TAX BILL IS ATTACKED BY HOUSE GROUP

WASHINGTON, April 6 -- (UP) -- Treasury inflationists attacked the administration $799,000,000 tax bill with charges that new levy was unnecessary while $10,180,000,000 in gold rests in the treasury. Representative Wright Patman, leader of the House currency extension was first witness before the Ways and Means committee and it was expected to be the day appearing of the balance of the budget.

Patman, author of inflationary tax bill, which was passed last year and vetoed by the president, stated "idle gold in the treasury should be used for the issuance of permanent currency. When it is then we should levy taxes but don't think we have a right to tax while this idle gold remains in the treasury." The committee has no jurisdiction but if the committee fails to report currency maturing out of a tax bill then the question would be forced to house for decision.

COUNTRY CLUBS TO MEET Secretary W. C. McDaniell announced today that there will be a meeting of the Country Club tonight at the Chamber of Commerce. All members and directors are urged to present.

Tornadoes Take 147 Lives in Five States

DAMAGE TO PROPERTY IS IN MILLIONS

ATLANTA, Ga., April 6 -- (UP) -- Storms of terrific intensity slashed five southern states today spreading death and destruction over vast areas. Reports were 147 dead in the adjacent states of Mississippi, Alabama, Tennessee and Arkansas, with the town of Tupelo, Miss., bearing the blunt with 79 known dead. Another storm ripped through the county town of Gainsville, Ga. Red Cross estimated the deaths at 20. Western Union officials estimated 100 total. Other unofficial estimates ranged to 1,000. Property damage at Gainsville $5,000,000.

W. M. Brice United Press correspondent said the Preston hotel, largest hotel, was demolished as well as the City Hall. Two companies of the 122nd national guard were dispatched by Governor Talmadge. T. M. Abercrombie, state director of health sent all available nurses and doctors and Tennessee Valley authority officials, were to aid in caring for the injured. Communication lines were badly disrupted and accurate total of damage could not be obtained. Damaged water mains intensified the seriousness of the fire hazard with five buildings already aflame. Riverside Military Academy and Branran Women's College were missed by the storm according to the report.

A public school building demolished in 15 minutes before time for classes to start. It was believed most of the children were outside. About two-thirds of the business district was affected. The storm bent its fury on the courthouse square. The city hall and a number of other large buildings were demolished, according to an engineer on the Southern railroad. The known dead by towns: Tupelo, Miss., 79; Columbia, Tenn., 6; Grenada, Miss., 5; Red Bay, Ala., 4; Broomville, Miss., 4; Lacrosse, Ark., 1; Melbourne, Ark., 1.

REPORTS 200 WOMEN TRAPPED IN BURNING MILL WASHINGTON, April 6 -- (UP) -- Unconfirmed reports to Red Cross from Atlanta said 200 women had been trapped and were in danger of burning mills outside of the city of Gainsville. The suburb of New Holland was reported also in flame. The women were trapped the unofficial report said, when flames suddenly enveloped the new buildings.

RAINS IN OHIO VALLEY THREATEN FLOOD CINCINNATI, April 6 -- (UP) -- A second flood is rising rapidly upon Cincinnati. W. C. Devereaux warned today. He cautioned residents of areas first affected by a flood stage to evacuate their homes immediately. Flood stage of 52 feet will be reached late Tuesday or Wednesday and the crest may go higher Devereaux said. Rains throughout the Ohio Valley closed the new danger to Cincinnati. In Kentucky they were accompanied by hail storms. There will be more rain in the upper valley late today Devereaux said.

SEVERE DUSTER COVERS TEXAS By United Press Strong winds drove dust clouds across Texas to the Gulf coast Monday leaving gardens and orchards in the northern part of the state blighted by the late spring norther. A breeze of 44 miles an hour at Amarillo where the temperature dropped to 18 degrees. The wind attained a velocity of 33 miles an hour at Dallas shortly before 9 o'clock Sunday as the storm struck, but visibility had cleared to 10 miles. Dallas reported a temperature drop to 38 degrees. Brownsville had only three miles visibility as an 18 mile norwester shifted over the citrus orchards. Dust and strong winds were reported at Houston. San Antonio and Corpus Christi. Temperature at Abilene went to 34. El Paso reported a light frost.

