Nine Members of Two Families Are Killed

TRAIN HITS AUTO, HURLS 8 INTO RIVER

DUNDEE, Mich., July 18. (U.P.) — Nine members of two Farrell Pennsylvania families were killed when a westbound passenger train crashed into their sedan at a grade crossing near here. The dead were identified as Harry Schuster, 45, his wife and three daughters, Sam Pisana, 40, his wife and two daughters. Although warnings flashes were said to have been working at the grade crossing, Schuster drove onto the right of way. The train demolished the automobile and threw eight of its occupants into a nearby river, which is only about one foot deep at that point.

SOCIALIST CANDIDATE IS CHEERED

CLEVELAND, O., July 18. (U.P.) — Socialist Presidential candidate Norman Thomas today repeated choruses of "boos" from delegates to the Townsend club's second annual convention, when he appeared on their platform and bluntly told them their $200 a month pension plan would not work. He was given an ovation when he finished. Thomas raised the question of American intervention in Mexico in defense of religious freedom, and inferred that Father Coughlin favored such an action for protection of Catholics there. "I don't believe in intervention in Mexico, and I wish you would ask Mr. Lemke that when he comes here tomorrow to address you," Thomas said. Request for funds at the convention Saturday had enthusiastic response. The money rolled in so fast that national officers announced immediate start of a nationwide drive to raise a defense fund of $1,000,000 for the Townsend plan, which provides a $200 a month pension for all persons over 60 years of age from proceeds of a 2 per cent tax on sales transactions.

C. A. SHOCKEY GETS 8-POUND BASS AT LAKE

A large bass, 26 inches long, weighing eight pounds was "captured" at Lake Cisco, near Slaffers' Draw, at 9:45 a. m. Friday Mr. C. A. Shockey was the captor. Friday Mr. Shockey went fishing out at Lake Cisco in his motor boat. Something jerked on his line, and in trying to pull it in to see just what sort of a fish it was, the fish swam under the boat, getting the line tangled up with the propeller of the motor. Mr. Shockey hung on to the boat by one hand, and with great difficulty, braving the danger of a "spill" into the waters of the Lake by overbalancing his boat, he finally untangled the line, and pulled the fish up in the boat. Just as he landed him, the fish jerked loose from the hook, and then, according to Mr. Shockey, the tussle really began. It was "nippy-tuck" between Shockey and the fish, but finally Shockey won by using what fighters and wrestlers term as "dirty tactics." He knocked the fish in the head, thereby winning in the second round. This is the largest bass that was ever caught in the Lake, according to reports from an authoritative source. It took Mr. Shockey more than thirty minutes to land him, and as all good fishermen know a bass of this size is quite difficult to handle. On May 1st four men from Breckenridge won a prize for catching the largest bass up to that time, it weighing 6 pounds. The honor goes to a Cisco man, this time, however, and he brought the large head, with mouth wide open and staring eyes into the Daily News office this morning as evidence of his catch. Mr. Shockey will have the head mounted as a constant reminder of his efforts.

COOLING RAIN BREAKS HEAT IN SOUTHWEST

CHICAGO, Ill., July 18. (U.P.) — Cooling rain and breezes from northwestern Canada broke the heat wave today in Wisconsin, southwestern Minnesota, northeastern Iowa and Illinois. Only the plains states of Kansas, Nebraska and Missouri will miss relief over the weekend, forecaster J. R. Lloyd of the Chicago weather bureau reported. "It will be awfully hot again in the plains states," Lloyd said, "but most of the drought belt will have at least temporary relief." Lloyd forecast local thunder storms Saturday night or Sunday in Illinois, Indiana, northeastern Missouri and southeastern Iowa. The heat wave break came as the United Press counted more than 4,312 dead, and at least $600,000,000 damage to crops, as a result of the prolonged drought.

