Construction of Trench Silos In County Advocated By Dairy Expert

Great interest was manifest at the stockmen's assembly at the court house at Eastland Saturday when E. R. Endaly, extension service specialist of College Station, spoke on the value of trench silos in its relation to preserving feed and making it of more value to the stock to which it is fed, and advocated the buildings of these silos all over Eastland county.

Four thousand trench silos in Texas have already carried this method beyond that of an experiment, said Mr. Endaly, and its value is of a certainty as a feed and leaves no doubt as to the preserving value of the crop.

Not only may sorghum, maize and roughage be kept perfectly, but peanuts and hay may be treated in the same way, with the exception that a mixture of syrup and water should be poured over the nuts. He sums the matter in the words, "Bury Everything."

The old style method of putting fodder up in stacks lily sheltered from the weather, and allowed to stand through the winter months or until it has been fed, was contrasted with this method whereby the water and juices, much of it sugars, are retained in the ensilage when fed to the milk stock or others.

Milk production has been sustained through cold weather when the dairymen naturally expects his flow to decrease. Dairymen all over the country where this feed has been used, are loud in their praises of the results of trench silo feed.

Mr. Endaly warns that plenty of water, warm in winter and cool in summer is necessary for all stock and this applies to poultry as well.

Gryder Favors Market Program For Cisco Farming Section

W. D. Gryder, Rising Star, route 1, stopped in Cisco Saturday. He is interested in obtaining a market for watermelons and peaches such as is contemplated in the Chamber of Commerce-farmers mass meeting in Rising Star today.

Now he and many other farmers of the sandy belt, south of Cisco, are wondering why Cisco does not take the lead in a move of this kind for Cisco. There are many reasons why Cisco would be a logical shipping point for melons and peaches grown in this truck farming belt.

Direct rail facilities to the big markets of the country. Motor routes in every direction which would be able to carry to other local markets that might be available for small shipments. And then, the prestige which a town of the size of Cisco might give to the outside buyers from long distances. And the fact that Cisco easily contacts all outlying communities through good highways and bi-lateral roads, most of which are all weather roads.

Mr. Gryder says his land lends itself to fruit growing. A little fertilizer will make melons as good

WILL EXPLAIN PROPOSALS FOR MARKET

Arrangements for a hearing of George H. Sweeney, representative of the Western Produce company, of Abilene, who is proposing to establish a milk depot in Cisco for the purpose of buying all whole milk produced for sale by farmers and dairymen of this territory, have been completed by J. E. Spencer, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, he announced this morning.

Mr. Sweeney will appear at the Lions luncheon Wednesday and the Rotary club on Thursday, where he has also been invited to appear on the program in that capacity. Further arrangements have been made to have Mr. Sweeney appear before the Junior Chamber of Commerce Wednesday evening, was announced by Dallas Wales, president of that body.

The meeting on the roof garden of the Laguna hotel will be open for every person interested in this milk and produce market project, explained Mr. Wales. Not only members of the junior body but all those in any manner interested in the development of a market for milk, calculated to grow into a supply sufficient to warrant a cheese factory, are invited to be present at this Wednesday evening program.

The meeting will be called for 7:30 and farmers are urged to attend and express themselves freely about their reactions to the project, it is announced by both Mr. Wales and Mrs. Spencer.

The $500,000,000 "reimbursement" taxes spreading over three years, the new program will have to raise $785,000,000 annually for that period—over the next 10 years, the revenue to be taken in aggregates $6,580,000,000.

The body was to have been shipped on the 4:15 train today for Houston where funeral services will be held and interment will take place. Survivors are: Mrs. A. New Tax - bonus - annual for 9 years 120,000,000
Substitute Tax - Annual - in place of Processing Tax 500,000,000
Reimbursement Taxes to cover what Processing Tax would have brought in in fiscal year '36 - 1 to 3 years 500,000,000
Round figures 1,120,000,000
Total necessary 1,137,000,000

Slayer of Four in Fight Over Corn Will be Placed in Dallas Jail for Safety

ATHENS, March 16—(UP)—The weird case of George Patton, who slayed four persons, became more involved today. Jeff Sweeten, sheriff, planned to take Patton to Dallas sometime today.