COLD WAVE SUNDAY DOES LITTLE DAMAGE Another cold wind, accompanied by dust from the north, brought the temperature range down to 35. Struck Cisco late Sunday evening, increasing almost to a gale during the night, failed however, to do any more damage than to make young vegetation look rather sick and to break some garden plants such as English peas, off at the ground as they were whipped by the sand and force of the wind. Temperature had mounted to above 40 by eleven o'clock.

Oil Wells Sprout in Oklahoma City Yards

This scene—a new oil well beside a slush pit in a back yard in the Oklahoma City residential district—is being multiplied daily as citizens rush to take advantage of the decision, reached in a recent vote, to open for drilling 70 blocks of city property. Since adjacent state-owned tracts were excluded from the vote, Gov. E. W. Woodland threatened to lease these lands and call troops to protect bidders' rights, rather than risk drainage of state pools by whipstocking (drilling on an angle) tactics of drillers on adjoining tracts.

BORAH FIGHTS FOR 24 VOTES OF WISCONSIN

By WILLARD R. SMITH (United Press Staff Correspondent) MADISON, Wis., April 6 -- (UP) -- Only the names of President Roosevelt and Senator William E. Borah of Idaho appear on the ballot of the presidential preferential primary to be held in Wisconsin tomorrow.

This offering of a democratic liberal and a republican liberal is designed to attract the votes of Wisconsin's party in power, the progressives. They have no national party yet, and no convention. Hence they are regarded as free agents who will play an important part in the outcome of contests in the republican and democratic ranks. Two Republican States Republicans offer two complete slates of 24 delegate candidates, two from each of the 10 congressional districts and four delegates at large. The first one in the field was pledged to Borah. Remnants of the old guard machine put forward another ticket of 24 uninducted delegates. Borah men assailed them as "pro-Hoover." They denied allegiance to the former president, insisted they were not bound to any presidential prospect.

Despite the fact that republicans have been crowded out of state offices by democrats and progressives the contest within their party is one of the most interesting phases of Tuesday's election. Two delegate candidates pledged to support Governor A. H. M. Landon of Kansas for president are entered in one district and one favoring former President Hoover in another. Conference Endorses Roosevelt Democrats in a statewide convention endorsed a delegation of 24 tightly bound to President Roosevelt. A few pro-Roosevelt rivals entered the race from Milwaukee. Another rival candidate for delegate at large is distinctly anti-Roosevelt. He is John M. Callahan, former national committeeman, the only Al Smith man in Wisconsin's delegation to the 1932 convention.

Two district candidates in Milwaukee, not on the endorsed democratic ticket, are pledging support of the Townsend old age pension plan. The Roosevelt-Borah contest offers progressives an opportunity to ate Highway Engineer, in Austin, Highway 40, through Kaufman county, 23 miles; 25 miles in Dallas county; and 24 miles in Denton county—a total of 72 miles, will be first to receive attention. General maintenance will be augmented by laying of asphalt in chugers and uneven surfaces and resurfacing work. Starting at Garland in Dallas county, Highway No. 1 will be simply improved through Rockwall. The local pastor, Rev. E. S. James, expressed his thanks and appreciation to local pastors, some of which dismissed services at their respective churches; to departments in the church, the choir, the orchestra, and to local newspapers for their cooperation and loyalty during the two weeks of revival. At the close of the service baptismal rites were ministered to eight candidates. A volunteer love offering of $226.75 was tendered Rev. E. F. Cole at the close of the service.

By the conviction the jury voted they believed the State's contention that Henry stabbed McBee with an ice pick May 1, 1933, engineered an early-hour burial the following day and the exhumation and hanging of the skeleton several weeks later. The skeleton was found in a Rising Star wood December 22, 1934.

U. S. SUPREME COURT RULES FOR OIL MAN

WASHINGTON, April 6 -- (UP) -- The supreme court today upheld J. Edward Jones, oil promoter, in his challenge of registration provision of the securities act of 1933. The court did not however rule upon the constitutionality of the securities act. It held merely that Jones should have been allowed to withdraw a registration statement of oil royalties certificates rather than appear before the board to testify concerning the registration as demanded by securities and exchange commission. Securities and exchange commission officials feared after examination of the enforcement of the strict requirement over stock and securities that the board would be seriously embarrassed.

