GERMANY ASKS COMPENSATION FOUR GERMANS

BERLIN, Ger., Aug. 7. (U.P.)—The German representative at Madrid has demanded compensation for the killing of four Germans in Barcelona. It was announced officially today. Germany protested vigorously against the incident.

To make the protest more formidable, Admiral Carls commanding the German fleet rushed to Spanish waters to protect German citizens. Was expected to protest directly to the commander of the Spanish loyalist fleet.

Adolph Hitler was reported enraged by manifestations against Germans, and there was doubt that in view of reports he would subscribe to a French plea for neutrality.

On Way to Cheer Eleanor Holm

Loyal supporter of his wife, Eleanor Holm Jarrett, in the Olympic Games controversy in which she was ousted from the American team, Art Jarrett is shown here as he waved farewell before sailing from New York for Europe to join her. The speedboat leader husband of the swimming champion voiced belief that "everything would come out all right."

AT COMMAND, EASTLAND MAN THROWS MONEY FROM TRAIN; 2 CHILDREN WERE THREATENED

Federal, State and Local Officials Scouring This Section For Two Men; Have Good Descriptions

At an early hour this morning Cisco was the scene of a thrill of federal officers, G-Men and state patrolmen with machine guns guarding the approach from the north as they stopped all cars and demanded their drivers license and identification, all looking for the man to whom was thrown a bundle of money, $3,000 dollars by Samuel Butler, of Eastland, who had been told to pitch it off the T & P early morning train just east of the freight depot.

Officers are said to have gotten a good look at the man who fled when flares were burned as a signal to waiting officers that the money had been thrown.

An extortionist who threatened "to wipe out" one or both of the children of Samuel Butler, prominent resident of Eastland and brother of Brigadier General Smedley D. Butler, was sought today by government officials after he escaped a net thrown earlier today.

Butler, following orders given by the extortionist Thursday night, boarded a west bound Texas and Pacific train and was accompanied by two railroad agents and one government official. He had been advised that a verbal order "Throw out the money" would be given between Eastland and El Paso. He had also been advised that he was to remain on the rear platform of the train.

Approximately two blocks from the Cisco passenger station, Butler heard the command and "threw out the money" in a brief case. Simultaneously one of the officials threw a flare lighting up the countryside. The youth fled.

The cordon of federal officials searched to no avail.

It was reported the first extortion note demanding the money and threatening Butlers' children, Samuel Jr., 18, University of Texas freshman, and Helen, 16, high school senior, was received July 25th. It was postmarked Eastland. The letter directed Butler to register at the Texas Hotel in Fort Worth and further advice would be delivered there with delivery of the money.

Asked to communicate with the extortionist, Butler pursued this request and inserted a classified advertisement in the Fort Worth Star-Telegram. The advertisement said Butler was unable to comply with the request since the letter was received the date of the first primary and banks were closed.

A second letter was received, postmarked Fort Worth, directing Butler to take a train out of Fort Worth for Amarillo and drop the money from the train on signal.

In an effort to gain further clues, Butler inserted the second advertisement July 30th in the Star-Telegram and said he was unable to follow request to take a train from Ft. Worth to Amarillo. This advertisement followed the receipt of the second letter received July 29th.

The third note was received Tuesday of this week from Fort Worth. Butler did not plan to go as far as El Paso, and upon advice of officials, bought a ticket to Sweetwater upon the possibility suggested by the blackmail in his advertisement that the money might be called for before reaching El Paso.

Any order from the extortionist to throw the money from the platform farther than Sweetwater was discredited by officials as by the time the train arrived there it would be daylight.

It is understood fifteen officials in three automobiles were included in the group to first frustrate the plot Thursday night and this morning.

At Cisco where the brief case was thrown, one group of officers covered the Cisco station, while other officers were going to Putnam at the next train stop. The signal was not given however until the train was a considerable distance from the station. It was learned letters received by Butler were in printing.

Local newspapers in cooperation with Butler recently printed the story that his children left for California in an effort to mislead the extortionist in the event he planned violent action as indicated in the letters. In reality the children were in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania.

The brief case thrown by Butler was said to contain considerable money.

Butler is president of the Arab Gasoline Corporation and has other interests.

It was understood here that Samuel Butler brother of Brigadier General Smedley D. Butler, had received notes threatening to wipe out his children, Samuel Jr., 18, and Helen, 16, if he did not give a

G-Man Bureau Saves U.S. Nearly 30 Million After Deducting Costs

By RUSSELL TURNER
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Aug. 7. (U.P.)—J. Edgar Hoover revealed today that for every dollar spent in operating his bureau of investigation during the past fiscal year, approximately $7 was saved in recovered stolen property or savings effected to the government.

