3 NEW SCHOOL CONTRACTS, 4 RENEWED

CISCO SCHOOLS TO GET 200 NEW PUPILS; $5,000

The renewal of contracts by four schools surrounding Cisco to send their pupils to Cisco schools and the agreement with three other schools to transfer to Cisco, and at the same time, transfer all their state, county and special tax money to Cisco in return for teaching and transportation, were made Saturday with Superintendent R. N. Cluck, bringing about 200 pupils to Cisco and a school fund of near $5,000 to supplement those apportioned to the Cisco Independent school district.

Renewal of agreements with Cottonwood and Bluff Branch who will send high school pupils, only, and Dotson and Sandy, who will send all their pupils, were renewed this year without a dissenting voice, thus showing that the experiment of past years was entirely satisfactory.

Reich school will send all grades this year, as will Friendship, two new schools who Saturday agreed to transfer all their money and pupils to Cisco in return for free tuition for the nine months term and transportation to and from school. Shady Grove was expected to agree to the same arrangements at a meeting Saturday.

All these schools have a special tax which will come to the Cisco school along with the $19.00 apportionment for the next term, and the state will pay the Cisco school for the transportation of pupils.

It is a perfectly good arrangement for all parties concerned said both Mr. Cluck, and W. F. Walker, school secretary, who explained that the communities would have a nine month's school in a well organized system, far superior to any thing a small community could ever hope to maintain and have the advantage of superior scholarship and teaching ability.

Why Is It Wrong?

"Who says it is wrong?" Snapped a girl defiantly at her mother. "You say it is wrong and I say it isn't wrong. I have just as much right to my opinion as you have to yours."

Matter of right and wrong are not matters of opinion, they are matters of proof. If a man has a boil on his nose, that is not a matter of opinion, the evidence is all there. If you shut a man's wind off long enough he will die, there is no argument on that point; the question has been proved—too many times. Turn yourself loose in the air with nothing to hold you up and you are going to drop, that point is not open to debate; it has been demonstrated over and over again. That impudent girl's line of speculation is not novel. It has been going on in the heads of folks ever since folks had heads. And there has been a good deal of honest perplexity accompanying such cognitions. "How can I assure myself that wrong is right? How do I know that the old ideas of moral conduct are not all topsy-turvy and merely the conclusions of narrow, prejudiced minds?"

The answer is easy. Observe the results of a given line of conduct. If one wants to decide whether a certain action is right or wrong, let him consider those who live according to that particular action, and see what they look like. The face and personal atmosphere show the effects of the way one lives. One can look at the finished product and see what one sees. If the girls who think petting parties are right could be taken by their parents to see the girls who make their living by petting, it would be easy for them to realize what petting can do to one. Look at the man or woman who habitually resorts to tricky practices; the face is like that of a rat. The man who persists in hard boiled methods gets a hardboiled expression. The woman who continues in malicious gossip gets a cattish, devilish cast of countenance. The individual who indulges in unchaste thoughts and actions develops a loose-lewd look.

On the other hand, study the person who lives according to the accepted code of good behavior. There is the honest, straight forward look in the eye, the kindly expression of strength of character and nobility of purpose, an atmosphere of all round wholesomeness and well being. You have come in contact with people through whom you glimpsed every sort of good. The looks of some cry "Unclean!" And the looks of others proclaim purity.

"But," argues one, "So-and-so does such and such, and she is unusually attractive," or "he is particularly fascinating."

Yes, but she or he has not been at whatever it is that is wrong, long enough for the story to be written on the countenance and expressed in the attitude. One can take a little arsenic into the system every day for a long time before results will manifest; but eventually the poison will kill. A rat is not made by one drink or two drinks or a dozen drinks. When a white ant takes a bite out of a beam in a building the effect cannot be seen, but enough bites by enough ants will destroy the structure. The big idea is not to let the ants get started; once they infest a building they must be fought until they are exterminated or they will wreak havoc; but if they are never allowed to get in they do not have to be fought.

The conclusion that the world has come to with regard to what is right and what is wrong are merely the result of centuries and centuries of observations of the effects produced on people through different courses of behavior.

Summer vacationists will hail new ways to prevent poison ivy. A solution of glycerin, ferrous sulphate, alcohol and water will do the trick. Your druggist will make it up for you.

By RAYMOND BROOKS

AUSTIN, Aug. 15—A state official has revealed that a bill now is being prepared which will create a board to administer public school land, oil and leasing affairs.

