YOUNG M'BEE TESTIFIES IN MOTHER TRIAL

Little Ray McBee, 11, testified today for his mother, Mrs. Della Henry on trial for the murder of her former husband, H. L. McBee, that the last time he saw his father was on May 1, 1933, when he left their home, went down the direction of the railroad tracks at Rising Star. The young witness recalled a visit of Ted Crosswhite and Raymond Henry, present husband of the defendant, under 50 year sentence in a companion case, while he was in bed with his parents May 1. Young McBee stated his mother obtained a bill for Crosswhite while he remained in bed with his father. "No sir" was his answer to an inquiry by special prosecutor, Ailen B. Dabney if Raymond Henry or anyone else stabbed his father. The state had previously presented testimony tending to show McBee was stabbed by Henry when he accompanied Crosswhite to the highway worker's home. When his father did not return that morning Billy Ray testified, he was sent to town by his mother to see if anyone had seen him. Young McBee testified he and his mother and sister, Genevieve, stayed home that evening and retired. The state presented testimony which they hoped would convince the jury of McBee's murder, and that Henry had several others waited in the afternoon of May 1, until night for McBee to die and that the highway worker was buried early May 2. C. G. Shultz, Rising Star postmaster, owner of the home where McBee resided, testified he was certain that his residence was not burned by a thimbleblatch. A key was the only manner by which the door was locked, he said. The testimony was in contradiction to that offered by Pete Fenwick M. E. (Sandy) Tyler who said the state that the door was unlocked by Henry in an effort to get them from leaving the home after the highway worker injured. The court, sustaining the state's objection, ruled Henry not a competent witness. The case was expected to rest during afternoon's session.

Women Aid in Repelling Rebels from Madrid

BOILING OIL AND WATER IS DEFENSE USED

BULLETIN
MADRID, Nov. 9 (UP)—Ten persons killed, and 164 wounded today in the rebel bombardment of Madrid.

Rebel planes and artillery rained shells into Madrid in successive attacks today, causing apparently heavy casualties. While the attacks were in progress, the loyalist forces beat off the rebel land attack and kept the enemy from penetrating more than the outskirts of the city. The rebel bombardment struck at the center of the city. It was a day of terror. Heavy shelling began at 8 o'clock. Aided by torrential rains and stiff wind, the loyalist women fighting with them and throwing boiling oil and boiling water on any nationalist who reached their defense line, held fast.

Americans were sheltered at the United States embassy and citizens of other countries took refuge in their legation. In 48 hours, the nationalist had made no substantial advance. They sent shock troops to the southwestern and northwestern edges of the city and there opened new attacks. At the same time, a new drive was started from the area of Lel Escorial.

Roosevelt Sponsors Social-Labor Uplift
WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 9 (UP)—President Roosevelt today committed his second administration to a program of social reform and a "leveling upward of labor standards."

In a message to the national conference on labor legislation, the President said he expected the coming year should be an outstanding one in the annals of labor legislation.

Brownwood Offered 12c Turkey Price
BROWNWOOD, Nov. 9 (UP)—Several thousand turkeys gobbled excitedly today in coops and wagons along Brownwood's "produce row". Wholesalers were offering 12 cents a pound for first class birds, the same as is offered at Ft. Worth.

COTTON CROP ESTIMATE IS GIVEN BOOST
WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 9 (UP)—Sharply increasing estimates, the U. S. crop reporting board today estimated the 1936 domestic cotton crop at 12,400,000 bales compared with 10,639,000 bales last year and an average crop of 14,667,000 bales from 1928 to 1932.

A near record average yield of 199.7 pounds per acre also was predicted in spite of low estimated yields in two major producing states—Texas and Oklahoma. Texas and Oklahoma, which suffered from dry weather early in the year, were given estimated yields per acre of only 122 and 63 pounds respectively compared with yields last year of 133 and 117 pounds respectively.