Total value of property recovered and savings to the government, he said, was $34,708,315.39, compared with $5,000,000 spent in operating the bureau.

Summing up the bureau's activities during the past fiscal year, Hoover revealed that 3,905 convictions had been obtained in cases in which his G-Men took part. Sentences imposed, he said, totaled 11,067 years, in addition to nine life and two death sentences.

All Kidnaping Solved

While not mentioning the dramatic two weeks this spring when the nation's four most notorious criminals and kidnapers — Alvin Karpis, Harry Campbell, William Mahan and Theodore H. Robinson, Jr., were captured, Hoover pointed out the bureau "has solved every kidnaping case on which it has performed investigative work since enactment of the Lindbergh kidnaping law in June, 1932.

"Sentences imposed have included 31 life sentences and four death sentences," he said, referring to the 65 kidnaping cases in which the bureau took part "in addition to other sentences totaling 2,113 years, 11 months and two days; three culprits committed suicide; five were killed; six died by murder at the hands of their fellow gang-members, and two were lynched."

Achievements Are Listed

Hoover's report also noted these achievements of the bureau during the year:

Recovery of 2,496 stolen motor cars valued at $1,925,206 in cases in which the bureau took part. He

The band played a concert to about 300 local citizens of that community, and the Cisco personnel were introduced after a talk by A. D. Starling, president of the junior chamber of commerce of Cisco.

Mr. Starling told why these trips were being made to the various communities, saying that it was the desire of Cisco for a closer acquaintance with the people of the Scranton and other communities in the Cisco trade territory, believing that a better understanding always resulted from knowing each other better.

The Cisco personnel were lined up and were introduced by W. H. LaRogue, manager and editor of the Cisco Daily News and American Roundup.

The Scranton people expressed themselves as greatly enjoying the music by the band and were pleased to have Cisco business men visit their community.

LOCAL POLICE AND G-MEN MAKE ARRESTS IN EXTORTION ATTEMPT

Cisco police were working here in cooperation with the federal men today. Suspects are being picked up and questioned in the hope of finding the right men, since there were two men in the transaction here, fairly good views of which were obtained when the flares were made and the men fled, one running through a wire fence.

It is understood that officers have their eyes on several men who might be implicated, but are giving no information until they have something tangible to work on. Many officers are still in Cisco and their machine gun armament looks like they might mean business if some one should act too suspicious and not heed a hail to stop when requested to do so.

Important developments are expected as the net has been flung rather far to the west in their endeavor to cover suspicious territory.

Man Can't Avoid War by Isolation

The world today is riding for a fall, and there seems to be precious little chance of stopping it before it comes down in a heap.

This is the sober opinion of Dr. William E. Dodd, United States ambassador to Germany, as expressed in recent remarks before a midwest luncheon club audience.

"Everybody thinks everybody is going to fight somebody," said the ambassador. "Things are worse than at the end of the World War. Masses of people who don't want war are all anxious to have enough to eat in the event of war and are trying to get along without trading with another."

It is this, perhaps, which is the most discouraging part about the whole business. For it means that people have come to accept as inevitable, or at least as highly probable, the thing which they dread above everything else. Wanting above all things to stay at peace, they are schooling for war—and by that very act they are helping to make war more probable.

For the alternative to war, which is the sharpest and most obvious form of international discord, is international co-operation; and international co-operation involves a great deal more than simply refraining from fighting. It involves the steady interchange of goods, the building up of international prosperity, the maintenance of a complicated social and economic web in which nations benefit themselves and their neighbors simultaneously.

For a good many generations the world made steady progress along those lines. Nations exported the products they were best fitted to produce, and imported those which they could not produce economically. The whole structure of modern civilization was erected on that basis.

The World War cut across that intricate fabric like a gigantic knife, and the war's legacy of fear, suspicion, and hatred has made it impossible for us to reconstruct it.

By making complete self-sufficiency the goal for each great nation, the world has not merely headed in the direction of war and turned its back on the old goal of co-operation and mutual help; it has elected to carry on its economics in the most uneconomical way possible, and has doomed itself to a progressively lower standard of living. And this, by increasing the pressure on the ordinary man, arouses his discontent, sharpens his privancies, and makes it just that much easier for the statesman to sell him a new war when the proper time comes.

