CISCO'S BAND COMPETES AT BIG SPRINGS

Mrs. E. A. Wilson, J. D. ... Lauderdale and James Haynie, ac... companied the high school band on ... their trip to Big Spring, where the ... Leboes will compete with about 30 ... other West Texas colleges and high ... school bands in the meet which will ... be composed of more than 1,500 ... musicians.

Bandmaster R. L. Maddox ex... pected to take as many as possible ... of the 42 members of his band. All ... left at an early hour this morning... Big Spring was making ready ... Wednesday to welcome 1,500 musi... cians for the annual West Texas ... school band contests Friday and Sat... urday.

Edmund Notestine, in charge of ... housing arrangements, left Wednes... day morning for Lubbock where ... he supervised the loading of 600 ... cots, mattresses and an ample sup... ply of bed clothing from the CCC ... district headquarters.

31 Entrants
Announcement by Cisco, Blanket ... and Megaral that they would en... ter the contest brought the total ... number listed Wednesday to 31. Of ... the total number participating, ap... proximately 600 will require quar... tering in the school barracks, and ... private homes.

Contests will start Friday at 9 a. ... m. and will continue through the ... noon hour. Friday at 8 p. m. the ... marching contest, one of the most ... spectacular parts of the two-day af... fair, will be staged at the high ... school stadium.

Two ministers have written open ... letters as champions of the prohibi... tion forces and what they believe ... should be done, urging all who are ... opposed to the county going wet ... in tomorrow's election to be sure to ... cast their vote. These letters are ... printed on page 'tax' under the ... heading "Letters From Our Read... ers."

On another page proponents of ... the wet organization have inserted ... a page size advertisement setting ... forth reasons why Cisco and the ... county should vote wet.

These are questions that each vot... er should decide by careful invest... igation and thought. They should ... not vote wet or dry because any ... newspaper editor or any individual ... says vote thus and so.

No free government can exist ... without free thought, based, of ... course, on reasons well justified by ... facts. Each side of the question ... urges a strong vote, so that the ... question may be decided definitely ... Saturday.

Farmers Hopes High After Good Rains

Eastland Asks For Delinquent Taxes

Filing of suits against delinquent ... tax property owners will be under... taken by the city commission if the ... prospective defendants do not "make ... every effort to pay their delinquent ... taxes at once."

This notice was served by the ... commission in a public statement ... issued Thursday.

The statement was as follows: It ... is the sincere desire of your City ... Commission to do everything possi... ble for the good of Eastland in ... every way that is at all possible ... under the condition. Your City Com... mission, up to this time, has caused to ... be graveled more than 75 per cent ... of all the streets in the city, and ... when the present project is completed ... 90 per cent of the street of East... land will be topped with gravel.

This means that the occupants of ... nearly every house in Eastland will ... be provided with a graveled street ... upon which to travel to and from ... town. Your City Commission gave ... preference to this project because ... it undoubtedly benefited more peo... ple and improved the city more than ... would any other project that we ... could have undertaken, and it is ... the City Commission's opinion that ... good judgment was exercised in ... performing as much as possible of ... the government relief work in East... land, as the federal government ... provides about 85 per cent of the ... cost of this work, the city being ... required to pay only about 15 per ... cent either in material, money, ... truck hire, etc.

As you all know the present gov... ernment relief will not continue a ... great deal longer and it is our ... desire to get as much of the gov... ernment relief work in Eastland ... as possible.

Thirty bands have definitely en... tered the contest and some five ... others have indicated they will come ... here for the affair. Those in charge ... of arrangements anticipated 1,600 ... high school players and leaders in ... Big Spring by Friday evening. Last ... year at the Lubbock convention only ... about twenty bands participated.

Seven beautiful statuette awards ... for superior rank and three cups for ... the marching contest winners were ... put on display in the chamber of ... commerce window. Superior rating ... goes to every band scoring 92 or ... above in its particular class.

Residents today were helping to ... solve the housing problem by listing ... rooms with the chamber of com... merce. Approximately 150 of the ... visiting players will be cared for in ... this manner.

Cots Prepared
During the morning 350 cots were ... placed in six barracks of the CCC ... camp at Semic Mountain and were ... made ready for the visitors. In the ... high school gymnasium 150 more ... beds were spread.

Several lodges and churches were ... making their halls available to ... bands who are bringing their own ... bedding.

Scores are provided for at hotels ... and tourist camps, and approxi... mately 250 will come here for the ... contests but will return to their ... homes in the evening.

