MUSSOLINI INSISTS ON PURSUING DRIVE

DEFIES GREAT BRITAIN AND THE LEAGUE

ROME, April 14—(U.P.)—Premier Benito Mussolini has decided to defy Great Britain and the League of Nations to "dictate" peace terms with Ethiopia its was understood today.

Information from all quarters indicated he would insist on pursuing his drive into the heart of Ethiopia unless he obtained terms paramount to complete habitation and permanent Italian dominion.

It was intimated also that Italy would refuse to discuss peace so long as "incrimination atmosphere" continued—the threat that Great Britain would ask for penalties against Italy unless it agreed.

Feeling grew in Italian quarters that Mussolini was ready to encourage the country to resist to the death any effort at peace.

Italian sentiment has stiffened in the last few days. One reason is the mere gravity of the situation that would be presented if the League tried to impose penalties.

Another is that Italians believed the "sanctionists front" is decomposing and that imposition of new penalties will be impossible. A third is that the country's oil reserves had been increased since December and store houses throughout the country are filled to capacity.

Borah and Knox Awaiting Results

CHICAGO, April 14—(U.P.)—Senator William E. Borah the "local boy who made good," and Frank Knox "A favorite" left the White House aspirations in the hand of 2,500,000 Illinois voters who went to the polls to make their choice.

New deal democrats cast complimentary votes for President Roosevelt then opposed in the preferential primary. Republicans showed between the Idaho senator and the Chicago publisher.

Borah and Knox admitted liberal campaigns alike for a balanced budget and supreme court legislative reviews. Borah recalled he was born in Illinois on a farm. Knox, editor of Chicago News, did not need to argue rights to seek favorites from Illinois.

Youth Kills Friend for Auto, Apprehended

WANTED CAR TO ELOPE; VICTIM DIES

FORT WORTH, April 14—(U.P.)—The flight of the 18-year-old slayer who killed a friend for an auto in which to elope ended fast this morning with the youth's arrest by Watauga, Okla., officers.

Notified of the arrest, Tarrant county officers filed complaints against Howard Wolf as the murderer of J. M. Harrison filling station agent.

Harrison shot in the abdomen died in a hospital five hours after he was shot at the wheel of his automobile. He named the youth as the slayer before becoming unconscious.

According to his story Wolf shot him hoping to get his car to elope. Failing in this when a passing motorist stopped, Wolf later stole a car at Lake Worth picked up the girl and left the city.

He denied the killing.

CISCO HI BAND COMPETES FOR HONORS FRI.

Bandmaster Robt. L. Maddox will take his 42-piece band to Big Springs Friday to enter the contest in the Eighth Annual West Texas School band meet which about seven hundred West Texas bands will participate.

Cisco is in class B and this will be the first time, said Mr. Maddox, that the Cisco band has participated in this contest in five years.

A four days trip to the Texas Centennial will be the prize for the winner of the class B contest, which is the official meeting for the western division of the Texas Band Teachers Association.

Only about one third of Cisco's band has had any instructions prior to last June, said Mr. Maddox, but then he adds that "we are going to do our best to bring home some honor, at least."

Liberal Plans For Down Payment Traced To Nebuchadnezzar's Time

CHICAGO, April 14—(U.P.)—Bankers were lending money at 20 per cent interest and selling choice shares in Temple incomes 2,500 years ago, the world's oldest business records reveal.

Texts from thousands of ancient Assyrian and Babylonian clay tablets pieced together by Dr. Waldo H. Dubberstein of the University of Chicago show "modern" methods of business and finance in the Tigris-Euphrates valley.

If a wealthy father wanted to leave a valuable legacy to a son or daughter he merely bought an interest-bearing note or a share in the income of a popular temple from one of the few banking families which controlled financial operations.

A successful business man could provide for his old age by an annuity arrangement similar to those offered today.

Credit could be extended on virtually everything purchasable in Babylon at the time of the great Nebuchadnezzar. Loans could be retired on the monthly installment plan and sometimes extended over a 10-year period.

"Various kings from the great administrator Hammurabi, about 2,000 B.C. to the scholarly Ashurbanipal, 665-625 B. C. attempted to fix prices at low levels," Dr. Dubberstein explained.