Patton told County Attorney Miles Smith he and A. W. McGehee argued over corn during the evening of the murder, the argument grew heated and both men seized iron rods.

Mrs. McGehee came into the room carrying a baby in her arms. She and the infant were killed. Patton admitted killing the older McGehee child after the boy attacked him following his father's death.

Honesty Act Returns $370 to Eastland Man

Ed F. Willman, Eastland postal clerk, is convinced that there are honest people.

Enroute to the Eastland National bank to make a deposit Friday afternoon he dropped $370 in checks and money in front of the J. C. Penney store.

Mrs. Ed Hayslip, passing by the store several minutes later, saw the roll of bills and checks which were bound by a rubber band and gave them to Police Chief W. J. Peters, asking that he find the owner.

The chief didn't experience difficulty in finding the loser, noticing that many checks were made out to Frank A. Jones, Eastland postmaster, and later saw Willman retracing his steps "as white as a sheet."

FRANCE FIRM ON PREVIOUS STAND TAKEN

(Copyright, 1936, by United Press)
LONDON, March 16 (UP)—The council of the League of Nations in a secret meeting today, rejected Hitler's demand that his proposal for two European peace agreements be considered if Germany attended the council re-considering of reoccupation of the Rhineland.

France previously informed the council that both of Hitler's conditions in his reply to the council's inclination were unacceptable.

Hitler's conditions were: That Germany must take part in the meeting on equal terms with the other members of the council; and that his proposal for European peace agreements be considered.

The British cabinet in a new meeting with the entente gave Germany's explanation that the work "Alfred" consideration of Hitler's peace proposal immediately "die course" justifies the new appeal.

LOCAL FARMER WANTS DAIRY MEET CALLED

C. L. Allen and his two sons, C. L. Jr. and Dale Denton, age ten and seven, respectively, were shoppers in Cisco Saturday and were pleasant visitors at the Daily News office.

Mr. Allen lives on Cisco route 3, about twelve miles north of Cisco. He is very much interested in the proposed milk market for this territory. He did not see the announcement in the Daily News at the time to attend the meeting Friday night but will attend any other meeting that may be called for the purpose of consultation of the farmers.

Milking six cows and getting a dairy milk output of fifteen gallons he is personally interested in anything that would give him a dependable market. He is sure, he says, that if farmers could be sure of any kind of a stable market herds would be increased until the milk supply would warrant a plant to be placed in Cisco.

The cream market, he says, is not at all satisfactory now and the trend seems to be downward, however, if the sale of whole milk should become a factor here it would mean the decrease of skimmed milk as feed for pigs. As it is, he feeds his pigs on the bi-product and get good returns. These are matters he remarks, to be considered and should be thoroughly discussed by men who have had experience.

He proposes that a meeting be called and time be given for interested parties to attend, so that a phases of the matter might be discussed and an organization be formed to carry through in the matter.

Mr. Allen is a substantial young farmer of his community and his interest will prove valuable in the achieving of a market such as is contemplated.

His young sons are husky chap and alive. C. L. is in the fourth grade and Denton is making the honor roll in the first grade. The attend school at Parks where they go by school bus line.

Let Cisco Organize Farm Markets

The mass meeting of the farmers in Rising Star territory to meet with the Chamber of Commerce of that city, is a forward step for that community in their drive for a water melon and peach market, and for the development of a part of the state rich in possibilities for that phase of truck farming activities.

Other sections of the state have become famous for certain phases of intensive farming. Crystal City for onions and spinach, Jacksonville and Tyler for tomatoes, Weatherford for melons and fruits, Comanche for berries and later, DeLon, has made rapid strides in gaining a market for peanuts, melons and peaches through their melon and peach festival.