Conley said today that there would ... be no charges made for any of the ... contests, or for the marching ... contest or massed concert, starting ... 200 musicians, Saturday evening ... from the municipal auditorium. All ... parts of the program are open to the ... general public, he said.

Lubbock and Abilene junior high ... school bands will open the two day ... contest Friday at 8 a. m. in com... peting for honors in that division.

RED CROSS TO SET UP FIRST AID STATIONS

Red Cross First Aid Stations are ... to be set up on highways by the ... Eastland County Chapter, American ... Red Cross, it was stated by R. T. ... Bridges, field representative for the ... West Texas area.

As part of the nationwide emer... gency highway first aid program ... inaugurated by the Red Cross re... cently, plans are in preparation for ... the opening of stations on the high... ways of Eastland county.

Mr. Robert T. Bridge, field re... presentative of the national organiza... tion, has been in conference with ... Chapter officers during the past ... few days relative to this program.

In general, most of the stations will ... be located out on the open high... ways, either in filling stations, gar... ages or wayside stores; in some ... cases they will be located in small ... towns on the edge of large towns.

Each station will be equipped with ... first aid supplies and the personnel ... will be given Red Cross first aid ... training. This is essentially volun... teer service. When accidents occur ... the station attendants will give ... emergency treatments until the ar... rival of a physician or until the in... jured person is properly transport... ed to the nearest hospital. No fee ... or charge will be charged or accept... ed for this service nor for supplies used ... in treating injuries.

At least two employees of each ... station must complete the standard ... Red Cross First Aid Course before ... the station may be accredited. Throughout the county nearly ... four hundred of these stations are ... already in operation and over two ... thousand others are in process of ... development. The exact locations of ... stations in Eastland County have ... not yet been determined, but the ... Chapter Highway First Aid Com... mittee, under the chairmanship of ... Mr. Jess Proctor, will make a sur... vey of the highways and determine ... the locations at an early date. It ... is anticipated that at least three sta... tions will be opened in the county ... during 1936. On the Highway First ... Aid Committee will be representa... tives from Eastland, Cisco and Ran... ger; Mr. J. E. Spencer is chairman.

F. D. R. Addresses a Vast Audience

President Roosevelt opened his campaign for re-election in Baltimore. He addressed an immense audience of young and old democrats and independents. He declared for limiting "active working ages at both ends and giving jobs only to those between 18 and 65 years of age." It was a Jefferson birthday rally sponsored by the young democratic clubs of Maryland. It is said that eight million young men and women of voting age will cast their first presidential ballots in November of this year. They are keenly interested in the issues of the campaign and the president addressed his remarks largely to these youngsters who will perhaps name the next president. Highlights of F. D. R. follow: "Our working population increases every year. These increases raise the question as to whether it is not possible and right to limit the active working agents at both ends." He reminded his vast audience that "the best that the captains of industry could do for you before the depression was not good enough then and it is not good enough today. Some people tell you that even with the completely restored prosperity, there will be a vast permanent army of unemployed. I do not accept that. That period of social pioneering is only at its beginning." Again the president directed his remarks to youth in advocacy of a shorter week and minimum pay. He said, "Industry can contribute in great measure to the increase of employment if industry, as a whole, will undertake reasonable reductions of hours of work per week while at the same time they keep the average individual envelope at least as large as it is today. Because the practices of employment definitely affect the problem of unemployment the government must give and will give consideration to such subjects as the length of the working week, the stability of employment on an annual basis and the payment of at least adequate minimum wages."

His conclusion was a direct appeal to the young men and women voters of America: "Be wise enough and tolerant enough, you who are young in years, to remember that millions of older people have kept and proposed to keep these qualities of youth. You ought to thank God tonight if, regardless of your years, you are young enough in spirit to dream dreams and see visions—dreams and visions about a greater and a finer America that is to be. If you are young enough in spirit to believe that poverty that can be greatly lessened; that the disgrace of involuntary unemployment can be wiped out; that class hatreds can be done away with; that peace at home and abroad can be maintained; and that one day a generation may possess this land, blessed beyond anything we now know, with those things—material and spiritual—that make man's life abundant. If that is the fashion of your dreaming then I say: 'Hold fast to your dream. America needs it.'"

F. D. R. is correct. That is not the old world of the fathers and the mothers. Why? Let him tell it to the young men and women of today: "The world in which the millions of you have come of age is not the set old world of your fathers... because the facts and aids of civilization have changed more greatly in this generation than in the century that preceded us. Flaming youth has become a flaming question and youth comes to us wanting to know what we propose to do about a society that hurt so many of them." And flaming youth is in the political saddle.

