By TOMMY LAMORE
From the response of the students in the Cisco High School who held up hands when asked by Principal O. L. Stamey how many had secured permission from their parents to attend the Texas Centennial at Dallas on Eastland County Day November 13, it would seem that at least three-fourths of the student body intends to go on the special provided for that occasion.

LIGHT VOTE IS CAST IN BOTH BOXES AT 2 p. m.

Voting is light today in both boxes as only 478 votes for the West side and 179 for the East side had been cast at 2:30 p. m. Cold weather is presumed to be responsible for the light vote cast at this hour.

But every person who is entitled to this franchise should avail themselves of this privilege of speaking their mind through the ballot. The poles do not close until 7 o'clock so if you have not voted and are entitled to do so, you should take the time and visit your voting place, even at this hour.

There are six amendments to the constitution and these are important. Voters should express themselves on these amendments as when they have become a part of the constitution there is little likelihood of their being changed, even if some of them should be found not so good.

West side votes at city hall, East side at the Home Furniture company. The vote for and against the amendments were almost equal at that time, the actual vote showing one and two were losing and three and four slightly winning. One had to do with liquor, two with teachers' pension, three for workmen compensation and four concerning pardons. However later votes may change these figures.

TWO PRECINCTS IN SOUTH CAST ALL FOR F. D. R.

LATE BULLETINS
Combined early and incomplete returns from districts scattered from New England to Texas gave Roosevelt 16,976 and Landon 10,927.

TOPEKA, Kan.—The incomplete unofficial count of 192 precincts out of 2699 in Kansas today gave Roosevelt 16,259, Landon 13,679.

OKLAHOMA CITY—Twenty-four Oklahoma City precincts incomplete today gave Roosevelt 2,494, Landon 1,279.

A tremendous outpouring of voters estimated at something over 40,000,000, thronged the polls today to choose between Franklin D. Roosevelt and Alf M. Landon for the presidency.

Rain, snow and even blizzards plagued the citizens, particularly in the midwest. Bad weather was expected to reduce the vote in some rural districts.

The first election returns were flashed from tiny New England communities racing to be first with news of the balloting.

Running Neck and Neck in Kansas
TOPEKA, Kan., Nov. 3 (U.P.)—Tabulation of 27 precincts incomplete from 12 Kansas counties gave Landon 1,599 and Roosevelt 1,515.

New Ashford, Mass., first to vote in 1932, announced its 1936 total as 6:42 a. m. The votes were Roosevelt 19, Landon 26. In 1932 New Ashford cast 25 for Hoover and 8 for Roosevelt.

Among the early reporters were two southern communities, Nantush, North Carolina, and Martin's Station, Alabama. Nutbush's 31 votes all went to Roosevelt, as did the 11 at Martin's Station.

Extremely heavy voting was reported in New York State. Governor Landon was the first of the Presidential candidates to vote. A special train carried him and his family from Topeka to his home town of Independence.

Few disturbances were noted, precautions were taken against irregular voting, and thousands of watchers were on duty over the country. National guardsmen were stationed in San Miguel county, New Mexico to prevent any outbreaks.

President Roosevelt was voter No. 312 at Hyde Park, New York, where he cast his ballot. He planned to go for a short automobile ride today and then return to his home to receive the election returns.

TEXAS TO GIVE VOTE TO ROOSEVELT AND GARNER
By United Press
The speeches were over and Texas voters with the only question being the size of the confidence vote they will give to the new deal.

Political observers agreed that Texas would give its electoral votes to Roosevelt and Garner, and elect a full slate of democrats to state offices.

In only one contest did the republicans even have hope of victory. Ernest Clemens, republican candidate for congress at San Antonio had considerable backing from Jeffersonian democrats and was conceded a slight chance of defeating Representative Maury Maverick, Democrat, seeking re-election.

Seven of the democratic candidates for congress in 21 districts did not even have opponents. Creating a new interest that the state office were six proposed amendments to the state constitution. First among these in point of interest was an amendment to authorize a pension fund for teachers of more than 20 years service. The teachers of the state, threw the power of their organization behind this amendment.

About Our Friends

By STEP A. LONG

Bert Moon, 80, who is now making his home in Cisco has a photograph of Andrew Bee, the man who captured Jeff Davis when he was trying to make his escape disguised as a woman after the fall of the confederacy. Mr. Moon's father, a native of Michigan and a northern soldier, knew Mr. Bee well.

Mr. and Mrs. Noah Fowler visited in San Angelo over the week-end. San Angelo looked rather worse for wear Sunday after being besieged by Halloween visitors-Saturday night. The sidewalks were very dirty, the windows marked up and one nice plate glass window was broken out entirely. All in the name of fun.

