WAR DECLARED ON DRUNKEN DRIVING

About Our Friends
By STEF A. LONG

Joe Boatman, who lives in the Cottonwood school community, about 10 miles northwest of Cisco, just south of highway 23, brought to our office Friday an old Eye-Hoe and which appeared to be a two edge pick. The sixteenth century pick which he found near the skeleton of a man buried between two large rocks....

About twenty years ago Mr. Boatman found what appeared to him to be a grave between these rocks, the opening being walled up with rough masonry. Going after a pick, he soon uncovered the skeleton and these pieces of steel tool, all of which were not over two feet deep from the top soil....

The steel hoe was much different from that used in this country some forty or fifty years ago, and likely far antedated that period. Whether the man was an Indian, Spaniard or some early adventurer, it has not been determined. The masonry was rough, without mortar, but with a keystone to hold the rocks in place. The fact that these implements were buried with the body have added to the belief that the man was perhaps an Indian, as it was customary to bury those things with a dead warrior's body....

A. Z. Myrick, whose home burned the past week, says that the service of the utilities companies of Cisco should be commended. With-

AUSTIN, Feb. 1—(U.P.)—Enthusiastic endorsement of both state and national administrations was voiced in resolution adopted by the Texas democratic executive committee here today in a session marked by a spirited attack on Governor Al Landon of Kansas by Governor Allred, guest speaker.

Six changes in the committee membership of 31 were made because of ineligibility. New members of the committee are for State Senatorial District 9, S. F. Leslie, Bonham; District 12, Dudley Farris, Ennis; District 13, Robert Peterson, Marlin; District 15, Charles Fertsch, Hallettsville; District 25, H. H. Jackson, Coleman; District 30, Sam Richardson.

There was much laughter at his sallies against Landon and former President Herbert Hoover. He used few words on Hoover. "In all the republican party there has been only one member who has not conceded since the disastrous defeat of Herbert Hoover in 1932 that they foisted off on the people the worst, the most costly mistake in all history when they nominated and helped elect Herbert Hoover in 1928," said Allred.

Reviews Record On Landon Allred reviewed the record of past statements as Senator Joe Robinson did at Al Smith. For this purpose Allred used recent efforts to control oil production. He quoted from a conference held in Washington.

At the same time, the grand jury called for a stricter enforcement regarding minor infractions of the law, as handled by constables and justices of the peace in this county.

TEACHERS OF COUNTY SEEK IMPROVEMENT

Work toward establishing a professional library for teachers, affiliating public school music in the high schools, unification of English texts, and improving the county interscholastic League meet occupied the attention of the Eastland County Teachers' association at Eastland Saturday in its first regular meeting since organization last fall.

The library will be financed with a part of the membership fee assessed all teachers belonging to the association. Superintendent E. H. Dawson of Rising Star spoke briefly on the library plans.

War on the Drunken Driver

Recognition of the danger from drunken driving maniacs is due to be one of the important events in this part of the state as well as over much of the rest of the nation during the next few months. In an editorial last Tuesday under the caption "Eliminate the Driving Maniacs," the Daily News called upon the people of the state to make laws for safety on the highways and then demand that they be enforced. The ninety-first district grand jury, reporting Friday night, pointed out "the inherent and serious dangers incident to the driving of motor vehicles upon the streets and highways while the drivers are under the influence of intoxicating liquor." In other words, the grand jury was repeating what the Daily News had said in recognizing the danger from drunken driving and in saying: "We recommend as strongly as we know how that proper steps be taken to curb and bring to an end this practice, and to that end we earnestly request the assistance of the entire citizenship and the hearty and complete cooperation of all agencies." The public need only to be aroused to the danger a drunken driver can cause. Public sentiment can do more to get the laws enforced than anything else. The people should demand that the laws governing drinking and driving be enforced. Too frequently the killer has been excused for one reason or another. Upon the people rests the responsibility of seeing that such drivers are prosecuted. Upon them also rests the responsibility of enforcing the laws as jurors and honest citizens whose own lives and those of their families may be threatened next. Now is the time to stop the drunken driving. This is election year. Before a citizen casts his ballot he should know whether the man he is voting for will help in stamping out this greatest of the highway menaces. Then he should do his part in helping to create sentiment against the drunken driver.

