'BONES' TRIAL OF COUPLE TO BE ON DEC. 16

RISING STAR, Nov. 7.—Defendants in the "hanging skeleton" mystery, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Henry, will answer murder charges in 91st district court here Dec. 16 in connection with the death of H. L. McBee.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry, the latter the former wife of McBee, were charged with murder in connection with the death of the former highway worker when his skeleton was found hanging from a tree in woods near Rising Star last December.

McBee's identity was established by a metal tag of the type issued to state highway department work-ers, which was found in his clothing, and recognition of dental work performed by an Eastland dentist.

Hanging by Wire
McBee's skeleton was found hanging by a wire from a tree near Rising Star on December 22 of last year when Dean Broader, 9, and Herman Eoman, 25, came upon it while hunting in the vicinity.

Residents of Rising Star recalled that McBee had vanished from the town very quietly and was not at first missed. One witness, however, claimed that he had heard quarreling in a clearing near his farm house.

Rumors were flying about Rising Star as the examining trial of the Henrys was held. Another man was at first arrested but charges against him later were dropped.

During October the Cisco office sold $8,475 worth of the bonds. This figure represents a maturity value of $11,200.

McCrea was enthusiastic over the sale of the bonds, which began last March 1. "That represents a good showing in the bond sales," he said.

Cisco Boosters To Hold Banquet On November 25

Definite setting of Monday, Nov. 25 as the date for the Cisco Boosters banquet was announced this week following the acceptance of Congressman Thomas L. Blanton of Abilene to appear as the principal speaker that evening.

Congressman Blanton had previously accepted an invitation, but the date was left open, to suit his convenience. Johnny Cox, booster president today announced that Blanton had written that the date asked would be suitable to him.

An effort will be made to have as large a crowd as possible present for the banquet, it was said today.

"We will make an effort to get as good a crowd, representing the outlying districts and nearby towns, for the banquet," a spokesman for the Boosters told the Daily News today.

SHAKEUP FOR TEXAS PRISON SYSTEM SEEN

HOUSTON, Nov. 7.—The first major shakeup in the Texas prison system under the new administration of Dave Nelson, general manager, was seen today in the resignation of Capt. Ike Kelley, director of Retriever prison farm.

Kelley's resignation, effective Dec. 1, has been accepted by the prison board here as vocational agriculture teacher in the high school, subject to approval by the Chamber of Commerce.

Caudle will fill the position vacated by the recent resignation of J. M. Bird to accept a government soil erosion service position.

The Chamber of Commerce is expected to take up Caudle's election of the position tonight at the regular semi-monthly meeting of the board of directors. The agriculture teacher is employed during the afternoons as agriculturist of the Chamber of Commerce.

It was indicated by members of the school board today that Caudle likely will be here in a few days to take over the work of his new position. Bird, who recently resigned, has been granted 30 days to report for his new work.

Caudle is now employed by the soil conservation service at Corsicana, going there from Mesquite, where he was vocational agriculture teacher for several years. He is unmarried. Caudle is a graduate of Texas A. and M. college, where he was formerly all-Southwestern basketball center.

Bird, recently resigned his position to accept a position with the soil erosion service after spending more than two years as agricultural teacher here.

C OF C RATIFIES ELECTION OF CAUDLE

Discussion of the Eastland County Livestock Show, status of highway and park projects, and ratification of the election of T. G. Caudle as agriculture secretary occupied the attention of the Cisco Chamber of Commerce as its board of directors met in regular session here Tuesday night.

The directors ratified the election by the school board of T. G. Caudle of Corsicana as vocational agriculture teacher in the high school and agriculture secretary of the Chamber of Commerce. Caudle will replace J. M. Bird, who recently resigned to accept a position with the U. S. government soil erosion service.

Bird was highly commended by the directors for his work both in the school and in the Chamber of Commerce. His work in the stock show, the F. F. A. organization, and in terracing service for farmers in this area were especially praised.

Reports were heard upon the status of the various highway projects which concern Cisco, including the Eighth street routing of Highway One, Highway 89, and the Lee Ray cutoff. The organization voted to pay $15 expense for committee work on Highway 89, which has recently been redesignated as a part of Highway One.

A Notre Dame Foray That Miscarried

Thrill-packed from the opening kickoff, Ohio State's defeat, 18-13, by an infuriated Notre Dame eleven that had trailed into the last quarter, went a long way toward deciding 1935's gridiron champions. Here Francis Layden, Notre Dame right half, is seen in the lower right-hand corner, heaving the pass that was turned into Ohio's first touchdown in the opening quarter.

Frank Antenucci, Buckeye fullback, intercepted the pass, flipped a lateral to right half Frank Boucher, who ran 65 yards for the touchdown.

T. G. Caudle New Ag Teacher For Cisco Schools

T. G. Caudle of Corsicana Monday night was elected by the school board here as vocational agriculture teacher in the high school, subject to approval by the Chamber of Commerce.

Caudle will fill the position vacated by the recent resignation of J. M. Bird to accept a government soil erosion service position.

The Chamber of Commerce is expected to take up Caudle's election of the position tonight at the regular semi-monthly meeting of the board of directors. The agriculture teacher is employed during the afternoons as agriculturist of the Chamber of Commerce.

It was indicated by members of the school board today that Caudle likely will be here in a few days to take over the work of his new position. Bird, who recently resigned, has been granted 30 days to report for his new work.

Funeral Service For Billy Sunday Delayed for Son

CHICAGO, Nov. 7.—Funeral arrangements for Rev. William (Billy) Sunday, 72, famed athletic evangelist, today awaited the arrival of his son, Paul Sunday, from Los Angeles.

Grief stricken relatives and friends of the man who estimated he had preached religion to more converts, have attended services conducted by "Billy" Sunday. His dynamic manner of expression and pugilistic emphasis had popular appeal.

Although his delivery and sermons brought criticism from church circles, he was said to have preached to more people than any other person in the history of Christianity.

He often pulled off his coat and (CONTINUED ON PAGE EIGHT)

More Than Half Last Year's Seniors Attending College Says Supt. Cluck

More than half of Cisco high school's graduating class of 1935 is attending college or university, it was announced this week by Superintendent R. M. Cluck after a check over the records.

Superintendent Cluck said that of the 72 pupils receiving diplomas last spring, 38 or 53 per cent are attending some institution of higher education.

Of the 38 in college, he pointed out, 27 have chosen Randolph college, remaining in Cisco and attending school at the same time.

Nine colleges are represented in last year's class. They are Randolph, Texas A. and M., TWC, Texas Tech, Howard Payne, CIA, Daniel Baker, McMurry, and Kent College of Ohio.

Following is a list of pupils from last year's class, and the colleges they are attending:

Randolph: Garner, Alton, O. C. Barnhill, Dary Bruce, Mignon Clark, Durene Cogburn, Varge Daniels, Elaine Exum, Earline Farmer, Maxine Gallagher, Lota Guffy, Mabel Halbert, Sybil Holder, Norvell Hudson, Enders Huey, Katherine Robertson, E. E. Richardson, Lynn Hunterman, Robert E. Lee, Shannon Sue Slaughter, Daskam Stephens, Doris Surles, Donald Surles Blodwyn Thomas, J. W. Thomas, Kithleen Wilson.

BRITAIN ASKS ITALY PUT END TO AGITATION

A new obstacle in the way of peace negotiations in Europe was seen today when it was reliably reported that Great Britain had insisted as one of the conditions for an Anglo-Italian settlement that anti-British propaganda be stopped at once in Italy.

It was believed that Mussolini would not agree to this condition and that British ships would remain in the Mediterranean Sea.

ECONOMIC RING AROUND ITALY IS TIGHTENED

The economic ring around Italy tightened today with announcement of the German government that sanctions were being applied. The United States remained the principal country from which Italy still could hope to get raw materials vital to the prosecution of the war.

Although Secretary of State Cordell Hull suggested in his statement last night that the new congress should broaden the neutrality legislation, possibly to apply a more effective embargo against a belligerent, it was made plain in Washington that the country cannot and does not intend to do anything of the sort under the present law.

The League will have to be content with the moral support of the U. S. plus any efforts the administration may make to persuade private interests to curtail exports to Italy.

On Nov. 18 the full weight of the penalties will be imposed by some 50 nations. It remains to be seen whether they will be enough to stop Mussolini, or if the British fleet will strip for action.

If the war zone the Italians resumed their advance on all parts of the northern front. The Ethiopians showed signs of resistance. There was an actual fight in the Makale region, verified by Webb Miller and the Italian government. Italian casualties were two dead and 12 wounded. The Ethiopian losses were not known and it was not clear which side won the engagement.

GERMANY DISCLOSES ITS OWN SANCTIONS

BERLIN, Nov. 7.—A government announcement today disclosed that Germany has declared an absolute embargo on arms and raw material for Italy and Ethiopia and has made preparations to embargo exports of raw materials and foodstuffs if it sees fit.

