Lost His Balance

It is not wise to go into an unwholesome atmosphere except for the purpose of improving it. And even then one had better look out that the situation does not get the best of one instead of one's getting the best of the situation. A superintendent of an insane asylum resigned. "Constant association with crazy persons was making me crazy," he explained. A successful criminal lawyer suddenly refused further criminal cases. "Constant contact with crooks was making a crook of me," he declared.

An outstanding case of the bad effect of bad environment is that of a certain prominent sociologist who for many years has been dealing in a professional way with offenders against the laws and conventions pertaining to sex.

Starting in with a sincere desire and determination to help those who became involved in sex difficulties, this intelligent man has had his sense of values so disturbed by constant contact with persons with clouded and distorted moral outlook that his own perspective has become warped and twisted. Gradually his perceptions have been blunted, his discrimination dulled. Through listening day after day to tale after tale of sordid behavior, he has grown to believe that all the world has grown sordid.

So mesmerized has this gentleman become by the personalities of off-color characters that he has unconsciously come to justify their behavior, and to accept that sort of folks as being the rule rather than the exception. And he has now stepped forward with the sincere though astounding proposal that the ideas of society be amended and the laws revised to conform to the doings of the morally loose.

This man recites case after case of boys and girls and men and women of easy virtue whose acts and language show them to be as common as dog tracks. Yet he holds up such persons as living examples to prove that a complete and radical change has come over society.

No such change has taken place. The same things that this man is talking about have been going on ever since there were boys and girls and men and women, only in a greater degree in proportion to population than now.

The people, young and old, are more moral today than ever before. True, they know more, they are broader in their thinking; but they are cleaner, wholesomer, and kinder than in any other age. If folks in general were doing what this eminent sociologist claims they are doing, it would show in their faces; persons cannot habitually indulge in certain practices without that fact being written on their countenances.

But because this man is surrounded by a little world of social immorality, he thinks the entire world is socially immoral—only he has come to feel that immorality is not immoral. He speaks of the use of the lipstick and of incontinence in young girls in the same breath, as though the one were of no more consequence than the other.

Such a condition of mind is sad to see; and it is especially unfortunate in that this man has influence. There are many folks who need but slight encouragement to start them going the wrong way. And there are many folks who are confused and earnestly looking for light, and this man's doctrines will lead them into deeper darkness and into disaster.

Amazingly insidious are the ways of evil.

OUT OUR WAY

THE COME-DOWN

UNDER THE DOME AT AUSTIN

By GORDON K. SHEARER United Press Staff Correspondent AUSTIN, May 16.—(AP)—Sentiment in favor of a September special session of the state legislature seems to be gaining support in Austin.

SHEARER

A special session is called for September. There will be no doubt about the individuals entitled to participate. If a session should be delayed until after Nov. 3, it would have to be decided if the newly-elected Senators and Representatives or the old ones were legal members.

Passage of legislation for state participation in the employment insurance feature of the federal social security act probably will be one of the purposes of the special session. Until the state passes a participating act, Texas employees are not entitled to the benefits, although Texas concerns must pay the federal payroll tax. Governor James V. Allred used the word "submit" in telling the railroad brotherhoods that he would ask the legislature to pass such an act. The governor does not have to "submit" topics to a regular session.

Campaign promises made to the old people will contribute to forcing a special session. Texas likely will have more pension funds to distribute than any other state, but with candidates urging full pensions for all, the clamor is likely to become overwhelming.

People who would refuse indignantly to consider themselves possible poor-house occupants have no backwardness about claiming the right to old age assistance. Yet the old age pension movement in Texas was started by humanitarians to avoid placing old people in institutions. A reference to early arguments and literature on the topic reveals that they dealt primarily with the comparative expense of maintaining the aged in institutions and giving them enough aid to live at home.

The state campaign already has reached the epithet stage. Before it ends, it may have become so bitter that the result will be another defeat for the proposal to increase the pay of the governor, attorney general, treasurer, comptroller, land commissioner and secretary of state. Increases for all are punched together in one proposed constitutional amendment. The voter will not have the opportunity to vote for an increase for one and not for another. He must vote to raise all or none.

Candidates who receive a majority of votes will be elected. Therefore it would seem that a majority of the people would want to increase the pay of the winners. But the bunching together of all makes the mathematics of the thing much different.

Few voters will have voted for all of the winners. A voter may be so bitter against those he did not support that he will vote against any increase in pay rather than give it to candidates who won over his opposition.

