatly modified as modifications were deemed necessary by each individual.

In Texas high school football there is a well known tendency to make rules concerning eligibility or other matters pertaining to the game. If occasion arises, however, officials of various schools are said to get together and try to map out some plan as to whether they shall follow the rules.

It appears that in the League of Nations, which has a set of rules for the game—supposedly understood by all League members, since they made them—it is a case of a nation, being dissatisfied with its lot and wanting more leeway, calling "Innies" while the other nations yell in chorus "Venture Innies!" It is a case of the officials getting out their rule books, knowing full well what is in it, and trying to decide whether the rules ought to be enforced or whether they were to be used only until actual necessity for a ruling on a situation was necessary.

Ebb of Surgery In Cancer Predicted

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 27 — A prediction that the use of surgery in treatment of cancer will diminish steadily was made by Dr. E. T. Kirkendall of the Ohio State university medical school recently upon his return from a study of the disease in Europe.

Dr. Kirkendall believes from his studies that the use of X-Ray treatment will increase and that use of radium will continue. He spent six weeks at the hospital, Radiumhemmet, in Stockholm, one week at the Royal Infirmary in Edinburgh, and a week each at hospitals in Brussels and Paris.

In his opinion, Swedish doctors are far advanced in cancer treatment. "Far more cancers are being treated in the early stages there than here," he said. "Furthermore, in Sweden if the doctor feels there is any chance of a cure, he tells the patient he has cancer. Then the patient can cooperate in the treatment which is vastly important."

Dr. Kirkendall also said European surgeons keep more complete records of the progress of cancer cases than those in America.

"I feel we are making definite headway in the study of cancer," he said. "Of course, there's a great deal we don't know. For instance, you never saw a man with a cancer on his upper lip, and you never saw a woman with a cancer on her lower lip. Why? We don't know."

The BLUE DOOR

By Rachel Mack © 1935 NEA Service, Inc.

BEGIN HERE TODAY
RUTH WOODSON, a pretty, blue-eyed girl of 19, in search of work, seems to have had a storm in an old stone house with a blue door in the little town of Northville, Michigan. Her caretaker, BERTHA GIBBS, also known as PENNY, mistakes Ruth for ELAINE CHAMBERLAIN, whose grandfather built the house. Ruth is in love with JOHN WELLS, the young man next door, and decides to stay on a while, posing as Elaine.

Elaine at Graycastle College, was in a sorely trying way to the love of JOHN WELLS, her childhood hero. She plans to go to Northville, Michigan, to see her father and realize that the girl in the house next door is an impostor. However, she loves him and decides to tell her so. Called out of town, he leaves a note of explanation to Ruth, which she destroys.

Ruth believes John has gone away in disgust. That night she saves from a fire DUNCAN HENDERSON, Elaine's father, who has escaped from an asylum where he has been unjustly detained. She persuades him to leave his unit legally. As Ruth is leaving the house for good, Elaine arrives and discovers that the girl who has been using her name and wearing her costume is Ruth. Elaine humiliates Ruth before driving her out.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XXVII
ANGER that was positively exhilarating entered Ruth through the front stage of her journey. She walked past the McNeill place, unseeing, on out Garfield avenue to where the paving ended and the highway began.

There she became alert for means of transportation other than her already weary feet. Two feminine occupants eyed her suspiciously and sped on. A third car, a large sedan, slowed down to pick her up, but when she saw at close range the two men who rode in the front seat, she quickly shook her head negatively and walked on, looking straight ahead. Those men could have been cast as movie gangsters without even applying make-up—dark-jawed, furtive-eyed, heavy-mouthed, too well dressed for cross-country travel.

Ruth walked on and was dismayed to find the wind whistling out on the open road. Before discouragement could lay hold of her, however, the lopped-for-ride presented itself. A small sedan bearing a middle-aged man and woman drew up beside Ruth and the woman leaned out to ask a welcome question. "Want to ride?"

