AFTERMATH OF RECENT DYNAMITING

BROWNSVILLE, April 10—(UP)—Former President Ponceiro Calles of Mexico and three companions arrive here plane from Mexico City at 12:50 p. m. C. S. T. today.

MEXICO CITY, April 10—(UP)—Former President Ponceiro Calles, former Mexican dictator, was seized by armed government forces today and deported to the United States by airplane, apparently as an aftermath of the recent dynamiting of the Vera Cruz-Mexico City railway train.

Three of his chief supporters Louis Morones, former secretary of labor, Leon, former secretary of Agriculture, and Melchor Ortega, former governor of Guana Juato state were deported with him.

Calles was seized suddenly about 17 miles from the city by nearly 100 soldiers at midnight. It was his property that was seized and held for 48 hours by communist women recently.

Morones was arrested on the road to Acapulco, Leon at his resident in Chapultepec heights and Orcaida in Tehuacan.

They were held under guards all night at 8 a. m. placed in a Pan-American Airways plane bound for Brownsville.

President Lazaro Cardenas who smashed the political power ordered the deportation for months, has resisted the demand of his people that Calles be removed contending he had nothing to fear from him.

The ravaged anti-government propaganda the past week however caused him to issue the order.

The arrests were made on orders of "because conditions in country demands it."

Calles was in bed reading Adolf Hitler's book "Mein Kampf" when the soldiers entered and seized him. "I am at your orders sir."

Triplets Relax After Flood Debut

After arriving in a Leechberg, Pa. home from which flood waters had just receded, and probably concluding that their amazing raw world was "all wet" Misses "A," "B," and "C" Hughes, 6½ pounds of blue-eyed girls triplets, are shown slumbering peacefully in a New Kensington, Pa. hospital, while Nurse Margaret Montgomery hovers watchfully over them. While the mites will be kept in incubators for another month or so, physicians told their mother, Mrs. Carson Hughes, 21, wife of a millworker, that the babies have an excellent chance of surviving.

AUSTIN MAN SWORN IN AS NEW MEMBER

AUSTIN, April 10—(UP)—W. H. Richardson, Austin hardware dealer, was sworn in today as new member of the state safety commission.

Richardson will fill the vacancy caused when D. B. Baker resigned after L. G. Phares was made director of the department by vote of the commissions two younger members.

Richardson like Baker, is a graduate business man. He is a graduate of the University of Texas.

Governor Allred said that he consulted none of various factions in the dispute over safety commission policy. "I discussed it with no one but Mr. Richardson and had a hard time trying to convince him it was his duty to accept." The appointment is news to all but him and me," Governor Allred said.

JOHN WELLS PLEASANT

LALLAS, April 10—(UP)—Albert Sidney Johnson, chairman of Texas public safety commission expressed satisfaction with Governor Allred's appointment of Richardson as a member of the commission.

"I have known Mr. Richardson many years, have been associated with him in ex-student activities of the University of Texas and know we will be able to work together on the commission," Johnson said.

He's Ace Swiss Flag Thrower

Any American baseball fan knows what "flagging a throw" means. But the Swiss, it seems love "throwing a flag." In London, with a party of yodelers, Franz Hug, Switzerland's champion flag-thrower, gives this exhibition of his skill, hurling aloft his nation's banner.

WEST FROM AVENUE F IS LET FIRST

AUSTIN, April 10—(UP)—Forty-four road projects were approved by the district engineer of the United States bureau of public works administration and will be passed upon here it was announced today. Time set tentatively for April 28 and 29.

Included in Eastland county there will be grading, draining, base work and a triple asphalt surfacing in and near Cisco.

Grading, drainage and limestone base will be provided for a cedar road in Palo Pinto county from highway 66 to Oranbury.

In a long distance telephone conversation with Highway Engineer Ehlinger at Brownwood, he stated that the project mentioned as "in Cisco" was the paving of that part of Eighth street from Avenue F west to the intersection of highway 1, and represents the change in that highway through Cisco. The eastern section will be paved in a separate letting. Contract will be let and work begun as soon as details have been arranged.

Otherwise the Austin dispatch is self explanatory. Business men and relief clients have long looked forward to this work as a basis for much employment and circulation of money there from; since the first estimate was set at $180,000 as the probable cost.