Destruction Turned Loose—to Save Lives

R. L. MURPHY IS BURIED SUNDAY AT EASTLAND

Cisco masons had charge of funeral arrangements Sunday afternoon when R. L. Murphy, 50, Cisco, route 3 rural carrier, was buried at Eastland. Mr. Murphy died Sunday morning 3:15, at St. Joseph hospital, Ft. Worth, where he had gone for medical treatment. His body was brought to his home about five miles out on the Eastland highway, where the funeral ceremony was held at 3:30 Sunday afternoon, after which the masonic body accompanied the cortege to the First Baptist church at Eastland and a public ceremony was held. Cisco Schools Ready For Centennial Trip
Tickets for the educational excursion to the Dallas Centennial for the Cisco school children will be put out in the schools Tuesday, said Supt. R. N. Cluck this morning in discussing the trip which he thinks will be worth many days in regular school work by way of learning and educational expansion of students' minds. About five or six hundred are expected to make the trip. All teachers will go and as many adults may go for the $150 fare as may buy their tickets through the school authorities. If they are sponsored accredited to care for five or more children they will receive the courtesies of the grounds, it is stated. State Superintendent L. A. Wood has declared this day a legal day of school and regular pay will be given all teachers for the day and regular credit to students for the day's work.

Gas Company Suit Resumes Today
Trial of a $50,000 suit filed by the X-Ray Gas company against Lone Star Gas company will be resumed Monday in Judge George L. Davenport's 91st district court. The non-jury case was begun on Wednesday. The suit is based on the plaintiff's contention that leases belonging to it are not properly applied by the Lone Star. The plaintiff claims a gas well near Thurber on the Erath county edge is not being operated to its capacity amount as permitted by the railroad commission. The company answers, among other things, it is taking all the gas from the well, as is its usual custom.

ELAINE WEDS BARRYMORE BY J. P. CEREMONY

YUMA, Ariz., Nov. 9 (UP)—John Barrymore married Elaine Barrie Jacobs, before a Justice of the Peace early today. The wedding climaxed a wild romance that might have been a strain on even a young Romeo, but which the "great lover" of the stage and screen took in his characteristic calm. He was debonair, if a little pale, from a recent illness, when Justice Earl Freeman pronounced him and Miss Barrie one. He said he was 48, the bride 21.

LLAINE JACOBS IS FOURTH WIFE
HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 9 (UP)—John Barrymore brought Elaine Jacobs back to Hollywood as his fourth wife today. He exhibited annoyance that anyone should be surprised. "Sudden? Not at all. I've been planning this thing quite sometime—over a year, in fact," he said.

You Can't Fool Everybody

All of us know what a pleasure it is to meet a person who is real—without pretensions, without affectations.

Yet few of us ever allow ourselves to appear to others as we really are.

BE YOURSELF! is certainly good advice from the Venetian.

To affect a quality, and to plume yourself upon it, is just to confess that YOU HAVE NOT GOT IT.

Whether it is courage, or learning, or intellect, or wit, or a way with women, or riches, or social position, or whatever else it may be that a man boasts of, you may conclude by his boasting about it that it is precisely the direction in which he is rather weak.

For if a man possesses any faculty to the full, it will not occur to him to make a great show of it; he will be quite content to know that he has it.

This is the application of the Spanish proverb, "A clattering hoof is a nail gone."

Of course, no man ought to let the reins go entirely loose, and show himself just as he is, moles, scars, birthmarks and all.

There are, many of us know, evil sides to our nature which require "the negative attitude of dissimulation," but this does not justify a positive feigning of qualities which are not there.

It should be remembered always that affectation is easily recognized, even before it is clear what is being affected.

Affectation cannot last very long and one day the mask will fall off.

No person can preserve for long a fictitious character; for Nature will assert herself.

There is a maximum attributed to Napoleon, "Everything that is unnatural is imperfect."

It is a rule of universal application.

Condoning Criminals!

We are facing a strange condition in the United States. We are in an era of unequalled criminality, and along with it goes an attitude of unparalled consideration for the criminal.

This is a period of weeping over the dilemmas of the devilish scant sympathy for their victims. This is an age of protecting the law breaker. A scowling scoundrel can choke a frail woman and five babies to death and folks will fill his cell with flowers, candy and books, and spend their good money telegraphing petitions for leniency for him.

We seem to have gone insane over the question of mercy. We somehow or other have become warped around and twisted about to where we feel that to condone somebody's wickedness is a gracious, lovely thing that must win us stars in our heavenly crowns. And this soft, silly mercy is a thing that makes the law breaker spicker in his sleeve. He likes it, he likes it as wolves like lambs, and cats like birds; he laps it up and thanks you kindly, and demands more.