This board will be patterned after the board for mineral development of the university system of Texas. The board of regents has two members, serving with the state land commissioner.

The public school land board will for the first time give the school administration a hand in supervising leasing, development and administration of the mineral oil and other phases of the school endowment of public lands.

It was anticipated of the legislature convenes this fall, the measure will be in effect by the time the incoming Land Commissioner Bill McDonald has assumed office and thus share with him the supervising of the public school oil interests.

School forces were said to be in accord in seeking a voice in the control of the school fund endowment, similar to that given the university in its leasing board.

During November, best dove-hunting month of the year, not a dove may be killed in Texas, under the new set-up of the state law.

The north zone open season is during September and October. The south zone season has been postponed to open Dec. 1, continuing through Jan. 15, the same as the usual season. The federal government has approved under its regulations the south zone, and is expected to join in ratifying the state open season in the north zone.

Besides the $1 duck stamp, federal regulations are said virtually to have destroyed duck and goose hunting in Texas. The old bag limit of 15 ducks and four geese a day has been reduced to 10 per day and a limit of 10 in the hunter's possession at any time. That means a limit of 10 ducks on any trip, and four geese, thus making the sportsman who drives to the coast for shooting spend an average of about $7.50 per duck.

Marvin Hall of Brownsville resigned as counsel of the state tax commission to be state campaign manager for Gov. Allred. He did such effective organizing, and Allred ran such a race, that he worked himself out of the job in July.

He probably will return now to his former state post, but it appears likely that Hall may be named to head some agency of the governor when Gov. Allred's second-term appointments are made.

If he follows the precedent of R. G. Waters, first-term campaign manager, he will become a member of the state insurance commission. Successor to Raymond Mauk, first insurance commissioner, will be named early next year.

Q. What is a vara? F. F. Clarendon. A Spanish measurement of thirty-three and one-third inches.

Q. When did Sam Houston die and at what age? T. R. Big Spring. A. He died July 26, 1863, at Huntsville, at the age of 74.

Q. On what date did Texas officially join the Confederate states? D. D. Aransas Pass.

A. The vote to withdraw from the Union was taken Feb. 23, 1861, and became effective, March 2, 1861, exactly 25 years after Texas declared its independence from Mexico and on Houston's 68th birthday.

Q. Why did the city of Houston decide not to hold its celebration depicting the Battle of San Jacinto this year? S. A. Kyle.

A. It wished to avoid all possibility of giving offense to Mexico or Mexican citizens, the relations between that country and Texas now being most cordial. Centennial authorities have emphasized the fact that Texas is celebrating a century of independent progress and not a victory in battle.

Q. How many a county go about establishing a county library in Texas? R. D. Sinton.

A. County libraries may be established by commissioners' courts either on their own initiative or on petition of a majority of the county's voters. A sum not to exceed 5 cents on the $100.000 property valuation may be voted for that purpose. For assistance in getting county libraries, address the State Library, Austin.

TEXAS EMPIRE BUILDERS OF '36'

Every man, woman and child in Texas should know the principal events of the momentous period of Texas history from March 1 to April 21, 1936—events that changed the shape and the destiny of the United States.

The facts essential to this understanding are briefly set forth in a 32 page booklet entitled "Texas Empire Builders of '36" telling of the stirring days which all Texans, native and adopted, are celebrating in 1936.

The booklet will be mailed post-paid for 10 cents. Send all orders to Will H. Hayes, Austin, Texas.

Letters From Our Readers

To the voters of Eastland County:

I take the liberty of handing you herewith some reasons why I favor Geo. Terrell for our Commissioner of Agriculture. Having had the unusual experience of having served the State in the capacity of Chief of the Pecan work under the appointment of Fred Davis, Geo. Terrell and J. E. McDonald, I favor Mr. Terrell because of his good moral character, honesty of purpose, his knowledge of the law concerning his duties and responsibilities. He is morally clean in both his public and private life.

The citizenship of the State can point with pride to Geo. Terrell as a worthy example in official life; to the youth as an example worthy of their emulation.

The office of Commissioner of Agriculture is of greater importance to the citizens of the State than Governor or any other office in the gift of the people.

