About Our Friends

So many of our good friends offering congratulations... some personally and others by telephone... we certainly do appreciate their kind wishes... regret that we can't mention all their names... we have rather grown up with the Daily News... joined other business men in buying stock in it in 1919... promote a daily paper for Cisco... After retiring from business and teaching chemistry and physics in the high school for a year and then resigning to help establish Randolph college... head of the Science department there for a year... meanwhile playing at the newspaper business during vacations until the bug bit into our vitalis, so we resigned and helped consolidate the American and Daily News... been trying to boost Cisco ever since...

"Friend" is the greatest word in any language, no other word fraught with so much meaning... that's the reason we chose it as the key word for our column... and the reason we mention you is that we regard you as Friend... Now and then some one calls our attention to the fact that we have omitted them... Please continue to do so... well overcome the omission... Cisconians are our friends... East, west, north and south... Help us make the Daily News, and American and Roundup the kind of papers you want them to be... news about Cisco and her people... tell us all you know, and we'll tell you all we know... That's fair, let's shake on it...

If you are thirsty, or even if you are not, don't fail to go by the A. G. Motor company office and get a drink at the new refrigerator fountain... Andy and Jack are as proud of that piece of furniture as a little boy with his red top boots... Well, the water does taste good...

H. S. Drumright having a hard time fitting a young man friend with a pair of white shoes... Mrs. O. J. Russell down town... Mrs. Hubert Seale and the children parked on the street, likely waiting for doctor papa... Dexter Shelley trying to decide which shirts... Mrs. H. R. Garrett and Mrs. W. K. Johnston, shopping...

It looked like the Minister-police banquet was going to go off without a hitch... every one seemed hungry and a perfect humor after the table was spread... Several companies and police officials

COUNTY LOSES HIGHWAY MEN TO ABILENE

Transfer of Texas Highway Patrolmen Morgan Myers and Ernest Daniels from Eastland county to Taylor county as a result of a re-districting by Public Safety Department officials becomes effective Wednesday. Myers and Daniels have been located in Eastland county since Dec. 15, 1931, patrolling a district which took them to Palo Pinto, Abilene, Stephenville, Breckenridge, Rising Star and Cross Plains. They will be among six patrolmen and an inspector in the Abilene district which includes territory from Weatherford on the east to Big Spring on the west. Coleman, Brownwood, Hamilton, Haskell and Breckenridge are in the district. The transferred patrolmen have cooperated with officers of Eastland, Ranger, Cisco and the county during their stay at Eastland. Particular observation was made by the patrolmen to overloaded trucks. Safety drives were conducted by them in cities of the county in cooperation with local officers.

Vera Stretz Faces Court As Slayer

Her icy mien beying reports of imminent collapse, Vera Stretz, blonde university graduate, is pictured as she was led from her cell to court in New York, where she is on trial charged with slaying Dr. Fritz Gebhardt, her former sweetheart.

VERA STRETZ ON STAND IN OWN DEFENSE

NEW YORK, March 31 — (U.P.)—With a weariness that seems to approach indifference Vera Stretz answered today to a stream of questions attempting to break down her story that she killed her German lover, Dr. Fritz Gebhardt, in self defense because he tried to assault her in a crowd manner. Assistant Attorney Miles O'Brien, seeking to send her to the electric chair for slaying Gebhardt in his apartment November 11, first dealt with her story of how she came to buy the .32 revolver which she used and how she came to be in the apartment that night. The blond answered many of his questions with a weary "yes, Mr. O'Brien," or a sighing answer.

Caffrey Says Golf Meeting Not Held

There was no meeting of the County club and golfers last night, announced J. E. Caffrey, president of the body, this morning. Matters of importance were to be discussed regarding the plans for entertainment for the coming year and other matters of a detail nature, said Mr. Caffrey. He did not know just when another meeting of the directors would be called. Grass greens will be ready for service about June 1, meanwhile the temporary sand greens are being used, announced Mr. Caffrey.

TESTIMONY IS BEGUN IN 88TH COURT TODAY

THE JURY Roy Tucker, farmer, Cisco. O. J. Tillinghast, grocer, Cisco. J. W. Slaughter, lumberman, Cisco. C. W. Waler, unemployed, near Gorman. Aaron Stiles, service station operator, Ranger. J. J. Coffman, gas company employe, Eastland. James Ward, Magnolia company employe, Olden. T. D. Martin, salesman, Ranger. C. B. Wellman, oil company employe, Eastland. T. T. Horn, farmer, 10 miles south-west of Cisco. L. R. Herring, gas company employe, Ranger. L. E. Vaughn, garage owner, Cisco.