BLANTON WILL SPEAK AT CITY HALL MONDAY

Congressman Thomas L. Blanton will speak in Cisco 8:30 Monday evening at the city hall. It has been announced and Blanton friends are busy with getting those who might oppose him to hear Mr. Blanton when he speaks here, so that he may have opportunity to convince them he should be re-elected. Cecil Lotief spoke to a large crowd Saturday afternoon. Next Wednesday evening July 22, all the county candidates will speak on the east side of the city hall where seats have been arranged for. Candidates will have a schedule for time division, and all will be given opportunity to present their candidacy to the voters of Cisco at that time.

PRESIDENT OPENS FRONTIER SHOW ALLRED AND CONNALLY DEDICATE

By RICHARD M. MOREHEAD United Press Staff Correspondent
FORT WORTH, July 18. (U.P.) — President Franklin D. Roosevelt yesterday opened by radio the $5,000,000 Frontier Centennial, starting the impulse which tripped a huge knife severing a cowboy lariat spanning the gates. As the lariat, emblem of the cattle industry on which Fort Worth and West Texas was founded, fell to earth, thousands of eager visitors surged through the gates. Officials believed 50,000 persons would visit the show before the grounds were emptied of their "first night" crowd sometime Sunday morning. Aboard a U. S. navy cruiser off the coast of Maine, where he is vacationing, the President touched a telegraph key to open the celebration. Other high government officials attended the opening in person. Governor James V. Allred, U. S. Senator Tom Connally and Mayor George Senechal of Dallas participated in the dedication ceremony in "The Last Frontier Arena," where tonight gay crowds witnessed the most unique rodeo in history. All predicted success for The Frontier Centennial an exposition designed to show the development of the old West. From the "Avenue of Pinwheels" approach to the stately colonnades of Casa Manana, huge outdoor cafe-theater, the show was a splash of red, white and blue — an artistic combination of Texas five decades ago and the latest Broadway shows. "The Last Frontier," a rodeo pageant, was a chief attraction for

LAST FRONTIER PREVIEWED BY VAST AUDIENCE

FORT WORTH, July 18. (U.P.) — Critics predicted success for at least two of producer Billy Rose's four Frontier Centennial shows. Preview performances for the Casa Manana musical review and the Last Frontier musical rodeo pageant impressed an invited audience of 1,500 persons including 1,000 newspapermen and their wives. "Nothing in the world can hold a candle to what Texans have built," Rose told the audience. "I feel in my heart that this really is awfully good." The two shows which followed confirmed to Texans at least the truth of the showman's statement. The Casa Manana review set a new record for lavish costuming, speedy presentation on its huge revolving stage and in the number employed in the choruses. The review is largely a "girl show" featuring Fay Cotton of Borger, Texas Centennial Sweetheart. The show has four sequences based on the St. Louis world fair of 1904; the Paris Exposition, Chicago's Century of Progress and the Texas Frontier Centennial.

Oil Reports of May Exceed all Records

AUSTIN, July 18. (U.P.) — Taxes paid for May production of crude oil exceeded all previous monthly records, state Comptroller George Shepard announced today. The total was $774,487, exceeding the April receipts by $18,537. Tax was paid on 35,961,823 barrels produced in May and on 28,279 barrels of previous production.

MEMPHIS, Tenn. — (U.P.) — Hospital attendants here are uncertain why, but only one hospital has a room number ending in 13. Methodist hospital has room 413 for patients who believe 13 is lucky.