The embargo was imposed immediately on the outbreak of war and long before the League of Nations voted its penalties against Italy.

It puts Germany in a position where the nations policy for next few weeks may strengthen beyond hope of European statesmen the League of Nations efforts to penalize Italy for warring on Ethiopia and may lead to negotiations which would mean a new diplomatic lineup in Europe.

The embargo is in effect but, the announcement added, in case Germany's foodstuffs increases to the extent that it might jeopardize domestic economic interests the government will take the steps necessary to prevent danger to itself.

School at Romney To Have Carnival

Cooler Is Warmed Up With Bonfire

There was a hot time in the old town Tuesday night. At least there was a hot time in the city jail.

A woman prisoner, placed in the city cooler on a drunkenness charge, became dissatisfied and set fire to papers and bed clothing, police reported this morning. The fire was extinguished with little damage, it was reported.

Two women had been placed in the jail on drunkenness charges. One was fined and the other released on probation this morning.

A man also was jailed on a charge of intoxication but was released on bond last night.

Freedom of Press Upheld

The United States Supreme Court has upheld the freedom of the press in a landmark decision. The court ruled that the government cannot censor the press, even in times of war. This decision is a victory for the First Amendment and for the rights of the American people.

The court's decision is a clear statement of the principle that the press is a vital part of our democracy. It is the duty of the press to report the news and to hold the government accountable. Any attempt to censor the press is an attempt to undermine the very foundations of our society.

The decision is a reminder that the rights of the press are not absolute. They are subject to the same limitations as the rights of all citizens. However, the government's power to censor the press is severely limited. The court has made it clear that the press must be free to report the news without fear of government retaliation.

Corn Loan Fixed at 45 Cents

STOCK SHOW TERMED BEST EVER STAGED

Termed the most successful exhibit in its seven year history, the Eastland county livestock show closed here Saturday evening following judging of the stock.

From every standpoint the show was the best ever held here. The crowds were larger although mist and cold cut the attendance somewhat Friday. There were more animals entered and entries were much better than in the past.

G. P. Mitcham was the winner of more awards for his stock than anyone else exhibiting animals in the show. His champion cow was last year's champion at the Chicago show, while his champion ewe was the winner of second place in her division there.

J. M. Bird, vocational agriculturist and show manager said that "the show was 100 per cent better from every angle—crowds, number of entries, quality of stock, and housing—than the one last year. He was hopeful last night that the show would continue to grow and that a farm crop exhibit would be added and adequate housing for both would be provided.

Dr. F. E. Clark, general chairman of the stock show committee, was in charge of the beef cattle division. Other directors were A. Z. Myrick, dairy cattle; Wayne Thurman, sheep and goats; Dr. C. C. Jones, hogs; and Carl Siddall, horses and mules.

'Calumet sure gives you your money's worth, with that Big New 10¢ Can!'

SAYS MRS. W. W. HICKEY, OF CHICAGO, ILL.

"THERE'S a lot of good in that 10¢ can of Calumet," observes Mrs. Hickey. "It's worth more than a dime any day! Of course, with my big Calumet I get the full-pound can for only 25¢ now. As a baker, Calumet will be in my pantry!"

Grandfather Rommel, who was a baker for 40 years, says: "Calumet takes the guesswork out of the job nowadays."

LOOK AT THE NEW CALUMET CAN! A simple twist... and the Easy-Opening Top lifts off. No delay, no spilling, no broken fingernails!

WHAT makes Calumet so dependable? Why is it different from other baking powders? Calumet combines two distinct leavening actions. A quick action for the mixing bowl—set free by liquid. A slower action for the oven—set free by heat. This Double-Action produces perfect leavening.

All Calumet prices are lower! Calumet is now selling at the lowest prices in its history... The regular price of the Full-Pound Can is now only 25¢! And ask to see the new 10¢ can—a lot of good baking for a dime—with Calumet, the Double-Acting Baking Powder. A product of General Foods.

NEW DEAL IS WORRIED OVER LIVING COSTS

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7 — The New Deal, which has fathered a long list of alphabetical combinations, found a new and unwanted worry on its doorstep today.

Administration leaders frankly were concerned over the high cost of living—HCOL—as reflected in continued increases in food prices. Rents, too, are going up.

The increases have focused official attention on the bureau of labor statistics, a somewhat obscure division which gathers and compiles food data. Cabinet officers have asked to be informed on its reports.

An increase of 8 of one per cent in retail food prices in the two weeks ended October 22 caused official concern.

The report revealed it now costs the average housewife about seven per cent more, an average of $1.50 a week, to fill the family market basket than it did a year ago. It cost 25 per cent or $5 more than it did three years ago.

Window Depicts 5 Scenes During War

A pageant depicting the World War in five scenes today was shown in a window of John H. Garner's department store here. The scenes represent the various phases of the war through which the veterans passed. They are a building at home, a training camp, the ocean, a battlefield, and a poppy-dotted cemetery in France.

A contest was held in connection with the decoration, which was built by James Haynie. First place resulted in a tie between Polly Ann McDaniel and Marvin Gene Swartz. Second went to Herschel Clough, and third was a tie between Mary Caldwell and Carl Page.

He explained his pulpit vernacular by saying: "I may be crude, I use slang. But I always make myself understood. The average man — the man in the street — has only about 300 words in his vocabulary. He needs the message and I speak his language so he will understand."

Used Baseball Experience
He used his experience as a major league baseball player to increase his popular appeal. When stricken by a heart attack in Chattanooga, Tenn., May 15, 1935, Sunday said:

"I still have a third strike left." Recurrent illnesses in later years forced him to take vacations after almost each of his strenuous revivals.

His first evangelical work was as an assistant to Dr. J. Wilburn Chapman. When Dr. Chapman secured a pastorate, "Billy," as he came to be known, conducted his first revival in a small Iowa town.

His rise was meteoric. He carried his own retinue of assistants, chor., and ushers. Collections taken at his services were responsible for building of numerous tabernacles throughout the country.

Sunday's multitudinous following forced his managers to find large meeting places for the services. Often thousands were turned away nightly contributions ran into thousands of dollars.

New expressions and illustrations were frequent in his sermons, but his text almost always was the same. He preached repeatedly against "Demon Rum" and brought converts to the "Sawdust Trail" with forewarnings of "hell fire and brimstone."

Sunday said he preached old-time religion.

New Ranger Team to Meet Stubborn Loboes

PLACES TO ELEVENS ABOUT EQUAL

and greater Ranger will meet the determined Loboes when they clash on the field here Monday afternoon. The teams are expected to be about equal.

The Loboes, trampled by every team they have met so far, will be in a comeback effort. They have no stone unturned to grab victory over the Loboes.

On the other hand, the Loboes also had to take defeat at the hands of most of the other teams. They are expected to be ready to shoot their teeth against Ranger in the avenging their losses in the previous years.

The Loboes have been able to score one touchdown this season against Eastland. They failed to do. They lost while the Loboes battered the scoreless time. The Loboes have done very well against them. They have won the 7 to 0 loss to the 31 to 0 trampling time.

The Loboes began the season with a victory over Electra but have been unable to make their light team a full 60 minutes and have reserves to send in. They were beaten by fewer points at the San Angelo than was Ranger. They lost to Sweetwater by a score.

Golf Chat

By WILLIAM PHILPOTT (Professional, Cisco Country Club)

I was recently introduced to a local golfer and after the formal introduction he remarked, "From reading your golf chats I expected to find you a much older man." It is only fair to myself to explain that I was raised in an atmosphere of golf.

My father was a golf professional living near London, England, and kept open house for golfers visiting the British metropolis. Long before I gave any serious thought as to what I would do to earn a living, it was my good fortune to meet such old timers as Andrew Kirkaldy, Ben Sayers, Sr., Willie Park, Jr., Matt Dunn, Horace Hutchinson, J. H. Taylor and Harry Vardon.

Not yet in my teens, I listened to them discuss championships, golf courses and golfers and became possessed of a valuable fund of golf information.

PENN CHOOSES EAST'S TITANS FOR '36 GAMES

By ROBERT V. VERMILLION United Press Staff Correspondent

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 7 — The Quakers from the University of Pennsylvania are coming back to the big time football wars.

The Red and Blue is on the rebound from the regime of passive acceptance of defeat. The big push to regain Penn's once nation-wide football prestige is under way.

This is apparent in the sudden rebirth of campus enthusiasm and the significant action of schedule makers who have removed the "easy marks" from the Penn foot- ball program for 1936. Even the 1935 schedule felt the rejuvenation movement.

During the past decade the Quak- ers eased through a series of "soft" games, meeting an occasional major opponent.