H. L. McBee was last seen at his home in Rising Star, April 30, 1933. Dr. J. Dill of Rising star testified Tuesday morning in the "hanging skeleton" trial of Raymond Henry, 25 in 88th district court. The doctor was called to the McBee home because of illness of Mrs. McBee, now the wife of the defendant with whom she is charged with murder in her former mate's death, he testified. A prescription made by the doctor was unfiled, the witness testified after L. H. Flewelin of Ranger, attorney with R. E. Grantham of Cisco for Henry, produced the paper. "I was almost ready to leave and McBee came in," Dr. Dill stated. "He asked what was wrong, I told him and he staggered out."

McBee was intoxicated, the doctor stated. Others at the McBee residence were Mr. and Mrs. M. E. "Sandy" Tyler and persons whose voices he heard but did not see. The state is seeking to show the jury, by witnesses that McBee was slain May 1, 1933, his body buried, exhumed later and then hanged. Ten-year-old Dean Broughton of Rising Star described to jurors the discovery of the skeleton — later identified as McBee in a "shimney" near his home at Rising Star Dec. 22, 1934. He was with a companion, Herman Boyman, chasing a rabbit into the brush, Broughton said in telling how the revelation occurred. The youths notified Broughton's father, O. C. Broughton, who earlier told jurors of his inspection of the skeleton. Hunting in the vicinity that evening for other discoveries which might aid in establishing the identity of the skeleton, Broughton found a piece of quilt. He also stated in September, 1933, he was cutting a tree near his Rising Star rural residence and he "bogged down."

The state will seek to link the statement with their contention McBee was buried in a shallow grave and later exhumed. The courtroom was filled to capacity, Judge B. W. Patterson finding it necessary occasionally to admonish the crowd of the seriousness of the trial and expression of dislike or the opposite reaction was not in line with jurisprudence. The crowd overflowed into the district clerk's office and the third floor hall. A. D. Carroll, Rising Star city marshal, stated he was notified of the skeleton discovery and with Justice of Peace Morris, now deceased, went to the scene. "The skeleton was hanging from a limb; I guess the limb was eight feet from the ground," the city marshal told jurors. "The trousers had fallen on the ground. There was a little skin on the back of the neck where the wire was tied." Difficulties observed by Rising Star residents and others of that section were detailed to jurors who attended dances at which Mr. and

Continues Hauptmann Clew Hunt

This visit of Governor Harold G. Hoffman, rear, to the former Bruno Hauptmann home in the Bronx, N. Y., which he is shown leaving with an aide, caused a definite break between the New Jersey chief executive and Attorney General David T. Wilentz. The governor ordering a section of attic flooring ripped up, later declared a federal expert's test indicated the Landbergh kidnap ladder had not been made from the lumber in the Hauptmann attic.

Families Give Data On Loss of U. S. Jobs

WASHINGTON, March 31—(U.P.)—Results of a survey to determine the effect of a clause in the Economy Act of 1932 providing for dismissal of either husband or wife when both held government jobs in reducing personnel have been made public showing interesting facts. Persons who lost their jobs largely were among the lower paid employes, the Government Workers' Council reported to the Labor Department. Of 643 reporting their basic salaries, slightly more than one-fourth had received $1,000 or more, but not in excess of $1,300. More than two-third of those reporting had been in government service for 10 years or longer. Nearly one-tenth of the 695 reporting age were 50 or older, larger proportions of the dismissed men than of the dismissed women having reached such ages. Practically 38 per cent of those reporting were at least 40 years old, and nearly 30 per cent in addition were 35 and under 40.

LOBO BAND ADD 3 NEW PIECES TO COLLECTION

The new King, giant BB-flat, Sousa-phone, just purchased for the Lobo band by W. J. Leach, band committeeman, and R. L. Maddox, director, is a big addition to the musical repertoire that will be available to music lovers and Lobo fans now, said these gentlemen in discussing the purchase. The regatta retail value is $450. The instrument weighs 40 pounds and is one of four in the state. It is a thing of beauty as well as being a giant in size, silver body with gold bell. This makes the third new type of instrument added to the instrumentation of the Lobo band. The other two recently added are Oboe and flute. Other instruments which Mr. Maddox hopes to include during the next year or two are a band bassoon, alto clarinet, baritone saxophone and tympani, in order to make a perfect instrumentation.

Methodist Stewards Banquet at Mobley

Pastor W. H. Cole and fourteen members of the board of stewards of the First Methodist church met at the Mobley hotel Monday evening at 7:30, for a banquet and business session to discuss matters of importance to the church. S. H. Nance is chairman of the board. Those present were: W. H. Cole, S. H. Nance, Ed Huestis, Sam B. King, Joe Meador, B. N. Lane, Fred Hayes, W. B. Statham, O. L. Stamey, Mrs. J. E. Crawford, S. R. Wood, Wm. Reagan, F. B. Altman, J. E. Hickman and J. E. Proctor.

