'Strike While the Iron Is Hot'

Tonight marks the election of officers for the Cisco Junior Chamber of Commerce. Selection of the right men can do much to insure the future activity and worthwhile participation of the organization in the affairs of the city.

For that reason it is important that every member of the Junior Chamber of Commerce should attend the meeting this evening.

There was much enthusiasm at the meeting Monday evening, with the result that it was decided to hold the meeting for naming officers as soon as possible.

"Strike while the iron is hot." That was the theory adopted. The members of the young men's organization were keyed up to a spirit of enthusiasm over possibilities of the Junior Chamber of Commerce and felt that they wanted to take advantage of all their enthusiasm to go ahead.

From the selection of officers tonight, the Junior Chamber of Commerce should go ahead, plunging directly into its work for the good of the city. Again it should "strike while the iron is hot" by adopting some form of civic activity which needs to be accomplished. All the members should be given a part in that activity, not just a few, and all should be willing to do their share for the good of their community.

A Cleanup Campaign

Cisco soon is going to see a stream of tourists passing through on the way to the Centennial that will make the past flow appear to be a mere trickle.

So far this city has caught very little of the Centennial spirit, but elsewhere in the state people are looking on the celebration as one of the biggest the nation has ever staged. But the Centennial spirit will grow here, just as it has all over the state and even outside of Texas.

For that reason it is important that Cisco present as good an appearance as possible this spring. It has been suggested that the city put on a cleanup campaign, just as it has each year in the past. Such a campaign would hardly be adequate, however, due to the fact that the city should go farther toward beautifying itself than it ever has before.

Texasmen have taken the Centennial pledge to "think, talk, write Texas Centennial in 1936." This is the time for Ciscoans to pledge themselves to "Think, talk, act clean-up for Cisco."

Behind the Scenes in Washington

BY RODNEY DUTCHER

NEA Service Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON—Important speeches by New Dealers pass through several hands before reaching the stage of final draft.

In nearly all cases the utterances of Roosevelt, Ickes, Wallace, Farley, Tugwell, and the rest are the result of suggestions, deletions, and embellishments by groups of subordinates who pass on the original outline—often the work of a ghost writer—before White House Secretary Steve Early affixes his final O. K.

Apparently the custom isn't peculiar to America. The following story, now being circulated in London, will almost surely be passed around here soon as something alleged to have happened in Washington:

After the British cabinet had met to consider the king's speech at the opening of Parliament, Premier Baldwin scribbled with pencil on the draft the words, "Important refer again to A. G."

The document was rushed by a secretary to the attorney general, who sat up late studying it for possible changes from a legal standpoint. He didn't find much to do and eventually returned the draft to Baldwin, who was exasperated. All he had meant was that the speech should contain a further reference to "Almighty God."

MISS MILDRED DILLING, the lovely blond harpist who recently played at the White House, has taught many others to play the harp, including Harpo Marx, to whom she refers as a "highly talented, serious student, totally absorbed in the harp when he is playing it."

She was telling about a performance in New York at which Harpo played a number:

"When he left the stage there was much applause. It continued, grew louder. Still he did not return for an encore, nor to take a bow. After a long time the audience realized he wasn't coming back."

"Later I asked him why he hadn't responded to the tremendous applause. 'I couldn't,' he replied. 'I was out in front helping to keep it up.'"

CONGRESSMAN SINSON of New York, discussing the law fathered by Blanton of Texas, which forbids mention of Communism in District of Columbia schools: "One teacher in physiology taught that the blood was a fluid in the body made up of white corpuscles and 'the other kind.'"

REXFORD G. TUGWELL, under-secretary of agriculture-resettlement administrator, is sometimes puzzled, not to say depressed, by persistent attacks on him by conservative enemies of the administration. He would have quit the New Deal long ago if Roosevelt hadn't insisted that he stand by as a symbol to liberals and progressives that the administration was on their side of the fence.

"Only trouble with you, Rex," Senator Hugo Black of Alabama told him recently, "is that the reactionaries realize you've got brains."

"That's a cockeyed explanation on the face of it," Tugwell replied. "It must be perfectly obvious to anyone that if I had any brains I wouldn't be here."

Political Recovery

UNDER THE DOME AT AUSTIN

By GORDON K. SHEARER
United Press Staff Correspondent

AUSTIN, March 12—(UP)—Charley Lockhart is the "littles" treasurer of the biggest state but he swings a mean door. He does not have to throw the full weight of his 42 inches against a 71,000 pound door to push it into place.