"Yes!" called Ruth gladly, and climbed in.

"We're going to Cleveland," the woman said. "Are you going that far, or just to the college?"

Ruth felt gratified that she had been mistaken for a college student. She told them, "I'm going to Cleveland, too. I'd certainly appreciate it if you'd let me ride with you. It's hard to get a ride with the right sort of people."

It developed that an important part had broken and must be replaced before the journey could be resumed.

The part could be supplied then and there, but neither the driver nor his worried wife could produce the $7 necessary to pay for it. They had been on a long trip and were almost down to their last dollar. It was finally arranged by the easy-going garage owner that his customers should give him a check for the amount.

This Mr. Segwick did, writing his Cleveland address below his name at the mechanic's request.

When they were on their way again Ruth said regretfully, "I wish I could have lent you the money till you got home. But I haven't a cent myself."

Mrs. Segwick replied, "That's all right. If you had money to lend you likely wouldn't be hitchhiking. Have you got a job waiting for you in the city?"

"No," Ruth admitted. "Not a sign of a job. I hope to stay at the Salvation Army home till I can find something."

Mrs. Segwick elicited her tongue in sympathy and changed the subject. Later she returned to it, showing it had been on her mind.

"Ed," she said to her husband, "do you think Miss Woodson would suit your Cousin Ella?"

"I've been wondering that, too," replied Mr. Segwick. "In some ways I think she would."

was marcelling a customer's hair. "Maude and Gracie Louise have to be at school by 8:30, and I've got to be here even earlier. That means the girl and I have to get up at 6 every morning."

Mrs. Jones further explained, "I send all the clothes to the wet wash and the girl's expected to iron them. I've got a good mangle in the basement. Ever run one?"

Ruth said proudly, "Once a demonstrator in a department store let me try one, just for fun. I got along very well with it. I'd need to practice a little with your machine, of course."

Then, over the patient customer's head, Ruth was hired as housekeeper-maid by Mrs. Jones and urged to report for duty at once. Mrs. Segwick agreed to take Ruth to the Jones home, show her her room and install her there before the children should arrive home from school.

RUTH found that the ordeal of meeting Maude and Gracie Louise was a trivial one. The children were so accustomed to the coming and going of housekeepers that when they arrived home to find a perfectly strange young woman baking cookies for them they took it as a matter of course.

"I'm Miss Woodson," Ruth told them. "I've come to keep house for you. Your mother told me to ask you if you'd rather have white bread or brown for supper."

"White," they replied in concert. After staring at Ruth boldly for a few moments they went up to the small rear room of the box-like little house to inspect her possessions. No doubt the messiness of Ruth's wardrobe caused them to lose interest in her, for they soon went out to play with neighbor children next door, not even bothering to ask the questions Ruth had dreaded.

When she called them in to get ready for supper she asked, "Do you drink plain milk, or do you have cocoa in the evening?"

"Neither one," answered Gracie Louise, the elder. "Tea."

"That's supposed to have milk." Their voices rose to a shrill crescendo of argument which Ruth interrupted to call them to supper. When they sat down at the table she noticed that they slumped untidily and spilled their water as they drank.

Ruth said, feeling her new responsibilities keenly, "I'd like you to sit straight as I'm doing. First unfold your napkin this way, do you see? Then break your bread before you butter it. Your mother asked me to be careful about your manners."

"Oh, rats!" remarked Gracie Louise rudely. Ruth said that she was wearing lipstick. It came on her napkin, along with the butter on her bread. Ruth, remembering Gracie Louise's 12 tender years, was a little horrified. She asked mildly, "Does your mother know you wear lipstick, dear?"

"Sure," replied Gracie Louise. "That's a lie," said Maude. Ruth sighed and fell silent. She was humbly grateful for this work this shelter which had so unexpectedly fallen to her lot. But she knew there was dullness and congeniality and loneliness ahead.