Now the Chamber of Commerce of our peppy little neighbor on the south is planning to build a shed and other conveniences if the farmers are interested so that they may command recognition as a market location for these particular products.

Cisco should be glad to help in this development. We are becoming closer neighbors each year. Whatever will help that section of our trade territory helps Cisco.

In fact, there is no reason why Cisco should not take steps to aid actively in the movement to establish a market in Cisco for her farmers who persist in using Cisco as their trading and marketing point. If they want to come to Cisco—and we certainly want them to do so—why not the Chamber of Commerce act for a meeting of farmers in the sandy belt of our territory and start immediately in the development of melon markets?

There are thousands of acres adjacent to Cisco that would grow melons admirably—as fine in flavor and texture as were ever shipped to any point. Likewise, peaches, plums, pears and berries. Many local people have tried strawberries and have found them much better than those shipped from famous berry growing points. These things fit in nicely with a general program of truck farming and dairying.

"Yes," many farmers will say, "we can grow those things, but we can't sell them." Now that is the point. There must be a concerted action of those interested. If a few farmers grow a big acreage of melons they will over stock the local demand and melons will go begging at five or ten cents each. There must be local organization that will produce enough to attract buyers from eastern markets. Crystal City, referred to above, has become famous for her sixty carloads of spinach shipped daily during the peak of the season. Buyers from the east come and stay from November until March, then the onion buyers take their place and stay until May.

Crystal City has about 1,500 white people, the other 1,500 are Mexican laborers attracted by the mass labor needed to be done. Then why should a little city become the greatest market in the world? Because they planted in

Behind the Scenes in Washington

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON — Congress doesn't carry its hat in its hand any more when it goes to the White House.

The administration's lack of a legislative program for this session coincides not too oddly, with the fact that senators and representatives generally are far more independent than in any other session since Roosevelt took office.

In his current demand for more than a billion dollars of taxes, Roosevelt had intended to include requests for inheritance taxes and increased levies on higher bracket incomes. His congressional leaders balked and told him he would be licked on it.

Congress hates new taxes in an election year, though it still loves to spend money. If Roosevelt gets any more "soak-the-rich" legislation from this Congress, it will be only through a miracle of strategic manipulation.

Authorization of Senator Harry Byrd's proposed investigation of federal government, its expenditures and overlappings, couldn't have happened before this year. Nor would any House committee have refused funds for administration political projects such as Passanauddy and the Florida ship canal—or for the shelter belt.

The farstep over the War Department's punishment of General Haggood for his wisecracks against WPA before the military affairs committee was unusually vigorous. Any federal agency will tell you that congressmen are likely to be tough these days when they telephone for information. Senator Bachman of Tennessee, seated near Chief Staff Melvin Craig at a dinner the other night, bawled the latter out for the Hegood incident.

"We're finished with this bureaucratic and departmental domination of Congress," he announced.

Several reasons for all this. The file has about given out, both the patronage and pocket varieties. There's a natural tendency to swing back from previous marked subservience to the administration—often to resume normal subservience to special interests which usually help elect and control members. Most congressmen are constitutionally self-assertive; decline of administration prestige makes administration support seem less important to them than in 1934.

THE American Youth Commission, financed by the Rockefeller Foundation, is out with a preliminary report, which says, among other things:

"In recent years the exposure of flagrant violations of public trust by the leaders of international finance, by the munitions manufacturers, by high government officials, and by leadership generally, have all but destroyed the bases of moral character and citizenship in American society."

"Before any program of citizenship or character education can have any real value, government and business and industry must vastly improve their ethical foundations—the failure of youth to find high qualities in their leaders is the primary cause of so much cynicism and radicalism among our youth..." Such sentiments have been heard here before. But they have been attracting special attention because Mr. Newton D. Baker, a leading corporation lawyer, is chairman of the American Youth Commission, and because Mr. Owen D. Young, chairman of General Electric and prominent in many other industries, is the vice chairman.