Mr. Ehlinger has since intimated that changes in plans would call for a much larger cost of the project, probably more nearly $300,000 than the former estimate.

Coming at this time it will be a boon to the economic condition of this section. This amount of money, the most of which will represent work and materials bought here, will help all classes of business through circulating mediums.

Jim Elliott and Bert Bradberry were placed under two bonds, each of $500 for each charge against them. Campbell is also charged with possession of a still and must make bond in the sum of $500 for this charge, also.

Both of Campbell's bonds have been accepted, it has been reported by Sheriff Foster.

Weird Easter Rites Start Near Phoenix

By EDWARD J. HEILMAN, United Press Staff Correspondent

GUADALUPE, Ariz., April 10—(UP)—Arizona's Yaqui Indians, descendants of the Berce Mexican tribe which never has been conquered, completed preparations today for their weird, medieval, half-pagan, half-Christian observance of Easter.

Late this afternoon, fantastically costumed tribesmen will reenact the betrayal, seizure, trial, condemnation and crucifixion of Christ. In ceremonies which have their origin in the 18th Century when their forefathers were visited by intrepid Jesuit missionaries, they will set up a bier and guard it closely until sunrise Easter morning.

For a month "Los Pariseos" (Pharisees), men doing penance for sins have hunted the desert around this village of 500 persons, only 12 miles from Phoenix in actual distance, but hundreds of years and hundreds of miles away in customs and ceremonies.

The "Pariseos" seek a mythical figure behind the cacti, under the mesquite and palo verde trees, and in possible underground hiding places which they tap with decorated sticks. Fantastically masked, they also are orrges to children. Naughty youngsters are captured by the "Pariseos" and put in jail, from which they may escape only by payment of a fine. Failing to pay the fine, they remain in the jail until "the Night of Darkness" before Easter Sunday and, on this night, are whipped while the "Pariseos" are flogged.

Act as Pilate's Soldiers

Tonight, the "Pariseos," appearing as "Jos Pilatos," soldiers of Pontius Pilate, finally will "find" Christ in the Garden of Gethsemane, a crude bower of cottonwood boughs, and carry spears.

The "Pilatos" the men are masked and carry spears.

The "Pilatos" capture of their prisoner and their bearing him away for symbolic trial and crucifixion are to the accompaniment of a half-Christian, half-pagan chant marked by shuttering goat-skin drums, squealing home-made flutes and whining violins and the swish and rattle of pebble-filled gourds.

Some of the chants in unorthodox Latin, are the remnants of chants taught the Yaquis 400 years ago when the first Jesuits fearlessly entered their mountain strongholds in Sonora, Mexico and converted them to Catholicism. Other origins in the tribe's ancient pagan rituals.

Ceremony Weird and Ancient

The whole ceremony is a weird.

FRANKLIN D. RETURNS FROM FISHING CRUISE

By United Press

President Roosevelt returned to the capital today to find political fires burning brightly.

Mr. Roosevelt stopped to speak briefly at tornado stricken Gainesville, Ga., enroute from his Florida fishing vacation.

Chief political controversy centered about the $4,000,000,000 work's progress administration under attack by republicans and democrats in Pennsylvania, West Virginia, Massachusetts and other states.

Bringing WPA problems closely to legislators were some 900 stranded delegates of a "hunger march" organized by workers alliance without funds. They demanded food and lodging while pleading for a broader program of unemployment relief and work for the idle.

NEW PENALTIES WILL BE SOUGHT BRITAIN WARNS

GENEVA, April 10—(UP)—Great Britain, ignoring Italian talk, announced that she would seek new penalties against Italy for war on Ethiopia if final peace efforts failed.

Anthony Eden, British foreign secretary, made the announcement.

The committee of 13, which is the League Council without Italy, met to consider the Italian-Ethiopian situation.

It was a showdown between Great Britain, which wants to make sure that Italy stops war at once; and France who is eager to win Italy back to its "united slump" against Germany in the Rhine-land dispute.

The committee decided to adjourn to April 16 so the chairman could make a last effort at a peaceable settlement of dispute in conference with Italy and Ethiopia, Tuesday.

Eden then threatened if the chairman of his conference was unfavorable to seek convocation of the League committee of 13, April 17 the next day, to vote new penalties against Italy.