"Their decrees, and their lists of prices show them attempting to create prosperity and a feeling of good will by announcing low official prices for staple commodities and at times setting wages for skilled and unskilled labor.

"Hammurabi even decreed the fee for surgical operations on man or beast."

Dr. Dubberstein has compiled price charts for standard commodities, in terms of shekels, for the period from 625 to 425 B. C.

"Fluctuations appear," he said, "yet the general price trend is upward. There were even monthly variations in grain prices which reveal dependence upon the local supply and the season.

"Land renting and leasing was a profitable and extensive business. Short time leases were common, though land might be leased for 60 years, almost comparable to our 99 years lease.

"In cities apparently few persons owned their living quarters but leased them for periods of a year or longer. Because of the inordinately value of wood in Babylonia, the houseowner rarely furnished the door for a brick home and insisted that the tenant keep up the repairs on the building."

Plattsburg Honors Unfortunate Youth

PLATTSBURG, Mo., April 14—(U.P.)—Everybody in Plattsburg today went out of his way to make things easy for Lloyd Lewis.

"Lloyd is O. K. and we are still proud of him if he did anything wrong he didn't know it."

Lloyd who in his 18 years on a farm never before got more than 60 miles from home returned today from New York, where he was told that in winning Eddie Cantor's prize essay contest he had committed a strange offense called plagiarism.

His essay on "How American can Stay Out of War" had been written long ago by a fellow named Dr. Frank Kingdom, who is president of the University of Newark.

At the Kansas City airport the plane from the east arrived with a delegation from Plattsburg. His history teacher, superintendent, a man who runs a cleaning shop.

"Lloyd, did you copy that essay" a newspaperman asked.

"Why I guess so, anyway I had it with me when I wrote mine, but shucks, I did not know I was doing wrong," he said.

Curator Finds Animals In Jungle Less Dangerous Than in Captivity

HOUSTON, April 14—(U.P.)—Hans Nagel, diminutive curator of the Houston Zoo, says stalking wild animals in the jungles of the world is a tame job compared with that of keeping them in captivity.

From 1904 to 1912, Nagel roamed the jungles of Africa in search of reptiles, beasts and rare fowls for zoos. And in those eight years, he met with accident only once — an infuriated lioness lacerated his leg but not seriously.

But wild life in cages—that's a different story, one that has meant hospitals and suffering to Nagel.

He bears scars from head to foot.

A bca contractor once almost killed the life out of the curator Gaeser, the zoo lion, bit him through the shoulder. A stork dived from the top of the bird cage and knocked the little man unconscious.

Prowling Maniac Gives Gotham Jitters

NEW YORK, April 14—(U.P.)—Fear among hundreds of women of a prowling erotic maniac caused a famine of reserve patrolmen today who were sent to the neighborhood about the Meekman Place where Mrs. Nancy Evans Pitterton, 34-year-old short story writer, was assaulted and strangled last Friday.

Forty detectives who were assigned to the case admitted no progress.

Revelations of a police theory met the saying of the wealthy Fritz Gebhardt, who lived just a block from the apartment of Mrs. Pitterton, may have been the indirect cause of the latter crime. This resulted in an increase in appeals for police protection.

How Will You Vote Saturday?

With the beer election coming up for decision for Eastland county next Saturday, April 18, this question becomes of paramount importance to the voters at this time. There are several well defined schools of thought on the liquor question here as elsewhere, wherever prohibition is discussed.

There are those who favor whisky in plentiful quantities because they want it handy to drink for their own debauchery. Happily these are few in numbers here.

There is another school who drink only indifferently and think that there can be no harm in their drinking, since they rarely if ever, indulge to excess. They naturally want to be able to buy liquor when they want it and as cheaply and conveniently as possible.

Then there is another school of thought, who term themselves liberals in their views, since they do not drink but see no especial harm in those drinking who may want to do so. Then too, they say that it is being sold anyway and so why not let the state get the revenue instead of letting the bootleggers have the advantage of the tax in increased profits. They do not think it possible to legislate morals into people's minds. All of the foregoing will vote wet.