But what does that absurd mercy attitude do to the folks who need protection from the assassins of peace? What does it do to the cause of law and order? Remitted fines, suspended sentences, verdicts of not guilty where long terms should have been given, twelve months where twelve years are deserved, turning loose confirmed criminals with long criminal records. No wonder we have a world-wide reputation for being the most lawless of civilized nations; we have earned it.

Mercy is a beautiful trait, but mercy like anything else can be misapplied, perverted, and divorced from sense. Everyone should love mercy, but that does not mean that mercy is to be handed out indiscriminately. One can not expect to yield brainlessly to every merciful impulse.

To love mercy, to yearn to do mercy, yet to refuse mercy where mercy should be refused is more commendable than to be sentimentally, mawkishly, assinely merciful. The Bible commands us to love mercy but does not command us to be insanely merciful. We are plainly told to love mercy and do justice. To love mercy and do justice is to punish adequately where punishment is needed, no matter how sorry we may feel about it. "Vengeance is mine," saith the Lord; but in this sphere the Lord works largely through human agencies.

We are in a national state of mind where we do not need to worry about getting justice tempered with mercy. Our problem now is to get mercy tempered with justice.

OUT OUR WAY

HEROES ARE MADE—NOT BORN.

Texas Highways Will Place 4 Million Aid

AUSTIN, Nov. 9.—With the threat of highway fund diversion thrust, at temporarily into the background, the Texas Highway Department is making plans to place $4,000,000 in federal aid projects under contract in November. Notice that bids would be received followed closely on approval of the federal aid program by the federal bureau of public roads.

Present indications are that another heavy letting will be held in January or December and that the average letting for the next 12 months will be about $2,000,000. Had the diversion plan proposed in the legislature been carried out it is doubtful if the department could have made any substantial contract awards until March, when its revenues will be swelled by payment of motor vehicle registration fees.

In addition to escaping fund diversion at the recent special session, friends of an efficient highway system turned back another effort that would have caused considerable confusion. This was the novel proposal that rights-of-way of state highways be prospected for oil, the revenues to be paid to old age assistance funds. The traveler can readily imagine the difficulties he would encounter in a tour of the East Texas oil field, or any other major producing area, had this scheme been authorized. The motorist would have been forced to dodge guy wires, slush pits, drilling rigs and other impediments that attaches to drilling and producing an oil well.

The plan to authorize this type of oil development was ruled out of order by Speaker Coke Stevenson in the house after it had been added as an amendment in the senate. The point of order against it was raised by Rep. Sidney Latham of Longview, whose district is in the heart of the great East Texas field.

Thirty-three construction projects, involving work in nearly as many counties, were completed in September by the Highway Department. The work included 189.7 miles of grading, small drainage structures, base work and various types of surfacing, eight railroad grade separations and one major bridge structure. The added mileage brought to 20,797 the number of miles in the system of state maintained roads.

Prominently mentioned as a prospective appointee for the highway commission in capitol circles is Rep. Fred Mauritz of Ganado. During the special session a petition circulated in the house urging his appointment by Governor Allred was signed by more than 100 members. The petition was circulated by Rep. Morris Roberts who will assume his duties as state senator next January. It was signed by four of the five house members who will become senators at the 45th regular session.

Mr. Mauritz said he was not an applicant for the post but that he would deem service on the highway commission one of the highest honors that could be conferred on any citizen. For years he has been a road enthusiast and has contributed much in the campaign for an adequate highway system.

Old Age Pension Law is Explained

AUSTIN, Nov. 9.—Our definite responsibility is to get assistance to the needy aged, and no deserving applicant or pension recipient in Texas should be afraid that we will overlook him, said Acting Director Orville S. Carpenter, of the Texas Old Age Assistance Commission, today explaining re-investigation procedure required by the new pension statute.

The new law, House Bill 8, takes away requirements concerning property, cash ownership, and income as bases for determining eligibility. Entire basis of the new assistance law is the need of the individual. Aid contributed by other individuals, whether cash or free rent, free board or free medical care, or clothes, must be taken into consideration.