Soil Conservation Appears Sound

From all developments thus far, it appears that those who jumped to the conclusion that the Administration's new Soil Conservation Program is merely the old AAA in disguise have guessed wrong.

In the first place, the new program does not contemplate any minimum diversion of crop land from soil-depleting crops to soil conserving or soil-building crops.

Moreover, Secretary Wallace has announced that farmers shall be paid only if they actually divert their land from soil-depleting to soil-conserving or soil-building crops, and if they actually build their soil. To an unbiased observer, this is soil conservation in fact.

Wouldn't it be well for the social order in general if all of us were a little slower to believe that politics or some other hidden motive was the mainspring behind movements that on their face are for the common good? One reason for government is that it alone, in many instances, is capable of the effort necessary to carry out such programs for the interest of us all as does the program for the conservation of our most precious heritage—the soil.

At the very moment partisans were calling the new farm program a "subterfuge," the ferocity of floods was a grim warning that a careful and long-time plan for the care of our soil and forests is imperative.

It has too often been overlooked that one of the objectives of the old Agricultural Adjustment Act was the conservation of soil resources. Critics, in their eagerness to discredit the Administration, deliberately subordinated or entirely obscured this objective and the accomplishments under it. These critics have failed to give credit to the AAA for already having increased by more than twenty-two millions the acreage of crop land devoted to the cultivation of erosion-preventing and soil-conserving crops.

There may be need for minor alterations in the new farm program; for improvements; for administrative flexibility. But in view of the lesson of the floods and the dust storms, the necessity for the program should be taken for granted. A sound structure can be built with that premise as a starting point and if, as an indirect result of such a plan there should be a prevention of a return of those burdensome surpluses that brought starvation prices for farm products, would not that give the program added value both for the American farmer and American industry?

How to Arrange Shrubbery

To make the home grounds most attractive there must be trees, shrubs, flowers, and grass properly arranged about the place. While it is desirable to follow nature's method of planting to a certain extent, it is best to arrange them in such way as to have the trees largely to the sides and rear of the house. In case the grounds are large, a few trees in front will be appropriate, but even then they should not be placed directly in front of the house or at least not in such way as to break the view. Under no conditions should the plantings of trees or shrubbery be so made as to prevent one from having a clear view to the front.

The shrubbery planted around the foundation of the house should not be planted in exact rows but somewhat in groups, and more or less irregularly as to distance apart and location. Still they should be reasonably close to the foundation, to "tie the house to the ground" in effect. Without a foundation planting, the house seems to have been dropped into the picture.—The Progressive Farmer.

News item says the Republican party is going to form a brain trust of their own. After all these years the Republicans have come to realize that it takes brains to run anything.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

TOBY RYAN, 19, is a photographic model, posing for photographs to be used in advertisements. He is in high demand in the studios, particularly after she is chosen as "The Hillier Girl." Toby shares an apartment with HARRIET HOOT, another model, engaged to marry CLYDE SABIN, whom Toby distrusts.

After weeks of silence, Tom Ryan, Toby's father, called Toby to his home. He was angry, but Toby makes an excuse for not seeing him. Toby goes to the studio of DURVEA, the photographer. She stops on the line to Toby, who is to be photographed in and goes to show it in Durvea's office.

CHAPTER XXVII
DURVEA turned "Mr. Hillier!" he said. "How are you? Come on in!" He hurried to the doorway where Jay Hillier stood, his eyes on the girl in blue.

Hillier said, "I happened to be passing by the building and remembered I'd been meaning to stop in." He spoke to Durvea, but he was still looking at Toby, as though seeing her for the first time.

"You've met Miss Ryan, haven't you?" Durvea asked. "Oh, Miss Ryan—" Hillier said. "Yes, of course we've met." He went on, as Toby came forward. "How are you? I didn't recognize you at first."

"I'm very well, thank you," Toby said. "I was just trying on this dress that was sent over to be used in a picture."

"From Ceelia," Durvea explained. "How do you like it?" Hillier did not answer for a moment. Then he said, "The dress is very pretty. If you can photograph Miss Ryan in it and make her look just as she does now you'll have a wonderful picture, Durvea."

He stepped down from the platform. It appeared that Hillier had come to see Durvea about something not concerned with the series of pictures she was posing for. The two men went on talking and Toby drifted away, waiting for them to finish.