Defeat Formerly Accepted
Defeats by smaller schools and the few major teams were accepted and forgiven. The season was con- sidered a success if Penn upset Cornell in the traditional Thank- giving Day game.

The "new deal" began discour- aging this season with defeats by Princeton and Yale. The Tigers had been off the schedule for more than 40 years. Yale also was a recent ad- dition.

Next year, Columbia, victims of Penn's sudden rejuvenation fol- lowing the first two defeats, will be replaced by Brown, expected to be a "worthy opponent."

Open With Lafayette
Returning to a custom in favor at most of the larger schools, the Quakers will open the 1936 season with a comparatively weak team, Lafayette. However, Lafayette, a traditional rival, always has been formidable on Franklin Field.

Penn then will meet Yale, Prince- ton, Brown, Navy, Michigan, Penn State and Cornell in that order.

Typical of the new spirit was campus enthusiasm reached on the eve of the Columbia game. Penn students, fired by indignation at suggestions that the team lacked courage, staged an old fashioned "Rowbottom." Opposition to the Gates Plan, which abolished the athlete's training table and im- posed other regulations tending to de- emphasize football, grew steadily.

Coach Harvey Harman believes that, discounting the slow start his predominately junior and sophomore team had this year, the revival of Pennsylvania football prestige is well on its way.

Steers Trying For Comeback on Grid

AUSTIN, Nov. 7 — Their chances in the Conference jag race vir- tually ruined by their second defeat in two starts, the University of Texas Longhorns Tuesday afternoon started pulling themselves together with a view to gaining enough vic- tories down the "home stretch" to avoid a really bad season. Three wins and three losses to date make it imperative for the Cheviggymen to win the remaining four games to approach the success of last season.

The chief concern staring the Orange and White squarely in the face this week is the Saturday en- counter with the Baylor Bears at Waco. The surprising Bruins, un- defeated until last Saturday, are the main object of the Longhorn program to break back into the win column and march in closely behind the leading teams.

Peasants Use Pigs To Find Truffles

AVIGNON, France, Nov. 7 —Pigs may be pigs in other parts of the world, but they are kings in the province of Vaucluse. Intelligent ones are prized for their ability to find truffles, and in the late fall and winter every peasant takes his pet hog to the woodlands to hunt these subterranean fungi.

When ever a pig roots out a truffle, it demands a reward, such as a few acorns, a piece of cheese or even a small truffle, and if none is forthcoming, it loses interest in the game and refuses to dig. Hogs de- tect truffles through the sense of smell, then root them out with a metal-tipped muzzle. The muzzle serves a double purpose: it is useful in the digging, for truffles often grow a depth of a foot, and it pre- vents the pig's eating them the moment they are rooted out.

Varying in size from a walnut to an orange, truffles are used in pate de foie gras, sauces, garnishings and turkey stuffing.

Trades Day Events Planned at Weslaco

WESLACO, Nov. 7—A new series of trades day events will be started by the trade expansion committee of the Weslaco Chamber of Commerce in co-operation with Weslaco merchants, according to Harry Raliff, manager of the Weslaco chamber. The series will be held each Saturday through December 7.

As a result of a questionnaire sent hundreds of families throughout the Weslaco trades territory, Weslaco merchants will offer no prizes or other special inducements for shoppers to visit the city during the series. Bargain prices and promises of courteous service are the only inducements offered. The questionnaire sent out recently revealed that farmers, particularly, were not inclined to attend special sales day events by prize awards and that they preferred to trade where prices were generally reasonable and the service good.

Merchants will use only newspaper advertising in connection with the series, a large majority of the farmers asserting that they read newspaper advertising more than any other kind and that they were more responsive to this form of advertising. Virtually all business houses in the city are co-operating in the campaign.

HOUSTON MAN RECALLS FIRST ETHIOP FIGHT

HOUSTON, Nov. 7—War drums in Ethiopia roll again for Gerolamo Licari, 64, retired Houston shoemaker, through newspaper columns. He is a veteran of the Italian campaign in 1896 when Ethiopians slaughtered his brothers-in-arms at Aduwa. Remembering his experience, he doubts whether the campaign of 1935 will succeed.

Licari was the only member of his company of Italians to survive Humbert's desire for conquest and new territory in the land of King Menelik.

Saved By Typhoid
Typhoid fever saved his life. He was in a hospital at Adigrat when 15,000 Italians battled an Ethiopian force of 160,000.

"One other man of the company was in the hospital with me," Licari recalled. "He had typhoid fever, too, and it killed him."

Ethiopia is an ill-chosen territory for a war, he declared. In 1896, the first objective taken by the Italians.

"We were there three months," Licari said. "We had fences and cross fences and the Ethiopians could not get over them. Then the water supply was low and we had to go a mile and a half to get to the tanks. The Ethiopians would try to cut us off."

Promise Violated
Licari's general was captured, but released on his promise not to fight Ethiopia again. The promise was violated and the commander was retaken at Aduwa after retreating from Makale.

"They told him they were going to take him before Menelik. He said he would not go before a hog. Menelik said that if he was a hog, then to bring the general's head to him. That was what they did."

Guerrilla warfare proved the downfall of the campaign—the tactics adopted by the defenders today. King Humbert's forces fought in groups and reinforcements almost always arrived too late, Licari said.

While the Italians fought their way over the high mountains, the Ethiopians slipped quietly through the undergrowth, sniping the enemy as they went.

The black warriors fought quietly, but when they were victorious and were "cutting up our soldiers," Licari continued, "then they shouted and danced."

At the "Mountain of the Devil," Licari saw King Menelik's fighting lions. One attacked two Italian soldiers and slashed them, but was slain.

Licari was not wounded. Five years after the war, he came to the United States and for 11 years has lived here.

He scans the newspapers avidly for news from the Ethiopian front. "I would like to go back there—not to fight, just to see those places, Adigrat, Makale, Aduwa."

"But you watch, now—they have hell. I was there."

RANGERS MAY BE CENTENNIAL GROUND GUARD

DALLAS, Nov. 7—Texas Rangers among the most colorful law enforcement figures in the world, will guard the Texas Centennial Central Exposition and will patrol the grounds both on foot and on horse if plans of the exposition's management committee materialize.

The management committee, headed by R. L. Thornton, discussed the plan with Capt. Tom Hickman of the Texas Rangers, Chief of Police R. L. Jones and acting Mayor D. R. Graham. The committee also discussed a proposal for the erection of a Texas Ranger building of logs, to furnish the atmosphere of 100 years ago when the ranger force was organized, and to establish a regular troop of rangers here during the Centennial Exposition.

Tentative plans for the exposition's police force, which, at the peak, will number about 150, calls for the appointment of each man as a Texas Ranger. They will be costumed appropriate to the general idea of the appearance of a Texas Ranger. Some of them be mounted on horses, rigged in the trappings of the West.

Quick Relief for Chills and Fever and Other Effects of Malaria!

That's what Grove's Tasteless Chill Tonic does—destroys and drives out the infection. At the same time, it builds up your system against further attack.

would be located in the southwestern corner of the exposition grounds. It would have dormitories as quarters for the troops of regular rangers and would include a corral for horses and pack trains.

Old time rangers would be invited to make the building their headquarters as long as they desired to attend the exposition.

A section of the structure would be devoted to a museum of Texas Ranger relics and would include ancient rifles and pistols, saddles and similar articles. A part of the museum would be devoted to the equipment of the modern day ranger and to a display of the means he uses in the suppression of crime.

Centennial officials expressed the belief that presentation of the Texas Ranger idea to the exposition visitors would prove one of the most attractive and interesting features, since many of the visitors will be from northern and eastern states, where the name Texas Ranger carries even more glamour than in the southwest.

The committee announced that it would continue working on this plan and that in the meantime it would take steps to assure the finest type of police organization for the celebration, regardless of whether or not the Texas Ranger idea is adopted.

A well-trained force of 40 men will be policing the grounds by April the committee said.

Leonard Pack, slated to head the exposition's police force, was present for the conference, however, the committee made no official announcement of his appointment as chief of the organization.

ALLEN MAN SEEN AS HEAD OF TEACHERS

ALLEN, Nov. 7 — South Texas school officials and instructors seeking support for Superintendent John H. Gregory of the Middle Public Schools for the president of the Texas State Teachers' association in an effort to place a Texan in that position for the first time.

The annual convention of the association will be held in San Antonio during the Thanksgiving holidays. Gregory's name will be placed on the official ballot of the association. He will be opposed by a teacher.

Gregory is superintendent of one of the Valley's largest school systems. He is a president of the South Texas division of the State Teachers' association and is president of the State Superintendents' and Principals' association. He has served as a member of the State Board of Education for seven years and has been a member in Valley school affairs.

Gregory holds a Bachelor of Arts degree from South Texas State Teachers' college in Marcos and a Master of Arts degree from the University of Missouri. He has been in school work for a year's service during the war.

