COLDEST WAVE THIS WINTER STRIKES

TEMPERATURE IN CISCO HITS 8 DEGREE LOW

A month of almost continuous cold weather here this morning saw the mercury dipping to a low of 8 degrees for this winter. The low reading was shown on the West Texas Utilities thermometer at 7 a. m. At 6 p. m. yesterday the mercury stood at 22 degrees. By midnight it had dropped to 15. It continued dropping until it hit the low and began a slow rise, reaching 20 degrees at noon and 28 at 2:30.

The fourth severe cold wave of winter pushed its icy grip Tuesday to the gulf coast and far south into the usually warm lower Rio Grande valley. Illness and suffering were made acute in many localities.

Only cloudiness at Brownsville was expected to save citrus orchards and winter gardens from the blight of a north wind which drove the temperature to the freezing point of 32 degrees.

Austin, state capitol, felt the coldest weather of the winter as the weather bureau there recorded an official reading of 17 exceeding the previous low of 22.

The new flu wave struck the capitol just after an influenza epidemic had caused schools to close and filled hospitals with university students. State departments and courts were hampered by illness of many employes, one fourth of the personnel of the capitol being ill.

Trapped as they slept in a tourist cabin which was ignited by a camp fire, Mrs. Maggie Calvin, 38, and Charles Johnson, 35, were burned to death today at Houston. The states to Louisiana, Mississippi and Alabama.

Amartillo shivered as the temperature dropped to 4 above zero. The frigid blast caused other low readings, such as 10 at Dallas and Fort Worth, 12 at Palestine, 32 at El Paso, 24 at Del Rio, and 20 at San Antonio. Even Galveston, facing on the warm waters of the gulf reported 28 degrees.

Government weather reports showed that the huge mass of cold air extended from Canada down the valleys of the Mississippi, Missouri, and Ohio rivers across midwestern states to Louisiana, Mississippi and Alabama.

Biting northwest winds held back rescuers cutting through deep snowdrifts with food and medicine for shivering residents facing starvation in marooned Iowa and South Dakota towns. With six deaths from escaping gas and six killed in a snow slide near Cortez, Colo., the death toll of the month-long cold wave mounted to more than 375.

ALLOWABLE OF OIL INCREASED IN NEW ORDER

AUSTIN, Feb. 18—(U.P.)—Increase of 35,700 barrels in the United States bureau of mines estimated market demand for Texas oil in March was announced today at the statewide proportion hearing of the state railroad commission.

The new estimate is 1,063,300 barrels, compared with a 1,063,300 barrel forecast for February. The latter figure was 51,300 barrels above the estimated January market demand, giving a total increase of 87,000 barrels since January 1. The North Ward field asked restoration of a former reduction, the Gulf Production company announcing the increase was needed for a Sweetwater refinery. The field formerly was reduced from 7,600 to 6,150 barrels a day.

One Flier Killed as Army Plane Crashes

'CHUTE' JUMP SAVES SECOND OF AVIATORS

BULLETIN
SOUR LAKE, Feb. 18—(U.P.)—Lieutenant Lawrence Westley, 20, Galveston, was killed today when his parachute failed to check his fall from 200 feet after a leap from his disabled army plane. Sgt. W. J. Klissell, Detroit, landed safely.

SOUR LAKE, Feb. 18—(U.P.)—One man was reported killed and another saved his life by leaping from a crashing army plane near here today.

The plane fell in a field. An employee of a local undertaking company said an ambulance had been dispatched to the scene immediately but details of the accident were not learned.

"Some men saw the plane fall. They saw one man jump out with a parachute. The wind was blowing hard and he drifted quite a distance away," the employee said.

"One man still was in the plane when they reached it but he was dead. The man with the parachute had not returned."

Neither of the occupants was identified. Officers left to learn where the plane was from.

Slain Author Believed Cult Victim

Illness, Weather Hit Attendance at School

Illness today was conspiring with Old Man Winter to cut the attendance at Cisco schools, it was announced this afternoon by Superintendent R. N. Cluck. Cluck said that the most common cause of low attendance in the schools in recent days has been colds which have attacked pupils and teachers alike.