R. R. COMM'N ENJOINED BY 3-JUDGE COURT

AUSTIN, March 31—(U.P.)—Proration under the state natural gas conservation law was enjoined today by a 3 judge federal court decision filed here. Injunction relief against the act house bill No. 266 was granted to two major pipe lines operated in the Panhandle field—Consolidated Gas company and Texoma Natural Gas company. The ruling was sweeping against the state railroad commission powers to prorate gas production. Attorney General Madden Hill, who handles the litigation for the department believed. "The effect of this decision as we see it is that the railroad commission cannot write a valid proration order under the existing act," he said. The statute was enacted to meet protest against waste of Texas natural gas amounting to more than 3,000,000,000 cubic feet.

30 CISCO HIGH SENIORS PLAN CARLSBAD TRIP

A trip to Carlsbad Cavern by thirty seniors sponsored by C. C. Duff and Miss Elizabeth Daniels, was arranged at a meeting of the senior body at the high school today. The trip by school bus, will start April 2 and will last through Sunday, April 5. The cost per person will be $4.50, it was announced, for the 850-mile trip there and return. The students will pay for their eats, but there will be no charge for entrance to the cavern. The trip has been in the planning some weeks and notwithstanding the sponsors have warned the student body that it is a hard trip, they are enthusiastic for the pilgrimage.

Third Day of First Christian Revival

Today is the third day of the two-week revival which is being held at the First Christian church with the local pastor, Rev. David P. Tyndall, doing the preaching. The sermon subject for this evening will be "The Power of Christ." Much interest is being shown by church members as well as outsiders by reports by the pastor. The pastor used for his theme for the service last evening "Hiding From Sin." The public has been extended a cordial invitation to attend the services each evening, also the prayer services conducted by the Woman's Council held each morning.

MAYOR WALKS OUT ANGRILY FROM HEARING

WASHINGTON, March 31—(U.P.)—Mayor McNair, of Pittsburgh stalked angrily out of a house ways and means committee meeting on the administration tax bill here today after chairman Robert Doughton, threatened to have him ejected for charging the committee with "unfairness." The hearing was disrupted momentarily when McNair gave a protest against corporate surplus tax provision of the measure became so heated that he was baffled to silence. "If you can't treat this committee with the same courtesy it is trying to treat you, we will call a police." "I am the mayor of a great industrial city and I have the right to make a statement and you and the rest of these guys can't keep me from it," McNair reported. A clerk at the hearing stood up and moved slowly toward McNair as crys of "throw him out" were heard in the room. Commissioners halted the clerk and restored order. The mayor mumbled words such as "unfair and ridiculous" picked up his hat and strolled from the room.

Scheduled To Go To Chair Tonight

Bruno Richard Hauptmann, convicted collector of the Lindbergh ransom money, is scheduled to go to death in the electric chair at about 8:30 tonight. The court of pardons having refused further clemency and Governor Hoffman having declared he will not grant another reprieve.

Gov. Hoffman To Be Kidnaped, Is Warning Received

NEWARK, N. J., March 31—(U.P.)—A man telephoned a warning to police last night that Governor Hoffman would be kidnaped tonight. Police traced the call through a pay telephone in Brooklyn. Police sent there by radio were too late to capture the callers.

CONTRACT ON STATION GOES TO LOCAL FIRM

Ed Huestis announces the letting of the contract for converting the Norvell and Miller brick building at the corner of Main at East Eighth street, recently purchased, as a site for a modern service station to the Cisco Lumber & Supply company who has taken the contract for and furnishing the material to be used. Work will start tomorrow, announced Mr. Huestis. The station will front on both streets so as to accommodate traffic from the two highways, 23 and highway 1, through Cisco. The building was purchased some two weeks ago from Norvell & Miller. Price was not given. Remodeling is expected to be completed by May 1.

"Jacobs Ladder" Is Sermon Subject

"Jacob's Ladder", will be the sermon subject tonight when Rev. E. F. Cole preaches one of a series of revival services which are being held at the First Baptist church. This morning, Rev. Cole, delivered a sermon on "Personal Soul Winning". It was announced by the church pastor, Rev. E. S. James, that 20 professions are additions to the church were recorded up to date. A male quartet will furnish special music for the services this evening.

BULLETIN TRENTON, N. J., March 31 (U.P.)—Justice Thomas W. Flecher today refused an eleventh hour appeal for a new trial for Bruno Richard Hauptmann. He also denied a motion for a stay of execution.

(Copyright 1936 by United Press) STATE PRISON YARD, TRENTON, N. J., March 31 (U.P.)—Bruno Richard Hauptmann gripped the bars of his cell with trembling fingers today as he wept and cried out for a miracle which would save him from death tonight in the electric chair. The convicted murderer of the Lindbergh baby, his head clipped for the death, lost his grip when virtually every legal hope of delaying execution came to an end. Guards were ordered to take extraordinary precautions against suicide.