Gregory is pressing his campaign. Reporters have pointed to his policies if elected president of the association. He favors the statutory limitation of a per capita appropriation of more than $17.50 per school year to the state's contribution to the support of high schools. He believes the state should bear a larger portion of school expenses with revenue derived from sources other than ad valorem taxes. He proposes a single salary schedule for teachers, with equal compensation for equal training and service. He is an advocate of a teachers' pension system, organized and administered on a statewide basis with adequate safeguards for protection of teachers' investments.

Breadon Asks Open Mondays in Leagues

SARASOTA, Fla., Nov. 7 — Sam Breadon, president of the St. Louis Cardinals and head of the far-flung Cardinals system, while here on a vacation proposed a radical departure from the daily schedule now in use by the major leagues.

Breadon proposes double-headers on Sunday with Mondays open, and he cites reasons for his suggestion. "During the past season," says the Cardinals boss, "we packed them in every Sunday, especially when we had a doubleheader. The fans came from miles around. They came when we offered a bargain day in the form of a doubleheader, but a lot of them wouldn't have come for one game."

"Monday is always a sort of off-day for us, and we never draw very well on that day, compared with the other days."

Breadon also thinks the day will appeal to players, because it will give them a day off once a week, break the monotony of a 154-game schedule with only one or two open dates.

The proposal meets with favor among baseball players who have been queried on it.

Paul Warner said, "That would be a great idea."

Lloyd Brown, Cleveland Indians pitcher, agrees with Warner, as does Willis Hudlin, another Indians hurler, and Johnny Moore, outfielder for the Phillies, and John Cooney, Dodger.

Two Wolves Taken By State Trapper

State Trapper F. B. Mathews has announced the capture of two wolves, a male and a female. They were caught on the Isenhower ranch about 12 miles southwest of Cisco.

The male wolf was a large one, weighing about 50 pounds, the trapper said. These wolves had been doing considerable damage in Eastland and Callahan counties, and about six more remain in the locality in which they were caught, according to citizens there.

SYNOPSIS
Captain Michael Andrews, of a British armored car division on the Eastern Front, is rescued from the Turks by a mysterious British secret service agent who calls himself "Smith." Andrews breaks his leg and is sent to a British hospital in Cairo. There he falls in love with his nurse, Rosemary. Rosemary tells him that she married a secret service agent who vanished at the outbreak of the war. Her husband, John Stevenson, who is "Smith," suddenly reappears and asks Rosemary to go away with him. Meanwhile Andrews is ordered to a new post in the Sudan interior. He has a quarrel with Rosemary, who, on her way home, is run down by a truck and dies in her husband's arms calling for Michael. Stevenson swears revenge and asks to be transferred to Andrews' fort. Andrews arrives at the fort before Stevenson to find the garrison slaughtered.

Andrews admiringly, nodding to the water bags. "Sergeant Bates," he commanded. "Take these. Empty 'em into the water cans. Then bar that room again."
"Er...No extra ration, sir?"
Bates licked his dry lips.
"You wait, Sergeant. I've got to talk to..." he stopped, realizing that he still didn't know "Smith's" real name. "...to this officer first. Now, Mr. X," he said, smiling at the newcomer, "come and solve our mystery."
"You'll be relieved in approximately a week," said Stevenson coldly when the two were alone in

"You know," he smiled at Stevenson when they were alone again, "I'm getting sick and tired of calling you 'this officer.'"
"My name is Stevenson," the answer was calm and slow.
"Stevenson, eh? Well what's the matter with that?" Andrews was bewildered by the fact that his visitor seemed to expect him to be in some way impressed by the name.
"That name conveys nothing," sneered the other. "Perhaps... you'd be more stirred by another name—Hayden. The first name is Rosemary. She was my wife."
"Then...then...she's told you..."

CHAPTER VIII
The three days after Prescott's departure were endured with growing misery by the relief party. The sun blazed down on the mud walls, which became too hot to touch. The little water they had taken from the radiators of the trucks was exhausted. Their tongues began to swell and their eyes held the light of fever. Yet they clung doggedly to their posts and scanned the desert for an attack which they knew could not long be delayed.

It was a sentry who gave the alarm.
"Sergeant! Sergeant!" he shouted. "There's a chap coming across the desert."

Andrews and the sergeant peered through an embrasure and studied the strange figure who was stumbling toward them, weighted down under some sort of burden.

"Let him come nearer. Then challenge," commanded the captain. "Sergeant, turn out the men; send four down to me at the gate." He hurried away.

"Halt! Who goes there," called the sentry a few minutes later.
"British. Message from G.H.Q.," came the hoarse response. The man was now near enough so that they could see he was white and that his burden consisted of two bags slung over his shoulder.

"Open the gates," ordered Andrews. As the command was obeyed John Stevenson staggered through the opening and stopped, face to face with Andrews. His uniform was stained, torn and grey with desert dust. A wound on his head was roughly bound with a handkerchief. Over his shoulder were slung two full goatskin waterbags which he lowered wearily to the ground.

"Mad Carew! How did you get here?" gasped Andrews.
"Plane!" panted Stevenson. "Shot down about twenty miles south."
"Lonely walk—with these," said

"Let him come nearer, then challenge," commanded the Captain.

a crumbling upper room of the fort. "A week!" cried Andrews, jumping from the box on which he was seated. "But the car I sent ought to be back now."
"No. It was wrecked. The sub-altern got through alone, half dead."
"But it can't be a week before they send more planes."
"There aren't any more planes," answered Stevenson, watching his enemy with steady, unwinking eyes. "The whole of the Air Force is over in Palestine where Allenby has the Turks on the run. But a column is coming from Bomania through the forest country."
"I suppose we can manage," answered Andrews, smiling. "Lucky for us you had the guts to carry those water bags twenty miles."
The sergeant entered at that moment and reported that the water had been cared for and sentries posted. "Any further orders?" he asked.
"Yes. Tell the sentries to keep their eyes open, this officer's plane was shot down only twenty miles from here."

about me?" asked Andrews after a long silence.
"She...mentioned your name just before she died."
"Died?" Andrews was stunned.
"But...how?"
"She was run over," answered Stevenson in a flat monotone. "Her back was broken."
Andrews stared unbelievably for a moment, then his eyes closed as if to shut out a dreadful picture. His head fell forward. At the same moment Stevenson let his cold mask slip. His face twisted with hatred.
"She was killed the night you left Cairo," he cried hoarsely. "Five minutes after your last meeting. She may have deliberately killed herself; it may have been an accident. But if you'd left her alone, she'd have it now."
The secret agent's hand dropped to the revolver in the holster at his side. Slowly...deliberately he drew the gun.
"You've killed her...now I'm going to kill you," he announced in a matter-of-fact tone.

BUT NO CHANCE OF DAMAGE... HIS ENGINE stays oiled

Today you can use a winter oil which builds itself right into the "innards" of your engine. That is, a certain portion of Conoco Germ Processed Oil really forms a BOND with metals, and stays on continuous duty where all the worst friction used to come.

This uncanny action, created by the patented Conoco Germ Process, automatically wipes out the costliest winter wear...

"Dry," un lubricated, wracking starts? ...Not with the oil that's Germ Processed to stay up on the job every minute, every hour, every day that you park—"whatever the weather"...Not when Germ Processed Oil has become a part of all metal surfaces... Not with the Hidden Quart, which has enabled many an engine to run with the crankcase absolutely empty—in verified show-down tests.

And this same patented Germ Process means extra protection not only for the conventional ball-bearing bearings, but for the newest bearings—whether copper-lead, high-lead or cadmium-alloy. Germ Processing also creates the high durability oil film... hence a light, free-flowing winter oil that's tougher too, for the toughest going of all the year. You and your Conoco man can make this whole Winter "act gentle" to your motor, beginning today. Drive in.

POPPY DAY TO BE OBSERVED BY AUXILIARY

Plans for the observance of Poppy Day here on Monday, Nov. 11 were announced by Mrs. James Haynie, poppy committee chairman of the John Wm. Butts unit of the American Legion Auxiliary, following a special meeting of the committee. Organization of a corps of volunteer workers to carry out the distribution of the memorial poppies throughout the city was completed and leaders appointed to direct the work in the various areas.

"The American Legion Auxiliary poppies will be distributed entirely by volunteer workers," said Mrs. Haynie. "The response to our call for volunteers has been very gratifying from both our senior and junior members, and we will be able to give everyone in the city an opportunity to wear a poppy on Poppy Day. As the workers will serve entirely without pay or commission, every penny contributed in exchange for the flowers will go for the welfare activities of the Legion and Auxiliary.