Behind the Scenes in Washington

BY RODNEY DUTCHER

WASHINGTON—Several developments on the labor front point to intensification of the long struggle between employers and employees in industry.

These include unprecedented political activity by labor groups, evidence of repressive tactics of a sensational nature, the rise of labor organizations to demand a voice in new fields, and likelihood of a Senate investigation of industrial practices inimical to labor organization.

The old-fashioned conception of the employer as a benevolent personage with the welfare of his workers at heart, though it still must apply in many cases, has taken a severe jolt with the revelation reported to have been made in a Senate probe that major industries were secretly buying stores of machine guns, tear gas, revolvers, and ammunition, in anticipation of labor strikes.

The evidence was found by the Senate Munitions Committee in the files of Federal Laboratories, Inc., of Pittsburgh, dealers in tear and nauseating gas, who handle pistols and machine guns on the side.

These revelations are being used as a talking point by President John L. Lewis of the United Mine Workers, head of the new industrial union movement, and will be followed up by the La Follette subcommittee in its preliminary hearings which will be used to base a request for full investigation of violations of civil rights.

The National Labor Relations Board has a vast store of evidence as to industrial espionage which is being placed before the subcommittee and which has a direct bearing on enforcement of the Wagner labor disputes act—probably the most commonly flouted law in the country today. It has been common practice, this evidence indicates, for large corporations to employ "stool pigeons" to join labor unions, make reports on the unions' affairs and memberships, and to obstruct or nullify their work from the inside. Activities of labor spies would be first on the investigation's agenda.

It is also proposed that the committee cover the whole field of civil liberties violations. Obviously, the exposure and denunciation of these alleged tactics—with recommendation for legislation in some cases—would aid militant labor organizers. It would also accrue to the benefit of the Roosevelt administration, which will have the support of organized labor and pose as its champion while its opposition has the support of the American Liberty League, chiefly representative of anti-union employers.

Organization of Labor's Non-Partisan League by George Berry of the pressmen, Lewis of the miners, and Sidney Hillman of the clothing workers is important because it will be difficult for the other A. F. of L. leaders to avoid playing along with them.

With Berry at its head, the movement can't be branded by Bill Green and conservative leaders as a mere offshoot of the Lewis-Hillman Committee for Industrial Organization. The league's support of Roosevelt means that 160,000 miners and 40,000 garment workers in Pennsylvania, and 236,000 needle trades workers in New York, probably will be delivered to the National Democratic ticket in November.

OUT OUR WAY

The president's Baltimore speech "kinda" knocked the wind out of some employers because he was not in favor of exploiting little children and keeping the workers' nose to the grind stone.

After listening to the Republican's criticism of the New Deal, we've about come to the conclusion that G. O. P. means Gripeing Old Party.

Spending money is one thing and having the money to spend is quite another.

Gorgeous

BY LAURA LOU BROOKMAN

SHE knotted the grass, slipped the circle over her arm as a bracelet, and studied the effect. She said, after a moment, "Well, it was your fault, wasn't it?"

"I suppose so. But you're not going to hold that against me forever, are you? You've made me pay for it a hundred times. Look here, Gorgeous—can't we start all over again?"

She tossed the grass bracelet aside, and got to her feet. Instead of answering, she said, "It's time we were going back, Tim. Look at the sun. It will be late by the time we get there."

"Let's not go back. Let's drive on and have dinner at one of those places farther out—"

But she made excuses, said she had to be back in town. Reluctantly, Tim arose. "All right," he said, "we'll go back. I noticed that you didn't answer my question a moment ago. You don't need to answer it. I'm giving you warning right now, though, that you aren't going to be able to keep me from seeing you. Not a chance in the world!"

Toby was ahead, walking toward the car. Apparently she had not heard. She said, stepping into the car and settling against the seat, "It's been a grand day, Tim. And a grand picnic. Really."

"We'll have more of them. We'll have better days than this."

He headed the car back toward the city. The heat rose to meet them and the evening traffic had begun, slowing their progress. It was late when they finally reached the apartment.

Tim left, promising to call next day. The call came while Toby was eating breakfast. "We're lunching together," he announced. "Where do you want me to pick you up?"

"I'm sorry, but I'm afraid I can't make it," she told him. "I've an 11 o'clock assignment at Duryea's."

"Then how about dinner?"

"Not tonight, Tim."

"Tomorrow?"

"I'll have to tell you about that later."

BUT she could not go on refusing indefinitely. The next evening she agreed to have dinner with him and they dined at a restaurant with tables set out on the sidewalk beneath gaily striped awnings.