Townsend Adherents To Convene In Cisco

A Townsend convention was planned some weeks ago for a meeting to be held in Cisco, April 8, at which some 15,000 people from the surrounding districts were to present, announcement having been made by E. G. Kemper, chairman for the seventeenth congressional district for the Townsend old age pension plan. Mr. Kemper could not be reached today, he being out of the city, but parties of his organization said that the convention would be held here April 8. The weather conditions will determine the place of meeting it was announced, and as Mr. Kemper would be in Cisco tomorrow, full details would be forth coming.

Revival Progresses At First Christian

Services at the First Christian church Sunday marked the beginning of the second week of the revival being conducted by the pastor, Rev. David F. Tyndall. The pastor used for his morning sermon subject "Communion" and at the evening service, "Not Far From the Kingdom." Dr. Tyndall reports a very satisfactory congregation during the past week's services, especially considering the other revival which was being held at the First Baptist church. Attendance is expected to increase each night and the public has been extended a cordial invitation by the Rev. Mr. Tyndall.

Ciscoans Are Urged To Meet Boosters

Secretary of Chamber of Commerce, J. E. Spencer, will go to Ranger tomorrow where he will meet the Houston Boosters and lunch with them, accompany them to Cisco on a special train for a stop of one hour. The Boosters' announced that free souvenirs would be given everyone. It is urged that all men and women, representatives of organizations meet the train and get in the parade which will be followed by the Boosters' own band.

Says He's Loser As Townsend Aide

Besides giving my full time to the Townsend movement, I am thousands of dollars out of pocket," telegraphed Edward J. Margett (above), the Townsendites' San Francisco area manager, to the House Committee which is investigating the nationwide movement. Margett said that his commissions even exceeded the $1,800 to $2,100 a month at which they had been reported by Committee Counsel James R. Sullivan, but that out of those sums he had to pay all employees' salaries and other expenses in his area.

CISCO GREET'S MOTORCADE WITH CONCERT

Many ladies, members of the chambers of commerce, business men and 23 members of R. L. Maddox 44-piece Lobo band gathered to welcome the five cars of Broadway of America boosters who formed the coast to east motorcade that drove into Cisco a few minutes behind the scheduled time today of 1:45 p. m. Personnel of the cars were Bob Jones, president of the association; H. D. Stanley, Dallas chamber of commerce; E. D. Kruger, Magnolia oil company, Fort Worth; and representatives of the Memphis chamber of commerce and Hotel Peabody of the same city, and their ladies.

The Lobo band members gave a concert while the local chamber of commerce pasted Lake Cisco stickers on each car of the caravan. Mr. Stanley, who had visited Cisco on other occasions, praised the pluck of Cisco citizens and her band in braving the cold wind to form a welcome for the body. Their destination is El Centro, California where the Broadway of America convention will be held.

Secretary J. E. Spencer gave them a welcome. Other officials present were Mayor J. T. Berry, R. L. Ponsler and Dallas Wales, presidents of the senior and junior chambers of commerce, respectively.

County Farmers To Hear New Plans

A mass meeting of Eastland county farmers for explanation of the agricultural program which is replacing the invalidated AAA will be held at 7:45 p. m. Tuesday at the courthouse, County Agent Elmo V. Cook announced Saturday. The John William Butts Post, American Legion, will hold their regular semi-monthly meeting tonight at 7:30 o'clock at the Legion hut. Business of importance will come before the Legion and all Legionnaires and ex-service men are urged to be present. A charter for the Sons of the Legion will be applied for and those who have not turned in applications for membership are urged to get them in tonight as charter members. The local post voted some time ago to sponsor this organization and to purchase caps for all charter members. A sufficient number of applications have been secured to apply for charters and a larger number is desired before charter is applied for.

GOES BEFORE GRAND JURY APRIL 27TH

A confession by Jim Elliott, substantiated by a voluntary statement by Bert Bradberry and the surrender of Fate Campbell, all three of whom have been lodged in the Eastland jail, charged with the killing of Buford Tarver, who was found shot with a 38-caliber pistol, north of Lake Cisco Thursday night, apparently solves the murder which is said to have grown out of a quarrel over a 100-gallon still, confiscated by officers. Special Deputy Loss Wood, Constable Grant Daniels and Chief Police M. L. Perdue. The three men have been charged by Grant Daniels with the killing to await the action of the grand jury, which convenes April 27.