Many people who drink, will vote dry, but the great majority who vote dry are teetotalers, who think that liquor is a curse to the world and that only sorrow, suffering and disorder can come as a result of the licensing of the liquor traffic. This force is marshalling its guns to fight the monster at this election. This body is not willing to compromise in any way. They want the liquor traffic driven from the world so that weak will-power may not succumb to its benumbing influence.

While one side says make it plentiful and people will not want it, the other side says when it is easy to obtain more and more of our children will become habitual drinkers, and drunkards on account of its moral weakening subtleties that are the sure result of narcotic indulgence.

It has also been said that bootleggers will all vote dry so that their excessive profits may continue, however, the dry say not so, because laws have become rather hard on the illegal dispenser of liquors and they would all rather become legal saloon keepers than take their chances with federal officers.

Be that as it may, the question comes up for decision and if the county goes wet, Cisco may become dry again through a local option vote.

strategies, who regard the Kansas governor as the most dangerous man in the Republican field, don't mind helping Landon's rivals with this job.

TRouble began when Landon upon William Randolph Hearst's insistence it is reported, and over Herbert Hoover's vigorous objection, allowed his friends to file a pro-Landon slate of delegates in California against an unopposed slate which was largely pro-Hoover.

Hooverites and other Hearst enemies in California became incensed and some observers believed Landon faced defeat in the only primary he had entered. But since most Landon backers believe Hoover secretly covets the nomination and Hearst early gave Landon his verbal backing, the decision was to understand.

ely, however, word has been from Wall Street of a tendency to view Landon with more doubts than previously, especially in view of the seemingly important place occupied by Hearst in his campaign. Anti-Landon politicians privately preach that Hearst must not be allowed to dictate to the party. All this coincides with:

1. Public attacks on Hearst by New Dealers, who have been bursting with the desire to cut loose. They will pull no punches, believing incidentally that every sock at Hearst is a sock at Landon.

2. Efforts of certain groups to trot out Senator Dickinson of Iowa, Senator Swisher of Oregon, and others as available candidates—to say nothing of "Dark Horse" Vandenberg of Michigan.

3. Increased worry over a possible post-convention bolt by Borah, stressed especially by anti-Landonists.

Landon's enemies have been so eager to puff up the importance of all this that no one can tell yet how seriously his candidacy is being affected. His managers are trying to find out.

DID the "power trust" spend $20,000,000 in lobbying last year in an attempt to beat the Wheeler-Rayburn public utilities holding company act?

Chairman John O'Connor (New York), chairman of the House lobby committee, says it did. O'Connor led the investigation into alleged lobbying by government officials for the bill.

He blocked a roll call vote on the "death sentence," sought by the administration. He is a brother of Basil O'Connor, New York lawyer who is reported to have received $25,000 to work against the bill. So it sounds official.

Many a married man thinks twice before stepping out at night—first an excuse to get out, and then one for getting in late.

"Judge fines speeding driver $100, and warns that the next time he will send him to jail." News item. Sounds something like a weather report—Fine today, cooler tomorrow.

In his campaign for the presidential nomination, Governor Landon says he will dodge the prohibition issue. And it is our assumption that he will dodge all other issues in an effort to befog the minds of the voters.

UNDER THE DOME AT AUSTIN

By GORDON K. SHEARER United Press Staff Correspondent AUSTIN, April 14.—(UP)—A simple method of handling extradition cases has been adopted by Governor James V. Allred. It saves time and prevents duplication of hearings.

When another governor calls up on Texas for someone in Texas who is "wanted" for an offense in the foreign state Governor Allred asks two questions: "Was the man where he could have committed the offense?" and "Is there a formal extradition charge filed against him?"

If these two requirements are shown to be met, Governor Allred honors the requisition and authorizes an extradition proclamation. He keeps a string on the action however. The extradition papers are not issued until there has been an opportunity for the extraditee to contest removal by a writ if habeas corpus. The governor insists on an agreement between defense counsel and prosecutors that there will be no attempt to spirit the man out of the state before a court hearing if one has been sought.

The system lets courts decide if removal is justified. In many cases defendants resorted to court tests after a hearing before the governor. That meant two hearings of the same matter. The new plan makes one suffice.