HIGH OFFICERS ARE ARRESTED BY GOVERNMENT

MADRID, Spain, July 18. (U.P.) — Government air planes roared over Spanish Morocco tonight bombarding rebellious troops including the famous Spanish Foreign Legion which continued to resist loyal forces and held doggedly to several strategic points. In Spain itself between forty and fifty syndicalists bombarded several vessels in Barcelona harbor and seized 99 rifles. Storm guards quickly recovered the guns. Minister of Interior Juan Moles in a nationwide broadcast said rebels seized the Cuzco radio station and broadcast false news. He advised the nation not to become alarmed at any report heard from that station. "The government has had to take radical internal measures, culminating in the arrest of several generals as well as chief officers implicated in the movement," Moles said. It was reported unofficially that several naval officers were removed from their commands for failing to obey orders when the fleet was distributed among various ports. The revolution broke out late Friday night. The main center of trouble appeared to be Milla and Ecueta. It was believed the movement was premature and that it had been planned to revolt in Spain proper at the same time. The government, however, claimed to be in complete control in Spain and said all forces in this country have remained loyal. Military units in Seville rebelled but were suppressed by loyal forces. The government announced tonight in the first official disclosure that the Moroccan revolt had involved forces in Spain itself.

SOIL SERVICE BUYS ACREAGE TO EXPERIMENT

FORT WORTH, July 18. (U.P.) — The federal soil conservation service announced through its regional office today the purchase of 1,627 acres of land west of Amarillo for use as an experiment station. H. H. Bennett, chief of the service in this region, said the land presented problems. It was obtained for $3,202. Part of the tract is in Potter county and the remainder in Randall county.

Throat Cut, Buttons Sewn Around Neck

LOUISVILLE, Ky., July 18. (U.P.) — A woman who told police she was Edna Morris, 33, of Cincinnati, was found fazed in a churchyard here today her throat cut from ear to ear, and the wound sewed with common black thread. White shirt buttons were sewed to the flesh along the wounds.

BOATS SAFE ON SALT LAKE

SALT LAKE CITY — (U.P.) — Great Salt Lake is considered the safest body of water in America for boating. In 80 years of navigation, no one has ever been drowned from a boat in it. It is easy to float on the brine-heavy water.

It Was Tragic, Indeed!

Has this tragedy happened to you? Probably it has happened to others and may happen to you so you had better read this item right through to the end.

A lady drove to a part of the city where she thought she ought to lock her car while she did some shopping. When she returned the key refused to turn on the lock. Passersby tried to help her, but succeeded only in breaking the key off in the lock.

She telephoned to a repair man for assistance and when it came the man said he would have to take out the lock. This was a different job; in fact, after an hour's work he telephoned the shop to send a towing car. While the cars were being hooked together someone idly tried the handle of the door near the driver's wheel. It was unlocked.

The Woman Habit!

A strange thing about a lovely woman; one of her makes a man of a fellow; two of her makes a monkey of him.

The world is speckled with men of whom a plurality of women have made monkeys. History freckled freely with them.

The wisest, healthiest, and most powerful of monarchs was made a monkey of by women. Every time we think of the damage the woman habit can do a man, we think of King Solomon, for he is the horrible example.

The woman habit is like the whiskey habit or the dope habit. Once a man allows it to fasten itself on him he is out of luck. It grows more and more tyrannical, makes more and more demands on him, becomes harder and harder to break.

King Solomon certainly had the woman habit and he had it bad. He is credited—or rather discredited—with having had three hundred wives and seven hundred mistresses. And perhaps the Queen of Sheba said a mouthful when she observed that the half about Solomon was not told.

Undoubtedly Solomon was keenly aware that his devious paths, for he wrote many pointed paragraphs of warning against the strange woman. It is not at all unlikely that in his bitter exhortations of the fool he had himself in mind as well as others, for Solomon had sense enough to realize that wise as he was he was a fool about women. Strong as he was, smart as he was, Solomon was helpless when it came to women. Undoubtedly he made his resolutions and broke them. Undoubtedly he saw his blunders, but couldn't resist repeating them. And there is no reason to believe that he was not commenting on his own reactions when he so pithily observed "As a dog returneth to his vomit so a fool to his folly."

And what did all those intimate female associates do for great King Solomon? They did plenty. They ruined him; they tore him down from his pinnacle of glittering glory; they wrecked his kingdom. He got his people into a ferment of discontent; he weighed them down with colossal debt; he burdened them with intolerable taxation. And when he died he bequeathed his throne to the son of a heathen woman who worshipped idols. What a sorry end was Solomon's. And all on account of women.