"The enthusiasm of our women for the Poppy Day project is one of the two great purposes which the little memorial flower achieves. First, it pays tribute to those gallant young men who sacrificed their lives in defense of American ideals on the poppy-studded battle fields of France and Belgium. Second, it raises funds for the relief and rehabilitation of the living victims of the war, the disabled veterans, their families and the families of the dead. We are hoping that the people of Cisco will understand the significance of the poppy and give us their support on Poppy Day."

Superintendent Is No-Billed By Jury

EASTLAND, Nov. 7 — Albert Pierce Carbon school superintendent who was charged with assault in connection with the shooting of W. H. Gilbert, retired farmer, Friday, was no-billed by the district grand jury here.

Louis Dolberry, 18, charged with murder in connection with the death of his cousin, Wayne Dolberry, on Sept. 22, also was no-billed. John Chapman, Gorman justice of the peace, reported that the girl died from eating food containing a poison, an analysis of the viscera showed.

Cotton Grade For Season Is Lower

For the past five weeks, including the week covered by the bureau of agricultural economics report, the proportions of the principal grades and staple lengths, comprising samples classed each week from Texas ginnings, have held to rather consistent figures. For example, the proportion for cotton shorter than 7-8 inch has been approximately 20 per cent of each week's classing for the past five weeks. The proportion representing strict middling and better grades white and extra white has been about 20 per cent of the total each week except for last week when the proportion for this designation was only 15 per cent.

It is of particular interest to note that the proportions for the higher grades, representing cotton classed each week, have been larger during the last eight or nine weeks than they were the first six or seven weeks of this season. The average grade this season up to this time is considerably lower than the average grade for the corresponding period last year.

Weslaco Planning Birthday Affair

WESLACO, Nov. 7 — A total of 17 committees are now actively at work on the annual Weslaco Birthday Party December 11 and 12, according to announcement of Gus Kaufman, general chairman. The event will celebrate the fifteenth anniversary of the city's founding.

The last committee chairman to be appointed was Mrs. R. M. Gilmore, who will head the group arranging for the citrus-vegetable style show, in which girls and young women fashion dresses from vegetables and citrus fruits and leaves. Entrants this year will parade a year over a "boardwalk" a block in length to provide all spectators with views of the colorful costumes. More than 40 varieties of agricultural products were utilized in fashioning the costumes last year.

An added feature of the annual celebration will be the horse show to be directed by Fred Turner. A number of fine blooded horses are expected to be entered in the show, and Turner stated that free food and shelter would be provided for animals entered.

TERRACE WILL PAY FOR LAND SAYS EXPERT

DALHART, Nov. 7 — Terraces and contour farming not only provides the Panhandle farmer the best protection against destructive wind erosion but over a ten-year period will pay for his land, according to Harley A. Daniel, acting director of the Goodwell experiment station.

A ten-year experiment, closing this year, shows wheat production has increased and average of 31-38 bushels per acre by terracing. When the terrace gain in grain per acre was multiplied by the average annual price of grain, based on the Kansas City market, the total calculated increase in per-acre income was $23.33. Figures on increased production were learned by measuring yields on terraced soil with those on adjacent unterraced land.

Terracing costs on the Dalhart Soil Conservation project average says H. H. Finnell regional conservator, 77 cents per acre, (exclusive of labor which can be supplied by the farmer). Quoting Finnell further, Daniel says extra cost of cultivating contoured land is from 20 to 50 cents an acre per year. Taking ten top of 50 cents, that means in ten years that terracing and contouring costs the farmer $5.77 extra, while his production nets him $23.33. Net gain per acre is $17.56.

Terracing and contouring, by holding moisture where it falls, assures a vegetative cover for all parts of the field against wind erosion.

ITALIAN ECONOMIC RING TIGHTENING

GERMANY APPLIES EMBARGO UPON ARMS, RAW MATERIALS; UNITED STATES HOPE OF ITALY

The economic ring around Italy tightened today with announcement of the German government that sanctions were being applied. The United States remained the principal country from which Italy still could hope to get raw materials vital to the prosecution of the war.

Although Secretary of State Cordell Hull suggested in his statement last night that the new congress should broaden the neutrality legislation, possibly to apply a more effective embargo against a belligerent, it was made plain in Washington that this country cannot and does not intend to do anything of the sort under the present law.

TAXATION IN LIMELIGHT OF LEGISLATURE

AUSTIN, Nov. 7 — Liquor regulation was sidetracked temporarily today while taxes took the limelight in the Texas legislature. The house omnibus bill failed to find a sponsor in the senate. Senator W. R. Poage, Waco, moved to take it up but with the announced intention of substituting a proposed tax on natural resources.

The League will have to be content with the moral support of the U. S. plus any efforts the administration may make to persuade private interests to curtail exports to Italy.

On Nov. 18 the full weight of the penalties will be imposed by some 50 nations. It remains to be seen whether they will be enough to stop Mussolini, or if the British fleet will strip for action.

If the war zone the Italians resumed their advance on all parts of the northern front. The Ethiopians showed signs of resistance. There was an actual fight in the Makale region, verified by Webb Miller and the Italian government. Italian casualties were two dead and 12 wounded. The Ethiopian losses were not known and it was not clear which side won the engagement.

GERMANY DISCLOSES ITS OWN SANCTIONS

BERLIN, Nov. 7 — A government pronouncement today disclosed that Germany has declared an absolute embargo on arms and raw material for Italy and Ethiopia and has made preparations to embargo exports of raw materials and foodstuffs if it sees fit.

The embargo was imposed immediately on the outbreak of war and long before the League of Nations voted its penalties against Italy.

It puts Germany in a position where the nations policy for next few weeks may strengthen beyond hope of European statesmen. The League of Nations efforts to penalize Italy for warring on Ethiopia and may lead to negotiations which would mean a new diplomatic line-up in Europe.

The embargo is in effect but, the pronouncement added, in case Germany's foodstuffs increases to the extent that it might jeopardize domestic economic interests, the government will take the steps necessary to prevent danger to itself.

NEW STAMPS ARRIVE, MAIL SPEED SHOWN

Arrival of the new issue of airmail special delivery stamps and fast airmail service were announced today by Postmaster Luther McCrea.

The new stamps, on sale now at the post office here, are blue on white paper and are in the 16 cent denomination which includes both airmail and special delivery. At the top of the stamp is the word "Airmail" while at the right is "Special Delivery." "U. S. Postage" is printed down the left side of the stamp. The nation's coat of arms is in the center and under it is the price of the stamp.

McCrea pointed out that by mailing a letter so that it leaves Cisco on the 4:30 train in the afternoon, one is assured that it will be delivered in Chicago, Washington, or New York as soon as the post offices open there at 7:30 a. m. the next day. Arrival at Chicago is 2:31 a. m.; at New York, 4:20 a. m.; and at Washington shortly after 4 a. m. Leaving here at the same time, he said, a letter will reach Los Angeles at 7 a. m. the next day, or at Seattle at 3:50 p. m.

First Prison System Shakeup Seen

CAPT. KELLEY RESIGNS POST AT RETRIEVE

By United Press
HOUSTON, Nov. 7 — The first major shakeup in the Texas prison system under the new administration of Dave Nelson, general manager, was seen today in the resignation of Capt. Ike Kelley, director of Retrieve prison farm.

Kelley's resignation, effective Dec. 1, has been accepted by the prison board, Chairman W. A. Paddock announced. Rube Connor, Houston, former city manager, and farm manager for the prison system, will succeed him.

Kelley's administration was under fire several months ago after two of the prison board charged farm guards with brutality which led to self mutilation by prisoners.

Lee Simmons, who was succeeded as general manager by Nelson on Nov. 1, reported convicts chopped off hands and legs in efforts to bring about the discharge of Kelley. An investigation of the mutilation exonerated Kelley.

The most desperate criminals of the system are at Retrieve but only five have escaped during Kelley's administration. Simmons said the manager was the "best in the system."

The policy of giving convicts more axes "so they can chop themselves" as an alternative to escape led to bitter opposition to Simmons and his ultimate resignation.

Honors for Dolfuss Are Long Delayed

VIENNA, Nov. 7 — Austria wants to erect a Dolfuss national memorial but despite almost a year of pondering and pocket-searching has been unable to find either an idea which it considers worthy of the "Martyr-Chancellor" nor the funds to develop a definite plan.

Colonel Walter Adams, commissar of home service and executive secretary of the Fatherland Front, is the head of a memorial committee which so far has been unable to make any headway. A number of proposals have been made but none was considered appropriate; hence all were rejected at least temporarily.

Proposals of two memorials, sketches for which were submitted in an open competition, were granted equal shares in the second and third prizes.