Rich and Reckless

BEGIN HERE TODAY MOLLY MILFORD, rich and popular, has received proposals of marriage from three suitors, but BRENT STUART, whom she loves, has not asked her to marry him.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER III

"THE Golden Girl, Nelse," the fat man repeated. The smile and the vicious tone didn't go together.

"Too dangerous. He'd have the whole federal outfit after us."

"Then, while the boys are still fretting themselves sick about that bank business, we get in a little demand note to the family, with nobody the wiser. That is, until gettin' wise is too late. You'll be back in Chicago with a good alibi, and we'll be running this place, same as we have been doing."

"I wouldn't say that. The Walrus here will help you contact the family. We'll stage a fake raid at Frency's place across the river—some of our boys dressed up in police uniforms—so you can pull your stuff without the girl getting wise. We'll have the hide-out spotted."

"Frarchy's place. How do you know she'll go there with me?" "She's here tonight. And that fellow with her isn't as good-looking as you, Nelse. Nor half as smart, I'll bet. I have an idea you could get that girl to go most anywhere!"

"Switch out the lights," Nelse said suddenly in a calm, professional tone.

THE orchestra had struck up again, and Molly and Wick were dancing.

Molly was thinking. "Dancing in the dark. Dancing dangerously with all kinds of people dancing around you in a queer sort of intimacy."

A tall shadow—Brent, of course—had come close and was tapping Wick on the shoulder.

Molly was whirled away in the darkness. Brent was really a grand dancer, but tonight he was holding her too close.

The lights flared on and Molly gasped. She was looking into the deep blue eyes of a stranger—the good-looking young man who had stopped to speak to that group of men near her table a few minutes ago.

He said anxiously, eagerly: "Please be a good sport."

Molly said coolly. "It was outrageous."

Molly said coolly, "It was outrageous." "I know it was," the stranger admitted in a deep, earnest tone. "But I had to do it. When your escort sees us, he'll probably come over and give me a punch in the nose, unless you pretend you know me."

MOLLY'S eyes met the dark blue ones steadily. "I suppose you get paid for this kind of thing?"

"Cutting in on people you don't know, keeping up the reputation of this place for surprising happenings?"

He laughed a little. "Does it have such a reputation? I've found it one of the most stupid, harmless places I know, Molly Milford."

"I'm really not interested in 'The Red Poppy's' reputation, but I would like to know how you know my name."

"Do you think I could miss, with all the newspaper clippings and pictures I've cut out and saved?" He was smiling, a nice smile that revealed strong, white teeth.

He had the assurance of a gentleman, yet some sixth sense of Molly's warned her that she couldn't be certain.

Standing against the wall, watching her with a frown on his face, was Brent. Coming toward her was Wick.

Molly raised a rebellious little flag. "Wick," she said quickly as he came nearer, "this is Sam Smith."

Wick bowed, without e... his hand. "We'd better be starting," he said.

"After the next dance," Molly spoke impulsively. She saw the blue eyes of the stranger light unexpectedly. As the music began, his arms went around her and they danced away.

"I've decided to give you a chance to tell me why you wanted to meet me," Molly said.

"It's too long a story to tell now," his arms tightened a little. "I've been dreaming that some day I'd know you. All the time I knew I couldn't... not Molly Milford."

"Why—just because I'm Molly Milford?"

"No. Maybe it was that way at first... reading about you, wondering how it would feel to be a man who could dance with the Golden Girl, take her out to dinner."

"Silly name, isn't it?" Molly laughed a little uncertainly. "No," the stranger replied.

"I don't agree," Molly told him. "It's ridiculous. You're right, though, about this place being stupid. I came here because I was told it was dangerous and exciting. I don't know what I expected. Perhaps that people would be throwing things at each other. Or the police would come in and round everybody else up but me!"

"What a nice, safe feeling." His voice mocked a little. "You could never imagine the police looking for you!"

"No, could you?" "Not yet. But we never know what our impulses might lead to."

"I've decided it may be better not to know—"

"Nothing ever happens at Frency's—this place I'm talking about."

"Where do you work?" Molly queried.

"In a bank."

So he was just a nice young man who worked in a bank and was dreadfully romantic about her.

"H.L." the young man was saying in a soft, urgent tone, "I had gone to Harvard or Yale or Princeton you'd have gone out with me. But I only attended the University of the World and was left out of the Social Register—"

"That doesn't matter to me."

"You mean it?"

BEFORE Molly could answer, there was Brent. A most determined Brent, cutting in with a vehemence that swept her into his arms like a resistless tide.