The heat had diminished, but it was still too warm for comfort. Tim said, "You shouldn't be in town in weather like this. You should be out on the coast or up in the mountains."

"I've got a job," she reminded him. "I've got to stay here and work at it. You could go away, though. Why are you staying?" He smiled. "Trying to get rid of me!"

"No."

I am. At least, just now, I am."

Later they drove through the park and along a wide thoroughfare, heading north. Neither of them spoke often; both felt the spell of the moonless night. Headlights of oncoming cars and street lamps made patterns in the darkness. The sky was a blue-black, dusted with star light.

An hour of this and they turned back. At the door of the apartment, Toby made the farewells brief. She hadn't felt too sure of herself out on that open road; she wasn't too sure of herself now.

Jay Hillier telephoned next day. His trip, he said, had taken longer than he had expected it would. He had returned only the night before.

"I hope I can see you tonight," he told Toby. "I've a particular reason—"

She said she would be glad to see him. It was what she needed after so much of Tim Jamieson's company. Toby told herself. She had been seeing too much of Tim lately. Far too much.

HILLIER was to call for her at 6. Toby, as she dressed, thought how angry Tim would be if he knew she was going out with Hillier. Not that it was any affair of Tim's. He was mistaken in what he had said about Hillier, though she couldn't convince him of it.

Besides, there was no reason for Tim to know where she was going. She was mildly curious about the "particular reason" Hillier wanted to see her. It was probably, she decided, something about the advertisements she had posed for. Maybe they were going to ask her to do another series.

Hillier was prompt, as he always was, and Toby did not keep him waiting. She said, as she came down the steps to meet him, "Your trip must have been a success! I think it's been good for you."

"Yes, it was a good trip," he told her. "Very satisfactory. But the best part, as usual, was getting home. I hear the weather's been hot here. You don't appear to be blighted by it."

She smiled. His compliments were never like Tim's. They never embarrassed her.

"Any place in particular you want to go?" he asked as they stepped out on the street.

"No."

They decided on a dining room high up in the sky—one that was cool, and where excellent food was served, but was not likely to be thronged. They were right about that; they had a corner to themselves.

Toby asked questions about the trip, but Hillier waved them aside. "First tell me what you've been doing," he said.

She did, briefly, omitting mention of Tim Jamieson. Hillier nodded, and seemed satisfied. Then Toby remembered what he had said in the morning.

"But you haven't told me," she said. "What the particular reason is why you wanted to see me tonight."

"No."

"Aren't you going to tell me? I'm beginning to be curious," Hillier nodded. "Yes," he said. "I'm going to tell you. It's quite a story, Toby. I don't seem to know how to begin."

plate the object without being prejudice against the liquor crime. All you do is to think of the wrecks, deaths, destitution children tugging at the faded and worn mother, jails, asylums and the needy, and I do not wonder that every thoughtful person is prejudice against liquor. It cannot be trusted. It is powerful, aggressive and universal in its attacks. It produces weakness not strength, sickness not health, poverty not wealth, death not life, misery and woe not happiness. It will make wives widows, children orphans, husbands fiends. It is the mortal enemy of peace and order. Who can profit by its return? It can uplift no essential industry, it will remedy no wrong. It comes to mislead human souls, and to crush hearts under its mighty power. It comes to convert wife's love into despair, and her pride into shame. It comes to still the laugh of little children. It comes to empty the churches, ruin body and mind, it wreck homes, and it will measure its prosperity by the swiftness and certainty with which it does its work. It will undo the work of schools and cut the ground from under law and order. It buys from the state the right to lay dynamite under its foundation. For a handful of gold it is given the right to nullify the work of law makers. Huge battleships have been built, vast sums have been spent on war equipment, to be ready for a peril which we hope shall never come. Yet for the pitiful purse, this terrible thing is given the right to unmask all its power upon boys and girls, every day and every night. Is the revenue worth more than our noble boys and girls? A vote against it is a vote for your home, your school, your community, your church, and above all for the boys and the girls.

T. J. SPARKMAN, Pastor East Cisco Baptist Church

CORRECTING AN ERROR

The report has gone out over Eastland county that if the county does not vote the wet ticket in tomorrow's election it will be denied the benefit of the old age pension relief. The ministers of this county have through a committee wired the Old Age Commission at Austin, and they have in their possession a reply stating that this propaganda is entirely without foundation. Such an absurd statement and such an unrighteous appeal to the voters demands that the correction be publicly made now.

The ministers of this county do not wish to be contentious, nor do they wish to make a single enemy; but they do feel that it devolves upon them to tell the people the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth concerning all issues of life. Therefore, as one of the local pastors, as president of the county pastors' association, and as a friend of the community I hereby appeal to you to go to the polls Saturday and cast a vote against the legalization of humanity's enemy.