Campbell Surrenders As a result of investigations by officers, Jim Elliott, 40, who lives with his mother at East Eighteenth street, Cisco, made a confession and was arrested here Saturday. This confession implicated two others whom officials were seeking.

Fate Campbell, 38, who lives with his wife in Humboldt, on South Beech street, learning that he was wanted in the case, came in and surrendered to Chief Perdue Saturday night about 11:30, saying that he was in the vicinity of the killing Thursday night but that he knew nothing of the matter. He was jailed at Eastland at about 2:30 Sunday, according to M. Perdue.

Bert Bradberry, 25, living in Big Springs, wife dead but has a little girl, was arrested in Big Springs Sunday and held for officers who brought him to Cisco where he was held in the city jail until today when he was transferred to the Eastland jail. Bradberry made a voluntary statement to officers here Sunday night which corroborates that of Jim Elliott, made here Saturday, it is said.

Body Found on Highway 23

Officers were notified about 11 o'clock Thursday night by Quinville Ingram and Herman Notgrass, who live near Nimrod, south of Cisco, that they had been fired at and Buford Tarver killed, by parties who pursued them in a car as they emerged from the canyon road into highway 23, north of Lake Cisco. Justice Joe Wilson and Officers Pierce and Hendrix of the police force, accompanied these men to the scene of the killing and found the body of Tarver about ten feet behind his car, shot by a 38-caliber pistol. The body was brought to Cisco by a Green's Funeral Home ambulance, where the body remained until Sunday, when it was buried at Scranton.

Officers Work Fast

Investigations which resulted in the confiscation of a still, the possession of which had caused the fatal quarrel, were made by officers and a confession by Jim Elliott led to the surrender and arrest of Fate Campbell and Bert Bradberry, and the voluntary statement of the latter, which is said to agree with the facts in the Elliott confession. All three have been lodged in the Eastland county jail, to await action of the grand jury which convenes April 27, on the murder charge filed by Grant Daniels. Campbell and Elliott are well

Desire For Homes Coming Back

Homes are not so out of date as some alarmists have stated. In a city where a series of model homes is being erected to demonstrate the possibility of combining beauty and comfort with sound construction and excellent materials at a moderate price, the fourth house of the group has recently been finished. Already more than 60,000 persons have looked over those houses as registered visitors and have asked many questions. Undoubtedly many others have examined them without registering. Apartment houses are useful and essential, but they have their drawbacks, which in no one sees more clearly than the families who live in them. It seems natural, therefore, to expect that a period of flat-dwelling may be followed by a period of home-owning. Each type of dwelling, too, will encourage improvements in its rival. The convenience and labor economy of the small apartment will be repeated in the private house, while the possibilities for sunshine and fresh air and pleasant outlook of the private home will be sought for the modern apartment building. The public will benefit from all this and will continue to use both types of dwelling.

Training Should Master Impulses

A strolling Syrian with a tame bear found himself broke, and tried to sell his bear to a man for a pet. The man eyed the animal dubiously. The Syrian explained that the beast was very gentle, very kind, very safe, that little children would find her a wonderful companion. "Pick up on her paws," said the man to whom the Syrian was trying to sell the bear. The Syrian did so. The man with thumb and forefinger gingerly lifted up a fearsome claw about four inches long; then dropped it, backed off, and shook his head. "You can't tell me," he said, "that a creature with things like that on the ends of its feet is gentle and kind and safe. Nature never fastened those claws onto that bear for her to be gentle and kind and safe with. No, you can't sell me that bear; some day when things don't go right with her, she'd slap a side of my face off with one swipe of her paw. I haven't forgotten about Adam-zad, the bear that walked like a man."

One of the differences between man and the lower animals is the difference between principle and impulse. A bear that has the impulse to be gentle and safe is that way only so long as the impulse lasts; whereas the bear that is kind and safe and gentle from principle—but there isn't any such bear. Impulse changes with the wind, but principle stands like a granite mountain. There is no virtue so unstable as the virtue that is not founded on principle. The man who is good-natured simply because nothing occurs to ruffle his temper, cannot be depended upon to be good-natured. The woman who is kind because she never has a temptation to be other than kind, cannot be depended upon to remain kind. But where principle governs, there trustworthiness exists.

The woman who says, "Stolen sweets are against my principles," walks in society shying around its evils or repulsing them. The man who says, "I do not believe in ill gotten gains," goes through life giving everybody a square deal and filching from no one.