His voice was like ice. "What do you mean, dancing with strange men, you crazy little idiot?"

"Please don't talk to me as though I were still in kindergarten," Molly said. "And what right have you to assume—"

"Don't pretend with me. I saw your face when the lights went on. I suppose this is a regular feature of the place, giving some of the patrons a chance to meet upper class in a democratic sort of way."

"You sound like a snob," Molly replied. "And I hate snobs. I don't know why I ever imagined I am fond of you."

"Then you do imagine it sometimes, Molly?" He had pulled her closer in his arms.

"Not when you talk like this."

"Well, whether you like me or not, you're not going to see the fellow again to prevent me, if I choose?" Molly's voice held a dangerous note.

"If I thought he'd dare to follow up and ask for a date, I'd wipe up the floor with him."

"You've no right to order me around."

"I have a right." There was a strange new note in Brent's voice. Molly's heart fluttered at the sound.

"What right—?"

"The right of a friend who isn't going to let you make a fool of yourself." Brent said slowly, after a moment of hesitation.

"Oh!" So that was all. Molly said furiously. "I don't like being told what not to do."

It hadn't occurred to her before. But now she was certain that if Sam Smith—or whatever his name was—invited her to have dinner with him she probably would go.

THIS CURIOUS WORLD By William Ferguson

The PERE DAVID'S DEER, WHICH IS REPRESENTED BY A SINGLE HERD IN ENGLAND AT THE PRESENT TIME, ISHEDS ITS ANTLERS TWICE A YEAR.

THE WATER STRIDER, AN INSECT THAT IS COMMON AROUND PONDS AND STREAMS, IS COVERED WITH VELVET, SO THAT WHEN IT DIVES, IT CARRIES WITH IT A LAYER OF AIR, FOR BREATHING.

LIMA BEANS WERE BROUGHT TO THE UNITED STATES IN 1824, FROM LIMA, PERU, FOR WHICH THEY ARE NAMED.

ALTHOUGH the water strider can carry its own air supply along when going below the water surface, it is content most of the time to skate along on top of the water. The insect's weight is so minute that, as it travels about over the surface, only the feet touch the water, and these do not even penetrate the film.

THIS CURIOUS WORLD By William Ferguson

BETWEEN THE DATES OF MARCH 26 AND SEPTEMBER 18, THE SUN SHINES CONTINUOUSLY ON UNITED STATES TERRITORY.

A GOOSE HAS ABOUT 12,000 MUSCLES UNDER ITS SKIN THAT DO NOTHING BUT CONTROL THE ACTION OF THE FEATHERS.

COCKLEBURS SOMETIMES ACT AS BIRD TRAPS, BY ENTANGLING THE FEATHERS OF SMALL BIRDS.

THE sun never sets on the British Empire, but Uncle Sam must be content with about six months out of each year of continuous sunshine. When the sun's northern declination exceeds two degrees, or between the dates given above, some portion of United States territory is bathed in sunlight.

Behind the Scenes in Washington

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON—The chief aim of the national drouth committee, chairmaned by Rural Electrification Administrator Morris L. Cooke, will be to recommend a permanent land plan for the drouth area for the president's presentation to Congress.

Committee members privately agree that the most important thing to be accomplished is a considerable reduction in dry land farming, especially in the Dakotas, Montana, Wyoming, and other sections of the "dust bowl."

The committee is practically certain to propose a large program of land acquisition by the government which would retire millions of acres from dry farming and turn it into grazing land which would be opened to grazing associations.

The next most important recommendation probably will be for a program of water conservation, especially with respect to small streams and ponds.

Congress would have to appropriate the money. Need created by the drouth has already made it obvious that available relief funds of WPA and the Resettlement Administration can't last beyond January, at the most optimistic estimate.

It is able to make grants and loans to relieve rural distress, whereas WPA can only provide work and has been unable to do so quickly into action.

Also, more than 40 per cent of Resettlement's 9,500,000-acre submarginal land purchase program is placed in the drouth area, which means about $14,000,000 spent for land—most of it paid to families which want to relocate.

The RA has worked closely with state planning boards, especially in the Dakotas, Montana, and Wyoming, discovering the areas where there are too many persons for the land to support.

THE fumbling tactics of Liberty Leaguers and the Al Smith-Jim Reed-Bainbridge Colby Democrats continue to pass all understanding.