Loboes Meet Angelo Bobcats Tonight

LEAVE CISCO THIS MORNING FOR CONTEST

Coaches Dexter Shelley and Clyde and Sickle this morning led their squad of Loboes on an invasion of San Angelo, where they are to meet the mighty Bobcats, in an inter-district game tonight.

The Loboes left from the high school this morning at 8 o'clock. Making the trip were the following:

Captain Burnam, Wagley, Page, Merrett, Ivey, Rainbolt, Barnes, Stansbury, Rylee, McCantles, Woods, Warrick, Cleveland, Slicker, Haskwood, Steyer, Sledge, Shirley, Anderson, Bacon, and the two managers, Sanders and Wallace.

Wide Open Game
Coach Shelley yesterday promised that the Loboes would open up with plenty of passes, mixing the forwards and laterals indiscriminately in an effort to open the game up sufficiently to offset the weight advantage of the big Bobcats. The Loboes will average little more than 150 pounds to the man.

They will be without the services of Beasley, who has shown himself to be well adapted to the open game but who was injured in the Electra tilt and still is nursing a bad leg. Wende, too, will be missing from the starting lineup but will very likely get into the game.

Shelley yesterday announced that he would start the same team tonight as that which opened the season against Electra. It included: Wagley and Burnam, ends; Page and Barnes, tackles; Merrett and Rainbolt, guards; Ivey, center; Stansbury, quarterback; Rylee and McCantles, halfbacks; Woods, fullback.

LINEUP SHIFT IN TCU TEAM IS PREDICTED

FORT WORTH, Sept. 27 — Dutch Kline at left half probably will be the only backfield man to take the field against the Denton Eagles here Saturday who also started against Howard Payne last week.

Coach Dutch Meyer has announced as the probable starting backs: Vernon Brown, quarter; Harold McClure, right half; Kline, left half; and Glenn Roberts, full.

The line will probably stack up just as it did in the opener last week. L. D. Meyer will be at left end; Manuel Godwin, left tackle; Wilbur Harrison, left guard; Capt. Darrell Lester, center; Tracy Kellow, right guard; Solon Holt, right tackle; and Walter Roach, right end.

"With this hot weather, we'll probably use 30 or 35 men just as we did last Saturday," Coach Meyer said. "If we can get a couple of touchdowns in front, we'll give all of the boys a chance to show what they can do."

HALL ENDURES
LONDON — Although all the Shakespeare theaters are gone, visitors in London still are shown the Hall of the Middle Temple, which was built in 1572 and has the finest Elizabethan roof in the city. In this hall "Twelfth Night" was given Feb. 22, 1602, and it is commonly stated that Shakespeare was one of the actors in that play.

BIG DAM CHATTER

Not many of the fans will be in San Angelo, for the game tonight, very likely. It is a long, hard trip and the weather will keep many at home.

It wouldn't be a bad idea to send some telegrams of encouragement to the boys and their coaches, though.

The team will be facing a mighty tough task when it takes on those big Bobcats tonight, and one that will be especially tough in view of the outlandish score which the Cats piled up against the Ranger Bulldogs. Any encouragement they can get will help the Loboes.

The Vernon Lions are coming to Breckenridge this afternoon to take on the Buckaroos. The Breck team this year is reputed to have a fast, shifty squad that moves about and does things in a hurry. The clash should be an interesting one for the fans who make that trip in preference to the longer one to San Angelo.

Ranger will be taking another handful today when the Bulldogs journey to Amarillo to meet the state champions. Last year the Vanines gave the Sandies their stiffest competition in the state. Eastland, after two defeats, should have a fairly easy time against Olney at Olney.

Tomorrow Sweetwater will come to Abilene for an inter district game.