Who knows what the person with innocent heart and baby face, protected and ignorant, will do when placed in the way of temptation. He will do what his impulses dictate unless there is principle to master desire.

And principle is largely a matter of education; a person may willingly, eagerly commit some act today which ten years from today he may be educated away from; for in ten years he may have developed a principle which today he has not.

Some animals seem to have principles, but most animals act on impulse. The man was wise not to trust his face and the faces of his family to the long claws of the nice she-bear which was kind and gentle and safe through impulse.

City Elections Hot Despite the fact that they have no statewide ticket of their own, progressives are not expected to remain away from the polls. Local school and municipal elections throughout the state are likely to attract a large number of voters of all parties.

An outstanding municipal contest is Milwaukee's where Mayor Daniel W. Hoan, socialist, who has been in office 20 years, is battling to hold his place against forces backing Sheriff Joseph Shinners. A referendum on municipal ownership of the electrical utility there, and others on publicly owned municipal or district power projects are on the ballot.

'Horse Sense' Advice Offered to Motorists

Good old horse sense goes a long way in the proper care of an automobile motor and in obtaining maximum mileage at a minimum cost, say the laboratory scientists of Gulf Oil Corporation, Gulf Refining company. Stressing the need for a proper grade motor oil and a gasoline especially refined for the spring season, Gulf urges motorists to heed these simple facts:

To begin with, it has been necessary to use a very light oil in the crankcase during the extreme winter weather just past. Even if this winter grade oil were in prime condition, it might not lubricate properly in warm weather. Moreover, frequent use of the choke, when practically pure gasoline has entered the cylinders, has tended to thin out the already light lubricant.

During cold weather when the motor has been running, the crankcase has contained warm, moist air which has condensed when the motor has cooled off. In extreme cases ice has formed on the bottom of the crankcase, or frozen in the oil pump. In ordinary cases sludge has formed from the mixture of water, dirt and oil. Sludge is nothing more nor less than a thick goosy mass which tends to block the screen on the oil pump and clog oil lines.

The need for changing motor oil with the changing seasons has been pretty well impressed upon the motoring public, but few car owners are aware that the Gulf refineries in various parts of the country, keeping an eye on the calendar and weather condition, automatically change the properties of gasoline to insure the best and most economical performance according to the season. The properties of Gulf gasoline are changed several times a year. Hence the term, "Keep in Step with the Calendar," used in Gulf advertisements currently appearing in the News.

He shares an apartment with HARRIET HOUM, also a model.

At a charity affair Toby meets wealthy TIM JAMIESON who shows her with attention for a time. Tim leaves town for a few days, promising to call Toby as soon as he returns. The time stretches out and no word comes from him.

HILL BRANDT, once a friend of Toby's, is employed by an advertising agency. He knows a model is to be selected for a big advertising campaign. He suggests to the Hiller Soap Company Hill persuade Toby of the company to consider Toby for the job.

CHAPTER XXIII

IT WAS the letter from John Huckleberry that was responsible for the sheet of pink notepaper on the table where Toby had dropped it and she saw it as she crossed the room to lower the window blind.

The morning sun had reached a point where its rays shone into the room with dazzling brilliance. Toby lowered the blind and went back to theavenport. Orange juice, butter and a tiny bottle of pink liquid were spread out before her on the coffee table. She picked up the butter and set to work industriously on her nails.

Harriet, in pajamas and lounging robe, was curled up almost concealed by the morning newspaper, in the biggest chair in the room. Presently Toby said, "Harriet—"

"Yes, Harriet, what's it like to be proposed to?"

The newspaper crinkled and lowered so that Harriet's face appeared over the edge. "What's it like to be proposed to?" she repeated. "Haven't anyone ever proposed to you, Toby?"

"The other girl shook her head. 'Nobody,' she said, and then smiled. '—except Jonas Huckleberry.'"

"So that was your first proposal! Well, that's something," Harriet dropped the newspaper. She went on thoughtfully, "If you're in love with a man and he asks you to marry him, you probably were pretty sure beforehand that he was going to. So there really isn't any surprise about it. I don't know much about proposals. There was one boy, a crazy kid, who wanted me to run off and elope with him when we were in school. And then there was another—I think he would have asked me to marry him, only he found out I didn't like him well enough."