Massachusetts' discovery that one of her war memorials was dedicated to Germany rather than the Allies in its Latin inscription has renewed interest in the Latin inscription on the bench of the Texas Supreme court.

The inscription is: "Sicut Patribus, sic Deus nobis." The generally accepted translation is: "As God was with our Fathers, so may he be with us." Some prefer: "As God was to our fathers so may he be to us." How the phrase came to be chosen to adorn the court bench is not known to court attaches. Presumably it was placed there when the present state capitol was built and furnished.

An alert Austin newsboy started University Roundup visitors by his call outside an Austin hotel. Dr. Morgan Callaway, noted English scholar of the University faculty had died. The same day Dr. Frank Debie, also of the English faculty was working out a parking fine as a protest against Austin traffic regulations. The boy combined the two into this startling call: "One Two—"

Walking slowly, steadily out on the stage Toby was never to forget the picture of Harriet in the glittering white gown, her lovely red-gold hair beneath the cap of lace and the long veil floating back from her shoulders. Harriet has never looked more beautiful. Toby's own heart was pounding and she stole anxious glances at her roommate, but Harriet looked completely calm.

She was like that afterwards in the dressing room. She took off her street clothes with exactly her usual care. She stopped to put powder on her nose and see that the brim of her hat fitted over her eyes as it should.

Toby, persuaded, called Bill and they arranged a meeting place. When she arrived not more than 10 minutes late she exclaimed, "Bill, how grand you look!"

"Like the suit?" He was grinning like a school boy. "I certainly do. It's brand new, isn't it?"

"Almost. And the best thing about this suit is the pockets. They've got money in 'em. Listen!" He reached into a pocket, jingling some change. "Miss Ryan, we're off for a large evening."

"Why Bill, have you come into an inheritance or something?" "Nothing of the sort. Honest toll, my good woman—honest toll has made me hungry. Am. Today. It's made me hungry. Too. Come on—"

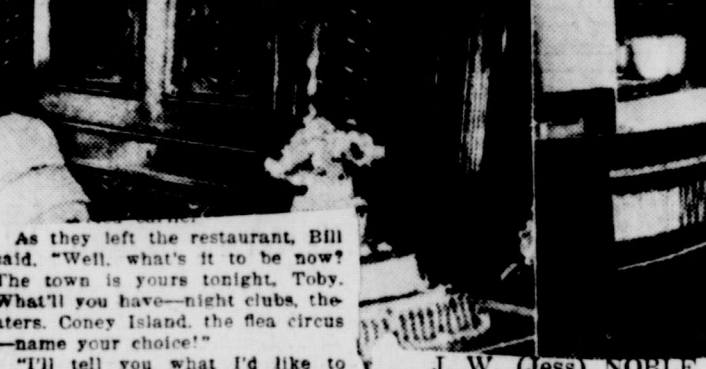

OVER the dinner, at a fashionable restaurant, Bill explained further. "When I was writing ads," he said, "I was just one of hundreds who got the job as well. But "I hope you will not take this too hard, Harriet. My only excuse for not telling you sooner is that I couldn't bear to hurt you. But I am sure it is really for the best. I will always think of you as one of the sweetest girls I have ever known, and some day I know you will meet someone who will make you as happy as you deserve to be."

Clyde said, "Oh, Harriet, I'm so sorry!" The words sounded trivial and meaningless. Harriet was still standing there, ghostly white. There was no sign of tears in her eyes, no sign of emotion at all in her face except that she pressed her lips together, trying to steady them.

Harriet did none of those things. When Toby tried to talk to her about other things—anything to take her mind off Clyde—her answers were brief. She picked up a magazine and then, a little later, said that she thought she'd go to bed.

Toby was away from the apartment most of the next day. She came in at 5 o'clock to find Harriet, in a nightgown, curled up on the davenport.

As they left the restaurant, Bill said, "Well, what's it to be now? The town is yours tonight, Toby. What'll you have—night clubs, theaters, Coney Island, the flea circus—name your choice!"

"I'll tell you what I'd like to do," Toby said. "Let's go back and get Harriet. She had some bad news yesterday, Bill, and I can't help worrying about her. Let's ask her to come with us."