Inasmuch as Roosevelt's worst enemies have admitted ever since that the League banquet featuring Smith's speech was one of the worst political blunders ever pulled, you might think they'd watch their step.

But now they let the call for the convention of "Constitutional Democrats" be sent out by Sterling E. Edmunds, wealthy citizen of St. Louis. Edmunds is a leading spirit and big shot in the National Committee for Protection of Child, Family, School, and Church, which, whatever else you might suppose it to be, is a vehicle for fighting child labor legislation.

Edmunds is known to child welfare workers as a tireless foe of the child labor amendment.

What the "Constitutional Democrats" seem to need most is a brain trust.

FAMINE FEARS WIDESPREAD IN INNER ETHIOPIA

By JAMES ROHRBAUGH
United Press Staff Correspondent
ADDIS ABABA, Aug. 14, U.P.

Traders returning here from the Ethiopian hinterlands report that virtually no grain or coffee is being planted by the natives because they fear it will be confiscated by the Italians, or brigands.

If Italian authorities fail to persuade them to plant their crops, traders say famine conditions will prevail among the natives next year.

In Addis Ababa native food already has more than doubled in price. Many natives are living solely on eggs from their few hens.

Viceroxy Takes Action
Marshal Rodolfo Garziani, Viceroxy of Ethiopia, recently nominated a special commission to study this problem and there is every reason to believe that before conditions become too acute forceful measures will be taken.

Once the natives are assured that the Italians intend to pay them for their produce, the food shortage will be ended, it is believed. The natives ceased planting before the end of the war when brigandage was rampant throughout the empire.

Foreign reports of effective guerrilla warfare against the Italians during the rainy season are exaggerated. The natives in the unoccupied regions are not fighting against the Italians, but among themselves.

Natives Are Awed
The Ethiopians have been awed by Italy's formidable war machine and despite foreign reports to the contrary there is no organized resistance against the Italians.

The respect which the Ethiopians have for their conquerors was shown recently when 500 Ethiopian bandits were put of flight by 16 Askaris.

The scarcity of food, which was one of the reasons for the crumbling of Haile Selassie's army, is another factor which prevents organization of resistance against the Italians.

Italian alpinists constantly patrol the country and the pilots report there are no important gatherings of warriors.

Rumors that a provisional Ethiopian government has been formed in the west are ridiculed here. The Gallas, who inhabit this region, evicted the Amharas before Italy annexed Ethiopia and there is little reason to believe they now will fight for their former rulers, whom they hated.

Football Teams are Signed Up for Game

DALLAS, Aug. 15.—One of the most formidable gridiron machines in the history of the game took shape this week as 13 young ex-collegiate stars signed for participation in the Chicago-Bear-All American epic game at the Texas Centennial Exposition the night of September 7.

James H. Stewart, director of football for the exposition, anticipated little trouble in filling out his squad. The Centennial Exposition All-Star squad will be made up of three centers, five tackles, guards and ends and an even dozen backs. This will give the coaches in charge two complete forward walls with an extra for the guard, cented and tackle positions and three complete sets of backfielders. Stewart will visit Chicago and personally contact members of the All-American squad to play the Detroit Lions at Soldiers Field the night of September 1.

Among the nation's outstanding grid luminaries who have been signed by Stewart are: Buster Baborn of the S. M. U. Mustangs, a center; Stanford University's great Wes Muller, the lad who smeared S. M. U.'s plays in the Rose Bowl game.

Three of the five guards are re-on the dotted line. They are J. C. (Iron Man) Wetzel, a member of the Christy Walsh All American team; Billy Stamps and Charlie Baker. All are from the S. M. U. roster.

The five tackles signed are: Truman Spain of S. M. U., Larry University of California; Bob fields of Stanford University; Mays of Rice Institute and Throgmorton of Vanderbilt University.

Two wingmen remained to be signed. Those on the roster are: Frances Gony of Vanderbilt, the most valuable player in the south; James Howell and Ike from the University of Arkansas.

Stewart's main quest in Chicago will be for ends, guards and tackles. Tentative acceptances have been received from Bobby Wilson S. M. U. backfield luminary; Harry Shufford, S. M. U. backfield luminary; Jimmy Lawrence, Texas Christian University star.

Prices set by the Exposition ball ticket manager will be $12 for reserve seats and $18 for boxes.