Political feeling is held responsible for former defeats of proposed amendments for salary increases. The election on salaries will not be until Nov. 3. The state primary campaign with its rivalries will have ended Aug. 22. Perhaps some of the campaign heat may have been cooled off by November.

Another proposed constitutional amendment that seems likely to meet defeat is the plan to make a state liquor monopoly obligatory. Many prominent prohibitionists of the state say they see no advantage to be gained by such a step.

Former Governor Dan Moody, who still stands fast to his opposition to liquor in any form, said both the licensing system and state monopoly are bad. He did not see any point to choosing one "evil" to supplant another.

Some prohibitionists prefer the licensing system. To them it seems a less direct participation in the liquor traffic than to have the state selling directly. Economically, many persons believe the state is getting more revenue by license than it would reap from sales after maintaining a liquor department.

Senator-elect E. H. Beck, Texarkana, visited the state capitol this week but did not take the oath of office. His election caused the least change that is remembered in a state senatorship. It dropped only two letters. The former senator was J. W. E. H. Beck. The successor is E. H. Beck in the House of Representatives, where he has been an influential member. He has generally been addressed as "Harold."

Duckboards made ex-soldiers feel at home as they visited the office of the Adjutant General in the state capitol recently. The boards were laid to keep walkers out of the mud but cut of the dust and debris accumulated in removing the old tiling and concrete on capitol corridors as preparation for terrazzo paving.

Adjutant General Carl Nesbitt announced that his new assistant would continue to command the 2nd battalion, 144th infantry, at Dallas. Major Gaston S. Howard's new duties do not require him to relinquish his command. The former assistant, Col. Horace H. Carmichael, is working rapidly to get the Public Safety Department running smoothly. He wants to be free to go to West Point to see his son graduated in June.

CONSTABLE HELD UP—OUSTED VANCOUVER, B. C.—(AP)—Police Constable Beale has been dismissed from the city's police force for allowing himself to be held up. Beale said he was watching a suspicious character when the latter suddenly turned on him and relieved him of his gun and $20.

HOOVER'S BROTHER TO RETIRE STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Cal.—(AP)—Dr. Theodore Jesse Hoover, brother of Herbert Hoover, will retire from Stanford's School of Engineering in June. Seven other members of the faculty will assume the emeritus status at the same time.

FOLLY and FAREWELL

By Marie Blizard © 1936 NEA Service, Inc.

BEGIN HERE TODAY LINDA BOURNE, 26, pretty, is left almost penniless by the sudden death of her father. PETER GARDNER, newspaper reporter, helps her get a job writing society news. Linda is in love with HENRY HONEY, but he goes abroad to study dancing. When Peter asks Linda to marry him she agrees, but postpones the wedding.

HONEY HARMON, also star, comes to Newtown, making a "personal appearance" tour, and buys a scenario written by Linda. Later, Linda goes to Hollywood and, by expressing ideas that are really Peter's, acquires a reputation for being able to discover new stars. Soon she is a celebrity.

Dix Carter comes to Hollywood to get into show as an actor. Linda tries to help him. To please Dix, she invites BASIL THORNE, director, to her home though she dislikes and distrusts Thorne. Peter Gardner writes a successful play and comes to Hollywood.

Dix drives Linda to a mountain resort where the company is to begin work next day. The others fail to arrive. Thorne and Thorne are obliged to stay through the night. Linda to marry him. She refuses. NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XXII

THE next time Linda travelled the road to San Jacinto it was daylight and she was with the players in her company. She would not have recognized the deserted spot where she had been forced to spend the night with Thorne. Sets had been built, cabins made habitable, and now there was action. And she was much too busy to think again of that night.

They remained for nearly a fortnight. Linda heard nothing from Thorne, but the day she returned home he turned up unexpectedly at her apartment.

"I've missed you," he said. He said other things and when he had left Linda had the feeling that he had been trying to force her to say something—what she did not know, but her earlier feeling of disgust awoke again.

However, she had other things to think about. Careers wax and wane with surprising swiftness in the moving picture business. Linda knew that she had reached the top, but could she stay there? Her contract would be up in two months and her company had no option. The Paul Leonhardt had come out from the New York office to head Commonwealth, and changes were in the air. Linda had no reason to think her contract would not be renewed. On the other hand, she knew Leonhardt was bringing out new writers. It was difficult not to worry.

Linda had some completely splendid things she thought unappreciated, thrusting the mounting pile of bills back into her desk. She had bought clothes recklessly, had her apartment redecorated, entertained expensively. She was suddenly appalled to realize that she spent more in a week than she had in months when she lived in Newtown. Yes, it was necessary to have her contract renewed.