Allred Will Not Call Session Now

Governor James V. Allred continues to hold the fort. He sounded the legislative mind and the legislative mind failed to recognize the invitation. Now he has stated emphatically that he will not call the legislature immediately to raise the revenue for old age pensions. Let us forget, the poll of legislators failed to reveal clearly sentiment for a session although a majority of those who answered Allred's inquiry favored "one before the primaries in July." There were two called sessions of the legislature. These called sessions enacted a pension law. They adjourned without providing the revenue for the pensions. It is the

Behind the Scenes in Washington

WASHINGTON.—Although the national social security program calls for no tax collections until next year, racketeers are stealing early. Both employers and employees already are being victimized through misrepresentations of its requirements. One racket is the persuasion of employers that reports required from them are so complicated and difficult as to call for installation of special accounting systems—and even for special business machines. Some agents are selling systems of accounting alleged to be "approved" by the Social Security Board, whereas they actually aren't any special authorized or approved systems. At social security headquarters it is insisted that no more accounting is required for federal unemployment tax records than the ordinary employer goes through in compiling his payroll. The facts required are chiefly the number of employees, names, amount of money paid, and when employees worked. Old age benefit reports will require little more information, chiefly as to ages of individuals. Reports have been received of employers who are deducting from pay envelopes to meet expenses they themselves are expected to pay and of others who intend to pay no taxes for factory workers engaged on piecework. FROM Ohio, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, and Illinois have come copies of questionnaires distributed to employers which appear to seek information helpful in thwarting union activities. They are believed to have been distributed by a manufacturers' organization or "strike-breaking agency." A typical questionnaire, issued by the tire company, demands answers to 32 questions, whereas the regulations would require the answers to only 10.

NO, NO — THE AGRICULTURAL ACT WAS THROWN OUT BY A MILLING COMPANY CASE! IT WAS THE INDUSTRIAL ACT THAT WAS ENDED BY A CRATE OF POULTRY duty of the governor to recommend. It is the province of the legislature to enact laws and supply the revenue. As for the pension act, the law will be effective Feb. 14. Organization work is stupendous; the law requires each application to be investigated and for this and various other reasons, the governor said he deemed it inadvisable to call a session until the set-up is completed and requirements of the law have been obtained. Money talks and the liquor license money will be used to pay the pensioners as long as it lasts—this at the proper time. Seriously speaking, the cost of the session would go beyond $100,000. That sum would pay a lot of pensions and place relief in the pockets of many of those who are clamoring for action. Senator Roy Sanderford is ambitious to be governor of Texas. He demands immediate action on the part of the governor and the legislature. Well the senator and all his fellow members (in both houses) have the constitutional right to issue a call for a session. They know the road to travel. If they are seeking responsibility the road is wide open to all comers who are representatives of the people—as well as those who are practical politicians.

UNDER THE DOME AT AUSTIN

By GORDON K. SHEARER United Press Staff Correspondent AUSTIN, Feb. 1.—(AP)—The state democratic convention will be held on May 26. It will name, perhaps instruct, the Texas delegation to the Democratic National convention in Philadelphia. First steps toward selection of the Texas delegation will be taken today. The Texas convention four years ago was overwhelmingly a "Garner for President" meeting. The delegates, however, seized the opportunity to elect the vice-presidency for Texas. Fort Worth and Dallas probably would trade votes on the May convention for votes on meeting place of the Sept. 8 state convention which will follow the state democratic primary, certify its candidates and draft a state party platform. That convention will be at a time when Fort Worth is having its Frontier Show and Dallas the Centennial Exposition. "Texas Heroes" to be displayed at the state building at the Dallas exposition will be eight feet in height. The figures will be portrait-statues in bronze, similar to the figures of noted Southerners in the "South Memorial" entrance to the campus of the University of Texas. The figures for the "South Memorial" were done by Pompeo Coppini, who will also prepare the statues of Austin, Houston, Lamar, Travis, Fannin, and Rank for the Centennial. Murals in the state building also will bear the features of those who played prominent parts in the early history of Texas. Groups of opposing explorers and settlers will approach each other in a huge wall painting. From one end of the panel will advance Cabeza de Vaca, LaSalle, Coronado and the Franciscans with their Indian converts. Mexican leaders will be near the center on that side. From the other end will come Nolan, McGee, Long and other Anglo-Saxon explorers, then Austin, Houston and others who took part in the Texas Revolution of 1836. Where the two groups meet will be representations of Goliad, the Alamo, San Jacinto and an allegorical representation of the Republic of Texas. Texas senators who attend an Austin dinner for Major General A. D. McRae, Vancouver, B. C., envied the general his civil status. He is senator for life in Canada. They contrasted that blissful situation with their own frequent campaigns. The Senator-General, however, does not view the life senatorship as an unqualified success. He expects that in the future Senators will be retired at a fixed age—probably 75. "But many members who have passed that age are valuable," Gen. McRae added. McRae has turned to the United States, and in the United States to Texas, as the most promising place for money making at this period. He has been notably successful in the East Texas oil field. P. D. (Pat) Bowen, manager for the Canadian general's Texas properties, also is a believer in Texas. He first invested in a Texas ranch, came to Texas to see it, liked the state and entered the oil business. Standing together at the bar of the U. S. District court this week, former Justice T. B. Greenwood of the Texas Supreme Court and Attorney General William McCraw asked permission to practice before the court, along with the newest attorneys. Several assistant attorneys general made the same application. It is necessary for a lawyer to have permission to appear before any Federal court. They may have pleaded before the United States Supreme Court but if they wish to practice in an inferior federal court the same procedure is necessary.