Approximately 15 per cent of the pupils in the school system were absent today, he said, with 12 per cent absent from the high school.

Cluck said that there did not appear to be a definite epidemic, but that many severe colds and some cases of influenza and pneumonia have been reported.

Held in Mystery

Known to colleagues as "Moony" because of his strange actions when the moon was full, Frederick Hansen (above), retired New York police sergeant, was held for mental observation as a result of volunteering to help Minnesota, L. I. police to solve the murders of Mary Ellen O'Connor, school girl and Fred Hart, a saloonkeeper. Hart's murder was attributed to the mysterious 3X, who terrorized Queens more than five years ago.

Chaco War Veterans Gain Control Of Paraguay in Revolt; President Quits

ASUNCION, Paraguay, Feb. 18—(U.P.)—Chaco war veterans of the Chaco war, charging they had been betrayed by political leaders, claimed full control of the country today after a swift, efficient revolt against peace terms negotiated by the government and approved by congress.

President Eusebio Ayala was a refugee on a gunboat in the Paraguay river and chiefs of the revolt announced he gave them his resignation.

The rebel officers will form a temporary government. Complete calm was reported throughout the country by the revolution chiefs. Business houses reopened here and crowds filled the streets, seeking to satisfy their curiosity over the new situation. Casualty estimates had not been made.

FUNERAL RITES FOR MRS. DAVIS AWAITING KIN

Funeral arrangements had not been completed today for Mrs. C. A. (Ola) Davis who died this morning at 11:40, pending the arrival of relatives.

Mrs. Davis, 27, became ill Friday and was rushed to the Graham's sanitarium this morning. She came to Cisco in 1934 from Dallas where she had finished taking a beauty course. She was born May 26, 1908 in Leon county. Mrs. Davis was owner and operator of the Davis Beauty Shop, 209 West Sixth street, where she contacted many Cisco people and made a great number of friends. It was announced that her body may be shipped to Sweetwater for burial. Green's Funeral Home is in charge.

Survivors are: the husband, the mother, Mrs. W. C. Sapp of Sweetwater; and five sisters, Mrs. Lorene Sorrell, Sweetwater, Mrs. Ethel DeWitt, San Angelo, Mrs. Ila Mae Duley, San Angelo, Mrs. Lola Williams, a twin sister, Merkel, and Miss Nellie Fay Sapp, who made her home here with Mrs. Davis.

DALLAS, Feb. 18—(U.P.)—Democratic leaders here expressed concern today over reports from Washington that Governor James Allred's name was not included on the committee of Texans named by Vice President John Garner to conduct the national campaign in this state.

The designations were made by Garner as democratic national committeeman for Texas.

O'CONNOR CHARGES PRIEST 'MALIGNED, SCANDALIZED' HOUSE, BUT APOLOGIZES FOR THREAT TO KICK HIM

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18—(U.P.)—Representative John J. O'Connor, D. N. Y., strode out on the house floor today to charge that the Rev. Charles Coughlin had "maligned and scandalized" the house of representatives. The short, sandy-haired chairman of the rules committee resumed his battle with the Detroit priest in stirring fashion, keeping up the exchange of fire which began when Father Coughlin charged O'Connor with blocking the Frazier-Lemke farm mortgage bill.

O'Connor, in reply, offered to kick Father Coughlin "from the capitol to the White House" and it was stated the priest would arrive here next week to accept the challenge.

O'Connor, however, apologized in his speech for saying he would kick the priest from the capitol to the White House. "I'm not proud of that I'm sorry for it, but like the great clergyman, I am of Irish blood too," he said.

500 CRIPPLES ARE AIDED IN JOB TRAINING

By RICHARD M. MOREHEAD
United Press Staff Correspondent
AUSTIN, Feb. 18—(U.P.)—Since 1929, more than 4,500 crippled Texans have been aided through the vocational rehabilitation division of the state department of education.

Training for many resulted in self-supporting jobs for more than 800 directly from the service. Others were employed without assistance from the service. At the same time about 450 adults whose injuries make them incapable of support without special training are being taught in schools and colleges.