Which prompts many to ask if that is fair? Is it fair to go to a man's property when he is sleeping and mutilate it or destroy it when he is unable to defend it? Is it fair to hide behind darkness or mask in the name of fun and cause him damage that will amount to a great deal when he has done nothing to merit this property damage?

The young people of today are said to be very fair-minded. They have a great sense of fair play and it is not in their code to take this unfair advantage of innocent parties to mutilate or destroy their property wantonly. We are glad to note that Cisco boys and girls did not do this to their town and to their home people. They have that sense of fair play that would preclude any such destruction. We are truly grateful for that fine spirit shown by our youth.

It shows that the parents have not contented such, the teachers have taught and trained them differently and the officers of our city have secured the good will of the people of Cisco to the end that we are very much law abiding. It is a healthy state of affairs and is one of the most valuable traits of character that a town may possess. May such a spirit grow.

REV. L. K. SMITH PAROLED TODAY DESPITE WISHES

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 3 (U.P.)—The Rev. Charles L. K. Smith, Louisiana evangelist and head of the "Share the Wealth" movement was paroled today against his own wishes, under a law passed during the regime of his late leader, the Senator Huey P. Long.

WEATHER

EAST TEXAS—Fair and colder tonight; below freezing in extreme northern portion; temperature 30 to 32 degrees interior south; cold wave south; st portion tonight; Fair Wednesday; rising temperature in north portion.

Midgets to Meet Eastland Thursday

Looking ahead for a 17th consecutive victory the Grammar School Midgets are sparing nothing in preparation for Thursdays game with the strong Eastland grammar school on Chesley field.

The Midgets have previously whipped the Eastland team at Eastland Oct. 22, 38-0, but the score indicates little of the trouble Pop Garrett's team had in downing the large Eastland boys. They are big in size, outweighing the Midgets 10 to 12 pounds to the man but in using their fast passing and running plays the Midgets outwitted the larger team completely.

Using a fast, shifty backfield behind a strong line the Midgets mix passes, line smashes and end swoops in such a manner that the opposing teams are in distress looking for some sort of defense against them. On the defense the Midgets have shown much strength by holding the opposing teams scoreless in 16 games.

Owner Found For Abandoned Car

Desk Sergeant Henry Stubblefield reported this morning that the 1935 Chevrolet coupe found abandoned here Saturday with the key in the lock and the driver's license attached to the steering wheel, had been identified as insured in El Paso where it was stolen and parties would come for the car.

HERON TIES UP PUMPS
RUSSEL, Kan. (U.P.)—A blue heron with a 6-foot wing spread became entangled in the control wires of the city dam pumps. The heron was killed and the water pumps were ineffective for a few hours.

Grammar School PTA Appreciates Support

Mrs. D. Ball, president of the Grammar School P-T-A, says her organization is very grateful for the hearty support of the amateur hour show at the city hall Saturday night as a part of the Halloween activities. The attendance was gratifying and especially does she wish to commend the help of Bandmaster Maddox's German band which made music for the occasion.

WORKERS AIM AT GENERAL STRIKE

GALVESTON, Nov. 3 (U.P.)—Maritime workers aimed today at a general strike throughout the Gulf coast in sympathy with the walkout on the Pacific coast.

STRIKE TAKES SERIOUS TURN

The Tyrannical Body!

The human body is a fearful tyrant if permitted to be. It seems to have an individuality of its own, and a mind of its own, but mighty little sound sense of its own.

We know an old couple who bought an old horse. The horse was what is commonly known as a plug, a plodding creature without much spirit, as gentle as a snail, and without as much get-up-and-get.

But the old couple were not accustomed to horses. The animal looked so big and strong, and they so realized his power to smash them, that they viewed him with apprehension.

The old folks led the horse run in the yard to eat up the grass and cut down the feed bill. But whenever they stepped out of the house, and the horse lifted his nose and looked at them, they edged away; as the animal walked toward them through curiosity, or friendliness, or with the hope of getting a carrot or an apple they fled in dismay.

It didn't take long for that old horse to realize his advantage; soon he began to lord it over the old couple in a most outrageous way. Matters reached a pass where if either the old man or the old woman ventured into the yard the horse laid back his ears, showed the whites of his eyes, bared his teeth, squealed, and ran at them.

Eventually the old man and woman were marooned in their own house by this naturally kindly old beast, and had to send for help. When their son came to their rescue the horse ran at him, too; but one whack over the head with a buggy whip immediately resolved him into the docile dobbie he really was.