"Why, sure," he agreed. They walked to the apartment. Toby said, "It's such a wonderful evening, I'd like to stay out doors. I'll tell you what I'd like to do. Let's go down to the Battery and take the ferry over to Staten Island. That will be more fun than your theaters and night clubs. It will be wonderful out on the water."

"Suits me," Bill agreed. "Staten Island it is." Toby never knew why the idea came to her that they must hurry. There was no reason for it, but all at once she felt that it was important to reach the apartment and to reach there as quickly as possible.

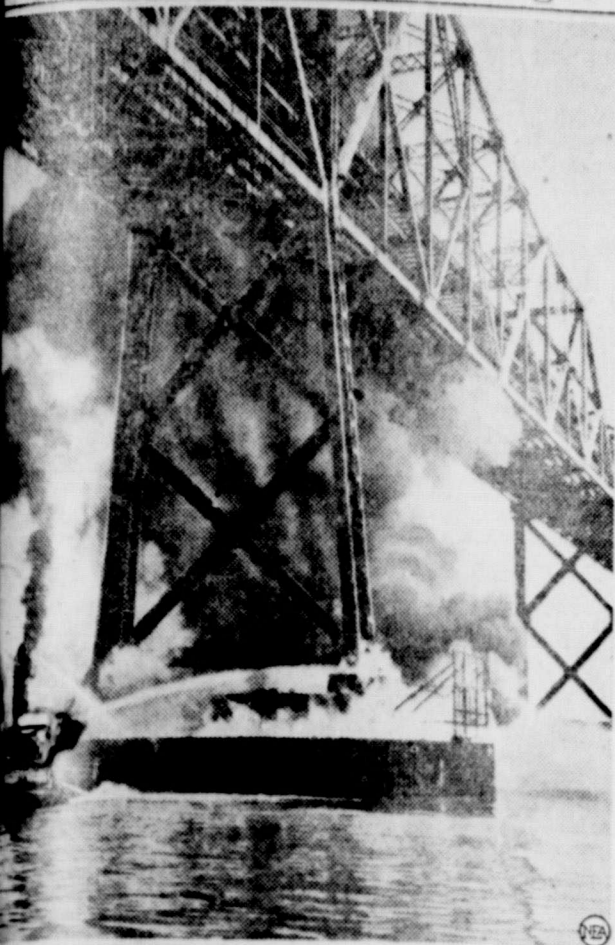

They went into the building and climbed the long flight of stairs. "You ought to have St. Bernard's on this stairway," Bill said, "with nourishment for the weary climbers. Give me an Alp any day! What are we really at the top?"

Toby, absent, did not hear him. She hurried forward and knocked on the door. There was no answer. Toby slipped her key into the lock, turned it and opened the door.

And then, suddenly, it was Bill who pushed forward. He called out sharply, "Toby, don't go into that room!" (To Be Continued)

Longest Bridge Is Fire Target

A spectacular blaze that forced 12 workmen to leap into the water here is shown playing streams of water on the San Francisco-Oakland Bay bridge, longest in the world, as huge billows of smoke roll up. It was the span's first fire and likely the last, as the structure is entirely of steel. The flames were extinguished when a white-hot rivet was dropped on some creosote-soaked plating that had not been removed from the span.

Daisies Deal Death To Billions of Insects

Strange as it may seem, a beautiful red daisy closely related to our common field daisy with its orange disc center and white petals (she loves me—she loves me not) is the deadliest enemy of house flies, mosquitoes, moths and other perennial pests. Contact with this colorful field flower instantly gives the insects a nervous breakdown (no fooling!) and within a few seconds, unable to forage for food or water, they starve to death.

"Pyrethrum" scientists call the deadly daisy essence, which they now use as a powerful killing constituent in insect spray. And, today, when flies, roaches, moths or whatnots get on the harassed housewife's nerves she goes them one better. She fires for the spray gun and gives the flies a swift and deadly case of nervous prostration.