Aggies Ready To Invade Huntsville

COLLEGE STATION, Sept. 27 — Invading Huntsville for the third time within four years, Coach Homer Norton's Texas Aggies will meet the Sam Houston STC Bearkats Friday night at Pritchett field. Both teams showed strength in their openers, the Aggies drubbing the Stephen F. Austin Lumberjacks 27 to 6 and the Bearkats turning back Abilene Christian 32 to 0.

The Bearkat tilt will be the final proving ground for the offense, involving a new shift, Coach Norton is shaping for "Pop" Warner's Temple university Ovals at Tyler a week later, for the Centenary Gentleman, and for a card of six straight Southwest Conference tilts. Although pleased with his progress, Norton still sees the need of much polishing and worked on that almost exclusively the early part of the week.

SHOE ROUTS BURGLAR

VARIED RACES MARK PEOPLE OF ETHIOPIA

CHICAGO, Sept. 27 — Wilfrid S. Hamby, assistant curator of African ethnology at the Field Museum of Natural History, has settled the confusing question of "Just who are the Ethiopians?"

"Discussions about the race and color of the African people threatened with war have brought about a variety of conjectures, some that they are Jewish (because Emperor Haile Selassie is descended from King Solomon), others that they are Negro.

Both surmises are partly right, Hamby said. Jeremiah's adage, "Can the Ethiopian change his skin?" he indicated can be answered in the affirmative, since the people vary racially according to geography.

Skin Color Varies
The Galla of southern Ethiopia are known as Hamites and have light-brown hair and skin, Hamby said.

The Somali, numerically strong in the population, also have Hamitic characteristics, although some scholars claim a stronger Semitic element.

The Shangalla, inhabitants of the western hills, are true Negroes with dark skins. Likewise the Doko of the southern forests, a dwarf Negro tribe, are dark.

But the Beni Amer of the northern plains are an Arabized Nubian people, while the Falasha of central Ethiopia, where Addis Ababa is located, are Jewish in religion.

Population Is Mixed
"Possibly," Hamby said, "they also are Jewish in race."

In addition to this complicated classification, Hamby said, there are large numbers of Egyptians, Arabs, Persians and Greeks, who have been gathering in Ethiopia for centuries.

"All factors considered," the ethnologist explained, "the word 'habesh,' the Arabic for mixed, the root form of 'Abyssinia,' is singularly well-chosen."

Bonds of Hidalgo Are to Be Retired

SAN JUAN, Sept. 27 — Reconstruction Finance Corporation in Washington has instructed the Federal Reserve Bank branch in San Antonio to pay a total of $1,342,500 to holders of present outstanding bonds of Hidalgo county Water Control and Improvement District No. 2, according to J. E. Wilkins, attorney for the district.

A total of $2,513,000 in outstanding bonds are being retired under the refinancing arrangement authorized in 1924 by the R. F. C. and the disbursement order received in San Antonio enabled actual exchange of the new securities for the old bonds.

Congressman Milton H. West announced that the district's total savings on the entire indebtedness through the refinancing arrangement would amount to $2,488,727 and that a further reduction in interest rates, calculated to save another $300,000, is being sought.

Wilkins credited Congressman West's efforts with facilitating the refinancing proposal and effecting the huge saving.

Indian Tribes Hold Chicago Fete Today

CHICAGO, Sept. 27 — Indian temptations and the savage stamp of tribal dances will echo in Chicago today when scores of tribesmen from 12 Indian nations meet here in a spectacular celebration of American Indian Day.

The celebration is sponsored by the Indian Council Fire, an Indian welfare organization.

Whooping warriors on pipe tombs will charge down the old-time trails now stilled with stop lights. A night pageant will climax the celebration.

Henry Roe Cloud, president of Haskell Institute, will receive the Council Fire medal for Indian achievement and Daisy Maud Underwood, Chickasaw operatic star, will sing lyrical Indian melodies to the accompaniment of native musicians.