Hardly a county is without some person who has been "made over" by the department of education's action. The infirm and blind are aided with a stock of candies, pretzels, and peanuts in the foyer of a hospital or public building. Numerous persons have been set in business this way.

The able-bodied are taught some 150. Many leatherworkers, woodworkers, weavers, have been taught to follow such handicrafts. Their products have been sold. The legislature in 1929 made the first appropriation for vocational rehabilitation work. Since then, aided by the federal government, the service has expanded.

Fund Increased
The original state appropriation was $12,500. In 1931, the legislature added $30,000 per year to be matched by federal aid. Last year the fund was increased to $75,000 a year. More than 3,500 adult cripples in Texas are eligible for training. Last year 210 were put to work after being taught useful trades. Sixty-five of the 450 now in training are at the University of Texas; 140 are at M. college. Others are sent to

CCC Camp Due for the State Park

Ever since Cisco first had ambitions to be a city it has had the ambition to have a state park in the canyon area north and east of the townsite. From time to time that ambition has flared up and it has seemed that it might be realized. But each time something has happened to prevent it.

It was announced yesterday, however, that the State Parks Board has recommended that a CCC camp be sent to Cisco on April 1 to work toward the goal of a state park.

This is further along than the plan has ever been before, with the possible exception of the approval of the camp and park, only to have Cisco lopped off the list because of lack of available funds.

The project goes from Austin to the regional headquarters of the National Parks Service at Oklahoma City. It is believed that the project will win approval there, as it already has at Austin. From there the project will go to Washington to the national headquarters of the National Parks Service.

The Parks Service will have to pass upon the CCC camp here before it can be located. But before it gives its approval to the project Congressman Thomas L. Blanton of Abilene, representative from this district, will be consulted upon the matter. In view of the fact that the congressman is familiar with the situation and that the Texas organization has approved the project already, the fate of the camp and consequently the park will rest largely in his hands. Congressman Blanton promised Cisco, at a banquet at which he was the principal speaker, that the camp here would be one of the first two new locations as soon as camps are available for moving.

The next camp shift is April 1. That means that, provided the project passes the Oklahoma City regional office, the camp will be asked by the representative and likely will be set up here within the next two months.

Sensible Repatriation

The latest campaign of the Mexican government to repatriate thousands of its jobless citizens living in the United States is good news to American labor.

A recent official government estimate showed 500,000 Mexicans living in the United States, mostly in the southwest. A large number of them are on the dole.

Now the Mexican government is renewing its effort to return most of this native population to the Mexican state. The plan is to provide transportation across the border and to settle the families in agricultural colonies. This appears to be sound rehabilitation on the part of the Mexicans and coming at a time when employment is unobtainable for millions in the United States, cannot fail to appeal to our own people.

Behind the Scenes in Washington

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
SNA Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON—Higher income tax on the well-to-do, increased inheritance taxes on the wealthy, and restrictive excess profits taxes on processors who have been recovering AAA taxes through the rebate system—these are the answer to recent jobs in the budget.

Proposed new tax legislation, if administration plans are not revised, will call for a billion dollars or more of levies to meet costs of the new farm program, the bonus, and the rebate or withholding of processing taxes under the old AAA program.

Most sensational aspects of the plan are its "sunk the rich" phases and its objective of insuring lower prices for consumers by re-enactment of processing taxes at substantially lower rates.

Simultaneously, Roosevelt plans a belligerent counter-blow at backers of the American Liberty League and other wealthy groups which oppose him, an attractive alternative for the consumer for millions of city consumers who have resented higher food prices.

The administration wants to raise about $500,000,000 to pay for its farm relief-soil conservation program for the next fiscal year.

It seeks nearly $200,000,000 with which to pay off moral obligations and liquidating expenses under the old AAA contract system.

It wants $250,000,000 to apply against extra bonus payment expenses of which $90,000,000 would be for this fiscal year and $160,000,000 for next year.

The latter figure would be an annual expense, due to immediate bonus payment, spread

The TVA Decision

The supreme court's action yesterday in upholding constitutionality of the Tennessee Valley Authority booms the chances of the New Deal to succeed in the coming election and restores much of the confidence of the people in it.