It is a vicious circle, and no one who studies it can find much ground for optimism. Because everybody is afraid of war, everybody does the very things which makes war more likely. At a moment when modern science is making world society an indivisible unit, mankind is doing its best to destroy that unity.

THE GIFT OF SLEEP

In this age of high-powered, strenuous activity, rest and sleep is becoming a big item in men's lives. Men and women keyed up to intense efforts find it difficult to compose themselves when their tasks are finished. The ability

Behind the Scenes in Washington

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
States are standing firm for Roosevelt.
WASHINGTON—Despite the Mr. Farley's excellent public predictions that President Roosevelt will carry 48 states, all the keener planners of the New Deal campaign agree that the contest is going to be close.

There is not now among them any vestige of a once somewhat prevalent belief that their ticket would have a walkaway. The last of that disappeared when Democratic insiders learned that the American Institute of Public Opinion's poll would indicate a popular majority of only 51.8 per cent for Roosevelt with an indicated electoral college majority for Landon of 272 to 259.

Politicians in both parties are watching this and other polls like so many hawks. Republican jubilation is intense over charted evidence that preference for Roosevelt over their candidate dropped with astonishing speed following Landon's nomination. They are sure this is the beginning of a great trend, which will decide the issue.

SOME Democratic politicians claim to be elated, however, by the fact that the index of losses has narrowed down to a very few where it will be necessary to fight. They insist they were afraid the figures would be worse; that there would be a general leakage and that they would have to campaign the whole country instead of being able to concentrate in a few spots—an important point, since the Democrats expect to have a rather limited campaign fund.

They are especially relieved to observe that the Pacific Coast states are standing firm for Roosevelt.

The big doubtful states are New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Illinois, Indiana, and Michigan.

Democratic money will be poured into Pennsylvania, probably more heavily than into any other state. The high command is certain Roosevelt won't lose the country if he can carry that traditional Republican stronghold.

NEW YORK would be even more important than Pennsylvania if Roosevelt could be sure of his home state. But current opinion among the president's political advisers is that Pennsylvania is a slightly better bet.

Pennsylvania, plus states now apparently sure to go Democratic, would give Roosevelt the necessary 266 electoral votes or more. An authentic inside survey roughly shows that if Roosevelt gets the solid south, the Pacific Coast, the border states, and a couple of mountain states he will be over the top—if he can get Pennsylvania.

THE spectacle of a candidate winning a plurality of the popular vote and losing the presidency through defeat in the electoral college isn't anything you see very often. But it can happen very easily, especially if there's a third party ticket at large.

So far it has happened only to Democratic candidates and it could happen only to Roosevelt this year, since enormous Democratic majorities in the south can pile up a popular vote which may be discounted by close results in big northern states.

Here's Picture of Health—Quins at Playtime

Copyright, 1936, NEA Service, Inc.

They've had a glorious time frolicking about their new playground, but, just the same, the Dionne quintuplets welcomed a chance to rest. So Dr. Dateo had practically no trouble at all rounding up his healthy charges for this attractive group portrait. Maybe, too, the babies grasped at the chance to display those charming play ensembles to their public. As soon as they have viewed the birdie, though, the quins will be right back at play. Chubby Yvonne, at left, for instance, will surely be scurrying after the ball that seems to be getting away from her. And Marie, Annette, Emilie, and Cecile, left to right, are not going to be sitting there long, you can be sure. In just a few moments, they'll be splashing in that pool, or digging in their sand pit.

of being able to fall asleep at once is indeed a rare gift and one who can snatch his rest may live long and be happy. We clip an old editorial concerning Thomas A. Edison that shows why he worked incessantly and yet lived to a ripe age.

Thomas A. Edison, famed as the man who could get along with four hours' sleep a day, or none at all if he was extra busy, is now sleeping more, says his son, Charles. But he certainly had the sleep game worked out to perfection in the old days. When the inventor was concentrating on a problem, Charles explains, he would often sleep four or five hours in a chair in his laboratory, then rise up and start in on another day. Sometimes he would drop asleep on a table-top. How could he do it? "He has developed the faculty of falling into sound slumber instantly, no matter where or in what position. Thus he can take a 15-minute nap whenever he needs it, and wake up feeling like a new."