Thimble Theater Treks To Texas

Popeye and his harassed troupe will make a one-night stand in Texas March 17 when Crystal City holds its gals Spinach Festival. Hearing that this South Texas town is the greatest spinach producer in the world, Popeye wastes no time in transporting the full company to the scene of this picturesque Texas Centennial celebration.

Segar, creator of Thimble Theater for King Features, made this contribution to the Texas Spinach Festival, and Crystal City will retaliate by proclaiming Popeye as Mayor, Olive Oyl as Queen of the Festival, and Wimpy as City Meat Inspector. TOBY RYAN, 19, sneaks behind the security counter of a large Manhattan department store. On her way to work during the crowded morning rush hour, Toby carries with a good-looking young man. She forgets the identity of the young man, Jim JAMIESON (who does not know her name), but a friend tells her within 20 hours he will have a date with her.

CHAPTER V IF Toby Ryan, stepping out of the elevator on the first floor of Bergman's department store, had turned to the left instead of the right, it is possible that none of the things that happened that afternoon would have taken place.

Toby could have reached the jewelry department either way. The distance was exactly the same. By turning to the right she passed the silverware counters.

She was carrying the four wrist watches in her hand. An alert, business-like little figure, Toby moved quickly. As she passed the silverware department Mr. Pharis, the young buyer, stepped into the aisle. He said, "If you're going in for smuggling you must be an amateur. That's not the way—"

He was smiling good-naturedly. Toby couldn't very well brush past him. She said, indicating the watches, "I've just brought them from the advertising department. They made a sketch of them."

Mr. Pharis picked up the tiny "debutante special." "How much is this one?" he asked. "Seventy-nine fifty." "Good little watch," Mr. Pharis nodded.

Maurine Ball, two counters beyond, glanced up just then. Maurine saw Mr. Pharis with his head bent slightly and Toby listening, nodding in agreement. Maurine didn't see the watches. But she knew that when Mr. Pharis looked at her like that, invariably he asked for a date. She concluded, therefore, that he was making a date with Toby.

Anger, consuming and unreasonable, swept over Maurine. The day before, when Toby had been chosen to pose for the advertising photographs, it had been a blow to the other girl's pride. This was much worse!

Maurine's face above the carefully pencilled crimson lips, went white, and the customer, asking the price of the charm bracelet, had to repeat her question.

IT was only a few moments later that Toby slipped the watches into their place on the satin folds inside the counter. Then she got out the brown-covered book in which merchandise borrowed by other departments was listed. It was a rule that merchandise taken anywhere else in the store must be "signed out" and "signed in" with the name of the person to whom it was entrusted.

Toby, about to sign for the watches, looked up to see Maurine beside her. Maurine controlled her voice well. "There's a woman over there," she said with a nod, "who's been waiting for you."

Toby turned, and instantly remembered. It was the woman in the leopard coat—the one who had bought the compact and then discovered she lacked money to pay for it.

BY LAURA LOU BROOKMAN

Tears blinded her, and she brushed them back.

THERE was a knock at the door and Henderson called out, "Come in!"

A man in a blue suit, wearing a felt hat, entered. He pulled off the hat rather awkwardly as he crossed to Henderson's desk and laid something down. It was a tiny, diamond-studded wrist watch.

"We found it," the man drawled, "in her locker." Toby did not understand what he meant for a moment. She looked up to face three pairs of eyes staring at her, three faces, grimly accusing. Suddenly the girl threw up one hand.

"It isn't true!" she cried. "It can't be. I didn't take the watch and I don't know anything about it! I tell you I didn't take it!"

Her head dropped forward and she covered her face with both hands. Sobs shook her shoulders. The voices of the others went on, but Toby did not hear them. She did not know what they were saying. She went on until Miss Burrows touched her shoulder.

"Come," the woman said. "The cashier will give you your check. It's an hour before closing time, but you needn't go back to the department. Since the watch has been returned we won't go any further with the matter."

Toby took her hands from her tear-stained face. "But, Miss Burrows, I didn't take the watch!" she insisted. "Oh, won't you please believe me!"