It was not a comfortable time for her. The only reassuring thing was Dix's happiness. He was working in Thorne's picture, and the director liked his work, he had said. She found escape from her own worries, thinking of this and the bright future when Dix would be established and she would be his wife.

She ceased worrying about Thorne in her anxiety over her contract and would have forgotten the incident entirely had she not found herself at Andre Allen's party, discussing the mountain sequence of the picture they had finished making that day.

"I left the day before the last scenes were shot," Linda said in answer to some question.

Honey Harmon was in that little group. She raised an eye in her glass and raised wide eyes to Linda's face.

"You mean the week before, don't you?" she asked sweetly. Linda couldn't quite adjust herself. Had that been a slip on Honey's part? It was a week before that she and Thorne . . . All manner of things jumbled in Linda's mind. Honey? Thorne? Gossip? Thorne's promise or had it been a promise? But Honey and Thorne had not seen each other. Honey and Pete Gardner. . . Linda gave up.

"Don't you think it's wonderfully interesting out there?" Honey asked.

"It was interesting making the picture. I don't know anything much about the country around there and had little chance to see it. We worked from six in the morning until midnight."

"It's interesting at night," Honey looked boldly and meaningfully at Linda's face and spread her words slowly. "I understand it's thrilling when you're . . . alone."

THERE was no mistaking her now. Somehow, this girl who hated Linda because Linda had kept Pete Gardner from her long ago, then taken Thorne from her, knew that she and Thorne had spent the night there.

Linda had to know how. She had to find Thorne. She telephoned his home, the studio, his club. At last she learned he was at Santa Monica, and could not be reached. Linda knew that she must discover if he were responsible. Thorne had not seen the rumors. Perhaps Honey was the only one who knew, and if Honey did talk what weight would her stories carry? Her listeners would be wise enough to know that the gossip was malicious and remember that Linda had been a rival of the beloved star on more than one occasion. But if she thought Honey was the only one to talk about her, Linda was mistaken. The girls in Hollywood were no different from the girls in Newtown. Keechuk, Ina, Moines or any other place where one popular girl, lacking a free and easy manner, is often mistaken for a snob. Since Linda gave little thought to people who did not interest her, it had not occurred to her that they might have been thinking of her. Or that they would be only too glad to pounce on a fallen angel.

ESTHER ROWELL, the famous old character actress, was one of Linda's best friends, and it was from her that Linda again heard about the night she wanted never to remember again.

"I don't believe a word of it," Mrs. Rowell told her. "Or if it is true that you spent the night with Thorne, I am sure the circumstances were accidental and entirely innocent. I don't think you are a fool in any way. And I don't think you have had taste. Don't make any explanation to me if you don't wish to, but if it isn't true, you must stop it. I've been hearing it about, and it is my impression that Thorne started it himself."

"It isn't true," Linda said through set lips. "And I'm sure I must have come from some other source. I can't imagine Mr. Thorne giving any such information. Why, he has asked me to marry him!"

"Men without principle have been known to do strange things to force ladies to arrive at proper conclusions."

Linda couldn't believe that of Thorne. In her code when a man thought enough of a woman to ask her to marry him, he did not jeopardize her reputation.

She got in her roadster and drove to Santa Monica. She found Basil Thorne lurching on the set, and asked him to join her in her car. They drove to a deserted spot and Linda brought the car to a stop with shrieking brakes. She didn't waste any words.

"Basil, someone knows and has told that you and I spent that night in the mountains. I want you to find out who it is and stop him by denying the rumor."

"So you've decided to marry me?" he asked softly.

Surprised, she turned to look at him quickly. He was smiling.

"Of course not. That has nothing to do with this situation." "But it has," he said patiently. "Surely you must see it that way." This was new and shocking. A man willing to blacken a woman's reputation to force her into marrying him!

13 Eastland Girls In Follies Contest

EASTLAND, May 16—John A. Burke, designated by the Chamber of Commerce to direct an Eastland contest to select a representative to compete in trials for Billy Rose's Frontier Centennial Follies at Fort Worth, Thursday announced 13 applications had been received.

A beauty pageant for the selection of the representative will be held at the Connelley theater Saturday night, May 23. The selection of the judges will try out in Fort Worth, May 30.

Eastland is one of 50 West Texas towns which are sending representatives to Fort Worth. Thirty six of the representatives have been assured places in the musical extravaganza to be produced by Rose under the direction of John Murray Anderson, famed international producer.