It was a Jugo-Slavish hausfrau who accidentally discovered the insect-killing power of the pyrethrum daisy when she picked a bouquet of the bright red flowers and put them on a table in the house. Later she noticed a great number of dead insects around the withered bouquet. Subsequently, small European manufacturers ground the flowers into a fine powder and distributed it about the continent as a dust to be blown at insects by means of small blowers. More recently, pyrethrum daisy growing has become an agricultural industry in various countries of the Gulf Oil corporation of Pennsylvania. Gulf Refining company imports vast quantities of the death-dealing yellow dust for use in its insect sprays.

According to Dr. William A. Simenton, entomologist at Gulf's Research Laboratories, the killing action of pyrethrum is very rapid, when mixed in proper quantities with an especially refined hydrocarbon carrier and sprayed as a fine mist into a room or cupboard. When the fine mist comes in contact with an insect, it penetrates into the insect's nervous system, destroying the nerve cells, causing paralysis. Within a few second death results from starvation. The organs and functions of insect bodies are decidedly different in many respects from those of the human body and those of animals and birds. Hence pyrethrum, so deadly to flies, mosquitoes, roaches, moths and other insects and their larvae, has no effect on human beings or their pets.

So if the dog or the cat or "the old man" gets on the housewife's nerves, the Gulf spray gun won't do much good.

Ranger Hotel Man Injured in Wreck

J. C. Shaw, manager of the Paramount Hotel of Ranger, was critically and possibly fatally injured in an automobile accident three miles southwest of Strawn early Monday morning. He was taken to the West Texas Clinic and Hospital in Ranger, where at mid-afternoon Monday it was reported that he had little chance for recovery.

According to friends of the accident victim, Shaw had been to Mineral Wells to visit friends and was returning to Ranger at the time of the accident. At the bus stop near Metcalf gap he encountered a woman who was having trouble in driving her car, so he offered to drive her on to Ranger.

Tom Hicks, who was at the bus station waiting for a bus, drove Shaw's car for him. When the car overturned about three miles from Strawn on the road toward Ranger, Hicks helped the passengers from the automobile, returned to Strawn for an ambulance and aided in getting the injured man back to Ranger.

At the West Texas Clinic and Hospital where Shaw was taken doctors said that the entire left side of his face had been torn away where he was struck by one of the railings as the car turned over.

The woman and her two small nephews, who were in the car with Shaw, were uninjured. At Ranger she was placed in the city jail charged with being drunk and was released late Monday morning upon payment of a fine.

Accused in McBee Case Under Bond

Lynn Smith, accused in an accomplice in the H. L. McBee death at Rising Star May 1, 1933, was at liberty Monday under $1,000 bond. Frank Jenkins, appointed by 88th district court as Smith's attorney arranged bond.

Smith's bond figure was reduced from $3,000 to $1,000 March 30, after 88th district court dismissed a murder allegation in his indictment. Lynn is the brother of Jack Smith, accused of murder in the McBee death, who was found in his cell cell recently with his throat slit.

Raymond Henry is under a 50-year sentence in the McBee death given upon his conviction by an 88th district court jury April 5.

Mrs. Henry, former wife of McBee, is scheduled to go on trial May 13 upon an indictment alleging murder of the highway worker.

Jersey Sherlock Is Probe Target

The "Sherlock Holmes of New Jersey," Detective Ellis Parker, shown here at his desk, became the central figure in the investigation of the Lindbergh kidnap murder confessions of Paul H. Parker, close friend of Governor Hoffman, is alleged to have held Winton a week before surrendering him and the purported confessions to Mercer County Detective James Kirkham, another Hoffman ally.

PUBLIC WORKS URGED TO AID CANADA'S IDLE

By ALEX JANUSITIS (United Press Staff Correspondent)
OTTAWA, Ont., April 14—(UP)—A new unemployment relief plan, empowering the government to tackle the problem by creating employment through the scheme of public work projects and agreements with private industry, has been placed before the Canadian Parliament by Norman Rogers, Minister of Labor.
Rogers quoted comparative figures on unemployment for this year and 1935 to support his contention that new legislation is necessary to deal with the constantly changing situation in Canada. The total unemployment in February this year was 1,080,931, compared with 1,136,840, in February, 1935, but to this year's figure, he said, must be added some 256,944 farmers and their families in the drought stricken areas of western Canada who are being directly supported by the government.