Bounding Main Calls Vacationing President

Again, the president turns oceanward for his vacation joys. After a nation-wide swing, punctuated by brief, non-political stops at Boulder Dam, Los Angeles and the San Diego exposition, Mr. Roosevelt will board the majestic U. S. S. Houston, above, which last year carried him to Hawaii, and enter its luxurious "presidential suite," shown at right. After some deep-sea fishing, a visit to Cores and other islands—one of which never has been visited by any white man—the chief executive will cruise through the Panama Canal. Then, as revealed on the map at right, above, the Houston may head directly northward and dock at some southern port, or steam up the Atlantic coast to Annapolis, Md.

Plans Drafted For College Building
AMARILLO, Sept. 26 — Plans have been drafted for the construction of a new $106,600 home for Amarillo college students.
The new building will be modernistic in design, of sufficient size to accommodate 400 students, and will incorporate in one structure all departments of the school.
Steel and scrap lumber from old college structures will be used for economy. The exterior of the new building will be of Terra Cotta, and the halls and staircase will be terrazo.

Says Farm Dollar Purchasing Less
CUERO, Sept. 27 - The 1935 farm dollar buys only 81 per cent as much merchandise as could be purchased for the same amount of money in the period from 1909 to 1914, according to E. R. Alexander, member of the Texas A. and M. college vocational department.
'Until such a condition is remedied,' he said in a talk here, 'there can never be a sound national farm program.'
Alexander said that industry advocates production of farm products on a normal scale, regardless of demand for such products. 'Industry is preaching, but not practicing,' he commented.
'Industry is increasing employment, but decreasing salaries. In 1929, employment showed a six per cent increase over the average established between 1923 and 1926, and payrolls an 11 per cent increase over the average.
'The figures have gradually dwindled until in 1933 employment was 67 per cent of the 1923-25 average and payrolls only 47 per cent.'
he said 'In 1935, 80 per cent of the men holding jobs during 1923-25 still had employment, but were receiving only 47 per cent as much pay as they did during the 1923-25 period.
'Buying power has been stifled, and the farmer who produces the raw materials suffers. Until the dollar the farmer receives for his products is cut a part with the dollar he must spend for products he cannot produce, we will see no sound national farm program.'
Alexander's observations were based on figures compiled by the Federal Bureau of Census.

SISTER MARY'S RECIPES

BY SISTER MARY
NEA Service Staff Writer
PROBABLY for the same reason that red blackberries are called green, unpolished rice is called brown. It really is grayish in color.
The husk has been removed but most of the bran and germ have been retained, making it richer in vitamin B and mineral content than the fine white variety most persons are familiar with.
When I want to use it as a vegetable, I choose the unpolished grain largely to get its vitamin and mineral content, not being particular about the color.
Broken rice being cheaper than fancy rice answers admirably as filler. But for fluffy, flaky, separate-kernelled rice, use whole grains.
Washing before cooking is important. Coated rice should be rubbed between the palms of the hands and washed until the water is clear, changing the water frequently. Rinse well under running water when the last washing water is clear.
Other Kinds Easier to Wash
Unpolished and uncoated rice can be washed by putting the grains in a strainer and boiling it under running water. Turn to be sure every grain is exposed to the water and becomes perfectly clean.
Rice is an exceedingly versatile foodstuff. It combines well with milk, eggs, cheese or left-over meats to make attractive and nourishing main dishes.
Rice pudding is one of the most popular desserts with our teen-folk and one of the best is orange cream rice. I send it to the table with chop-sticks. Chinese fashion, just for fun, but we resorted to our usual forks for the real business of eating the pudding after trying the chop-sticks.
Orange Cream Rice
One-half cup well washed rice, 2 cups boiling water, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 1-2 cup whipping cream, 1 cup orange juice, 3-4 cup sugar, 1 tablespoon grated orange rind, 2 large oranges.
Peel oranges and divide into segments. Free from membrane and skin. Arrange circles of orange segments on individual dessert plates and fill with rice which has been prepared as follows.
Cook rice in boiling water to which salt has been added until tender, but take care not to overcook. Drain through a colander and rinse several times in cold water, pouring water through rice. Spread on a soft clean tea towel to drain. Sprinkle with 1 teaspoon grated orange rind and fold in cream which has been whipped until stiff. Mix sugar, orange juice and grated rind and stir until sugar is dissolved. Pour over rice and chill an hour or longer.