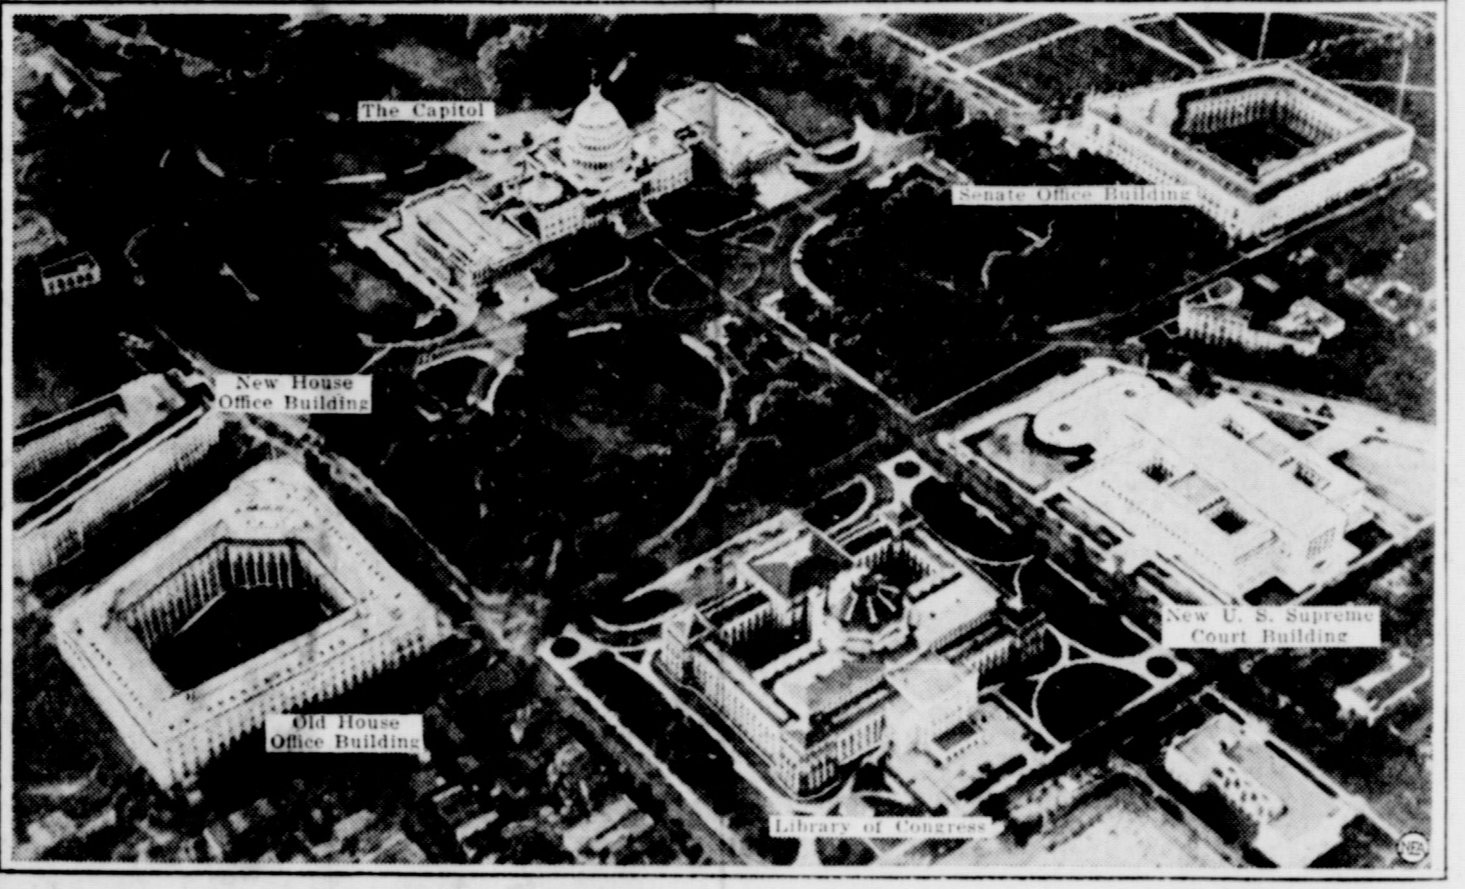

The first prize, however has not been awarded. Some believe that a combination of the ideas of the two which won the second and third prizes has been agreed on by the committee as the basis for the memorial. Popular subscription has been opened but so far as can be ascertained the amount contributed is only a small part of what will be required for any kind of a memorial which would be considered impressive enough.

Officially it is stated that the first prize is still open and that new plans will be considered this fall.

Capitol Hill Presents New Aspect to Flying Cameraman

COUNTY WHEAT PROGRAM WILL BEGIN FRIDAY

The wheat program will get under way in this county Friday, Nov. 8, according to word from the county agent's office.

Eastland county has been allotted 9,333 acres and 111,000 bushels of wheat. Under the terms of a wheat contract, a producer is guaranteed a parity price for 54 per cent of his allotment, and his sales are not limited, his compliance with the contract being based entirely on the number of acres seeded and the use of the acreage retired from wheat production. The secretary of agriculture has set five per cent as the reduction in acreage for the 1936 crop year.

Those interested in going into this adjustment program can meet with the local committeemen as follows, and discuss the matter with them:

Cisco, Chamber of Commerce, Friday, Nov. 8, with Roy Plippen and O. C. Holcomb.

Eastland, county agent's office, Saturday, Nov. 9, with A. M. Hearn, O. C. Bennett, I. S. Echols, and J. G. Medford.

Ranger, Chamber of Commerce, Monday, Nov. 11, with Walter Duncan and Leslie Hagaman.

Farmers may call any time from 8 until 5 o'clock at these places on dates shown.

Cotton Chief To Speak at Temple

Mr. C. A. Cobb, director of the cotton section of the United States department of agriculture will meet with farmers of this section at Temple on Nov. 12 at 10 o'clock to discuss Cotton Adjustment, present and future aspects. All farmers who can, are urged by the county agent to go on above date and hear Cobb discuss this important subject.

Three Missionaries Named by Bishops

By United Press
HOUSTON, Nov. 7 — Vacancies in three missionary districts of the Protestant Episcopal church were filled by house of bishops legislative body in annual session here.

Bishop Frederick Bartlett, N. D., will be transferred to Idaho, leaving the North Dakota district vacant until the meeting of the house of bishops at Chicago in 1936. A post in Tokio will be taken over by Charles Reifandier, now in the Orient. Leopold Kroil, dean of Holy Trinity Cathedral and Theological seminary at Port Au Prince, Haiti, will be sent to Liberia.

The vacancies occurred through resignation.

If the government of the United States has gone through some drastic changes in the last few years, so has the outward aspect of Capitol Hill as strikingly shown in this new airview. The new house and senate office buildings and the supreme court building are the unfamiliar structures pointed out to the air traveler over Washington. The rear of the capitol is seen here. The White House lies a mile and a half beyond the Capitol's front.

Billy Sunday Was Sought By Ciscoans

The famed Billy Sunday, baseball playing evangelist who died last night, was sought last spring for a revival meeting here this fall, it was revealed today.

It was understood that Cisco pastors considered bringing the famed evangelist here for a meeting and there was some correspondence on the matter, but nothing ever developed.

Sunday once held a meeting in Fort Worth during the oil boom and came to Ranger where he addressed thousands of persons. Boyce House, in his recent book, "Were You in Ranger?" describes the meeting attended by thousands, including oil men, teamsters, chorus girls, and many others.

80,000,000 Hearers
More than 80,000,000 persons, many of whom "hit the sawdust trail" to become converts, have attended services conducted by "Billy" Sunday. His dynamic manner of expression and pugilistic emphasis had popular appeal.

Although his delivery and sermons brought criticism from church circles, he was said to have preached to more people than any other person in the history of Christianity.

He often pulled off his coat and

NEW DEAL IS WORRIED OVER LIVING COSTS

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7 — The New Deal, which has fathered a long list of alphabetical combinations, found a new and unwanted worry crying on its doorstep today.

Administration leaders frankly were concerned over the high cost of living—HCOL—as reflected in continued increases in food prices.

Rents, too, are going up. The increases have focused official attention on the bureau of labor and statistics, a somewhat obscure division which gathers and compiles food date. Cabinet officers have asked to be informed on its reports.

An increase of 8 of one per cent in retail food prices in the two weeks ended October 22 caused official concern.

The report revealed it now costs the average housewife about seven per cent more, an average of $1.50 a week, to fill the family market basket than it did a year ago. It cost 25 per cent or $5 more than it did three years ago.

Sunday, noted baseball player, has been called to his home... for many years he has been a noted character... one of the vigorous type of preachers who went to the gospel to a type of man otherwise would never have heard the words of a preacher... did not like his style... recently the Lord has used unusual types of workers... played his part....