The door guards the only entrance to the state's new treasury vault. A 14-foot door weighs more than 35 tons and the door is balanced so delicately that Lockhart can open and shut it with ease—but only at the proper time and by using the right combination.

Otherwise it would take so much dynamite to break into the vault that a large part of the state capitol likely would collapse along with the vault.

A preview was given at an Austin motion picture theater so Governor James V. Allred and state officials might see Ginger Rogers, honorary Texas Admiral, before the general showing of her ship picture.

Governor Allred was a Navy "gob" during the war. He commissioned the Texas cinema actress in the Texas "navy" when he visited Hollywood and attended the Rose Bowl football game.

The preview at Austin was ordered as a return compliment to the governor.

Charles Pickle has just observed the 46th anniversary of his continuous service as a court reporter in Austin. In that time he has reported many of the state's most celebrated cases. His service is considered remarkable in view of the nervous strain under which court stenographers work.

Pickle was a friend of Sidney Porter (O. Henry). For many years he preserved the stenographic notes of Porter's trial on a banking charge. The notes in time were thrown aside as no longer useful. Porter died and biographers offered Pickle an enormous sum for the notes and their transcription. Pickle searched in vain for the notes.

"The Weekly Blast," Maj. Walton Hood, editor, is an official publication of the motor division of the state railroad commission. It is mimeographed with Mrs. Lean West Gwynn as publisher.

Major Hood decided upon the "Blast" as a means for weekly communication with men engaged in enforcement of state motor vehicle laws and regulations, under his direction. It carries current motor orders of the commission, suggestions for improvement of the service and gossip and chat about those engaged in the work. It is the state's first "house organ" since war days when one was used for the National Guard organizations.

Next week the Blast will report that the Motor Division was the first state unit to use Texas Centennial stamps. Division Chief Mark Marshall went to Gonzales for the opening day of centennial stamp sales. He bought 500 for the motor division, a smaller number for his personal correspondence.

March 31 has been set as the date for bids on construction of the second dam of the Colorado river improvement project. The dam will be three miles downstream from the main dam which is known variously as the Hamilton Dam and the Buchanan Dam. The second dam will be named for the late Roy Inks, member of the river authority who died before completion of the project in which he had long been active.

Texas reporters will be able to protect news sources if Representative Tom P. Cooper, Jr., Lindale, can make other members of the legislature see things his way. Cooper told the United Press that he plans to offer a bill at the next session of the Texas legislature patterned on laws in several states.

It would give the same confidential standing to transactions between reporters and individuals that is accorded to communications with attorneys, physicians or the clergy. Cooper, a practical newsman plans to include safeguards against abuse of the proposed privilege.

Former Secretary of State Gerald Mann, Dallas, visited Austin on his return from Washington where he was contact man for the state planning board. He denied reports that he might oppose Attorney William McCraw in a race for attorney general this summer. "I couldn't beat Bill," was his comment.

But Mann may be a candidate later. Both he and Pat Neff, Jr., son of Former Governor Neff, are mentioned as likely candidates for attorney general in 1938. Lieutenant Governor Walter Woodul, Houston, also is reported to have his eye on the attorney general's race of that year rather than the race for governor.

GIRLS LIST PET DISLIKES
LORAIN, O.—(UP)—The unpar-

donable defense among men, according to a poll of Lorain young women, is chewing tobacco. Among other peevies were "sloppy socks," "baggy pants," and unshined shoes. Only one of the 100 women interviewed criticized smoking.

PROPER AGING

Tobacco in its natural state is harsh and strong. Though "cured" by the grower before sale, it is unsuited for use without further aging. During this aging period (which ranges in the case of Lucky Strike from 1½ to 3 years) important changes occur. These "Nature" changes result in the partial "smoothing out" of the original harsh qualities of the leaf. Our process of manufacture carries these improvements many steps further—as every Lucky Strike Cigarette exemplifies: A Light Smoke of rich, ripe-bodied tobacco.

LUCKIES ARE LESS ACID!
Recent chemical tests show that other popular brands have an excess of acidity over Lucky Strike of from 53% to 100%.

BRITISH TESTS OF TELEVISION SET FOR APRIL

By EVERETT HOLLES (United Press Staff Correspondent) LONDON, March 12 — (U.P.) — The world's first government-controlled television programs will be broadcast in April when the British Broadcasting Company stages its inaugural "hear and see" tests from Alexandra Palace.

Plans already are afoot to "televise" King Edward VIII next Christmas Day when he goes before the microphone to extend his Christmas greetings to the farflung empire—the first monarch to be seen and heard over the air.