Presently Durvea's secretary appeared, spoke to him and the photographer excused himself. Hillier crossed to where Toby was standing.

"Miss Ryan," he said, "you're doing a fine piece of work for us. I'm very much pleased."

"I'm glad," Toby said. "I've enjoyed making these pictures. Mr. Durvea is so nice to work with. And he's a wonderful photographer."

Hillier smiled. "And he has an excellent model," he said. "Which I'm sure has been a great help. Miss Ryan, I've a favor to ask of you."

Toby looked up, questioningly. Hillier continued. "It's a pleasure," he said, "for anyone as old as I am to catch a glimpse of youth like yours. It—well, in a sense, it turns back the years. I was wondering if you'd allow me to call for you later and take you to dinner."

"Why—" Toby had never been more surprised. Of course, Hillier had driven her home from his office the day she had gone there, but that had been because they were going the same direction. He had been pleasant during that drive, but impersonal. Now she sensed something else in his manner. She felt he really wanted her to say she'd have dinner with him. That he wanted it very much.

Why should anyone as rich and important as Jay Hillier want to spend an evening with her? Toby didn't know. But she knew that she liked this man whom she had seen only once before. She liked him very much.

she told him about herself. She told him more than she realized about the days before she had become a model, about Harriet and the apartment they shared together, about the studios, the people she met in them, the time she had gone out "on location" and nearly frozen and met Margaret Gregg.

Hillier nodded at the mention of that name. Evidently he remembered Margaret Gregg as a Broadway celebrity. He said little about himself. In fact he talked little, but it was evident that he was enjoying himself.

In the car, driving to Toby's apartment, Hillier said, "I expect it's been a dull evening for you."

"But it hasn't," Toby assured him. "I had a grand time."

"Well, you've given me a very pleasant evening. Very pleasant indeed. Perhaps—if you're sure you won't be bored—you'll let me take you to dinner again. And to the theater. Would you like to see 'Here Comes the Queen' some night next week?"

"Here Comes the Queen" was the newest musical play, with a cast that included several stars. It had been acclaimed unanimously by the critics, and tickets were sold for weeks in advance.

"I'd love to!" Toby said. "Then I'd like very much to take you. How would Tuesday night suit you?"

She said that so far as she knew she could go Tuesday. There was always the possibility of an emergency assignment that could not be avoided, or of re-takes. It was agreed that, unless something unforeseen prevented, they would go to see "Here Comes the Queen" Tuesday night. Hillier said he would telephone Tuesday morning.

Honor to Whom Honor Is Due

The following letter from Senator Wilbourne Collie to Chief of Police Perdue is self explanatory and is timely and worthy of publicity: Mr. Milton Perdue, Chief of Police, Cisco, Texas. My Dear Chief: Newspaper accounts recite the fact that you have been instrumental in solving the recent Turver murder case in Cisco. Such assiduous and competent public service should not go unrecognized, and as one citizen of the county I just want you to know that this particular case is but further evidence of the many fine and commendable services rendered by you and your department over a period of years. No doubt the citizens of Cisco really and truly appreciate the courageous competent and unselfish service of your department. Without personal interest at all, this case has afforded me an opportunity of expressing congratulations and continued good wishes. Very truly yours, WILBOURNE B. COLLIE.

666 SALVE for COLDS

Political Announcements

When a girl has a bee in her bonnet, we wonder if it's on account of her honey or his money.

Tillie Twinkle says her two boy friends got into an awful fight last night and the doctor patched up their differences.

Don't kid the judge, the day of the court jester is past.

Many a man who sits up all night with a "sick friend" catches the devil from his wife.

State officials seem to think a nude statute representing Texas women, is not quite the right thing. If the decision had gone on much longer, it probably would have been quite appropriate.

AA Program Adds Farmers Language

As the old Triple A programs were adjusted to the new "adjusted acreage" program, the language of the farmer's language was added to the program. The meaning of some of the words is explained by Cook and Eastland County Agricultural Agents.

It is important from a financial standpoint to the farmer to know the meaning of the words "soil conservation" and "soil building." The first is the grant of money to get for shifting acres of soil to "soil conservation" and "soil building" crops.

The second is the payment, never in excess of $1 per acre, which a farmer is entitled to receive to help him grow new grass and legume and other crops.