RACE TO BUILD TANKERS GETS WORLD START

By HENRY WOOD
United Press Staff Correspondent
SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 15 (U.P.)—

With every navy-possessing country in the world pushing its storage of oil against the possibility of war in the near future, American shipyards are being swamped with orders for oil tankers.

Not only is the race for oil tankers taking place in the United States alone, but Japan, England and other countries have joined in the competition, it is asserted.

According to figures revealed here by officials of some of the leading American oil concerns, the United States shipyards now have nearly 200,000 gross tons of tankers under construction.

As a result of this sudden drive to construct enough tankers to meet the demands of foreign countries, it is estimated that 7,000,000 hours of work have been provided for workers in American shipyards and allied industries.

The information coming from Japan, oil officials here say, shows that the Japanese are following the same lines in construction of their tankers as they have followed in the construction of the merchant marine fleet the past few years.

All Japanese tankers now being built, it is said, will have a speed of about 20 knots against the 12 for those being built in the United States.

Oil officials here explain that the slow speed of the American tankers now under construction is due to the fact that they are built primarily for commercial purposes.

They admit that in the event of war, they would not constitute much of an addition to the strength of the merchant marine as an auxiliary, as they would not have the speed necessary to keep pace either with the fleet itself or the merchant marine which might be converted into temporary armed cruisers.

Edward VIII Plans Sea Cruise

King Edward VIII of England will go on a month's leisurely cruise in the Mediterranean and Adriatic seas, starting Aug. 8, aboard the luxurious $1,500,000, 1374-ton yacht Nahlin, chartered from Lady Yule.

As completely and luxuriously fitted as the great luxury liners that plow the Atlantic, Lady Yule's $1,500,000 yacht Nahlin is seen at Southampton, England, being provisioned for King Edward's summer holiday cruise of the Eastern Mediterranean.

W. L. Connell Builds 55-Foot Trench Silo

W. L. Connell, who lives one and one-half miles northwest of Olden, states: "I have stacked and seen bundle feed stacked for several years, but it never occurred to me just how much feed was lost in the stacks in Texas each year, which could have been saved by putting it in a trench silo."

He has recently finished constructing a six and one-half ton trench silo on his farm. After digging down about 18 inches, Mr. Connell struck a solid rock and rather than dig through the rock to make his silo deeper, or give up his idea completely of a trench silo, he made his trench longer and wider.

Mr. Connell filled 20 feet of his silo last with red top cane, and will fill the other 35 feet with hegar, as soon as it has reached maturing and is ready placed in the silo, said Hugh F. Barnhart, Asst. County Agent.

Between Two Fires in Spanish Revolt

The British garrison on impregnable Rock of Gibraltar at the entrance to the Mediterranean found itself surrounded by the Spanish revolution, with shells from combatants bursting overhead. Rebels forces at Ceuta, to the south, were being attacked by loyalists, while rebel gunboats bombarded Linea, to the north. The rock is seen towering above parading British troops.

Mrs. Modern
PLANS HER KITCHEN

HER FIRST STEP IS TO REPLACE HER OLD RANGE WITH A MODERN GAS RANGE

"MY Old-Fashioned Range made my kitchen so drab and unattractive I was ashamed to have my friends see it. Worst of all, it was so unhandy and inefficient it kept me tied down so close cooking, I had little time for anything else.

"Then I read about Magic Chef and its many advanced features. I went down to see it and fell in love with it. It was just what I needed to start making my kitchen modern and attractive. I realized, too, how it would simplify the task of preparing meals and leave me more time for home-making, self-improvement and recreation.

"I bought it and now every day I find new delight in my Magic Chef gas range. It cooks and bakes like magic with a speed, convenience and certainty that make me wonder how I ever got along with my old range.

"My Magic Chef does almost all the work itself. It lights itself—just by turning on the gas. The Red Wheel Lorain oven regulator holds the exact oven temperature I want and cooks a whole meal unattended while I am away shopping or visiting. Now I have more leisure, and the family says my meals are better cooked and more delicious. My kitchen is cooler and cleaner, and I'm saving money on gas bills and food."

Mrs. Modern has mentioned only a few of the many modern advantages of Magic Chef—no other range of any type will give you more. Test this claim.

Come to our store today and let us show you the many time and labor saving features of the modern Magic Chef, the most famous and largest selling gas range in America. There are many models from which to choose. You will find a style, size and price that will fit your own requirements perfectly.