Later Investigation
At present we are busy segregating cases in which recipients show no cash in the bank, no property owned, and no other income except that from the commission. These cases will not be re-investigated until later because the old people would evidently be in need if they were off the rolls," Carpenter declared.

House Bill 8 requires that all recipients now on the rolls be re-investigated.

Investigated Immediately
"We have started already re-investigating each recipient on the rolls whose eligibility under the new law is doubtful because he has income, property, or in receiving assistance from some individual. However, it should be remembered that we will look at each of these cases with the question in mind: "Is this old person in necessitous circumstances?" he added.

Those not on Rolls
"Of the applicants whose cases have not been investigated, or now are in the process of investigation, we will ascertain those whose applications reflect need and then get to them first. Many of our policies will be determined by the fact that winter is coming and that the needy aged must be taken care of now and not six months from now."

The evident intent of the legislature was that assistance must go to the needy aged, and we will see that they get their grants as soon as possible," Carpenter said.

Diphtheria Yields To Immunization

AUSTIN, Nov. 9.—With sporadic cases of diphtheria being reported from various communities in Texas, Dr. John W. Brown, State Health Officer, has issued another warning to citizens to be on guard. The importance, the value, and the effectiveness of diphtheria immunization of children, he said, is a well established fact to the medical profession of today and it is possible to say, without reservation, that diphtheria is a preventable disease. "Since diphtheria immunization is is now a procedure of proved value," Dr. Brown said, "it places the control of diphtheria in our hands, but the greatest obstruction to elimination of diphtheria is delay."

"Mass immunization in schools and clinics has demonstrated that the people of a community may control the number of cases of this preventable disease and that immunization is a simple and harmless procedure. However, the fact that 134 cases of diphtheria were reported to the State Health Department for the month of October shows that diphtheria is on the increase. The first week of October showed 27 new cases reported to the State Department, the second week showed 7, the third week 27, and the fourth or last week showed the alarming number of 63 new cases.

"The fact that diphtheria is most dangerous to the very young children, makes immunization not only a school problem but a preschool problem. Parents who fail to observe a precaution, which may prevent a fatal illness which may prevent a child from attending school, are absolutely safe to administer. There is only a slight local reaction and practically no constitutional or trouble some after effects. It confers a life-time immunity in the majority of cases.

"It is hoped that every community, if it has not already done so, will commence to wage a campaign to have all preschool and school children immunized against diphtheria."

Eighty Talented Artists Featured

So many beautiful girls that you can hardly count them, the famous Palais Royale Orchestra direct from Miami, dozens of noted vaudeville artists, a dramatic cast of prominent players from stage and screen, and last but by no means least, Daphne, "The Queen of the Fan Dancers," comprise the entertainers who will visit Cisco on the night of Wednesday, November 11, playing but one engagement here. So massive is the attraction that a caravan of more than 35 large trucks, cars and buses is required to move the show. Yet it is neither circus nor carnival, but is recognized everywhere as being an outstanding example of a clever combination of drama, vaudeville, cabaret and revue. In the words "the greatest show on earth for the money." Presented under a huge tent with a seating capacity of more than 4,000 the huge and spectacular attraction is offered at the theatregoers of Cisco at popular prices and on this one-night engagement, ladies will be admitted free when accompanied by one adult paid admission.

This is the 12th anniversary tour of the famous Billroy's Comedians and in celebration of this anniversary event, Manager Wehle has completely reconstructed his famous show which has been making history for the past 12 years and is one of the most popular attractions on the road. This year, in keeping with the trend of the times, he has carefully selected a large cast of noted stage and screen players who will present the three act farce comedy which provides the vehicle for a great array of talent. Interspersed throughout the program will be more than a score of outstanding vaudeville acts, including the sensational and exotic offering of Daphne, the queen of the fan dancers, whose fresh youthful beauty lends a charm that is both inspiring and compelling. Dozens of lovely girls, the pick of the Florida night clubs, will be featured in numerous dance routines, all beautifully, albeit somewhat scantily clad.

Yet, there is absolutely nothing to offend the most fastidious, as Billroy's Comedians during the past

SALUTE TO Love

BEGIN HERE TODAY

KATE and CAROLINE MEED live on a farm with their indolent, lovable grandfather, MAJOR SAM MEED, and two old Negro servants, ALTHY and ZEKKE. Kate engaged to MORGAN'S FIFTEENTH but breaks the engagement when she finds him on the porch with the beautiful, wealthy EVE ELWELL.