The federal district court in Austin also witnessed the Americanization of a state employe. Jacobus Leonardus Gubbes renounced allegiance to Holland. He is known more generally as Jac Gubbes, landscaping engineer for the State Highway Department. His "first papers" declaring intent to become an American citizen were held sufficient for his state employe, especially since his expert services were much sought. In another federal court at Houston, Attorney General McCraw summed up the defense of the state's natural gas laws with this tribute: "They close the door to the desire of your neighbor to gain possession of your gas deposits. They remove from your neighbor the fear that you will gain possession of his. They prevent the inequitable and unfair practice of skimming the cream and leaving the bulk of the gas deposits to be possessed only at such high cost that much never will be recovered. They force an end of underground waste. They limit production to useful market demand and thus let the excess remain wasteless and perfect warehouse, until it is needed for a legitimate purpose." William Mennike, a familiar figure about the state capitol since 1920, will celebrate his golden wedding anniversary on January 31. Born in San Francisco in 1862, Mennike came to Texas in 1871. In 1886 he married Miss Hedig Marburger of Shelby. He was tax collector of Fayette County from 1905 to 1920 when he joined the clerical staff of State Comptroller Lon A. Smith. He has been in the comptroller's office continuously since that time. The Mennikes have six children and 17 grand children. The children are Max C. Mennike and Mrs. Mima Moore, Houston; Mrs. Max Ehlers and Mrs. Evelyn Roberts, La Grange; Mrs. Leila Kainer, Port Arthur and Mrs. Edna Boddy, Caldwell.

SIGN CAUSES COLDS AUSTIN—(AP)—Members of a University of Texas fraternity who believe in signs recently suffered bad colds—in tribute to their faith. During "dead week" before final examinations fraternity members hung a sign "Scarlet Fever Inside" on the door to keep visitors from bothering them. Fellow members came back to the house, saw the sign, and refused to go inside. They spent the night outside, and the next day bad colds of the "campers" were the only sign of illness in the house.

MENTALLY ILL SAYS SCIENCE OF GROUNDHOG

By GEORGE KIDD
United Press Staff Correspondent
Toledo, Feb. 1. —(UP)—If the groundhog isn't a good weather prophet today, blame it on his endocrine glands.

He'll probably be so sleepy he can't come above ground if he wants to, a Toledo biologist says, and furthermore, he may not bob up until late February or even March.

Not only that, he may hibernate in summer as well as winter. It seems, he's as unpredictable a fellow as the weather he is supposed to forecast.

Why groundhogs hide in their burrows the winter-long has been one of the riddles of physiology.

Prof. John M. Condrin, of the University of Toledo biology department, after a series of experiments, is convinced the endocrine gland has something to do with it.

Disputes Old Theory

During the inactive period of hibernation, the animals' life processes slacken and his body temperature drops, he explained. Hibernation has been attributed previously to lack of food and exhaustion.

Condrin, performed by Condrin, said that various glands of the hibernating animal are deficient during winter months, causing an unstable condition. This is accompanied by a reduction of sugar and reduced blood count, none of which seems to worry the groundhog, who merely sleeps it off.

Experiments With Gland

To prove the relation between glandular action and hibernation, Condrin removed the pituitary gland from the brain of a groundhog, causing the animal to go into a state of artificial hibernation.

"Winter sleep," as hibernation sometimes is called, is a misleading term, Condrin said, because hibernation may occur in summer. No groundhogs may appear at all Sunday, Condrin believes the first groundhogs do not emerge from their burrows until the last of February or the first of March.

Water Short Course To Be February 10

A. and M. College will be host for the Eighteenth Annual Water Works Short Course the week of February 10, according to L. C. Billings of Dallas, president, Texas division, southwest section, American Water Works Association.

The school will have two divisions—one for water superintendents and the other for operators of filter plants, softening plants and iron removal plants. Lectures and demonstrations will be given on the needs for each type of operator by specialists in their lines, including practical men from city water departments and teachers from A and M, Baylor, and Hardin-Simmons Universities.

A system of grading water plant operators is in effect and an examination will be given at the close of the meeting to enable men to qualify for one of the three classes of operators license. Cities recognize the value of these short courses and send their operators for instruction and to qualify for operators license.