These are beginning to talk about "soil depleting base." Depleting crops for Texas are cotton, grain, sorghums, sweet corn, millets, potatoes, rice, cane, commercial truck and other crops, small grains harvested for grain or hay, and peanuts.

These crops take much out of the soil. Run the exhaust in the farm. The farmer will run the farm.

There are "soil conserving" crops. These help the soil hold water, but only slightly increase it. These crops include all kinds of old seedings of legumes such as alfalfa, and grasses as sudan pasture if only grazed clipped green; and winter crops if plowed under or, if followed by summer legumes planted in 1936 count as soil conserving crops.

These crops are legumes under green manuring and perennial legumes seeded in 1936; summer legumes with forage left on land; and cover crops plowed under followed by summer legumes planted in 1936 count as soil conserving crops.

These crops qualify for government grants of money in the new soil conservation program must be at least one acre of soil conserving or soil building crops for every acre of soil depleting crops in the base acreage, says E. C. Cook, county agricultural agent.

Farmer who had 100 acres of cotton and soil depleting crops in the base period must have on his farm in 1936 at least one acre of soil conserving and building crops.

The Soil Conservation and Domestic Allotment Act gives Texas farmers and ranchmen a great opportunity to reorganize their business so as to rebuild the wasted ing crops and be eligible for payments.

He may shift as much as 15 per cent of the wheat, corn, grain sorghum, potato or fruit and vegetable acreage to legumes, cover crops or approved soil building practices and receive payments.

In the case of peanuts the greatest shift of acreage for which payments may be made is 20 per cent.

No payments will be made in Texas for food and food crops like corn or grain sorghums shifted to soil improvement uses unless it can be shown that these crops have been produced in excess of home need. In that case the only diversions for which payment will be made are on the portion of the acreages which are in excess of home needs.

Soil conserving payments may be granted to help recompense farmers for the sacrifice involved in giving up a part of their soil depleting cash crops in order to give a chance to improve the land.

"Taken as a whole the new program helps a farmer shift to a good sound farming plan without loss of income and buying power while the changes are being made," Mr. Cook states.

Better soil—better citizens, is the way I see it," said Jack Shelton, vice director and state agricultural agent of the Texas Extension Service, in discussing the new agricultural program which concerns itself chiefly with soil conservation and good land use.

"It is provenly true that rural communities surrounded by rich farming lands are centers of prosperity, while those situated in the midst of lands that have lost their fertility and no longer produce beautifully are on the down grade and gradually lose, either through bankruptcy or moving away, many of the commercial establishments which prospered when the lands were productive," Shelton said.

"When you find people living on a fertile soil you find them living in the better type homes, riding in better cars, driving the best teams. On poor soils you find them in poorer homes, with very little paint on the buildings and fences.

"The soil reflects itself on the people who live on it and on their crops and livestock. As soil becomes depleted you grow cattle on that soil that have small bones, lacking the weight and bloom that are found on cattle grown on good soil.

If the soil is that important, why shouldn't it be one of the main objectives of the farm program to build up that soil? How are we going to accomplish that? With terraces, pastures, legumes and livestock."

Let us figure your next job of printing. Our job printing department is equipped to serve your needs.—Phone 88.

Colonel Luke Lea Freed From Prison

The reception given the program as it has been presented to the people by the county agricultural agents shows that the situation has been realized, and the new act came at a time that it was very welcome," Shelton said.

"Make the new farm program table talk in every farm home in Texas," is the suggestion to rural home makers made by Miss Mildred Horton, vice director and state home demonstration agent of the extension service Miss Horton pointed out that the program being established under the soil conservation and domestic allotment act is one in which every home maker is interested, and that developing details of the plan would be of interest to the whole family as they meet around the dining table three times a day.

The better cropping plans and lands use systems to be instituted under the act include consideration for the farm family's needs of food for themselves and food for the farm work stock, Miss Horton stated.

"It is probably the first national agricultural plan offered in any country which makes such definite provision for the welfare of the family."

No payments will be made for soil building crops planted on any land retired from soil depleting crops where the soil depleting crops were food and feed crops unless applicants for the grants show that the crops done away with were in excess of the needs of the family.