Many had looked forward to the decision as just another of the supreme court in which it would throw out the administration's experiment and write a zero in its place. Instead, however, many were frankly surprised at the turn of events, while democrats were jubilant over the fact that this measure had been upheld and in such a manner as to give the right of way to other vast experiments.

The decision was much more convincing than have been others in the very recent past and gave the New Deal more prestige in that there was only one dissenter among the nine justices.

Chief Justice Charles Evans Hughes, reading the opinion of the court, upheld the following rights of the federal government:

- 1.—The right to build Wilson Dam, key structure of the TVA, under war powers and powers of aiding navigation.
- 2.—The right to sell power produced at dams so constructed.
- 3.—The right to build transmission lines to transport such power to a reasonable market.

Many persons had looked for the court to uphold the first of these three rights but to deny the others, thus taking away "power yardstick" which has been mentioned so frequently in recent months.

Much tension has been taken out of the situation in which many democrats were frankly critical of the supreme court, following invalidation of other important experiments, such as NRA and AAA. One point has been overlooked, however. Whereas the new dealers had a possible issue over the supreme court for their political thunder this summer, most of that has now been taken away. But as a whole, the decision Monday probably did more to boom the administration than any other single thing that has happened in recent months.

Wild West Memory Will Be Recalled

DALLAS Feb. 18.—(UP)—Memories of the "wild west" of pioneer days, often celebrated in story and song, will be recalled in the Texas cattle country during 1936 in many rodeo and pioneer round-up celebrations planned in conjunction with the Centennial year observance.

Plans are now going forward to stage scores of thrilling western entertainments during 1936 for Texans and their visitors from outside the state. Some of the celebrations to be repeated this year, such as Midland's Western Rodeo and Stamford's Cowboy Reunion are nationally famous.

Fort Worth, center of the widespread Southwestern cattle industry will take the lead with its Southwestern Exposition and Fat Stock show in March and the Texas Frontier Centennial from June 8, to Dec. 1, in which the "Gateway to the West" will present a four months "Western Life" celebration and jubilee.

Thrills in true wild west style will be offered at San Angelo in March and pioneer day celebrations at Plainview and Floydada in May.

Oyster Industry Plans Rebuilding

CORPUS CHRISTI, Feb. 18.—(UP)—A movement to rebuild the oyster industry on the Texas Gulf Coast has been started by the executive committee of the Texas Oyster Conference.

Goal of the movement is to surpass the production of a dozen years when more than 350,000 bushels of oysters were removed from Texas Gulf waters annually. The 1935 yield was approximately 15,000 bushels.

The Texas Oyster Conference will work as an advisory body to the Texas Game, Fish and Oyster Commission. Roland Laird, Corpus Christi, chairman of the executive committee, reported that approximately 2,500 acres of bay bottom from Galveston to Corpus Christi was under cultivation.

State law permits leasing of 100 acres of individuals for oyster cultivation, Laird said, and survey

27 Billion Feet Of Gas in Texas

HOUSTON, Feb. 18.—(UP)—Texas natural gas wells have a daily production capacity of 27,782,181,000 cubic feet—more than enough to supply the needs of the entire United States, according to the Texas Railroad Commission.

The wells are not permitted to flow freely, however, because the commission estimates the daily need is only 1,584,895,000 cubic feet and has ordered the wells prorated to meet the demand.

The Texas Panhandle field, the largest in the world, is allowed to produce 1,203,541,000 cubic feet of the total allowable production.

"The big racket in this country right now is the numbers racket. The football pool is no small turkey around Thanksgiving time. But they're just a chiseling game on a big scale. Now you take the jewel thieves—"

Dirk was watching the old dowager, Madame Doeremus, seat herself for dinner, close by. Her companion, the mousy little girl, was trying to quiet her, but Madame, slightly deaf, went right on talking in loud, stentorian tones which everyone in the salon could have heard.

The dining room was crowded now, and they looked about them to see three hundred guests merged into one indistinguishable mass of fine clothes under the soft lights. There was a sound as of buzzing bees, people talked and laid plans to satisfy their various desires. And there were perhaps three hundred human wills at that moment working at cross purposes.