The older woman only said, "Come with me. I'll speak to the cashier."

MAKE YOUR HOME COMFORTABLE WEATHER STRIP all windows and doors. This will keep out drafts of cold wind and will also keep out the dust when the spring winds begin. Most every house in Cisco has been subject to window frame and door frame shrinkage and as a consequence, cold air continually sweeps in and makes the fuel bill pile up when you try to stay comfortable. This weather stripping is easily put on and gets results. Our carpenters can put it on for you economically, or you can do it yourself. Weather stripping is economical and efficient, and will soon pay for itself. Call us for FREE information or demonstration.

The above picture as some people would try to make you think is not a stage production however it is beyond a doubt the greatest achievement in motion pictures today.

Here are some of the critics—
Pare Lorentz, McCall's Magazine—"A Midsummer Night's Dream" is the most important production ever done in talking pictures. A prominent newspaperman says, "Start Los Angeles Examiner, 'You won't believe your eyes. Bill Shakespeare would have been proud.' New York American, 'That remarkable Warner achievement, a picturization of A Midsummer Night's Dream.' Wm. Lyon Phelps, professor of literature at Yale University says, 'I shall give 'A Midsummer Night's Dream' a tremendous send off in lectures. This is not all of the notable personal endorsements contributed by important personalities, in connection with this gigantic production.

The Interstate Theaters, better known as the Texas Consolidated Theaters who I was in competition to in Temple for a number of years have come in to the town of Cisco advertising in our local paper encouraging you to go to Eastland to see this attraction. I believe we are better equipped to reproduce to you "Midsummer Night's Dream". We have invested quite a sum in accidental treatment for the Texas theater. We are asking the assistance of the civic organizations three theaters in Cisco is sufficient to take care of the theater goers. We are asking the people to patronize the local theaters. It makes a better town to patronize home industry.

Mr. Sandler this morning remarked to me, "It looks like it did in the boom days to see the cars parked over town at night." It will encourage other business men to open other places of business here. This production, apparently the prices are outrageous however, Hamlin, not as good a town as Cisco, the manager remarked to me that he did more than five hundred dollars of business.

It does not mean that you will make us rich over night, we only receive twenty five cents of every dollar you spend. Patronize your home theaters. The gigantic occupation of the east have an organization of sixty towns with from two to three theaters in each town, the biggest chain in Texas—Texas consolidated Theaters.

Signed, C. J. STEVENS.

Notice to the theater fans of Eastland: If you care to attend the Texas, effective March 24th, we will give one gallon of gasoline to every group of four persons attending this theater from Eastland. Your gasoline check card we will endeavor to place with the newspaper in Eastland. Watch for announcement in your local Eastland paper.

FOR DIGESTION'S SAKE—SMOKE CAMEL

Smoking Camels eases tension—stimulates digestion—and fosters a feeling of well-being! . . .

Again and again, we make up for lost time by eating in a hurry. Digestion must meet the strain. How fortunate that smoking Camels during and after meals definitely stimulates digestion and helps to ward off the effects of our hurried, nerve-racking life—by aiding and restoring the natural flow of the digestive fluids. Today, the pleasure of smoking Camels is being everywhere recognized as a comforting and healthful part of the art of dining. Camels are incomparably mild. They never get on your nerves or tire your taste. Enjoy Camels for their matchless blend of costlier tobaccos—for their energizing "lift"—for the welcome feeling of well-being they bring you. Camels set you right!

STEEPLEJACK JOE BECK: "Many a time my stomach tightens in a high spot—but you wouldn't know it from the hearty way I eat. I'm very careful about keeping good digestion—I smoke Camels. They help to stimulate my digestion."

150-POUND DYNAMO! Tommy Bridges, of the World Champion Tigers, says: "Ball players have to watch digestion. I find Camels a real aid in helping digestion. They set me right!"

WIZARD ON SKIS, Sig Buchmayr: "It seems to me that after good food there's nothing like smoking a Camel to aid digestion and build up a fine feeling of well-being."