Hitler has been largely silent for many weeks... the hints at friendliness toward the efforts... in the face of the fact that he recently withdrew from body... When nations through leaders are so insincere in their move, changing as their self-interest dictates, it would appear to most hopeless to expect the ordinary citizen to develop strong indignation for determined right, regardless of selfish interests... a bad moral example... making a bigger task for the church to counteract this degrading of the moral standard set by Christ... A challenge to churches preachers everywhere... It will be met....

The dampness continues, but over the fact that we in this part of the country have spent most of our lives wishing for rain, it would seem unbecoming to complain now but we do fear that peanuts may rot and may be damaged or ruined....

Freedom of Press Upheld

The right of newspapers of Texas to publish accounts of court trials was upheld yesterday when the state court of criminal appeals discharged six journalists from contempt charges after they had violated an order from a district judge not to print a report of a trial.

The case served as much more than merely the freeing of six men from charges of contempt of court. It served as notice that the state of Texas—like the United States—recognizes the freedom of the press.

In foreign countries—Italy, Russia, and Germany, for example—the government controls what appears in the various newspapers. In Italy Mussolini is the state. If he orders the papers to print an attack or a defense of a policy, the papers print it. The same is true in the other nations using a newspaper censorship.

The six men who faced the contempt charges which they knew would be forthcoming if they printed the story of the trial in defiance of the district judge's order were fighting for what they believed to be their constitutional right, the freedom of the press. They risked a court sentence when they might easily have backed down and waited until the three trials were over and the verdicts in. But they were serving their readers, people who were depending upon them to print the news. They did not disappoint their public. They fought for what they believed was their right, and they won.

The opinion of the appeals court, which was concurred in by all of the justices of the court, served as something more than a protection of the rights of the newspapers. It served as a guarantee of the right of every individual to fair and open trial.

Had the district judge's order prohibiting the publishing of an account of the trial been sustained, there would have been considerable doubt as to whether the trial itself was an open one. This evidently was in the mind of Associate Justice George Christian when he wrote: "It appears to us that Judge Munson unduly stresses the tendency of accurate newspaper reports of public trials to embarrass the administration of justice. Under our statute even opinions formed from reading accounts may not disqualify a juror from sitting in particular cases. The law throws adequate safeguards around the accused. The trial court is empowered to order a change of venue on its own motion. The accused may have a change of venue upon making the showing required by the statute."

A fair and open jury trial, freedom of speech, and freedom of the press are three of the important pillars of our government. At least two of these principles were upheld in yesterday's court decision.

Cisco's High School Record

A check of pupils who were graduated from Cisco high school last spring reveals that of the 72 receiving diplomas there are now 38 attending some institution of higher learning. That is 53 per cent of the total number graduated.

The usual number of high school graduates attending college is about 30 per cent of the entire class. That means that Cisco high school has nearly twice the percentage of its graduates attending college as the average school.

This speaks very well indeed for the Cisco public school system. It means that it is well among the leaders of the state, as well as high in the nation in the percentage of pupils it sends to the colleges and universities.

The 32 pupils attending college represent nine different schools, eight of them scattered over Texas. Of the number attending colleges, 27, or about 85 per cent, are remaining at home and attending school at Randolph college.

JEAN DUNN, secretary to DON-ALD MONAGHAN, lawyer, delays her answer when BOBBY WALZACE, automobile salesman, asks her to marry him. BOBBY WALZACE, whose business connection is vague, Sandy introduces Bobby and Jean to a Mr. and Mrs. LEWIS. Bobby sells some bonds for Lewis, who buys a car.

LARRY GLEN, federal agent, is trailing WINGY LEWIS, bank robber. He learns about the bank transaction and questions Bobby. The bonds were stolen. Larry believes the car Lewis bought is stolen. Bobby undertakes to find out.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XXXII

THE federal men pushed Doc Jeckers ahead of them, into a room which seemed to be both living room and waiting room, and dumped him unceremoniously into a chair. While Larry Glenn and Matthews stood by him, Gundersen walked through the apartment to the back, opened a window and stuck his head out. In the alley, loitering at the gate in the old board fence, were Al Peters and Tony LaRocco.

"Hey," yelled Gundersen. "Come on up, gents."

He returned to the front room. Doc Jeckers was still glaring up in helpless defiance at his captors. "Now that you're here, what do you want?" he demanded. "You know that warrant don't mean anything. It's easy to get one, but making it stick is something else. What do you want?"

"You, chiefly," said Larry calmly. He whistled softly, as if preoccupied with something else, and looked with studied care all about the little room. While he was doing so—and while the prisoner eyed him with uneasy wariness—the hall door opened and LaRocco and Peters appeared.

"Well, boys," said Larry, "we might as well find out what sort of place the doctor has got here."

Gundersen pulled up a chair and sat with his knees touching Jeckers', looking at the shrunken little man with an air of amiable message. The other four men immediately set to work to show how trained, experienced detectives act when they are giving an apartment a search.

They went through the little living room with a fine-tooth comb. They penetrated into an inner office, with a surgery adjoining it, and pried there. They went on to bedroom, bathroom and kitchen; and half an hour later they returned to the room where the doctor sat, looking as if he had discovered ample evidence of untold infamies.

"How about it, Jeckers," said Matthews suddenly, coming to a halt in front of the little man, his hands on his hips. "Want to tell us all about it?"

"All about what?" said the little doctor. Matthews looked at him contemptuously. "You wouldn't know, would you?" he mused. "Well, this isn't a very good place to talk anyway. Let's all go downtown to my office. It's more homey there, somehow. I'm sure we'll get on better."

THE prisoner looked up appreciatively. Gundersen, with exaggerated gentleness, helped him to his feet, and rested one hand gently on his upper arm.

"Don't try to make a break for it as we go down to the car," advised Gundersen shortly. "I might get excited and hurt you."

He grimaced, and shepherded the doctor toward the door. In the foyer the little man resisted passively. "Wait," he begged. "If we're going downtown—let me get some—some stuff together first."

Larry Glenn and Matthews exchanged glances. "Where do you keep it?" asked Larry. The doctor stared at him for a long moment; then he shrugged, helplessly.

"In the surgery," he said. "If you're such good searchers, you must've seen it. Top right drawer of the mahogany cabinet."

Tony LaRocco went into the surgery and came back with a small round pill box. He held it up with the question, "This?" Doc Jeckers nodded and held out his hand for it. Larry took the box and pocketed it, shaking his head.

"Not now, Doc," he said. "After we've talked."

They made the trip back to the Division of Investigation offices without incident. Matthews led the way into his inner office, where Jeckers was planted in a chair, with the five agents grouped about him in an irregular semicircle.

Larry sat on a desk, his hands clasped about one knee. "I'm not going to call you doctor," he began. "You're a disgrace to the medical profession. If I say 'Doc' it's just a handy nickname, not an abbreviation for doctor. See?"

Jeckers looked up impassively, as if insults had long lost all power to stir him.

"Within the last three days," said Larry, "you gave treatment to a man suffering from a bullet wound—in the shoulder? Thanks, and Jeckers stared up: "I didn't say yes! I didn't say a damn thing. You can't frame me that way!"

"Nobody's framing you. You treated a man who had been shot through the shoulder. I want to know who the man was, where you treated him, who called you, where the man was staying, and who was with him. I'm reminding you now that by treating this man you made yourself liable to a prison term. You may be able to help yourself somewhat by giving me this information."

UNEXPECTEDLY, Jeckers leaned forward confidentially and tapped Larry on the knee. "Listen," he said, grinning sardonically. "I been around here a long, long time, and I know a lot of birds that're so hard they make you He the government men look like Sunday School boys. And if you think that you can make me turn cooper—"

"Okay," said Larry calmly. "Can we let him cool a while?" He turned to Matthews, who opened the door to a small waiting room which opened off his office.

Jeckers came in. "Gundersen, you better sit here, too—he might take it into his head to go out the window."

Gundersen sat down, tilted his chair back against the wall, and lit a cigar. Jeckers looked about him irresolutely, sank into a chair, and fixed his gaze on Gundersen's capacious boots. The other three returned to Matthews' office, closing the door behind them.

"Well, it may be a long wait," said Larry. "But it'll work in the end. Especially since that man has been using the coke so long that he needs about four times as much as the ordinary cokey. He does, anyhow. If I'm any good at spotting a cokey by sight—and I've seen quite a few."

LARRY suggested that Matthews L park the three men from Dover in another office, so that he could interrupt, and the Chicagoan installed them in a room a few doors down the corridor. There they grouped themselves about a table, tabulating and comparing their discoveries—meager enough, as far as their immediate purposes were concerned—which they had made that morning in Jeckers' office.

"Well, we've done our good deed for the day, whatever happens," said Larry at last, leaning back in his chair. "We've landed old Doc Jeckers—and if we should fail to make this rap stick, the Chicago police will undoubtedly have plenty to hang on the old bird to put him away for a good stretch. And that's really a good deed."

