50 MEMBERS ARE ASSURED FOR MEETING

J. A. Jensen, red headed Norwegian with a sunny smile, speaks some very sound philosophy regarding the young man of today in his relation to the economic situation... A few years ago it was the young man's age... if you were just forty it was hard to hold your job...

More than 50 members today were assured for the organization meeting of the Cisco Junior Chamber of Commerce at its first smoker in the Laguna hotel this evening... The announcement was made at a meeting of workers held this morning for the purpose of checking over final arrangements for the smoker.

Only this morning another merchant is complaining because a young person employed by him is not making use of the hours set apart for that work... drawing pay and presuming on his or her value to the firm by chatting with friends...

Tax Plan Praised and Condemned

President Roosevelt always faces the issue. When he starts, he is ambitious to go all the road—and not half the road. His White House proposal that the $620,000,000 addition to corporate industry annual tax bill through a major revision of the federal system "stirred an obviously apprehensive congress to immediate controversy." This is campaign election year and the verdict of November will give the control of the federal government to the Roosevelt administration or to the republicans and their corporation allies who are classed as democrats but who are said to be friends of the Liberty League.

In a special message, President Roosevelt suggested that farm relief and payment of the soldier bonus be financed from a tax "on profits which corporations amass in their treasuries as surplus instead of distributing as dividends." In both the message and at his press conference, the president condemned the "accumulation of undistributed profits as a method of evading taxation." Indeed, the message termed this an evil "that has now reached disturbing proportions from its standpoint of the inequality it represents and its serious effect on the federal revenue." Many representatives of the republican congressional wing greeted the announcement with hearty boos, while many democrats gave generous applause and others were openly critical of the proposed tax plan of the administration.

Well, a vast majority of the members of the house, republican and democratic, voted for the immediate payment of the soldier bonus and a majority of the republican senators and representatives joined with the democrats in over-riding the veto of the payment before the coming of the year 1945. It is a matter of record as well as a matter of history that the bonus was voted without the lawmakers providing revenue in sight for the payment of the bonus baby bonds. Lawmakers are the servants of the people who not only make appropriations, but they provide the revenues to meet the payment of the tax measures which they enact. Now the showdown has come and in the face of an election the coming fall regardless of political line-up, the senators and the representatives of the American congress must face the music and provide the revenues to meet current treasury crises and the cost of government.

FDR Promises Seed Loans

President Roosevelt vetoed the $50,000,000 loan bill containing a $500 individual limit on the ground that the measure provided no taxes for the extra budget outlay. But the tillers will get their seed. The president will issue an executive order authorizing use of $30,000,000 for 1936 seed loans to farmers, but individual loans will be limited to $300. Congressional representatives as well as the senators from agricultural states are not over-looking the cause of the tillers of the soil. This is campaign year. All the representatives are up for reelection and a third of the senators must go before the people of their states. Since the coming of the depression, the American voter has become government conscious. He reads the daily newspapers, he watches the markets and keeps tab on the elective officers of state and nation. This is just as it should be.

Senator Thomas Calls for Crusade

President Roosevelt has signed the new neutrality message. It extends the present neutrality law expiration from February 29 to May 1, 1937. It continues the present embargo on shipment of arms and munitions to belligerents and in addition embargo loans to belligerents. While the president was preparing to sign the measure, Senator theory of peace through neutrality be accompanied by a Thomas (d) of Utah, urged in an address that the new campaign to educate the world to the profits of peace. Speaking before the Academy of World Economics in the city of Washington, the senator from Utah said: "If some congressional committee would investigate the question as to how much money can be made out of peace instead of indirectly honoring men who are wise enough to make a lot of money out of a war brought almost universal economic destruction we might get farther."

Senator Thomas was swept into high office when Franklin D. Roosevelt was elected president of the United States. He is a college professor, author of many books and pamphlets, had traveled extensively before he invaded the field of politics and is a very able champion of the social justice policies of the president. His greatest victory was in driving from senate halls Reed Smoot, noted apostle of the Mormon church, famous financier, ever a champion of high tariffs for the makers of things and very close to the Mellons and the Morgans and their co-laborers in campaign years of the republic and when additional legislation was needed for those who were for "high tariffs for the makers and do the best you can" for the growers who till the soil of America.