There have been no stronger indications of confession at any time since the former German carpenter was scheduled to die in the electric chair. Reporters were told that he continued to cry out that he is innocent and that he continued to believe some eleventh hour destiny will save him from electrocution. It was as a broken homeless man that he spent his last day of life while his attorneys went through the last gestures of legal procedure which might save him. His eyes were red from weeping, deep lines of fatigue showed he had not slept since 1:30 Monday. His body trembled and when Kimberling walked through the door of the death house Hauptmann was unable to control himself. The headkeeper questioned the guard who had stood all night near the cell, and ordered that extraordinary precautions be taken against suicide.

Hauptmann paced his cell babbled about his innocence and wrote farewell letters to friends in Germany. He intimately discussed with the guard whether it would be possible for him to make a radio appeal to the world for anyone who knew anything about the crime to come forward and tell it. He trembled and paced again when the guards came this morning, preparing him for death. But his voice cried: "I'm not afraid to die." He gave his answer to Rev. John Mattiefen who went to the death house at noon with this message from Mrs. Hauptmann, "Don't worry."

Hitler's Answer Sent By Airplane

BERLIN, March 31—(U.P.)—Chancellor Adolf Hitler sent his answer to the Locarno Powers peace proposal to London by airplane today. Joachim von Ribbentrop, special advisor left with the answer at 4:49 p. m.

500 Per Cent Gain Shown in Building

AUSTIN, March 31—(U.P.)—Building in Texas showed a remarkable gain of more than 500 per cent for February, 1936, compared with 1935, the bureau of business research of the University of Texas announced today. January building doubled in February. Among cities showing increases was Sweetwater.

WALES TRYING FOR LONE STAR ANNUAL PICNIC

Dallas Wales, president of the junior chamber of commerce, and who has been making earnest efforts to secure the annual Lone Star picnic for Cisco this summer, reports a strong leaning among local men in Cisco and Ranger for the meeting to be here. He has received much encouragement and hopes to make a report soon to the effect that Cisco will get the vote of the entire peninsula of the organization, he says, at a conference in Ranger, Monday.

Obedience, The First Requirement in Life

"He who would govern must first learn to obey," is too true. Governing ones self is the hardest of all. A great trainer in dramatics said that to be a great actor, one must give implicit obedience to the trainer. Children who are obedient have much advantage in the race of life for happiness and success.

Disobedience gets a man into most of his difficulties—if not all of them.

Adam and Eve were kicked out of a soft snap because of disobedience. The progeny of Adam and Eve have followed in the footsteps of their parents and kept right on being disobedient and getting into one trouble after another.

There is no telling how far the ramifications of disobedience extend. There is many a man with ability holding down some mediocre position because he is not obedient; he does not realize that the failure of the company to advance him is because he is disobedient; he simply knows he does not get up and on. His chiefs are afraid to promote him into a position of importance because he cannot be depended upon to obey.

Men fail in business because they disobey the laws of business. They fail in health because they disobey the laws of health. They go to jail and to the gallows and the electric chair because they disobey the laws of the state. They get in bad and are frowned upon by their fellows because they disobey the laws of society. If a man would go through life being obedient where he should be obedient, his path would be much brighter and easier to tread.

This whole world is set up to teach obedience. But the modern person is too apt to think that obedience is out of date. Self expression is the big idea today. Self control, self abnegation, self discipline, or any other kind of discipline—if the family happens to have a dictionary. The children are allowed to be as they are, and grow up as they are and expand along the lines of their tendencies, do the things they want to do, and mind nobody.

There is no reason to believe that the test of obedience is not still the first requirement for life in Paradise; but how can a child be expected to be obedient when he has not been taught to be obedient to his parents?

When a car dashes around the corner on two wheels and down the street at break-neck speed, don't jump to the conclusion that the engine is full of pep—the driver may be full of corn or rye.

If Japan and Russia ever goes to war, the ones who will suffer most will be Linotype operators and proof readers.

Even the critics of the New Deal must admit that it was a square one, and not off the bottom of the pack.

Only fools step on the gas where angels fear to tread.

Now a restaurant advertises a canibal sandwich. Wonder if that could be a missionary between two slices of bread?

84 Additions To Breck Baptists

Closing with 84 additions to the church, the revival meeting at the First Baptist church at Breckenridge with Rev. Philip C. McGahey doing the preaching has drawn the largest crowds of any time during the past few years.

With 31 additions by letter and 53 by baptism, the church has been greatly strengthened in spirituality as well as in numbers, the pastor reports.

Ranger Wins All Matches Sunday

Ranger made a clean sweep of the 11 matches played with Brady players in the first of the Mid-Texas Golf Association matches this year, the only close match being when Jack Mooney turned in a score of 1-up to win. The next closest was a 2-1 victory for Bob Earnest.