"But what was it like when Clyde asked you?" Harriet slipped clasped hands about one knee. "He just asked me." There was a pause. Then she said, "Toby, you like Clyde, don't you?"

"Why, of course I do."

"SHE had tried to like him. She wouldn't, for the world, let Harriet know that, though she had seen him several times, she had never been able to overcome that first impression of being uneasy when Clyde Sabin was about."

"I'm glad," Harriet said. "I've been wanting to talk to you about Clyde, but I decided to wait until you knew him. Otherwise you might not understand—" She hesitated, then went on, "Maybe you thought it was queer when I told you we had to keep putting off getting married."

Toby had thought it was queer, Harriet had persuaded her to buy

but she said quickly, "But lots of people do that, Harriet."

"Yes, I know—but not for the same reason. You see, Clyde and I can't be married—because he is married now."

She went on, before the other could speak. "He's been separated from his wife for years. It was a long time ago they were married. Clyde was only a boy. They soon found out they couldn't get along, so they agreed to separate. They didn't care anything about it at first and then later, when she thought he wanted it, she refused. But now everything's going to be all right. She started a divorce, too, and she's wanted the suit. A man always has to let the woman get it, you know, even though the trouble was her fault."

"Then—you're going to marry him?"

Harriet nodded. "Just as soon as he's free," she said. "Lots of people would think it was dreadful to be going around with a married man, but you see how it is, don't you, Toby?"

"Yes, I see— Perhaps Clyde Sabin was all right. Toby hoped sincerely that he was."

"Of course, I'm sorry about it all," Harriet continued. "I'm sorry because that part of Clyde's life has been so unhappy. But I'm going to make it up to him. You know, Toby, I'm the sort of girl who wants a home. It's going to be wonderful, making a home for Clyde. I've been in this business—modeling and posing—now for four years. Most people will tell you four years is as long as a girl can do it—in the most, I've known hundreds of models and some of them have become famous and some have dropped out of sight. I used to think I'd give anything to get into the movies like Kay Francis and Norma Shearer, but I've changed my mind about that. What I want is a home."

Toby said, "You'll have a lovely one, Harriet. I know you will."

She thought again that she hoped Clyde Sabin was the man Harriet believed him to be.

SHE had to go to have some test photographs made that afternoon. Color photographs, Toby didn't know anything about them, except that Sally had called from the Model League office and told her that if the tests were good she might land an excellent job.

Duryea was the photographer. Toby had never been in his studio and she approached it hesitantly. Duryea was famous. Duryea made the handsome photographs—always signed—that appeared in the most expensive magazines. In color photography he was a pioneer. Duryea, more than any of the other celebrated photographers, had been declared an artist.

But when she met him, he was not in the least formidable. He was short, and rather stout and wore spectacles, reminding Toby of the baker from whom she had often bought bread when she and her aunt lived in Jackson Heights.

Duryea studied her through his spectacles and said, "Well, we'll see. The hair is very good—"

"They told me you wanted to make tests," Toby said. "I didn't bring another dress. Will this do?"

She was wearing the blue suit Harriet had persuaded her to buy a month before—a slim, youthful suit without the slightest bit of trimming. Her blouse was white with a frill down the front.

Duryea nodded slowly. "It will be all right."

He told her to put on make-up as she would for the street, being very careful not to use even a shade too much.

She came back from the dressing room to the high-ceilinged studio—a more elaborate studio than she had seen before. At one end were screens, cranes, cables, gigantic lights and a switchboard. The camera was on a platform.

Duryea had placed a red chair before a bright blue screen. "Here," he said. "Sit here."

SHE posed for an hour and a half and Duryea made two pictures. She had never seen anything like the painstaking attention he gave to details. Duryea was like a scientist in a laboratory. He changed lights, the angle of the camera and her pose a dozen different times. Finally the pictures were made.

Duryea said, "You'll hear from me."

For an instant she eyed Toby when she said, "Hello." She said it in a way that was more of a direct cut. Toby thought, than if she had not spoken at all.

"Hello," Toby said, and gathered up her gloves and make-up kit. She pulled on her hat without even glancing into the mirror and hurried away.