Behind the Scenes in Washington

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON — The drought's potentialities as a major disaster in a campaign year naturally enough have aroused speculation here as to the possible political effect. Hardly anyone, however, seems to have any clear idea as to what that effect might be or even to be sure that there will be any.

It may be worth remembering that the great drought in the summer and fall of 1934 was followed by a Democratic landslide in the November congressional elections. Yet it would be hard to demonstrate that the fact means anything in 1936—or that the big drought relief effort of the administration two years ago had anything to do with the results at the polls.

DROUGHT causes livestock raisers to ship cattle, hogs, and sheep to market as fast as they can get them there. As supplies pile up at the packing centers, meat prices tend to go down in proportion to the size of the glut.

Thus, steaks and pork chops are likely to be cheaper between now and election if the drought intensifies.

Flour and bread prices, on the other hand, may go up very soon unless the drought is broken. The spring wheat crop has been hit, and spring wheat is what goes into bread.

If you want to do some tricks with figures, just take Secretary Morgenthau's radio announcement that the national debt has reached $33,750,000,000. The increase since Roosevelt took office has been just about $13,600,000,000, according to the balance sheets.

But if you are a Republican, you must tell your neighbor that the real cost of the New Deal to date has been about $17,700,000,000. You get that by adding the bonds guaranteed by the Home Owners' Loan Corporation, the Farm Credit Administration, and other agencies, which didn't appear in Morgenthau's statement.

Other items sometimes also are added, but that ought to hold almost anyone for a while.

On the other hand, if you're a Democrat, it's the simplest thing in the world to whittle down the cost of the New Deal to less than $7,000,000,000.

You begin by asserting that the guaranteed bonds are adequately covered by security and hence are no liability. You then point out that the treasury's cash balance is $2,200,000,000 larger than when Mr. Hoover and Mr. Mills checked out of Washington, and subtract from $13,600,000,000, which leaves $11,400,000,000.

Then deduct that $2,000,000,000 "profit" from gold devaluation which is now in the currency stabilization fund, leaving $9,400,000,000.

Then a couple of billions more in loans by RFC, PWA, and other federal agencies which are supposed to be recoverable. By this time you're down to $6,800,000,000 and there are plenty of officials here who can think of more deductions if you want them.

But the difference between $17,700,000,000 and $6,800,000,000 would seem to be enough difference to accommodate plenty of campaign charges and alibis.

So Much for Love

BEGIN HERE TODAY
HELENA, a girlish, youthful head of the women's sports department at Helvia's store, accepts an invitation from one of her customers, SANDA LEIGH, to join a week-end party at Crest Mountain Lodge.

Almost before they realized that Peter had climbed the tree, he dived from its topmost branch.

evening train, if you don't mind. I know you won't expect us to stay over Sunday. I mean... He stopped, as embarrassed as a boy. "Well, after all, there's been a marriage, Sandy." "Of course there has," the Leigh girl laughed. "We all expected you'd leave on the night train. Good heavens, Peter, you didn't think we all expected to stay with you the remainder of your married life, did you?" Helena had a sudden, frightening thought. "I'd forgotten to telephone Miss Landes at Helvia's that I won't be at work Monday." "Skip it," Sandra told her. "I've wired her, and she'll get it Monday morning!" She turned toward the group around the table where the cocktails had been set out. "A toast to the bride! And then, everybody into their swim suits."

IT was over an hour before they really got into their swimming togs and waders headed toward the shore of the lake. And meanwhile there had been more than a toast to the bride. A toast to the bride had called for a toast to the bridegroom—and this had been followed by a toast to Helena for her bravery. After that, there were cocktails consumed without any particular reason; and Helena nervously saw that Peter took even more than the rest. Despite his drinking he remained sensible and courteous, and she thought in sudden panic: He's used to drinking a lot. The last cocktail finished, Sandra gave them all 10 minutes in which to get into their suits. Nervous and trembling, Helena took longer—and when she appeared on the lodge veranda she discovered that the rest were already down on the shore.