Major Meed leaves the farm to JEFF HOWARD, a bitter young mountaineer. Kate hates Jeff for taking their home and treats him insolently, but Jeff finds himself in love with her.

Caroline is invited to sing in a celebration, wearing an heirloom dress. Kate and Caroline go to a party given by CYRIL'S CHESAULT for Eve and Morgan. Morgan makes violent love to Kate, who returns home, realizing, thankfully, that she is cured of her love for him.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XXII:

THE dress was finished, to the last hook-and-eye. It had been pressed and folded and put into a large box. It was stuffed with tissue paper, and whenever the box was handled it was carefully held right side up, on a level plane.

Kate, in town for last-minute preparations, was in Miss Cassie Drew's notion shop. Miss Cassie said, "I see in the paper your sister's going to sing at the Foster celebration tomorrow. You must feel proud!"

"We're thrilled to death," Kate admitted. "But our prima donna has a bad case of nerves. Her voice is in good condition, but the poor child's reached that stage of the game where she's sure she's going to fail and disgrace the family."

When Kate reached home she found Caroline in tears and talking incoherently of self-destruction. Althy, seeing Kate in the door, called out excitedly. "She says she ain't goin' to sing tomorrow, Miss Kate! She says she can't!"

An hour later Caroline lay in her bed, fresh from a tepid bath. The blinds were drawn. "And now I'll read to you a while," Kate said.

"Not that murder story!" Caroline exclaimed, shuddering.

"Absolutely not," Kate promised. "It's something from the life of Stephen Collins Foster—the story of how he wrote 'My Old Kentucky Home' while he was visiting that night for the guests at the ball. It's about a young girl who stood beside the piano and sang it as he played it. She probably wore a dress like yours—"

Kate read, and when Caroline fell asleep she tip-toed from the room and shut the door softly. To the anxious family she announced, "She'll do it. We must all go tomorrow. She's entitled to a chauffeur and a maid and four pairs of hands to applaud her."

SEATS had been erected on the shade-flecked grounds of Federal Hill, and all of them were filled. Hundreds of people stood, Kate and Major Meed sat far to the rear, but they could see the platform. There had been brief speeches and choral singing of certain Foster songs. A college glee club had done "Susannah" very effectively, and an expensive imported tenor had just sung "Jeanie With the Light Brown Hair." It was time now for Caroline, who was to conclude the program.

Major Meed's hand, resting on his cane, trembled. Kate put her own hand over it. She thought fervently, "Caroline won't fail us. She'll do her best..."

And then Caroline walked up the steps of the platform and faced them. She seemed astonishingly small and fragile and fair. The dress hugged her tiny waist and billowed to the floor. From her shoulders old lace fell softly. Her ash-blond hair was coiled quaintly and there was a pink rose in it.

The violin and flute accompaniment started. Then Caroline was singing, more surely and sweetly than she had ever sung before.

Kate was conscious of the stillness of the audience. The huge, scattered crowd was giving breathless attention to the sweet old song that bade them "Come Where My Love Lies Dreaming" and to the girl who was singing it, the girl who seemed a tender, lovely ghost from the past.

WHEN the applause was breaking Kate noticed the young man beside her. "Who is she?" he asked loudly in her ear.

Kate laughed. "Her name's on the program. There! Can't you read?"

"Yes, I see. Caroline Meed. But that doesn't tell me anything. I mean who is she?"

"She's my sister, for one thing."

"Oh! Would you give me her address?"

Kate did, smiling inwardly. A mesh note for Caroline tomorrow.

"My name's Carl Neilson," he said as the crowd separated them. "Hope to see you again—"

They drove the 45 miles home afterward. Zeke and Althy in the front seat and the three Meeds in the rear were united in a bond of proud contentment.

Such happiness should have lasted a while, yet fate decreed otherwise. The following day, shortly before noon, Caroline witnessed a disturbing sight. Zeke was crossing the yard from the vegetable garden, supporting Major Meed as one supports a very sick person.

Caroline ran to meet them and Zeke said to her, "Ho jus' got his-