Out on the street she breathed a deep sigh. She had liked working with Duryea and had hoped the tests would be good enough to win the job. But what chance would she have against Carol Marsh? That, undoubtedly, was why Carol was there. Sally had said several other girls were going to make tests. Carol, in that fame and white creation, made Toby look like Cinderella before the ball. Carol would be the one chosen—

It was a pleasant afternoon and Toby decided to walk. She had gone half a block when a shop window halted her. It was a window filled with bright-colored sport clothes. Toby eyed one dress in particular, a white dress with a short green jacket and a yellow scarf. It was a style that would be becoming to her and she liked the colors.

Suddenly she became aware that a man was watching her. He was a man she had never seen before—rather shabbily dressed, wearing a dark hat.

A girl as pretty as Toby is accustomed to having men look at her, and knows exactly how to discourage them, but this one made her uncomfortable. She moved away, walking rather swiftly until she reached the corner. Then she turned her head, ever so slightly, and looked back.

The man was following, not a dozen steps away.

Highway Department Launches Road Program In Five Counties Near Dallas

DALLAS, April 6 - (AP) - The Texas State Highway Department has launched a gigantic $250,000 program of road improvement on state highway 40 and I in five counties surrounding Dallas, rehabilitating and smoothing surfacing in anticipation of the Texas Centennial Central Exposition, Clifton Rice, Division engineer, announced.

The program, which affects only the two highways, will be completed by June 1, and will provide improved highway facilities into Dallas for the Centennial, Rice declared. He received announcement of the program from Gibb Gilchrist, State Highway Engineer, in Austin.

Highway 40, through Kaufman county, 23 miles; 25 miles in Dallas county; and 24 miles in Denton county—a total of 72 miles, will be the first to receive attention. General maintenance will be augmented by laying of asphalt in chug holes and uneven surfaces and rehabilitation work.

Starting at Garland in Dallas county, Highway No. 1 will be similarly improved through Rockwall and Collins counties to the Hunt county line, a total distance nearly 33 miles.

Three hundred men will be hired on the two projects. Equipment and materials were being moved into locations in Denton county this week.

Also included in the General Centennial program of the State Highway department are the widening and paving projects on Highways 15 and 6. Rice said. Work is under way on 15 and 6, and a work order has been issued on the Highway 14 job.

The youth had been to Fort Worth, the father explained, and returned of his own accord after being missing for two days and nights.

It was feared for a time that the boy might have met with foul play, since this was the first time he had ever left his home.

Garner Must Pass On Nude Sculpture

AUSTIN, April 6.—(UP)—Texas officials were unable to agree on a nude sculpture group proposed as a memorial to pioneer Texas women. It was decided today to pass the matter to Vice President Garner for decision.

It has not been decided which of the memorials shall be financed with Centennial funds; and which with state funds.

A conference held in Washington tomorrow or Wednesday will decide if the committee will handle expenditures directly or by Texas Centennial funds, it was learned today from reliable sources.

Regardless of how it is handled, Lieutenant Governor Walter Woodul, chairman of the Centennial committee said, "there will be no nude monuments, we do not have to go to Washington to see about that. The pioneer women may not have been dressed in silks and satins, but they were dressed in modesty."

Twelfth Church Begins Revival

Smoot as he has been known here for 25 years during which time he has held a number of revivals for the church.

New songs books have been ordered and prayer groups have been organized. The public is invited.

"I have to eat quick," says Harry Fisher, who works high in the air on narrow beams. "A Camel helps my digestion." BILLIARD CHAMP. "I found that smoking Camels is a special pleasure and a real aid to digestion," says the veteran Willie Hoppe. AERIALIST. Petite Mrs. Ethel Arnold, whose lightning speed carried her to fame, says: "I smoke Camels and enjoy food more." BIG-GAME HUNTER. "Camels never upset my nerves," says Frank Buck, wild-animal snarer. "And they are a delightful help in promoting digestion." Science and everyday experience agree that Camels pleasantly promote good digestion. People in every walk of life get "keyed up." The constant hurry and mental strain—the worry and tension—tend to slow down the flow of digestive fluids. Camels act as a release from this strain on digestion. Scientific experiments definitely confirm the fact that smoking Camels promotes good digestion. Camels restore and increase the natural flow of the digestive fluids. Enjoy Camels... for digestion's sake... for their cheery "lift"... for supreme smoking pleasure. Camels set your right! They never tire your taste or get on your nerves. COSTLIER TOBACCO. Camels are made from finer, MORE EXPENSIVE TOBACCO—Turkish and Domestic—than any other popular brand.