"Hurry," Sandra called to her. "We've begun a diving contest. I'm putting up a secret prize." Peter's blond head poked up from the lake. "Hello, Mrs. Henderson!" he called. With a few swift strokes he was ashore. "I'm cutting this contest short right now," he announced. "I'll dive from that tree—it's higher than the top rung of the diving platform." "Don't be a fool," Jack Gose told him seriously. "It's at least 10 feet higher." Peter answered him with a glance slightly alcoholic in its bravery. "After all," he said, "it's my wedding day—and if I feel like diving from a tree top I'm going to do it!" No one considered, then, just what was happening—not even Helena. More with pride than with fear, she watched Peter climb recklessly, swiftly, to the topmost branch of the tall fir which stood by the shore of the lake. Almost before she had realized it, he had dived. She saw his body hurtling, saw it strike the water and disappear beneath the surface.

There was cheering laughter from the crowd. Then silence. Silence during which the surface of the lake smoothed itself. Suddenly Helena knew that something had happened to Peter. She knew it even before Fain Sutter said in a queer voice, "There might be submerged stumps at the bottom..." (To Be Continued)

IT was Sandra Leigh herself who went for the minister, using the broken down roustabout car owned by the caretaker of the lodge. She was to return with him well before noon, and in the meantime Crest Mountain Lodge was a beehive of activity. Sandra's friends delightedly decorated the big main room of the lodge with fir boughs, and strips of colored paper which the lodgekeeper's wife resupplied. More excited than any were Peter Henderson and Helena. For the most part they kept close to their respective rooms, trembling against the time when Sandra would return with the minister. Several times Helena, stricken by sudden panic, debated whether to escape to the station. Suppose it was all a horrible mistake? There were a hundred things that could happen. She might discover that Peter was improvident and given to drink; for Helena had heard that the evil often went with charm. And she might learn—too late—that Peter was one of those men who found all women attractive, and was in turn admired by them. There came back to Helena a casual remark of Sandra Leigh's: "No woman can resist that charm of his..." What had she meant by that? Perhaps it was a calculated statement, a remark designed to warn a friend, to make her think. As the morning wore on, she began to dress herself for the wedding. Sandra had told her that she might wear simple sport clothes for the ceremony, and Helena had been mildly amused by the suggestion. In her week-end bag she had packed only three outfits: one for swimming, one for hiking through the woods, and a sports outfit adaptable to whatever informal affair might take place. But she had never dreamed that any "informal affair" might turn out to be her own wedding! Just as she completed dressing she heard Sandra's familiar voice on the veranda. "I couldn't find a minister—but I found a justice of the peace, and he insists he can marry people legally!"

A MOMENT later came Sandra's excited rap on Helena's door. At the latter's invitation she burst inside the room. "You've no idea what a perfectly ghastly time I had finding someone who could really marry you and Peter!" Helena laughed shakily. "Maybe that's a bad omen." "Nonsense! I didn't mean that you goose. But this is a wild country up here. They don't expect marriages, you know. Though I did find a justice of the peace. He can't see very well, and he has whiskers, but I'm sure you'll adore him. He was a little suspicious at first. Said he wouldn't have anything to do with what he called a "gin wedding." But finally I managed to assure him that nobody had taken a drink at Crest Mountain Lodge for at least 10 hours." "Maybe you shouldn't have done that," Helena faltered. "He feels as if I might do well with a cocktail." Sandra put her arm about Helena's shoulder. "Buck up, baby. Girls get married every minute—and live. It's the bridegroom who really needs a drink. He takes all the responsibility." Sandra grinned mischievously. "And I'd be willing to bet that Peter has had one or two." When Helena accompanied Sandra out into the giant living room with its roaring fire she discovered that the Leigh girl was right. Peter had taken a drink or two, although he did not show it. Helena would never have realized it had she not detected the sweetish odor of liquor. She didn't blame him. The fact was that she rather envied the false assurance the alcohol had given Peter. How did a man feel when he was about to agree, before God and the world, to take unto himself a woman and support her for the rest of their natural lives? She would never, as long as she lived, forget the next few moments in that tall-ceilinged room with its hewn fir beams. Always she would remember the smiling faces of Sandra's friends—Ruth Sutter and her husband, Fain Sutter—and her husband, Fain Sutter, and her husband, Fain Sutter... Jack Gose and Violet Nevitt