To vote for the legalization of fourteen percent liquors is not a vote for beer. It is a vote for whiskey. There is not a single thing to gain by legalizing it in our county, but there is much to lose. If you want to increase the hazards of the highways and streets; if you want to put your stamp of approval upon debauched poverty; if you want to say to our boys and girls that you believe it wise to drink; if you want to drive men to an untimely grave, women to the poor house, and children to the orphanage; if you want to retard the work of the churches, lower the standards of morality, and hasten the ruin of society; if you want to contribute to the damnation of souls, then vote the wet ticket. If, on the other hand, you prefer the saving of a soul and a life to a few paltry dollars; if you prefer a bit of criticism to a guilty conscience; if you prefer that what drinking is done shall be done without your consent; if you prefer a progressive community to a destructive one; if you prefer to be a party to man's uplift rather than his destruction; if you prefer a community capable of earning a livelihood rather than one dependent upon a dole; if you prefer the plaudits of Heaven rather than the praise of men, then vote against the legalization of this monster.

If you vote dry tomorrow and lose your will, you will have the satisfaction of knowing that you did the thing that was right. Then when the ambulance calls to carry away the mutilated or lifeless remains of your neighbor, when the court pronounces sentence upon the intoxicated driver, when the mantle of Eleanora rolls back to receive another victim of its long abode, you will not have to acknowledge to yourself that you have been accessory to the cause of the sorrow.

Respectfully submitted, E. S. JAMES

There are a number of property owners in the city of Eastland who have not paid their city taxes the last few years, and a considerable number who have not paid for a greater period of time. The City Commission, up to this time, has not imposed any penalty and interest on these delinquent taxes (which the Commission has the authority to do), in an effort to help the tax payers pay their taxes; however, it appears that a change must be made in this policy. We wish to urge you to make every possible effort to pay your delinquent taxes at once, and thus avoid the additional expense of court costs and attorneys fees which is attached to any suit for taxes.

VOTE FOR BEER AND PENSION REVENUE

VOTE FOR HER SUPPORT

Beer revenues from licenses and taxes will help to pay the Old Age Pensions without sales taxes on necessities or additional taxes on real estate. Without this support by the State, which has been voted by the people, but for which there are no funds available, many who deserve pensions must depend upon charity.

BY VOTING FOR BEER

You will also cast your vote for support of the aged. You will vote to have a controlled system of sales from which the State will derive revenues. You will vote against the illegal manufacture and sale of home-brew, which brings revenue ONLY TO THE BOOTLEGGER!

BY VOTING AGAINST BEER

You will also cast YOUR vote to deprive many old people of pensions from the State, for WITHOUT Beer revenues there WILL NOT BE ENOUGH MONEY TO PAY PENSIONS to all who are eligible for them UNLESS revenues are derived from a GENERAL SALES TAX or additional property taxes.

YOU WILL ALSO VOTE TO LET THE BOOTLEGGER CONTINUE TO DOMINATE THE BUSINESS WITH LIQUOR WITHOUT PAYING TAXES OR LICENSE FEES!

-- DRY COMMUNITIES WILL REMAIN DRY --

AND AT THE SAME TIME RECEIVE ALL THE BENEFITS THROUGH REVENUES DERIVED FROM THE WET COMMUNITIES. CISCO RANGER AND EASTLAND ARE THE ONLY TOWNS THAT WILL BE WET IF THE ELECTION CARRIES!

Vote Dry and You Vote Against the Support of Deserving People

Voting against Beer will throw several hundred people out of employment.

Voting to legalize Beer will in all probability enable some of the vacant buildings to be rented.

Since Beer is not sold in Eastland County legally traffic is being routed around through the north loop in wet territory and according to statements from hotel men, cafe proprietors and filling station operators, business has dropped off one-third.

Cemetery in Huge Oil Field Center of $85,000,000 Suit

Surrounded by a forest of gaunt oil derricks towering toward the sky, from which issues the roar of ceaseless activity, Sunnyside cemetery, shown in this airview, is the center of an $85,000,000 suit, one of the strangest in American legal annals. Descendants of the dead who rest there and owners of lots in the burial ground, in the great Signal Hill oil district at Long Beach, Cal., are suing oil corporations and the Long Beach Cemetery Association for the enormous sum.

They charge that the graves are being desecrated as oil is removed from beneath them by "whipstocking" drilling on an angle, and that cemetery lot owners are entitled to a share in the huge profits that the oil men have reaped.