A person can educate one's body to be just as tyrannical as that old couple educated their horse to be. One can teach one's body to rebel at this instead of having one's body serve one. This and that perfectly good thing they dare not do for fear their bodies will object. Once the body starts objecting, and is encouraged to object, it becomes more and more despotic.

"Take possession of your body," is the advice of one authority on the power of mind over matter. And that is a great idea if one can encompass it.

WHEN THE LEAVES BEGIN TO FALL

"AND WHEN I'M DEAD AND BURIED, SUSANNAH DON'T YOU CRY"

UNDER THE DOME AT AUSTIN

AUSTIN, Nov. 3 (AP) - Before the final gavel had fallen on the special session of the 44th legislature last week, candidates were in full bloom for elective offices in the 45th.

Mrs. Louise Show Phinney, Dallas, will seek reelection as chief clerk of the next house. She will have as an opponent Mrs. Jennie Mae Watson, of Austin, who was chief clerk of the 44th legislature. Reading Clerk A. C. SHEARER, Dallas, Marlin sergeant-at-arms Ernest Boyett, Junction, and Gussie Evans, Austin, Journal clerk, had no announced opponent.

Two retiring members will seek elective positions in the next house. B. L. Rogers, Farnsworth, will be a candidate for assistant reading clerk and Wallace R. Broyles, Edgewood, will seek the position of calendar clerk, which Mrs. Watson will vacate to run for chief clerk.

Chaplain George W. Collins, of Mathis, will ask for the place again. He has been praying with and for the House eight years. He was a member four years before becoming chaplain. Being chaplain does not take a great amount of time. Collins edits his Mathis, Texas, paper from Austin while he is in the state capital legislative sessions.

The House thinks so well of his prayer that they are published in the daily journal of proceedings. Senate Secretary Bob Barker, of Fort Worth probably will be found calling the roll as usual when the 45th legislature meets. Tenure of Senate staff places is not so precarious as House employment. Only half of the Senate places are filled at each election. There will be nine new Senators among 31 members. Employees who have been satisfactory to a majority of the 44th Senate are fairly certain therefore to be retained by the 45th. Re-election of Lieut. Gov. Walter Woodul continues him as presiding officer of the senate.

The Speakership of the House had a large number of candidates even before the special session began. During the special session, in fact, the race lost one contender. E. H. Block, Tom Hyler, of Lewisville, withdrew. Left in the race were Robert Calvert, Hillsboro; R. Emmett Morse, Houston; Homer Leonard McAllen, and Albert G. Walker, Vernon. The speaker appoints House employees, other than a few of the major officers who are elected by the members.

Local legislation required much diplomacy in the session just closed. Only topics submitted by the governor can be considered at a special session. The rule is not enforced unless some one objects to a bill. If a bill gets through without objection it can become law if the governor fails to veto it. To obtain passage of a bill that way requires finesse. The member backing it cannot afford to offend any other member. He has to advance his bill when everyone is in good humor, and preferably when he has done favors to others.

This situation caused some complications in passing a bill to extend the life of the Upper Colorado River Authority. Taylor county wanted the original act amended so that city might have representation on the board of directors of the authority. Senator Wilbourne Collier district includes many of the counties in the watershed. The district of Senator E. M. Davis include others. Collier is from Eastland, Davis from Brownwood.

Seizing an opportune time Davis pushed the bill through the Senate. Collier wanted to get Taylor county's amendment placed on the act. They were fearful of asking reconsideration of the bill, because it had met with opposition in the Senate and some one was likely to oppose it again just from arbitrariness. Davis and Collier conferred. They let the bill go to the House but the amendment on there, and at another peaceful moment in the senate "accepted" the House amendment which they really had hoped to insert themselves.

D. Leon Harp, state securities commissioner and president of the National Association of Securities Commissioners has been elected as one of two principal speakers for the convention of the American Investment Bankers' Association to be held in Augusta, Ga., on Dec. 4. Effective state regulation of securities dealers and salesmen will be Harp's topic, a work in which he has been engaged for a year and a half. Judge James M. Landis of the Securities and Exchange Commission, in Washington, D. C., also will address the convention.

Many legislators attended the Rice-Texas football game last Saturday, taking advantage of a week-end recess. Others heard the radio broadcast of the game in the House of Representatives hall in the capitol.

Grand Jury Further Investigates Meyers

BAIRD, Nov. 3.—Grand jury of the 42nd district court, which opened the fall term at Baird Monday, is investigating an assault with attempt to murder charge against H. L. Meyers under terms totaling 45 years assessed by Abilene courts. Judge M. S. Long is presiding.
 Meyers drew a 25-year sentence in Leavenworth federal court, upon conviction of attempting to rob the First National bank of Baird on September 23. He was given two ten-year terms in 42nd district court, on two charges of automobile theft in Taylor county. Cars were taken from C. R. Rutherford and George Finley. The complaint now being investigated by the Baird grand jury grew out of the attempt to rob the bank, when he shot at R. F. Jones, teller, and Clifford Jones, assistant cashier.