The individual scores of the matches were as follows:
Gid Faircloth won from D. A. Harkrider, 4-3.
H. G. Poy won from H. K. Adkins, 7-6.
J. S. Brimberry won from B. A. Hallum, 7-6.
H. H. Vaughn won from I. O. Mayhew, 6-5.
Jack Mooney won from I. Y. Colium, 1-up.
Roy Trower won from Pat. Malone, 7-5.
Bob Earnest won from O. L. Whitefield, 2-1.
Frank Hicklin won from H. L. Wood, 6-3.
O. M. Moore won from Clyde Hall, Jr., 8-7.
Elmer Morris, Jr., won from Ira Mayhew, Sr., 7-6.
R. H. Snyder won from Evans J. Adkins, 6-5.

On account of the disturbed condition of the local golf grounds, incident to the building of grass greens, Cisco did not participate in the matches this year, announced J. E. Caffrey, president of the local Country Club.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Toby Ryan, 19, works behind the jewelry counter of a large Manhattan department store. He poses for a photograph to be used in a store advertisement, and MAURY BLATT, the photographer, tells her she has a "camera face."

Discharged from the store due to the scheming of jealous MAURINE HALL, Toby has difficulty finding another job. Then she meets MARY BLISS and he sends her to HEEN BLAKE, manager of a model agency. Toby registers at the agency, secures work as a model.

At a style show where she is modeling, she meets CAROL MARSH, rich and snobbish. She also sees WILBY TEE JAMIESON who has been trying for some time to persuade her to dine with him. For a week, Toby showers her with attentions.

Toby leaves her rooming house and moves into an apartment with her friend, HARRIET HOLM.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XVIII

Toby didn't want to believe what happened that night at the Seville Club. She argued with herself about it, tried to convince herself there was some explanation. It had been two days since she had seen Tim. Both days he had called her and Toby had confidently expected to spend the evenings with him. Then retakes were ordered on some photographs made the day before, and there was nothing for her to do but tell Tim their date was off.

The second evening he had been tied up—some sort of family affair, he said, that he couldn't get out of.

So when he came for her the following evening, a real celebration seemed in order. Toby wore a new hat—shiny black straw, with a bright red flower directly in front. She thought it added a good deal of smartness to her simple dress and coat, and was delighted when Tim approved it, too.

"You really like it?" she asked eagerly.

"Sure. It's a swell hat. What's that red thing on it?"

"Tim! That's not a red thing; that's a very nice rose."

"Oh, is it? Well, I couldn't tell. Where'd you want to go tonight?"

"You know, it doesn't matter to me." Her eyes raised to his, glowing as they always did when he was near. "Any place that you like, Tim."

"Well—let's see. How about the Seville Club? Haven't been there for a while."

He had never been there with her. Toby said her interest quickened. "Yes. Let's go there."

It was not until they had almost reached the place that Toby remembered where she had heard the Seville Club mentioned. It had been Carol Marsh who had spoken of it. Carol had said to her friend, Betty, "I'll ask Tim to take us to the Seville Club."

Well, because Carol Marsh had mentioned the Seville Club was no reason Toby shouldn't go there.

SHE put the other girl out of her mind and began chattering about happenings of the last two days—the retakes, and how she had spent the evening before, pasting up clippings in the scrap-book she was making of advertisements in which her picture appeared. Toby had learned that all of the girls who modeled kept scrap-books. And there were the children she'd seen at the Model's League office. Half a dozen brothers and sisters, some over 12 years old, and every one of them a professional model with years of "experience."

"Do you know what Bill Pryor told me?" she asked. "He's the man I worked with in that washing machine advertisement. Bill's wife used to be a model, too. They have a baby now, a little darling—Bill showed me a snapshot of him. The baby's only six weeks old and already he's posed in some pictures. For a baby food company, Bill said he was just grand about it and the agency wants to use him again."

Tim put up both hands in protest. "Six weeks old and a working man! Say, that's making it tough for an old codger like me. I always supposed that until a fellow was able to walk and talk he could sort of take it easy."

"But the baby loved it! He had a grand time."

"Well, I see what they mean when they say there's no place for old age these days."

They were at the Seville Club now. Outside it looked much like any of the other supper clubs to which Toby had gone with Tim. When they entered, however, she saw that there was more formality here—in the decoration of the rooms, in the way she and Tim were received, in the manner and appearance of the men and women about them. Toby wished Tim had told her. The little black hat with the red rose didn't seem quite the thing here.

Then she remembered that Tim hadn't known they were coming. It had been decided on the spur of the moment. Besides, it must be all right. There was a woman at the left in a gray outfit almost as informal as Toby's. Others, too, here and there about the room.

Toby decided not to think any more about what again, and they had the whole evening before them. Nothing was to spoil her pleasure tonight. She said, looking about her, "This is a nice place, Tim. It's the first time I've been here."

"That so?"