School System Is Termed as Archaic

ERIE, Pa., March 9 —(UP)— Despite many improvements American schools still are preparing young people for the life of a century ago. Dr. Jess Holmes, professor of philosophy at Swarthmore University, declared here in emphasizing the need for reorganizing the educational system.

Schools must be fitted organically into the present industrial and political setup, Dr. Holmes believes. "The ideal," he said, "is one of a well coordinated educational system aiming at training of creative thinkers of students who understand their social system, who are adjusted to it."

Calls for New Deal

People who cling to the old because it is old and not because it is any longer efficient are obstacles to the realization of this ideal, Dr. Holmes asserted. He compared problems of a century ago, when the school system was inaugurated with present day difficulties. In those days, he said, education was needed only to teach the elements; life did the rest.

"Today, that world has disappeared," Dr. Holmes declared. "Men are concentrated in towns and cities; a large part of their needs is met cooperatively and the value of each man's work depends on the work of a hundred thousand others."

'Miss Pacific Fleet' Showing Last Time

The Texas theater today is showing for the last times the laugh sensation of 1936, "Miss Pacific Fleet." On the same program is "Study and Understudy." A variety of dancers, singers, and comedians are featured, which brings some of the world's best entertainers of the stage. The Universal Newspaper news is also shown.

King Peiton, who appeared here two years ago with the Brunks comedians, starts Tuesday for a two day run.

He explained that he only had a few minutes to exhibit with Brunks that he really did not have a chance to show the people his magic and with this appearance on the Texas stage he would have more time to entertain the patrons and promises them some clever illusions and Magic.

On the screen Tuesday and Wednesday is "Make A Million."

Sergeant Decorated For Spanish Wounds

COLLEGE STATION, March 9. —(UP)— For wounds received in action 35 years ago, Sergeant James T. Carroll, Texas Aggie athletic equipment man, has been awarded the Order of the Purple Heart, an award founded by George Washington and revived by the war department several years past to be given soldiers wounded in action. He was wounded during a skirmish on the island of Behol during the United States army campaign in the Philippine Islands in 1901.

Sergeant Carroll enlisted in 1898 and saw service at five foreign stations, Cuba, Puerto Rico, Philippines, Mexico and France before retiring in 1921 as a master sergeant. He was a first lieutenant and company commander in France during the World War and participated in the army's first major engagement of the war, at Catigny, May 29-30, 1918.

The exhibit will represent three grades of stock. At the International Livestock Exposition at Chicago last winter a carload of Big Bend Highland Herefords led in the corn battle, captured grand championship honors.

For centuries the world has gone to the Near East for its flavors and aromas and spices.

...and today Chesterfield imports thousands of bales of tobacco from Turkey and Greece to add flavor and fragrance to Chesterfield Cigarettes.

Turkish tobacco is expensive. The import duty alone is 35 cents a pound. But no other place except Turkey and Greece can raise tobacco of this particular aroma and flavor.

This Turkish tobacco, blended with our own American tobaccos in the correct proportions to bring out the finer qualities of each tobacco, helps to make Chesterfields outstanding for mildness and for better taste.

CRUISE TO NOWHERE

BEGIN HERE TODAY JANE WESTON feels her dreams have come true when she sets out on a three weeks' ocean cruise, accepted in payment for the salary due her when the magazine for which she worked as typist suspended publication.

"You didn't recognize the man?" he said. "Are you sure it was a man?" "Of course it was a man!" Jane said, "but he was masked, and had a cap pulled down. I couldn't tell whether I had ever seen him before. It all happened so quickly, and the lights were dim. He had on a heavy coat, and he looked rather large, bulged out. I don't think he knew I was in the stateroom with Linda. The roll of the ship flung him against the wall, and saved her from—"

"Why, it's Millie!" the detective said, but before they could touch her she ran away from them, up the stairs and into the lounge. They ran after her and caught up with her just as she flung herself, sobbing bitterly, at Madame's feet. She clung to the old dowager and handed the jewel-box to her. "Millie, what have you done?" Madame was saying.