"It's a long, long chain," he said meditatively. "The chain that keeps organized crime going. The bandits are the smallest part of it. It's the crooks down along the line who make it possible for the gunmen to operate, that we want."

"Well, we've snapped one link in the chain here this morning. And when we get back to Dover we're going to snap a few more. And meanwhile—"

Lunch time came and went, and the afternoon wore along. At last Matthews tapped on the door. "Come along," he said. "He's cracking."

They hurried to Matthews' office. Through the door where Gundersen was keeping his weary vigil they heard a pleading voice—a voice whose utter lack of self-control and complete, shameless abasement were somehow unspeakably horrible to hear.

"For the love of God," came a hoarse cry, "give me that little box! I'm dying! See—I can't stand still! It's killing me! Please, please, man—God!"

Larry looked at Matthews with narrowed eyes.

"This isn't a pleasant trick," he said, "but there's no dodging it." He opened the door. Jeckers was pacing the floor feverishly.

"Please, mister, for the love of God—" he began. Larry drew him to his feet and thrust him into a chair.

"Steady!" he barked. Jeckers, momentarily calmed, looked up questioningly. "Answer the questions I asked you this morning," said Larry, "and you can have your box. I promise you."

He held the box aloft. Jeckers wrung his hands frantically. "I'll talk! I'll talk! I'll tell you everything!" he cried.

"HONOR DEAD, SERVE LIVING" MOORE URGES

"Honor the dead and serve the living" is the message which the memorial poppies will bring to the people of Cisco on Poppy Day, November 11th, Rex W. Moore, commander of John William Butts post of the American Legion, in a statement today urging all veterans to give fullest support to the Poppy Day observance.

"Men who served in France have an indelible picture of the poppies in their minds, closely associated with the memory of their comrades whom they left overseas," the commander said. "Soon after the American Legion was organized, the poppy was adopted as its memorial flower and the custom adopted of wearing the flower on Armistice or Memorial Day in tribute to the war dead."

"The distribution of the poppies on Poppy Day was placed by the Legion in the hands of those loyal, patriotic women who compose the American Legion Auxiliary. Through their volunteer efforts they recall for all America the inspiring services of the men who died in the poppy flecked battle fields of France and Belgium. They also raise funds for the Legion and Auxiliary welfare work among those who were not called upon to die, but to sacrifice strength and health in the nation's defense, the disabled veterans, and for the families of the dead and disabled."

"The message of the poppy is 'Honor the dead and serve the living,' for each wearer of the memorial flower makes some contribution to aid the war's living victims. Every Legionnaire, of course, every veteran and every patriotic citizen should have a poppy in his button hole on Monday, November 11th."

Biggest Crowd Due for Log Tilt

WILL BE ONLY HOLIDAY GAME THIS SEASON

Blender-Cisco game Monday to draw the largest crowd of the season in Cisco this season.

Business men who are unable to see the game are planning to spend the day in the stands at Chesley to see the Armistice Day game.

The game will be the only holiday game this season, the Armistice tilt played in the Eagle city. Business houses except drug and service stations in Cisco closed in commemoration of the armistice, it was announced yesterday by the Retail Merchants association. The public also will observe the holiday.

Business houses also will close for the day. Bulldog fans will be disappointed to learn that the team has not yet won a grid game this fall, but will present the team on Monday that it will play on all Sunday. The Bulldogs are a new starting lineup and are expected to uphold tradition and keep their position as the old regular starters.

The game will be a conference game but will be played at the Maverick schoolhouse. The Mavericks will be the only team to play at the schoolhouse.

Recognition for the Southwestern conference. The conference is to go on the air.

The United Press yesterday released an interview between Sam H. Berry, vice president of the Columbia Broadcasting System, and the president of the Southwestern Broadcasting company, in which the former gave strong indications that the SMU-TCU game will be put on the air in a national broadcast, with Ted Husing, account executive, giving a play account of the game.

It also was reported saying that the TCU-Rice game would be broadcast by his network.

SMU and TCU are being played on the Pacific coast as the Rose Bowl contenders. Berry said in the interview that the team has yet been defeated, the outcome of the Thanksgiving clash between them may make who is to get the invitation to the annual coast classic.

They will journey to the coast this weekend to play UCLA. If they remain undefeated, through the season, they may get the bid. If they lose only the game.

with the Christians, the latter may be asked to face a Pacific Coast team.

Whichever—if either—of the teams goes to California the Southwest will get a lot more recognition in the sports world. First of all, both of the teams are strong and will make worthy opponents for any eleven. Second, the Southwest teams are colorful. Whereas other sections of the country may rely upon a close or fairly conservative game, the Texans apparently throw caution to the wind and open up the game, giving the cash customers their money's worth.

In a game such as the Rose Bowl affair, the cash customers count plenty, and keeping them satisfied is one of the big problems of the invitation committee.

Golf Chat
By WILLIAM PHILPOTT (Professional, Cisco Country Club)

Iron clubs of the present day have just a number to designate them and their purpose. A few years ago iron clubs had no number but a name such as mid-iron, mashie, jigger, niblick and so on. The names were the modernized version of the old Scotch irons.

The Scotchman in the early days of the game had a track iron, road iron, creek, lofter, sand iron, etc. These clubs were crudely made with a sheepskin grip padded to suit the needs of the owner. Usually the shaft was curved slightly in an outward direction from the player as this was considered to give better balance to the club.

Outstanding Band To Play in Cisco

One of radioland's outstanding bands is being brought to Lake Cisco Amusement company's big lake-side pavilion for the Armistice Day dance. Manager P. G. Berry announced this week.

He is Glen Lee, late from a seven-months engagement at Terrace Gardens, Morison hotel, Chicago, and now playing at the Adolphus hotel, Dallas, and broadcasting over KRLD and the Southwest Broadcasting system.

Lee and his orchestra are under the management of the Music Corporation of America.

A limit of 450 couples has been placed on this dance by Berry, who expects a demand for tickets that cannot be satisfied. A price of $2 plus tax will be charged, an extremely low price for the quality of music.

Berry recently came to the management of the Cisco resort after five years spent away. He was the manager who opened the resort in 1927.

a sermon. If enthusiasm waxed warmer, he removed his collar and tie.

He explained his pulpit vernacular by saying:
"I may be crude I use slang. But
I always make myself understood.
The average man—the man in the street—has only about 300 words in his vocabulary. He needs the message and I speak his language so he will understand."

Used Baseball Experience
He used his experience as a major league baseball player to increase his popular appeal. When stricken by a heart attack in Chat-taanooga, Tenn., May 15, 1935, Sunday said:

"I still have a third strike left."
Recurrent illnesses in later years forced him to take vacations after almost each of his strenuous sermons. He was confined several times with more serious ailments.

Stamina and determination were built by Sunday during his major league baseball career.

He joined "Cap" Anson's Chicago baseball team in 1883. The club won two championships in the five years he played. He was with Pittsburgh two years and concluded his baseball career in 1891 after playing with Philadelphia.

Native of Iowa
Sunday was born in Ames, Ia.,
Nov. 19, 1863, the son of William and Mary Jane Sunday. The father was with the Union Army at the time and died in service without seeing the child.

The boy spent most of his early life with a grandfather at Ames and at the Soldiers Orphans' Home.
He later went to work at Marshalltown, Ia., and began his baseball career there. He helped the town win the Iowa state baseball championship, 15 to 6, from Des Moines. Sunday scored six runs. Anson scouted the game and offered
Sunday a contract to play in the Chicago outfield.

He retired from baseball at the height of his career to accept an Mission in Chicago.

Became Evangelical Assistant
His first evangelical work was as an assistant to Dr. J. Wilburn Chapman. When Dr. Chapman returned a pastor, "Billy" as he came to be known, conducted his first revival in a small Iowa town.

His rise was meteoric. He carried his own retinue of assistants, chorists and ushers. Collections taken at his services were responsible for building of numerous tabernacles throughout the country.

Sunday's multitudinous following forced his managers to find large meeting places for the services. Often thousands were turned away nightly contributions ran into thousands of dollars.

New expressions and illustrations were frequent in his sermons, but his text almost always was the same.
He preached repeatedly against "Demon Rum" and brought converts to the "Sawdust Trail" with fore-warnings of "hell fire and brimstone."

Preached Old-time Religion
Sunday said he preached old-time religion.

"It never changes I read the newspapers. I keep up with what sions and illustrations. It's just like putting a new frame around an old picture—the picture is unchanged."

Sunday was graduated from Nevada, Ia., high school. He studied at Northwestern university at Evanston, Ill. The Westminster college of Pennsylvania conferred a Doctor of Divinity degree upon him.

He was ordained a Presbyterian minister by the Chicago Presbytery in 1903, but he never gave up evangelism.

He married Helen T. Thompson,
Chicago, in 188. He constantly referred to her as "Ma." Sunday always was at his side and