Like Motion Picture Sound The ceremonies of the coronation thus would be brought by sight and sound to the world with the same truthfulness of a motion picture sound film.

Measles, mumps, cold weather and lack of equipment have delayed hard practice for the team. However, the group should make a fair team after getting into shape, according to Coach O. H. Frazier.

Heading the team for 1936 are Co-Captains Elmer Finley of Lamesa, Finley holds the Central Texas Conference record in the 220-yard dash, at 22.5, and Smith holds the conference record in javelin throwing, at 199 feet, 7 1-5 inches.

Most every house in Cisco has been subject to window frame and door frame shrinkage and as a consequence, cold air continually sweeps in and makes the fuel bill pile up when you try to stay comfortable. This weather stripping is easily put on and gets results. Our carpenters can put it on for you economically, or you can do it yourself. WOMEN PRESS DRIVE TO END OFFICE SPOILS
By R. W. McDONALD
United Press Staff Correspondent
ST. LOUIS, March 12—(U.P.)—The National League of Women Voters has inaugurated a nationwide campaign against the "spoils system" in government with the slogan "Find the man for the job, not the job for the man."
The main objective according to Mrs. Helen W. Thayer, St. Louis, director of the campaign, is abolition of political patronage in job-seeking. At present, she declares, the federal government is using two personnel systems.
The "offending form," Mrs. Thayer says, is the method through which most government employes get their jobs. She outlined this procedure, which she applied generally.
A man joins a party organization. He solicits votes, then if his party comes into power, he may get a job.
"Merit" Principle Advocated
If the party man has worked hard enough, Mrs. Thayer argues, and has sufficient "pull," he gets a job. The result, she believes, is disastrous to public service. Defining this as the "spoils system,"

ESKIMO CLAN OF ABORIGINES TO BE SOUGHT
By JOSEPH D. RAVOTTO
United Press Staff Correspondent
PARIS, March 12—(U.P.)—Out to confirm the existence of a hitherto unknown community of 16,000 Eskimos in Western Greenland, youthful French Polar Explorer Paul-Emile Victor will head an expedition to Greenland early this spring. Together with two companions; Dr. Robert Gessen, anthropologist, and Michel Perez, mapmaker and geologist, Victor will probably set out early in April for the west coast of the Danish possession. After having located the Eskimo community, the three explorers then will cross the icecap by sled to Angmassalik on the east coast. Once arrived at Angmassalik, Victor's two companions will pack and return to France on Dr. Charlot's French Polar ship Pourquoil. Pas. Victor will remain behind until the following spring among the Eskimos, living their simple life on the great inland plateau where the temperature is generally 40 below zero, centigrade.

Officer in French Navy
Victor, who holds university degrees in ethnography, mathematics, philosophy, engineering and science and is an officer in the French Navy will spend the time at Angmassalik through the winter, collecting important scientific data for the Trocadero Ethnographical Museum. Despite his 28 years, Victor is an experienced explorer and his forthcoming trip to Greenland is his second one. On July 11, 1934, Victor and three companions, two of whom are accompanying on the coming trip, left France for Greenland on the Pourquoil Pas, debarking at Angmassalik where they remained until August 18, 1935, returning on the same ship with a huge collection of scientific data and more than 8,000 photographs.

Strange Race Found
It was in this region that the party discovered what Victor described as the "perfect race of Eskimos. They have no faults or sickness. They have never tasted alcohol, coffee or tobacco and social diseases are unknown." Continuing, he said:
"They developed a passion for green peas which they ate raw with sugar. We had a ton and a half with us and they ate them all. Hitherto they had never tasted anything but seal which provides them with flood, clothing heat and light."
Since his return to France from that trip last September, young Victor has been busy lecturing and preparing for his forthcoming venture. His greatest problem is raising funds to make the trips possible.

To Hunt Small Community
The party expects to arrive on the Western coast of Greenland late in April. If they succeed in finding a reported community of 16,000 Eskimos, hitherto unseen by white man, Victor and his companions will cross Greenland from Kristianshaab to Angmassalik by dogsleds, a distance of almost 1,000 miles. As soon as the ice breaks up, Gessen and Perez will embark for France, leaving Victor behind.
"I will remain here for the winter," Victor told United Press. "I'm looking forward to my year's stay without companions. I will live with the Eskimos, dress as they do and live in their huts. This is about 200 miles inland on a huge ice plateau which is the center of origin of most of the North Atlantic storms which must be studied before it will be possible to develop the North Atlantic year-long air service. I hope to contribute some information along these lines myself."