MEXICAN ROAD FOUND LACKING TOUR COMFORT

By WILLIAM H. LANDER
United Press Staff Correspondent
MEXICO CITY, July 18. (U.P.)—Motorists in the United States or Canada today can start for Mexico City and get there in due time. Many people are doing it every day. Some start in Laredo, Tex., and cover the 763 miles to Mexico City in one long stretch of 20 to 24 hours driving. Others do it in two days and one night and some come at an even slower pace.

Before making the trip myself, I'd heard scores of different versions about the road. Some who drove down were scared to drive back; others said it was just as easy as driving from New York to Miami. I started out from Laredo the day the highway was inaugurated—and I found that the Mexican government had been true to its word in every respect.

Mexican officials had said that they would refuse officially to open the road until it could be traveled without difficulty. That is exactly what has happened. Per month they were besieged with suggestions that they go ahead and open it—but they waited the smoothing out of the last difficult curve, the termination of the last bridge, and then inaugurated it on July 1.

Scene Undergoes Changes
The thousands who traversed it before July 1 today will find that their description of the road may be as honest as can be but is just out of date.

I came over the road in a small car, and it climbed from sea-level to above 8,000 feet in high gear. On some stretches a speed of 80 miles an hour was attained. However, the speed limit is 80 kilometers (50 miles).

Despite the wonderful road, Mexico is not yet shouting "Motor down to Mexico." On the other hand, it does not say "Don't come."

Much Mexican officials have explained their position like this: "We opened the road because it was completed. We know that there are not adequate lodging facilities en route for big caravans to find room for everybody. But we do expect that the construction of hotels, tourist-courts and camps will be hastened when people in that line of business see how many motorists are driving down. We're going to do our best to make every one comfortable."

Formerly, the question of the condition of the road was paramount in planning an auto tour to Mexico City. That no longer is a problem. Today a motorist does, however, still have to think about lodging, food, the climate and the altitude.

Chance Plays Part
As far as the trip from Laredo to Mexico City the element of chance plays a big part.

A motorist might encounter unusually hot weather in the low stretches, find all the lodging places full run into rain or fog in the mountain section and not see the views, and have a miserable time generally.

On the other hand, a person might run into good weather, clear firmans, enjoy the food, and have a trip such as would be hard to find anywhere in America.

I found the stretch from Laredo to Monterrey (145 miles) hot and monotonous. There's one stretch of 47 miles that's a straight line. The road is perfect. The city of Monterrey is a gem. It is beautiful, cleanest city in Mexico. It has much better hotel accommodations than Mexico City.

Between Monterrey and Mexico

City there is not a city. The rail-facilities en route for big caravans to find room for everybody. But we do expect that the construction of hotels, tourist-courts and camps will be hastened when people in that line of business see how many motorists are driving down. We're going to do our best to make every one comfortable."

Many Lodging Places
There are many little places where lodging may be obtained. At Valles there are some big tourist courts under construction. Villa Juarez is a big boom town. There is a hotel with 40 rooms and 40 showers-baths and other small ones. This town grew due to the building of a big sugar mill and the completion of an irrigation project.

When I made the trip I found comfortable beds and good food, but slept little because of the heat.

After leaving Tamabunchale, however, the heat no longer is a problem. The ascent is fast although the grades are so well compensated that a car can do it all in high-gear.

Probably no road in the world of this length has so few crossroads, so few grade crossings. Half of it is in low hot country, half in beautiful mountains, some above 6,000 feet.