One of the 36 selections will be designated as Texas Sweetheart No. 1 and will receive a six-month contract with Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studios in Hollywood. Clark Gable, cinema star, will head the judges who will select the 36 women.

Burke stated Thursday he is endeavoring to obtain two out-of-town judges, in addition to three from Eastland.

The contest is open to any young lady in Eastland.

Contestants to date are Misses Edith Rosenquest, Margaret Fry, Beth Clifton, Evelyn Colium, Madge Hearn, Clara June Kimble, Edith Meek, Norma Vickers, Eleanor Harper, Carolyn Doss, Ina Ruth Hale, Betty Perkins, and Doris Lawrence.

ENDS TOWN NAME FEUD
EUGENE, Ore. — (UP)—The state highway department settled a feud of several years standing as to whether the town of Franklin was really Franklin or Smithfield, by removing all the Franklin traffic signs. The Frankliners, however, still insist only four residents of the town desired to be Smithfielders.

DATES TO 1847
NEW YORK — (UP)—The first Cumander ever to arrive in New York was ardently welcomed and lauded by Manhattan's merchants on Dec. 28, 1847. The Hibernia's arrival signified a milestone in the history of transatlantic travel.

DOUBTS ATOMIC POWER
PASADENA, Cal. — (UP)—Industry is making a mistake in counting upon the breaking up of the atom for energy, according to Dr. Robert A. Millikan, scientist. With the exhaustion of petroleum resources, he says man will have to depend more on coal, organic products of the oil and water power.

CAMPUS TO BE NOISELESS
BOWLING GREEN, O. — (UP)—Trucks, horses, roller skates, and all such noise-making vehicles which disturb study, are to be banned from the campus of Bowling Green State University under traffic regulations which Dr. H. B. Williams, president announced, would be enforced.

TAUGHT BY ELECTRICITY
LEADEN — (UP)—A series of electrical maps are being used to teach geography to school children of Dewsbury. A touch of a button, deserts, lakes, and coalfields, all the pageant of geography spring into bright relief.

OREGON TO VOTE ON R. O. T. C.
SALEM, Ore. — (UP)—Initiative petitions to refer to the people the question of optional military training in the state's institutions of higher education have been filed here. The military question is the second educational issue to be appealed to the electorate.

Super Model

A MODEL FOR EVERY SIZE HOME

Frigidaire is a most complete line of modern electric refrigerators. There is a model and size to suit the needs of every home from the smallest to the largest. Every one of the beautiful new Frigidaires meets the Five Standards that you will want in your refrigerator. Come in and see the proof demonstrations and let it reveal to you Frigidaire's usability. It has much more shelf space in front, Full Width Sliding Shelves, Portable Utility Shelf, Double Range Cold Control and scores of work-saving advantages. Come in and see how much you will get for your money and how easy it is to own a genuine Frigidaire.

ASSURANCE OF SAFE FOOD PRESERVATION

Government Bulletins and health authorities agree that perishable foods must be kept below 50 degrees and above 32 degrees. Meats, milk and other costly foods keep only a short time unless chilled below 50 degrees. Frigidaire is equipped with a remarkable cold making mechanism—the Meter-Miser. Safety Zone temperatures are automatically maintained, even in hot Spring and Summer weather of 110 degrees and over. This is your assurance that Frigidaire will safely protect your food—and the health of your family.