Card School Draws 600 Young Players

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 27 — Charles Barrett, head scout for the St. Louis Cardinals, is not worried about the years ahead of baseball. He examined a crowd of 600 youngsters working out at the Cardinals' baseball school and said: "This is by far the largest baseball school attendance the Cardinals organization has ever had. It should quiet some of the doubts about a declining interest in the national game."

Iowa Schools Try Grid Teams of Six

CRESTON, Ia., Sept. 27 — To solve the small school's perpetual problem of obtaining enough football material, five Iowa high schools of small enrollment have formed a conference and agreed to develop teams of six rather than 11 players. Teams in the unique league are Cumberland, Massena, Prescott, Fontanelle and Richland. The "midget team" plan for small schools was worked out in Nebraska last year on an experimental basis. The Iowa conference is believed the first formed for a regular schedule of games.

Mrs. H. B. Hensley Luncheon Hostess At Noon Thursday

Soft shades of yellow and pink were combined making a beautiful color note for appointments for a luncheon served in the home of Mrs. H. B. Hensley for members and guests of the Y. W. A. yesterday at noon.

Snappers and rose buds centered card tables from which the delicious luncheon was served. Climaxing the year's work and making plans for initiatives for the new officers of the society constituted business session.

Present were Mesdames E. J. Poe, J. D. Franklin, J. J. Robertson, H. B. Hensley, Mesdames Helene Stokes, Faye and Elyon Holder, Lucille Flaherty, Frances and Lillian Caldwell, Mary Beth Langston, Blanche Matthews and Willie Frank Walker.

Flowers Decorate Home for 42 Party

Lovely flowers in autumn hues decorated the home of Mrs. W. H. LaRoque yesterday afternoon when she was hostess to members of the Thursday Forty-two club.

In the games Mrs. J. W. Marcell and Mrs. William Reagan tied for high score.

An attractive refreshment plate consisting of peas, salad, sandwiches, cake topped with cream was served. The hostess was assisted by Mrs. A. D. Anderson, Mrs. Lloyd LaRoque and Miss Laura Rupe. Present were Mesdames J. T. Berry, H. C. Henderson, A. J. Olson, P. P. Sheppard, C. C. Jones, J. J. Butts, William Reagan, J. B. Gate, Connie Davis, J. W. Marcell, W. P. Lee, J. T. McKisick, G. M. Stephenson.

"I've discovered Calumet's big, new 10¢ can!"

"No more 'by-guess-and-by-golly' baking in this house now!"

says Mrs. Owen H. Fleming, 1235 Judson Ave., Evanston, Ill.

Mrs. Fleming was one of the first women to get the big, new 10¢ can of Calumet, the Double-Acting Baking Powder.

"No need for any woman to take chances with her baking now," she says. "That new 10¢ can of Calumet certainly means that the very best can be bought at a bargain."

Ask your grocer to show you the new, bigger 10¢ Calumet can!

A SIMPLE TWIST... and the Easy-Off top lifts off. No straining, no broken finger-nails!

WHY DOES CALUMET give such astonishing "baking luck"? Why is Calumet different from other baking powders? Because Calumet combines two distinct leavening actions. A quick one for the mixing bowl. A slower one for the oven... And Calumet's famous double action is so perfectly balanced and controlled that it produces perfect leavening—every time.

All Calumet prices are lower! Calumet is now selling at the lowest prices in its history. The Full-Pound Can now sells regularly for only 25¢. And if you want a smaller size—get the big, new 10¢ can—a lot of good baking for a dime—with Calumet, the Double-Acting Baking Powder.