The road is as safe as any Caracas drivers here, as anywhere else, may run into trouble. The road is wide enough to keep to the right at all times, and not run the risk of bumping into somebody coming the other way on the curves.

Contrary to what has been published, there are no detours, no rivers to be ferried, no sections blocked by landslides.

FRONTIER SHOW OPENS PREVIEW FOR EDITORS

By TRUETT LAROQUE
The Cisco Daily News party was one of a group from a thousand Texas cities to be represented Friday night as guests of the Fort Worth Frontier show which gave a preview to newspapermen from over the state and served them a dinner, honoring their profession as they were given an opportunity to witness the last dress rehearsal of the show before its opening hour, Saturday at 3:30 p. m., under the direction of that famous show boy, Billy Rose.

Guests were greeted at the gate by a committee, who ushered them through the typical West Texas grounds to "Casa Manana" the largest night club cafe in the world. Dinner with all trimmings was scheduled for 6:30.

Then the program: Amos G. Carter, noted Fort Worth publisher, who has been given the name of "Fapa Amen" since rehearsal on the show began some few weeks ago, was master of ceremonies. He introduced Senator Tom Connally and Attorney General William McCraw, who gave short addresses of appraisal of the Frontier Centennial Exposition, which was formally opened Saturday, July 18.

Billy Rose, director, then took charge. Before the vast throng a magnificent production, a cavalcade of World's Fairs, had been dressed to the last glittering sequin and was presented with its rhythm and beauty to the strains of Paul Whiteman and his famous orchestra.

Following the big stage show at "Casa Manana," the guests gathered in the grand stands of the arena of the Last Frontier, which was a setting as wild as western as ever painted in fiction. This was a radio-phantasmagoria and rodeo presented against a background of artificial hills. It included covered wagons, real Indians, cowboy wild bronc riding, roping and ended with an old time square dance and breakdown.

When the Frontier show was brought to a close, the crowd separated, some viewing the structure of "Jumbo," and the many other show houses which were not open, but were finished and ready for the annual opening. Then home again with the satisfaction of knowing that "Texas is on the map" yes, and in a big way. Texans will be impressed and pleased to the nth degree, but little do we realize the effect it will have on those from out of state—who all their lives have heard of wild west Texas, and now have the chance to realize that it is the real thing.

"The Last Frontier" Lives Again

Famed in story and song is the old frontier of Texas, and though it passes now across the horizon of history the stirring epoch it represents will be recreated in all its glory when the Texas Frontier Centennial opens in Fort Worth Saturday, July 18. Pictured here is a solitary scene that might have been lifted from the pages of centuries ago, but in reality the broad expanse which Iron Shell surveys is the stage for "The Last Frontier," dramatic spectacle depicting the winning of the west. A far cry from the imperial domain of the Red Man years ago, even the reservation of this aged but stalwart Sioux chieftain is now near the center of the Centennial grounds.

Cool Cookery

• The thousands of women who have bought Hotpoint Electric Ranges have embarked on a new experience of happy, clean, carefree housework.

Overheated summer kitchens are a thing of the past with "Miracle Cookery." Thick insulation keeps heat in the oven, where it belongs. And, in surface cookery, Hotpoint Calrod coils concentrate all heat on the utensil and do not diffuse it into the air of the kitchen. And, of course, with electricity as the fuel, immaculate cleanliness is possible. Even the bottoms of pans do not become blackened.

Imagine spending all day away from home—then arriving just before dinner time to find the entire meal perfectly cooked, waiting in the oven, ready for serving. You see, in the morning you can make the food ready for cooking, then put it in the oven, set the temperature control, set the "Chef's Brain" (automatic timer) for the time it is to begin cooking and the time it should be finished—and then forget it until dinner is to be served.

Come in and see the beautiful new Hotpoint Electric Ranges. Discover how you can join the parade of modern women and save money at the same time.