"The provision that corn evenly interplanted with peas may be counted as 50 per cent soil building and 50 per cent soil depleting is also favorable to the plans of home makers to provide ample supplies of feed for the poultry and livestock which are a part of the food budget for the family," Miss Horton said.

World War headed an expedition with the aim of capturing the kaiser, served two years of his six to ten-year sentence for violation of North Carolina banking laws, acting as hospital orderly during that period.

Freed from North Carolina state prison at Raleigh, and headed for his Nashville, Tenn., home, Col. Luke Lea, former publisher, financier, and state senator, is shown here as he shook hands with a friendly guard, Lea, who after the

TEXAS TO MASS AT BATTLE SITE ON APRIL 21ST

HOUSTON April 16.—San Jacinto Battleground, the rolling, low-land shrine of Texas independence, will be the gathering place on April 21 for 100,000 state patriots. On that date 100 years ago, a desperate band of pioneer Texans under command of General Sam Houston defeated a superior army of Mexicans and captured their chief, General Santa Anna.

The defeat of the Mexican tyrant and perpetrator of the historic slaughter of 100 Texans at the Alamo gave rise to the Republic of Texas, with General Houston as the first president.

The celebration of the famous battle will be one of the biggest during the Texas centennial year, possibly to be surpassed only by the central exposition beginning in Dallas on June 6.

Tramping of 1,000 soldiers' feet and the rolling of military drums will echo on the battlegrounds as the entire coast artillery unit of Fort Crockett, Galveston, participates in a Catholic military field mass to be conducted by the Most Rev. C. E. Byrne, bishop of Galveston.

Adjutant General Carl Nesbitt, commander of the Texas National Guard, announced a large complement of guardsmen also would take part in the celebration.

Governor James V. Allred of Texas will make the only address of the day. Other honor guests of the celebration, including state officials, judges of the state supreme court and court of civil appeals and H. V. Benedict, president of the University of Texas, will be introduced by District Judge Charles E. Ashe, who has charge of program arrangements.

Children To March

Marching in a huge parade to the battle site will be the Coast Artillery National Guard units, reserve officers, American Legion posts, Sons and Daughters of the Republic of Texas, Boy Scouts, school children from all sections of South Texas, and other civic and patriotic organizations.

W. E. Kendall, vice president of the San Jacinto chapter, Sons of the Republic of Texas, will read General Houston's famous report on the battle.

Crews of the state highway department were put to work several weeks ago, widening all roads to the battleground to 40 feet to care for heavy traffic on San Jacinto Day.

General program arrangements and preparation for the celebration was in charge of John C. Townes, president of the San Jacinto Centennial Association.

Judge B. W. Patterson, Judge of the 88th judicial district, who is now serving his first term on the bench of the court, is announcing his candidacy for re-election. Judge Patterson succeeded Judge Elzo Been, who was judge of the court for several terms.

Since going into office Judge Patterson has established an enviable record and upon several occasions he has been called upon to preside in other district courts of the state.

In announcing his candidacy Judge Patterson stated that he solicited the votes of ten voters in the county in the democratic primary of July 25.

Judge Patterson was well qualified, both by training and experience to hold the position to which the people of Eastland county elected him, as has been attested by the splendid manner in which he has conducted his court throughout his first term.

Easter Rites---

but compelling mixture of a medieval Passion play, heathen mysticism and modern Christianity.

Tomorrow night, "The Night of Darkness," the Yaqui will begin their Easter dance.

Bearing fantastic headdresses, their bodies painted, they will dance until dawn.

The Easter dance always is witnessed by hundreds of Arizonians and visitors from other states.

Recent White Visitors. Sincere, deeply religious, they resent the laughter and scoffing of white visitors.

How far back into Yaqui history the Easter ceremony goes, no one knows definitely.

Church records show that the tribe first was visited by Jesuits in 1539 when Padre Marcos de Niza made a journey to their stronghold in what now is known as the Yaqui valley of Sonora.

Ruthless in War. Claiming to be descendants of a mythical wolf, the tribe waged a relentless and cruel war upon Spaniards, Mexicans and other Indians who attempted to enter their domain.

Arriving in the United States as political refugees, the Arizona Yaquis have no rights as citizens.