Bill Past First Reading
Rogers said the object of the legislation he has sponsored in the house, and which already has been given first reading, was to vest in the government authority to:
1. Establish an employment commission to co-ordinate all relief efforts and promote efficiency and economy.
2. Vote specific sums in supplementary estimates to cover relief costs, ending "blank check" legislation.
3. Initiate programs of public works to provide jobs.
4. Sign agreements with companies, partnerships or individuals relating to the expansion of industrial employment.
5. Extend land settlement schemes to take more men from the cities and back to the farms.
6. Negotiate direct relief agreements with the provinces, continuing or extending the monthly payments now in force.
7. Lend money to provinces.

Government Gets Leeway
Under the Minister of Labor's bill, the government may initiate any works and undertaking that it finds to be in the general interest of Canada and may execute necessary or expedient. Money for the undertakings will be appropriated by Parliament.
As far as it is reasonably possible, persons on relief will be employed on these works. All such undertakings are subject to the approval of the Minister of Labor and will be supervised by a government engineer.
The bill also provides that any agreements entered into by the government and private industry to create employment must be sanctioned by Parliament, and must be paid for out of funds appropriated for relief purposes.
The purpose of the legislation is to abolish waste. Under the system of relief in force in Canada during the last five years, there have been three large spending entities—the Dominion government, the provincial governments and the municipalities, and there has been no coordinating agency and no supervising agency.
With the measures proposed by the Minister of Labor the government hopes to obtain economy and efficiency by a complete supervision not only over expenditures made by the federal government on relief, but over expenditures made by all bodies.
Setting up of a national commission on employment, Rogers said would enable the government to determine much more satisfactorily the type of relief works which should be undertaken and would enable the government to develop a program which might be proceeded with or discontinued as circumstances warranted.
"We are dealing not with a static situation, but with one that is

LET'S TALK ABOUT CLOTHES

DENTON, April 14—Since suits held such a prominent place in the fall and winter wardrobe of women all over the country, it isn't surprising to see them cropping up again in the spring fashions. This season they're shown in light colors made of palm beach and gaberdine, and their versatility is marked by the simplicity of design.
You see them everywhere—at the hotel luncheon, on trains and buses as traveling ensembles and on all kinds of shopping tours. They usually boast a smart blouse of some contrasting color, and when the temperature begins rising, the coat can always be shed in favor of the blouse, and you'll still feel well dressed.
The detail features are particularly interesting in the new suits.

Simplicity ranks first here, and to achieve this your skirt and coat must be cut on very simple lines. Straight-fitting backs with no pleats or by-swung effects, a few pockets, and one or two exciting darts in the back will do much to enhance the beauty of the material.
Neckwear, with a particularly feminine accent is suggested for these suits by girls at Texas State College for Women (CIA). Fluffy collars with Irish lace trim, and orange-jabots make interesting finishes. Some prefer a manish ascot scarf caught at the neck with an initial pin, and a boutonniere in the lapel.
Mix your colors. Let the color of your suit predominate, but brighten it with a gay scarf or with colored accessories. To get contrast I saw one suit that had yellow lapels on natural color material.

Ice-Cream Consumption a Barometer of Economic Conditions

ICE-CREAM consumption fluctuates in sympathy with general economic conditions, according to the United States Department of Agriculture. In the boom year of 1929, we consumed more than 250 million gallons. By 1935, however, consumption had shrunk to less than 100 million gallons.

Statistics of 1934 show that we have had a consumption of 150 million gallons of ice-cream.

Children's Parties Increase

Ice-cream is a barometer of economic conditions, then the number of children's parties—at least in this ice-cream is a barometer. Certainly in prosperous times we can afford to do so for our children. Therefore, the tiny envelopes are flying with the mails announcing party parties, spring parties, summer parties—parties of every description—it is well to consider ideas in food, games and prizes for these most delightful occasions.

There is very definite vogue for children's parties, just as there are for other parties. See to it you don't give a 1935 party in bright new 1936. If it is a party, use cellophane, green tissue to cover your tablecloth makes a gleaming table set—and use pink ribbon where pieces of cellophane join.