HOTPOINT CALROD

What Mazda means to light, Calrod means to cookery. Calrod is the name given to Hotpoint's hi-speed sealed-in-metal cooking coil which has revolutionized electric cookery. It brings new speed, new cleanliness and new economy to the kitchen.

THRIFT COOKER

Economical. Uses only about as much current as the kitchen light. Cooks an entire meal of meat, vegetables, dessert—or bakes small quantities, like a few potatoes, without need for heating up the oven.

THE CAMBRIDGE - A new Hotpoint Electric Range. All porcelain enamel with chromium trim. Table-top model. Full size oven. Spacious storage drawer. Calrod units and Thrift Cooker.

Goats Play Leap Frog at Fair

These West Texas angora goats startle visitors to the Texas Centennial Exposition in Dallas by their deft version of leap frog.

The Rocket Goes 'Round and 'Round!

Trains of six one-ton cars hurtle 'round and 'round the perpendicular walls of the British-made Rocket Speedway at Dallas' Texas Centennial Exposition, reaching a speed of 45 miles at the peak. Above, a fair bather demonstrates with a tub of water how centrifugal force holds not only the train but the water in place.

employees examine eligibility status of applicants and refer those persons found eligible to WPA.

Johnson pointed out that certification to WPA does not necessarily mean a job is awaiting the person certified as the quota assigned to Texas will permit the absorption of only a portion of those referred to WPA offices. Unless this surplus is absorbed by private industry in the various localities of the state these persons must remain jobless, he declared.

"For the Texas Relief Commission to perform the service of intake and referral for WPA, and to continue sponsoring the distribution of surplus commodities, we must continue to receive the cooperation of the various counties and cities," Johnson stated. "We anticipate this cooperation, however, as our work consists of making surplus commodities available to the needy and of making WPA jobs a possibility for many of the unemployed workers."

admiring Westerners. In dialogue and music, with a genuine round-up and rodeo given against a background of artificial hills, it depicted the growth of the West.

"Pioneer Palace," replica of an old-time dance hall, further carried out the pioneer theme. Its stage show given on a 40-foot platform behind an immense bar, was the second of four major attractions directed by Billy Rose, the Broadway showman chosen to produce The Frontier Centennial.

Rose's own New York success, "Jumbo" thrilled crowds with its tang of the circus and cast of Broadway and Texas artists. A mammoth wooden circus building, only permanent structure of its kind in America, houses "Jumbo." The cast includes most of Fort Worth's Forest Park zoo.

Casa Manana (the House of Tomorrow) was chosen by critics as the outstanding artistic triumph. Its huge amphitheatre provided dining and dancing facilities for 3,500 persons. A musical revue given twice nightly on the largest revolving stage ever built, includes Page Cotton of Bonner, "Texas Centennial Sweetheart"; Paul Whiteman and his band; Everett Marshall, noted New York singer; and Sally Rand, now a "bubble" dancer.

The Frontier Centennial has invited the world to compare its entertainments with those at the central exposition in Dallas, but its genuine aspects smacked with appeal to those who like Texas at its wildest and wooliest. The 25-acre show grounds were

OPPORTUNITY

To the Voters of Commissioner's Precinct, No. 4:

Since you are vitally interested in the welfare and progress of our county and the handling of the business and building of roads in our precinct, you would want to elect a man to the important office of commissioner Precinct No. 4, who is also interested in the affairs of our Cisco community and that is qualified from the standpoint of experience and judgment.

We, as neighbors and friends, are glad to recommend Mr. ROBERT TUCKER to you and as the type of man every citizen can place faith and confidence in and feel that the interest of all alike will be handled in an efficient and economical way.

In our community (Pleasant Hill) he is considered one of the most valuable citizens, his judgment is often sought and never questioned. He is always ready to work when there is a movement of progress and improvement in his community.

His long experience has taught him many things about building and maintaining roads and the cost of same. He is honest in his thinking and we feel that we can with all fairness to ourselves recommend him to you as a candidate for commissioner and assure you that if elected he will render you efficient service.