Magnolia Company Urges Winter Proof

Warning to car owners against winter neglect. Motor Enemy No. 1 was given this week by Fred M. Lege, Jr., vice president of Magnolia Petroleum company, as he announced "Winter-Proof" protective service to be made available to the motoring public by Magnolia dealers throughout the southwest, beginning November 1. This service, originated by Magnolia several years ago, has been growing in favor each year as motorists have learned the value of the semi-annual check-up to insure against the ravages of weather and wear by protecting the vital parts of the automobile.
 Magnolia's "Winter-Proof" service is a seven-point check-up, preparing the engine, transmission, differential, chassis, fuel, radiator and battery for winter demands. Mr. Lege explained, "It has been devised by engineers to make winter driving more economical and more pleasant, to insure dependable operation and avoid undue wear and consequent need for repair."
 Dealers who display the Magnolia "Winter-Proof" banner are prepared to replace dirty, summer lubricants with clean, quick-flowing winter Mobiloil and Mobilgreases of the correct grade recommended by manufacturers. The radiator will be cleaned and flushed of summer accumulations and if necessary the correct amount of anti-freeze will be put in; the battery will be checked and refilled for the heavier load it must pull in cold weather. The tank will be filled with winter-grade Mobilgas for quick starting.
 "Owners of new cars are especially urged to insure them against early wear by providing winter protection, while motorists who have driven their cars through previous winters will recognize the need for special lubrication and care under the trying conditions of winter operation."

Beauties Chosen in 'Sky High' Choruses

The choruses for the big community show "Sky High" to be given under the sponsorship of the East Ward P. T. A. at the high school auditorium for the purpose of raising money to care for the underprivileged children, were selected by Miss Ida Mae Collins and Miss Ella Andres, and met with Miss Lydia Sherman for their first rehearsal Monday afternoon.
 Twenty-six high school girls were chosen, and will appear in four different choruses in clever costumes, with snappy songs and dances.
 The trouper chorus consists of six girls appearing with Sam, the lazy negro porter, in the first act. The part of Sam is portrayed by Jack Farleigh, mechanic at Exide Battery company, who has played many varied parts in theatricals in this community, and is especially gifted to play comic parts, being the water clown at the lake. Trouper dancers are dressed in clever costumes of black and white pajamas.
 Eight of the girls do a clever song and dance dressed as Dutch boys and girls to the tune of the "Little Dutch Mill".
 Six air hostesses have a snappy skit to the song "There's Something About a Hostess". Their costumes are of blue and red.
 "Our Hats on the Side of Our Head" sung the high school girls, as they do a routine in costumes representing what the well dressed gentleman will wear when going out for an evening's entertainment with the customary high hat swallow tailed coat and cane.

1936 Road Building Reaches 214 Counties

SAN ANTONIO, Nov. 2.—Works Progress Administration laborers have built and improved 6,233 miles of road in Texas during the past twelve months. State Administrator H. P. Wrought announced Saturday. Projects still in operation encompass the improvement of an 8,374 miles of roadway, he stated.
 On the 9,957-mile network of Texas roads which have been included in the WPA program there has been employed a monthly average of 36,300 men. Reaching into 214 Texas counties, the program has been financed by sponsors' expenditures of $3,357,224 and federal allocations of $9,182,948.
 Wrought pointed out as significant the fact that 9,507 miles of the 9,957 mile road program are classified as farm-to-market roads. He said: "At the outset of this program we stressed the importance of later roads. Now at the end of twelve months of operation we note that approximately 41 per cent of the WPA expenditure in Texas has been on that type of improvement. As a result of this road building activity thousands of farm families are no longer dependent upon the weather in marketing perishable food crops, in taking advantage of top prices for farm products, in getting a doctor in time of emergency, or in reaching schools and churches and other gathering places."
 "Improved farm-to-market roads accrue to the social and economic benefit of rural and urban dweller alike. Nor may we overlook the fact that such activity serves a double purpose. It provides for those who are doing the work a chance to contribute their share to the functioning economy in which they live—to receive a living wage for honest work."