Your candle-holders, also cellophane and tie pink ribbons at the base.

Fun and Good Eats

Flower Hunt is an appropriate contest. Cut pictures of flowers from a seed catalogue. Hide in the house, or on the lawn, a prize for the child who finds the greatest number of flowers which he can identify by garden tools or a garden and overall will be an appropriate prize.

It must be as gay as the party frocks and as pleasant picnic. And the food mustn't look like ordinary food at all, but food which Merita or some good fairy has been busy making unbelievable.

Red Cross Aids 100,000 Families In Flood-Stricken Eastern Area

Appalling floods that swept over eastern states during the first of March caused the American Red Cross to take under its wings more than 100,000 families in ten states. Pennsylvania was hit, and in the cities of Pittsburgh and Johnstown the Red Cross either fed, sheltered or housed 117,000 persons. The sufferings were intense, because added to the flood waters, came rain, and intense cold.

Within a few days the Red Cross had more than 200 relief workers and 200 Red Cross nurses in all of the communities in the thirteen states which had suffered from flood waters.

Admiral Cary T. Grayson, Chairman, notified President Roosevelt, who is President of the Red Cross, that a relief fund of at least $3,000,000 would be needed. President Roosevelt addressed a proclamation to the nation asking for liberal contributions. When double the number of families came under care of the

Every year, the Humble Company receives thousands of voluntary comments on Humble Service Check Cards from Texas motorists and out-of-state visitors. These cards tell their own story of courteous, helpful service, of clean stations, of spotless restrooms. Humble Station men take a justifiable pride in these comments from their customers.

Humble Service Stations are carefully designed and landscaped to make them attractive features of the neighborhoods in which they are located. They are fully equipped for your comfort and the expert care your car requires. Humble men are proud of the Stations which they man, and this Centennial year, they're putting their best foot forward.

In a recent study of Humble Service Check Cards mailed to the Company by Humble customers, nearly half the comments complimented Humble Service Station men on their friendly courtesy. These trained men render the kind of service which motorists find helpful.

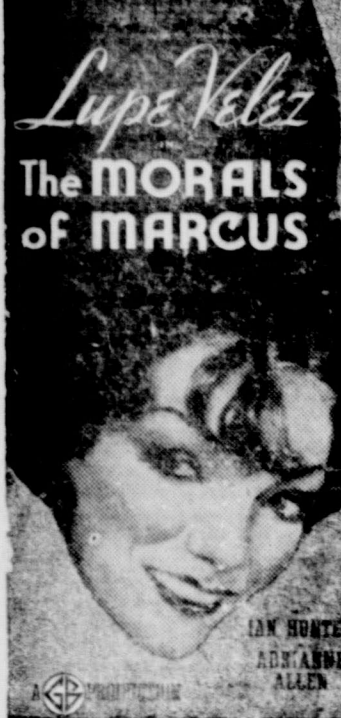

"Our restrooms are as clean and as sanitary as the bathroom in your home"

"We've had many compliments on the cleanliness of restrooms in our Humble Service Stations. Homefolks here in Texas have got so they expect clean restrooms when they stop at a Humble Station, and out-of-state visitors always make some comment. A lady from Illinois, for example, wrote us that Humble restrooms were the cleanest and the nicest she had found in a motor trip clear across the country. That's fine! We want folks to be pleased with our stations, our service and our products. We're doing all we can to make driving an automobile in Texas pleasant, comfortable and carefree, to make the Humble Service Station a real oasis of the highway. We invite you to drive in where you see our Humble sign, to try Humble service and Humble products—we're confident that both will please you!"

Bad Elimination
Makes It Easier
To Catch a Cold
With the right sort of food and proper exercise, constipation might be rare, but in actual living conditions, how few manage to escape it!
Mr. Clyde Martin, of Ona, W. Va., recently very aptly wrote that "constipation is the root of a lot of sickness, but if Black-Draught is taken right it will keep down constipation."
"I let myself get constipated," he explains, "and my system filled with impure matter. I feel bloated, take cold easily, and feel out of sorts in a lot of ways. I will take about two good doses of Black-Draught. It seems to cleanse my whole system and I feel like doing my work."