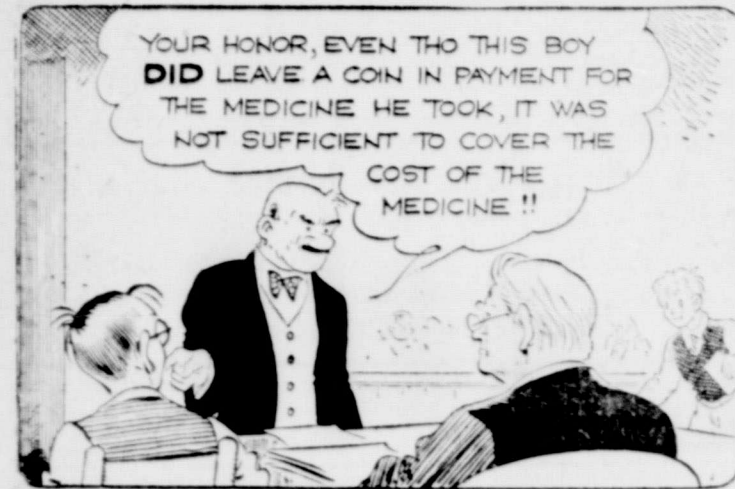

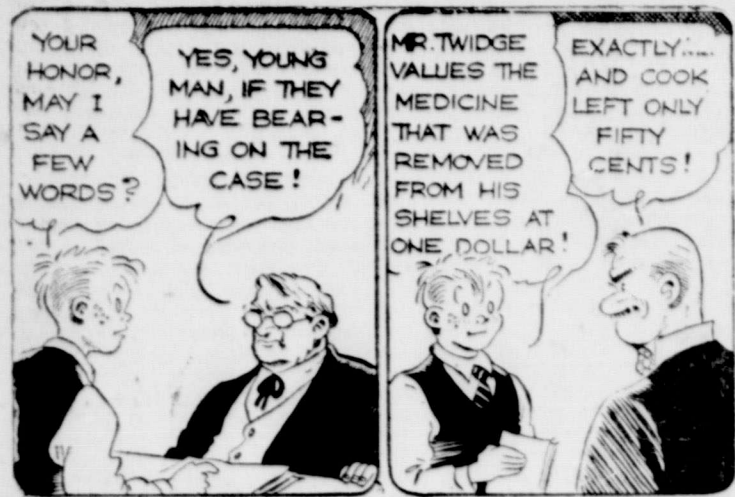

On Guard!

Frigidaire builds this Food-Safety Indicator right into the cabinet—visible proof that foods are kept at Safety-Zone Temperature, below 50 degrees and above 32 degrees.

Daniels, orange; Mrs. E. G. Bardwell, red.

A special offering will be taken, of which one-third of the proceeds will go to the church home in Mon. treat, and two-thirds will be equally divided between the Kerrville and Cisco Young People's Encampments. Other committees have been appointed in preparing the program.

A June Bride—in Coiffure Only

This would be a portrait of a lovely June bride, her coiffure bedecked with orange blossoms, except that it isn't the marry month, Eleanor Whitney isn't a bride, and those flowers are mock orange blossoms. Nevertheless, the novel arrangement that sets off the brown ringlets of Hollywood's petite dancing star should supply altar-bound girls with a suggestion or two. Certainly it will give young men romantic ideas.

Nice Home Is Found For Unwanted Baby

EL PASO, May 16 —(U.P.)—Chubby little Lean Mae Guy, 5 months old "unwanted baby" found surcease in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Grimes.

A woman city detective found a home for the youngster shortly after the child's 17-year-old mother, Mrs. Lillian Guy, hitchhiking from Cisco Oklahoma, renounced the claim to the baby. Twenty-three couples asked to adopt the baby.

Enjoy better cooking results and greater fuel economy with a modern MAGIC CHEF GAS RANGE

ONLY on a Magic Chef gas range can you get the wonderful Lorain Red Wheel oven regulator and the patented non-clog, three-in-one burners—features which make it possible for you to secure exactly the right temperatures for every cooking operation. They are features which mean more perfect cooking results because temperatures that are too hot, or not hot enough, result in tasteless, poorly cooked foods. Only with gas can you secure this perfect control over cooking temperatures—yet it is the cheapest, controllable cooking fuel there is. Be sure to see the modern Magic Chef gas ranges on display in our store, and let us show you the many advanced features which have made Magic Chef the most famous and largest selling gas range in America.

sists of "hidden taxes" which the average consumer knows nothing about or never takes into consideration, because they are not paid directly to some governmental agency.

The California organization has launched a statewide campaign to inform the public regarding "hidden taxation." It hopes eventually to place the campaign on a nationwide basis.

Defines "Hidden Taxes"
"Hidden taxes," Frazier explains, "are taxes which are passed on to the consumer in the price he pays for all commodities and services. It is one of the oldest tricks of legislative juggling to deceive the common man, or person of low income who comprise 75 per cent of our population."

Frazier explains that every business must pass on the cost of doing business to the consumer, including the taxes. Low these "hidden taxes" work out for every individual is shown in a table of the retail cost of several staple articles necessary to every family. Some of his compilations are as follows: "A baker wraps up 53 taxes with every loaf of bread he sells, or three cents on a nine-cent loaf."

Taxes on Bacon and Eggs

"Three-fourths of the price you pay for the breakfast bacon, or 36 cents out of 48 cents per pound, represents hidden taxes."

"Taxes on eggs represent 61 per cent of the cost."