SALUTE TO LOVE

BEGIN HERE TODAY
 KATE and CAROLINE MEED live on a farm, Meed Meadows, with their indolent, lovable grandfather, MAJOR SAM MEED, and two old Negro servants, ALTHY and ZEKIE. Kate is engaged to MORRIS PRENTISS, who neglects her for beautiful and wealthy EYE ELWELL.
 Major Meed loses his farm to JEFF HOWARD, a bitter young mountaineer. Kate hates Jeff for taking her home, but he, in spite of her insolent treatment, falls in love with her.
 Kate rejects Morgan, just as he is on the point of marrying her for Eye. Kate and Caroline are unable to get jobs to augment their grandfather's pension money. Kate sells Brown Boy, her beloved horse, to a neighbor.
NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
 CHAPTER XXIV
 CAROLINE saw her as she entered the yard. "Why, Kate!" she exclaimed. "I thought you rode. Whatever led you to walk on a day like this?"
 "I rode to Mr. Grayson's," Kate answered evasively, "and back. I went up the road afterward."
 "Oh, what made you do that?" "You knew I wanted to hear how Mr. Grayson took the letter."
 "He took it with his hands," Kate said idly, "and giggled like a person slightly tipsy."
 Caroline remarked stiffly, "That's not funny. It's childish. What's the matter with you, Kate? You look queer."
 "I guess I'm due to look queer," Kate said slowly. She took the folded check from her pocket and spread it on the table. "I've just gotten us $350."
 Caroline examined the check in amazement. "It's signed Thomas Hold. What on earth did you sell him?"
 "Brown Boy."
 "Oh, Kate!" There was protest in Caroline's voice, and regret, and self-accusation. She felt that she had somehow caused Kate to do this. Yet, as she stood thinking it over, she saw that she was not individually responsible for the sacrifice.
 In town at that moment Jeff Howard was concluding some business at one of the banks. Here, at least, he felt at home, for bankers invariably regarded him with liking and respect. He had inquired at the bank about a certain breed of sheep he wished to stock, and the cashier, who knew his county, directed him to Thomas Hold.
 Jeff now found himself driving out the Mount Hebron road with a legitimate excuse for going that way.
 In Tom Hold's barn lot he found the farmer and his 15-year-old son engaged in looking over a large brown riding horse. "I've just bought him for my boy," Mr. Hold explained. "Not two hours ago, it was."
 Jeff scrutinized the horse. That brown-bay color, the star on the forehead. The two white hind feet. So Kate Meed had had to sell her horse. To Tom Hold he said bluntly, "I'm looking for a riding horse myself. Would you consider a re-sale?"
 Mr. Hold pulled at his suspenders. "My boy took a fancy to that horse last year, but he wasn't for sale at the time. Yeah, Ralph's wanted Brown Boy for some time. He'd not want to sell him, I reckon."
 Jeff said casually, "I could offer you a reasonable price. What did you pay for him, Mr. Hold?"
 "Three-fifty," said the farmer, who was known as an honest man. "Maybe your boy'd be satisfied with about a $50 turnover instead of the horse. I'll give you four hundred cash."
 Mr. Hold took his son aside and was seen to argue with him. Presently they returned and the boy said a bit sullenly, "All right. Take him. Pop says I can have the fifty profit."
 NOR did Mr. Hold himself seem entirely happy over the transaction. Watching Jeff Howard's fountain pen moving over his checkbook, he said uncertainly, "The lady that sold me this horse is going to be right put out about Ralph to own him. Says she can't stand to have Brown Boy worked."
 "Who wants to work him?" asked Jeff quickly and persuasively.
 As Kate drove to town for ice next day she went slowly past the Hold farm and looked in eagerly. There was a carrot in her pocket, ready for Brown Boy's soft nibbling lips if she should catch a glimpse of him. She did not see him, and, though she carefully preserved the carrot for her return trip, she did not see him then, either.
 That evening Zeke could not be spared to deliver the order of baked goods to Meed Meadows. Caroline asked tiredly, "Would you mind taking it over, Kate? I did most of the baking this time."
 Kate shrugged. She did mind, but the events of life could no longer dance to the tune of personal feelings.
 Without more ado, she packed the lemon pie, chocolate cake and the two dozen beaten biscuits in pasteboard boxes and put them into the car. Just as she started to take the wheel she impulsively got out, ran upstairs and was gone for ten minutes or more. When she came down she was wearing a fresh dress and a dash of lipstick. Caroline wisely made no comment. She knew that in Kate's feelings toward Jeff Howard there was some strong portion that was neither hate nor aversion, yet what the feeling was she could not guess. Did Kate herself introduce from the Manana stage at the Centennial. Left to right, the girls: Carolyn Senter, Fomey Hawley, Denton; Peggy Bott, Stanford, and; Bishop, San Antonio; Billy Rose.