"He was always forgetting that all of these places were new to her, that Toby's idea of an evening's celebration, until she had met Tim, had been a cafeteria dinner and a movie."

Tim ordered drinks—an extremely mild one for Toby, which he knew she would barely sip, and a highball for himself. Toby didn't like cocktails. Besides, she knew what they did to a face that must be flawless before the camera.

The dance band was playing now. It was a band famous from coast to coast. Rhythmic melody floated out over the room and diners drifted from their tables to the polished space in the center of the room.

Tim leaned forward. "See that girl over there?" he said. "The one in blue?"

Toby saw the one he meant. "Yes," she said. "She's very beautiful, isn't she?"

"Know who that is?"

"No."

"That's Gilda Lang. She's going to Hollywood to make a picture."

Gilda Lang was an English actress, famous on both sides of the Atlantic. Toby said excitedly, "Really, Tim? Is it really Gilda Lang?"

"Of course it is. And that's Todd Manders with her. I bumped into them last night—"

"Last night? I thought you were at home?"

"I was but I—er, I saw them on the street. They say Manders is crazy about Gilda. Well, you can't blame him for that. Looks like a million, doesn't she? Do you remember that last show of hers, year before last?"

"No I—I didn't see it."

Tim knew a great deal about the theater. Toby had most impressed by all he had told her about actors and actresses and the plays they appeared in. Bits of gossip about this one and that. He knew who were in the new plays, even before they had opened, who suffered the financial loss when a play "fopped." A dozen times he had pointed out celebrities to her—producers, playwrights, song writers as well as actors and dancers and chorus girls. Toby thought it was amazing that he remembered them all.

TIM finished his drink and ordered a second. He went on talking about Gilda Lang. "She was a sensation in that play," he said. "It was one of the biggest hits of the year. A sell-out every night. And then suddenly Gilda decided she wanted to go back to London, and nothing could stop her. Just like that, the play closed. Oh, she's temperamental—but what an actress! I wonder how she'll get along in Hollywood."

"She ought to be grand in pictures," Toby said. "She's certainly beautiful enough. Look, they're going to dance—"

Gilda Lang and the man with her had arisen and were moving toward the space reserved for dancing. The actress' unusual beauty fascinated Toby; she could scarcely take her eyes away. Gilda Lang's blond hair lay in sleek ringlets about her head. The blue gown was a sheath for an exquisite figure. But the surprising thing about Gilda Lang was that her face had piquancy. It wasn't at all the sort you would expect with such "ragle loveliness. There was a hint of fire beneath the surface.

Watching the actress, Toby was started to hear Tim's voice. He said abruptly, "Listen—I'm fed up with this place. Let's get out of here."

"Why, Tim?"

"It's too crowded and too noisy." He turned, signaling the waiter to bring the check. "And the service is terrible," he went on. "I never saw anything like it. Come on—let's clear out."

Without knowing quite how it came about, Toby was on her feet, making her way toward the door. She couldn't understand Tim. What had come over him? If he wanted to go somewhere else it was all right, of course. Only this place wasn't crowded or noisy; it was one of the nicest places she had ever been. And Tim had been enjoying himself, too. Why was he suddenly so anxious to leave?

A girl at a table a little distance away caught Toby's eye. There was something familiar about the girl. She turned then, so that her full face came into view and Toby recognized her. It was Carol Marsh—Carol in clinging silver cloth, with a party of half a dozen others. Toby, where she had been sitting, couldn't see Carol, but Tim could. He must have noticed her—Pain, sharp as it was sudden, clutched at Toby's heart. Was this why Tim was in such a hurry to leave?

"Do you know what Bill Pryor told me?" she asked. "He's the man I worked with in that washing machine advertisement. Bill's wife used to be a model, too. They have a baby now, a little darling—Bill showed me a snapshot of him. The baby's only six weeks old and already he's posed in some pictures. For a baby food company, Bill said he was just grand about it and the agency wants to use him again."

Tim put up both hands in protest. "Six weeks old and a working man! Say, that's making it tough for an old codger like me. I always supposed that until a fellow was able to walk and talk he could sort of take it easy."

"But the baby loved it! He had a grand time."

"Well, I see what they mean when they say there's no place for old age these days."

They were at the Seville Club now. Outside it looked much like any of the other supper clubs to which Toby had gone with Tim. When they entered, however, she saw that there was more formality here—in the decoration of the rooms, in the way she and Tim were received, in the manner and appearance of the men and women about them. Toby wished Tim had told her. The little black hat with the red rose didn't seem quite the thing here.

Then she remembered that Tim hadn't known they were coming. It had been decided on the spur of the moment. Besides, it must be all right. There was a woman at the left in a gray outfit almost as informal as Toby's. Others, too, here and there about the room.