He paused to watch two sleekly dressed individuals enter the dining room, walking stiffly past their table. "Times Square," he said, low. "That was Dutch Lenz, and bless me! your drinking pal of a few minutes ago."

CRUISE TO NOWHERE

tion. "That is Tino Rossi, the Italian baritone." * * * Dirk watched his triumphal progress through the room, the cyprus of all feminine eyes. Tino walked toward a table where sat a boy and a girl who seemed to be engaged in themselves. They did not look up when Tino approached them.

The boy had a tanned face, and was regarding the blond girl with an intent gaze. He merely looked at her, smiling a little lazily, not taking his eyes from her when he had short puffs on his cigar. But it was a respectful look, too. He looked at her as if he adored her.

"New, you take that pair," Snowshoes commented expertly. "They're in love." Dirk laughed. "I recognize the symptoms. Do you know who they are?"

"Sure. A house detective don't miss anybody. He's the crooner with the orchestra. Ken Martin, used to be a farm boy. She's the dancer, Linda Bayes, late of Tony's night club in New York. The pair of them are the floor show of this ship."

When Tino Rossi presented himself at their table the boy stood up, and glanced at the orchestra stand. It was time for him to sing again. He got up, and walked nonchalantly toward the stand. The orchestra began to play, and Ken Martin sang. "I don't like crooners," the dowager said loudly, loud enough for every person in the room to hear her. "I came on board to get a rest from them."

For some reason Dirk found himself watching Tino Rossi and the girl, Linda Bayes, at the table. While the boy sang they talked in low voices and once, at something Tino said, Linda flushed sharply. She was so unflustered that she dropped her cigarette. Tino was seated at her side against the wall. He reached out and caught her wrist, and Dirk distinctly saw him twist it. It was a nasty, swift torture, and the girl's features winced.

Dirk almost rose up out of his chair, but Snowshoes said, "Easy. Seems as if our fine baritone loves the dancer, too." "He has a quaint way of showing his love," Dirk said hotly. "I'd like to paste him on his noble Byronic brow. That crooner had better not see what I did, or there'll be murder on board. Crooner or no crooner, I'll bet he'd fight for that girl."

colleges elsewhere; put in shoe shops; beauty parlors; barber colleges; business colleges; dressmaking establishments; and radio shops. One trade at which cripples have become very successful is in carpentering.

Greatest need in Texas now is for "opportunity schools," officials of the department of education say. Eight such schools care for those persons not able to secure admittance to schools for the blind, deaf and dumb, yet not able to attend regular public schools or colleges. Half-blind, half-deaf, half-dumb youngsters are handicapped and embarrassed in public schools. Their afflictions are not such that special state institutions can admit them.

In larger cities of the state, "opportunity schools" have been set up to aid this in-between class. With federal aid, the service is expected to be extended to smaller communities where operation of a special school for one or two handicapped persons would not be practical.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to express our heartfelt appreciation and gratitude for the many attentions and words of kindness during the long illness of our loved one. Each word and attention, however great or small, was a great help to us in bearing our sorrow. For the wonderful floral offerings and sympathies we are deeply grateful.

To the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers and to the local railroad men we extend our appreciation for their services and floral offerings to their past friend and brother worker.

May God bless you all.

Gonzales Planning Terracing Program

GONZALES, Feb. 18 — (U.P.) — Farms of Gonzales county have asked Commissioners Court for assistance in a terracing program to prevent erosion of valuable lands.

S. H. Burchard, chairman of the County Council of Agriculture, told the commissioners that terracing is necessary to conserve farms from erosion which rapidly is depreciating the county's tax rolls.

The county was asked to provide terracing equipment in each precinct to be purchased and paid for out of a special fund which would be created by farmers who use the terracing equipment.

"I think the first move must be on the part of the farmers themselves," Burchard said. "They should form units in all parts of the county. I think the plan can be worked out if the farmers work with us."

County Agent E. L. Moore foresaw little difficulty in placing the program in operation by next August.

CITY TO DRESS UP
PHILADELPHIA — (U.P.) — City Hall will begin to peer out from the grime of decades in a short time, and before the Democratic convention in June will be scrubbed clean. The "face-lifting" operation was made possible by a $2,000,000 WPA loan.