THE shooting of Dutch Lenz brought about panic among the passengers. Their murmurs rose crescendo, but the fresh onslaught of the storm battering another life boat from its davits and hurling it out to sea, brought about a more active sense of their danger. They began to mill about aimlessly. They had been calm, but now they moved about, chattering like shrill monkeys. Rumors flew. Why had there been no reports from the bridge? Had the ship been driven off the course—inside the reefs? Were they all doomed? It was suddenly every man for himself. It was a mad scene of fear, stark and in some cases, abject. For some reason the men crowded out of the bar. The alcoholic spirits inside them no longer compensated for the lack of life preservers about their waists. Instinctively the family groups drew closer together, clutching their life belts as if they were afraid of having them torn away. But no such move came from the men. In the moment of greatest danger they merely sought the companionship of human beings in the lounge.

Two of the ship's officers, their oil-skins dripping water, circulated about and tried to calm the people. There was no relaxation in the stern discipline the crew maintained, but the passengers misinterpreted these gestures. But the orchestra played on. Ken Martin, recovered from his blow and sensing renewed panic in the crowd, began to sing, and Linda Bayes watched him. She joined him, and hand in hand they sang, high above the huddled groups of people. Some of their courage went out to the audience. Two lovers in the storm, they had come together. Linda had proved her love for him at last! Ken was content.

THE detective wanted to ask Linda if she knew anything about the person who had started to strangle her in her stateroom, but he questioned Jane instead. "You didn't recognize the man?" he said. "Are you sure it was a man?" "Of course it was a man!" Jane said, "but he was masked, and had a cap pulled down. I couldn't tell whether I had ever seen him before. It all happened so quickly, and the lights were dim. He had on a heavy coat, and he looked rather large, bulged out. I don't think he knew I was in the stateroom with Linda. The roll of the ship flung him against the wall, and saved her from—"

About Our Friends
when they should be doing the work for which they were employed...

People are looking for some one who can produce and is willing to give the very best personal effort to make that employer a profit on the investment... too many young men, single and married, willing to just let father do the worrying about making the pay check...

A man on the street showing off his trained dog to sell dog food... another example of creating a job... he admits you must know more than the dog and says he does... If your dog or cat is not trained that is likely the reason... draws quite a crowd... Wyatt Jacobs getting his car muddy... Nick Miller believes that spring has come... Mrs. V. E. McCharen with a new frock... Mrs. J. L. Thomson driving by... Mrs. J. C. Donica parked on the street... H. J. Woodbridge on the street... Dr. G. M. Stephenson and family visiting in Mineral Wells... Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Tuttle visiting in Breckenridge Sunday... Mrs. Lemmie Tullos parked on Main... Edward Lee thinks most every one went driving out yesterday... needed more attendants to service the cars...

Now, flower and vegetable gardens will be receiving attention... poor horses and cattle will get fat on the rich grazing... it is hard to estimate the value of this fine rain... Spring goods will receive much attention during this week... Wise merchants will be advertising the new arrivals and will be backing it up with seasonable window displays... People do not just buy what they want... real merchandising creates these desires, just as the young man can create a place for himself in the economic structure...

Modern Life is a strain on DIGESTION

Smoking Camels Helps to Ward Off Indigestion Caused by the Breathless Pace of Modern Living

Faster—faster—faster goes the modern rush. People are "always on the go." No wonder indigestion visits so many from time to time. People can't seem to pause for proper eating. But here's one simple step every one can take! Smoke Camels for the sake of the positive beneficial effect

Camels have upon digestion. Camels stimulate and promote natural processes of digestion. They restore a feeling of well-being. And above all, with their matchless blend of costlier tobaccos, Camels bring a supreme enjoyment of mildness and flavor that you can know in no other way!

BETTY CHASE, star figure skater: "Camels make food taste better and help digestion along. And certainly smoking a Camel is one of life's most agreeable experiences."

COSTLIER TOBACCOS
Camels are made from finer, MORE EXPENSIVE TOBACCOS—Turkish and Domestic—than any other popular brand.

THE MORRISSEY during an Arctic expedition. H. McCracken, leader, says: "Stomach upsets are a constant hazard. I learned that smoking Camels at every meal and after helps digestion."

Modern life in one of its most attractive phases—the beautiful Trianon Room (above) at the Ambassador in New York, as seen during the dinner hour. Louis, maître d'hôtel at this celebrated dining place, says: "Our guests come to the Trianon Room from New York and from all over the country. It is interesting to see how they agree in preferring Camels. Those who enjoy dining here also appreciate the delicate flavor of the finer tobaccos in Camels. Camels are an overwhelming favorite at our tables."