Toby decided not to think any more about what again, and they had the whole evening before them. Nothing was to spoil her pleasure tonight. She said, looking about her, "This is a nice place, Tim. It's the first time I've been here."

"That so?"

"He was always forgetting that all of these places were new to her, that Toby's idea of an evening's celebration, until she had met Tim, had been a cafeteria dinner and a movie."

Tim ordered drinks—an extremely mild one for Toby, which he knew she would barely sip, and a highball for himself. Toby didn't like cocktails. Besides, she knew what they did to a face that must be flawless before the camera.

The dance band was playing now. It was a band famous from coast to coast. Rhythmic melody floated out over the room and diners drifted from their tables to the polished space in the center of the room.

Tim leaned forward. "See that girl over there?" he said. "The one in blue?"

Toby saw the one he meant. "Yes," she said. "She's very beautiful, isn't she?"

"Know who that is?"

"No."

"That's Gilda Lang. She's going to Hollywood to make a picture."

Gilda Lang was an English actress, famous on both sides of the Atlantic. Toby said excitedly, "Really, Tim? Is it really Gilda Lang?"

"Of course it is. And that's Todd Manders with her. I bumped into them last night—"

"Last night? I thought you were at home?"

Each puff less acid A LIGHT SMOKE OF RICH, RIPE-BODIED TOBACCO

The simple mechanical details of cigarette manufacture are of surprising importance. Upon them depend the physical properties of the cigarette, such as weight, size, firmness, moisture-holding properties, uniformity of fill, uniformity of product—all of which have a far-reaching effect on the character of its combustion and the constituents of its smoke.

In the manufacture of Lucky Strike Cigarettes all of these properties have been standardized with care for the perfection of A LIGHT SMOKE.

Oil Belt Gun Club Elects Officers, '36

Lu Mendelhall, of Cisco, was elected a director of the Oil Belt Gun club Sunday when new officers were chosen to direct the activities for another year.

The election took place at the gun club range, near the intersection of the Cisco-Eastland-Breckenridge roads about eight miles north of Cisco.

John W. Turner of Eastland was elected president succeeding Sam Butler of Eastland; A. H. Rhodes of Eastland was elected vice president, succeeding Guy Ewing of Breckenridge and C. J. Rhodes of Eastland land was elected secretary-treasurer succeeding Roy Allen, Eastland.

New directors are Guy Ewing of Breckenridge, William Fardoe of Breckenridge, E. P. Latham of Ranger, Lou Mendelhall of Cisco, and Sam Butler of Eastland.

Former directors were Jack Ronch of Ranger, Hugh Knight of Breckenridge, F. D. Wright of Cisco, Jim Horton of Eastland and George L. Fafossee of Albany.

The new president announced Monday the club's opening shoot of the season Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Invitations have been sent to shooters at Albany, Sweetwater, South Bend, Abilene and Brownwood. One hundred and fifty are expected to participate.

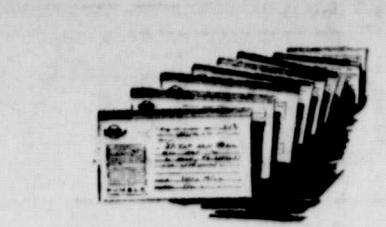

Bridge tables will be arranged for the ladies and refreshments will be served to shooters throughout the day. A supper for stockholders and their guests will be held at the clubhouse Sunday evening.

A shoot similar to the "turkey" event held in November is programmed for the Sunday affair.

Organized June, 1915, the club boasts one of the most complete ranges in this section, has 67 stockholders and 300 associate members.

Every year, the Humble Company receives thousands of voluntary comments on Humble Service Check Cards from Texas motorists and out-of-state visitors. These cards tell their own story of courteous, helpful service, of clean stations, of spotless restrooms. Humble Station men take a justifiable pride in these comments from their customers.

Humble Service Stations are carefully designed and landscaped to make them attractive features of the neighborhoods in which they are located. They are fully equipped for your comfort and the expert care your car requires. Humble men are proud of the Stations which they man, and this Centennial year, they are putting their best foot forward.

Restrooms at Humble Service Stations are as carefully kept as your bathroom at home. Many of them are tiled—all of them are spotlessly clean and sanitary. They are equipped with every modern convenience for your comfort.

In a recent study of Humble Service Check Cards mailed to the Company by Humble customers, nearly half the comments complimented Humble Service Station men on their friendly courtesy. These trained men render the kind of service which motorists find helpful.

We make no exaggerated advertising claims for Humble products, but we do say, you'll find them definitely second to none. We ask you to try them in your own automobile; to test Humble Motor oils and Humble motor fuels under your own driving conditions. When you do, we're confident you'll come back for more.