"There are approximately 205 accumulated taxes in the price of gasoline, or 49 per cent of the cost."

"Fifteen cents out of the 25 cents paid for two packages of cigarettes represents taxation."

Indian Service Vet Drives Veteran Car

Wallace Stark, age 76, who reached the age limit and was retired in 1924 after many years in the United States Indian Service, is still driving his first car, a 1926 Chevrolet. It hasn't reached the retirement age, he says. Stark, on a recent visit at Detroit, told Chevrolet executives of the record of his car, which has been almost everywhere in the United States.

Stark's four-cylinder coupe has been licensed every year since he bought it, but never twice in the same state. This year it has a Florida tag.

"Dealers often ask me to trade it in on a new model," he said, "but I always tell them they're better off having this old timer of the streets, running fine, and looking good, as an advertisement of Chevrolet durability."

No matter where he goes, Stark carries certain items of special equipment not to be found on many cars. Strapped to the back bumper is a long handled shovel; on the running board are two galvanized iron cans for drinking water. They are for emergency use only, in the desert. If he should be stalled, far from a travelled route, he explains, he would set out on foot, carrying his drinking water with him. He has never had to use his emergency water supply, but the shovel has been a life saver. He has been mired, or snowbound, many times and had to dig himself out.

Ten years driving without an accident is Stark's record. He has gone off the road, and down into gullies, in traversing roads not designed for motor cars, but he has avoided crashes and collisions by careful driving and by watching out for "the other fellow."

Out west, he once read a road sign saying "Drive carefully—you might meet a fool." He has always followed that advice, and says he has met many fools but avoided trouble because he was expecting them.

Stark was born in Iowa 76 years ago. In 1892, he went into what is now Utah to work as a carpenter on the erection of an Indian school. He was 125 miles from the nearest railroad, which he saw only once in his first nine years there. In 1905, he entered the United States Indian service at a reservation near the Colorado-Utah boundary. The Indians were Utes. Stark liked Indians, and they liked him because he understood them. They gave him a name, Pahatim, meaning "high-up"—a title of respect and an indication of his appearance, because Stark was 6 feet 2 1/2 inches tall. Americans misunderstood the word Pahatim and made it into Patsy Jim. Then Indians, hearing the white men say Patsy Jim, thought it must be his real name, so they called him Patsy Jim too.

Stark is retired from active service, but he's as active as many a youngster. He travels around all over, while a niece in Drakesville, Iowa, receives and forwards his mail to him. He spent the winter in Florida, and enroute north stopped off in Washington and had a reunion with army officers, now stationed there in high ranking positions, who were lieutenants and captains when Stark knew them out west.

NET TIGHTENS ON GOTHAM'S VICE RACKET

NEW YORK, May 16—(AP)—The "truant officers" of Charles (Lucky) Luciano testified today they kept a check on girls who failed to report in disorderly houses to which they had been assigned.

One witness, Sam Rouween, who graduated from a rugged existence on the water front, into the easy life of a swanky life, said he did his work as "truant officer" so well that eventually he was promoted to collector of so called bond faces.

With the trial of Luciano and nine henchmen special prosecutor Dewey was leading up to the testimony he hoped would clinch Luciano's direct connection with the crime.

LEADS DISTRICT IN MEMBERSHIP 4-H BOY CLUBS

EASTLAND, May 16—(AP)—Eastland county leads in membership of 4-H club boys in the 19 counties of District 7, a report from C. E. Bowles, district 7 agent, to Hugh H. Barnhart revealed Saturday.

Eastland county has 11 boys clubs with 248. Second in membership was Brown county with 159 members.

The least number of members in this district was Shackelford county with 20 members of two clubs.

The report listed 1,605 4-H boy club members in this district.

Will Endure In Federal Mural

DUBUQUE, Ia., May 16—(AP)—Historic landmarks of Dubuque's old river front and a packet steamboat traveling up the Mississippi River will take form this summer in a mural to ornament the walls of Dubuque's new postoffice.

The murals will be painted by Aert Adams and William Bunn, University of Iowa graduate students.

The muralists now are studying at the University of Iowa under the famed Midwestern artist, Grant Wood. They received the federal commission for the murals on basis of sketches submitted in Washington.

It is expected that the work will be completed within a year.

Reputation and Character
Firms, as well as individuals have reputation and character. Reputation is based on the general estimate of one's worthiness; character is worthiness itself. The First National Bank admits an honest pride in its reputation, which it guards carefully; but it cherishes more the character from which this reputation has sprung.