Guess Again

Yes, your eyes are deceiving you, but don't blame them! Even Will Rogers once said to A. A. Trimble, above, Cleveland, Ohio, map salesman: "Forgotten if you don't remind me of myself!" Because of his remarkable resemblance to the famed cowboy humorist, Trimble was cast to play the role of Rogers in a new motion picture.

MICE ENJOY WOOLLY NEST. CHELAN, Wash. (U.P.)—A group of school teachers found an injured goat on a lake shore near here. They discovered that a family of fieldmice, taking advantage of the animal's inability to move, had built a nest in its wool.

JURY PRECEDENT BROKEN. TULSA, Okla. (U.P.)—Tom Crayton, Tulsa Negro, was the first member of his race to serve on a district court jury in Tulsa county in the past many Negroes have been summoned for jury service but they have all been dismissed for various reasons.

Let us figure your next job of printing. Our job printing department is equipped to serve your needs.—Phone 80.

SHAVE IN 28 SECONDS. BUDAPEST (U.P.)—A barber here claims the title of "world's champion barber." He shaved a man in 28 seconds, timed with several stop watches at the annual competition of the Budapest Barbers' and Hairdressers' Corporation.

DESERT ROADS IMPROVED. SALEM, Ore. (U.P.)—Beautifuling the desert highways of eastern Oregon by the building of artificial roadside oases—clumps of green in a sagebrush land—has been adopted as a new policy by the State highway commission.

DETROIT (U.P.)—Traffic safety courses for adults will be inaugurated by Detroit public schools. About 2,000 high school teachers already have taken instruction in traffic education and will lecture at the adult classes. It is expected that at least 30,000 adults will take the courses.

SANTA CRUZ, Cal. (U.P.)—The hills of Bonney Doon ran red when state agents poured 5,000 gallons of native claret wine down the slopes of the Antone Devines ranch. Devines regarded the 2 cents per gallon excise tax as excessive.

WEST C. OF C. MAKING READY FOR SESSION

AMARILLO, April 10 — Elaborate preparations are being made for the West Texas Chamber of Commerce convention, to be held here May 11-13.

Amarillo's chamber of commerce already has appointed convention committee chairmen, among them being Gene Howe, known generally as "Old Tack" through his newspaper column. He heads the convention's program committee for the host city.

Ed Ritz, convention manager, who has established offices here, has predicted a new attendance record will be set at the eighteenth annual meeting.

Advance hotel reservations for the convention are being received daily. Railroad passenger agents are busy preparing schedules for special trains to the convention.

Scores of bands will be brought by the delegations and one musical organization will be selected at the convention to play at Fort Worth's opening of the Frontier celebration early in June.

Rules for the "Home Town" speaking contest, another feature of the convention, already have been mailed to school superintendents, chamber of commerce secretaries and directors of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce in each affiliated town.

Ray Nichols, Vernon publisher, who is president of WTCC, and D. A. Bandeen of Stamford, WTCC general manager, conferred here this week with Amarilloans about preparations for the convention.

Governors of Texas, Oklahoma and New Mexico have been invited to attend.

There will be speakers of national prominence on each program during the three-day session.

Special entertainment will be provided for all convention visitors.

The purpose of this meeting is to discuss Cisco as the future market of Eastland county. The new Western Produce plant here will outline their system. Mr. Dallas Wakes of the Junior Chamber of Commerce will speak on this subject. If there is anything wrong with Cisco as a market center here is the place to discuss it. If we need a bank, a grocery store, a newspaper or anything we want to know it. If the business men here can not give you service we can bring men here who will.

There will be a free show at this Theatre every Saturday morning, continuous from 10 o'clock until 5 o'clock, for six months, to re-organize the town and the farmer. ## How Cardui Helps Month After Month

Where there have been severe pains every month, from functional disturbances resulting from poor nourishment, Cardui has helped thousands of women to obtain relief. Their confidence in Cardui makes them eager to recommend it to other women needing such a medicine. "I suffered a great deal with pain in my side and a weakness in my back," writes Mrs. Walter Page, of Evansville, Ind. "This made me so nervous I couldn't rest. Each month I would suffer all over and would have to go to bed. One of my neighbors told me how Cardui helped her, so I took it and it helped me. After taking eight bottles I was much better. I surely can recommend Cardui for weakness and pain." Of course if Cardui does not benefit YOU, consult a physician.