"We invite you to stop for Service where you see the HUMBLE sign"

"We'd like you to come in, to get acquainted with us, to try our service and our products. Whether you use your car on the highway or mostly in town, we believe that you'll like our Stations: we make it a point to keep them attractive and clean, and the Company has equipped them for your comfort. Spotless Humble restrooms are proverbial throughout the state; ice water is always handy; free air and water are available for your car; even first aid kits and fire extinguishers are provided. We know our Humble products are definitely second to none... With the Company behind us, we're doing everything we can to make driving an automobile in Texas pleasant, comfortable and care-free. As homefolks representing a homefolks institution, we invite you to stop for service where you see the Humble sign."

reports show that the resignation of the husband was decided on because usually it is easier for a man than for a woman to find work.

Salaries Are Compared

Comparison of salaries of husband and wife at time of dismissal showed that 72 women dismissed were getting a higher salary than their husbands, 92 wives had the same salary as their husbands, and 58 men separated from the service had higher salaries than their wives.

"Of the 697 couples," stated the report, "that had their income reduced through the dismissal of one wage earner under Section 213 of the Economy Act, nearly three-fourths had been entirely supporting at least one other person; 184 of them had at least three persons completely dependent on them, while 86 had four or more dependents."

Mrs. Don McEachern Is Class Hostess

Mrs. Don McEachern was Monday afternoon hostess to members of the J. O. Y. Sunday School class of the First Baptist church, in her home on the Eastland highway, in a monthly business meeting.

Mrs. J. R. Burnett led an interesting devotional after which a short business discussion was held.

Mrs. H. G. Bailey was presented a going-away gift. Delicious refreshments of angel food cake and brick tea were served.

Present were: Mesdames W. L. Francisco, E. L. Smith, C. S. Turner, J. R. Burnett, A. L. Black, Jack Phippen, E. C. Harper, J. Warren, M. V. McConathy, L. W. Elkins, Barton Phillipot, C. H. BLACK-DRAUGHT

NEXT TIME YOU NEED A LAXATIVE

For constipation take a dose of Black-Draught as soon as you realize the condition you are in.

"If I am bilious, have headache or a cold, I take a dose of Black-Draught at night," writes Mrs. R. D. Thaxton, of Lexington, Ga. "If I have a bad feeling after meals, I take just a pinch of Black-Draught. It relieves me. I recommend it very highly—a good family medicine. I give my children Syrup of Black-Draught. I find both good."

Black-Draught paves the way for the relief of many such symptoms as those mentioned above, when constipation is at the bottom of the trouble.

Just try it! Follow the directions carefully and you'll probably learn why Black-Draught is so popular.

Mrs. McBee were present.

Hulin Erwin said he was sponsor of a party at his home April 29, 1933. Mr. and Mrs. McBees were present as well as Raymond Henry, who then worked for an ice company.

"He (McBee) got drunk and Mrs. McBee shoved him out of the house," Erwin said. "She told him 'get out of here you old dirty brute.'"

"He didn't seem to be disturbing anyone. He wasn't staggering."

McBee had been advised to stay out until he sobered up," Erwin testified.

G. L. Looney of Lella Lake who also attended the dance said McBee was "pushed or knocked out of the house."

Accompanying the McBees home with Raymond Henry, Erwin said he observed "there might have been a little necking."

He agreed with Defense Attorney Flewelen that "peace and harmony prevailed" after McBee's ejection.

W. A. Williams of Rising Star stated he had observed meetings of Mrs. McBee and Henry at the home of John Proctor, with whom Henry lived in 1933. These meetings were observed by the notation of an automobile owned by one of Mrs. McBee's friends at Proctor's residence, Williams stated.

States Attorney Criminal District Attorney Grady Owen and Special Prosecutor Allen D. Dabney and defense attorneys agreed on admissibility of absentee testimony of R. S. Long, Shackelford county clerk that he issued a marriage license Sept. 22, 1933 to Raymond Henry and Mrs. McBee.

Mrs. W. A. Carter of Williams, nine miles southwest of Rising Star, testified she presented a party at her father's house in 1933 at which Mrs. McBee and Raymond Henry danced together.

Joe Blankenship, maintenance supervisor for the highway department in Eastland county, said McBee's last pay was given April 17, 1933.

Raymond Brookshire of Coleman, who was assistant game warden and a superior to McBee, in 1933, testified he had not seen him since.

The jury was completed Monday afternoon after Judge Patterson extended court hours from 5 to 6 p. m. The first juror was accepted at 1:55 p. m. and the twelfth at 3:54 p. m.

FRECKLES and HIS FRIENDS

AT THE TEXAS TODAY

Fire Destroys Home And Contents Here

Flames practically destroyed the frame building occupied by Bud McNew at 307 West Third street Monday, at 3:50 p. m., when papers and trash were ignited by a cigaret thrown carelessly, according to Fire Marshall Gustafsen.

The building belonged to George Cleveland, north of Cisco, and was not insured, it was stated. The household goods were almost a total loss with no insurance, stated the fire marshal.