Blest is the man with such a gift. What this age needs more than anything else is sleep. Ability to sleep at will is merely one phase of self-control. It means taking hold of one's mind and making it serve the purpose of the will, whether for rest or work. Many people can concentrate on a problem—make the mind focus on a job and keep at it until it is exhausted—and then cannot sleep. The waking mental activity persists, and that wears them out and breaks them down. Making the mind stop working is the other half of it—as important as making it work. If the tired worker cannot do as Edison did, by conscious purpose, instantly effective, he may succeed by the indirect method of turning to some other form of mental activity for relaxation, to prepare the way for sleep.

Endangered by Minority

Recent surveys of automobile fatalities have shown that the great majority of serious accidents are caused by a small minority of drivers, many of them previous offenders. In other words, your average motorist is a pretty safe bet while, relatively, a handful of drivers contribute danger and death to the highways.

This ought to be a good cue for traffic regulation, if the careless and the unfit few can be restricted, motoring can be definitely safeguarded for the larger number.

Better police work and a rigidly enforced program for keeping incompetent drivers off the road would do much to solve our traffic problem.

4-H Club News From Over the Co.

JOHNNIE EVANS, member of the Scranton Boys' 4-H club, who was chosen the best 4-H club reporter in District No. 7, gives an account of his trip to the Farmers' Short Course. Johnnie was a club reporter on the Short Course Daily Star, a newspaper published daily during the short course. Johnnie's trip to the Farmers' Short Course was sponsored by several newspapers in Eastland county.

Large group attends the 27th annual Farmers' Short Course at College Station. The week following July 20th about three or four thousand boys, girls, men and women gathered at the A. & M. college of Texas to study and learn from lectures and observation many useful plans for better farm and agricultural activities, also how to overcome some of our everyday agricultural problems.

On Monday morning the groups met in the large auditorium (Guion Hall) where "The Centennial Year Farmers' Short Course" was opened. Mr. Walter Jenkins of Houston was the scenic leader of the group. Every boy and girl in the auditorium thoroughly enjoyed the singing of club songs, and they enjoyed particularly the wonderful way in which Mr. Jenkins had in leading the boys and girls in their songs.

Mr. L. L. Johnson, State Boys' 4-H Club Agent, made a very interesting talk to the boys and girls; which will be of value to them in the future. Each morning different men and women gave talks on various subjects such as Wild Bird and Animal Life; "How to Choose Your Clothes"; and other things which were of importance to all of the group. The Boys and Girls were divided into groups which attended classes and lectures on various subjects. Lectures were given on subjects varying from Agricultural Work to any kind of machinery in which the modern farmer would be interested. Lectures were given on "How to Kill Farm Insects", along with demonstrations of the various kinds of poisons used on different insects. These instructors were always glad to answer questions asked them in connection with any of their lectures.

The club boys made trips to pastures where the habits of animals, quails and other wild bird were studied. The various groups visited the animal husbandry, poultry husbandry, dairy husbandry departments, experiment station, where some of the finest breeds of cattle, hogs, sheep, goats, horses and other livestock were seen.

There were various kinds of exhibits on the campus, such as "suggestions for Pantry Achievement Events", "China Glassware and Silverware", "Finishing Texas Woods", "Quits Old and New", "Texas Shrubs", and "Clothing". Exhibits which were of much interest to the girls and women.

I do not believe that any better entertainment could be secured for any group, than the entertainment offered to the Short Course visitors every night. On Monday night the Gainesville Community Circus, the only community circus in the world, performed before an audience of approximately ten thousand people. Cther entertainment offered during the week was a negro minstrel show awarding gold star pins to the Gold Star 4-H Club Boys and Girls of Texas. Pictures shows, medicine show. The last night of the short course we were entertained by an amateur hour program, sponsored by the boys and girls from the different counties in the state of Texas.

In making this report of my trip I have only touched the high points of my trip. I could go on and write page after page, telling you of the many wonderful things I saw and learned while at College Station. I feel as though every 4-H club boy and girl should set as their goal, to attend the Farmers' Short Course at least one time during the year. They are a member of the 4-H club. Besides the valuable things I learned, which I have outlined to you, I received some very valuable experience as a reporter on the short course. Daily Star. May I take this opportunity to thank all of the newspapermen in Eastland county who so generously contributed to my trip to the Farmers' Short Course this year.

JOHNNIE EVANS, 4-H Club Reporter.

THIS CURIOUS WORLD By William Ferguson

CINDERELLA'S "GLASS" SLIPPERS MAY HAVE BEEN THE RESULT OF AN ERROR IN TRANSLATION. IT IS BELIEVED BY SOME, THAT THE SLIPPERS WERE OF VAIRE (ERMINE), NOT VERRE (GLASS), IN THE ORIGINAL STORY.

"DARK" AFRICA HAS GIVEN THE WORLD $5,000,000,000 WORTH OF GOLD, AND MORE THAN $1,000,000,000 IN DIAMONDS.

ERMINE, which is the fur of the weasel, taken when in the white winter stage, was very popular with ancient royalty for making various articles of wearing apparel. Whether or not the word "vair" was changed to "verre," as some modern translators believe, there is no denying the fact that ermine slippers would have been a great deal more comfortable on Cinderella's feet.

Collie Re-election Breaks Precedents

In his successful campaign for re-election to the State Senate, William B. Collie of Eastland, broke a precedent in this district. Never before has a Senator been re-elected since the district was organized. Collie won a clear majority in the balloting over two veterans in Texas politics, Harry Tom King of Abilene and Y. L. Thompson of Haskell. The certified vote by County Chairman shows he received a majority over his opponents of 3735 votes.

The results of the campaign are indeed very gratifying to me," he said. "I am deeply grateful for this splendid majority in the first primary and I esteem it a beyond measure for making it possible for me to continue a service which I hope will result beneficially to our district and the people of Texas."

Fingerprints Expanded
Commenting specifically on the fingerprint division, Hoover said that on July 1 there were 6,094,916 sets of fingerprint records on file, of which 1,021,047 were received during the 1936 fiscal year.

Hoover also pointed to creation of the National Stolen Property File, with which he hopes eventually to be able to classify all stolen property so that suspected stolen goods can be identified easily, as one of the important accomplishments of the year.

Still another bureau activity which earned Hoover's praise was the National Police Training Academy, which conducts schools in scientific crime detection for specially-picked representatives of municipal and state police forces.

tain sum of money which has been named as $3,000. Negotiations finally brought the command to board the west bound T. & P. train this morning and that at some place between Eastland and El Paso, a command would be given to throw out the money. Officers were on the train and near the freight depot at Cisco the command was given and the officers threw out flares to notify officers in waiting. The two men fled and did not get the money which was taken charge of by officers. The officers were said to have gotten a good look at the men in the light as they fled, one running into a wire fence.

The officers continued on to Putnam the next stop of the train while the officers stationed at Cisco took charge of the search for the men. The flat here where the men fled after their unsuccessful attempt to get the money, was surrounded by officers but when they pressed in the birds had flown. The search continued until up in the morning the officers who were armed with machine guns turned their search to the west ward.

A number of suspects were picked up and many cars stopped and questioned.

The SUN'S DISTANCE FROM THE EARTH HAS BEEN COMPUTED BY THREE ENTIRELY INDEPENDENT METHODS, AND THE RESULT WAS THE SAME IN EACH CASE

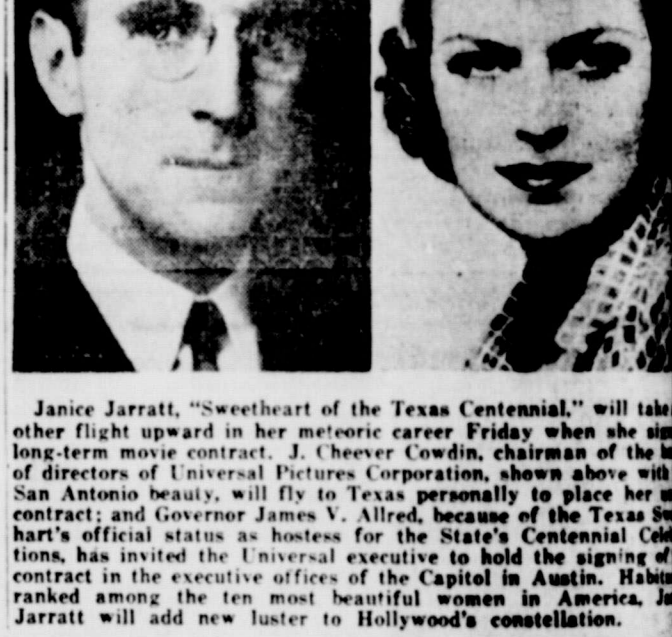

THE three methods by which the sun's distance has been computed may be classed as geometrical, gravitational, and physical. Each time astronomers predict the time of an eclipse . . . and the do so with great accuracy . . . they are making use of the known distance to the sun. This is but one of the many ways which prove our definite knowledge of solar distances.
